1926 COTTON FIGURES ARE ANNOUNCED

DROP SHOWN IN FINAL FEDERAL COTTON REPORT

YIELD FOR 1926 MAY GO TO 18 MILLION BALES, FIGURES INDICATE

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The 1926 cotton crop was placed at 17,687,607 running bales, or 17,910,358 equivalent 500 pound bales, by the census bureau today in its final ginning report.

That quantity of cotton, exclusive of lint and counting round as half bales, included 254,841 running bales which ginner estimated would be turned out after the March canvass. The crop compares with 16,122,516 running bales or 16,193,679 equivalent 500 pound bales in the 1925 crop, and with the department of agriculture's estimate, made last December, of 18,618,000 equivalent 500 pound bales.

Uncertainty Dissipated

Until the census bureau's final ginning report today, there had been much uncertainty as to the exact quantity of the record-breaking crop which would be picked, and ginned. Early reports indicated considerable loss of cotton might be left un-picked in the fields because of the low price of cotton and the scarcity and high price of labor.

Round bales, counted as half bales, numbered in the statistics totaled 686,561 compared with 351,121 in 1925 and 214,325 in 1924.

The average weight of bales for the crop, counting round as half bales and excluding linters, was 596.3 pounds compared with 499.5 in 1925 and 499.2 in 1924.

More Gins Operated

The number of gineries operated was 15,749 compared with 15,482 in 1925.

The final ginnings, by states, in equivalent 500 pound bales, follows: Alabama, 1,497,197; Arizona, 127,000; Arkansas, 1,545,639; California, 1,309,915; Florida, 34,257; Georgia, 1,492,061; Louisiana, 335,029; Mississippi, 1,553,952; Missouri, 218,157; New Mexico, 29,846; North Carolina, 1,294,484; Oklahoma, 1,759,395; South Carolina, 997,131; Tennessee, 459,529; Texas, 5,691,261; Virginia, 59,545; All other states, 15,876.

End Is Reached In Suit Of Count Salm

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Attorneys for Count Ludwig Salm today handed to the clerk of the supreme court a stipulation and proposed order to discontinue his separation suit against his wife, the former Millicent Rogers. The action was forecast a few days ago.

Justice Levy, who ordered the case to trial today, was not in court when the proposed order was filed. The case can be declared officially discontinued, counsel for Salm said. The case was discontinued because a satisfactory agreement had been reached between the parties as to the custody of the child, Peter Salm.

He declined to comment on the reported financial settlement under which it was said, the count had received $300,000 to discontinue the suit.

Tech Men To Talk At Union Meeting

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the Tech, is to be a speaker and music to be furnished by Prof. Fred Mrs. Harry McHaire at a meeting of the Lubbock Engineers' union at 3 o'clock this evening in the Labor Temple. Dr. John C. Granbery, head of the department of history at the Tech, is to be a speaker, also, as was announced in the Sunday paper. The occasion has been designated as "Lathrop" night.

Thrice Married, Thrice Divorced, All With Same Man, But She's Through Now!

MRS. FRANCES FARRELL

By NEA Service

Mrs. Frances Farrell has quit trying. Three times she married John Farrell now 24. Three times the Chicago courts have undone the marriage bonds. Now Mrs. Farrell is through, completely and forever.

The first time she went to the altar with John was in September, 1923. The marriage was annulled a month later.

They were wedded again in 1924. The same year Mrs. Farrell got a divorce on grounds of cruelty.

Came June 1, 1925, with its romantic spell, and John and Frances once more faced a preacher. Then the other day Mrs. Farrell again persuaded a judge she should be freed.

Somewhat out of breath, Mrs. Farrell said: "Never again." In the following article she tells why.

BY MRS. FRANCES FARRELL For Whom Three Divorces From the Same Man Are Enough

I SUPPOSE that women are silly when it comes to love affairs. I have one man three chances. No man is deserving of more than one chance. Any woman who gives a man three chances is dumb. If a man gets three chances, he gets three times what he is worth.

Still, it is not so strange, perhaps. I loved John the first time because I was very young.

I loved him the second time because (Turn to Page 8, Column 3, Please)

Carroll To Go To Pen

'BATHTUB PARTY' FATAL

Court Refuses Review

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21.—Earl Carroll, the theatrical manager, must serve the sentence of a year, and a day imposed upon him for perjury as an outgrowth of his famous bathtub party. The supreme court today refused him a review.

He may delay commitment by asking a rehearing, but such requests seldom are granted.

The highest court refused to find any ground for action in the voluminous arguments of Carroll's lawyers, who contended that his indictment and trial in New York were not in accordance with sound legal practice.

Carroll was taken before the grand jury twice during investigation of the party, at which it had been reported that a shamus girl, partly immersed in liquor in a bathtub, served drinks to the guests. After he had denied that the girl was in the tub, he was indicted and convicted of perjury. He claimed and was granted immunity, however, from prosecution under the national prohibition law.

Freeze Fatal For Oklahoma's Fruit

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 21. (AP)—Fog that the freeze Saturday and Sunday night had caused almost a complete loss of the fruit crop in Oklahoma was expressed today by Harry Cordell, president of the state board of agriculture.

Reports today from all parts of the state told of the wide extent of the fruit crop damage, caused by the drop in temperature, Cordell said.

WOMAN HELD IN BORGER MURDER AND HIJACKING

ESCAPED CONVICT'S WIFE HAS JEWELS STOLEN FROM TEMPLE

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 21.—Attorney J. J. Lee today Mrs. Ray Terrill, wife of the bank bandit, of the whereabouts of five bandits who killed Coke Buchanan, Borger, Texas, patrolman in a gun battle Saturday, have proved futile. It was stated today at the county jail where Mrs. Terrill is being held.

Texas officers, here to return Mrs. Terrill to Temple to face charges in connection with the robbery of the H. Hempel jewelry store February 8, were of the belief that Ray Terrill was the leader of the group that shot Buchanan and that Mrs. Terrill knew of their whereabouts.

Jewelry Found in Car

Mrs. Terrill was arrested last Friday by a motorcycle policeman and booked at the county jail for speeding. Search of the car in which she was riding revealed diamonds and jewelry valued at more than $1,500.

The jewelry was identified Sunday as part of the $29,000 loot removed from the Hempel store. The loot had not been removed.

A woman who gave her name as Mrs. Evelyn Walker, wife of one of Terrill's alleged pals, was arrested with Mrs. Terrill. However, before the woman could be connected with the Temple robbery, Mrs. Walker made good and left the state. Reports to Sheriff Ben Lacey at night said she was being held in the Atarillo jail.

Terrill has been at large since his escape near the state penitentiary January 19.

City Commissioners Talk Over Bond Plan

The City Commission is in session today afternoon in a discussion of the bond election that has been ordered, the date of which has not yet been decided. The discussion centered largely around plans for improvements on which bids have been received, and funds to cover which are to be included in the bond election.

Plans have been submitted on the new fire station for the southwest part of the city, and for the 1,600,000 gallon reservoir standpipe. Improvements at the disposal plant, necessary to proper functioning of the plant also are to be included in the issue.

Separated From His Pals, Convict Starves

CHICAGO, March 21. (AP)—Baldie this afternoon from his prison companions, Charles Dushovsk, killer, has gone on hunger strike to compel authorities in the Joliet jail to be involved with him in a recent escape attempt.

Another killer, Walter Schol, confessed slayer of his two small children, also has gone on hunger strike at Joliet. In fact, until his wife, who he says he still loves, comes to him, Schol declared that he still loved his wife and did not believe she intended marrying as soon as he was electrocuted, as she has been quoted as saying. Mrs. Schol departed for Gary, saying she would again by her husband to the last day denying that she planned to marry again.

Furniture Men Are Freed After Trial

CHICAGO, Mar. 21. (AP)—The trial of 123 furniture dealers and five firms charged with violation of the Sherman anti-trust laws ended today when Federal Judge Carpenter discharged the jury after it had failed to reach an agreement. The case went to the jury last Thursday noon.

BROWNING WINS!

CAROL, N. Y., March 21.—Edward West Browning, wealthy New York real estate man, today won his separation suit against his wife, the former Frances "Peaches" Heenan, in a decision handed down here today by supreme court Justice A. H. F. See-gar.

