Senate Plans To Put State In Oil Field

Texas May Be Next Operator In Oil Business If Measure Engrossed By Senate Gets Approval Of House

Scheduled Monday

Would Allow Governor And Few Other Officials To Contract For Drilling Of Oil Wells In River Beds

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—Texas will enter the oil business if a bill engrossed by the senate late today is passed by the house and becomes a law.

The bill directed the governor, commissioner of the land office and the chairman of the railroad commission to drill or contract for the drilling of state owned river beds in proven territory. It was set for special order for final passage in the senate Monday morning.

Doubt Expressed

Doubt it would pass the house was expressed freely since the house committee on oil, gas and mining has returned an unfavorable report on a bill to provide for leasing the Sabine river and other river beds in the East Texas field.

The amendment to place the state in the oil business was offered by Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth to a bill by Senator George Purl of Dallas that provided for leasing of state owned river beds.

The bill would make the bed of the Sabine river subject to lease and development. Running through the East Texas field, it was claimed there was approximately $80,000,000

Enrollment At Tech Mounting

Total Reaches 1,726 Saturday With Indications That More Students Will Be Here This Year Than Last

Indicating that enrollment in Texas Technological college will at least hold its own and possibly show an increase this year, a total of 1,726 students had registered for the school's seventh session at the close of the third day of registration Saturday, officials announced last night. The number was nearly three hundred more than on the same date last year.

Possibility of an increase over the 1930-31 session was visible Saturday as scores of students continued to arrive late for registration. Long lines of students filled the halls as registration for the day was closed. Three hundred of those registered were forced to wait until Monday to pay their fees.

Registration is to continue next week, Registrar E. L. Dohoney said. The total is expected to run over the 2,000-mark by the end of next week. Regular class work in the college gets under way Monday.

Slim Wanted A Chance To Doze

(By The Associated Press)

ALBANY, Sept. 26. — Excitement of a spectacular escape from a deputy sheriff on the streets of Albany this afternoon did not upset W. H. (Slim) Wise to such an extent that he could forego his afternoon nap and tonight he is back in the county jail putting away "shuteye" in copious quantities.

Slim, under a two-year prison term for disposing of mortgaged property, pleaded the need of a dentist and was being taken to the doctor's office when suddenly he pulled a pistol, covered the unarmed deputy, backed around a corner and was gone.

Hastily organized posses immediately started search for him and just two hours after the escape he was discovered sleeping peacefully on the banks of a creek a short distance from town.

Lindy's Plane Is Stormed By Flood Victims

Experimental Flight To Take Doctors And Medicines To Isolated Centers Fails As Ship Is Rushed

(By The Associated Press)

NANKING, China, Sept. 26.—Charles Lindbergh's experimental flight to take doctors and medicines to flood-isolated centers of northern Kiangsu province failed today because starving Chinese throngs crying for food rushed the plane.

Declaring the failure "the most heart rending experience of my career," Colonel Lindbergh and his companions sadly returned to Nanking, convinced the only way to place doctors in the flood towns would be to send them with military escorts.

Anne Not Along

Mrs. Lindbergh did not accompany her husband on today's flight, which took him, Dr. Heng Liu, head of the national flood relief commission's medical staff, and Dr. J. N. Grant, American member of the Peiping Union Medical college faculty, to Hinghwa, 70 miles northeast of here. Normally the city has 600,000 population. She decided the doctors needed the space, so stayed here and missed a distressing and dangerous experience.

The plan was to take the doctors and their medicinal supplies to a flood center, leave them there, and return to Nanking for another "medical unit" for another center. Later the doctors would be brought back to Nanking for an-

Another Link In Mystery Death Of Collings Found

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Another link in Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings' story of the "pirate" murder of her husband on Long Island sound a fortnight ago bobbed up today in the form of a once white lined bag, which District Attorney Alexander O. Blue said closely resembled one described by Mrs. Collings. It was found on the beach at Lloyd's Neck approximately two miles from the point at which Colling's body was washed ashore.

Politics Boil With Fuel Of Issues Added

Beer, Taxes, Wage Cuts, Bonus And A Host Of Other Matters Are Facing Congress As It Prepares To Meet

Hoover Kept Busy

American Legion's Demand For Referendum On Dry Law Has Important Air; Debates On Proposal Expected

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. — The closer comes the time for congress to convene, the more fuel accumulates to keep politics ablaze until elections next year.

Such diverse subjects as beer and taxes, wage cuts, unemployment and the soldier bonus have become massed at the forefront of public attention. And public attention has political attention right alongside.

Hoover Is Busy

Hardly a day passed this week without some development likely to echo in capitol chambers and the presidential campaigns. From his dash to Detroit at the beginning, until his appeal to the public against seeking treasury money at the end, President Hoover spent a busy time. His visit to the Rapidan camp over Sunday brought a welcome interlude.

It was the support voted him by the American Legion convention in the Michigan city that encouraged the president to plead for abandonment of group efforts to get federal cash backing.

Just as that vote is due to be cited in congressional debate, so is the one the Legion cast for giving

Local Farmers Issue Threats

Demand For $12 A Ton Price On Cotton Seed Is Made At Mass Meeting; Threaten To Use It For Fuel

No less than $12 a ton for coton seed or in the fire it goes.

This threat, in the form of a resolution, was adopted at a mass meeting of more than 1,000 Lubbock county farmers here Saturday and was leveled at cotton oil mills.

The resolution was adopted without opposition and a committee named to make further plans in the matter.

Nix Is Chairman

Pat Nix, well known farmer, was chosen chairman of the meeting and also the executive committee. J. E. Carter, Wolffarth, was selected secretary.

A price of 20 cents per hundred pounds for ginning seed cotton was also asked.

Farmers attending the meeting were from Shallowater, Hurlwood, Wolffarth, Slide, Woodrow, Monroe, Canyon, Union and Idalou.

"Be it resolved, that we ask the ginners of Lubbock county to give us a price of 20 cents per 100 pounds of seed cotton," the resolutions read.

Will Use For Fuel

"We also ask the oil mill to pay $12 a ton for cotton seed."

A motion was made and seconded and adopted without a dissenting vote that "if the oil mill does not pay us $12 a ton for our seed, we will haul it home from the gin and OZONA, Sept. 26. (AP)—The jury deliberating the fate of Salome Arios, charged with the murder 15 years ago of Jarvis Harp, Crockett county ranchman, was locked in for the night shortly after 11 o'clock. The case went to the jury at 6:30 o'clock.

Arios was arrested several months ago at Del Rio and was identified by two witnesses as the man who fled from the Harp ranch in 1916 after the death by stabbing of the ranchman. Arios denied ever having been in Crockett county before his arrest. He is represented by M. C. Gonzales of San Antonio.

Relatives Of Man Found Hanging In Vacant House Near Abilene Sought

Total Of $300 Is Taken By Robbers After Grid Battle

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 26. (AP) —Proceeds of the Brackenridge-Uvalde senior school football game amounting to about $300 was stolen from the office safe at League park a few hours after the game last night.

Police believed the burglars attended the game and made plans to rob the safe while the game was underway. No arrests had been made today.

Burglars entered the office by forcing a side window and worked the combination, according to investigating officers. The money had been left in the safe overnight and was to have been taken to the bank today.

Body Is Located By Two Boys Passing By Structure

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, Sept. 26.—Abilene police tonight were seeking relatives of a man identified as S. P. Meshew, 48, of Holdenville, Okla., whose body was found hanging from the rafters of a vacant house at Elmdale, near here, this afternoon. A verdict of suicide was returned by a coroner.

Meshew, driving an old Ford roadster, drove up to a grocery store in the little community last Tuesday, made himself at home for next, several days, sleeping at night on the ground beside the store. Friday he disappeared and this afternoon two boys, chancing to pass the house, saw his body dangling from a rope.

Appeared Worried

The man appeared worried, the storekeeper said, but had funds. Five $20 bills and one $5 bill were found in a small trunk he left at the store along with a roll of bedding.

A small metal identification tag attached to a keyring in the man's pocket bore the name of S. P. Meshew of Holdenville. An automobile driver's license, issued to Meshew at Phoenix, Ariz., in 1929 and a registration card for an automobile were also found in his effects.

Name Is Found

Officers have notified L .T. Meshew of Holdenville, whose name was found written on a slip of paper in the dead man's pocket.

A letter, apparently written from Mesa, Ariz., told of the man's de-

Tonight, Rogers' wit was the drawing card at a football game between the academy team and that of Bacone college, Muskogee, Oklahoma, alma mater of Secretary of War Hurley.

Burning Of Dickens Gin Is Thought Work Of A Fire-Bug

The burning of the E. M. Bursett gin at Dickens Friday night appeared to have been the work of firebugs, Sheriff Will Arthur of Dickens county told Lubbock officers, Saturday.

The fire started while the gin's nightwatchman was at a Dickens cafe drinking coffee, Sheriff Arthur said. Odor of gasoline was noticeable at the scene of the fire. The building was destroyed.

A night watchman was stationed at the gin several days ago when rumors that the gin was to be burned were heard in Dickens, the sheriff said. Operators of the gin recently refused to lower its price of ginning cotton, it was said.

Farmers Of Arkansas Favor Texas Cotton Relief Plan

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 26.(AP) Meeting in a number of places today, hundreds of Arkansas farmers went on record favoring a special session of the legislature to enact the Texas compromise cotton relief measure.

Governor Parnell, speaking to several hundred farmers at Fordyce, explained the Texas act, which limits cotton acreage in 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of the acreage so planted this year and told them he would call a special legislative session if farmers of the state desired the Texas plan.

Hollywood Plan To Raise $100,000 Annually For Relief Fund May Be Costly To Big Movie Stars

(By The Associated Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 26.—Officers of the motion picture relief fund, headed by its president, Conrad Nagel, this week were trying to determine the workability of a plan to raise $100,000 annually.

The plan, as long under discussion that its author is forgotten is to assess players, writers, directors and executives one-half of one per cent of their salaries weekly.

If, for example, Greta Garbo consents to such an assessment on her reported salary of $7,500 a week, she would contribute $37.50 from every pay check she receives.

The amount is an insignificant part of her salary, but if Greta (of course, this is merely hypothetical) figures her contributions over a period of a year, she's liable not to sign the agreement. One-half of one per cent of Miss Garbo's salary a year is $1,950, which in one chunk looks pretty big, even to a star earning nearly $400,000 a year.

Although the assessment plan is the fairest and most equitable

West Texas Chamber of Commerce directors and presidents, and secretaries of local chambers in district No. 2 of the regional organization will meet here at 11 o'clock Monday morning at the Hilton hotel, instead of in the Lubbock chamber's offices as originally scheduled.

D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas chamber, of Stamford, will speak on duties of the directors. Spencer Wells, vice president, of Lubbock, will talk about the regional chamber's program of work. Maury Hopkins, assistant manager, of Plainview, will outline progress on the program.

Hawk To Attend

Wilbur Hawk, vice president, of Amarillo, also will attend.

Object of the conference is "to give directors and local chamber of commerce officials a better understanding of the workings of the organization," A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock chamber, said. Davis is secretary of district No. 2.

The session here is one of nine district meetings scheduled between September 23 and October 3 inclusive. The tenth conference, that of district No. 4 at Fort Worth, will be a general membership affair, date of which has not been fixed.

Use of the West Texas chamber's freight bureau, methods of publicity, local public expenditure and tax committee, regional oil and gas and breeder-feeder committees will be explained "with emphasis on pooling of efforts," Houston Harte, West Texas Chamber of Commerce president, of San Angelo, said.

Those attending the meeting here will be guests of the local chamber at noon luncheon at the Hilton hotel.

Farmers Turn To Picking Of Cotton Crops

Greater Portion Of Forage And Feed Crops Harvested; Gins Report Increases In Cotton Receipts

Farmers of Lubbock county and the South Plains, having harvested the greater portion of their feed and forage crops and insured a sufficient supply of feed for livestock through the winter, are turning toward cotton picking.

Ginners the past week reported increased receipts of cotton, as farmers are setting to work to bring in huge wagons loaded with the fleecy white "fruit" of the stalks. Some gins are working day and night, but the greater portion will not do this until later.

Increase Seen

This week sould see steady increases in receipts by ginners. Farmers are adding to their staff of pickers as they can and many schools are closing until later in the season or are closing early in the day.

Shallowater, for example, brings class sessions to an end at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Children thus have until dark to pick cotton. The result is that school work is maintained and farmers also are able to get their crop picked with local labor, to a large extent.

One of the big features of the crop has been the large number of cases of longer staple cotton. Brokers declare the increased staple this year is both a surprise and an added advantage to farmers in that they will get cash for the better quality and staple length than the old half and half type.

Dissatisfaction over the price of seed and the cost of ginning is spreading. Hockley, Lynn and Lubbock counties have had numerous meetings of farmers to protest the costs. Whether these meetings will gain a slash in the price is as yet uncertain.

R. R. Nation Is Chosen New Commander Of Hanson Post

AMARILLO, Sept. 26 (AP)—R. R. Nation is the new commander of Hanson Post of the American Legion, the second largest post in the state. He succeeds Dr. T. M. Montgomery, who becomes chaplain.

JAIL PREFERRED

BALTIMORE—James H. McMullen, 27, arrested on a charge of drunken driving, was allowed to pick his own sentence. McMullen thought he ought to be jailed for six months. He explained that he was tired of eating in breadlines and sleeping in the parks, and that he thought he'd get a good rest and a few good meals in jail.

LESS COTTON

SHERMAN, Sept. 26. (AP)—Cotton ginner in Grayson county up to September 1 amounted to less than one-fifth that ginned before that time in 1930. Up to September 1 only 1,386 bales had been ginned, as compared to 7,452 bales at that time last year.

James V. Allred, attorney general of Texas, probably will appear before the interstate commerce commission on behalf of the state and the railroad commission of Texas, when the commission conducts its hearing on the application of the Texas and Pacific Northern to build a 333 mile line in West Texas.

This was the statement here of T. C. Christopher, assistant attorney general, who has been active for the state in the railroad case.

"General Allred said some time ago he would like to make the oral argument before the I. C. C.," Mr. Christopher said. "If he does not, I probably shall make it.

"We are strong for the construction of the entire line and have filed our briefs favoring the granting of permission to build all the way from Big Spring to Lubbock, Vega, and Amarillo," he said.

Mr. Christopher formerly lived at Lamesa.

Protest Made When Amarillo Slighted By Literary Digest

AMARILLO, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Amarillo Chamber of Commerce and local citizens are protesting an article which appeared in a recent issue of the Literary Digest on the manufacture of helium gas, and which did not mention the government plant near Fort Worth which was abandoned four years ago.

A wire from the chamber of commerce sought to correct the impression that the government was still operating at Fort Worth, and asked that a corrected story be carried on the local plant, where practically all of the nation's helium is now made.

Local Bus Companies Ready To Handle Heavy Traffic To Fair

Low Rates Already Offered By Companies And No Additional Reduction Will Be Offered During Fair Week

Local bus companies are all set for the handling of passengers to Lubbock to attend the 18th annual Panhandle-South Plains fair, George Bolin, ticket agent, said yesterday. No special rates for the fair have been announced because the companies are now giving the lowest fares since Lubbock became a bus center.

Bus owners report an increase in business the past several weeks, with heavier travel and more packages being handled to surrounding towns.

More than 1,200 miles of highway are used on the five bus lines operating out of Lubbock. Connections are possible to all sections of the United States. Lubbock has direct connections to the south and central parts of Texas, to El Paso, North Texas, Oklahoma and the east, Colorado and the northwest and to New Mexico points and California.

The Pioneer Motor Lines operate four lines: to Roswell, N. M. via Tatum, to Clovis, N. M., to Hobbs and Lovington, N. M., connecting at Tatum with the Roswell line and to Levelland and Morton. Seven round trips daily are made in and out of Lubbock by this line. Garnett Abbott is president of this line.

Two divisions, to Sweetwater and to Big Spring, with connections to El Paso on the west and Abilene and Fort Worth and Dallas on the east, are operated by the South Plains Coaches, with Joe W. Bowman, president. Two cars each way are operated on each division.

In addition W. H. Ingram, Post, operating South Plains No. 2, connects the two divisions of the South Plains with the Pioneer lines at Brownfield, giving a through service east and west. Two cars a day are run.

West Texas Coaches, Dick Abbott, owner, give Lubbock direct connections with Spur and Floydada and intermediate points. Two cars each way are run to Spur, with two round trips from Ralls to Floydada. Connections at Dickens for Guthrie, Wichita Falls and Fort Worth, at Spur for Stamford and Aspermont and at Floydada for Vernon are had.

The North Plains coaches between Lubbock and Amarillo have three round trips daily. This line also has divisions from Amarillo to Albuquerque, N. M., and Guymon, Okla., and has connections east and west as well as north, at Amarillo. Arch Tyler is the president and general manager.

The Southwestern Motor coaches give direct inter-state connections to Davidson, Altus and Oklahoma City and intermediate points through Floydada and Vernon. W. P. Daniels, jr., is general manager. The line has connections at Floydada for Plainview. It is a link in a proposed interstate line from El Paso to Oklahoma City.

United States mail as well as local express service is carried by these coaches. Lubbock merchants are enabled to fill telephone orders for merchandise and to have it delivered in the afternoons.

COOPERATION ASKED

McCAMEY, Sept. 26. GINNINGS DECLINE

McKINNEY, Sept. 26. (AP)—A total of 3,050 bales of cotton were ginned before September 1 in Collin county, according to the first ginning report announced by I. R. Dillow, of McKinney, county cotton statistician. Eleven thousand two hundred and fourteen bales were ginned to the corresponding date last year. Forecasters are predicting this year's crop will exceed the 1930 yield. The low initial ginning figures this year is due mainly to the fact that the season was about three weeks later.

Amarillo Will Send Group To Lubbock Fair

North Panhandle City Is To Reciprocate For Lubbock's Attendance At Tri-State Exposition Last Week

Amarillo will reciprocate Wednesday for Lubbock's attendance at the Tri-State fair last week in Amarillo, by attending the Panhandle-South Plains fair, O. V. Vernon, manager of the Amarillo chamber of commerce, says.

"Wednesday has been designated as 'Amarillo day' at the Lubbock fair and preparations for Amarillo's delegation to the fair are being made," Mr. Vernon said. "Because of Lubbock's splendid cooperation with our Tri-State fair we are more than glad to return the courtesies when they offer their great exposition."

Potter county's agricultural exhibit is to be brought here and assembled Sunday, with P. C. Bennett, manager of the chamber of commerce agricultural department, supervising. J. P. Ford, assistant county agent, will assist. Last year Potter county placed second at the fair here.

Hat bands and car banners are being distributed by the Amarillo chamber of commerce. A large delegation to make the trip in a body is being planned.

Amarillo Has Two Operators Of Amateur Radios In City

AMARILLO, Sept. 26. (AP)—This city has two amateur radio operators who communicate with the world at large daily.

Max Fisher, who operates short wave station W5ALK, and Ben Wimberly, operator of an authorized short wave station, W5BSN, are among the most active amateurs in this country.

Wimberly once relayed a message to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd at the South Pole, through a California station. Fisher recently picked up a message from Los Angeles inviting Governor Huey P. Long of Louisiana to attend a celebration to be held there. He relayed the message to an amateur near Baton Rouge.

W.T.S.T.C. Auditorium Being Redecorated And Improved

CANYON, Sept. 26. (AP) — The auditorium at West Texas State Teachers college is being redecorated, furnished with a new curtain and other stage equipment, and its acoustics are being corrected and improved.

A new hardwood floor will be put down for the stage, new carpet will be laid in the aisles, and the windows will be repaired while the improvements are under way. The auditorium is one of the finest in West Texas.

Improvements on the campus include pavement around the buildings, to connect with city pavement.

Twenty-Six Hand-Made Rugs Will Be Displayed At Fair

Twenty-six hand-made rugs, in three classes, are on display at the Panhandle-South Plains fair, the first time that rugs made at home have been exhibited.

"These rugs are really very fine work," said Miss Myrtle Murray, home demonstration agent leader for this district, who is judge of the home demonstration department at the fair. They are made by women from five counties, Dawson, Lynn, Lamb, Swisher and Garza.

"Most of these rugs were made by the women for living-room contests. When you get some of them to the right light you can see a very pretty sheen on them, that you do not find on many similar rugs.

"The only cost that the women were out for these rugs was the cost of the dyes. The material came from the home, from things that were to be discarded."

Deep Test Well In Reeves County Plugged, Abandoned

PECOS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Apparently a failure, the deep test well drilled by the Humble Oil and Refining company on the Balmorhea Livestock company's tract in section 33 of block 5, H. and G. N. Railway company survey, Reeves county, has been plugged and abandoned. The well was located four miles southwest of Pecos.

Although oil has been found in many places east of the Pecos river, in some cases extending to the river, oil in paying quantities has never been discouraged west of the Pecos in this immediate locality.

Earthen Fruit Jars Over 150 Years Old To Be Shown

One of the exhibits in the relic, antique and curio department of the Panhandle-South Plains fair, is a pair of earthen fruit jars, more than 150 years old and belonging to Mrs. Leal Exley, living on East Broadway.

The jars have been in Mrs. Exley's family for generations. They are nearly as large as quart jars, brown and tan, with a lid that can be sealed with sealing wax.

Mrs. A. E. Sharmon, who brought the jars to the fair, said they were of Dutch manufacture and were brought to Texas from Clarion county, Penn.

TESTS STARTED

VERNON, Sept. 26 (AP) — Piling tests prior to construction of the Vernon-Elmer Red river bridge on Highway 28, 20 miles north of this city, have been started by empoyes of the W. S. Crawford Construction company of Dallas. Actual construction will start in about 30 days with approval of highway engineers of orders of piling.

They're To Be Seen Daily At Fair

The Flying Wards, shown above, are to be seen each afternoon and night in free vaudeville acts during the Panhandle-South Plains fair here all next week. They are to appear three times daily, 3:30, 5:30 and 7:30 p. m. Three complete and separate acts will be presented, the double somersault blindfolded being the feature attraction.

