Defense Dollars To Aid Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increased defense spending will make Texas a net gainer in the amount of federal funds it receives despite the Reagan administration's proposed budget cutbacks, says Sen. John Tower.

The Texas Republican said President Reagan's plan to boost the military budget will affect the state's aviation and electronic industries, including the many subcontractors in the aviation field.

Houses Passes Bond Bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has tentatively approved a bill raising from 10 percent to 15 percent the maximum interest rate that the state and local governments may pay on their bonds.

The bill advanced on a voice vote, and final action is expected Wednesday.

More Rain Forecast Today

By The Associated Press

A rainy day was in store for most of Texas today as forecasts called for scattered showers and thunderstorms.

Highs were to range from the mid 50s in the Panhandle to the lower 80s in extreme South Texas.

Fog was forecast for most of the state early today and skies were to be mostly cloudy the remainder of the day.

Scattered showers were reported in many areas of the state early today with shower activity the heaviest in West Texas.

Revelers Greet Fat Tuesday

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A million partygoers greeted Fat Tuesday today with costumed revelry and plenty of spirit as the Mardi Gras festival ended with the traditionally ornate parades that foreshadow an Ash Wednesday hangover of headaches and littered streets.

Twenty-three of the former American hostages in Iran were in town for the festivities and a French Quarter hotel balcony was reserved so that nine ex-hostage Marines could watch today's parades above the throng.

The SDN Column

We have received notice of the publication of what purports to be the last word on a popular Texas dish--chili.

Titled "The Great American Chili Book," it is supposed to have just about everything about chili, past and present, plus a collection of recipes from around the country.

We were somewhat skeptical when we noticed that the author, Bill Bridges, resides in California. However, after delving a bit deeper into the situation, we found that his credentials were bolstered by the fact that he was born in Texas.

The importance of chili to Texas and Texans cannot be over-emphasized, and the subject has commanded the attention of some of the state's better known writers and politicians.

Whether Bridges' effort will eclipse Frank X. Tolbert's "Bowl of Red" remains to be seen, but it reportedly moved Hall John Wimberly, editor of The Goat Gap Gazette, to observe, "Bill Bridges' book confirms my private theory that if we hadn't run out of chili, Texans would have won at the Alamo—and chili would be the national dish."

It is encouraging to know that as far back as 30 years ago people around newspaper offices had problems with errors just as they do today. One was called to our attention the other day following our "Looking Back" column's reference to a big liquor raid here in 1961. It referred to "Sheriff Homer Whisnand." It deveops that, although Whisnand did serve as sheriff here, at that particular time he was a deputy. The sheriff in 1961 was Lloyd Merritt, who now serves as city animal officer.

We mentioned the "big raid" of 1961 to Merritt, and he remembered it. Officers were bringing in bootleggers so fast that the county judge remained on duty all night to hear their pleas, he said.

That was a little before our introduction to Scurry County.

An item that caught our eye on the current scene noted that a "Bundle of Joy Will Cost A Bundle." Here are the details: In 1980, it cost middle-income parents ($22,500 to $27,500 annually) about $84,000 to rear a child. To see one through the first 18 years at home, plus four years in a state university cost a low-income family $100,000 and a middle-class family $140,000. And some people wonder why birth control has become so popular.

Haig Explaining U.S. Role In El Salvador

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. went before a House panel today in an effort to rebut Capitol Hill concern over the Reagan administration's escalating military involvement in El Salvador.

The closed-door briefing for members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee came the morning after a State Department announcement that the United States is sending $25 million in new military aid and 20 more U.S. military training experts to the strife-torn Central American nation.

The increased U.S. support is needed to help the embattled junta put down Marxist rebels who the administration contends are armed by Cuba and other communists countries, administration officials said.

Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., told reporters after the briefing that the secretary had presented a "justification" for the administration's policy and voiced "a rather fervent plea for congressional and presidential harmony" in dealing with the El Salvador issue.

But Solarz said he personally still has "the gravest reservations" about current U.S. policy toward El Salvador, arguing that it may be "contributing to the militarization of what is primarily a political struggle."

Haig declined to speak with reporters, as did Rep. Michael D. Barnes, D-Md., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on inter-American affairs.

A spokesman said Barnes, whose subcommittee plans to hold a hearing on El Salvador later this week, would have no comment on the briefing.

State Department spokesman William Dyess said four five-man teams of advisers will be sent to El Salvador to train the Salvadoran military in communications, logistics, intelligence and other skills to stop infiltration and respond to terrorist attacks.

Dyess said the extra advisers, bringing to 54 the number of Americans serving in military-related capacities in El Salvador, will not go beyond the garrison area or take part in combat operations.

Nevertheless, more than 40 members of the House said in a telegram Monday to President Reagan that one or more of the advisers are likely to be killed, "forcing the United States into another Vietnam or a humiliating withdrawal."

Urban Leaders Strike Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Urban leaders, insisting President Reagan must have someone else in mind when he refers to "selfish interest groups" sniping at his economic recovery plan, are refusing to hold their fire to drive home the impact of proposed budget cuts.

The board of the National League of Cities reacted to the president's speech to the group Monday by adopting a critique which agrees to a few of the concessions

Widow Indicted In Man's Death

A murder indictment was one of 14 bills returned Monday by a Scurry County grand jury.

Q.-If a person paid $50 for a bill of groceries 10 years ago, what would he be paying now for the same bill?

A.-Would you settle for eight years ago? The only figures we have from any type of nationwide calculation on this subject dates back only to 1973. According to the Associated Press survey for a typical "market basket," what you paid $50 for in 1973 costs you $104.50 now.

Water Line Contract, Gas Rate Hike Okayed

The Snyder City Council last night awarded a contract to Panhandle Construction Co. for a major water line improvement project and approved on first reading an ordinance granting a rate increase to Lone Star Gas Co.

Although Panhandle's bid of $355,826 was some $60,000 above prior estimates, it was the lower of two bids received. The cost of four-inch pipe had been underestimated in staff projections, said Mike Smith, city engineer. The project will replace lines in 19 of some 60 segments that are in need of upgrading, the council was told.

The gas company rate request had been under consideration since November. It will increase Lone Star's revenues here by six percent, according to company calculations.

The water line project was approved on a 4-1 vote, with Councilmen Don Gressett, John Best, Joe Reaves and Rod Waller voting for the contract and Councilman Ed Thrift voting against it.

On the gas company rate ordinance, Councilmen Thrift, Reaves, Waller and Best voted for it and Gressett abstained.

Price Construction Co. of Snyder had the successful bid for the purchase of gravel for street sealcoating. Its bid of $9.80 per ton was the lower of two proposals received.

American Petrofina submitted the only bid on asphalt, $174.40 per ton, and it was accepted.