Presbyterian Budget Assured In Campaign

The $15,000 covering the First Presbyterian church budget for the coming year was tentatively assured yesterday in a campaign that was conducted. Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor, said this morning. He added that no definite statements regarding the amount pledged could be given.

Governor Will Sign Anti-Amnesty Bill

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Texas, Mar. 21.—Governor Dan Moody will sign the Love anti-amnesty measure affecting former Governor James E. Ferguson, it was learned today from authentic sources.

Doubt as to what action Moody would take has provoked close interest here since the passage of the act designed to take from Ferguson the political citizenship restored to him by act of the 29th legislature.

He was impeached in 1917 on charges of irregularities.

LOVINGTON OIL TEST COMES IN

3,000 Feet Of Oil In Hole Of 4,700 Foot Depth; Drill Will Go Deeper

The Enclosed No. 1, oil and gas test well fifteen miles southeast of Lovington, New Mexico, on which drilling was halted temporarily at a depth of a little over 4,700 feet, is standing 3,000 feet in oil, but plans now are to go deeper with the well, according to H. J. Murray, local manager of the well.

Drilling was stopped to allow construction of a storage casing for the oil, and the well has been capped, but operators plan to go at least 200 or 300 feet deeper, Mr. Murray said. He said that owners, drillers, and geologists who have inspected the test believe that a large pool will be encountered deeper.

The well is about midway between Lovington and the Maljamar field, in Lee county, and due to the fact that it is the first producer ever brought in on the Plains, is attracting a great deal of attention. The well is on the plateau, above the caprock, and on similar formations, according to geologists, to the top of the Yellowhorse, N. 1, near Littlefield, which last week was abandoned at a depth of a little over 4,200 feet. It is located on a 50,000 acre block of leases.

Unique Exhibit Is To Be Shown Here

An electrically operated exhibit depicting the damage done to livestock in transit between shipping points and markets, when stock are temporarily held, is to be shown in the east rotunda of the administration building of the Tech college Tuesday and Wednesday. It was announced by W. L. Stangel, head of the animal husbandry department of the college today.

The exhibit will be shown by the Western Weighing and Inspection bureau of Chicago.

The exhibit was shown at the Fat Stock show at Fort Worth, and is being brought here from the cattle raisers association convention at El Paso, it was said. The bureau works in conjunction with railroads in checking injuries and damage to livestock in transit and causes of these injuries. The demonstration is free.

Harry Sinclair Asks Court For New Trial

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil operator, today formally asked for a new trial on the charges of contempt of the senate for which he was convicted by a District of Columbia supreme court jury.

The motion was filed by counsel for the oil man, and Justice Hitz set March 25 for argument. Twenty alleged errors in the conviction of Sinclair on the charge of having refused to answer questions while a witness before the senate oil committee were cited in the motion.

Audit Progressing On City's Accounts

D. D. Martin and L. W. Pierpont, of the H. V. Robertson auditing company of Amarillo, are now engaged in the regular annual audit of the books and accounts of the City of Lubbock, and expect to finish the job in about two weeks, it was said this morning.

The audit will be completed as of March 1, when G. W. McCleary, city secretary assumed his duties.

TWO KILLED AS GUNFIRE FALLS ON FOREIGNERS

U. S. MARINES IN DANGER ZONE; BRITISH ARE FIRED UPON

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, China, Mar. 21.—Chaos reigned in Shanghai tonight after the fall of the city to the Cantoneses this evening.

Rioters ran loose in the native quarter all day and tonight a band of Chinese troops, presumably attached to the retreating northern army, broke through the barrier to the north of the international settlement and began looting.

British Fired On

A British armored car rushed up in response to a police call for aid. The car was subjected to continuous machine gun fire. Lieutenant Newman, Corporal Ainslee and two soldiers were wounded.

The foreign defenders ashore here total 15,000 men, part of whom are holding the 30 mile exterior defense line while others strongly patrol the streets of the foreign settlements.

Marines Are On Guard

The 1500 American marines are patrolling the northern and western miles of the city. They are being ordered to break out owing to the general strike and the gathering of crowds and looters.

The foreign defenders suffered their first casualties when a British Punjab trooper was killed and two were wounded by machine firing from an alleyway at the border of the international settlement. Two foreign policemen were injured by bricks thrown from the top of a building on the Nanking road.

Fighting Is Fierce

Savage guerrilla fighting was going on in the native district tonight.

Pioneer Plains Woman Preparing Book On This Section

With a background of personal experience covering more than 25 years residence on the South Plains of Texas, Mrs. W. N. Claxton, formerly of Hale Center and now residing at Dallas, is writing a book, "Reminiscences of the Plains," which will be completed in the next few months. Mrs. Claxton was in Lubbock yesterday, visiting her brother-in-law, R. O. McWhorter, and his nephews, Owen and Ross McWhorter.

Mrs. Claxton is the daughter of R. W. Leonard, whose 75th birthday was reached today. He has been ranching in Hale and adjoining counties for the past 35 or 40 years and prior to that time was in the cow business in Indian Territory. Mrs. Claxton is the author of a number of poems, chief among which is "The Cowboy's Good-bye," which was greeted enthusiastically by old cattlemen and their families upon its appearance. Her book will contain names of pioneer cattlemen and their families, who first came into this section when it was an open range, and will also include many anecdotes of the old days. She said:

Weiner Roast Enjoyed By H. S. Classes

CHICKENS FRET GARDEN MAKERS

Plans On Foot To Control All Fowls In Effort To Aid Home Plot Planters

With the near approach of spring, and the time for planting of shrubs, gardens, and other beautification schemes about residences of the city, much comment is going the rounds as to whether or not chickens are or can be controlled from running loose. Some are of the opinion that the city has an ordinance prohibiting chickens from running loose, but that the ordinance is confined to certain sections of the city, which according to city officials, is not the case.

An ordinance was passed by the commission here October 23, 1924 extending the boundaries stipulated under an older ordinance from certain territory to full confines of the city limits, and this ordinance is now in effect. It prohibits chickens from running loose in any portion of the corporate limits.

The ordinance carries a penalty of a fine for conviction of violation of not less than $1 nor more than $25, and police officers said today, they are willing to cooperate in every way for enforcement of the ordinance, which repeats all other similar laws in conflict with it.

Demonstrator Given Dinner at Hereford

HEREFORD, March 21.—Miss Mamie Lee Hayden, district home demonstrator agent from A. & M. college, was guest of honor at a dinner given at Progressive, Tuesday noon, and Deaf Smith county producers, growers, were served at the feed. Miss Hayden expressed surprise at the large variety of fruits, meats and vegetables that were served as home grown stuff. "It was like a real Thanksgiving dinner and I didn't realize that so many good things could grow in one community," she said.

Miss Hayden was here in the interest of a home demonstration agent for Deaf Smith county. Tuesday afternoon she held a demonstration in the county court room in Hereford on household linens. Fifty-four ladies, a large per cent of them from rural communities, attended the meeting. The ladies showed much interest in the work and many of them expressed their willingness to join hands, in an effort to secure an agent to work with the girls and women of the county. This would give Deaf Smith county a balanced program, as a county agent was secured here about two years ago.

The Progressive community canning club was organized about eighteen months ago, and the ladies of that organization have made a record in the preservation of fruits, vegetables and meats. They won honors at both the local fair and the Tri-State Fair at Amarillo, last fall. Miss Hayden is eager to see a Home Demonstration agent for the county, so that many other clubs of this kind can be started.

Reduction of Fire Losses In West Texas Imperative Say Chambers of Commerce

STAMFORD, Mar. 21.—"West Texas as today," official organ of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is saying editorially this month, "shall the Pendulum Swing Backward?"

The State Fire Insurance commission will on March 31 again take up the application of the fire insurance companies operating in Texas who seek to increase rates on insurance in this state. The application was first filed in 1926 and was vigorously opposed by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and by other chambers of commerce throughout Texas. The insurance companies were able, it seems to make a clear case to the effect that excessive losses had prevented their making the return authorized by law, and they asked increases of rates to permit them to make this return.

Repeatedly in former years, the companies carried forward with the same plea, and their applications were granted. However, increasing rates failed to bring them relief they sought. The losses mounted higher and higher and it was found necessary to increase the rates progressively until at the present time, it is declared that rates in Texas are too high, and the claim is made that rates in this state are in many instances out of line with other southwestern states. The chambers of commerce took the stand that relief for the companies lay in reduction of losses rather than in increasing rates. Several conferences were held and application was withdrawn for 1926. This effected a tremendous saving for West Texas business, men and the insuring public.