Petrified Woman Is Mystifying

Workmen Dig Up Stone Body While Working In Forest In Valley; Identification By Specialists Sought

(By The Associated Press)

EDINBURG, Sept. 26.—People of this entire section have become excited over the mystery of a stone woman, dug up in the midst of the famous petrified forest near Rio Grande city by E. A. Brown of this city.

Whether the object is the petrified body of a real woman, a piece of ancient statuary, or a discarded figure from one of the old missions in the Valley in early days is a mystery.

The fact that the body was dug up in the midst of the petrified forest has given considerable credence to the theory that it is the petrified body of a woman.

Brown had a crew of workmen at the petrified forest digging around for unusual specimens of petrified wood to be used in building a foundation at his home here, when the pick of one of the workmen uncovered the feet of the woman.

The workmen all helped to bring the body from the ground and after it was cleaned Brown found the perfectly formed figure of a woman. Considerable difficulty was experienced in cutting it loose from roots of trees which had grown around it.

The figure is about five feet in height and perfectly proportioned.

The fact that it appears to be of a substance not used in statuary or masonry of any kind lends to the theory that it is the petrified body of a human being.

The perfect contours of the body, however, make it difficult to reconcile the theory of a petrified body with the circumstances which must have surrounded such a change in chemical form.

The body, if such it is, must have become petrified a very short time after death to have maintained its present appearance.

Brown indicated he would seek the aid of specialists in identifying the object. It is at his garage here now, and is creating much interest.

TO DECORATE WINDOWS

BIG SPRING, Sept. 26.—Display windows in vacant buildings in the business section of the city will be decorated and lighted according to a recent action of the board of directors of the junior chamber of commerce. Other projects receiving consideration are a municipal golf course which will be sponsored in cooperation with city officials, trade trips and publicity.

Texas Tech Will Fit You For Nearly Anything; Glance Over The Courses

Four Schools Offer A Wide Variety For Students

BY LOIS JACQUES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

WOULD you like to weave cloth? If so, enroll in the department of Textile engineering at Texas Technological college. Do you want to build a highway; design a costume, or learn to manage a farm? Texas Tech offers courses intended to teach one of these very things, and many others in addition.

Four schools in the college—Liberal Arts, Home Economics, Engineering, and Agriculture—offer a wide variety of courses designed to prepare students for anything they may wish to do, but the three latter schools are perhaps more technical in their training than the school of liberal arts.

New Classes Offered

This year liberal arts students will have an opportunity to enroll in many classes which have not been offered heretofore. For instance, the Spanish department is giving "Drama of the Golden Age" for advanced students, and the German department offers a study of contemporary German literature in No. 331. Nothing new is given in the Latin department this term, but during the winter quarter there will be a course, "Religion of the Romans," which will be open to anyone, regardless of his knowledge of Latin. A total of 27 courses is open in the languages.

The English department reports several additions to the curriculum. "The Age of Johnson," "Literary Biography," "Greek and Roman Literature in English Translations", and "Survey of English and American Literary History" are new this term, and also two journalism courses, "Advertising" and "History of American Journalism" "English in Business Practice" is another offered for the first time by the department.

Frye Is New Here

In addition to Miss Mary DeBardeleben, Tech's department of Biblical literature and history this year has Dr. W. F. Frye. One of his most interesting courses will be a study of the Psalm of Solomon, interpreted from the standpoint of the literal and double love theory. In commenting on this class, Dr. Frye said, "This is very apropos to present-day social situations, and all classes should be interested."

The department of business administration for the first time is now offering a B. B. A. degree, with about 20 students working toward it. Requirements for this degree include statistics, business English and journalism, and speech courses. "Advertising Principles in Business," is being offered in this department but credit may be obtained on it also for a journalism major. H. R. Nissley, recently returned from studying in America and abroad, will teach this class, and also a class in "Industrial Management." B. F. Condray, department head, reports that the secretarial lab is being doubled this year to care for the increased demand by students who wish to study shorthand and typewriting.

Military Reorganized

With the coming of Col. L. S. Davis to Tech, the military department is being entirely reorganized. It is being changed from an infantry unit to a field artillery unit, and he intends to organize a full war-strength battery for demonstration purposes. There will be available for the use of the college about $500,000 worth of equipment. Colonel Davis plans the organization of a full military band.

Dr. L. T. Patton, head of the geology department, reports a total of 22 courses, several of which are new this year.

Advanced work in history this fall embraces courses in European, American and Texas History; in addition there is an advanced class in anthropology. Two advanced courses in philosophy are offered: "Aesthetics," which is the philosophy of beauty, and the "Philosophy of Religion."

Courses Are Varied

In the school of agriculture courses range from the technical studies to the practical side of marketing, manufacture, and so on. The feature of dairy manufacture classes is that students can eat all their products, from there they learn the handling of milk, manufacture of cheese, butter, ice cream, condensed milk, and other allied courses. All courses taught in the Aggie school are closely related to the general field of agriculture, although some of them are intended to prepare students for teaching, for government extension work, research, commercial fields, etc. Agricultural economics is taught, beginning with the freshman course, "Personal Business," in which students discover that they even have a business while attending school, and learn to manage that business.

And so it goes on through all the courses in every department in school. The Engineers have an opportunity to study every phrase of engineering, civil, electrical, architectural, mechanical, and textile. Girls interested in Home Economics courses study foods, their preparation and value; clothing and textiles, their use and type, and all related subjects. In both Engineering and H. E. schools much of the time is devoted to laboratory work so that students may work out assigned problems.

The Incas of Peru have a tradition of men flying centuries ago.

Speaks Tonight

Dr. W. A. Jackson (above) of the government department at Texas Tech, will be the principal speaker tonight at 7 o'clock at a gathering of the Young People's Basement League group of the First Methodist church. His address will be on "The Value of the Study of the Bible to Young People." All members of the League and others interested are being urged to attend.

Facing federal charges of sale and possession of liquor, A. D. Wencel, of near Wilson, Lynn county, was freed in bail of $1,000 Saturday morning after appearing before United States Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey here.

Wencel was arrested Thursday at his home near Wilson by Deputy United States Marshal J. P. Edgar of Lubbock. A small quantity of whisky was found there, authorities said.

Needs No Gun
Gunless Sheriff Uses Strength

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 26. (AP)—West Texas has another gunless sheriff. He is "Sandy" Willis of Crocket county, who weighs 245 pounds and stands six feet, seven inches.

Tales of his physical prowess are many. Once a man at a dance is said to have reached for him with a knife and Willis held him off with one hand, slapping him "to sleep" with the other.

Another concerns the offer of a bully who asked him to pull off his gun. "I don't wear a gun," the sheriff is reported to have said and convinced the challenger that his apparent strength is real.

JAIL HIS ONLY HOME

SEATTLE.—John Minderhout, 76, is in jail, but he isn't in for any crime. He's in because he's "the man nobody wants." The old fellow lost his job recently and turned to his relatives for shelter. Only one sister remained, in Wisconsin, but she was raising a family and she was having financial difficulties. So Minderhout appeared to police for shelter. They gave him a home in the jail.

PICKERS NEEDED

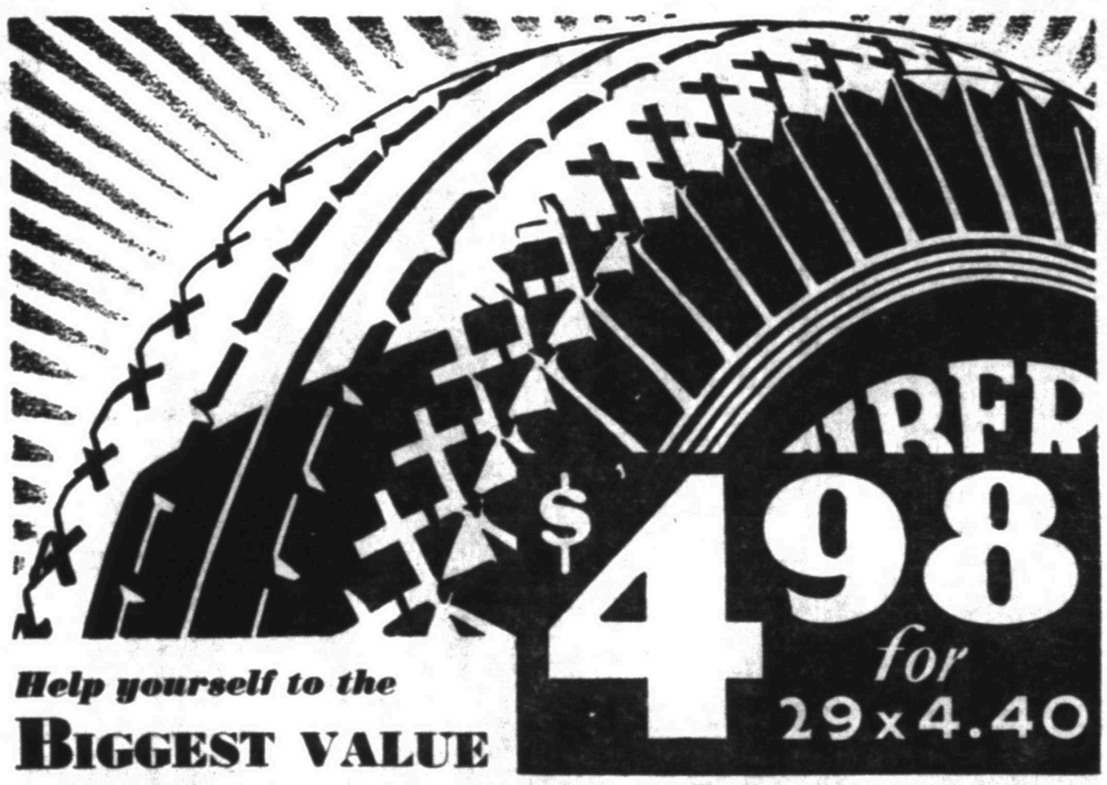

VERNON, Sept. 26. (AP)—A call has been broadcast from this city by chamber of commerce officials for 1,000 cotton pickers, who are needed at once. The 1931 crop, estimated at 35,000 bales, is opening fast and is regarded as good picking for this section of the state. Farmers are paying 40 cents per hundred pounds.

Westerners Show Promise In 25-0 Win Over Wildcats

Powerful Line Makes Way For Flashy Backs

New Backfield Cavorts Before Lubbock Fans In First Nocturnal High School Game As Woodrow Wilson Is Outdone

BY COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

Lubbock's Westerners as coached by Weldon B. Chapman established themselves as favorites with Lubbock fans at least last night when they worked out under lights for the first time in their lives to score a 25 to 0 victory over the Woodrow Wilson Wildcats of Dallas in the first important game of the year.

Running behind a line that looked fully as good as the strong Westerner forward wall of 1930, a set of backfield boys playing under fire for their first time had more or less of a romp over Coach Herschel Forester's Wildcats. Cecil Merrill, a transfer from the northern Panhandle, Bill Davidson, and Gene Barnett, Lubbock's own sons, fought, blocked, tackled and carried the ball like veterans in their initial year of gridiron adventure. Mack Scoggin, a letter man from last year, and O. H. Britton, quarterback from last fall's squad, did their part and looked the veterans they are, but for flashy offensive work they were equalled if not surpassed by the newcomers.

Visitors Scrap

The Triple-W boys from Big D presented a scrapping front, a fine spirit and a knowledge of what they were about, but lacked the punch and the weight to carry on when they gained striking distance. Lubbock's team was the heavier by several pounds, collectively and individually, and were masters of the situation nearly all the way through.

The game, witnessed by approximately 4,000 fans, was run off more smoothly than most early season contests, the officials doing a neat job in keeping things moving. In sharp contrast to the college game of the night before, which consumed more than three hours duration, last night's frolic was over two hours after the opening whistle had sounded, and each team used an unusually large number of substitutions.

Merrill Gets Started

Coach Chapman started his regulars and straightway Doc Merrill started toward the enemy goal line. Near mid-field, the Westerners tried passing, but two were incomplete and after a line try, Dallas attempted a punt from its 25-yard line. The kick was blocked. Merrill rolling on it at the line of scrimmage. Merrill raced ten yards through the line and again for fifteen yards around right end and a touchdown. The try for point was good.

Lubbock kicked off and Bert returned to his 30-yard line. Dallas lost fourteen yards on the next play but Tech drew a short penalty. Merrill took a short lateral pass and scampered to the 10-yard line from where Scoggin carried it over for the counter. Goal was not kicked.

Wildcats Threaten

After an exchange of punts later in the quarter, Dallas got in a position to score after Merrill had fumbled on his own 20-yard line following a punt. Bert, playing halfback for Woodrow Wilson, started his passing game that came near disrupting the Westerners before the game was over, and the ball went to the 8-yard line. Hart, left end, doing some neat pass snatching. Bert passed once too many, however, and too far, and Gene Barnett intercepted in behind his own goal line to run out four yards. Lubbock punted out of danger, as the quarter ended.

The ball was on Lubbock territory for a good part of the second quarter, the visitors getting to the 7-yard line once as a result of the Bert to Hart passing combination but the Westerner line held from end to end and there was no getting by. The locals showed a weakness on pass defense but were otherwise impregnable. Toward the middle of the period, Scoggin took the ball from his 30-yard marker to mid-field, a pass, Barnett to Merrill was good for five and on two successive runs Merrill went to the 20-yard line. Scoggin circled left end for a touchdown.

Reserves Go In

Coach Chapman sent in a bunch of substitutes in the third quarter until he had an almost new team, but it continued to work and most of the period was played on Dallas grounds. Bill Davidson shined in this chukker, going for long runs through the line, off tackle and around the ends behind good blocking and almost perfect interference. Merrill helped carry the ball to the 3-yard line from where Davidson went to the 1-yard line on a couple of plays. Quarterback Britton was still in and doing some neat generalship, though he carried the ball but few times. He took it now and pushed over the line for a touchdown. The kick was low.

The third period was all on Woodrow Wilson territory, and a short and sweet quarter it was. Barnett broke loose for two good runs and took the ball in the 10-yard line

Amarillo College Defeats Terrill

AMARILLO, Sept. 26. (AP) — The Badgers of Amarillo College overpowered the Terrill School for Boys grid team from Dallas, here this afternoon, winning 21 to 0. All the scoring was in the first half.

Albert Lard, former Pampa Harvester high school player, was the ground gaining star for the locals, while Eudy, Terrill tackle, was an outstanding defensive player.

Stovall, playing in place of Scoggin, fumbled here and Lubbock drew a penalty. Woodrow Wilson promptly kicked and Davidson and Stovall went back to the 35-yard line. There was an exchange of punts and Davidson and Stovall went to the 25- yard line. Little Joe Nelson went in to play for Crenshaw who had relieved Britton and went to the 2-yard line where he fumbled. Dallas kicked out as the game ended.

The playing of little Bert in the Dallas backfield was the high light of the visitors' offense, and his passing was especially remarked. Hart, playing at left end, hustled about like a halfback to snatch passes from almost impossible places for the only important gains for the Wildcats. Downing and Lewis at guard posts turned in nice jobs and Bookhout looked good while he stayed in at tackle.

Gentlemen Of Troy Defeated By St. Mary's

Two Passes, Two Flashes Of Color And Gaels Gallop To 13-7 Victory; Stagg Sees 40th Team Divide Double

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—Two brilliant passes, two flashes of scarlet, and St. Mary's Gaels galloped to a 13 to 7 victory over the mighty men of Troy here today before 75,000 rioting fans.

With surprising and unheralded deception, the Gaels, against seemingly great odds, rose to subdue the University of Southern California, new tandem shift, power and all in the third period, after the Trojans thrice had knocked at the door of victory.

There was nothing on paper to warrant such an upset, for Coach Howard Jones' team outdowned St. Mary's 17 to 5, but this is without reckoning with the flaming fighting spirit of Coach Edward (Slip) Madigan's team.

Big Celebration

Bud Toscani, a half back, and George Carinus, right end, were the St. Mary's players who turned defeat into such a resounding triumph that the St. Mary's rooters swept onto the field after the struggle and razed the goal posts. The celebration lasted half an hour after the victory, as thousands milled on the greensward.

Toscani had intercepted a Trojan pass on his 45-yard line. Red Scheffiin dropped back from the shift, hurling a long pass to Toscani as he retreated, and the Trojan's secondary defense, caught flatfooted, could only watch him race the remaining 25 yards to score

Kansas Jayhawkers Down Colorado Aggies, 26-6

LAWRENCE, Kas., Sept. 26. (AP)—The Big Six champion Kansas Jayhawkers, after an early scare, swamped the Colorado Aggies, 27 to 6, in the football season opener here today.

Quarterback Carnie Smith of the Jayhawkers scored a touchdown eight minutes after the game started and Lee Page, halfback, place kicked the extra point, leaving a 7-point lead for a reserve team to defend.

By the half time intermission, however, the substitutes had allowed the lead to simmer down to 1-point and not until Coach H. W. (Bill) Hargiss inserted his starting lineup in the second half did the game appear to be won for Kansas.

University Of Chicago Wins Over Cornell

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's and the University of Chicago's fortieth football team was good enough to win the first game of a doubleheader today from Cornell college of Mt. Vernon, Ia., 12 to 0, but did not have quite enough left for the second encounter and was defeated by Hillsdale, Mich., college 7 to 0.

The Iowa team gave the Maroons a good workout for two periods, but weakened in the last half and Shalin and Wein went over the touchdowns.

The Michigan eleven outplayed the Maroons from the start to finish and scored in the second period on a pass from Mobily to Reynolds.

Dealer's Choice When Connie And Gabby Sit In Annual Poker Session Beginning Next Thursday

BY CLAIRE BURCKY
NEA Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—It will be dealer's choice and no limit to the stakes when Charles Street and Cornelius McGillicuddy face each other early next Thursday in the second renewal of their annual poker session. And for the benefit of those who may come in late, be it known that the Old Sarge has four aces tucked up his sleeve which he plans to reveal to Connie only after all bets have been made, boosted and called.

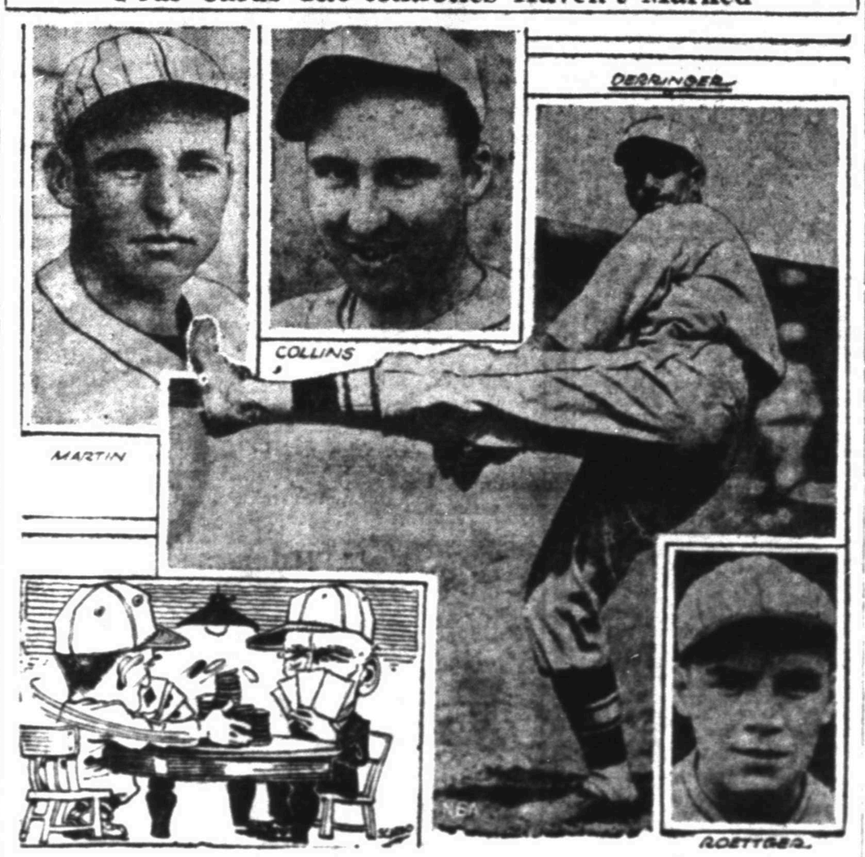

Connie marked Gabby's Cards last year in the first game and was able to read them correctly thereafter. He may be able to read Adams, Watkins, Frisch, Bottomley, Hafey, Wilson and Gelbert again this fall. But that group doesn't include the new and unmarked aces, Wally Roettger, Jim (The Ripper) Collins, John (Pepper) Martin and Paul Derringer.

The first three gents happen to be right-handed batters, and good ones. Does that imply anything? It means to the Old Sarge that there will be a full lineup of exactly nine right-handed batters to toss against the Athletics on the afternoon Connie elects to send Lefty Grove or Rube Walberg to the firing line.

Memory seems to recall that Bottomley and Watkins drew their checks from the Cardinals but did most of their playing for the Athletics in the series a year ago. It was a comparatively simple matter for Mickey Cochrane to prevail upon them to strike out whenever they came to bat with Cardinals on the sacks. This was embarrassing to Bottomley and Watkins, not to mention Street and his entire flock, and the only boost the Cards got from the pair was in the left-on-base column.

Collins wooed and won the regular first base job from Bottomley early in the season and returned it to the veteran only after sustaining a sprained ankle. The ankle mended and Collins now awaits another call. Street is keeping him on the bench because Bottomley, revived during Collins' tenure of first, has recovered much of his old hitting form. However, both will be ready for world series duty and more than likely both will see action.

Four Cards The Athletics Haven't Marked

As it was last year, Watkins probably will yield his second place in the batting order to a right-handed batter when Grove or Walberg is the opposing pitcher. His substitute a year ago was Ray Blades, an old-timer whose best playing days had vanished. In the coming series it will be Wally Roettger, one of the few National Leaguers hitting better than .320 this season.