The council approved a grant of $8,000 from the hotel-motel tax fund to Historic Scurry County, Inc., to be used in moving and restoring the Dodson House, a local Medallion Home. The organization plans to develop the house as a tourist attraction, the council was told. It is the only 19th century house still standing in Scurry County, and it must be moved from its present location at 31st St. and College Ave. to clear the property there for new offices of First Federal Savings and Loan.

Dr. Harry Krenek, Jean Everett and Paul Sizemore, HSC officers, presented the proposal to the council. Approval of the grant came on a 3-2 vote, with Councilmen Reaves, Best and Gressett voting for it and councilmen Thrift and Waller voting against it.

Buster and Larry Anderson of Anderson and Anderson, Certified Public Accountants, presented the annual audit of city funds. In his comments, Larry Anderson said the city had been given an unqualified report, and that the city "is in very fine shape financially."

A resolution supporting the Colorado River Municipal Water district's proposal to amend the 1949 legislative act creating the water district was approved. CRMWD is seeking authority to serve as agent for bonds which any business or industry might

Reagan To Ask Money For Nerve Gas Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is expected to ask Congress for money to prepare for possible production of a new nerve gas weapon, Pentagon sources say.

Actual production would start only if President Reagan made a specific decision to do so.

The new administration's proposals to increase the defense budget for this fiscal year probably will include $20 million to install production equipment at the Army's Pine Bluff, Ark., arsenal, the sources said.

The Carter administration's farewell defense budget contained no provision for preparations to begin manufacturing binary chemical munitions. Congress voted $3.1 million last year, but it was only to refurbish arsenal buildings.

Binary munitions consist of two chemical components that Army experts say are harmless when separate, but which form a lethal nerve agent when mixed.

china moves slowly

The show trial is over. Jiang Qing (Chiang Ching? they keep changing the spelling), the late chairman Mao's widow, has been dutifully convicted of being a villain, sentenced to death, but given a two-year reprieve to reform through labor.

The American press has dutifully reported it, trying to squeeze a little drama out of the lady's attitude of defiance to the end. The Chinese press already is saying there may be other "hostile elements" lurking about the workers' paradise.

What is one to make of all this? The trial of Mms. Mao, other members of the "gang of four" and a few added conspirators, was billed as a showpiece of China's new legal system, with all its respect for due process and rules of procedure.

The trial has been seen as evidence of a public turning away from the hyper-collectivist excesses of the late, unlamented cultural revolution through a public purging of those held responsible for it.

The vaunted new judicial system returned the predetermined verdict pretty much on schedule. Should we whoop and yell that justice is now safe in China? The faction that lost the power struggle following Mao's death has been declared traitorous and criminal. Shall we rejoice in the triumph of due process and politicial enlightenment?

We do see some evidence of a receding of reliance on central planning and the command economy, and greater tolerance for private economic activity and individual enterprise in China. We hope the evidence is reliable and the trend will continue toward something more closely resembling a free economy, for the sake of the Chinese people.

We would be gratified if those many millions could some day aspire to something better than a hand-to-mouth, day-to-day subsistance.

But when such vaunted reforms are carried out amidst the atmosphere of deceit and sham that surrounded the trial of Mao's widow, we wonder about the sincerity of those in power.

China's economy would probably collapse altogether if the authorities didn't tolerate some degree of private economic activity. But the authorities don't seem ready yet for the kind of honesty that would be a welcome accompaniment to reforms in that direction.

my turn

by john dunnam

The Methodists had a wild game night Friday. I was planning on going because I was certainly in the mood for some wild games. Then someone explained that the wild game they had in mind was elk, barbecued armadillo, fried rattlesnake, that sort of thing. I suddenly had a headache.

Eating what crawls, hops or slithers is not a new concept to civilized man. But most of us, in our abundance, have become too spoiled to chomp down on anything besides dead chickens and their embryos; dead cows, swine, such dainties as that.

Even among the socially elite, however, there have been notable exceptions, which brings me around to the topic of this column. Francis Buckland was a 19th century British surgeon and would eat just about anything. Crocodile with orange juice was his usual breakfast, but as we shall soon see, he liked to keep his diet spiced up with variety.

Dr. Buckland was the founding member of the Society for the Acclimatization of Animals in the United Kingdom. The purpose of this organization was to increase the nation's food supplies by introducing everything from kangaroos to bison to the fields of England.

In 1862 the doctor was responsible fo the society's annual dinner. It was a rare feast indeed, and catered to the most jaded of appetites. There was kangaroo meat from Australia and from Southeast Asia there were sea slugs. The slugs looked so repulsive that only a few diners were even able to sample them.

On another occasion, he served his fellow students at Oxford mouse-on-toast. From that he graduated to the "delight of boiled elephant's trunk, rhinoceros pie and whole roast ostrich." The ostrich apparently gave eminent zoologist Sir Richard Owen a severe case of indigestion, though his wife described it as tasting "very much like coarse turkey."

Another of Buckland's failures was broiled porpoise head. He said he could not stop it from tasting like the wick of an oil-lamp.

Nevertheless, Dr. Buckland considered some of his food pioneerng efforts so successful that he offered the recipes to the public. Slug soup and garden snails were among his unsavory suggestions.

His worst dish was stewed moles. Even he admitted he could not eat those.

The doctor was also a lifelong collector of the exotic and unusual, and had a love for the royalty. At least once, these three passions merged.

"I have eaten many strange things in my lifetime, but never before have I eaten the heart of a king." On his plate was the heart of Louis XIV, which had been plundered from the royal tomb during the French Revolution."

I wonder if Dr. Buckland was Methodist.

for sake of argument

After the humiliation of Vietnam and the protracted embarrassment in Iran, Americans might be tempted to reassert themselves – intemperately.

Before somebody sets the hemisphere on fire over events in El Salvador, let's think about it.

The world's major powers are again squaring off over a tiny nothing-country – fueling surrogate soldiers in another periodic ritual dance of war.

Neither the Soviets nor the United States has anything to gain in El Salvador, smallest and one of the poorest nations in Central American.

Sometimes I think Latin American is an area of the world the Lord created just for the sake of argument.

Recently chronic Latin restiveness in Nicaragua culminated in the overthrow of Anastasio Somoza. Guatemala is similarly in ferment.

El Salvador has been bleeding from political assassination, torture, and kindappings – as a semi-organized guerrilla army with guns from Cuba grapples with similarly ruthless government forces.

What has alerted our State Department is the proximity of Marxist involvement to Mexico.

Also, El Salvador has become sort of a "last straw" – symbolizing the erosion of United States influence in our own back yard.

President Reagan would like the United States again to be regarded around the world as a reliable ally.

But the crummy, corrupt government of El Salvador is an unworthy beneficiary of our assistance.

That the Soviets and the Cubans actively sponsor guerrilla terrorism in Central America is obvious. The Soviets try to create divisions wherever. Unsettling things is the primary objective of Soviet foreign policy – even though, as is being demonstrated on Russia's own border, in Poland, the Soviet architects of encroachment don't really have any more success than we do in squeezing toothpaste back into the tube.