Would Reduce Losses

The companies took the stand that the first step in reducing losses should be the repeal of the "standard policy" clause of the insurance policy. An unsuccessful effort was made at the past session of the state legislature to repeal this clause. The manner of handling this effort differed from that proposed by representatives of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Little has been done in the matter of instituting a state-wide campaign to reduce losses, and the companies will seek on March 31 to increase rates. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, along with other chambers of commerce of Texas, will intervene in the case and seek to prevent the increases. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce will not be in the attitude of fighting the insurance companies. This organization feels that the companies are entitled to relief, but that increased rates will not afford the relief necessary. This has been proven by past experience. What attitude the State Fire Insurance Commission will adopt remains to be seen.

Steps Needed

Relief for the insurance companies can be obtained within six months if the regional and local chambers of commerce and the fire insurance companies operating in Texas will cooperate in putting on a state wide campaign of education. The amount of physical fire hazards existing in Texas that can be easily removed by a cooperative effort. Cities and towns may secure considerable reduction in their rates by providing proper fire fighting equipment. Local chambers of commerce committees can do a great work in working out fire insurance policy holders who grossly over insure their property, and in eliminating the careless insurance agent who accepts risks indiscriminately and without proper inspection. Fire prevention is already taught in many schools, but this valuable instruction can be instituted in every school. A consciousness needs to be developed in all communities that insurance is merely distribution of loss, that policy holders actually bear all loss by fire. Individual communities throughout Texas are already taking up their insurance matters in a business like way, and many of them are getting results. The West Texas Chamber of Commerce would like to join in a movement to make this state wide.

Test in Store

More depends upon the hearing March 31 than the re-adjustment of rates requested by the companies. If the increases are granted, Texas will merely start again on one of the circles we have been traveling for years. After the first shock of the decision has passed, business will settle down as before. Over insurance and careless acceptance of risks will continue. Losses will mount, and a year or two hence, the companies will be back again, seeking relief with another raise in rates. If the decision is rendered against the companies, and the application is denied, the companies will be ready to lend their full cooperation to the needed state-wide campaign.

Campaign Needed

The three regional chambers of commerce operating in Texas can put on an effective campaign to rid Texas of unnecessary fire losses, and a businesslike and systematic system of handling insurance matters in Texas will come into effect. With this thought in view, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and its affiliated organizations will ask the Insurance Commission to deny the application for increased rates. It is to be hoped that the Commission will realize the importance of their decision and will render a decision that will bring about the dawn of a new day in handling fire insurance in the Lone Star State.

Ropesville School Work Is Recognized

ROPEVILLE, Mar. 21.—The authorities of the Ropesville Public School are in receipt of a letter from the State Department of Education stating that the Ropesville High School has been classified by the Department as a four year high school.

Work in any subject from the High School may now be submitted for accreditation. Application for ten units of affiliation have been applied for this year. It is the ambition of those connected with the school and the community in general that the school may have sixteen full accredited units by the close of the next school year.

Construction of the new High School building is going forward rapidly. The new school will be housed in a new and well equipped building next year. Fine work is expected from that department of the school.

Next Wednesday has been set aside by the faculty as parents day at the local school. All parents are expected to accompany their children to school and spend the day. It is hoped by the faculty of the school that many parents may take advantage of this opportunity and visit the school and note the type of work that is being done.

Enliven Smart Practical Day Chic Dots, Checks and Prints Frocks

PARIS, March 21, 1927.

Your last orders have been executed, your frocks have been ordered—you can now turn your attention to fresh conquests.

Remembering what you said about needing some smart, but practical day frocks, I am sending three photographs which allow you to take your choice between dots, checks and prints.

I feel you will particularly need the dark blue coat dress which comes in a very light weight and is trimmed with the folds, seams and pockets in the approved fashion, and has the cunningly possible drape of white silk with blue dots and a tie of navy blue silk. For traveling, it can imagine nothing more convenient, and traveling gloves clothes their acid test.

By the way, with the navy blue outfit, the smart houses here are advocating the navy blue hat, either in felt or some very fine straw. It completes the costume more effectively than a hat of any other color possibly could. Navy blue, you know, is very flattering to the average skin, it brings out the purple tinge that is supposed to be the mark of each devastating beauty.

Another charming outfit in navy blue is the plaid blouse and plain blue skirt.

Light wool coat dress

A rambly print and crepe roma skirt with plain blouse.

You are slim enough so that the size of these checks need not terrify your soul, and you are just the type of a bit daring. The blouse is of very soft taffeta, which forms also a panel on one side, thus indicating the close degree of intimacy existing between blouse and skirt.

The full skirt, gathered a bit in fact, is of crepe roma which takes lovely folds. It particularly like the round, slipless collar. The sophisticated begins at the collar is my motto.

My third suggestion is the printed silk in black rambly designs on a white ground, bound with bands of red and white. You have no idea how much dash there is to this, and yet at the same time you can wear it practically anywhere at any time, and fear no man.

Among the novelties I noticed in my ramblings was the very decorative but trimmed belt that is being worn with the smart frocks. Some are in of ribbon or silk, stitched and buckled with silver or gold, but at its best it is of silk crepe with a buckle of rhinestones or colored stones. The ones I like best are very narrow, though I have seen them attain considerable width.

For dapper frocks, there is a regular epidemic here of cowbooby chiffon affairs, often with V necks, very low in the back, and skirts that are very short in front and in back, with full garters or inserts at the side that are much longer, thus achieving a very irregular hemline. Many of them have long scarfs, of the material secured in some sketchy manner at the shoulder, that may be wrapped about one arm, or thrown across the front or back, or just allowed to dangle at the end. If you want to be real Spanish, and you know I have recently gone Andalusian—a scarlet flower at the shoulder or waistline will help convey the idea you have in mind.

On afternoon frocks of printed chiffon, I notice many lovely fichu and collar arrangements, with laces, ties, and very feminine little twists. Usually such a frock raises its waistline almost to the normal knee, because it is infinitely more effective, thus, and the skirt should be very short, and sometimes flaring.

Life has been rather dull here since the gaiety of the Riviera. Jacques has definitely planned to come to America this summer, and I shall expect you to keep him from falling in love with too many rich heiresses at one time. Do write soon.

Your admiring cousin,
GERMAINE.

AXES FALL ON NECKS OF ROOKIES IN MAJOR LEAGUE CAMPS

John Jarrott Annexes Title In C. C. Golf Tourney

COBB DRIVES IN BOTH RUNS FOR GAME FOR MACK

GIANTS BEATEN 2-1, TEN INNINGS; QUINN IS UNBEATABLE

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, March 21.—Axes are being ground in the camps of the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers for the necks of a score of recruits.

You ask why, as you remind me it is much the same team that failed so miserably last season.

True! It is much the same team, but you would never recognize them as the athletes go through their spring training to fit themselves for the long grind.

As I watched Manager Howley—They call him "Howling Dan," and I might add that his voice is already in mid-season form—put his players over the jumps for two hours, three things impressed me most forcibly.

First, the spirit of the club. Not in years have I seen a Browne team show so much interest in its work. Every player on the field seemed to be taking his task seriously, intent upon fitting himself to win a regular berth.

Second, the fine condition of the team for so early in the year. It seemed the players realized the new manager must be shown and, with that in mind, only one or two reported oversights.

Third, the fact that Howley appears to have added considerable strength to his lineup through the acquisition of several veterans of known ability and a number of mighty promising recruits.

Dan Howley, who is to lead the Browns this year and the successor of the popular George Sisler, is a hustler himself and fairly exudes the old fighting spirit. He insists his players show the same stuff.

Last year he won a pennant for Toronto, dethroning Jack Dunn at Baltimore. After Dunn had reigned supreme for seven consecutive years. He followed this by defeating Louisville, champions of the American Association, in five straight games.

The Toronto club of 1926 was a colorful, hustling aggregation that produced great results. Howley intends that the Browns of the year have color as well as hustle. He insists those two assets invariably bring winning results.