In the spot where Taylor Douthit hit only .083 for the Cardinals during the series last year, Pep Martin is expected to supply a healthy punch. Martin has been getting his share of base hits all season and at present is maintaining an average near the .300 mark.

The fourth ace is Derringer, the rookie hurler who may win 20 ball games this season. It doesn't matter that Derringer also is a right-handed batter; he seldom hits. But he does pitch, as his record in the latest averages will show.

They may kidnap Flint Rhem and keep him for the duration of the series. Gabby won't lose any sleep as long as they leave him Grimes, Haines, Hallahan and Derringer.

A's Favorites In Big Series

Return To Boom Days, Million Dollar Gate Seen In World Series; Mackmen Are 7-5 Favorites To Repeat

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Baseball may return to the boom days and a million-dollar world's series if the St. Louis Cardinals wage an extended battle, as they are expected to do against the Philadelphia Athletics, starting next Thursday on the home grounds of the National League champions.

The Athletics, as befits their position of royalty in the great American sport, have been established as 7 to 5 favorites to capture their third successive world's championship and further embellish the record of their 68-year-old pilot, Connie Mack.

This has never been done before, however, and the Cardinals, from Sergeant Gabby Street down to the mascot, firmly believe it won't be done this year. National League hopes are running high that Street and his Red Birds are the combination destined to wrest World Series honors from the American League for the first time since 1926.

The Cardinals forced the fight to six games last fall, when the gate receipts totalled $963,000. The capacities of parks, 29,000 at Philadelphia and 39,000 at St. Louis, may be stretched a little to push a six-game total this year beyond the million mark.

If the series goes seven games, the gate receipts should be in proximity to the record of $1,207,000, set when the Cardinals went the limit to beat the New York Yankees in 1926. There has been no change in the price of reserved seats, $5.50, nor any indication of diminished demand among the fans.

Miss Edith Cross And Wilmer Allison Win Coast Doubles

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (AP) — Miss Edith Cross, San Francisco, and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, won the mixed doubles championship in the fifth annual Pacific Southwest tennis tournament today by defeating the Wimbledon champions, Mrs. L. A. Harper, Oakland, Calif., and George Lott, Philadelphia, 7-5, 2-6, 7-5.

The first two sets were played yesterday but the match was halted by rain and finished today.

SPYING ON SPORTS

By COLLIER PARRIS

...el, Cholley, how ya like night football?"

"Oh, so-so. Not so bad. Not so good. Can't say that I'm sold on the idea, Holbert. Pretty good for the box office but hard on the fans when they get there. Nice for the players. Whada you think about it?"

"Like it pretty good. Something different, anyway. Makes it nice for day-laborers like me, who couldn't go to games in the daytime. I sat in a box and had a swell time Dollar a throw, y'know."

"Yeah? Well, if you like it, I don't. I'll take my football in the day time. Night baseball is o. k., but you can have your night football. Besides, it's too cold at night. Why, Friday night I wished for an overcoat, and the wife nearly froze, and here it is only September. And I was up to the press coop to find out about Birmingham winning the Dixie Series and them boys up there was sure having heck. Said they couldn't see anything, and after peeking through that glass from 'way up high like that I b'lieved 'em. Naw, give me the daylight for football."

"But you'll admit that the attendance is greater at night. Look how they turned out to the Tech game, twice as many as saw a game last year, 'sides the Simmons game. And that shows conclusively that night football is successful."

If we heard one conversation like that yesterday we heard fifteen, and it seemed that no two people in a conversation agreed with each other. The introduction of night football surely started a stream of gab, some favorable, some hotly in opposition. Our only personal grouch is the difficulty in keeping up with the players, the plays, the yard line markers, the decisions and the ball as seen from the top of the grandstand. As it was, we made a few mistakes in recording the game Friday night.

We learned, frinstance, that Speed Moffett and NOT Yancy Price kicked goal for the extra point following the second touchdown. In fact, that was why Moffett went in at that particular moment. We were not certain that Price made a touchdown, but our guess was as good as anybody's and it happened to be right.

Coacher Cauthon passed favorable comment upon his boys for their Friday night actions, but the Tech mentor was more profuse in his anything but favorable mention of the officiating at the game. We ... repeat part of his statement in regard to the latter but for the fear that a feud of Kentucky kill calibre might be the result. Nobody with whom we've consulted yet was pleased in any degree with the officiating. We talked with Coach Sad Sam Burton after the game and he was as antagonistic to his remarks as the Tech mentor.

The Techsters did play pretty roughly, doing a lot of unnecessary socking and rocking, it seemed, but hardly enough to justify 135 yards of penalties. The game, dragging through three hours and 10 minutes, centered around the frequent consultations of officials, coaches and players as much as around actual scrimmage, or so it seemed

There's still room for a note received at the desk Friday. It is anonymously signed, but there's no doubt as to the author. It berates as follows:

Dear Knot Hole Man: Well, old man, it's too bad you lost the night football fight. Now someone else can see football games besides the scribes on a pass. What's the trouble won't they give you a pass to the night games? I intend to be on hand Friday night to help em pay for em and if they wont let you in make i can get enough jew flags together to buy you a ticket.

Yours in Crime,
"Henchman."

Yeah? Well, old sock, if we didn't get PAID to see the games under your blinkin' lights, we'd stay at home and read the funnypapers. The public knows, if you do not, that we were all for the installation of lights, and never raised a paw against it. For a time it seemed as if they wouldn't be installed, and it is due to no kind generosity of the writer of the above epistle that Matador Field is surrounded by the blinkers today.

The Matadors will not be back with us until October 23. This weekend they are in Las Cruces, N. M. Follows a week of rest and on Oct. 13 they go to Dallas to meet the Haskell Indians. Who wants the Indians?

Horse Owned By Texan Romps Home In Final Lincoln Fields Race To Win Purse Of $11,880

LINCOLN FIELDS RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Kincaen, a four-year-old mud running filly, owned by F. A. Carreaud, Houston, Tex., and Jack Howard, former Kentucky jockey, scored an upset victory in winning the sixth running of the Marquette handicap, worth $11,880 that closed the 30-day autumn racing season at Lincoln Fields today.

Kincaen won by a neck over Dark Sea, owned by Herbert M. Woolf of Kansas City, with My Dandy third and Pittsburgher fourth in a field of eight. Kincaen had been in the money 13 times in 14 starts this year, but never before had won a stake race, nor had gone the mile and a furlong distance. She raced to victory in 1:55.

Kincaen, carrying only 105 pounds, was overlooked in the betting and paid $15.90 to win, $7.12 to place and $4.18 to show. Dark Sea returned $8.16 to place and $3.80 to show, while My Dandy paid $4.76 to show.

Army Eleven Starts Season With Big Win

Ohio Northern Squad Beaten By 60 To 0 Score; Victory Of Cadets Is Impressive; Tulane Downs Ole Miss

(By The Associated Press)

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Army's 1931 football juggernaut rolled into action today for the first time this season and crushed a struggling squad from Ohio Northern 60 to 0.

Nine touchdowns rolled out from under the wheels of the latest machine Major Ralph I. Sasse has built on the plains and though the opposition was gallant but negligible, the manner in which a half dozen Cadet backs romped about the field behind a powerful line was very impressive.

Army scored three times in the third period and twice in every other quarter while the Orange and Black jerseyed Ohioans never threatened the cadet goal.

Tulane Finds Stiff Opposition In Ole Miss

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Tulane found a stiff football opponent in the University of Mississippi here today and was lucky to hang up a score of 31 to 0 before a rain frightened crowd of around 12,000.

The old Miss squad gave a great exhibition of defensive football but lacked offensive power and reserves strength. In the first half the Mississippians fought a good fight and held Tulane scoreless in the second quarter. But in the last half they played ragged football filled with fumbles.

Centenary Wins From State Normal, 23 To 2

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 26. (AP)—Centenary's football eleven ran up against the strong State Normal college team from Natchidoches here today and had plenty of fighting to win 23 to 2.

BERKLEY, Calif., Sept. 26. (AP)—The University of California football team came through in the last quarter today to defeat the University of Santa Clara, 6 to 2.

Santa Clara scored her two two points in the third period when Shaidach was thrown for a 17-yard loss.

Stanford And Olympic Club Play To 0-0 Tie

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif. Sept. 26. (AP)—Stanford university turned back three Olympic club thrusts in the second half to keep its goal line uncrossed and to earn a scoreless tie with the club men here today. The Collegians were helpless on the offense.

Cards Win Final Game Over Cincy

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 26. (AP)—A ninth inning rally that netted two runs failed to help the Reds materially today and they dropped the first game of the closing series of the season with the Cardinals 7 to 4. The Cards touched Larry Benton for 14 hits.

S. M. U. Sticks To Straight Football With Denton Crew

DALLAS, Sept. 26. Southern Methodist University struck to straight football today and eked out a 13 to 6 victory over the North Texas Teacher College Eagles of Denton.

While the Mustang machine was resorting to power football the North Texans were checking it with a formidable defense. The Ponies drove 42 yards in the first period for a touchdown, Gilbert plunging five yards for a score. Neely added the extra point. The Mustangs marched 73 yards straight down the field for the second touchdown, Oliver going over on the three yard smash through the line.

A deal at a whist party in Reading, England, recently resulted in each of the four players having 13 cards of one suit.

Tiger Machine Puts Up Stiff Defense Wall

Christians Score Late In 3rd Period After Visitors Put Up Tough Battle; Captain Of L. S. U. Is Injured

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26.—The educated toe of 190-pound Ben Boswell, left tackle, gave Texas Christian University of the Southwest Conference a 3 to 0 victory over a hard-fighting Louisiana State University Tiger machine here today. The score came in the third quarter.

Louisiana, ranked as one of this year's leaders in the Southern conference, uncovered a brilliant defensive fight, one that in three of the four quarters halted Texas Christians' offense when a touchdown loomed, but the Louisiana eleven revealed little offensively.

L. S. U. Captain Hurt

It was a rough battle. Louisiana suffered the greatest loss when Captain Khoury, left tackle, was removed from the game with bones in his right arm broken.

The game, ranked as the classic of the Southwest today, was witnessed by an estimated crowd of five thousand who saw Jack Torrence, 260-pound Louisiana guard, lead his mates in a superb defensive drive the first two quarters.

Late in the third period, Hinton tried another pass on the first down, but it was grounded by Torrence. Texas Christian lashed Louisiana's line for seven yards, leaving three yards to go for first down and only one down to make it. Then Boswell was pulled from his tackle position, stepped back to the 17-yard line, and after Vance Woolwine received the snap-back and placed it, kicked a field goal for the game's only points.

Longhorns Win From Simmons, 36 To 0

AUSTIN, Sept. 26 (AP)—The University of Texas Longhorns, football champions of the Southwest conference last year, made their 1931 debut today with a 36 to 0 victory over the Simmons Cowboys from Abilene. Greater reserve strength and clever passing contributed to the margin of victory.

Coach Clyde Littlefield used many players. Virtually the entire first string started the second half with the result that the Steers registered two touchdowns in three minutes.

The fighting invaders kept the Steers from scoring in the first quarter and were scored on but once in the second. A group of Steer substitutes turned the contest into a rout in the final period.

Three of the Steer counters were made on passes. Stafford and Furrh, and grabbed two from Koy in the third period and Witman, reserve back, caught a Bankhead toss near the end of the game. The Cowboys would have stopped the Steers in the second quarter but for an offside penalty and Koy then rammed across. Bankhead and Craig led a drive in the final period which netted a touchdown with Craig going around end for the marker. The other score was a safety, Howle, Texas center, blocking a punt behind the goal line.

Aggies Score 33 To 0 Victory Over Pirates

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 26. (AP)—Texas A. & M. launched their 1931 grid campaign here today with a 33 to 0 victory over Southwestern University.

Thrice in the second period the Pirates braced themselves on their one-half yard line and held the Aggies without gain. Pirate passing was on par with that of the Aggies, the Southwestern team gaining 51 yards through the air while Bell's men were picking up 60 yards.

Clifford Domingue of Port Arthur, W. W. Hewitt of Groesbeck, and Ted Spencer of Gilder, led the Aggie offensive. Hewitt slid off tackle for 12 yards and a touchdown in the first period.

Battering line thrusts by Domingue, Spencer and McFadden accounted for three other Aggie touchdowns.

Razorbacks Win From Ozarks College, 13 To 6

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Sept. 26. (AP)—University of Arkansas Razorbacks opened their 1931 football season here today with a 13 to 6 victory over the College of the Ozarks.

The Razorbacks rushed over two touchdowns in the first half while the Mountaineers did not score until the last period.

Bearkats Fall Before Rice Owls

HOUSTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Coach Jack Meagher's Rice Owls wore down Jim Jones' Sam Houston Bearkats, 1930 T. I. A. A. champions, 32 to 0 today.

The Owls used their most elementary formations and did most of their damage with sweeps around the ends. Jap Thrasher showed to particular advantage in running the ends, following well his interference.

Bert Mueller turned in a 26 yard dash for a touchdown; while Lee Hammet contributed the longest run—38 yards on a cut back off tackle to a touchdown in the last minute of play. The Bearkats fought hard but were exhausted by the endless stream of fresh players Meagher poured into the contest.

The Bearkats played the Owls on fairly even terms the first three quarters, but wilted in the last period, when Meager's charges scored 20 points.

Kansas Looms Big Again In Big Six Conference Race But May Be Stopped

New Talent Hopes To Star Against Jayhawkers

BY CHARLES A. GRUMICH
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A wide open race for the 1931 Big Six conference football title is in prospect if new talent assays up to expectations.

Otherwise, it likely will be another Kansas year, whose team faltered but won the 1930 championship.

Fourteen Jayhawker lettermen, half of them backs, are available to Coach H. W. (Bill) Hargiss.

Leading the powerful Kansas backfield array is Carnie Smith, a stocky, versatile youth who as a sophomore last season outshone the veterans.

Big Six coaches rate him as better than James A. Bausch, whose place he takes as spearhead of the Jayhawker attack.

Three 200-pound guards failed to make the grade scholastically, leaving opportunities for the sophomore hopefuls; but there are four lettered wingmen available, a pair of capable tackles, and Frank (Pete) Bausch, brother of "Jarring Jim," has returned to take over the center job after a year's absence.

The University of Oklahoma, nosed out for a share of the title last fall, has 13 lettered veterans, mostly lightweights who weathered the 1930 campaign virtually without reserve forces.

Among the seven seasoned backs in the hands of Coaches Ad Lindsay and Dewey Luster is Capt. Guy Warren, who, weighing 138 and wearing size 5½ shoes, is regarded as the chief Sooner scoring threat.

His largest teammate, Paul Young, center, scales 185, and is six feet, four inches high.

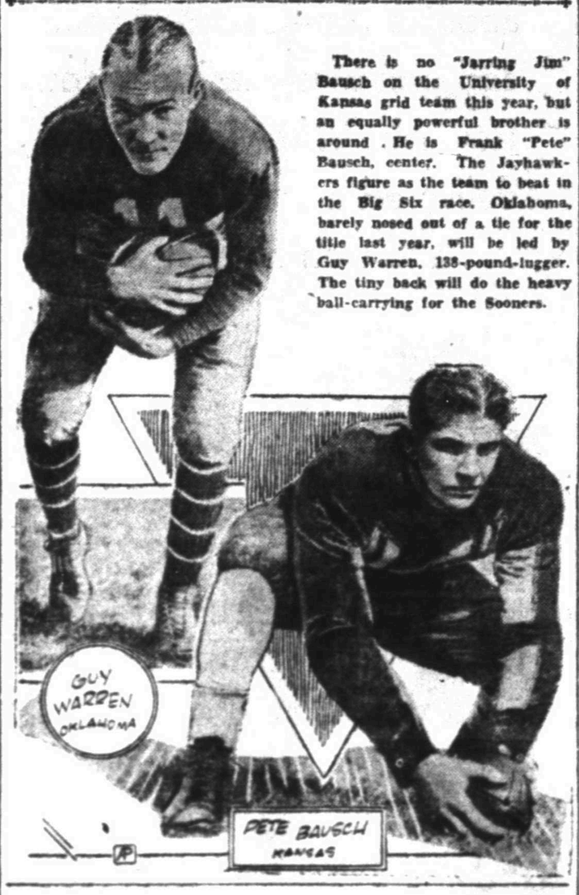

At Kansas State college, Col. A. Nugent McMillin, known as "Bo" when he led Centre college to victory over Harvard, has 17 lettermen piloted by Capt. H. O. Cronkite, tackle and end.

Missouri, with nearly a score of lettermen, including Carl Johanningmeier, who was one of the longest punters in the conference two years ago, has more favorable prospects than it had last year when the Tigers finished fifth.

Fifteen lettermen, three of them quarterbacks and two unclassified backs, leave several opportunities open to the young specialists on Coach Dana X. Bible's Nebraska squad, for the veterans in some cases are battling for the same jobs.

Iowa State, after two seasons without a victory in the conference, introduces a new head coach, George F. Veenker, former headmaster of basketball and assistant in football at the University of Michigan, succeeding Noel Workman. Eleven lettermen are listed on the Cyclone squad.

Stars On Central U. S. Gridirons

There is no "Jarring Jim" Bausch on the University of Kansas grid team this year, but an equally powerful brother is around. He is Frank "Pete" Bausch, center. The Jayhawkers figure as the team to beat in the Big Six race. Oklahoma, barely nosed out of a tie for the title last year, will be led by Guy Warren, 138-pound-lugger. The tiny back will do the heavy ball-carrying for the Sooners.

Miners Wallop Wayland To Sprightly Tune Of 10 To 0

EL PASO, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Texas College of Mines and Arts opened the football season here today by defeating Wayland college, of Plainview, 10 to 0. J. B. Andrews, and Shorty Key, of Dallas, backfield men, made the Mines scores, Andrews scoring a touchdown and Key collecting the point after touchdown through a placement kick. Key also kicked a field goal for three points. Wayland did not threaten seriously during the encounter. The game was slow and both teams appeared to be in poor condition.

Big League Batsmen Run Race For Hit Honors Up To Finals

Chick Hafey And Bill Terry Virtually Tied For Honors Three Days Before Season Ends; Terry Holds On

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The battle for the National League's 1931 batting championship seems destined to continue right up to the last minute of the last day of play and the final results may not be known until the official figures are released sometime next winter. At least the semi-official averages which include Thursday's games just three days before the finish, failed to reveal a letup in the struggle between Chick Hafey of the St. Louis Cardinals and Bill Terry of the New York Giants.

Hafey, coming up in a late rush, held first place Thursday with a .350 average and a margin of only a single point over Terry, while Jim Bottomley of St. Louis, Terry's erstwhile rival, had slipped back to third place at .341 Chuck Klein of Philadelphia, the fourth participant in the battle, had a .338 average.

Terry still held the major share of the slugging honors as he led the league in two departments, tied for first in another and was second in a fourth. The big New Yorker had a total of 212 hits, putting him one up on Lloyd Warner of Pittsburgh, and had clouted 20 triples to 16 for Babe Herman of Brooklyn. Klein and Terry each had scored 120 runs and the Philadelphian was ahead of his New York rival with 120 runs batted in to 113. Klein completed his clouting list, which rivalled Terry's, with a leagueleading total of 31 home runs. Mel Ott of the Giants was second with 29.

Sparky Adams of St. Louis continued to head the one remaining column in the hitting records with 45 doubles, one more than Wally Berger of Boston had collected. Frank Frisch and Pepper Martin of St. Louis continued to run one-two in base stealing with 28 to 17 thefts respectively.

Behind the big four on the list of individual batting leaders came O'Doul, Brooklyn, .335; Grimm, Chicago, .333; Mornahy, Chicago, .332; Cuyler, Chicago, .328; Davis, Philadelphia, .328;

Despite their imposing list of leaders, the Chicago Cubs lost ground in the race with the Giants for the club batting lead. New York raised its average to .302 last week while the Cubs went to .288. Holding their fielding mark at .967, the Cardinals took undisputed possession of the lead, a point ahead of Chicago, Cincinnati and New York.

The Cardinals had things all their own way in the pitching records, Jess Haines, who has been out of action for some time, held the lead with eleven victories and three defeats for a .786 average. Paul Derringer was second with 17 games won and 8 lost for a .680 mark, while Bill Hallahan tied with Guy Bush of Chicago for third at .667. Hallahan had 18 victories and 9 defeats while Bush had won 16 games and lost eight.

Simmons Is Assured Of American Honors

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Robert Moses Grove and Al Simmons apparently have added a pair of jewels to the Philadelphia Athletics' championship crown, in the shape of individual pitching and batting titles of the American League.

According to semi-official averages which include Thursday's games of this nearly finished season, Grove, with a record of 31 victories three defeats for an average of .912, was the league's champion hurler, while Milwaukee Al's mark of .389 just about assured him the batting title.

Grove could lose another decision and still surpass the high major league percentage mark of .872, set in 1912 by Smokey Joe Wood of Boston, and Simmons' margin of seventeen points over Babe Ruth appeared almost impregnable. Most of the remaining batting honors belong to Lou Gehrig of the Yankees, although he dropped the base hit leadership to Earl Averill of Cleveland during the week. Gehrig had batted in 180 runs—10 less than the major league mark set by Hack Wilson last season; led Babe Ruth in home runs, 45 to 44, had scored 159 runs, and had a total base collection of 398.

Chapman Best Base Thief

Ben Chapman, Yankee outfielder, stole three more bases and led with the handsome total of 61, while Earl Webb of Boston improved his own record in batting out doubles to 66. The remaining leadership, hitting for three bases, was held by Roy Johnson, Detroit outfielder, who had

Collett Reign Over Women's Golf Is Ended By Youthful Helen In Final Round For National Championship

(By The Associated Press)

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare's reign as national women's golf champion was ended today by Helen Hicks, 20-year-olf golfing wonder from Long Island, who defeated the five-time champion on the 35th green of the final round of the 35th annual tournament, two up and one to play.

It was the closest final in 15 years of championship play and marked the first time Mrs. Vare had been beaten in the six times she had gained the final round.

Miss Hicks played the 36 holes in 163 strokes, six more than women's par, in defeating the Philadelphia veteran and gaining her fourth title of the year. She previously had triumphed in the metropolitan, eastern and New York State championships.