President Reagan has served notice on Cuba – to cut out the adventurism or we might blockade Mr. Castro's island.

And though we acknowledge that the government of El Salvador is not one we would prefer, we will rush to its rescue anyway – if only because it and we have the same enemies.

We have been aiding El Salvador for 31 years – without stabilizing it.

While recognizing all the Reagan Administration motives for intervention, I can't help wishing we could revert to leading Latin America – as we did for more than 100 years – just by minding our own business so well that we were worthy of emulation.

Berry's World

"I don't know which I'm more paranoid about, the increase in crime, or cable TV!"

the wagman file

by robert j. wagman

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Candidate Ronald Reagan frequently promised to "get government off the back of private industry." And President Reagan has reiterated that the elimination of burdensome federal regulations will be a top priority of his administration.

Reagan chose a Cabinet that shares this view. Malcolm Baldrige, the secretary of commerce, declared during his confirmation hearing that "deregulation from top to bottom" would be high on his personal agenda.

But in trying to deliver on this promise, the Reaganites will run up against a problem that they may not have expected: How do you deregulate an industry that wants to remain regulated?

The business community does not really want to see all government regulation eliminated. Instead, business is seeking the repeal of rules that it considers restricting and the retention of rules that protect it — usually from open competition.

Examples abound. For instance, owners of television stations continually complain about the Federal Communications Commission's restrictions on what they can broadcast.

But let someone suggest that the FCC cease all of its regulatory activities — that restrictions be lifted on the establishment of new television stations, networks and cable systems — and cries of foul are heard from broadcasters all across the land. Their message is clear: We like any regulation that protects us from competition.

Then there is the banking industry. For years, small bankers have complained about regulations imposed by Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Reserve on the interest rates they can set for loans and deposits, the types of accounts they can offer and so on. For that reason, many have opted for state regulation rather than federal regulation.

Now there is talk of significantly "deregulating" the banking industry — for example, allowing banks to establish branches in other states. The small bankers are screaming that such a move would cause them to be swallowed up by the big bankers. They, too, want both freedom from competition and freedom to do what they want to internally.

The classic case is the trucking industry. The Carter administration started the deregulation of transportation with the airlines and continued with trucking. So, it would be natural to assume that trucking would also be one of the first deregulation targets of the Reagan administration. Don't count on it.

Some of the highest officials in the new administration were paid great sums of money in their previous jobs to oppose any deregulation of the trucking industry. They can be expected to counsel Reagan against trucking deregulation.

Michael Deaver is the president's deputy chief of staff and may be his closest political confidant. Before moving to the White house, Deaver headed a California public-relations firm that was retained by the California Trucking Association to oppose deregulation.

Robert Gray was head of communications for the Reagan campaign and co-chairman of the inaugural committee. Unitl recently, he headed the Washington office of Hill and Knowlton, the public-relations firm that ran a big anti-deregulation campaign for the American Trucking Association.

And James Baker sat on the board of a major trucking firm before he became the White House chief of staff.

All of this poses a dilemma for the administration. Philosophically, the president and his aides favor maximum deregulation of all industry. Practically, they may have to settle for deregulation of only those industries that want to be deregulated. Many doctrinaire Reaganites could find this latter position untenable.

letter to the editor

To The Daily News:

I am a Spirit-filled Christian. I serve the Lord every day, not just on Sundays. I'm proud of my Savior who has done so much for me.

I have had a heart problem for several years. On Monday night, Feb. 2, 1981, in Cogdell Memorial Hospital, I almost died. Without the help of God and the wonderful staff of nurses, I would be with Jesus now. My blood pressure dropped to nothing. I was going fast. I never lost consciousness but seemed to be against a wall. I knew I was dying. Any second I would be on the other side. But for some reason, God wasn't ready for me to die.

There are many problems in the world today, and I want to do something for Jesus. If you have problems, or know someone who does and would like to have someone pray for you out of a heart of love, then let me know. You don't have to tell me your name or problem, unless you want to, but I believe it would help me in praying to know.

There are many promises in the Bible. John 15:13 says, "And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son." God doesn't always answer prayer like we expect, but He does hear and answer. God has answered many prayers for me. Let me pray for you.

I want to do something for Jesus, because he has done so much for me. Being a good neighbor is one way of helping. Call me at 573-6800. I promise I will pray for you.

thoughts

Some people try, like Abraham, to bargain with the Lord. When the Lord told him Sodom would be destroyed, Abraham was concerned because his nephew, Lot, live there. He asked if 50 righteous people were found in the city, would it be destroyed. When he was told it would not be destroyed, he asked about 45; then 40; then 30; then 20; then finally 10. Even 10 were not found. Lot also bargained with the Lord. When he was told to escape to the mountain, he asked if he could not go to the city of Zoar instead; the Lord granted that desire.

"Grandma" Layton Opts For Art To Overcome Chronic Depression

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer

WELLSVILLE, Kan. (AP) — Elizabeth "Grandma" Layton is a reluctant artist who calls her pictures obnoxious. She refuses to hang them in her house, and won't sell any to her widening circle of admirers.

But some art critics believe she is a genius.

She made her first contour drawing some three years ago. It's a method in which the artist looks only at the subject instead of the paper, while her hand independently draws what her eye sees.

Several dozen of her pictures are on a traveling exhibit in the Midwest. She has won a prestigious prize at Kansas City's Nelson-Atkins Gallery of Art, and art therapist Bob Ault of the Menninger clinic is using her case as an example in his lectures.

Mrs. Layton is 71 years old and still lives in the small town where she was born and her father was publisher of the weekly newspaper.

In 1977, following the death of a son, she sat down at her well-scrubbed kitchen table and decided she had three options. She could continue her sporadic and mostly unsuccessful visits to a local mental health clinic. She could commit suicide. Or she could enroll in a college art class she'd seen advertised in the newspaper.

"I knew the trips to the mental health clinic weren't working," says the great-grandmother who has the soft hands of a young girl. "I didn't want to kill myself. I'd tried before, but aren't we lucky when we don't get those things done? So I took the third alternative and enrolled in a basic drawing course at Ottawa University."

Pal Wright was the 37-year old teacher of the nine-week class.

"I saw her first drawings and thought 'Wow! What have I got myself into here?'" says Wright, now a high school art teacher in Olathe.

She took up drawing with a vengeance. Her poster paper cost 29 cents a sheet at the local drug store. The grocery store sold her the colored pencils and crayons for less than $1. She started working day and night at the old oak desk up in the second-floor bedroom of the house she shares with her second husband of 20 years, Glenn Layton.