It strikes me that his infield will be made up of slider at first, McMillan at second, Gerber at short and Miller at third. In reserve he has O'Rourke, a great defensive player and one of the smartest in the majors. He also has Shortstop Otis Miller of Toronto.

Sisler and Gerber are regulars of

Saint Louis Browns Look Like Brand New Ball Club; Howley Is Satisfied

(By Associated Press)

TARPOON SPRINGS, Fla., March 21.—The St. Louis Browns training here are going to be a much improved baseball machine over the 1926 model.

You ask why, as you remind me it is much the same team that failed so miserably last season.

True! It is much the same team, but you would never recognize them as the athletes go through their spring training to fit themselves for the long grind.

MANAGER DAN HOWLEY

last year, McMillan, who played every position in the infield except first, will be used at his regular position, second. Mullen, who had a brief trial with the Detroit Tigers last spring, will play third. He had a big year at Toronto under Howley.

In addition to his holdover outfielders of last season, Harry Rice, Benjaet, Ken Williams and Bing Miller, Howley has the highly-touted Fred Schulte.

Schulte is a big husky fellow, built along the lines of Harry Hellman, except that he is perhaps 20 pounds lighter. He hits right-handed and takes a mean cut at the ball. In the field he is surprisingly fast, a fine pitcher.

It will be mighty hard to keep this young man out of the lineup.

The pitching will be much the same, plus Sam Jones, veteran star from the New York Yankees, and Walter Stewart, a snappy looking and acting left-hander, another Howley protegee from Toronto.

The veteran Steve O'Neill is the only addition to the catching department. His experience and ability should help the Browns.

Much the same material, I admit, but a new model that promises to hit on all eight and set a fast pace.

DEFEATS HENRY McLARTY AFTER BITTER BATTLE

RUNNER-UP LAST SEASON PROVES ABILITY IN HECTIC CAMPAIGN

(By Associated Press)

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 21.—The Boston Red Sox are off on a personally conducted personality campaign. If they get anywhere in baseball it will be directly due to the personality of William F. Carrigan, who was returned to the scenes of his former triumphs, after an absence of ten years, in an effort to get Boston out of last place in the American League.

Bill Carrigan has personality plus and he has instilled a spirit in the Red Sox they have not known in recent years.

Manager Carrigan, who says that he has not seen more than thirty games in the ten years of his retirement, has come back with a vim which has proved contagious. The Red Sox are hustling now. How far they can go remains to be seen but a casual spectator at the practice periods can see there is smoke in the camp which may break into fire as the season starts.

Catching is Strangely Good

The team of necessity will be much the same as that of last year with one department notably strengthened. The club promises to get some good catching. Fred Hofmann, formerly of the Yankees, has returned to the majors after a stay at St. Paul and with Grover Hartley, veteran major leaguer but still a good receiver and fair hitter, will do the catching. The only contest behind the bat is for the position of third catcher. Clifford Knox, who had a trial with Pittsburgh, seems to be the best prospect.

The Sox have picked up two likely infielders, although their immediate entrance into the lineup is doubtful. Paul Wanninger, who played some good ball for the Yankees, is on hand and making an impressive showing. Russell Robinson, who played last year with both Portsmouth and Mobile, has shown great promise and is a certainty to fill a utility role. If he is ruled shy of enough experience to get him a regular place now.

Infield Is Intact

It seems probable that the infield will be composed of Todd at first base, Regan at second, Rigney at short and Haney at third. Williams Rogell, advanced from the International League, seems to be slated for a utility role along with Rollings and Wanninger.

The outfield presents a problem in one position, assuming that "Baby Doll" Jacobson will take care of one place and Ira Flaxstead flanking him. John Tobin, a veteran who is still a good player, must be considered and two younger players have made their presence felt in the spring. Cleo Carlyle, who compiled a good record with

McInnis Is Satisfied

Manager McInnis is well satisfied with the improvement shown by the Phillies last week and is confident of presenting a strong team in the National league pennant race.

Connie Mack says the Athletics are ready to start their campaign for the American League pennant "most any time" in beating the New York Giants Sunday the Mackmen showed mid-season form.

Manager Jack McCallister of the Cleveland Indians is building his pitching staff around Uhl, Shatane and Levens. It is expected he will work these three stragglers about every fourth day. Walter Miller and Sherry Smith are expected to work every fifth day and if Garland Buckeye starts the season in good shape he is expected to get regular assignments. Benny Karr will probably hold a relief assignment. McCallister starts off a series of practice games at the Lakeland camp Monday between the regulars and youngsters.

Critz Is Out

Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds announced at St. Petersburg that no further effort will be made to deal with Hughey Critz, the Reds holdout second baseman, and that the permanent lineup on the right side of his team would be Wally Pipp at first base and George Kelly at second.

The Boston Red Sox were smarting Monday from their first defeat of the training season, a 2 to 2 setback from the New Orleans Pelicans. On the last four balls pitched, three of the southern team hammered out the winning run.

At St. Petersburg the Boston Braves will take things easy in preparation for the northern trek which starts March 28.

The Chicago Cubs had their hitting clothes on Sunday, and after knocking out fifteen safeties including homers by Hack Wilson and Gabby Hartnett, they came home with the heavy end of a 14 to 1 score against the Angels at Los Angeles. The victory gave the Hurins a clean sweep of the series.

Northern Hints Chi-Sox

A Texas "wrecker" accompanied by Tain made it impossible for the Chicago White Sox to stage the third and final game of their series with the Fort Worth Panthers. Manager Schalk is elated over the early form displayed by outfielder Bib Falk. The ransy Texan is hitting the ball to all corners of the lot and fielding brilliantly.

Seven Exhibitions

Seven exhibition games have brought the St. Louis Cardinals down to a batting average of .252 where as they finished last season with a .286 average.

The St. Louis Browns at Tarpon Springs were on their toes for the resumption of the series with the Brooklyn Dodgers Monday. They have won five of the seven games thus far.

While Connie Mack, John McGraw and other managers have headed up this year with veterans, Manager George Moriarty of the Detroit Tigers will be in the field with a squad whose average age is 26, bearing complications. Moriarty believes the team will be fortified by youth for several years.

Pirates Break Even

The Pittsburgh Pirates broke even in their exhibition games in San Francisco Sunday taking the morning from the Seals, 11 to 1 and the afternoon contest 7 to 6 to Mission Bears.

Manager "Ducky" Harris of the Washington Senators, himself only a year in point of age in big league baseball, is inclined to pad out his coaching staff with youngsters rather than hold on to the veterans whose dependability has become an uncertain quantity. He has tentatively slated "Curly" Ogden for the minors. The senators open a two game series with the world champions St. Louis Cardinals at Avon Park Monday.

ALL NEW CATCHERS

John McGraw is depending on Jack Cummings and Al Devorner, with a third catcher, to do the receiving for the Giants this season. All are newcomers to the Giants. Devorner has been up before, but Cummings is a youngster. None of the catchers of last year's team is with McGraw this season.

Canada celebrates her diamond jubilee as a nation this year.

GEORGE SISLER OUT FOR BLOOD

Great First Sacker, Flop As Manager, Is Out To Get Honors As Player

TARPOON SPRINGS, Fla., Mar. 21.—George Sisler is himself again. Having thrown off the responsibilities of a big league manager, the game's greatest first baseman is a career player once more.

Sisler lacked the proper temperament for a manager. It was a mistake to appoint him. He erred when he accepted the job.

Coming back to the game after being out of active service for a year because of eye trouble, it was all wrong to hand him the added task of manager.

Having accepted the management of the club, Sisler early realized that his play was being seriously affected by the worries that ate a part of the job. However, a success in all things, he hated to admit failure as a manager.

Last season convinced him that too much was plenty, that if he was to regain his prestige as a player, as a batsman in particular, he should confine his activities to first base and give up the management.

Sisler batted only .289 last season and he is nominally a .350 hitter better. That seems a lasting average of less than .300 decided Sisler that managing wasn't worth while. He gave up the club at the end of the 1926 race.

"I feel great," said Sisler when queried as to his condition. A pleasing Sisler smile that has been missing for several years accompanied the words. The serious look, almost a frown, that seemed to play over Sisler's face as he talked with you as manager has been wiped away.

"I have had enough of the manager's stuff for a time at least," he continued. "I want to regain my playing prestige before I ever give any thought to it again."