Hicks Beats the Champs

In her victorious march through the field to the title she had sought unsuccessfully three times, Miss Hicks disposed of the champions of two nations and one former American titleholder. She defeated Enid Wilson, the British champion, in the semi-final round yesterday and won from Marion Hollins, Santa Cruz, Calif., national titleholder in 1921, in the third round.

The final duel was a nerve tingling match where neither was ever more than three holes ahead of the other, Miss Hicks and Mrs. Vare trading the lead four times during the day.

How the Kansas City Preacher Cured His Flock of Gossiping

When tongues wagged viciously about a red-headed woman and preacher-chasing widow, Rev. Mr. Baker investigated, delivered a scathing sermon . . . and won himself a bride

Where harmony reigns again, now that gossip and slander have been driven out . . . the Methodist Church at Avondale, Mo.

At the close of his sermon he slammed his Bible shut. . . . Then he said, "Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth. . . . And the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity."

GOSSIP and slander have brought many a church congregation to grief. How a modern minister slew these two dragons in his congregation and won for himself a bride in the battle forms an interesting chapter in the life of little Avondale, Mo., a sleepy suburb of Kansas City.

Now the life of the little town has slipped back into the regular rut of six work days and a day of rest. It looks with reverence to its only minister now, the man who slew the demons gossip and slander.

The little Missionary Society and the Ladies' Aid Society in the small stucco church have returned to the circumscribed life of a small town—but not until these two societies and all the people of Avondale had the most rude shaking up of their lives.

Wagging tongues have been silenced and "the red-headed woman" and the "preacher chaser" now sit every Sunday in the church where gossip and slander almost drove them "out into the world" a few months ago.

As the bees buzz in the lilacs and rose bushes that grow around the little Avondale Methodist Church on Sunday morning the women nod and smile in the little house of worship. The "red-headed woman" and the "preacher chaser" sit well up front and nod "Amen" when the minister, the Rev. Jesse E. Baker, brands gossip and slander with the stigma of the devil.

For the woman whom gossip and slander branded the "preacher chaser" now is the wife of the minister, and the "red-headed woman" is the daughter-in-law.

THE romance of the church has attracted wide attention, and every Sunday big motor cars drive from nearby cities and towns to see the minister who restored harmony to his flock in such a spectacular way.

Inside the little church there is an air of reverence. The women smile to the preacher's wife and daughter-in-law. There is penitence in their glances and smiling how-do-you-do's on the Sabbath day. The preacher believes that gossip and slander have been stilled forever in his congregation and his followers "live in the spirit and love of the Lord."

"In our church now there is real love," he says. "There is only a good word for each other, and hatred, the son of gossip and slander, has been destroyed. My people have learned the greatest lesson in life, 'love thy neighbor as thyself.' When that lesson is learned people get to living right next door to Jesus Christ."

How different from the turbulent months a short time ago when wagging tongues created dissension among the little congregation.

There was talk aplenty, and hatred split the little church. In this maelstrom of hate stood the minister. He was known as a fiery pastor, a man who could speak his own mind when he had to. He had done it before, but even he was staggered by the turn affairs had taken in his little congregation.

He prayed by day and by night for the Lord to help him bring brotherly love to his people.

Then one Sunday morning, out of a clear sky, his congregation was stunned by his sermon.

HE opened his address with no signs of the fire that was to be loosed on his congregation. At the close of his brief sermon he slammed shut the pages of his Bible and stood in silence for a moment. Then he said:

"Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth. And the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity; so is the tongue among our members."

There was a rustling of skirts in the pews and men glanced at their wives. Few will ever forget the sermon that followed. Startled, they heard the minister bare the scandals that had torn the church for weeks.

The little minister fixed his eyes on a woman member of his congregation and told how a "certain woman" had told others of seeing "our pastor in a restaurant in Kansas City with a red-headed woman."

He stopped short in his sermon and a young woman walked to the pulpit.

A gasp ran through the congregation. It was "the red-headed woman."

The pastor stepped down and took her by the arm.

He introduced the woman.

"Beloved, this is my daughter-in-law, whom I love very dearly," the minister said.

The young woman blushed and returned to her pew. The congregation was tense. Would the minister talk about the "preacher-chaser," the woman who was "running after the minister," according to the malicious gossip of the housewives?

She was Mrs. Stella Gibson, a widow. She was the woman who was reported to have been trying to woo the parson.

A certain woman had told other members of the congregation . . . of "seeing our pastor in a restaurant in Kansas City with a red-headed woman."

The Reverend Baker's eyes were fixed on the widow.

"Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing," the minister continued in a calm voice. "My brethren, these things ought not so to be. For where envying and strife is, there is confusion and evil work. There sits a woman who has been through the fumes and fire of hell. She has passed through a Gethsemane of sorrow. Since the world was created a more ghastly calamity never has befallen any person than has come to her."

THE people knew of what the minister was talking. The story of her burden of sorrow had been retold over back fences and at meetings of the church. It only made the work of the demons gossip and slander more deadly. It was a touch of deep tragedy to roll over wagging tongues.

Five years ago Mrs. Gibson's husband had become insane, and in a moment of mania had murdered their four children with an ax and then attempted to end his own life. He failed to kill himself and was taken to an insane asylum, from which he soon escaped and drowned himself.

The blow fell like a bolt of lightning on the mother, and in her sorrow she became deeply religious, "seeking refuge in the Lord." At first her neighbors were consoling.

Shattered by the blow of the horrible disaster that had blasted her life, the bereaved widow became very devout. Three years later came the new minister, himself a grass-widower. Tongues started wagging that the minister was being "chased" by Mrs. Gibson.

The gossip reached the pastor's ears and as he concluded his sermon, the fiery minister exhorted his congregation to "get right with God." He continued his impassioned defense of the sorrowing widow:

"Surely she has had enough sorrow for one life to bear, but men and women of this church have added to that burden by saying she is running after me. I stand here today in defense of her good name, of the purity of her womanhood—and I here and now deny, before God and the upturned faces of this my congregation, and brand as an infamous and damnable lie, without one shred or shadow of truth in it, that she is running after me, in even the faintest meaning of the phrase."

The congregation stood and the organ played the final hymn. The congregation filed silently out of church. Women clutched their children and hurried out of the church.

Now the scene shifts, but the same small church is the stage for the next act in the "drama of Avondale."

It is a beautiful Sunday morning. The sun is shining brightly and the church is filled for the services. The congregation is bedecked in its new finery. Sunday school closes and the elders in the congregation are singing the opening hymn.

The windows in the church are raised and the sun streams in through the shrubbery that is just turning green in the church yard. Birds are singing.

THEN the services are over. The final hymn is fading away when the minister raises his hand for attention. What is about to happen?

The organ sounds and the congregation turns its eyes to the instrument where Mrs. G. W. O'Donnell, organist, prepares to play.

Instead of the usual soft music for the benediction, the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march fill the church. From her pew steps Mrs. Gibson, the widow the pastor had defended from his pulpit. She walks to the back of the church as the eyes of the worshipers follow her. At the back of the church she meets her father, E. V. Prather.

Together they walk down the aisle to the music of the organ. Reverend Baker steps from his pulpit to meet Mrs. Gibson and her father. The Rev. G. A. Chadwick, presiding elder of the district, walks slowly from his place in the midst of the congregation to join the three at the altar.

Breathlessly the congregation watches a marriage ceremony as Mrs. Gibson becomes the bride of the minister. The minister is 51 years old and his bride 38.

At the conclusion of the marriage rites the congregation moved toward the altar. There were tears in the eyes of the elders in the church. The tenseness of the drama was broken by the broad smile of the pastor as he grasped the hands of his flock and received their well wishes. The women in the congregation kissed the bride and wept on her shoulder.

Now a strange peace and contentment have settled upon the little flock. It listens with rapt attention to the sermons of its minister.

"It now is truly a house where God dwells," explains the Reverend Baker. "There is an air of brotherly love and peace with God in my church. It all has created a shrine in the little church where all have learned to love each other. Gossip and slander have been driven out."

The fighting minister and his bride . . . whose marriage climaxed his campaign against gossiping church-goers. . . . The Rev. Jesse E. Baker and Mrs. Baker.

A FEW days after the marriage ceremony, the ministers of the district, touched by the little drama, invited the minister and his bride to a wedding dinner where the couple was presented a gift of money.

"Gossiping tongues" are the servants of the devil, the pastor said in discussing his marriage.

But even some good may come out of the devil, the minister said.

"My defense of Mrs. Gibson caused me to investigate her case and I was attracted by the goodness of the woman," he said. "I was moved to defend her in my church. Until then she had been just a member of my congregation, but gossiping tongues forced me to plan a defense for her.

"It was then I found her to be a lovely woman. My investigation may have been the cause of our marriage. Certainly my sympathy was attracted by the unfair and untruthful gossip about her."

The Reverend Baker once was married himself. His friends explained that when he became a pastor his first wife refused to go to church or take an interest in his church work. When he would be at church his wife would be out at card games, his friends said. Their lives were not harmonious. A divorce followed.

THE REVEREND BAKER decided to devote the rest of his life to Methodism. He spent several years in St. Joseph, Mo., where he built a large church. He then was assigned to the little church in Avondale, a growing suburb to Kansas City. It offered a new field.

The church is a small edifice and his salary is small. So during the week the minister also sells insurance. His bride is helping him in his business as well as in his church.

He was found in his office with his bride, and he was cordial in his greeting.

"It must have been her fine cooking that did the trick," the pastor smiled good-naturedly when asked about the marriage. "You see, I boarded at her father's house for a year. Everybody knows a man's stomach is his weakness, his most vulnerable spot."

He believes he has at last found peace in life.

"Some men," he said, "when they give their hearts to Christ and his ministry, seem to leave the devil behind, but he has plagued me from the first and I have had to fight constantly."

He said he believed gossiping was the work of the devil.

BUT in the little Avondale church today, after the marriage ceremony that stunned the town, there's only peace. A visiting reporter found the Sunday service a picture of harmony.

The minister, a small man with a large wisp of hair that fell over his eyes as he waved his arms in telling of "brotherly love," seemed to have forgotten that gossip and slander ever dwelt in his little flock.

His wife sat in the congregation and from every pew came a cheerful nod as her smiling eyes swept the church.

"Let each of us shake hands," said the minister after the benediction. He hurried to the church door to grasp the hands of his flock.

"I am glad to see you, my friend; come again," he smiled at the reporter who had attended his church.

SPIKES GETS JUDGMENT FOR $17,500

"A small Penalty in comparison with the damage done"

But to wipe the book, and vindicate their name and reputation, was the main object of the suits, money being the smallest consideration.

FRIENDS—

No one knows better than I, that a "friend in need is a friend indeed." I should indeed be ungrateful should I fail to thank from the depths of my heart, those many FRIENDS of myself and my family who voluntarily, without MONEY and WITHOUT PRICE assisted myself and my loved ones in our time of need. It makes our hearts glad to know that in spite of the powerful organization which was fighting us, more than a hundred and fifty good, reputable citizens of the South Plains of Texas and Eastern New Mexico took the witness stand in my behalf, and as many more were ready and willing to testify to the innocence of myself and my brothers of the things which were charged against us. I greatly appreciate the aid and comfort which they gave us. Words are inadequate to express the GRATITUDE AND LOVE in our hearts for all such FRIENDS.

The suits in question have been settled by compromise, under the terms of which the defendants have agreed that they will not further republish, sell or distribute the book without eliminating therefrom all reference to the Spikes family. This was the end for which we fought, and we count its accomplishment a great VICTORY, and one which we could never have attained without the moral support and voluntary assistance of our many LOYAL FRIENDS.

Again thanking all our friends, and asking God's blessings and guidance for you through the remainder of your lives, we are very truly, your friends.

Cotton — Cotton Trading Is Less Active

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26. (AP)—Trading in cotton was decidedly dull in today's short session. Prices fluctuated narrowly and the market appeared to be without any moving incentive one way or another.

Although Liverpool came in worse than due, the market here opened slightly higher. This course probably was due to considerable straddle operations between the markets. Later the market eased off moderately on hedge selling and week-end liquidation losing 6 to 7 points from the highs.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Trading in cotton was less active today with prices generally lower under further hedging, combined with liquidation and some selling supposed to be for continental account. December, after selling at 6.38 early or 3 points above Friday's closing quotation, broke to 6.24 and closed at 6.25. The final tone of the market was steady with prices net 7 to 16 points lower.

Recent evidences of increased offerings in the south were mentioned in connection with some selling here. Spot sales have been increasing quite substantially and this has been reflected by increased hedging. With the demand less active, the market seemed a little more sensitive to selling orders at the end of the week.

18 triples. Following Simmons and Ruth in the "first ten regulars" were: Morgan, Cleveland, .350; Cochrane, Philadelphia, .348; Gehrig, New York, .340; Webb, Boston, .336; Goslin, St. Louis, .336; West, Washington, .335; Averill, Cleveland, .333, and Alexander, Detroit, 331.

Cleveland's batting pace was slowed down, but the Indians lew-New York by one point, .297 to .296. Washington and Philadelphia remained tied in team fielding at .976, the same figure as last week, while the St. Louis Browns were in front in double-plays with 156. Chicago had accomplished two triple plays, and New York, Detroit and St. Louis were credited with one triple killing each.

Four pitchers had reached or passed the 20-victory mark. George Earnshaw of the A's and Wesley Ferrell of Cleveland had 21 each, the former having lost seven and the Indian star having dropped 12 decisions. Vernon Gomez, the young Yankee southpaw, and Rube Walberg, the other Philadelphia left-hander, had won 20 games each, with Gomez losing nine, and Walberg 12. Grove had 189 strikeouts for another leadership.

yet devised, Mike Levee, treasurer of the fund, pointed out today that few stars ever have given more than $400 or $500 a year. If the high salaried players, those in the $5,000 to $10,000 a week bracket, multiply one-half of one per cent of their weekly pay check by 52, they may conclude the assessment idea is too expensive.

Since the fund was organized in 1924, money to help needy actors and others in the industry has been raised by subscription.

Drives, benefit performances and other money-extracting efforts have not brought in the necessary $100,000 a year.

Financial Markets Assume Dignity And Round Out Week Less Excited

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (AP)—Financial markets conducted themselves with better dignity today, rounding out a most trying week in a much less excited frame of mind.

Stocks closed heavy but except for a few specialties net losses were moderate and seemed to reflect realizing sales. Bonds made irregularly lower levels. Bar silver indicated that speculative activity had been chiefly responsible for its rise, losing most of the week's gain under profit-taking in very active trading. Sterling exchange firmed encouragingly and the London stock market, now on a cash basis, steadied.

Share quotations here opened nominally lower but quickly followed a rally by the metals. The advance lasted an hour when reactionary tendencies, most pronounced in Coca Cola and Eastman, brought a general scaling down. The net loss averaged a point and a half, which was slightly less than the extent of Friday's gain.

the people a chance to express their will on prohibition.

Dispute Is Strong

Dispute on this already is strong. From dry ranks have come attacks on the action and on the Legionnaires themselves. Opponents of the national liquor laws have been stirred to a new pitch of activity.

Only today Senators Couzens of Michigan and Bingham of Connecticut, both Republicans, added their views to those from congressional quarters.

Mr. Couzens at Detroit said if seven years were set as a limit in which states might act on an amendment to the eighteenth amendment, three-fourths might agree to repeal. If the time were shorter, he is sure three-fourths could not be so induced.

Bingham Delighted

"Delighted," was the way Mr. Bingham expressed his feeling on the Legion action. He predicted public opinion would be greatly influenced.

A strong administration backer, Bingham disclosed he intends to reintroduce his bill for four per cent beer. Like so many others, his eye is on 1932. He said:

"I believe it important to have a test on the question, even though the bill be defeated. We are confronted with an election, and I believe it highly desirable that members of congress should go on record."

The agriculture department is after data on what effect beer would have on the farmers' income, if any. Secretary Hyde disclosed the news this week, and in Kansas City today said he had done so prematurely.

Decisions Awaited

He has specified the information is not for President Hoover, but is being put together for himself as a result of his having been asked for it from time to time by outside sources.

Many congressmen are waiting for the administration decision as to taxes which has been promised within six weeks. Secretary Mellon favors broadening the tax base. Senator Watson, who heads the senate Republicans, is against any new taxation at this time.

The political lineups are so unusually close in both house and senate that the members will have organization difficulties to overcome even before they can get down to work. This is especially true of the house.

What bearing the industrial trend to lower wages will have on the political situation, if any, is being watched.

ROSWELL, N. M., Sept. 26. (AP)—The body of Lee Bandy, 56, who was unmarried and lived alone on a farm near Roswell, was found hanging from a rafter of his barn today. The coroner's verdict was suicide.

During the forenoon Bandy milked his cows, spent several hours working in a grain field, and dressed a chicken for Sunday dinner.

Livestock

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—Cattle trade around this week was featured by an improved demand for most all killing classes. Factors influencing higher prices were moderate receipts and an improved tone in the dressed beef trade. Fed steers and yearlings were 25-50 higher while slaughter grades of she stock ruled firm to 50 higher. Chicago closed with a 25 decline on western grass steers but other points reported prices to be as much as 25 higher. Chicago had a top of 10.20 on heavy steers and realized 10.15 on yearling steers. Receipts were around 214,000.

Fat lambs lagged to new low levels Monday but a reaction later left values 10-25 higher than last week's close. Chicago had a top of 7.25 on choice range lambs. Mature killing sheep were steady to 25 higher. Supplies approximated 136,000.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26. (AP) — Hogs: 100, steady; good to choice medium truck hogs up to 5.75; heavy truck hogs to 5.30; no rail hogs.

Cattle: 350,80 calves; nominal; for week: slaughter steers steady, spots slightly lower; slaughter yearlings steady to strong, spots 15 to 25c higher; fat cows and butchers about 25c higher, bulls unchanged; stock calves 25c or more lower, stock cattle steady; slaughter calves mostly steady. Week's tops: fed steers 6.35; fed yearlings 6.50; fat cows 3.25; good stock steer calves 5.00; heavy slaughter calves 5.75. Bulk prices: fed steers 5.00@7.25; grassers 4.00@5.15, better fat yearlings 7.00@8.15; butcher heifers 3.50@5.00; fat cows 2.65@3.00; butcher grades 2.25@2.60; bulls 1.75@2.25; stock calves 4.00@5.00; heavy slaughter calves 4.25@5.00.

in oil under the river that would be drained by adjoining wells unless the state either leased or developed them itself.

Development Contested

Development of the Sabine river bed was vigorously contested by the East Texas delegation on the contention it would endanger the water supply of Longview.

The senate was under call more than an hour while sergeants-at-arms scoured the city in search of absentees.

Adverse action was taken today by the senate state affairs committee on a bill to permit independent operators to market crude petroleum cooperatively submitted by Governor R. S. Sterling in a special message, the bill was voted out unfavorably 9 to 3. No notice of minority report was given and the bill was regarded as a dead issue.

The bill would have permitted independent oil producers to cooperate in oil marketing without fear of prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

Companies Denied

It was drafted along the lines of the agricultural cooperative marketing act and would have denied companies with a stock of more than $2,000,000 the right to take advantage of its provisions.

Opponents of the bill said they feared it would start a breakdown of the anti-trust laws that prohibit agreements in restraint of trade.

With the date for sine die adjournment set for Tuesday, the legislature today passed several local bills and other bills of minor importance.

The house adjourned at noon until Monday but the senate stayed on to debate the river bed lease bill.

Purl opposed the Rawlings amendment directing the state to do its own drilling but voted for it when the bill was up for engrossment saying he hoped to have it further amended in the house.

The import of one section of the original Purl bill was questioned by Senator W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales. Hopkins said he believed the section might be construed as providing for relinquishment of the state's rights in the river beds. Hopkins had an amendment prepared to strike this section from the Purl bill but withdrew it when the Rawlings substitute was adopted.

other such journey. It was hoped this method would check the spread of epidemic diseases in the flood area, many parts of which are inaccessible save by air.

Wonder At Plane

Hinghwa was the first halting place.

Most of the people in the mob never had seen a plane before, and some regarded the machine as some miraculous intercession. In the midst of the clamor there arose the cries of women and children, and prayers which may have been thanksgiving. Hundreds of hands stretched for the packages visible. The mob paddled to the plane in sampans, tubs, anything floatable, and threatened to sink or at least damage the plane.

Dr. Liu, the only one of the party speaking Chinese, tried to explain the mission of the plane, but his voice was lost in the din.

Grain — Prices On Grain Dropping Down

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Sept. 26. (AP)—Fairly good demand for all commodities continued to the week-end on the cash grain market. Exporters were bidding 47@48c for that grain delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carlots delivered Texas Gulf ports or group three points, freight paid:

Wheat: No. 1 ordinary hard milling 48 1-2@49 1-2; No. 1 hard 13 per cent protein 50@51; 14 per cent 54@56; 15 per cent 58@60; 16 per cent 60 1-2@62 1-2.

Corn: No. 3 mixed 40@41; No. 3 white 41@42; No. 2 yellow 47@48 1-2.

Barley: No. 2, 37@40.

Sorghums: No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 67@68; No. 2 kaffir 70@72.

Basis delivered Texas group three points: Oats No. 2 33 1-2@34 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Balked by dearth of export demand for United States wheat, prices of all grains showed a general downward trend today. The fact Canada found an overseas outlet for 750,000 bushels of wheat accentuated bearish sentiments and led to sales by spreaders here against purchases at Winnipeg. Bulls failed to make headway toward rallies which had as chief support a belief that deflation in money would bring about inflation of commodity prices and that this in turn would result in better general business.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 1-8 cent lower, corn 3-8 to 1 1-4 down, oats at 1-4 to 3-8 decline to 1-4 advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to 10 cents gain.

"tented city" completed before night. Some out of town exhibits will arrive and be put into place today. Others will be completed early Monday morning.