"The first time Pal told us to hang our pictures up in the hallway, my fingers trembled," says Mrs. Layton. "But I kept drawing because he never said, 'That's terrible.' He always found something in the pictures that he liked, and he encouraged me to go on."

This woman who looks like Mrs. Santa Claus and wears simple gingham house dresses and sensible shoes started to wake up from her long nightmare. Instead of sleeping 22 hours a day and crying for hours for reasons she couldn't understand, she became filled with energy and started looking forward to each new day. She determined to put behind her the grief of her son's death, the memory of 17 shock treatments she'd endured in the 1950s, and the sense of emptiness and lack of purpose that had haunted her since her early 30s.

"I used to think of artists and writers as talented people, but gradually I came to believe talent is in everybody. Anybody can do anything if they try," says "Grandma" Layton.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

South's two notrump opening with 21 HCP was fully justified by the texture of his hand with all points in aces and kings and a good five-card suit.

His first look at dummy showed 10 top tricks if he could run the whole club suit, and nine tricks if he could count on four clubs. He also saw that if East had three clubs to the queen and could get in with that card he might crush South with a spade lead.

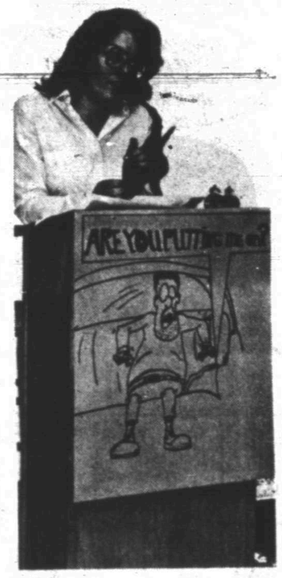

South decided that he wanted his contract and took a sure thing play to make it. He won the diamond in dummy, led the seven of clubs and let it ride after East played low.

When the seven held, South had his 10 top tricks. So he ran the clubs. East and West chucked diamonds so South cashed the ace-king. Then he played ace-king-small of hearts. By this time East and West had each thrown a heart, so West was in and had to give South a trick with the king of spades.

Note that South's play was sure to bring home nine tricks. If West held all four clubs, South would play high and lead back toward dummy's jack.

Of course, he would score one trick less than normal if West scored a club trick with the queen or 10, but safety wins games and sometimes, as today, overtricks.

Mike Line Addresses Patchwork Squares

Gourmet dessert: Add creme de cacao to whipped cream and use as a filling and frosting for an angel-food cake. Or serve strawberries (fresh or frozen) with a topping of whipped cream to which an orange-flavored liqueur has been added.

Mike Line, local attorney, presented a program Tuesday to members of the Patchwork Squares Extension Homemaker's Club on the importance of making wills.

Various types of wills and the financial benefits to the survivors were explained. Problems arising from two persons sharing a common will, owning property in more than one state and the procedure followed when a will is drawn in one state and the individual later lives and dies in another state were discussed.

The business session, conducted by Sheila Wallace, president, included plans for the spring craft day.

Because the regular meeting date in March conflicts with the District Extension Homemaker's meeting in Seminole , the group dicided to meet in a member's home March 19 for their meeting, a program on casseroles, a luncheon and workday. All members were encouraged to attend the District meeting.

Those attending were Mrs. Wallace, Kris Hendon and Jennifer, Laurie Haines, Vivian Cochran and Pearl Wheeler.

Radiologist's Fee
The radiologist is a private physician specializing in the use of x-rays and radioactive substances used in medial diagnosis and therapy. Your physician requested the services of the radiologist in interpreting the results of your recent examination in the X-ray Department.
With some examinations, the radiologist was personally involved in the examination. If you had only films made, your personal contact may have been solely with the technologist. Once the films were made and checked, they were presented to the radiologist for his interpretation, as well as his written and oral consultation with your physician.
The hospital bill will include a charge for x-ray to cover the use of its equipment, the films, supplies, and technical personnel. The bill from the radiologist is for his professional consultative services.

Fake Gold Coins Found By Police

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston police say they have recovered about 200 fake Krugerrand gold coins that were so well-minted they could fool some jewelers, coin merchants and bankers.

Detective J.C. Davis said Monday the operation apparently has been under way in Houston for at least 18 months and, "we have information that several large banks have taken these fake Krugerrands in on loans."

Davis said, "Banks in other Texas cities have reportedly taken fake coins as collateral on large loans, including one in Amarillo that accepted them for a $270,000 note."

Ken Wiesman, special agent in charge of the Houston office of the U.S. Secret Service, said, "We know of sales in Houston and in four or five other Texas cities, including Austin, Dallas and Amarillo."

Davis said Sidney James Heard, 38, of Amarillo was charged recently with two counts of theft and possession of cocaine after he attempted to sell some 100 fake Krugerrands to a coin dealer for $35,000.

Heard told officers he owns several businesses in Amarillo including a cabinet shop and a swap shop.

He is being held under a $20,000 bond.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Understanding epilepsy

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was recently put on Dilantin for what the doctors diagnosed as epilepsy. I am a 22-year-old female and had no problems before now. My doctor says I must have a blood test every three months and a test that has something to do with my liver. My doctor is foreign-born and I find it hard to understand him. Could you please tell me what the side effects of Dilantin are and what I have to look forward to?

DEAR READER — Dilantin is one of the most effective medicines used to control epileptic seizures. It has been used for a long time. There are other medicines that can also be used. If your seizures are not controlled at first, you should understand that it sometimes takes awhile to find the right combination and the right amount for some patients. It is often a trial and error procedure.

There are many side effects of Dilantin that can occur. Fortunately, they don't occur very often. One of the side effects is to cause liver damage, which is why you will be getting a liver test. Your doctors may want to know what level of Dilantin you have in your blood to be sure the right amount is being absorbed in your system. Occasionally, Dilantin affects the production of white blood cells and the small platelets that are related to blood clotting.

You need to know that Dilantin often causes an increased growth of the gingiva (gums) around the teeth. You'll need to make a greater effort and enlist the aid of your dentist to help you avoid dental hygiene problems. It is important that you never stop your medicine abruptly. Sudden withdrawal can cause severe repeated seizures. If your dosage needs to be decreased or stopped, it should be done gradually, under your doctor's supervision.

Since you are having a problem understanding your physician, you may particularly need The Health Letter number 10-8, Epilepsy: You Can Have It Too, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Because of automobile accidents alone there are many new cases of epilepsy each year.

You can have normal children and live a normal, useful life with epilepsy. Some of the great figures of history have had it.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband takes vitamin pills, not on the doctor's orders. He takes vitamin B-12, lecithin and rutin. Will these vitamins help or hurt him?

DEAR READER — In reasonable amounts these are unlikely to make much difference either way. Unless he has a deficiency of intrinsic factor from the stomach, which is necessary to absorb B-12, he should be getting enough from a balanced diet. But if he is deficient in intrinsic factor, the B-12 by mouth will not be absorbed.