"I am in better shape physically than in years. Perhaps that may be accounted for by the fact that I have had nothing to worry me during the winter. The mental strain of getting ready for the opening of the season has been missing."

"My eyes feel as good as ever. I hope to bat at least 50 points better than last season. I realize Dan Howley's tough job as manager and I hope to go big for him."

"Possibly the fans expected too much from me. Perhaps I didn't have as good a team as most of them believed. Anyway, I didn't get results. I hope to do more than my bit now in putting Dan Howley across where I failed."

"I have no grievances because of my passing from the ranks of manager to mere player. As a matter of fact, for the first time in years, I feel like a youngster, raring to make good."

More Eggs... Strong Sturdy Pullets... at LESS COST

Do you want more eggs—at less cost? Experiments conducted by the Texas Experiment Station give good evidence of the usefulness of COTTONSEED MEAL as a feed for laying hens. Our specialists on feeds and feeding have prepared a very complete and authoritative folder on the value of COTTONSEED MEAL 43% protein as a poultry ration. The ration and methods of feeding baby chicks, growing pullets, laying hens, etc. have been completely worked out. Results from experiments are given. No raiser of poultry should be without the information this folder contains. Write for it. It's free.

A Statue for a Heroine

A group of highly interesting bits of sculpture has been displayed in New York recently. It is made up of pieces offered in competition for a prize for the best portrayal of "The Pioneer Woman."

Among the figures submitted as might be expected, are many diverse conceptions. One artist shows the pioneer woman as a young girl in flowing dresses, another as a bent, haggard old woman, worn out by toil, another as a woman, motherly sort of goodness, serene and untroubled.

We don't know which piece the judges will select. Probably, no matter which statue is selected, a lot of people will criticize it. Yet it is a good thing that the competition is being held. It serves to remind us of the debt that we owe to the pioneer women of America.

The pioneer woman has been neglected in our histories. Here is the eye that has been but poorly written, the tragedy that too often goes un-sung.

We have waxed eloquent about the bearded, two-fisted men who crossed the great plains in the gold rush of '49; about the browned old adventurers who blazed the trail to Oregon and the northwest; about the kaval woodsmen who tracked up Kentucky and the rich middle west in the days when Washington still lived. All of these men have been given their due.

But when have we paused to consider that the American frontier was never a womanless frontier? The men whose axes cleared away the forests of Indiana and Ohio were daughterly heroes, surely. But they had wives, and these wives lived in bare cabins, bore and reared big families, cultivated gardens, made clothes and endured hunger, pain and danger without limit. The long trek across the plains was heroic and magnificent of course, but there were women in those eastern wagon, as well as men, sharing the difficulties in even greater measure.

The pioneer woman had all the worst of it, as a matter of fact. The thrills and savage joys of the adventure were not for her. Plain drudgery, dreariness and a cloaky-habit, 24 hours were her lot. She gave birth to her children in a rude hut, usually without any medical attention, who got up and resumed her heavy daily duties a few days later, uncomplaining and persevering. She is out of the romantic, heroic figure the male pioneer is. There is little of romance about a woman grown old and haggard at 35, with a bent back and straggly gray hair and a deep-lined hopeless face. Yet she deserves the high tribute of a nation, none the less.

She, as much as the tall rifleman in buckskin leggings and broad-brimmed hat, gave us our west. If a prize statue will help remind us of that fact it will be well.

A Dramatic Career

W. E. Woodward, one of the biographers who wrote a new life of Washington during the past year, is going to tackle U. S. Grant next.

"Grant," says Woodward, "was one of the most dramatic of our heroes. At the age of 23 he was an obscure and broken man, sitting idly in a company store. His opportunities were all apparently behind him."

Who would have dreamed at the beginning of the Civil War that this seedy, discouraged failure was to become leader of the Union armies and president for two terms?

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

A man might just as well butt his head against a stone wall as to argue about religion.

The girl who used to be the kind of a girl that men forget seems now to have become the kind of a girl they can't forget.

Movie comedies are said to be booming better every day but there is nothing that will ever take the place of the old family album.

A very successful business man once said that if he had his way about it he would never employ a man either the year before, or the first year after his marriage. A very selfish view to take of the matter.

The Plainsman believes and one, if put into practice, which would do more to undermine the nation than any other one thing he can think of. The statement doesn't sound like one coming from a successful man. It shows a lack of clear thinking.

An editorial writer on a great metropolitan paper recently quoted the Plainsman's view of the proposed Texas tobacco tax which was voted down by the legislature. The Plainsman thought he was right in his belief that the tax was unfair but since finding someone who agrees with him has decided that after all he might have been wrong.

Show me a man who has no enemies and I'll show you a man who does nothing.

NEWS ITEM—Emory Pools will be executed tomorrow for driving without a tail light. Rev. Jehosaphat Smith, who was recently freed on a charge of murdering his choir leader on account of her singing off key, has signed a contract to hold revival services in New York and will then enter the movies.

A lot of older people who are so terribly worked up over the morals of the younger generation should check up on their own actions.

The Plainsman heard the other day that a Lubbock man, after being saved from a burning house, had given his saviour 50 cents and that the man who saved his life gave him 33 cents change.

A gentleman may be just as much of a gentleman at four o'clock in the morning as he is at four o'clock in the afternoon but it's much harder to do.

Old Master's

The world is too much with us; late and soon, getting and spending, we lay waste our powers; little we see in Nature that is ours.

We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!

This sea that bares her bosom to the moon; the winds that will be howling at all hours; and are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers.

For this, for everything, we are out of tune; it moves us not. Great God! I'd rather be A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn.

So might I standing on this pleasant hill, have glimpses that would make me less forlorn; have sight of Proteus rising from the sea; Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

Hefflin and King speak oftener than any other two senators on life feet. It is generally found to be speaking against some of his "enemies" or denouncing some measure. King most often opposes some piece of legislation and probably has opposed more bills than any other senator.

Congress has gone home, but the offices of congressmen and senators home urging passage or defeat of the radio bill, the McNary-Haugen farm bill or other legislation long since disposed of. Of course these letters—sometimes they're telegrams—grow fewer and fewer as the news gets around that it's all over.

A week after the radio bill had gone to the president, Senator Mayfield received 11 telegrams urging him to vote for it and same on the following. Most of them came from Amarillo, where considerable static apparently had been experienced.

Crime would fall off if the people would start paying on their own homes, says a Michigan builder. The trouble is that with punctures and the price of gas, they're so hard to maintain.

The Mighty Hunter Again Goes Forth

WASHINGTON LETTER

His Back to the Chair. The Champions. Bad But Effective. Reaming Senators. Still Writing.

By RODNEY DUTCHER (NEA Service Writer).

WASHINGTON, March 21.—From the standpoint of official dignity, at least, Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama, who went out of political life with the demise of the Sixty-ninth Congress, probably will not be missed by the president of the Senate.

Although Vice President Dawes never made public comment about it, he doubtless has been somewhat pained by Senator Underwood's past denunciations of unfortunate manners.

The veteran Alabama senator had his own way of addressing the Senate. Generally, when he spoke, he arose from his front row seat on the center aisle, stood in front of his desk and faced the Senate with his back to the gentleman in the chair.

To sticklers for senatorial courtesy and all that, this was very bad form. But it always proved effective, for it enabled Underwood to utilize his key-point location to its full advantage, whereas if he had merely faced the chair he would have his back to every-one else in the Senate. Some senators have purposely picked the more central desks as the best positions from which to deliver their oratory.

Others walk all over the place, speaking or not. Copeland of New York is the champion runner. He never stands at his desk and often addresses particular senators during his speeches by planting himself directly in front of them.

Former Senator France of Maryland was an incurable walker, too, but he always walked up and down the rear of the Senate chamber, next to the wall, when unburdening himself to Caraway of Arkansas, next to Copeland. He paced the floor like a restless lion, parking his hands in his pants pockets with coat buttoned and generally gazing toward the carpet. His voice is likely to be heard from any part of the chamber.

Most senators, however, prefer to stick to their own desks and to speak from them. The folks in the gallery generally have no way to identify them except by numbered charts of the floor which are presented to them and thus, if senators don't watch out, they are likely to have someone else making a speech from their own desks which will be credited to themselves and which expresses a point of view opposite to their own.