Women Are Busy

Crowds of Women, with their arms filled with articles for the exhibits, milled around in the woman's building all Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Hub Jones and her various assistants were kept busy throughout the day. At 4 p. m., the "zero hour" in the women's department, the division apepared to have "gone over with a bang." Arranging and listing the exhibits was to have been completed last night.

In the industrial building Lubbock concerns have been working for several days getting booths in shape for exhibition Space was all taken Saturday. The place will be completely transformed by Monday at 9 o'clock when the gates are thrown open to the crowd.

Coops Are Ready

Superintendent Aubrey Ashley has his coops all ready for receiving poultry. Arrangements are finished for receiving entries up to noon Monday. At that time the entries will close.

The machinery exhibit will be well housed this year. Much of the space has already been filled and local dealers are anticipating a good crowd.

Livestock barns are ready. The pens are all fixed and when the special train with animals from the Tri-State fair at Amarillo arrives early today there will be nothing lacking for the ease and comfort of the livestock. Record breaking entries are anticipated by Dr. I. E. Barr, general livestock superintendent, and his assistants.

Ground Staked Off

W. J. Kehoe, assistant general manager of the Dodson's World Fair shows, staked off the carnival grounds yesterday afternoon. He has 2,100 front feet of space and his shows need a minimum of 2,000 feet, he said. The special train from Amarillo is expected to arrive about 2 or 3 o'clock this afternoon over the Santa Fe.

Detraining will be at the Main street crossing. The wagons and shows will move directly to the ground and tents set up.

"Our prospects look better and better," Homer D. Grant, president, said last night. "I have had many personal assurances from people all over this section that the entire South Plains is coming here.

Cooperation Shown

The splendid spirit of cooperation accorded by the business men of Lubbock is a tribute to this city. Lubbock will be there on Lubbock day.

"We have had hearty responses from every one of the 61 towns and communities we have invited to the fair. Many towns are bringing a band. The football fans will be here to root for their respective teams and we believe we have the best all round attractions possible."

Forty thousand tickets for school children have been printed and distributed throughout the entire section. If any town and school has been forgotten, word should be sent to the fair association before Wednesday morning. Wednesday is school day.

Strickel Case Comes To City

Transfer Of Cochran Murder Case Will Be Made To City According To Announcement Made Saturday

The case of W. T. Strickel, charged with murdering Francisco Carasco, a Mexican, in Cochran county in December, 1929, has been transferred to Lubbock county for trial in 72nd district court, District Attorney Durwood Bradley announced Saturday.

Judge Homer L. Pharr, sitting on the bench in 72nd district court at Levelland last week, authorized the change in venue, from Hockley county to Lubbock county, upon the petition of both the state and defense.

Sentence Given

When tried in Cochran county on the charge, Strickel was found guilty and sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. He appealed the verdict to the state court of criminal appeals. The higher court reversed the decision and remanded the case for trial, stating in its judgment that the court had erred in h's charge to the jury. Strickel is now at liberty under $5,000 bond.

The case is scheduled for trial here during the November term of Judge Pharr's court.

In the previous trial Strickel pleaded self defense. He testified that the Mexican attacked him with a knife. Carasco was shot to death.

son, or both.

Two United States postoffice inspectors stations at Dallas developed the cases and filed complaints before Lee R. Smith, United States commissioner there. Venue was placed in Dallas county, optional choice of mailing place or place at which mail is received being permitted in such cases, United States Commissioner Lindsey explained.

Previously Charged

A United States district court grand jury at Dallas probably will consider the marriage insurance agency cases this week, the commissioner here said. The Hutsons, Parrish, Miss Robinson, and Turner, previously had been charged with lottery in the same investigation and were on bond to appear in federal court at Dallas, Monday.

Originating in Lubbock, the Lone Star agency utilized theater, newspaper, and direct mail advertising, and its momentary success was followed by mushroom appearance of similar organizations, eight of which operated here at one time. Advertisements once indicated more than 1,000 marriage insurance policies were in Lubbock alone.

Large Operations

When the lid was clamped on the Lonestar Star association in Texas last November, it was operating in 29 states, a postal inspector said.

Following their arrests on the original lottery charges, Parrish and Wayne Hutson described themselves as "victims of circumstances." They said their "aim was to help those who needed financial aid at the time of entering matrimony." The agency "had paid every policy owner a profit on his investment," they asserted, until opposition by a business bureau at Oklahoma City resulted in unfavorable publicity, which caused many people to drop their policies because they were afraid they would not get back money they had paid."

Turner was arrested Wednesday, Hankins and Merrill on Thursday, Harris on Saturday morning, and the Hutsons, Parrish, and Miss Robinson voluntarily surrendered Saturday morning at Commissioner Lindsey's office here. All arrests were made here by J. P. Edgar, deputy United States marshal.

Further reverberations of matrimonial agency operations were expected here, authorities intimated.

THREE ARE HELD

DALLAS, Sept. 26. (AP) — Lee R. Smith, United States commissioner, today held Earl Ragland, W. A. Bell and C. G. Earman under $1,000 bond each on charges of conspiring to conduct a lottery through the mails.

Charges were filed in connection with the operation of a marriage insurance company.

Three other persons were placed under bond in this case earlier in the week and 30 others are sought on similar charges.

The negro woman is believed to have suffered internal injuries in addition to her other wounds.

Returning To Farm

Sudduth said he and the negroes were returning to his farm when the accident occurred early last night. Fuller and the Mills woman were picking cotton on his place. A glaring light and a poorly guarded bridge were blamed by Sudduth for the accident. The lights of an approaching automobile blinded him so that he could not see the sides of the culvert, he said. The automobile in which the three were riding did not overturn, although the right front wheel went over the side of the bridge. Fuller, the most severely injured, was riding in the rear seat. He was thrown out of the machine. The negro woman was riding in the front seat with Sudduth.

Fred Pain, 38, a sheet metal worker of Levelland, suffered spinal injuries late Saturday afternoon when he fell from the top of a gin, at Pettit, 46 miles west of Lubbock, to the press floor. Pain was aiding in erecting the new gin. Physicians first believed he suffered a broken back, but X-ray pictures showed that the spinal column had not been fractured. Although Pain will be unable to leave his bed for several days, doctors expressed the belief that he was not seriously injured.

Various Attractions Will Be Offered By Carnival Shows During Fair Here

Dodson's Shows Will Present Numerous Features Here

Rightfully termed a "World Fair" show, because the exhibits and actors come from the four quarters of the globe, Dodson's World Fair shows, chief carnival attraction at the eighteenth annual Panhandle-South Plains fair here this week, is expected to draw huge crowds.

The show men and women are traveled, experienced and above all loyal to their profession. From the midgets to the fat men, the group represents a cross section of American life that could hardly be assembled under any other conditions.

Offer 16 Rides

There are three groups of side show attractions, instead of the usual one or two, found in a carnival. Besides the 30 shows and performances there are 16 rides of all kinds, some of them new to this part of the state.

Pete Kortes has assembled an unusual group of performers. These include: Barney Nelson, a negro artist who without hands, draws crayon pictures of people; Captain John Lee, a member of the B. P. O. E. 31 inches tall and weighing 46 pounds, known as the "smallest Elk in the world;" an Aztec woman, about 38 years old who, because of her palate is unable to speak English but who understands it; "Bloote-Bloote" the "Will Rogers of midget land" and a rope artist of merit "Hoopie" contortionist by nature, who does fancy trapege work.

"Doc," a Great Dane, weighing 178 pounds and with the "longest" dogs tail in the world," is larger than a Shetland pony, his pal and co-partner in the act, is in one show. John Ruel has a flea circus and the Dixieland Minstrel has as its chief attraction Charles Anderson a yodler. There are 20 in this minstreal show.

The Lorow's have another good side show. This family, consisting of the father, a glass blower by profession, and seven children, has a good group, called the "Paalce of Wonders." There is "Maxine the mind reader," a half man and half woman, the "girl with the impenetrable body"; Aubrey Devine, a "four legged girl," "Con Kennedy Lorow" the world's youngest cowboy. One of the Lorow boys is a trap drummer who won first place at Toronto on competition with famous drummers.

Unusual Presented

"The Unborn" is something out of the ordinary in a show of this kind. It depicts with actual, former living organisms, human life from a week after conception to birth. Mrs. Mabelle Kidder, the lecturer and a woman of experience in the show business, says she has never seen the like of this before. The owner, Dr. Dufour, of New York City, has 17 other shows like the one here, going the rounds. It took him 11 years to assemble his first show. Animal life also is depicted in the same show.

There is a "society circus" with a string of good riders and horses; a "crazy house that needs no description, a "vampire show" with lots of snakes, an athletic arena with wrestlers, etc., and a motorcycle arena with Billie Hughes as the star rider.

"Dodson's Side show" is an assembly of artists. Sailor Harris, a tatto artist has letters tattooed on his lips and the Lord's prayer on his back. Gandi, a young East Indian, is a snake charmer who watches a white rock python. This python is just shedding. It is over 300 years old, 36 feet, five inches long and weighs nearly 550 pounds. The python can and does swallow anything up to 15 or 20 pounds in weight according to B. F. Wilson, superintendent. The Kumpels, Robert the father and Henry the son, with several others, represent the fat troupe. Robert and Henry box. A mother and her son, Igorrotes from the Phillippines, are dog eaters. Harry Dale a Texan and a former flyer, is the inside lecturer. Harry was the first Texan to complete his flying training, it is said. He flew from Duncan field to New York for the first time. Andy Walker, a strong man, is another attraction.

Indian Is Sculptor

Chief Nabor Felix, a pure Peublo, head medicine man of his tribe, deftly builds clay into all kinds of small busts while you wait. Chief Nabor has been traveling for 26 years and has been in nearly every civilized country on the globe. He has friends in Africa, Australia, China, Japan, Indian, all over the continent and over the Americas. When he quits the road at the end of the season he goes to his home in San Diego, Calif., for the winter.

In Amarillo last week the chief inducted Gene Howe of the Amarillo Globe-News and Ed Howe, Atcheson, Kas., into the tribe, in appropriate ceremonies.

Children of show attend school during the day, with a college man in charge and with competent assistants who are qualified teachers. Rev. Doc Waddell, a member of the Ohio conference of the M. E. church is with the show as press agent and chaplain. He gives personal attention to the spiritual needs of the actors, visits them when they are in a hospital, holds church services and acts as pastor to a congregation of 600 people.

Both the owners, C. G. and Melvin, San Antonio, give their personal attention to the show all during the season, traveling with it, directing its policies and courses, supervising the shows and selecting the personnel. W. J. Kehoe is assistant general manager and John Hoffman is auditor and treasurer.

In Amarillo last week the show has played to capacity crowds during the entire time. Thousands of people daily visited the carnival ground and went through the shows.

This week the show will be located inside the Panhandle-South Plains fair grounds. The full staff of executives will be with the show beginning today on its arrival.

Fisher Sisters With Fair Carnival

The Fisher sisters, shown above, will present a burlesque revue on the midway of the Dodson's World's Fair shows, during the Panhandle-South Plains fair here this week. The sisters travel in a "home palace on wheels", with sleeping quarters, living room, kitchenette, lavatory, shower bath, electric fans and all modern conveniences. The shows will arrive today in two trains and about fifty automobiles.

Possible To Find Most Anything

Men Are More Careless Than Women When Checking Out Of Hotels, Managers Say; Many Bottles Left Behind.

MEN ARE more careless than women when it comes to leaving personal belongings in hotel rooms when checking out, officials of the Lubbock and Hilton hotels were of the opinion Saturday.

Of all of the articles unintentionally left in rooms, shaving brushes and razor strops head the list, they said. C. A. Sheffield, manager of Hotel Lubbock, said about 50 shaving brushes were salvaged by maids at his hotel every month. L. M. Drown, manager of the Hilton hotel, said that brushes also led the list at the Hilton.

"Almost all kinds of shaving equipment and toilet articles are found in the rooms after guests leave," Mr. Drown said. "Many persons, especially men, forget to look in the bathrooms when they are packing and for that reason, most of the salvaged articles are found there and in closets. Desk and dresser drawers also yield their part of forgotten articles," he said. "Maids often find valuable papers and letters in those places. Many letters and papers have the appearance of being important matter and are saved, but usually maids, when finding such articles take it for granted that they are of no further use, or they would not have been left behind."

Both of the hotel managers agreed that hotel guests as a rule are very careful of their jewelry. Very seldom is a watch, ring or stickpin left behind. Such articles, however, are usually discovered and returned to their owners, it was said.

In addition to shaving equipment, other articles commonly forgotten in packing are cosmetics, pajamas, night gowns, bedroom slippers, extra suits of clothing and brief cases.

But there is another side of the question — there are many articles intentionally left in the rooms, persons employed in cleaning the quarters will tell you.

Bottles—brown, green and white—are by far the leaders in this division, an employe of one of the hotels said. Most of the glassware consists of ginger ale, whisky and gin bottles, it was said. Very few homebrew containers are found. The reason given for this is that it is hard to carry enough of the bottles into the hotel for the necessary kick without being noticed. While several bottles are left in some of the rooms every day, baskets are needed to carry these articles to the basements the day after some kind of special meeting or convention is held in the city, it was said.

No-Bill Returned In Shooting Case

C. R. Foreman, of Spur, charged with the murder of J. N. Edmonson, 31-year-old automobile mechanic, last April 18, was no-billed by the Dickens county grand jury recently, Sheriff Will Arthur of Dickens said Saturday while in Lubbock.

Edmonson was at liberty under $1,000, in connection with the death of Miss Elsie Foreman, daughter of C. R. Foreman, when he was shot. Miss Foreman died at a Crosbyton hotel, Sunday, April 12, where she and Edmonson were alleged to have been registered as man and wife. While the cause of the young woman's death was not fully determined, Edmonson told officers that he and his companion had drunk some whisky Saturday night before her death. No marks of violence were found on her body, officers said.

Two days after Edmonson returned to Spur following the death of the young woman, he and the girl's father met at a garage where Edmonson was working. Foreman is alleged to have shot the man after a long talk. While in a Spur sanitarium, Edmonson is alleged to have hastened his death by drinking some rubbing alcohol while nurses were out of his room. He had written a note stating that he did not kill the girl. He also said that Foreman was not responsible for his death. Edmonson was shot in the abdomen.

Movement Of Grain Sorghums Has Started In Territory

Movement of threshed grain sorghum in this territory has already started, according to R. R. Stuard, federal grain inspector here. Inspections of several carloads of grain were made the past week.

"The grain is the best I've ever seen," Mr. Stuard said. He said only one car out of fifteen carloads of yellow milo failed to test strict number 1 grade.

Texas Tech Band To Hold Try-Out

Try-outs for places in the Texas Technological college Matador band, of which Harry LeMaire is director, will be held next Friday morning, officials of the musical organization announced Saturday.

Rehearsals will be held every morning at 7 o'clock pending the tests. Forty persons will be selected for membership in the musical organization. About 60 musicians attended the early morning rehersals last week. Mr. LeMaire yesterday invited all new students who have their own instruments and desire to try out for for the band to attend the practice session this week.

One of the first important assignments of the Matador band will be engagement at the State Fair at Dallas, October 12 and 13. The band last week attended the Tri-State fair at Amarillo. While there the Lubbock organization broadcast over radio station WDAG.

Early prospects indicate that Tech this season will have one of the best bands in its history, Director LeMaire said.

Camp Fire Girls And Visitors Frolic At Feast Friday Night

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

DISCIPLINE

A DIRECTOR of religious education said to me the other day that he was distressed about the problem of conduct in the Sunday school.

Over and over again we have heard it said that with the proper kind of teaching in the Sunday school there would be no discipline problem. I think I have practically said so in this column. I recant.

Although trained teachers for the Sunday school would greatly improve child behavior there some children who are sent to Sunday school would not respond well to the best methods of teaching. They had never learned the alphabet of restraint at home.

As the gentleman referred to said, "Some of the children seem to have no regard for property; they shamefully abuse the furniture, hymnals, and even the Bibles. If any effort is exercised to restrain them they may be found to be sons of some of the officials of the church."

If my observations are correct, the young roughnecks of Sunday school are more often found in the churches of the well-to-do communities than in those of communities of lower economic levels, and all too often the offender is a child of some church pillar.

Whether he is or not, the problem of the boy who has little or no regard for property or others' rights often is a nuisance in the Sunday school. Such a lad may receive at Sunday school more bad than good training, since he there can enjoy being a social nuisance, even interrupting public worship. If he comes from a favored home he would do less harm to others and himself if he stayed home and limited his destruction and annoying activities to his own house and playground. His parents should not burden the Sunday school with him.

For the welfare of society it is too bad that such a child had not in earlier years learned some basic inhibitions.

Incidentally some wholesome early restraints are essential to effectual religious education. The child who, while grace is said at the table, does not

End Prayer Week In Local Society

The closing program in a prayer week series on state mission sponsored by the Baptist churches, was conducted Friday afternoon at the First Baptist church.

Tech Students To Be Greeted By Town Folk

Baptists, Nazarenes Are At Home To Students During Week-End; Open Houses To Be This Evening

BY MARGARET TURNER
Of The Woman's Staff

THE arrival of hundreds of college students in the city within the last few days has been the inspiration for a number of annual receptions and open houses given by the churches. After scheduling the yearly reception date for Friday night, many churches of the city postponed it because of the football game at the Matador field. Las Leales club, a social organization on the campus, is holding an annual reception for all freshment girls this afternoon from 3 until 5 o'clock.

Miss Pearl Harrison, president of Las Leales club, has planned a musical program for the reception which will be in the parlors of College Inn. The affair is informal and is held in order that the students may get acquainted with each other.

To Meet On Lawn

Students who attend St. Paul's Episcopal church are to gather on the lawn this afternoon at 5 o'clock for an informal two hours. Light refreshments are to be served and there will be no set program. Mrs. Roscoe Wilson is in charge of the meeting.

Later the group is to attend union services at the gymnasium of Texas Technological college.

Miss Margie Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hartley are to be in charge of the open house at First Christian church this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Following an informal program, a discussion is to be conducted.

The main purpose of the affair is to give college students an opportunity to meet other young people of the city, according to Rev. W. F. Jennings, pastor.

Other young people of the congregation will join college students in an open house at First Methodist church parlors this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Special features for the program include songs by a negro quartet from Abilene, orchestral music, group singing and accordion numbers by Mrs. H. W. Wylie.

A vesper service is to precede the league hour. Miss Ella May Lyle will preside for this time and the

Skirt Fullness Is Mark Of New Fall Dresses In Paris

Plaid livens the skirt . . . of this Jane Regny country ensemble.

Dress Lengths Little Changed In Late Fashions

BY JEAN PATOU
Written for NEA Service

PARIS, Sept. 26.—If you stop to analyze the mode you will invariably find that there are some features liable to increase or decrease in importance from one season to another or even in the course of a few weeks.

The most important point in fashions this season is unquestionably that of skirt fullness. This question of fullness in dress, its volume and distribution has always been a matter of considerable study to any fashion creator.

Skirt Fullness Equalized

Hitherto most of the interest and attention was centered on where the waistline would be placed and the skirt length. Both these features are more or less out of the picture in the new winter styles, having undergone a process of stabilization. There being no drastic change to record in this direction, it might be deducted that the new offerings are lacking in new ideas, but I think there is a sufficient number to place on record to make last season's creations completely out of date.

The old theme of a form-fitted, more or less elongated hip yoke, with the fullness introduced around the knees, seems to have been pretty generally abandoned in favor of the new formula of a more equalized distribution of fullness.

Practically all the gowns in my winter collection have a shallow hip yoke or are cut in such a fashion that the fullness starts just below the hipline. I have avoided excessive fullness, as well as all "sudden" flaring effects, preserving a moulded hipline gently increasing in width towards the hem.

This skirt formula evidently could not be combined with the form-fitted, somewhat scanty bodices seen on the sheath type of dress. The new bodices are therefore a little fuller and generally more supple in effect.

Skirting Shoe-tops

So far as evening styles go, I believe we are entering a period of simplified dress for ordinary wear. Most of the evening gowns in my collection show a regular, even hem all around, reaching just below the ankle and leaving the top of the shoe uncovered. I have come to the conclusion that this formula finds favor with nearly all women. Obviously it is by far the most practical length for an evening dress and suitable to nearly all circumstances.

Of course, the sumptuous evening ensemble will continue to figure in the smart woman's wardrobe. These, however, are meant to play a very definite part and although certain features enhancing their formality will be brought into play, you will still find they have been created on the same theme as the more informal models.

Simplicity is dominant . . . in this white georgette gown by Patou.

Satin in Patou's new Persian green . . . fashions a formal gown.

Older Women Choose Eugenie Hats; Flappers Turn Up Noses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—"They're so becoming," say the American women.

"Oh, no," retort the wives of foreign diplomatic.

"They make me look old," chimes in the flapper.

And that is what women of the capital think of Eugenie hats. But despite the divergence of opinion the new fall hats have captured the capital.

In fact congressmen's wives and other Americans have "fallen" so hard for them that millinery shops hardly are able to keep up with the demand.

Not in 15 years has a hat style received such unanimous approval, say Washington shopkeepers.

It seems that older women are doing most of the buying. Strange to say, the pert young flapper pouts disconsolately before the mirror when she tries on one of the "Eugenies."

The deviations of the foreign women and the flappers from the line of joyous buyers is one of surprises of the season.

At first glance the Eugenie seemed made for the young girl. It appeared a foregone conclusion that European women would fancy them. About the middle aged American women there was doubt. But now the latter leads the fashion parade.

Quotes Miss McClench

Mrs. Doak gave a report on the address made by the national president of business and professional women, Miss Marion H. McClench, at the national B. and P. W. clubs convention in Richmond, Va., this summer. This talk reviewed the accomplishments of the club during the last 10 years and predicted other accomplishments for the coming decade. She quoted Miss McClench as saying "The federation should lose no time in launching a comprehensive program of education as to the principles underlying economic conditions, though, as in

No Culture Clubs Will Have Regular Meetings During This Week; Few Societies Will Meet

Meetings of culture clubs in Lubbock this coming week are conspicuous for their absence. However, days will be filled with other events and with activities coincident with the Panhandle-South Plains fair. For many women of the city are kept busy during fair week assisting on the grounds or attending.

