OHS Band Gets II Rating At Brady Contest

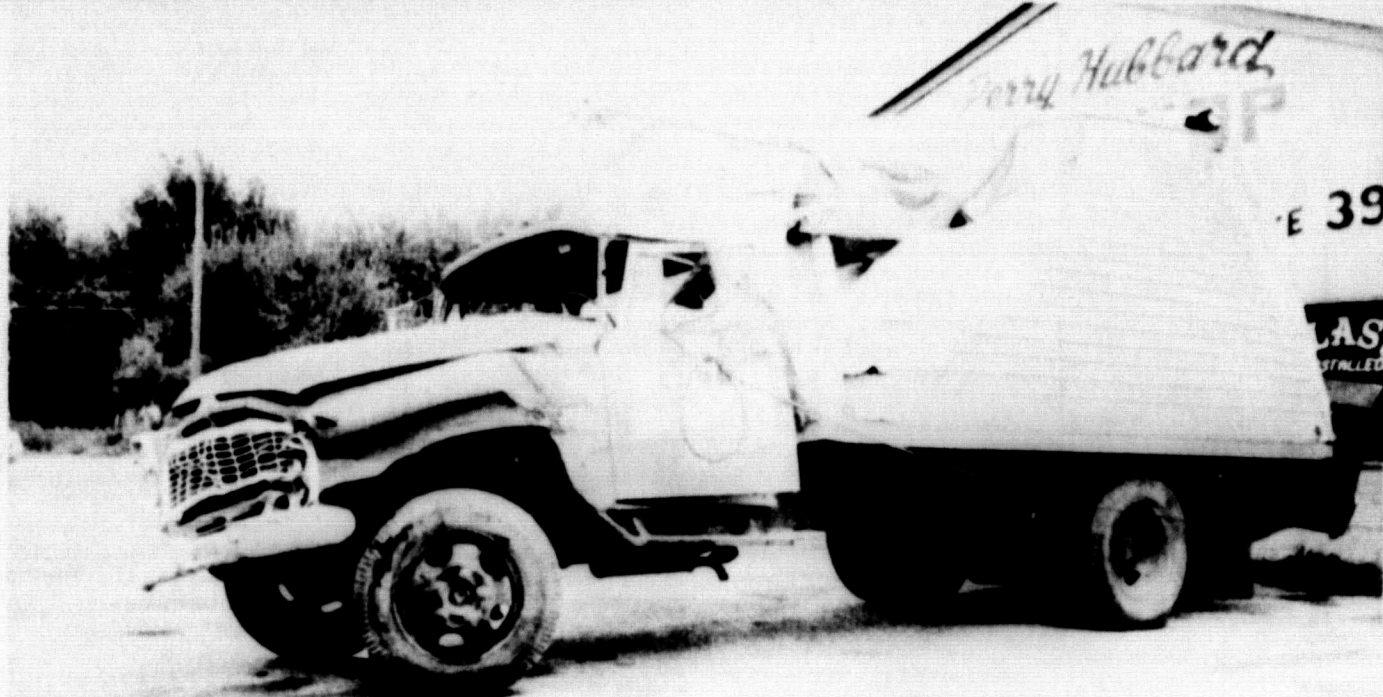

The Ozona High School Band returned from marching contest in Brady Saturday with a II rating, which is excellent. Two judges gave the band a II and one a I. As in other cases, the majority rules.

The band received a standing ovation after completing their routine.

There was also twirling competition. Ozona youngsters participating and their ratings are as follows:

OHS twirlers quartet, I: Virginia Henderson, II: Suzanne Williams, I: Nancy Womack, III: Pam Sanker, II: Harvey Weant, I: freshman quartet (Helen Bunker, Deklyn Cain, Karen Kirby, Marsha Kirklen, Hope Phillips) II: Rachel Berkeley, II: Karen Moody, II.

Junior high participants and ratings were Debbie Whitley, II: Gigi McKinney, I: Cynthia Williams, II: Mary Helen Lumberton, II: Jeannine Perry, III.

MIGHT AS WELL HAVE KEPT THE OLD TRUCK -- This new truck was being towed by a Curry wrecker Sunday night for use by the company in the Ozona area. A vehicle dashed out in front of the wrecker between Ozona and Big Lake at the Iraan cut off and in an effort to avoid a collision, the driver swerved and overturned both wrecker and new freight truck. Needless to say, Earl Deland is still making deliveries in the old truck this week in Ozona.