Hefflin and King speak oftener than any other two senators on life feet. It is generally found to be speaking against some of his "enemies" or denouncing some measure. King most often opposes some piece of legislation and probably has opposed more bills than any other senator.

Congress has gone home, but the offices of congressmen and senators home urging passage or defeat of the radio bill, the McNary-Haugen farm bill or other legislation long since disposed of. MR. GALLIVAN TALKS

The Mexican government has spent $2,000,000 in getting under way an organized movement in this country to discredit President Coolidge, declares Representative Gallivan, democratic Massachusetts, in a Congressional Record appendix. He accuses preachers, press and professors of getting their share of this foreign money.

Representative Gallivan is chiefly noted for his furious and intemperate assaults on the eighteenth amendment to the American constitution.

The Mexican government has "made a filthy alliance with the Ku Klux Klan to infect religious history into the controversy between this country and Mexico," asserts the Massachusetts radical. "They have underwritten radical religious and uplift organizations of all varieties to circulate the country in defamation of our country."

The congressman's speech doesn't jibe with known conditions, however. Many special magazine and newspaper correspondents have journeyed into Mexico in recent months and written up the situation there. They are unanimous in one conclusion. The Calles government could not exist a month if United States recognition were withdrawn. On another point they are almost unanimous. The oil controversy is a mere sideshow, while the religious controversy is the fly in the ointment.—Abilene Reporter.

HERE'S HOPING

Most of the friends of good government and common sense in public life will hope that Governor Moody sees fit to veto the bill repealing the Ferguson amnesty act.

This, not because of alleged threats of Ferguson adherents to make political capital out of it if the governor does approve the measure, but because it is a bill that never should have been passed in the first place and in the sort of sniping legislation that ought never to become law.—Abilene News.

BARB'S

is Everybody Miserable

Harry K. Thaw has thought out a project which he said would make all people happy, according to a dispatch. Maybe it's a Maxim silencer for an alarm clock. People are happier when asleep says a noted thinker, which gives rise to the quaint observation that there is lots of misery in the world these nights. Maybe Thaw has figured out a way to abolish the United States senate. Could it be possible he has discovered a plant to clean up this chess skulduggery? But he says it will take $3,500,000 to put his project into action and he is willing for someone to put up the money. Why doesn't he ask Harry Lauder for it?

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING? and BROADWAY

NEW YORK, March 21.—Unless the immigration authorities can stop it on the ground of "moral turpitude," or some similar ground, the noise of this city is about to be increased by the "Mallet Mechanique."

This is the celebrated composition of George Antheil, consisting, we are told, of some 11 mechanical pianos, all going at once, eight xylophones, four bass drums and a few airplane propellers.

With all going at once the sound, perhaps, may prove an echo of a busy afternoon at Times Square.

Maybe this was the inspiration, for the composer, who set Paris on its ears and now returns with this last work in modernism, came—not from Moscow—but from Paterson, N. J.

Our own sight-seeing bus—the still-walking sandwich man of Broadway flitting with a stenographer in a second story window. Lovely models from the Seventh Avenue cloak-and-suit belt lunching in the Pennsylvania. Of course, with escorts. And wearing fur coats so gorgeous that they must be from stock. This idea becomes particularly convincing when one notices their hats, which are rather cheap and, hence, perhaps their own.

Girls arranging cigarettes in a Broadway window. Particularly the one with her legs crossed. Scores of men are packed at the window. Somehow we feel they are not looking at the cigarettes. And, somehow we also feel the girl was not hired for her facility at cigarette-handling.

The parade uniforms worn by toilers in a 24th street shoe repairing emporium.

A house built on a motor truck. Actually it is a tall, elegant, elegant model and coats are pressed while you wait and the wise young man who conducts this establishment does not have to pay rent. His shop can be in any district to which he wishes to drive. Wonder why this wouldn't work in rural communities?

Remains of the famous Clark mansion on Fifth Avenue. They called it "Clark's folly" and its cost was placed at seven million. It was built in 1888. Among other things 24 servants' quarters and a ceiling hewed from Sherwood forest.

It's the world's largest market place now.

The White Hand gang used to operate there and blood spilled freely where Italians now sell their vegetables and the pungent aroma of high-proof cheese smites the air.

Wallabout Market it is called! The gang seems long ago and far away, and as the merchants cry their peaceful wares it seems incredible that this was once the theater of war for Jack Caniff, Joe Lahey and such veterans of the quick-trigger finger.

Probably no district in America held more menace in its time for a solid front than the stronghold of gangsterdom, this belt sheltered also a crew of slick thieves and robbers, who became known as the "Hitters."

One by one the gangs of old vanish from the scene.

Over on the East Side, where 14th street picks up its assortment of movie houses, free sales and cheap stores, there is no hint of barking dogs, and Hell's Kitchen is a line of peaceful street vendors.

And old Wallabout, as tough as any, and tougher than some, turns out to be the home of a 45-acre market place. GILBERT SWAN. (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

SAINT AND SINNER

COPYRIGHT 1926 NEA BY ANNE AUSTIN

AFTER a number of questions concerning the exact location of the body and its appearance, Banning instructed Bob to go on with his narrative.

"I stooped over my uncle. His head was resting on the right cheek, in a pool of blood. Bob's voice thickened as with tears. 'I did not touch him, for I realized instantly that he was dead. I-I saw that the back of his skull had been shattered. I looked about me, of course, and I saw a large Chinese vase lying on the carpet between the body and the open window. His emphasis on the word 'open' was as unmistakable as the impression he desperately hoped to create—that his uncle had been slain by a person crouched in the open window."

Churchill smiled triumphantly but Banning scowled, realizing that his witness, an unwilling witness at best, was running away from him.

"Just a minute, Mr. Hathaway," Banning signalled to one of the assistant district attorneys, who immediately produced a well wrapped package from a black valise.

Removing the paper wrappings with great care, Banning hefted a tall, thick Chinese vase of cracked porcelain, ornamented with gaudy flowers and birds in a bold, raised design. "I offer this vase, your honor, as State's Exhibit B; also, as part of the exhibit, these two pieces which were broken from it and which exactly fit the lip of the vase."

To Faith it seemed an interminable time before Churchill was satisfied as to the admission of the exhibit, its condition, etc. But at last Banning went on with his questioning of the witness.

"You were on intimate terms with your uncle, Mr. Hathaway? You visited him frequently?"

"Yes," Bob answered unhesitatingly.

"Can you tell the court and jury where this vase was accustomed to stand?"

"On the low bookcase immediately to the right of the window which was open when I entered the room," Bob answered with great definiteness.

"Now, Mr. Hathaway," Banning went on in an annoyed voice, "just what did you do immediately after you had satisfied yourself that your uncle was dead?"

"I ran to the door and shouted for the maid, Mary Kearney, who had admitted me to the house. She came out of the kitchen."

"Repeat your exact words, if you remember them, Mr. Hathaway."

"As nearly as I can remember I said, 'Mr. Churchill is dead, Mary. For God's sake—or something like that—what has happened here?'"

"And what did Mary Kearney say to you, Mr. Hathaway?" Banning went on relentlessly.

"I don't remember exactly," Bob flushed. "I said something like this: 'Cherry! Oh, my God! Poor Faith!' or 'This will kill Faith!'"

Banning puffed out his corky little chest and almost cried. "When you made that remark, Mr. Hathaway, did you believe that this defendant—"

"Objection!" Churchill roared like an angry lion.

"Objection sustained!" Judge Grishaw rapped with his gavel. "Confine your questions to what the witness did and said, not to what he thought or believed."

"Very well, Mr. Hathaway. Go on with your story in your own words."

Gargle Is Soothing, But Doesn't Hurt Germs

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

MOST specialists are convinced gargles reach the tissues only in the throat in sufficient quantity or strength to permit them to have much effect in killing germs or in curing disease.

They have, however, the value of washing out everything that they can reach and of relieving dryness of the mouth and throat and of substituting a good taste in the mouth for one that may be unpleasant.

If it is necessary to apply antiseptic solutions to the tonsils or the back of the throat, or to the cheeks, these are best applied by spreading with a cotton swab which has been dipped in a solution of the appropriate strength. Sprays from an atomizer properly used will also reach the parts affected better than gargles.

Since the primary purpose of the mouth wash or throat wash is cleansing and soothing rather than germ-killing, one of the best simple cleansing washes is salt solution made up of one-fourth teaspoonful of salt to a half glass of warm water. If there is much mucus present, the addition of a quarter teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda is sometimes beneficial.