The lack of study club meetings is explained by the occurrence of a fifth Tuesday and a fifth Wednesday when no regular meetings are scheduled. First Thursday is the date for few affairs.

There is no change in Monday meetings as this is regular fourth Monday of the month and church societies will have gatherings as usual. A calendar of events for the week follows:

Perishables To Be Entered On Monday Morn

Directors Pleased With The Exhibit For This Year In Fair Women's Department; Judging Goes On

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Woman's Editor

VISITORS to the women's building at the Panhandle-South Plains fair this week will be greeted by a full display in the women's building.

Jars of fruits and vegetables are lined along shelves in the culinary divison awaiting the scrutiny of many women who have been filling their pantry shelves during the summer months. Quilts, embroideries, fancy and plain sewing have been entered in the textile department. Paintings, curios, antiques, flowers and other exhibits fill shelves and cases in this building making this show as full as any in the past.

Exhibits in the women's home demonstration and 4-H clubs' department were entered early this year and judged before entries were completed in other divisions.

Many At Grounds

Many people were at the fair grounds on Saturday making entries in the anual show. The women's building was visited by hundreds during the day, although the majority of the articles came in during the afternoon hours. Some exhibits came in on Friday afternoon when the building was first opened to local people.

There are many new things in the curio and antique division this fall. Old weapons, old and odd pieces of china and glassware, ancient coverlets, a souvenir spoon collection, the signal lamp from an old train, some prints from a past generation, family Bibles and interesting costumes.

Quilts are expected to hold much of the interest in the textile department. Unusual interest has been aroused during the last few months in quilt making and women have made many beautiful covers during the last few months. Some of the most attractive of these have been displayed for this annual show.

One new thing in the women's building for this year is a Camp Fire girls' booth in the north end of the house.

Judging in the women's division followed the closing of entries Saturday afternoon late. As that was completed, the articles were arranged on shelves and in cases and further arranging is to be completed in time for the opening of the fair Monday morning.

May Yet Enter

More entries are expected in the morning as perishables, bread, cakes and cut flowers will be received until 1 o'clock. Judging on these things will take place Monday.

Potted plants and all canned goods were entered Saturday and will no longer be received to compete for premiums.

Mrs. Hub Jones, director of the women's division, expressed pleasure Saturday on the exhibits that had been received in this section. With other helpers in the department, she spent Friday and Saturday at the fair grounds receiving entries and preparing for the opening of the show Monday morning. Entry books for the perishable articles will open at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Assistant directors in the women's department are Mrs. J. S. Johnson, Mrs. George A. Simmons and Mrs. Roger Q. Pierce. Divisional superintendents include the following: Textile, Mrs. Thomas West; culinary, Mrs. A. T. Biggers; Girls' club and Women's Home Demonstration clubs, Miss Ruth Stockton; plants and cut flowers, Mrs. W. O. Stevens; art, Miss Delia Wilkinson; relics, curios and antiques, Mrs. W. F. Schenck. These women were assisted by a corps of workers in receiving and arranging the exhibits Friday and Saturday.

CONCERNING Lubbock and the South Plains, did you know that over a period of 37 years the average rainfall has been 19.87 inches per year, 75 per cent of which falls through the growing season.

That there are sixteen South Plains counties in the Lubbock trade territory with a population of more than 200,000, with only 25 percent of the tillable land under cultivation.

* * *

That the highest point in the Ozark mountains in Arkansas is lower in altitude than Lubbock. That the altitude here is 3,251 feet.

That 1,008 more poll tax receipts were issued in Lubbock county in 1928 than in any other county in the Panhandle.

* * *

That the Santa Fe train coming through Lubbock at 10 o'clock in the evening, between Amarillo and Sweetwater, is the fastest Texas train and the fastest train that the Santa Fe runs anywhere. That the train schedule calls for 41.1 miles per hour but with the 8 stops that the train makes, it runs a little more than 60 miles per hour on an average.

That there was a time when it was considered swanky in Lubbock to live over in the Betterton Row.

That one of the largest potash deposits in the world is located near Tahoka in Lynn county and that it is to be mined commercially. That there is another large deposit near Littlefield.

* * *

That the area of Lubbock city in 1929 was 3,840 acres.

That in February, 1876, a Mrs. Caroline K. Craig, Missouri widow, was patented a section of land by the State of Texas at 25 cents per acre. This plot, upon which the Technological college now stands, eventually brought some $50,000 to her heirs.

That Lubbock might have been known as Monteray instead of Lubbock as there were originally two towns started near here. With the compromising of the two factions, the name of Lubbock was chosen and Monteray was abandoned.

That the rattlesnake is the only venomous reptile in this section of the country.

That the Panhandle-South Plains fair is the second largest fair in Texas, being surpassed only by the State Fair at Dallas.

That the only cheese factory on the South Plains is the Struve factory at Abernathy.

That, although Texas Technological college has a textile department, the only commercial textile mills in the section are at Post.

That Lubbock, with a percentage gain in population of 408.8 between 1920 and 1930, showed the greatest growth of any town of its size in the United States.

The speaker, who is a member of the history department, Texas Technological college, has made an extensive study of the land problem in the United States. habitually exercise a reverent attitude, is learning not only to mock religion, but is learning to become a bad citizen. The child who habitually is a hoodlum in the Sunday school is getting even there good elementary training for crime.

Religious attitudes pre-suppose some self-restraints, and the absence of reasonable inhibition during religious exercises makes religious training for the offending child not only dangerous to his morals, but to the morals of the other children there.

I wish more of the pillars of the church were to be concerned about the conduct of their chips and splinters.

Day school teachers and Sunday school teachers would like to see more children taught in early years at home the A. B, C's of reasonable restraint. Neither should the public school or Sunday school have to play the place of a reformatory.

What do you think concerning it?

Program Plan For Gathering Here Outlined

Dr. Paul Horn, Mrs. Phebe Warner Are To Speak At Federated Club Meeting Here In November

Speakers and others who will have parts on the convention program for the Texas Federation of Women's clubs here November 9 to 12 are being booked, according to Mrs. William Dingus, local chairman of arrangements.

A first outline of the program was received by Mrs. Dingus this week from Mrs. R. F. Lindsey of Mount Pleasant, state president, and local numbers are being added.

Several speakers have been secured and others are to have parts on the program. Marvin Jones, congressman from Amarillo, is to talk on the first evening of the convention. On Wednesday evening, Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, is to be one of the speakers. This program, which will be on Armistice Day, is to be patriotic in nature. Another feature for that time will be singing by a massed chorus, which Miss Myrtle Dunn is to direct.

Mrs. Warner To Talk

Another convention speaker is to be Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude, club woman, writer and homemaker who is known throughout the nation and particularly in the Southwest.

Plans for the Texas dinner, which is expected to be one of the most elaborate events of the meeting, are taking shape, Mrs. Dingus states.

Numbers of inquiries are being received from club women of the state. The seventh district has reserved one floor of a local hotel and one floor has been reserved for women who are to come on a special train from Houston. Letters of invitation from the town of Lubbock are being sent to every federated club in the state by the chamber of commerce during the next few days.

The BOOK SURVEY

"Man's Own Show: Civilization" Is Iconoclastic Discourse Or. History

George A. Dorsey's Latest Book Is Opinionated

"MAN'S OWN SHOW: CIVILIZATION" is the late George A Dorsey's last word to the public that was so enthusiastic about "Why We Behave Like Human Beings." It is a kind of outline of history, somewhat after the Wells manner; a bulky book, running to nearly a thousand pages, opinionated and iconoclastic, telling us quite as much about its author as about the rise of civilization.

Dr. Dorsey went back to the beginnings; not, to be sure, to pre-Cambrian time, as Wells did, but back to the misty era of pre-history, when human beings were just beginning to rise above the level of beasts. And because he had a profound range of information, a lively curiosity and a disposition to question a great many supposed certainties, Dorsey made of "Man's Own Show" an uncommonly interesting book.

It is impossible to summarize a book of this kind briefly. The histories of a dozen ancient nations are reviewed, there are intelligent commentaries on a score of forgotten faiths and an infinite number of outworn social customs, and the "family tree" of modern ways of life and habits of thought is carefully traced. Despite the book's bulk you wonder, when you finish it, not that it is so long but that the author was able to get so much into so small a space.

Dr. Dorsey had very decided ideas, and he was not at all backward about defending them. His comments on the rise and influence of Christianity for instance, will not please the Fundamentalists. But—which is perhaps more important—they may jar a few readers into doing a little thinking. All in all, the book is a very welcome contribution.

It is published by Harper and Brothers.

Change Places

"TURNABOUT," by Thorne Smith, is an exceedingly funny book.

Thorne Smith, author of "Turnabout."

Smith uses a formula that seems to be all his own; he takes a set of ordinary people and situations and scrambles them by mixing in a little black magic.

For instance, he begins to write a typical novel of married life in the suburbs, and winds up by concocting a hilarious, impossible and very diverting farce.

He presents a husband and wife who are slightly fed up with marriage, each believing that the other has all the best of the bargain. They wish devoutly that they could change places—and then, lo and behold, they do! Retaining their own habits and viewpoints, they simply swap bodies, aided by a conniving Egyptian god who perches on the mantel.

What happens after that can be imagined. The story of their adventures is about as funny as anything I have seen all year, if not a little funner. It is also, now and then, somewhat improper, if that bothers you.

"Turnabout" is published by Doubleday, Doran.

In The Old Days

THE Southwest Press is reprinting "A Texas Ranger," by N. A. Jennings, and anyone who has a feeling for the color and romance of the old southwest should run and get a copy at once.

Jennings served with the Rangers half a century ago, when west Texas and the Mexican border made up one of the most lawless spots on the globe. His book—first printed in the late 'nineties—tells how the Rangers introduced law and order into that region, and to say that it is interesting is to put it very mildly.

His descriptions of the Rangers' exploits are good reporting. No sage-brush-plane romancer ever invented anything more exciting than the Rangers' "invasion" of Mexico, for instance, or their fight with the king of the cattle rustlers.

"A Texas Ranger" would make a fine book for boys.

Assorted Murders

FOR those who enjoy a nice, tasty murder now and then the fall list include the following:

"Death of an Editor," by Vernon Loder (Morrow). Somebody shot the editor; from the yacht, with a rifle, or closeup, with a revolver? Also, there was a Frenchman who got done in, and there was a very phony lady detective. Good reading, if a trifle complicated.

"Dancing Death," by Christopher Bush (Crime Club). Another of those fatal houseparties; casualties, a beautiful dancer, a young novelist and a very snooty maid. Good, straightaway mystery, with the imported clues given in advance just to make things more interesting. I think you'll like it.

"Suspicious Characters," by Dorothy L. Sayers (Brewer, Warren and Putnam). Lord Peter Whimsey finds out who bashed the artist on the head and dumped him into the Scotch burrrn. If you think you'd like a detective named Lord Peter Whimsey, hop to it, because it's a right good yarn otherwise.

"The Sound of Footsteps," by Leslie Ford (Crime Club). Somebody shoots an eminent jurist—with Washington bootlegging intrigue as a background. This is a competently done puzzler, with a pleasing little surprise on the final page.

We Can't Say 'They' Now!

ASIDE from a few finishing touches, to be applied early tomorrow morning, the Eighteenth Annual Panhandle-South Plains fair is ready for public view. Much work has been done; fair officials claim exhibits and amusements are of higher quality than ever before. The case, figuratively speaking, is ready to go to the jury.

"You" are the jury. In "your" hands rests the fate of this year's showing of one of the largest and finest regional expositions in the entire country. It's up to "you"—"you" can't pass the buck. What are "you" going to do about it?

The time has passed when we citizens of Lubbock and the South Plains can chat of the fair and its plans and use the word "they." We can no longer say "they" are doing this and "they" are doing that, because "they" are no longer "they", but instead, "you" and "we".

The people of the North Plains and of Amarillo, in their Tri-State fair, put their cards on the table and took the attendance pot—in their hand lay four aces.

Now it is very definitely up to us to produce a royal flush, if you follow the language of Mr. Hoyle; it's up to the people of the South Plains and Lubbock to do their job as well as our neighbors to the north did theirs.

Remember, only the game fish swim up-stream! It's no trick to keep on keeping on when there's no opposition, no reason for letting down.

Let's copy the game fish, in this, our fair.

Let's remember that success rests with "us" and not with "them" and make the fair's success the business of every man and woman the exposition serves!

Attend the fair! Go early and often!

WANT TO GIGGLE A LITTLE?

Most editorial pages are too dull, too serious, too stilted and ponderous. That's one reason why they're not as popular as they used to be.

A little laugh never hurt anybody. Try this over on your Adam's apple:

First haberdasher: I'd like to see some mayor present Gandhi with the key to the city.

Second haberdasher: Why?

First ditto: I'm curious to know whether he'd swallow it, or put it behind his ear!

Thursday's news wires told of a girl who swallowed a nail, was ordered to eat cotton by doctors. She did. The cotton saved her life.

There's an idea! Let's all eat a nail or two, go on a cotton diet and save the farmers!

Practical Health Problems

EXAMINATION AFTER CONFINEMENT

WOMEN call the doctor and engage him for their confinement earlier now than formerly, earlier in the city than in the country, earlier in the United States than most other countries. Numerous advantages arise from this, in that it may enable the doctor to learn the traits or constitution of his patient, watch for any symptoms of disease, and prepare her properly for the labor. It, therefore, should be encouraged in practice.

Many and varied questions will be asked of the doctor, and it will be convenient for the doctor to furnish each patient with a folder containing instructions for her or give her the necessary information for her to follow in conversation.

It is just as essential for the future well being of the patient, her baby and her family that she regain her normal status after confinement as it was to have a check made of herself during pregnancy to see that she was progressing in a normal course. To know that she has returned to normal in every way she should report to her physician six or eight weeks after confinement for a thorough physical examination. If any physical defect is revealed by this examination, which was brought about by the previous pregnancy and labor, exercises and treatment can be instituted to correct the existing defects and thus prevent probable untold suffering in years to come.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of articles being written for the editorial page of the Sunday Avalanche-Journal by members of the Lubbock County Medical society. Readers may write The Avalanche-Journal, requesting articles on certain subjects and may send in any health questions they seek to have answered.)

It is a very common thing to find an ulcerated condition on the mouth of the womb by examination at six or eight weeks after confinement. This, causes a mild to profuse discharge which is very annoying to the individual, and is very easily corrected if treated early and properly.

Malpositions, commonly called, "falling of the womb" and "tipping back of the womb" which we frequently find as the sole cause of backache, headache, discharge and menstrual disturbances later, can easily be corrected in most instances by exercises and womb supports. But if left alone will in time make an invalid out of the individual or require a major operation before relief can be secured.

The milk production may be altered or depleted because of some existing abnormality in the mother brought about as a result of pregnancy and labor. This may seriously handicap the growth or undermine the health of the baby, making it a fit subject for disease or infection, due solely to its weakened condition from mal-nourishment.

In event a mother does not nurse her baby the womb will not, in the majority of instances, return to normal size as quickly as it would otherwise. Hot douches, as prescribed by your physician, will aid involution or "returning to normal". As a result of the womb not returning to its normal size flooding may occur when menstruation returns.

Due to the pregnancy or excessive loss of blood at the time of confinement or both, a secondary anemia may exist, causing the patient to have no pep or endurance, and low blood pressure. She will feel languid and look pale, and would consequently have a low grade or shortage of milk or both. A good tonic and diet regulation at this time would suffice to meet the requirements. See your doctor within six to eight weeks after confinement.

Gelatin is a mass of holes, says a scientist. That would be some consolation if they could get the holes to match your tie.

The United States will stand pat on its Russian policy. No ski's for us this winter.

A Connecticut hospital has installed a golf course for its mental cases. Making them all bogeymen.

Prohibition notwithstanding, the St. Lawrence is still the most desirable waterway.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

For the law having a shadow of good things to come and not the very image of the things, can never with those sacrifices which they offered year by year continually make the comers thereunto perfect. —Hebrews, x. 1.

He's Opposing Hoover

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—In the 1932 Republican presidential activities of ex-Senator Joseph I. France of Mount Ararat farms, just outside Port Deposit, Maryland, there is more than meets the first glance of the eye.

Joseph France

Dr. France is spending considerable money on his pre-convention campaign, but he has no delusions as to his real prospects.

Anyway, he is not much deluded. Maybe he does think that he stands as much chance of being nominated as the holder of one ticket would stand to win the capital prize in a national lottery. Most folk probably would pronounce even that a delusion.

NEVERTHELESS, the ex-senator does not deceive himself at all badly.

For the general public's benefit he pretends, of course, to regard his candidacy for the G. O. P. nomination seriously, but he makes no such pretense among politicians, with whom he is well acquainted, and to whom he talks actual "turkey."

The fact is that he disapproves of President Hoover as few, if any, other folk disapprove of the Californian, and willingly spends his money, of which he has enough to enable him to spend a sizable sum without unduly pinching himself, in an effort to annoy the latter as thoroughly as possible.

IF, BY ANY FLUKE (simply supposing it, for the mere sake of argument), the doctor's forlorn hope of preventing Mr. Hoover from being named to succeed himself in the White House should be realized—why, then Dr. France would be in the position of a person who literally has won the capital prize in a national lottery with his single ticket.

And if (following up the aforesaid ridiculous supposition) Dr. France himself were to be struck by the presidential lightning—well, that also would be entirely satisfactory to him.

In the meantime Dr. France is having the fun of making things as disagreeable for the president as he can. Evidently he considers the show worth the price of admission.

THE EX-SENATOR'S SIZE UP of the situation is not uninteresting.

His idea is to get enough states to cast, each, its initial vote for some "favorite son", of its own to prevent Mr. Hoover from receiving a majority on that ballot, at the next G. O. P. convention.

And his theory is that, should this occur, anti-Hoover sentiment would be so crystallized and heartened as to keep the president from securing a majority on any subsequent ballot—the "favorite sons," instead, gradually eliminating one another by a succession of combinations among themselves, and the last survivor finally copping the nomination.

IT IS TRUE enough that Mr. Hoover has disappointed the progressive Republicans. Let him be renominated, as it is almost certain he will be, and most of them undoubtedlyy will support him again; most of them did in 1928.

For all that, they wish they could believe he will not be renominated.

They have suggested plenty of "favorite sons."

Senator Brookhart repeatedly has suggested Senator Norris of Nebraska—without any encouragement from Senator Norris, however, Senator Brookhart and various others have strongly suggested Senator Borah of Idaho—it is hard to tell with how much encouragement from Senator Borah. Young Senator Bob La Follette of Wisconsin has been suggested and so has his brother, young Gov. Phil La Follette. Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania has been suggested to the point of a veritable boom, for which he disavows responsibility but of which he gives no indication of being displeased.

SOME OF the progressive states, however, have not put forward "favorite sons" of their own and these are the ones ex-Senator France is devoting himself to.

He is suggesting his own name to them rather than have them left with no candidate other than Mr Hoover to vote for.

He is touring progressive territory, now, on this mission.

The doctor never has been notably a progressive, but, at that, he argues that he is more so than Mr. Hoover, and here and there a progressive is to be found who seems to agree with him.

YET IT IS not alone to the progressives that Dr. France is appealing.

It was no secret at Kansas City that a formidable contingent of very regular Republicans ardently objected to the Californian as their party's standard bearer and he by no means has won all of them over since then.

This group divides at present into two sub-groups.

Of these two groups, one takes the position that Mr. Hoover is bound to be renominated in spite of everything. The group's members say that they believe he will be beaten at the polls, indeed, but they express the opinion that it is as good a time as ever there will be for the G. O. P. to lose, inasmuch as it is their judgment that the depression will last at least four years more, and in 1936, they predict, the country will be ready to return to the Republican fold and stay there indefinitely.

On the opposite hand, the rival group's spokesmen forecast a revival of prosperity within a year or two, in which case, they point out, the Democrats, if in office, will get the credit for it, and heaven knows when the Republicans will get back.

GROUP NO 2 is the one ex-Senator France is endeavoring to enlist under his banner along with the progressives.

The doctor's theory is all right, but how many recruits will he get?

Another "Merger" Proposed!

GUILTY LIPS

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN — Author of "MAD MARRIAGE"

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pretty NORMA KENT, 20-year-old secretary in a law office, sees MARK TRAVERS for the first time when together they rescue a puppy from downtown traffic in Marlboro, middle-western metropolis. Norma declines to tell Travers her name or where he can see her again.

BOB FARRELL, young lawyer, asks Norma to marry him and she refuses, though she is fond of him as a friend. Norma takes the puppy to the shabby apartment she shares with CHRISTINE SAUNDERS. She fears Chris is falling in love with her married employer, BRADLEY HART, proprietor of an advertising agency. Norma inserts an advertisement about the puppy in a newspaper lost and found column and the first person to answer is Mark Travers. He tries to make a date but Norma declines his invitations. A small boy comes to claim the puppy and takes it home.

Norma goes for a drive with Bob Farrell and he tells her he is leaving Marlboro. Two days later she meets Travers on the street and goes to lunch with him. This is the beginning of a whirlwind courtship. Norma finds herself head-over-heels in love but thinks she must send Travers away because of some secret of the past. Chris declares if Norma loves Travers all else is unimportant.

Mark is invited to dinner at the apartment. Norma is there, making preparations when a caller arrives. He tells her he is Mark's father and demands her affair with his son shall end. In the midst of a heated speech Mark appears. Father and son quarrel. The elder Travers declares that if Mark marries Norma he will disown him. Chris arrives and Mark's father departs angrily. Mark begs Norma to marry him at once. After some hesitation she agrees. The couple drive to the town of Woodbury with Chris and Bradley Hart. Norma and Mark secure a license and are married. Then Mark takes his bride to the palatial Hotel Marlboro.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

THE glowing orb of molten gold stirred gently and moved to the right. Out of the sunlight it was not glowing metal at all but a mass of tangled and unruly curls. Norma shook her head and the bobbing tendril that had been obscuring the vision of her left eye fell back into place.