Lions Skin Buffaloes 18-14 In Stanton, McCamey Here Friday

Ozona's Lions skinned the Stanton Buffaloes last Friday night on the Buffaloes' own home range by a tally of 18-14. However, in the statistic department, the victory was much bigger. The Lions will take on McCamey here tomorrow night in the season finale for both teams.

McCamey is 3-1 in loop competition while the Lions are 2-2. However, the Lions have the distinction of being the only team in season play to knock off the Reagan County Owls, who clinched the district championship last Friday night with a win over Crane.

Should the Badgers manage a victory over the Lions, they would share the championship with the Owls, but the Owls would represent the district by virtue of their district win over McCamey.

The Lions really got their offense rolling over Stanton, racking up a total of 465 yards, 334 on the ground and 131 in the air.

The Lion defense held the Buffaloes scoreless until the final stanza, and they scored their final touchdown with only 57 seconds to go in the game.

Ozona scored on two big plays by quarterback Craig Taliaferro and a dazzling run by Romaldo Cervantez.

Taliaferro got the first Lion score on a sneak from a yard out to cap a 15-play, 79-yard drive.

The next Lion score came when Taliaferro hit Rick Huncutt with a 60-yard scoring aerial.

A Pre-Construction Conference was held Nov. 12 in the office of the Resident Engineer in Ozona, with representatives of Allan Construction Company, Inc., and the Texas Highway Department present. The purpose of this meeting was to secure closer cooperation between the personnel of the various interested parties, concerning the construction and accounting procedures, as well as the safety and convenience of the traveling public through this project during construction. The requirements of safe construction practices were also discussed, as well as the fact that this is an Equal Employment Opportunity Project. A review and discussion of all signing and sequence work called for by the plans and specifications was held.

Representatives of Allan Construction Company, Inc., stated that their plans call for the erecting of the barricades on or about Nov. 13. The construction of the drainage structures would follow shortly along with the stockpiling of the base material. Following this will be the grading and base operations with a final operation of surfacing planned for early April, 1974.

This project will follow the location of an existing county road and will be built carrying the present traffic. There will be short detours around structure sites, and later, base finishing operations. The public is requested to cooperate by complying with all barricade and warning signs.

Bikes Win

In Washington, ten bike riders recently raced ten automobile drivers to the District of Columbia building from various points within the city.

In nine of the ten contests the bike riders arrived first. The races (in heavy traffic) probably came out as they would have in other large American cities!

The lesson is that so many cars crowd our streets, other forms of transportation have become superior. Commuter trains, air buses, elevated rail service (which should link airports and cities), bicycles and other forms of transportation are obviously the look of the future.

The Kenaf Plant

From the University of Florida comes word that the kenaf plant might be the answer to the nation's (and the world's) future paper needs. The plant grows faster than slash pine, and is said to be perfectly suited to paper production, by the same process now used on pulp wood.

There is the problem of the pink bollworm, which the plant brings with it, and the bollworm is a threat to cotton. Thus kenaf is presently banned in some states, including Florida. But where cotton is no longer king, or if the bollworm can be controlled, kenaf seems to offer great promise.

In addition to its value as a source of paper, kenaf is said to be so high in protein content that it can also be used as an animal feed. Thus the plant, seeds of which come from abroad, offers new hope for paper users everywhere, both as to adequate supply and lower prices.

The Oil Shortage

More important to U.S. consumers than oil developments in the Middle East was Venezuela's recent hike in oil prices—a 56 per cent increase, the tenth announced this year.

Added to other oil acquisition and price problems, this development greatly increases the need for the United States to develop other sources of power, to acquire more oil from new sources and for the American people to save fuel in every possible way.

There's now little doubt—because of events in the Middle East and elsewhere—that an oil shortage exists and threatens to remain a problem for several years. That being the future, the proper role of the federal government is to hold price increases to reasonable levels, to bar sharp and excessive hikes, always a temptation to sellers in shortage situations, and to order allocations when necessary.

The U.S. supply of petroleum products will continue to be quite large, relatively, though not always enough for everyone everywhere; thus the development of new energy sources and the conservation of energy by families, businesses and the local, county, state and federal governments, are a must.

Dying Babies

A flap in the press and public opinion forums of the country was recently kicked up when the chief of staff of a Connecticut hospital said candidly that in many hospitals infants born with serious, incurable defects were, after consultation with parents, allowed to die.

Parents choose between various operations, artificial feeding and various other means to keep infants with serious, incurable defects alive—to delay death, the doctor said. If they choose to let nature take its course, the infants get reasonable care and support until death occurs naturally.