Most of the mouth washes and gargles sold in the drug stores contain a basis of water, salt, bicarbonate of soda, or boracic acid, with additional flavoring materials of various kinds.

Alcohol is astringent, cleansing and antiseptic. It is frequently recommended by physicians as a gargle or mouth wash, one part of alcohol being used to four or five parts water.

If the mouth is dry during an illness, chewing gum, or the drinking of some effervescent waters, such as ginger ale or Vichy, has a pleasant effect. It serves also to increase the flow of saliva and prevent drying of the membranes.

A person who is convalescing from a long illness in which there has been much fever suffers greatly with dryness of the mouth and sometimes with scaling. It is, therefore, especially important to examine the mouth after an illness to find out whether the teeth, the gums, or the throat have been badly infected, and to relieve any inflammations that may be present.

As A Woman Sees It

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

MOTHERS

POOLS rush in where angels fear to tread! But once again here I been asked to write a word of encouragement to the intelligent cultured woman, the thoughtful, sensible woman, about having children.

This from the anti-feminists. I cannot take sides. To begin with it is none of my business. I have always backed the policy of personal freedom and personal choice for women. They, like the younger generation, are bolting from centuries of authority. Now they are thinking for themselves. Perhaps they have gone to extremes— all new movements are at first apt to be extremes.

I have a rather deep conviction that the reaction is going to be strong. I believe that some day women will look upon child-bearing not as a burden but a privilege and that there will be more children in the homes where we would have them.

Woman has been subservient to the child for centuries. That was for the good of the race as a whole. It may still be the best thing for the race. But some one has decided recently that liberty and self-expression may be just as good for the race biologically, as child-bearing, perhaps.

That is the ethical side of it. But I believe that the type of woman under discussion, being a thinker herself, will decide that reproduction is not only a social issue but the greatest personal good that can come to her.

I do not consider the childless woman without her uses, as regards the race and the future— by any means. A gentleman remarked to me that no house, however beautifully furnished, could ever be as lovely to him as the plainest home where there were children. And he went on to say that women with children who had no money for luxuries got discouraged when they compared their lot with that of their more fortunate (?) sisters.

I pointed out to him that I, who belong to the "plain home" class was never jealous of my more materially fortunate sisters. Furthermore, I pointed out that my contact with them and their culture and with people I met in their homes, the thoughtful, intelligent people of all kinds, gave me something very fine that reacted upon my children. My children also visit in these homes and are directly benefited.

But apropos of nothing at all I am going to add, "To me there is nothing on earth as sweet as a baby."

Opening Gun Fired In C. Of C. Drive By Chairman Of 'Thought Survey' Plan

FIRST GROUP MEETING IS TO BE HELD AT CITY HALL TOMORROW

With the first of the series of "thought survey" meetings by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development, held in the offices of the organization in the city hall Monday morning with about 25 members of group meetings present, a movement was started whereby the wishes and desires of the citizenship of the city as pertaining to development and growth will be obtained as a definite program of work for the organization.

The purpose of the meetings, as explained by A. B. Davis, manager of the organization, is to build a program of work by interchange of ideas as to what the city needs, and group these wants into a guide for officers, directors and committees of the organization. Such a plan has been used successfully in over 150 similar organizations in the United States, and is heartily endorsed by the American City Bureau.

Every Member Helps The adoption of such a program not only gives the Chamber of Commerce a definite objective, but is the basis of real democracy in the organization. It was said further, accurately reflecting wishes of the membership and expressing outstanding needs of the community.

A meeting of the first group of 25 members of the organization is to be held Tuesday morning, with one of the chairman who were present Monday in charge, and a similar program in the one held today will be engaged in.

At the Monday meeting, various suggestions for general betterment of the city and surrounding territory were offered, including advertising of the possibilities of this section of the state outside of the cotton belt to widen the field from which the territory draws its executives, and conducting a campaign of good will throughout the section, not only between this and other cities, but other cities one with the other.

Other Suggestions Given

Promotion of joint meetings between business men and farmers; an industrial survey to disclose what is needed and what is not needed in the industrial life of this city; a fair and equitable method of levying taxes in all three divisions of collection; revision of freight rates to this city to abolish discrimination; a campaign for a spirit of friendliness, not only among local people, but local people with visitors; and others, promotion of education for local people through the Tech college so that they may be better acquainted with accessories and subjects of the institution; and various other similar suggestions, that, in the unanimous opinion of those present are all necessary to the general welfare of the city and territory.

The group meetings will be held during this and next week, when other citizens will be called in for similar discussions. These will be announced as they are held, and the membership of the organization will be in charge of the meetings.

MRS. FARRELL

I had forgiven him. I loved him the third time because I had hope.

But now, after three separations, my love, my hope and my forgiveness are dead. What is there left?

John was a good man. He is a chauffeur. I said he was cruel to me and that is as far as I want to go. I have left him forever and all.

I will never take him back again.

Three is both the lucky and unlucky number.

I don't know why I dared the third time. Perhaps it was because I am a woman.

Women do strange things when they are in love.

I haven't lost faith in all men. But I have had enough of men for a long time to come.

Who can tell what the future holds? I may marry again. No one knows. Surely I have no one in mind now.

Whoever it may be, if it be anyone, I shall set the limit at one chance.

There will be no two or three chances. For you can bet that no man will ever get that many chances from me—no again.

Big Spring to Have New Hotel Building

BIG SPRING, March 21.—A. J. Crawford, president of the Pecos Valley Mercantile Company, Inc., has submitted blue prints of plans and specifications for a modern five story 100 room hotel and has had these plans accepted by the Hotel Committee of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce. This building is to be of a high class of yellow brick five stories with basement, will be strictly modern in both structure and equipment and will be located at the corner of West Third and Severy. The lot was purchased by the citizens of Big Spring from the T. & P. Railroad Company and donated to Mr. Crawford. The new structure will carry Mr. Crawford's name and will be a credit to the town, says Mr. Crawford. The excavating will begin Friday the 18th. The contract for the building proper will be let within the next ten days. The building is to cost approximately $260,000. Every effort will be used to complete the building within five months.

During 1926 one person out of every hundred lost an umbrella in Paris, records of lost and found departments show. Thirty thousand umbrellas were found.

Gabriel, hangerman for the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, is dead in Moscow. He officiated at 645 executions, received $2,500 annually, and a bonus of $50 for each hanging.

Floydada to Have Community Contest

FLOYDADA, MAR. 21.—A contest very similar to the "My Home Town" contest sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is being sponsored by the Floydada Chamber of Commerce.

Any student in a rural school may compete in what is to be known as "My Community" contest to be held here Saturday, April 9 in connection with the Intercollegiate League meet. A loving cup will be offered as the first premium to the winner of the contest and will become the permanent property of the school winning it.

Probably the largest attendance to a County League meet will be present for the event to be held here Friday and Saturday, April 8 and 9, according to Superintendent J. C. Wester, who is making plans to take care of an extra large crowd both days.

With the possible exception of two years the Floydada High School has captured the all county championship loving cup but each year the competition between Floydada and Lockney is keen and enjoyed by large crowds from over the county. The local high school is the possessor of thirteen cups at the present time.

Spring Has Come? Today's The Day

Whether or not today seems different from any of the other days of the year, it is. For spring made her debut this morning when the sun first peeped over the eastern horizon following a cold night flooded with teeming moonlight.

It is now the time of year when the wind may blow the hardest with the best success, when the days may be the most gloriously bright and filled with exuberant sunshine, when trees and flowers bud and bloom, when birds peal their clearest notes and when the fancy of youth lightly turns to thoughts—It's spring!

WIFE TELLS OF DEATH OF MATE

CORSET SALESMAN HELD IN JAIL AFTER MURDERING HUSBAND OF HIS SWEETHEART

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, March 21.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder today asserted in a statement to the police that Henry Judd Gray, corset salesman, now under arrest in Syracuse, had murdered her husband, Albert Snyder, fit editor of a magazine yesterday in order that he might be free to marry her.

Press dispatches from Syracuse said that Gray was arrested in that city last night.

Was Hidden in Home According to the alleged confession, Mrs. Snyder said that Gray was concealed in their home in Queens village when she, her husband and their 9 year old daughter Lorraine returned early Sunday morning from a card party.