Curled up in the huge rose tapestry chair the girl seemed a tiny creature. She wore a negligee of blue. It was skimpily cut, made of cheap material but as gloriously azure as the heavens on a perfect July morning. A worn black satin mule flopped back from one bared foot. Norma's loose sleeves fell away almost to the shoulder, revealing arms of creamy whiteness. Like the rest of Norma's body the arms were exquisitely formed, slender but rounded.

She was smiling. Not at the young man across the room. His back was toward her. Norma smiled at the reflection in the mirror of the dressing table. It showed a young man, coatless, energetically brushing a shock of brown hair back from his forehead. He was an unusually good-looking youth even when he frowned, as he did just then, and threw down the brush to tug at his necktie. Suddenly he caught Norma's eyes watching him in the mirror. The frown became a grin. Mark whirled.

"See here, Mrs. Travers!" he said. "Do you call yourself a helpful wife? Sitting there taking my mind off everything I try to do! Can't even tie my tie decently! See here, what kind of conduct do you call that—"

In three strides he was across the room perched on the arm of Norma's chair and touseling her curls.

The girl laughed and tried to defend herself. A moment more and Mark had routed her from the chair, appropriated it himself. He held Norma, protesting gaily, in his arms and the game became a spirited contest. Much rubbing of blond curls the wrong way. It was exciting fun—half-play, half-endearment. Flushed and breathless, at last Mark claimed undisputed victory. At last he placed a long kiss squarely on the girl's lips.

Norma lay back and looked at him from beneath the dark fringes of her lashes.

"Look at your tie now," she suggested demurely.

It was worse—oh, so very much worse than it had been! Travers grimaced in mock dismay. He shook his head.

"So this is married life! Terrible—terrible!"

A little beyond reach stood the breakfast table. It had been abandoned some time since and was littered with crumpled napkins and soiled dishes. There were pink roses in a silver vase in the center of this disarray.

Norma drew herself away. "It really is terrible!" she agreed. "Goodness, it must be—why, look! —nearly 11 o'clock! Oh, Mark, think of all the things we should be doing! They won't have any idea at the office what's become of me. Mr. Brooks will be furious——"

"Let 'em worry. You're never going back there again."

"But, Mark, don't you think—"

A KNOCK at the door interrupted. It was the waiter who had come to take away the breakfast table. As he was leaving Mark took out his wallet and stuffed a bill into the man's hand. The waiter bowed, murmured thanks and departed.

Mark did not replace the wallet. Instead he opened it again, drew out a collection of coins and greenbacks and looked at them. A rueful smile spread over his face. He scratched his chin meditatively.

"There was exactly $96 in that wallet yesterday," he announced. "Ninety-six dollars." Suddenly the bright grin returned. "Madame!" he declared with dramatic eloquence, "with all my worldly goods I thee endow! Thirteen dollars and forty-five cents! Count 'em. Thirteen dollars!" He flung the contents of the purse into the girl's lap.

He was laughing and Norma laughed, too. This was evidently a joke. She gathered the money together.

"But you don't really mean it!" she protested. "Not—$96! You couldn't have spent all that in one day. Why it's more than three weeks' salary!"

Mark reversed the wallet, held it up, shaking it. "Must have spent it," he said. "It was here! You know," he went on, frowning as though in deep thought, "that's the queerest thing about money. I've thought of it before. Amazing thing! One moment you have it and the next it's gone. Have you ever noticed it?"

"Have I noticed it? Not oftener than every third day after pay day for the last three years! Ever since I've been working—"

Travers was not listening. With resolution he suddenly made for the coat draped on a chair across the room, thrust his arms into the sleeves and jerked a lapel into place. In a flash he had become businesslike.

The girl jumped to her feet.

"Where are you going?" she asked.

Mark came to her and put a hand on each of her shoulders. He smiled carelessly. "Promise to miss me horribly" he demanded. "Promise every minute I'm away will seem an hour! Will you do that?"

"Oh, but I don't want to be alone here, Mark! Can't I come, too?"

Apparently this was not to be thought of. It was absolutely essential for Mark Travers to depart alone. But he would not be gone long. There was business to attend to and as soon as it had been settled he would come hurrying back. Norma's chagrin at this turn of events did not seem to displease young Travers.

She tried once more to speak of the office where she had been due at 9:30. Mark scoffed.

"You're to stay here," he insisted. "Right here in this room! And honestly I won't be long. Why, darling, don't you realize this is the first day of our honeymoon? Don't think about jobs and offices. All that is past for you. You're Mrs. Mark Travers and a devil of a lucky guy your husband is! Well, he realizes it! Not much of a prize package perhaps. Just a dub, but he's managed to get himself the prettiest, cutest, sweetest little bride in all the world—!"

SOMEHOW it took much longer than might seem necessary for that farewell. It was thrilling to hear the ridiculous things Mark said. It was difficult for the youth to tear himself from blue eyes filled with adoration, from warm lips and soft arms that would restrain him.

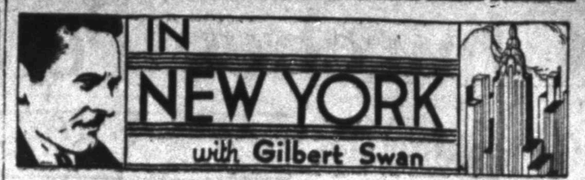

The door closed and Norma was alone. She could not even hear Mark's footsteps going down the carpeted hall. Desperately she wanted to call him back but what good would that do? He would

Side Glances —By George Clark

"Don't fuss at me—I argued till I was hoarse, trying to tell him this job ought to be done in apple green."

IN NEW YORK with Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—Notes scribbled on a convenient cuff. . . . Old Ironsides, majestically riding the upper Hudson, is a bigger hit than any Manhattan attraction.

More than 12,000 persons stand in line daily to get aboard. . . .

And that fellow, Bing Crosby, that the radio gents are propagandizing at the moment was ingeniously introduced to New York by a magician, Nicola who produced Crosby from a trunk. When the guest of honor had failed to arrive and the question of his whereabouts was raised, the "presto" gent volunteered to help; prepared some of his conjuring paraphernalia and, with the wave of a wand, out stepped Crosby. They think of more things in this man's town!

Saw Elsie Janis on Broadway for the first time since she disappeared into Hollywood. And they say that romance has finally come into her life. Broadway has it that her mother was the most watchful of all "stage mothers," guiding the famous mimic into a great career and away from all possible heart entanglements. Edna Ferber once wrote a grand tale called "Mother Knows Best" which was said at the time to have been inspired by the Janis stories.

Which reminds me—you know how Ethel Barrymore has "adored" the newspaper gentry of late! Well, of all the ironies: when her daughter, Ethel Barrymore Colt, finally decided to go on in a current revue she was cast as a female reporter!

There's more to that fistic encounter between George White, the producer, and Lew Brown, the song writer, than appeared in the public prints. It happened in the foyer on the opening night of "Scandals," with Brown heaving a mean fist at the jaw of the noted entrepreneur. To be sure, there had been an argument as to the percentage of receipts that Brown and Henderson, his musical collaborator, were to get. And they had tried an injunction on the eve of the opening. But what "burned up" the song writer was a report that both he and Henderson were not to be tolerated among the first night brigade. Henderson didn't go, and Brown did. Only to be told to "get away," according to the best information.

Enraged because he couldn't hear his own score played, the Tin Pan Alleyite slugged.

Oh yes—and my cuff reminds me to say something about those two Maine guides who came down to "help the cops clean out the crooks and gangsters." The tale goes that they hadn't been in town a day before some of the crooks they were going to get had lifted the rifle of one of the visitors. The stunt, by the way, was staged by the State of Main Promotion Association to interest moose hunters in selecting Maine instead of Canada.

The New Yorker Hotel has just inaugurated a smart stunt for making the visitors from elsewhere feel at home. It's a sort of transient "get-acquainted" idea. Each evening a broadcast is staged, the announcement reaching only the various rooms. The announcer, Walter Fleishmann, goes through the day's list of guests, giving a brief introduction to the more famed personages who happen to have arrived and reciting the names and the home towns of several dozen new-comers. Thus the boys and girls from other sections of the realm are able to keep in touch with homefolk, if any.

Waiters, like actors, seem possessed of a fear that they may end up in the Potter's Field. So every New York waiter, with or without a job, is assured of a cemetery plot, if nothing else. A waiters' insurance fund looks after this.

THE TINYMITES

They left the queer anteater soon and Scouty said, "Say, it's just noon. Let's hike back to the main street so's to find a place to eat. A nice light lunch will taste just right, if we pick out a pretty sight. Let's walk and then, while we're at lunch, we'll rest our weary feet."

They'd walked about a block or so when Clowny loudly shouted, "Oh, here comes a funny little cart. Perhaps we'll get a ride. Why walk, when we can sit at ease? I'll ask the driver and say please." And he cried, "Hello, there," when the cart was by his side.

"Can we all have a ride with you? Perhaps you'll kindly take us to a place where we can stop for lunch." The man said, "Sure, hop in!" The Travel Man cried "Go ahead, you lads, and I will walk instead. Wait for me on the main street." Every Tiny spread a grin.

It wasn't long until they met and Coppy said, "Here's where we'll get our meal." He led the way into a colorful cafe. Each one ate to his heart's content and in the place an hour was spent. And then they walked along the street, to pass the time away.

They shortly heard a queer voice cry, "Hey, stop here when you're passing by." "Well, goodness me," said Clowny, "I don't think I ever saw a bird like that. It talks real well. Just listen to the fellow yell." The others looked where Clowny did, and saw a large macaw.

They raced to where the large bird was and then they got a scare because it swooped down from its little perch and flapped its monstrous wings. On Scouty's shoulder then it stood and talked as wildly as it could. It made the Tinies laugh to hear it say such funny things.

(The Tinymites leave Rio de Janeiro in the next story.)

"All-Star" Casts Are Being Given Films; Harold Lloyd Is Working On New Story

BY HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD —Hugh Herbert is the only triple-threat man in Hollywood.

HUGH HERBERT

Hugh's contract designates him as actor, writer and director and he is all three. He says that if he had the money, he'd produce his own pictures. After writing them, with himself directing himself. But there's a one-man ban on that!

If you've seen "Hook, Line and Sinker" or "Traveling Husbands" or "Danger Lights," you'll recall Herbert in a comedy role.

But he's done more than act in these and several other films. He is the author of the first talking picture, "The Lights of New York," as well as the other pioneer talk films, "The Lion and the Mouse," and "Glorious Betsy." He also has directed several.

Challenge

Another concerted onslaught on box office cash may be seen in the assembling of impressive casts for forthcoming pictures. The "all-star cast," which seldom meant anything in the past, may be a reality now.

IRENE DUNNE

Not only are first rank stars like Marilyn Miller and Dorothy Mckaill being given prominent support, but others are being co-starred to lure the fans of each at the same time.

Richard Dix and Irene Dunne are to co-star in "Marcheta," after all, each being a star alone.

Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery, both stars independently, are to be together again in "Private Lives," and Greta Garbo and Ramon Novarro, for each of whom a co-starring picture in recent years is a novelty, will be teamed in "Mata Hari."

Harold Lloyd In Spotlight

Harold Lloyd these days He's current Harold Lloyd tense days. He's currently in the throes of trying to decide what kind of a story to make next.

HAROLD LLOYD

One thing must be said for Lloyd, he never makes a definite announcement until he is ready to "shoot." And once he starts shooting there's no dallying around the Lloyd set.

Harold is working on two ideas. One is a story about Hollywood, said to be titled "The Gate Crasher," and the other is one that would put him in the foreign legion.

The boss wanted to change Anita Louise's name when he signed her on contract, but Anita, the not-quite 15 leading lady, begged to keep the one she had established as a child actress. Anita Louise Fremault is her real name, anyway.

"But two given names as billing aren't good," she was warned.

"Look at Ina Claire," said Anita.

"But she's a big star."

"Just give me time," was the confident rejoinder.

Short Subjects

Bill Lowe and Fox have parted company. . . Financial trouble. . . John Boles, just released by Universal, will replace Lowe in "Cheating" . . . A swell luncheon dish served by Regis Toomey the other day: Cottage cheese with sour cream over it, with chives and caraway seed sprinkled on that.

John Boles

I saw two extreme types of beauty on one set and made a comparison that seems interesting. Loretta Young and Jean Harlow, working together in "Gallagher," are the girls. Loretta is the calm, poised, tranquil type, whose beauty is best described as flower-like. Jean, on the other hand, is a spectacular beauty, flashing and devastating. Hers is a moody kind of loveliness, a type that dazzles and demands attention.

COTTON OPENING

QUANAH, Sept. 26. (AP)—Hundreds of bales of cotton are opening overnight in this section, and scores of pickers are needed. Opinion is expressed by many farmers that the yield will be cut down 40 per cent if it does not rain within the next few days. The dry weather is causing the very young bolls to open that a rain would retard and allow to develop. The plants are shedding a great deal also from lack of moisture.

"The Phantom Of Paris" On Program Here

"This Modern Age" To Start Three-Day Run At Lindsey Today; "Svengali" To Be Shown Wednesday, Thursday

JOAN Crawford appears in the leading role of "This Modern Age", a highly sophisticated and smart story of Paris, which begins a three-day run at the Lindsey today.

Neil Hamilton, who played with Miss Crawford in "Laughing Sinners" and "Strangers May Kiss", is the leading man in "This Modern Age." Pauline Frederick returns to the screen after a long absence in a supporting role.

NEIL HAMILTON

Miss Crawford plays the part of a young woman who has not seen her divorced mother since early childhood. They are reunited and react more like friends than mother and daughter, as the ultra-modern parent does the same things that the daughter does. When the daughter falls in love with the son of Boston aristocrats, it is the ultra freedom of her mother that breaks up the romance. The lover doesn't want a girl whose mother "runs around". A series of exciting events lead up to the denouement which is capped by a surprise climax.

The picture was adapted from the Mildred Cram novel, "Girls Together," and gives Miss Crawford opportunities in the "whoopee" type with which she has been so successful, as well as more serious drama.

Gilbert Heads Cast

John Gilbert heads a well-rounded cast in "The Phantom of Paris" which comes to the Palace today for a run of three days.

Taken from "Cheri-Bibi" by Gaston Leroux, noted French mystery novel, the picture is replete with love, intrigue and mystery.

In this melodrama, Gilbert appears in a type of role new to him. As a great French magician he falls in love with a girl of a socially prominent and wealthy family. A money-grabbing marquis wants to marry the girl for her money and commits a hideous crime in such a manner that the magician is accused of it.

LEILA HYAMS

By his great knowledge of tricks, the magician manages to free himself from the most precarious situations and by a great coup proves his innocence.

For the third time in as many pictures, Leila Hyams plays as Gilbert's leading lady. The cast also includes Lewis Stone, Jean Hersholt, C Aubrey Smith, Natalie Moorehead, and Alfred Hickman.

"Svengali", one of the strangest stories ever filmed, will be shown at the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday.

John Barrymore and Marian March, sensational screen "find" who stepped from obscurity to movie prominence in such a short time, head the cast.

Strange Love Told

The weird story deals with a strange love, manufactured by an evil hypnotist. Held by this strange love, a girl can neither understand it or free herself from its powers.

"The Gay Diplomat" will be the Wednesday and Thursday attraction at the Palace.

Ivan Lebedeff appears in his first starring role in the picture. Genevieve Tobin and Betty Compson have the leading feminine parts.

Women spies and men spies, hating, loving and perpetually scheming, are the central characters which dominate the picture. It tells of seductive, unscrupulous women who barter their loves and honors in the dangerous quest for diplomatic information, and of the falcon men who search them out. Mystery, romance and the fury of battle on the Russian front combine to make the talkie exciting.

Starting today, the Lyric will present "Song O' My Heart". John McCormack and Maureen O'Sullivan appear in the leading roles.

BEBE DANIELS

"Maltese Falcon", with Bebe Daniels as the star, will be shown on the Lyric talking screen Wednesday and Thursday.

Friday and Saturday, "Trapped", a western thriller, will be seen at the Lyric.

VETERANS TO MEET

LAREDO, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Texas Disabled American Veterans of the World war will meet in annual convention at Laredo about the middle of January for three days. This convention will bring to Laredo about 50 American soldiers who were in battle during the World war and received permanent injuries. The Laredo camp will appoint committees to make arrangements for the convention.

At the THEATERS

John Barrymore and Marian Marsh, shown above will appear in "Svengali," at the Lindsey Wednesday and Thursday.

Joan Crawford, pictured here, will be seen in the leading role of "This Modern Age," which starts a three-day run at the Lindsey today.

John Gilbert above, plays the leading role in "The Phantom of Paris," which starts a three-day run at the Palace today.

only go away a second time.

The luxuriousness of the room about her suddenly impressed Norma. She ran to the door leading into the bedroom. The rich ivory, rose and mulberry of walls and hangings, sleek, beautiful walnut furnishings, doors that were mirrors, and beyond her the glow of sunlight on a peach-tiled bath—she seemed to have noted none of these details before. The rooms represented elegance that was tasteful, restrained. Staying in such a place must be frightfully expensive.

Norma turned. There on the table in the sitting room were the paper bills and coins Mark had tossed into her lap. Thirteen dollars and forty-five cents—

Sharply the girl wished for Mark. There was no use pretending this rosy haze of happiness could go on endlessly. The work-a-day world was there just as it had been. This glorious balloon bubble must burst and ample warnings had been sounded in Norma's deliberately unlistening ears that all might not be so joyous then.

There had been the scene with Mark's father. Where was Mark now? Where would he get money to pay for this handsome suite of rooms? They couldn't stay on here. Where would they go? Mark's work in the real estate office had been in his father's employ and would end now. What would he do? What would she do?

A thousand practical questions waited to be discussed. Neither she nor Mark had mentioned any of them. Again Norma thought restlessly of her job in the office of Brooks, Welliver and Brooks! It really had not been right to leave without notice. Of course 24 hours ago she herself hadn't the faintest notion that this morning she was to be Mark's wife. She treasured those words; repeated them slowly. Mark's wife!

How she loved him! That was the tremendous, unquestioned fact of her existence now. How she loved this handsome husband!

Norma dropped to the wide, deep cushions of the davenport. She was happy again in memories. For long minutes she lay there. After all what was there for her to do in this new whirlwind of living but to wait for Mark? Mark would make everything come right. Mark was so wonderful.

She arose, went through the bedroom into the roseate, sunlighted bath with its burnished nickel taps and fittings. She let cold water run and splashed her cheeks with it until they colored deeply. She brushed her hair and made the soft waves glisten. She saw the slim-whiteness of herself in the door-length mirror and admired it, grateful she could bring her beauty in tribute to Mark. There seemed little else that she had brought him.

Norma did not dawdle as she powdered, rouged her lips and slipped into her clothing. She hurried because Mark might return at any moment. She must be ready to leave when he returned. They couldn't remain in this extravagant place any longer.

WHEN she had made herself as presentable as possible the girl spent a rueful moment before the mirror. Her dress was the one she had worn the night before. It was a brown crepe of utmost simplicity, bought only three weeks before. Modish, well-fitting in spite of its cheapness—but brown. Brown was no color for a bride to wear! Her neat pumps were brown, too, and she had worn the brown beret in place of a hat. It had seemed appropriate for the drive ot Woodbury, less appropriate this morning. Well, doubtless hundreds of other brides who had made impulsive marriages had known the same pangs over absence of wedding finery.

From the sitting room window Norma could see the huge clock on a sky-scraper tower two blocks away. Twenty after twelve now. Mark had been gone nearly an hour. She tried peering down into the street to see if she could see him. That was ridiculous. The window was on the eighth floor and it was impossible to look straight downward.

Well, she could write the letter to Brooks, Welliver and Brooks explaining why she was giving up her work.

It was a difficult letter to write. Norma sat at the neatly appointed desk a long while before she put her pen down on the fresh paper. She began three separate pages and in rapid succession discarded them. It was fully 45 minutes before the note was finished and then Norma studied it with dissatisfaction before finally the sheet was folded and inserted in its envelope. She addressed it but left the flap unsealed. She would ask Mark what he thought of the note before mailing it.

Surely Mark should be there! Terror with clutching, viselike fingers of ice gripped the girl's heart. A traffic accident—a single misstep—oh, if anything had happened—!

Again she sought the window. Then for 10 minutes Norma paced back and forth——back and forth. She could not sit still but she must stop this worrying. She must believe nothing terrible had happened. It was only a foolish nightmare. Mark would be there any moment now. She sat down again. A moment more and she was on her feet, as restless as before. The frightful premonition would not be downed.

At 3 o'clock Norma was still waiting. She was still alone. What had become of Mark Travers?

Could this be his father's work?

South Plains Cotton Acreage To Be Reduced To 450,000 Acres Under Law

Loans Being Repaid Here

County Agent Eaton Says Lubbock County Farmers Are Paying Back Loans As Soon As Cotton Is Sold

Farmers are paying back their federal production loans as rapidly as they sell their cotton, D. F. Eaton, county agent, said.

Mr. Eaton's office has been handling some of the payments as farmers have sent their checks to Mr. Eaton to forward them to St. Louis.

"Just lots of farmers are paying direct to St. Louis," said the county agent. "I would like to say one thing to those who make direct payments, be sure and put the contract number on your cashier's check or bank draft, so the office will know to whom to credit the money."

In a large number of cases farmers have made two or three payments so far, paying as they sell their cotton.

Mr. Eaton is keeping a record of all the payments handled through his office.

FEEDING PULLETS FOR FALL AND WINTER EGGS

THE longer the poultry business is studied the more certain one becomes that the major problem is that of raising pullets to the age of six months free from intestinal inflamation, intestinal parasites and other factors which lower their vitality.

In other words, if pullets are so managed that they bloom into maturity with yellow shanks, red face, good bone and plump breasts, they have the ability to respond to good feeding. On the other hand, contrast the flock of undeveloped pullets with pale shanks, snake heads, small bone, sharp breasts, mucus in the nostrils, intestinal worms, thickened intestinal walls, etc. There is no feed or method of feeding that will make such flocks produce heavily during the fall and winter.