Such a policy prompts objections from some, of course, who would attempt to control all parents so tragically involved. And while failing to extend the life of infants with serious, incurable defects might appear insensitive, one should consider the alternative—the life of the mother saddled with the resulting mental and physical burden, perhaps for years, the absolutely useless (extended) life period of the infant, etc.

As with the elderly, when extending life a few weeks or months in hopeless cases, or in the case of dangerous pregnancies, the answer seems likely to allow, within humane and safe limits, parents and doctors to decide in all cases where death is certain. This is, in fact, the current practice in much of the country and that fact should be faced by a thoughtful, mature citizenry.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITAL

BY BILL BOYKIN

Texas Press Association

Outlook for a bleak winter grew steadily worse as the energy crisis mounted.

Speed limit reductions and year-around daylight savings time, recommended by President Richard Nixon, may be some of the milder results.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, assessing the president's proposals and reaction of other states before announcing his own program, said gasoline rationing is an "eventuality that will have to be considered."

Grimmett of all was Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Langdon's forecast: "Some people in Texas are going to be cold this winter." Those who use butane, propane or electricity for their heating are the ones most likely to get the shivers, said Langdon.

Middle distillate fuels, used primarily to generate electricity--and of increasing importance due to the shortage of natural gas--may also be in short supply as much as 400,000 barrels daily, according to Langdon's estimate.

Meanwhile, the Nixon administration altered previously announced allocation policies to allow middle distillate suppliers to provide Texas customers diesel fuel, fuel oil and kerosene without limit through November.

Even in the reprieve from mandatory allocations, there was an implied warning to Texas electric utility companies: come December they may be running short of fuel oil, since allocation formulas are based on 1972 purchases. Most Texas utilities, used to plenty of natural gas, didn't use much fuel oil to fire their boilers in 1972. Things apparently are going to get a lot worse before they get better on the energy front.

PAY AMENDMENT DEFEAT ASSESSED--For the fifth time in eight years Texans voted down a pay raise for legislators and assessments of the reason why varied widely.

House Speaker Price Daniel, Jr., and others concluded that the vote on the $15,000-annual-pay-annual-session amendment was due to "tragic events at the national level that have crushed public confidence in our political and governmental systems."

Not so, said Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Granberry, who maintained lawmakers asked too much salary and made an error in coupling the pay raise issue with that of annual sessions.

Granberry suggested voters will approve $8,000 to $10,000 salaries and limited annual sessions with proper leadership support and a clear presentation.

At any rate, Texans undoubtedly will get to ballot on the issue again in some form after next year's constitutional convention. Most-likely proposal will be creation of a commission of citizens, as recommended by the Constitutional Revision Commission, to set salaries of lawmakers and other state officials. Prospects for the kind of unlimited annual legislative sessions recommended by the Revision Commission dimmed with results of the November 6 election.

NEW INSURANCE HEARING SET--Life insurance policy price disclosure and cost comparisons will be considered at a public hearing here November 27.

The State Insurance Board is then expected to review a model rule covering "life insurance interest-adjusted cost comparison indexes."

While the Insurance Board does not set prices of life insurance policies, it does police misleading and deceptive sales practices. Board Chairman Joe Christie said calculation of life insurance costs through the cash-surrender value doesn't always show true cost to purchasers.

"Payment In Full"

Suppose somebody owes you money. According to your figures, the amount is $300. But the debtor insists that the amount is only $200. One day you receive a check from him for $200. On the back he has written the words: "PAYMENT IN FULL."

Should you cash the check and take a chance on collecting the extra $100 later on? It is tempting to do just that.

The trouble is that if you cash the check as is, the law will probably consider the whole debt wiped out. The debtor has made you a legal offer to settle up for a total of $200. By cashing the check you are accepting his offer and agreeing to a final settlement at that figure.

True, with the $200 check in your hands, you might be reluctant indeed to let it go. One man in this predicament tried to steer a middle course. He erased the word "FULL" and substituted the word "PART," then cashed the check.

However, his strategy did not work. A court held later that he had no claim to any more money. The court said he had no authority, on his own, to alter the terms of the defendant's offer.

Another man tried something else. He too cashed a PAYMENT IN FULL check, but at the same time wrote the debtor that he simply was not accepting it as a full settlement.

But again, a court ruled that the entire debt was wiped out. The court said the man's actions in cashing the check spoke louder than his words of disavowal.

Even if you don't cash the check but merely hang onto it, you might be held to have accepted the debtor's offer. Silence can mean consent.

However, that wouldn't happen right away. In one case, a creditor kept such a check for six weeks before mailing it back to the debtor. The latter thereupon insisted that the debt had cancelled the entire debt.