Lecithin will be digested like all other fats. If he is deficient in choline, the choline in lecithin might be useful. But again if he is on a proper diet, he already gets enough choline. And the body can manufacture choline.

Rutin has been used in the past, with the thought that it might decrease the tendency of small vessels to break. It is present in many plants. For people who want to take a vitamin pill just to be sure they are getting adequate vitamins, any of the all-purpose once a day preparations will do. Women in the childbearing years might want one containing iron.

Fourth Story Surfaces On How Fortune Found

WACO, Texas (AP) — One of the "Alice rich kids" has told a civil court jury a fourth story describing how he and a friend came to be driving through Waco with $490,000 in the trunk of a brand-new Thunderbird four years ago.

James Dean Bridges, 19, said he was led to dig up the money, wrapped in aluminum foil and stashed in an ice chest, because of birds scratching at the ground that covered it.

Bridges previously told three different stories to explain how he and friend Percy Garcia — both teenagers at the time — came by the cache, confiscated by Waco police when the two were arrested Jan. 31, 1977 on a traffic violation.

A federal court now must decide what to do with the money and the interest it has drawn since it was confiscated and put in a bank at the time of the arrest.

The boys, the State of Texas, McClennan County, the City of Waco and the Internal Revenue Service all have laid claim to varying amounts of the stash.

Bridges and Garcia dug up the $500,000 on Bridge's father's ranch near Alice. When police stopped them a few days later, the remaining money was found in a Thunderbird the boys had bought in Dallas for $10,000.

On Monday, Bridges testified he found the cash in a pen where he kept some quails, turkeys and a peacock that uncovered the top of the ice chest.

"I guess they scratched around," Bridges told the six-member jury.

"It was mine. I found it. I don't know how it got there," he said. "Nobody's claimed it to this day."

Later, when his father, James Hiroms, slapped him in the face during an argument, he called Garcia and another friend to head for Hiroms' ranch near Alice to dig up the money, he said.

"We started going crazy and digging. Everybody was going wild and everything," he said.

Bridges said he told different stories to police because of pressure from an all-night police interrogation after his arrest.

"They said so many things to me that night. They made me say them, too," he said. "I told them the truth at first but they wouldn't believe me."

He first told officers he and Garcia were "Mafia runners" from Chicago, then said they had found the money in Chicago, but detective Truman Simons said he did not buy either of those tales.

Then he came up with a third story — that he found the money when a flood uncovered the ice chest — which Simons said he believed.

Assistant Texas Attorney General David Bragg asked Bridges about an IRS form on which the teenager said the money was stolen.

Fast Buck Ads Catch Eye Of Texas Solons

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texans who have been ripped off by "business opportunities" offers can look now to the House for relief.

Senators quickly agreed Monday to take action against fast-buck promoters who claim to show how to make a million in worm farms or chinchilla ranches.

The bill, approved 29-0, went to the House for action.

"These so-called business opportunities that are advertised in the newspaper every day mostly turn out to be business frauds," said Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls.

Farabee said his legislation, if finally signed into law, would make those who offer "business opportunities" register with the secretary of state and tell who they are and what their past record is.

They must post a $25,000 bond to protect purchasers of franchises if they guarantee a profit or promise to buy back products produced under the franchise.

Thousands of Texans have lost hundreds of thousands of dollare by some of the rip-off schemes, Farabee said.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, asked if the measure contained any regulations covering newspapers who carry the advertisements of "business opportunities."

"There is nothing in the legislation concerning newspapers accepting the ads," said Farabee, "but it would allow the attorney general to monitor such advertisements and move in if they appear to be illegal ... There is nothing that requires a newspaper to look into the background of a person offering the advertisement."

Says Parks Should Be Closer To Big Cities

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — A Texas A&M University parks expert has called for the designation of federal wilderness areas closer to the state's urban centers, while such wilderness still exists.

"Instead of putting them out in the West Texas desert, let's put them within, say, 150 miles of Houston or in a place that would be accessible to several major cities," said Dr. Richard Bury of the university's Department of Recreation and Parks.

About 8,783 acres of land have been recommended by the U.S. Forest Service for direct wilderness use in Texas, Bury said. In addition, 77,226 acres of forest service land in Texas have been identified as suitable to the wilderness system.

Under a House bill introduced by U.S. Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Texas, more than 3,000 acres of the Davy Crocket National Forest, more than 3,000 acres of the Angelina National Forest and 2,700 acres in the Sam Houston National Forest would be designated as wilderness.

"Whether these Texas lands are designated as wilderness areas will depend heavily on what Congress does in its latest attempt to balance land use demands of timber, mineral, recreational and wilderness interests," Bury said.

"There are three sites proposed for wilderness areas in Texas that are relatively small, and it wouldn't be impossible to get resources from beneath them without drilling on top of them," he said, adding that minerals in wilderness areas can be extracted if miners file a formal claim on them by the end of 1983.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle agreed to form a new French government in 1958.

Higher Interest Rate Ceiling OK'd By Panel

By Laura Richardson
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A 30 percent limit on loan interest rates is either a consumer protection act or legalized loan sharking, depending on which legislator is doing the talking.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, sponsored the bill to create a floating ceiling pegged to the rate of six-month treasury bills, with an outside limit of 30 percent.

The measure is needed because federal law overriding Texas' usury limits expires April 1, 1983, and the ceiling will revert to 1967 levels, which are entirely too low, Jones said.

"The ceilings have absolutely no relation to reality," he said. "The availability of money in Texas will dry up if we keep these artificially low interest rate ceilings."

According to Robert Lane of First International Bancshares, a state bankholding company, if the limits are imposed on lenders "the small borrower, the consumer borrower, will get squeezed out. Funds float to seek the highest rates available."

The Senate Economic Development Committee unanimously approved the bill and sent it on for full Senate debate, but not without misgivings on the part of one committee member.

"It's a joke to say this is going to get money back to the little guy," said Sen. John Wilson after the Monday hearing. "There's no way a consumer can borrow money at 21, 22 or 24 percent, do anything legal with it and make a profit."

"This isn't going to help car buyers or anyone like that," the LaGrange Democrat concluded.

"This is legalizing loan sharking in our state," said Bill Duncan, an automobile dealer in Lufkin. "This is the wrong approach to solving the problems."

Jim Hightower, president of the Texas Consumers Association, said the measure was like "putting earrings on a hog — they just can't hide the uglines."

He called the bill a "textbook example of bad legislation since lenders don't need it, consumers can't afford it, and the economy can't stand it."

An $8,000 car loan with an interest charge of $58 a month will cost an extra $61 monthly if the bill is passed, he said.

The association submitted materials showing that under the proposed law, a $200, 3-month loan that would now incur a $9 finance charge could cost $34 under Jones' proposal. A $1,000, one-year loan now cost $110 in interest would go for $167, and interest on a four-year loan of $10,000 would rise from $3,200 to $7,143.