Gray, according to the confession, beat Snyder to death and then wound a picture wire about his throat. In order to throw an aspect on burglary over the crime, Mrs. Snyder said, Mrs. Snyder had told them she had known Gray for two and one half years and that she wanted her husband out of the way in order that she might marry him.

District Attorney Newcombe said that a charge of homicide would be filed against Mrs. Snyder, but declining to say what charge will be placed against Gray.

Body Badly Beaten Physicians said that Snyder had been dead at least six hours before his body was found. His neck had been torn by the finger nails of a person of unusual muscular strength. Picture wire had been tightly wound around his neck, a nail driven down his head and he had been struck on the head. The blows were the primary cause of death.

Snyder was 45 years old, his wife 22.

According to the story Mrs. Snyder told police she returned home from a theater with party with her husband and their daughter at 1:30 a. m. Sunday. They went to bed at 2:15 o'clock, her husband went to sleep immediately, she said, lying on his left side so that his left ear was muffled by the pillow. He was dead in his right ear and so could not easily be awakened.

They Talk It Over "Somebody went down and let Gray in," Mrs. Snyder is reported to have said. She talked for a while with Gray and it was decided that the "latter should kill her husband, the police report.

Detectives learned that Snyder had recently increased his life insurance from $10,000 to $25,000.

In jail at Syracuse, Gray made a flat denial of the crime, but admitted he knew Mrs. Snyder. He stated he had not been in New York for weeks, and asked about his own wife and child who live at East Orange, N. J.

Gray, according to the police, admitted his love for Mrs. Snyder. He said, according to officers that he had been intimate with the woman. But he declared that he never had seen Snyder.

SEVENTY SWEETWATER CITS. JOIN WEST TEXAS C. OF C.

SWEETWATER, March 21.—More than three score and ten Sweetwater citizens are now members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce as a result of a membership drive staged recently by staff officials of the regional organization. That number represents approximately a one hundred per cent increase in memberships here. It is thought that by the time of the six annual convention of the West Texas Chamber at Wichita Falls, May 16 and 17, an additional substantial number of members will be added to those who came in this month.

BANDITS LOOT MEXICAN TRAIN

Americans And Others Escape Unhurt As Bullets Flail Entire Caravan

MEXICO CITY, March 21.—Passengers on a railway train bound from Laredo for Mexico City had some appalling moments last night when a band of three hundred rebels, commanded by Rodolfo Gallegos attacked it, shooting promiscuously. By throwing themselves on the floors of the cars, the passengers escaped the bullets.

No one was hurt, as an individual and the rebels took nothing from the passengers. Two pullmans and a first class coach were burned. Previously the rebels had placed 100 cases of dynamite on the tracks in an attempt to blow up the entire train, but the charge did not explode. The conductor was wounded and died later.

Americans on Train

A number of Americans were traveling in the pullman cars, among them Mrs. C. B. Harriman and her two children. She is said to have voluntarily offered money to the rebels. Ten soldiers making up the military escort aboard the train fought valiantly until overwhelmed.

The bandits loaded mules with loot from the express and mail cars and escaped. Reports that they had kidnapped six of the passengers were denied when the train reached Mexico City.

Shanghai War

Several of the latter were reported killed. The fighting was accompanied by the outbreak of serious fires at three points in the native city.

One hundred white Russians were admitted to the foreign settlement after being disarmed, while thousands of Chinese from the native city sought refuge inside the foreign barricades.

Astor House Struck Bullets continued to fall inside the settlements, endangering the lives of the foreigners. The Astor House was struck.

Naval Forces Landed SHANGHAI, Mar. 21.—Naval forces were landed in Shanghai today from all warships in the Whangpoo river of the city.

The municipality declared a state of emergency after the nationalists entered.

French outposts on the furthest border of the French concession had a brush with a small detachment of Chinese troops this afternoon. Shots were exchanged, and the Chinese were driven off.

Three Punjabi were shot during disturbances and one of them died.

All was fairly quiet on the surface in the foreign settlements today. There was no anxiety among the foreigners, thanks to the presence of troops.

A shell fell into the French concession this afternoon. There were no casualties. The authorities do not know where the shells came from.

English Troops Ordered HONGKONG, Mar. 21.—The first battalion of the Devonshire regiment made arrangements today to leave for Shanghai.

Nationalists in Control SHANGHAI, Mar. 21.—Shanghai was virtually in control of the Chinese nationalists forces today, the southerners having forced the native city this morning. When disorders developed near the borders of the international settlement, soon after the nationalist arrived, 1,500 United States marines were landed, while the Japanese landed 900 marines.

Immediately a general strike was ordered to celebrate the coming of the southerners. When it went into effect at noon, there was every indication there would be widespread response by all classes of workers. The strike was entirely political as a show of sympathy with the nationalist victory and to prove the solidity of labor.

U. S. Troops Land Just previous to the nationalist advance into the prize city, 1,200 United States marines from the transport "Chaumont route" marched through the principal streets with full field equipment, steel helmets, fixed bayonets and machine guns. The march was not connected with the Chinese military situation. It was merely to exercise the marines who returned to the ship immediately after the parade.

General Pi Shu-chen, commander of the northern forces in Shanghai, was reported to have taken refuge in the French concession. The Cantonese cut the Shanghai-Nanking Railway.

Italians To Jugo-Slavia BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, Mar. 21.—The newspaper Korost publishes a report from Tirana, Albania, saying four additional Italian warships have arrived at Durazzo, Albania, and unloaded munitions. It also asserts that plans for military operations are being prepared by Italian staff officers.

Kellogg Explains Stand WASHINGTON, Mar. 21.—Landing of American marines in Shanghai is in accordance with the policy laid down by Secretary Kellogg at the time of the original disturbances in that city on the approach of nationalist forces. They are to be employed only for protection of American life and property within the international settlement boundaries.

War craft and marines were assembled at Shanghai in apprehension of disorders that might occur during the transition period while the Shanghai area was passing from control of the northern political and military leadership to that of the southerners.

Jewish Question Up In Ford Trial

(By Associated Press) DETROIT, March 21.—The question of the possible conviction of international Jewry with the $1,000,000 bond suit of Aaron Sapiro against Henry Ford came to the front again today. The jury was dismissed and docks cleared for extensive arguments by opposing counsel.

It was the second time the question had cropped up. The first time, Federal Judge Fred M. Raymond temporarily got rid of the long delay it promised to cause by stating that he would rule when it became necessary.

That moment arrived today. Tracing the incompleteness of the attacks upon Sapiro, Chicago attorney, who became an organizer of farmers co-operative associations, retained for Sapiro, tried to bring out from William J. Cameron, editor of the Ford owned Dearborn Independent, that the series of articles Sapiro claimed libelled him and caused a million-dollar loss to his business at first were intended to concern only Jews as a whole, and that later they were turned to Sapiro as an individual.

Two Safes Cracked By Angelo Thieves

SAN ANGELO, Mar. 21.—Only about $30 in cash was obtained in blowing of the safes at Piggly Wiggly No. 4 and N. A. Austin's No. 2, suburban groceries here, during the week-end. The robberies were discovered Sunday. The explosions were muffled by the use of sacks of sugar and feed. Some burglary tools were left at both places. Checks totaling over $800 but not endorsed were taken from the Piggly Wiggly store.

PROVENCE ASKS HELP FOR TECH

College Business Manager, in Talk Before C. C. Wants Aid in 'Sales Talk'

There are very few people in Lubbock who really can tell a stranger in this city what is being done along educational lines at the Tech college, except to say that it is a wonderful institution that has made sensational growth. E. W. Provence, business manager of the institution told a group of citizens in the "thought survey" meeting in the chamber of commerce offices Monday morning.

He suggested that a campaign be conducted to acquaint local people with the institution "so that they, instead of college officials, will be in position to sell the institution to strangers and visitors here." He said that under existing crowded conditions at the college, officials of the institution are not trying to increase the enrollment at the present, until more room and accommodations can be offered, suggesting that people of this city and vicinity are more directly responsible now for advertising the institution than college officials.

It was his further suggestion that tours be organized among local people, and that several of these, in numbers of from 25 to 25 be conducted, promising that the groups will be escorted personally through the various departments of the school.