But a court decided the debt was still due and payable. The court thought six weeks was not an unreasonable time, under the circumstances, for the creditor to weigh his next move.

Know why Plymouth Duster keeps on winning 'em over?

Your Chrysler-Plymouth dealer tells me that, in the last several years, more than half a million people have been won over to Plymouth Duster. I'll tell you: there are a lot of obvious reasons. For a small car, Duster's pretty big. Inside, it's got plenty of room for five. And behind all those people, Duster's got a trunk that holds so much, you might not believe that it's part of an economy car. Yeah, Duster's just big enough, just small enough to be just right... and so's the price. I figure that, with all the great features Duster offers, and the fact that it's nice and easy on regular gas, this '74 Duster's gonna keep that winning streak going for a long time to come.

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
by
Mrs. Bailey Post

Since we barely escaped a killing frost several times, be sure to make preparation to protect tender outdoor plants, and move house plants inside on short notice.

While the days are so beautiful and warm, I am reluctant to bring plants in or cover them up.

All the way to Galveston every area was a lush green making our drive most enjoyable. It was a bit early for the colorful foliage, except the sumac along the highway was almost at its best. As we neared home these wide open spaces gave us a welcome nowhere else can give.

Drive over our city and enjoy the colorful foliage, roses, mums and many other fall plants that are displayed in so many yards.

If you have the perennial or Chinese hibiscus, they need to be protected from freezes. They should be cut back to near ground level and mounded with soil.

Also cut tops of browned peonies back to a few inches above the ground, add a cup of bone-meal to soil around the plant and mound with soil for the winter.

Keep pansies fertilized and watered if no rain, to keep them growing well.

Continue the fall cleanup this month and especially after the leaves fall. Clean gutters and drains of leaves that may prevent their normal functions. Prune shrubs and tree limbs that may rub and damage your house or roof.

Keep after slugs, snails and pillbugs. Repeated baiting produces the best results. Watch for other diseases and pests.

It's a new Land Bank serving a new agriculture in new ways

Over the next ten years, agriculture will require a minimum of $60 billion in new financing to meet unprecedented changes and challenges. Because there is a Federal Land Bank -- created to insure an abundance of capital at reasonable rates -- you can have more confidence this need for credit will be met.

The Land Bank will continue to obtain loan funds in the nation's money markets on the very best terms it can. It will continue to make financing available to farmers and ranchers at reasonable cost. And with increased flexibility now permitted by the Farm Credit Act, it will help more people in more ways.

Today, more than ever, you should understand the operation of your Federal Land Bank. If you are not an Association member, let's get acquainted. If you are a member, let's get better acquainted. Let's work together... to build a secure place for you and your family in a viable, prosperous agriculture.

Man has a hunger for knowledge. It first shows itself in childhood and prompts incessant questions and exasperating experiments.

But it continues all through life. Recently, on discovering something you didn't know, you murmured to yourself, "Gotta look that up..."

Upon this basic hunger for knowledge, the Church's program of religious education is planned. That's why we urge parents to foster a Christian atmosphere in the home. It is also why the Church provides religious instruction long before secular education begins. And it accounts for continuing emphasis on youth and young adult activities in most congregations.

We adults haven't outgrown the hunger for knowledge. Most of us recognize that our scientific and material progress points up the crucial need for spiritual standards to believe in. God has vital truth to impart to men. The place to look it up is your church.

Does your iron skillet get rusty? Don't leave iron skillets out to air dry after washing. Moisture causes rust--whether the skillet is seasoned or not. After washing and towel-drying an iron skillet, make sure it's completely dry by putting it over the range pilot light. Or, with an electric range, place it over very low heat for a few minutes.

The heat "cooks out" all moisture, helping prevent rust. Should rust appear, scrub away the blemishes with soap or detergent and a scouring pad or brush. Season iron skillets at least every six months--more often if in frequent use. To season a skillet, first wash it carefully, rinse and dry. Then liberally coat the inside with vegetable oil or shortening. Heat skillet so the oil permeates the porous surface.

The old American art of quilting has been revived. Quilting materials--such as batting, backing and edge finishing--are now available in many colors. Our ancestors used old clothing as pieces for quilt blocks. Today's seamstress can too--or buy fabrics to suit the pattern.

Many magazines offer patterns for quilts and how-to-do-it instructions. Or some people design their own. Beginning quilters--or those wanting a simple project--might consider purchasing a quilt design pre-printed on fabric. Instead of using the traditional patchwork or applique method, simply quilt around the design. This pre-printed quilt is a good idea for someone who's a bit afraid to undertake a complete quilting project on her own.