But supporters of the measure argued that the 30 percent ceiling did not mean lenders would necessarily charge the maximum. They stressed that the "competition of the marketplace" would keep interest rates down.

Dear Abby

Foul-Mouthed Kids Are Asking for Soap

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: About AUNT DONNA, whose 3-year-old niece started to use dirty language: You said children often do this to get attention, so just ignore it, and the child will quit.

We had that problem at our house when our "Sissy" was 2½. We were advised to ignore it, so being modern parents, we ignored it. Weeks passed, then months, and Sissy continued to use those dirty words. We were mortified over and over again by our angelic-looking daughter's less-than-angelic mouth!

Meanwhile, my mother was getting impatient with our modern method that didn't seem to be working. Then one day her self-control snapped, and she chased Sissy down the hall with a wooden spoon and gave her the spanking she needed and had probably been asking for for months!

Abby, that one spanking from Grandma did the trick. Sissy hasn't used a bad word since, and she just celebrated her 12th birthday.

OLDER AND WISER

DEAR OLDER: Judging from my mail, my answer was a bomb. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to AUNT DONNA was off the mark. Children who use gutter language may be looking for attention, but they are also looking for limits to their behavior, not to mention love and acceptance.

Kids who misbehave and go unpunished are rejected kids. We owe it to them to voice our disapproval, set limits on their behavior and give them the constructive attention they are craving.

Not reacting to a child's foul language is a cop-out, as was your answer.

My suggestions:

1. Tell the child that nasty language is not appropriate and will not be tolerated. Period.
2. Show the child love and approval when it's deserved.
3. Give the child responsibility so that she can demonstrate her worth.

This formula may not work wonders, but it's better than sticking one's head in the sand.

SYBIL, A WORKING MOM

DEAR SYBIL: You're right. Your answer was better than mine.

DEAR ABBY: There are many men my age (56) who haven't had a physical relationship with their wives for 10 years. In my case it's been over 15 years. The reason given: "There is no need for it when the childbearing years are over."

Abby, am I supposed to be happy in this abstinence, or just continue to be frustrated? Even our mountain blew up!

NO ACTION IN WASHINGTON STATE

DEAR NO ACTION: No healthy normal man (or woman) is supposed to be "happy" in abstinence. Your wife's reason for shutting you out is, of course, ridiculous, but when a person doesn't want to do something, one excuse is as good as another.

DEAR ABBY: Stealing the company blind is something that has been going on for years. Unfortunately, I lost my job for being too honest and informing the proper people about the employee who was stealing the company blind.

It was months later that I learned that the bosses were also stealing from the company.

Tell BITTER he'd better be careful.

HONEST JOHN IN LONG BEACH

DEAR JOHN: One can't be "too honest." If one knows that a fellow employee is stealing and remains silent, then he is in a sense "helping" the thief rob the company.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Custody Battle Set For Liberty

LIBERTY, Texas (AP) — The bitter custody battle over the the two children Vickie Daniel bore the husband she is accused of slaying will be conducted here, despite pleas from defense attorneys for a delay or a move.

Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, representing Mrs. Daniel, said he was not retained to handle the case until Feb. 13 and needs more time to prepare. Haynes was unsuccessful in seeking a venue change last week from the Texas Supreme Court, asking that the case be moved away from here, the Daniel home town, to Mrs. Daniel's residence in Tyler.

State District Judge W.G. "Dub" Woods asked that attorneys for both sides meet with him prior to today's hearing.

Mrs. Daniel has been charged with murder in the shooting death of Price Daniel Jr., former speaker of the Texas House of Representatives and the son of Price Daniel Sr., a former governor, senator, House speaker, and member of the Texas Supreme Court.

Daniel died on the night of Jan. 19 at his Liberty County ranch home with a .22 caliber slug in the stomach.

Jean Daniel Murph, Daniel's sister, is seeking custody of her two nephews, Franklin Baldwin, 3, and Marion Price IV, 1.

During her first testimony since her husband's death, Mrs. Daniel invoked the Fifth Amendment when attorneys for Mrs. Murph asked her about the shooting and about the author of letters now in the protective custody of the court.

Mrs. Daniel, however, did state, "I am a good mother and I love them (the boys). I feel they would be in great danger emotionally if they should ever be around Jeanie because of what she told my boy."

Larry Moore, Mrs. Daniel's first husband, has filed suit for custody of their 12-year-old daughter, Kimberly, who was at the Daniel home at the time of the slaying.

Moore said he filed the suit only to protect the child from publicity and embarrassment and rejected the contention that Mrs. Daniel was an unfit mother.

Mrs. Daniel has pleaded innocent to the murder charges and is free under a $50,000 bond.

Teachers Told To Work Or Be Fired

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston regents Monday said part-time teachers who have staged a sickout in an effort to increase their salaries will be fired unless they are back on the job within one week.

Chris Domino, a spokesperson for the teachers, answered, "We went into this with our eyes open. I believe most of the teaching assistants are willing to be fired."

Domino said about 200 of the part-time teachers were out Monday and that as many as 200 classes were affected. College officials said no more than 65 were cancelled.

The teachers' main demand is a minimum monthly salary of $850, more than twice their present minimum.

Regents adopted a resolution barring any negotiations with "those who abandoned their present teaching commitments and those not meeting their assignments have submitted their resignations and we endorse the termination of those people."

The regents asked that full-time faculty members cover the classes now handled by the teacher assistants.

Two Thefts, Burglary Probed Here

Two thefts and a burglary were reported to police Monday.

Dovie Potts, 4517 Fredonia, reported the theft of a billfold. She said the billfold is valued at $20, had $135 in cash in it, and contained personal papers. Working the case is Bill Armstrong.

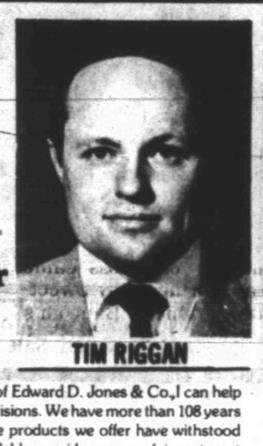

Another theft was reported by Mrs. Isidro Villarreal, 1801 15th St. She said a tow-bar with wheels was stolen. It was valued at $175. That case, too, was worked by Armstrong.

Sgt. Dale Burns worked a burglary complaint in which Jerry Tatum, 1802 Scott St., said a storage shed was broken into and a child's saddle, valued at $75 to $100, was stolen.

Dusters Nip Cisco In Opener

By BILL McCLELLAN

BROWNWOOD—Western Texas College racked up six straight points late in the game here Monday evening, then hung on to defeat a scrappy Cisco Junior College bunch, 69-65, and advance in the Region V Women's Junior College Basketball Tournament.