What the pullet will do during the high priced period for eggs depend upon several factors. First, pullets should be hatched sufficiently early to be old enough to lay eggs at the time eggs are expected. Second, they should come from parent stock that is disease free. Third, they should have been grown on clean soil and moved frequently from filthy, contaminated soil. Fourth, they must have had the proper feeds during the growing period to make a healthy body, big frame and reserve vitality.

Too many poultrymen try to develop such bodies by a method they proudly speak of as 'holding them back." A good look at many pullet flocks show evidence that the owner was quite successful in "holding them back."

Fifth, pullets must have had a properly ventilated house with plenty of floor space. Sixth, they must have been fed the proper materials in the proper way. The man who thinks he can save money by cheap feeding practices and is contented by the fact that he was successful in growing his pullets is fooling himself if the above mentioned factors have been neglected. Cheap feed is false economy and will eventually put the poultryman on the rocks.

Blame Is Misplaced

Pullets are "made" during the first five months and if they are not properly grown, there isn't any use to look around for some special feed or miraculous dope that will make them lay. There is too much talk about and too much expected of feed. There are too many poultrymen condemning some brand of feed as an alibi and not enough honest effort to place the blame where it really belongs. There is a vast amount of work to be done on feeds and feeding, but when it is all done it will not be the saving panacea to offset the common errors of judgment of sound poultry management.

County Agents Doing World Of Good In Area; Importance Of Work High

Wealth Increased In Improved Methods Of Agriculture

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

SOUTH Plains county agents, by their leadership in practical agriculture and by their knowledge of conditions of soil and seed germination, average in cash savings to their counties an entire year's salary in each calendar months.

The home demonstration agents are doing a like service, possibly even a greater one, to the women of their counties, thus doing a double service in that they are relieving the financial burden on the man of the house to a considerable extent.

Wealth Increased

In other words, the wealth of the people of the South Plains is being increased monthly somewhere between $30,000 and $40,000, or more than a third of a million dollars a year. That is a sum that is not to be overlooked, either in good times or bad.

This is written from a first hand knowledge of the activities of the dozen or so men and the ten women who devote their entire time to community leadership. It is the observation of months of association and inspection of the work over the entire plains country.

One or two concrete examples might be cited to illustrate the claims. In Lamb county, for instance, actual cold cash figures showed that the work of the home demonstration agent, Miss Ruby Mashburn, saved the people of that county in 1930, in excess of $183,000.

Dawson Cans Much

Down in Dawson county this year a million cans of fruits, vegetables and meats will have been canned by January 1. Men and women of the county are following the leadership of the county agents, Walter W. Evans and Miss Rozelle McKenney. At an average of 20 cents per container, Dawsonites are adding $200,000 to their annual income this year. But the average is nearer 40 cents, so the total should be around $400,000.

Lubbock county is anticipating a million and a half cans, or $600,000 additional income. This is just one phase of the work. Twenty seven levels were used by farmers, under the leadership of D. F. Eaton, to terrace or contour probably 50,000 or more acres of land, the last winter. Even at present prices of agricultural products, contoured land or terraced land will increase the yield $3 to $4 or more per acre. At higher prices the conservative gain is estimated by Texas A. and M. experts at $5 per acre. Miss Ruth Stockton, demonstrator, is adding to her work by showing her club women how to help the non-club women of their communities to save by canning. R. N. McClain, assistant county agent, is showing his dozen or so dairy demonstrators how to get the most out of their pastures for dairy cattle and thus reduce butterfat costs. These costs are being reduced to 10 to 12 cents or a little more per pound.

Methods Stressed

Fred Reynolds, Bailey county agent, has shown his farmers the importance of improved methods in that county along irrigation lines. The county is rapidly, real estate sales being reported regularly and new farmers are taking to the county agent work. Bailey county is taking to a diversified program, with cattle, dairying, corn, alfalfa, irrigation and truck gardens, wheat, cotton, grain sorghums, broomcorn and fruits predominating.

Roy Davis of Hale county is another agent who is using diversification. Primarily a wheat county, there is coming into the county a program of beef cattle, dairying, some cotton, grain sorghum, sheep raising and hogs. The huge wheat crop is being turned into a feed crop for livestock.

Ed Tanner, former county agent of Spur, started a wide program of diversification which he had well under way when he was transferred to the south part of the state. The commissioner's court, at the instance of the Spur chamber of commerce, decided to continue the agent's work, so Grady Lane is now in charge. Ed was an authority on contouring and thousands of acres have been terraced or contoured, adding greatly to the income of the farmers even in dry weather.

In Gaines county R. F. McPatridge encouraged his farmers to go into deep plowing to save their land from blowing. He also started poultry work. The past three years has seen a poultry show that has attracted wide attention. Farmers who have plowed deep have reported crops have been increased by the conservation of moisture.

Meat Killing Urged

Roy Shaver in Lynn county likewise has worked along a diversified program. He is encouraging farmers to produce hogs and kill and cure the meats and this winter there will probably be a score of these demonstrations. Hundreds of beeves will be canned and the meats thus preserved sold. Likewise the home demonstration agent, Miss El Fleda Harrison, has encouraged her women and girls to do a great many things along these lines of preserving food, making clothing and improving living conditions.

Showing a beef cattleman how to raise first class dairy cattle is some job, but Knox Parr in Garza county has turned the attention of cattlemen to better feeding methods and to more attention to raising grains for feeding cattle. The dairy industry in Garza county is growing rapidly. More hogs are being raised. Farmers are canning their beeves and hogs and thousands of calves will find their way into containers. Miss Madge Wagner, demonstrator, will leave a name for her standardization of canned roast beef, which the club women are planning the can for sale in the larger cities and towns.

Feeding Methods Shown

D A Adam's livestock feeding program has taught Lamb county farmers that by the proper buying of cattle, money can be made by use of established methods under even adverse conditions. His feeding methods for dairy cattle and his seed blocks and hog killing demonstrations, are adding to the actual cash of those who follow them.

Floyd county has only a home demonstration agent. Yet the county, by its food preservation and poultry demonstration programs, has gone forward in a remarkable way. Even a change of agents recently did not interrupt the schedule.

Before Roy Davis left Terry county, over a year ago, he started a pig club program that has made money for those boys who participated and also for the men who followed the lead of the boys.

Hockley county is another county with a cattle feeding program that has met unusual conditions. W. Magee, agent and Miss Marie Tarwater, demonstrator, have been able to keep their coworker's books on the right side of the balance sheet. Hockley county has not lost its momentum as a growing community. Cotton is the chief money crop but a diversified program is being followed by many farmers.

In Hale county the county-demonstrator, Mrs. Julia Kelley, has attained state-wide fame by the winnings of her 4-H club workers. The 4-H pantry program will be one of the most extensive on the South Plains.

Motley county is another old time cattle county where the new order is fast gaining a foothold. Both the agent and demonstration agent are showing farmers how to live on their farms with home grown food, depending on cotton or grain or cattle for their extra cash.

Lubbock Will Be Limited To 112,000 Acres

Number Of Counties Will Get Increases Under New State Legislation; District Two Of Co-Op Gets Big Cut

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

COTTON acreage in the 17 counties of the South Plains will be reduced 450,000 acres in 1932 under the terms of the bill recently by the state legislature providing for the reduction of acreage in 1932 by 30 per cent.

Figures also show that in the nearly 30 counties in West Texas comprising district No. 2 of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association, the Lubbock district, the reduction will be 750,000 acres.

Six To Have Increases

Six counties on the South Plains, Bailey, Cochran, Floyd, Hale, Lamb and Yoakum, will have increases while 11 counties, Borden, Crosby, Dickens, Dawson, Gaines, Garza, Hockley, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley and Terry, show decreases.

In acreage, Hale county with 132,000 acres, will replace Lubbock as leader in acreage. Lubbock and Dawson with 112,000 allowable acreage, will tie for second, with Floyd and Lamb with 108,000 and 103,000 acres respectively, rank next.

Cochran county with 9,000 allowable acres, is still the smallest in acreage and Yoakum, with 11,000 acres, will rank next. Parmer, with 16,000 acres, is just above Yoakum.

Figures Prepared

Carl H. Robinson, senior statistician for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Austin, has prepared figures showing the allowable acreages and the totals for 1929, the latest U. S. Census figures.

Over the state there are 209 counties that produce cotton. Of these 154 will have a reduction and 55 an increase, with two the same as before.

It should be noted that counties where there are large increases are counties, as a rule, in which the cotton acreage now is relatively low.

In the table below the counties on the South Plains are shown in two groups, those showing gains and those losses.

Broomcorn Is To Be Shipped

Littlefield To Have Largest Shipment Of 21 Cars, Local Agents Inform Santa Fe Officials

Thirty-six car loads of broomcorn will be shipped from South Plains towns this fall, Santa Fe officials state they have been advised by local agents over the territory.

Largest shipment is expected to be from Littlefield, where it is said 21 cars will be shipped this year. Broomcorn has been grown in that territory, especially to the south and west, for a number of years.

Other towns and their probable shipments include: Floydada, and Seagraves, five cars each; O'Donnell, four and Lubbock and Levelland, one car.

In other years there have been shipments from Littlefield and Seagraves have been the chief shipping point.

Last year 20 cars were shipped from this territory.

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON

Take-no-uchi—

Take-no-uchi, the Japanese Methuselah, is a historical figure in contradiction to almost all the other Macrobii who are mythical.

He was born in the year 3 A. D., during the reign of Emperor Suinin. At the age of 32 he became the Prime Minister to Emperor Suinin and held this position for 248 years, until his death in 311 A. D. Altogether he served as Premier under five emperors and one empress—Suinin, Keiko, Seimu, Chuai, Jingo and Ojin. Empress Jingo is known as the heroine-empress of Japan, and her rule coincides with Japan's "golden age." Historians attribute the empress's success to the sage counsels of Nippon's Grand Old Man, Takenouchi.

Takenouchi's position in Japanese history is second to none. His picture is engraved upon the Japanese one-yen banknotes, and portraits depicting him as he carried the future Emperor Ojin to the presence of Empress Jingo have been favorite topic with Japanese artists for the last 16 centuries. Ojin only outlived him two years.

The Parthenon of Athens—

The Parthenon on the Acropolis in Athens, Greece, which dates from the 5th century B. C., is the most perfect edifice ever built. With perfect technical skill in the treatment of the material the most delicate refinements were introduced by the builders to correct optical distortion.

The lines of the stylobate, the cornices and the columns were delicately curved. On the same subtle optical principles the axes of the external columns are not perpendicular but inclined inward at a uniform angle. But this deviation from the rectalinear is so delicate that it can be detected only by the most careful sighting and measurement. The effect was one of simple harmony and a severe majestic beauty.

This peerless gem of architectural art was used as a powder magazine by the Turks as late as the 17th century of our era. A Venetian bomb completely destroyed the central part of the building during the seige of Athens in 1687.

Porter K. Johnston, the Youngest A. A. U. Athlete—

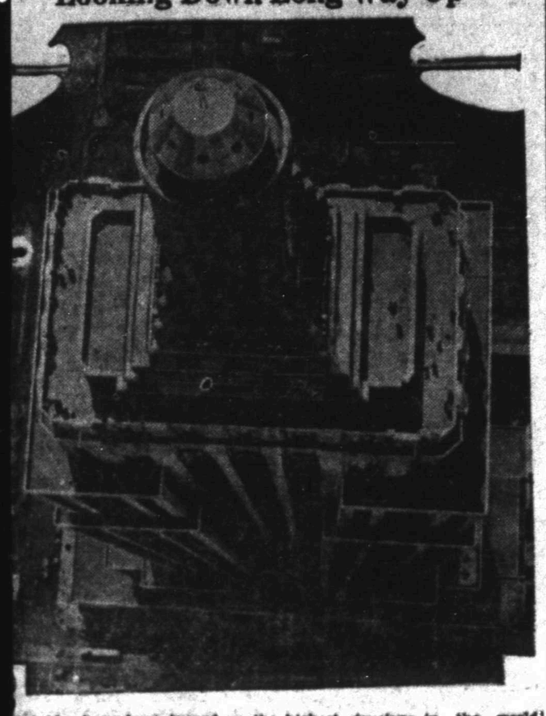

Porter K. Johnston jr., of the Dallas, Texas, Athletic club, at the tender age of nine, is the youngest registered athlete in A. A. U. competition.

Master Porter is a member of the tumbling team of Coach Marshall Brown of Dallas, who has taken his boys on an extensive tour of the country during the past summer.

In 1930, at eight years of age, Johnston won third in the Junior tumbling event at New Orleans against boys twice and three times his age. In the 1931 New Orleans tournament he won second place in Junior and third in Senior tumbling. Johnston is the youngest known amateur to do the difficult routines of half and full twists, swinging backs and half-twisting forwards.

Radio Board Turning Down New Applications

Reasons Given For Refusals On New Units

Ten Fundamental Reasons For Denying New Stations Are Listed; Interference Is Cited In Many Cases

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26—There's not much chance for anyone to get permission to construct a new radio station.

The Federal Radio Commission, through Ben S. Fisher, assistant general counsel for the body, has found at least 10 fundamental reasons why it is almost impossible to secure the necessary authority.

"In approximately 60 out of the 180 cases, the examiners recommended denial of applications on the ground that satisfactory service is now being received by the area, and the granting of the application would not improve service," Fisher's report reads.

Can't Crowd Areas

"Under this same head might also be placed the conclusion that by granting a new facility to a particular community it would create an inequality of radio facilities in that particular portion of the state.

"In 40 cases, denials were based upon this finding: The applicant must make a satisfactory financial showing in order to prevail in his application and must satisfactorily show that he is able to maintain and operate the station in the future."

Still More Reasons

In 19 cases applicants were denied because of the failure of the applicant to show sufficient talent to carry out a well-planned program. In 58 cases objectionable interference was cited. In 68 others the reason given for the denial was the fact that the state quota for broadcasting was already filled.

Insufficient and unsatisfactory equipment was used as the basis for 25 refusals by the commission. And in 12 cases it was found that the applicant stations had violated the rules and regulations of the commission.

Zoning of radio facilities according to the Davis amendment guided the commission in refusing some applications.

Wheat Buys College Tuition

Money being scarce and wheat plentiful, Park Region Luther College, Fergus Falls, Minn., is accepting wheat in lieu of cash for tuition. Here is Miss Borghild Asleson, at the right, delivering a load at the college door as her payment. The school disposes of it through local elevators, but stipulates it will accept wheat only from families that grow it.

Rains Are Needed In Cattle Country

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Rains are needed over the cattle country of West Texas today to make grass for winter, and some shifting of cattle to grass is under way from the Big Bend country to South Texas.

Trading in cattle is fairly active with calves being bought in all parts of the country for delivery to northern feeders. Many, however, will be fed in Texas in line with the new feeder-breeder movement.

Kincaid Brothers of Wichita Falls are reported to have paid 6 cents a pound for heifer calves and 7 cents for steer calves from the McIntyre ranch near Alpine. H. B. Oliphant of Wichita, Kans., has bought the Pryor and Wilson calves at Fort Stockton for fall delivery. W. H. Waggoner of El Paso has bought 781 head of cows and calves from Charles Cannon of Sheffield and John F. Lane of Rankin. They were loaded for Upson, N. M.

Other cattle trades have been made in the territory in the last few weeks. West Texas ranchmen with cattle on Oklahoma and Kansas grass, are moving them to market now.

SALES ARE LIGHT

PROSPECTIVE car owners evidently plan to get their cars next week at the Panhandle-South Plains fair, for trading was light last week along Lubbock's auto row. A check showed only four new car sales for the week ending Friday. One of these was a truck, two were Fords and one a Pontiac.

NEW CARS SOLD

SELL 36 USED CARS

The used car business continued at par figures. Oakland-Pontiac company sold eight used cars last week. A similar number was moved off the Hub Motor company lot and Kuykendall Chevrolet company sold seven used machines. The Lubbock Auto company moved five used cars and Ratliff-Rogers Buick company sold six. The General Motors Company, Inc., did a good Frigidaire and radio business at Davis Bros., but no new Oldsmobiles were sold last week. The company moved two used machines.

Ginning Rate Reduced From 35 To 25 Cents At Quanah

QUANAH, Sept. 26. (AP)—Local ginners have reduced the rate of ginning from 35 cents to 25 cents on all cotton ginned in Quanah. This new rate applies to any kind of cotton. The ginners did not deem it wise to make any difference between picked and snapped cotton for the season.

The commission in Oklahoma set the rate for that state at 25 cents and 35 cents, the last price being for snapped or pulled cotton. A considerable amount of Oklahoma cotton is ginned in Quanah each year, and it is expected an increase will be shown this season on account of the paved highway No. 51 from the Red river to Quanah.

Possessing the basic goodness of sound design and fine manufacture

From the selection of raw materials to the completion of the finished product, each process of building, assembling and checking the Chevrolet Six is marked by extreme care and precision. An exhaustive system of test and inspection makes certain that every part meets specified dimensions exactly. Many of these parts are held to limits of one ten-thousandth of an inch. No manufacturer in the industry uses more care or precision in building and testing than Chevrolet.

Just as every part of the car is soundly built, every feature is soundly designed. In planning the motor, Chevrolet engineers were not content to offer the public anything less than tried and proved design. They knew that the only satisfactory way to get smooth, flexible power in a car is to use at least six cylinders. So they adopted the six-cylinder engine without compromise. And this is what you get in today's Chevrolet Six.

As a result of this sound designing and sound manufacturing, you can buy a Chevrolet and know you are getting a genuinely good automobile—soundly designed, soundly built, basically and technically right.

Twenty beautiful models, at prices ranging from $475 to $675

Improvements Visible In Business Conditions

Trade During August At Lowest; Volume In Sales Showing

(Special to The Avalanche-Journal)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26—Trade in August reached its lowest ebb since the beginning of the business depression, says Frank Greene in his monthly business conditions report for the current number of Nation's Business Magazine. The month was one of strangely mixed conditions, says Greene, with improvements visible in some directions and the reverse in others.

"The stock market," Mr. Greene reports, "tugged rather idly at a short anchor rope, though utilities and oils rose while railroads fell off on a talk of dividend reductions. The bond market, the rails leading, was rather weak as a whole and showed more of a decline in percentages of prices than did stocks. Prices of farm products were at the lowest point in over a generation, with the premier cereal, wheat, recording the lowest prices in 80 years. The general price index number was the lowest since 1911. Foreign trade was one third less than a year ago and one half that of 1929, with both exports and imports the lowest since 1914.

Buying On Increase

"Another side of the picture was seen in continued evidences that lower prices of most commodities were developing a volume, not value, of buying not equalled since the slump. Processes of recuperation and repair seemed going forward in foreign countries; activity in manufacturing of necessaries like foods and wearing apparel, notably textiles and shoes, was maintained in most cases, and there seemed growing recognition that 'a dollar was going farther' than for many years past. Failures tended to shrink more perceptibly than did liabilities. The latter, however, were smaller than in many preceding months, though 1931 will set up new high totals of both.

"So far as was visible in a statistical way, seasonal and weather conditions were responsible for some of the quieting down shown in wholesale and retail distribution and in collections. Preparations for fall trade were productive of a moderate uplift, however, in certain industries which, as already indicated, cater to every-day needs for food and wearing apparel. Late crops appeared to promise fairly well although gains over the rather short yields of the drought year, 1930, were confined to a few great staples like wheat, corn, cotton, potatoes and apples. Only winter wheat and peaches set up new records. Cumulative effects of the over production bred by the war bade fair to show a shrinkage in farm-product values unapproached in many years.

Sales Larger

"It is probably not exaggerating to say that volume of sales of necessaries, where price reductions have been made in keeping with the cuts at wholesale and in manufacturing lines, is larger than a year ago. It also seems as if present losses must be taken if future gains are to be made.

"Depression in trade and lack of usual export outlets do not entirely explain the low prices brought by all farm products in the midsummer of 1931. Lush yields indicated for some products had important effects, but even here differences were visible which showed the working out of other forces.

"Dairy products advanced even more than usual, due to hot, dry weather and its effect on pastures. New tobacco prices were really fair to good. In wheat a record crop of the winter-sown grain was balanced by a phenomenally short spring crop so that the gain in all wheat was not large. Government efforts to keep prices up, with the natural result of accumulating a record stock and cutting off export trade, of course bore some of the responsibility here as in cotton, which dropped long before the heavy yield of 15,584,000 bales indicated by the August 1 government crop report was in sight.

"The lowest levels for 80 years reached by wheat and the renewed weakness shown in cotton was coincident with listless markets for securities. September wheat on August 31 sold at 45 cents at Chicago, said to be the lowest point reached by spot wheat since October, 1852, before the board of trade was organized.

Happy Family

Rabbit, Cat And Dog Are Pals

SHALLOWATER, Sept. 26. (Special) — A three cornered friendship between animals that do not usually associate together, has developed on the Henry Mahoney farm near here.

Several weeks ago a stray dog took up his abode at the Mahoney place and made friends at once with the family cat.

Last week while Mr. Mahoney was cutting feed he saw a rabbit which was not startled by his approach. The animal seemed to be a cross between a jackrabbit and a blue rabbit of a domesticated species.

He took the rabbit home and it at once was adopted by the cat and the dog. The trio live in the same yard, eat together and play and associate together.

Free Teaching Predicted If Yoakum Schools Close

PLAINS, Sept. 26. —A return to the old-time plan of free public schools, with teachers doing the work for the love of it instead of for a salary, is predicted here in the event the public schools of Yoakum county are forced to close.

"I have been talking to some of the old-time school teachers here," J. E. Moreland, attorney and former county judge of Yoakum county, says. "If they close the schools, some of us who have not forgotten how, will teach free of charge.

"This is not the time to stop school. It is the critical time in the life of a boy, or a girl, when he or she has to quit."

Mr. Moreland said he had discussed a plan for a free school with a number of former teachers. All of them, he added, agreed to give time to any school work of that kind.

State investigators have found that colds were responsible for 39 per cent of all absence from work in California.