Exotic Aoudad Sheep Not Really A Sheep

Not that it really makes any difference but what is popularly known as the aoudad "sheep" is not really a sheep.

Before proud aoudad trophy owners rip down their prizes, let us explain that the aoudad is a member of the genus Ammotragus which is closely related to both true domestic and wild sheep as well as goats.

Such a pedigree should not make the aoudad or Barbary sheep any less prized by sportsmen.

Aoudad sheep hunting is one of the most challenging sports in Texas. Unlike deer and antelope, aoudad do not have any large patches of white on their bodies to aid the hunter in sighting the animals.

A native of the Atlas Mountains in northern Africa, some 44 of these sheep were first released in 1957 in the Panhandle's Palo Duro Canyon.

The hunt is physically demanding and in some instances the kill is just the beginning of hard work if no pack animals are available to haul out a 300 pound ram.

According to a questionnaire sent to some 900 aoudad hunters by the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, 90 percent of the hunters declared that aoudad meat was good if cared for properly.

Responses ranged from "better than either deer, antelope or elk" to "everyone took a helping of both roast beef and Barbary sheep at a recent lodge dinner and those who returned for seconds took the Barbary sheep."

The New Mexico survey also found that 94 percent of the hunters would hunt aoudad again if they had the opportunity and 73 percent of them regarded the aoudad as an excellent game animal.

There are now an estimated 3,217 aoudad in Texas and only the approximately 600 animals in the Palo Duro Canyon area are considered game animals by the Parks and Wildlife Department and regulated as such.

Aoudad season in this portion of Texas is Nov. 10-16, limit of one sheep per season by permit only.

Elsewhere in the state there are no closed seasons or bag limits.

Prior to introduction of aoudad in the Palo Duro, the Panhandle had only a few species of wildlife to attract big game hunters. Some mule and white tailed deer lived around the perimeter of the canyon, but the population was small and little hunted.

Food habits of the big sheep indicate that it can compete with both mule deer and cattle. However, the aoudad browses the more difficult and rugged areas of the canyon. Mule deer usually stay on the gentler slopes and cattle seldom venture at all onto the treacherous sides.

Barbary sheep or aoudad are remarkably disease-free in both the wild and captivity. New Mexico studies show that of 100 species shot and examined only one--an old sheep--was in poor health.

Potential predators include cougars, coyotes and bobcats but no instances of predation on the well-armed sheep have been recorded.

Adapted to both heat and cold, aoudad have the curious habit of digging in soft, moist sand with their horns to dissipate heat.

The horns have small ridges which seem to increase the surface area much like the fins of a radiator.

Little heat is produced in the horns but they serve as conductors.

Driving their horns into moist sand helps in removing heat by conduction.

Tough, adaptable animals these aoudad.

Turkey Supplies Down, Demand Up

The demand for turkeys will increase as the holiday season approaches, and that trend plus fewer birds in cold storage will keep prices up over the next few months.

That's the contention of Dr. David B. Mellor, poultry marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Mellor, turkey prices generally are more stable than broiler and egg prices because most turkeys are sold frozen or in some processed form, such as turkey pie. However, cold storage stocks have gone down due to increased demand this year, so prices have increased.

Citing figures from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Mellor notes that turkey production so far this year is about two per cent above that of 1972. However, production during the remainder of the year--usually a heavy marketing season--will be lower.

Cold storage holdings on September 1 totaled 261 million pounds, down 53 million pounds from a year earlier.

According to the Texas A&M University System specialist, retail turkey prices averaged 55 cents a pound in 1972 and are now near the record levels of 1948-49.

"But turkeys are still a good buy," contends Mellor, "when you consider how much other goods and services have increased in recent years. The average factory worker today can buy almost two more pounds of turkey with wages from one hour of labor than he could in 1959."

Mellor invites consumers to buy more turkey for nutritious meals abounding in high quality protein. "Turkeys are 'in season' the year round!"

Applications Being Taken Now For Supplement Pay

The Social Security Administration is asking for help in getting information to people who may be eligible for the supplemental security income payments that start in January for people with little or no income who are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled.

"If you know of someone 65 or older who is in need, or a blind or disabled person, regardless of age, who needs financial help and they aren't getting public assistance now, please tell them about the new program. And, suggest that they call the social security office to get more information."

Supplemental security income will establish a nationally uniform income floor for people in need who are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled. The amount of the payments they get will depend on how much other income they might have.

Eligible people with no other income at all will have a basic cash income of at least $130 a month for one person and $195 for a couple, according to Mr. Talbot. People in institutions or with other income may get reduced supplemental security income checks, he said.