The Dusters, who hadn't won a first-round regional tournament game since 1975, will take on Howard College, 81-66 winner over Weatherford, at 8 p. m. tonight in the tournament semifinals.

In the other semifinals game, McLennan Community College, 81-72 victor over Odessa, meets Amarillo, who downed Clarendon, 75-60.

Western Texas was down by as much as seven points, 15-8, early in the game, and never really got settled down until late. Cisco, paced by Sandra Winters' 10 first-half points, held a 37-33 lead at intermission. Turnovers had the Dusters bitten on numerous occasions and helped to keep the less-talented Wranglerettes in the game all the way.

"They liked to have played a major part in the game, and I may have had something to do with that," said a relieved Coach Joe Cushing after the contest. "Before the game, I impressed upon the girls the necessity to keep control of the ball, and I may have played on it too much."

Nevertheless, WTC made up for it from the field and from the line. Led by 6-0 sophomore Shari Teal's 8-of-9 effort at the stripe and Valorie Wells' 9-of-9 from the field, Western Texas turned in respective percentages of .800 and .463 for the game. Cisco, on the other hand, managed only .289 from the floor and .630 from the free mark.

"I wasn't surprised at that," said Cushing of WTC's free throw accuracy. "We hadn't shot the ball well from the free throw line the past two games and I was looking for us to come back and do well."

Cisco took its four-point half-time lead and pushed it to seven, 42-35, as Donna Watson and Peggy Taylor managed five consecutive points. WTC charged back, however, tying the game at 42-42 on two buckets by Wells, one by Maddox and Lori Watson's free throw.

The lead changed hands four times before Jenni Anderson tied it at 53-53, and Teal notched two from the stripe to make it 55-53 with 7:11 left.

Western Texas never trailed again, but CJC made it a one-point game on several occasions.

Both teams got into foul Trouble, but Cisco was hurt earlier by the shrill whistle. The Wranglerettes' 6-1 standout, Mitzi Henderson, was tagged for her fourth before the end of the first half, and she fouled out with 7:53 to go in the game after playing less than four minutes in the second half. WTC's Teal got her fourth foul with 19:36 remaining and sat out until the 14:09 mark. Wells and sophomore guard Stella Bickley also drew four fouls in the game, but both got theirs late and managed to stay in for WTC.

The teams traded buckets until the five-minute mark when strong defensive play by Bickley, a 5-7 sophomore, helped the Dusters earn six straight points.

With a 59-58 lead, Bickley canned a pair of free throws to pump the designated home team out to a three-point advantage. She then pulled down a rebound and kicked it out to the red-hot Maddox, who drilled a 20-footer to put WTC ahead, 63-58. With Bickley again befuddling Cisco on its next trip down the court, Wranglerette guard Kelly Sipes turned the ball over and Maddox made good for WTC again to make it 65-58.

Neither team cashed in again until the clock read 3:16 and Lori Lechler garnered a free throw for Cisco. A WTC turnover let Taylor put up two more points, 65-61, but Bickley went to work again and got involved in three straight jump balls--on either the jump or receiving end. The tough defense kept the scoreboard at a standstill, but the clock kept on ticking in favor of the Dusters.

The crucial time came with 1:05 left when Winters put up her first accurate shot of the second half, trimming WTC's lead to 65-63. The Wranglerettes came with a driving press on the inbounds play, but the Dusters broke it to a waiting Wells who dropped in a layup with 42 seconds showing.

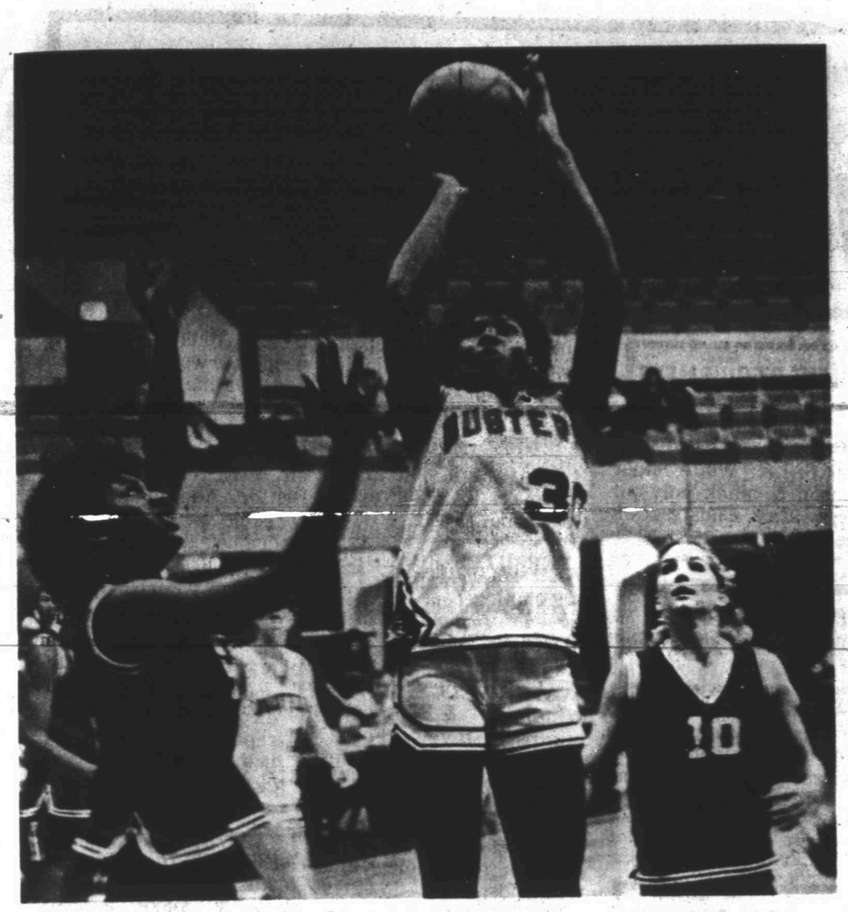

Winters retaliated with 25 ticks left to keep the game a heart-thumper, but another break and another Wells layup with 16 seconds to go put it out of reach.

"That was a big one," said Cushing. "We knew we had to suck it up because if you lose, you're out. I look for us to relax and play good basketball now. But I'm not saying we didn't play well. We came back when we had to and we did what we had to do. You can't ask for more than that."

Maddox, whose searing 20 and 25-footers kept WTC beside Cisco all night and helped break it open near the end, led with 20 points. Wells notched 18 and grabbed 13 rebounds, and Teal added 12 points and a dozen rebounds. Bickley got nine points, Anderson 5, Watson 3 and Dorcus Perkins 2.

The victory ran the Dusters' season record to 25-6.

Taylor's 20 paced the Wranglerettes, who fell to 18-14 on the season. Winters got 12, Carolyn Cheeks 14 and Henderson only 7.

ONE OF NINE—WTC's Valorie Wells (30) puts up one of her nine shots from the floor as she enjoyed a perfect night against the Cisco Wranglerettes in tournament action Monday in Brownwood. Two late baskets by Wells helped seal a 69-65 victory for the Dusters. Trying to prevent the shot is Cisco's Carolyn Cheeks, and trailing the play is Cisco's Kelley Sipes (10).(SDN Staff Photo by Bill McClelland)

Frogs Engineer Zany Start In Tournament

By CHARLES RICHARDS
AP Sports Writer

Texas Christian — the team responsible for getting the Southwest Conference basketball race off to such a zany start two months ago — rippled the water again Monday night.

And, as dejected Texas A&M coach Shelby Metcalf will tell you, his Aggies were the victims again.

Darrell Browder's jump shot from near mid-court gave TCU a 62-60 victory over A&M Monday night, spoiling the Aggies' hopes to make amends for a dismal mid-season by marching through the post-season SWC tournament.

In the SWC's two other first-round playoff games Monday night, Texas Tech routed Southern Methodist 80-58 and Texas defeated Rice 58-44 Monday night to grab other berths in the league tourney, which begins Thursday night in HemisFair Arena at San Antonio.

Arkansas, Houston and Baylor — the first three finishers in the league's 16-game double round-robin — got automatic berths in the tournament.

TCU's 56-51 upset over defending champion A&M back on Jan. 3 in Reunion Arena was the first game of the SWC season and set the trend for a season full of wins by the underdogs.

The Horned Frogs thwarted the Aggies again Monday night in College Station, with Browder's long jump shot swishing through just before the final buzzer sounded.

After the game, someone went out onto the court at G. Rollie White Coliseum to step off the shot, just for the record. It measured 38 feet.

Midland Nudges SHS Baseballers

Midland High's Mark Hewitt shackled the Tigers with six hits as he went the distance Monday afternoon noon to pace the Bulldogs to a 3-1 decision over Snyder High in the opening baseball game of the season.

Although he was touched for six hits, just one less than the Bulldogs themselves registered, Hewitt was in complete command except for one mistake in the fifth inning. That was when Mike Roemisch lofted a home run for the the only score the Tigers could muster.

Roemisch also had a single and Jesse Hernandez touched Hewitt for a couple of one-base blows to account for two-thirds of the Tigers' production at the plate.

The other two Tiger hits were singles by Perry Echols and Brent Roemisch.

The Bulldogs got their first run in the fourth inning when Hewitt aided his own cause with a two-bagger, which drove in Zachary who had singled. Hewitt got another hit in the sixth when the Bulldogs got their third run across the plate.

The Tigers were scheduled for more action this afternoon on Moffett field against the Levelland Loboes, but it was called off because of rain this morning.

Netters Lose To Andrews

The Snyder High School tennis team was edged by Andrews, 10-8 in team tournament play which ws shortened because of rain.

Snyder then defeated Sweetwater, 5-3, amd Wichita Falls Hirschi, 5-2, but failed to qualify for the state coaches meet this weekend in Abilene. The Snyder team finished fifth. The weekend meet was scheduled as a double-elimination event, but due to the rain, the team never was able to compete for fourth place.

Bi-District Date Firmed

It's official now.

The Snyder-Canyon bi-district basketball game will be played next Tuesday night in the high school gym at Levelland. The tipoff is set for 8 p. m.

The two schools had tentatively agreed on the Levelland site earlier, but waited to firm up the arrangements until a decision could be made on whether to hold a regional tournament. Canyon won District 1-AAAA and Snyder won District 2-AAAA in regular season play.

Tigers, Coleman In Warm-Up Tilt

ABILENE – Snyder's Tigers, winners of 17 straight games, warm up for next week's playoffs with some heady competition here tonight, taking on No. 4 ranked Coleman of District 8-AAA at 8 in Cooper High School Gym.

Coleman, which has won 13 district championships in the past 19 years under Coach Jack Baucom, is 31-1 on the season. The Bluecats' only loss came on a 53-51 upset by Sweetwater, which Baucom's bunch avenged 55-36 later in the season.

Snyder, the District 2-AAAA champion, is slated to meet District 1-AAAA title holder Canyon at 8 p.m. March 10 in the Levelland High School Gym unless officials from Region I agree on a regional tournament.

Keying the Bluecats is 6-4 all-state selection Reggie Childress, one of five starting seniors on the team. Childress, a top college prospect who has averaged 25 points in his career at Coleman, is putting up 27 points a game in 1981.

He is flanked by 5-11 David Allen, 6-2 Cliff Elkin, 5-9 Greg Baucom and 6-1 Terry Benjamin. Allen is the second leading scorer on the defense-minded team, averaging 14 a game. Colemanhas held its opponents to only 37 points per game.

Coleman advanced to the state tournament last year, losing in the first round, and has won its district the past four years straight. The Bluecats are undefeated in 44 consecutive district games.

North, Teal Named To All-Conference Teams

Chuck North and Shari Teal, standout sophomores for Western Texas College this season, have been named to the All-Western Junior College Athletic Conference First Team.

Three other WTC athletes were mentioned in post season honors as well.

North, a 6-5 sophomore transfer from West Covina, Calif., averaged 18.4 points, 6.9 rebounds and 5.4 assists for Western, despite missing several games with a knee injury.

Making the men's Honorable Mention list from WTC were Keith Denis, a 6-5 sophomore, and Ceasar Scott, a 6-4 freshman.

Charles Johnson, 6-6 sophomore from the WJCAC championship Midland College Chaparrals, was named Most Valuable Player of the conference. Mark Nixon of Clarendon College was selected Coach of the Year.

Others on the first team were Maurice Bradford, a 6-5 freshman from Amarillo; Randy Corker, a 6-5 freshman from Howard College, and Puntus Wilson, a 6-3 freshman from Midland.

Teal, a 6-0 sophomore from New Deal, averaged 16.8 points and 10.8 boards a game for the WTC Dusters. She also accounted for 76 blocked shots - second in the conference. Joining her with honors was 5-10 sophomore Linda Holubec, named to the Second Team. Holubec, who averaged 15.5 points and 5.9 rebounds, missed the last six games of the season with a knee injury.

Olivia Jones, 6-1 sophomore from WJCAC champion Amarillo College, was named the MVP. Her coach, Kelly Chadwick, was the Coach of the Year.

Others on the women's First Team were Cassandra Crumpton, a 5-11 freshman from Clarendon; Kelly Lyons, a 6-3 sophomore from Howard; and Jackie Skinner, a 5-7 sophomore from Odessa.

WTC Golfers Finish 3rd In Austin Meet

AUSTIN – McLennan Community College of Waco carded a two-day 580 to take top honors here Saturday and Sunday in the first annual Will Stephens Junior Collegiate, sponsored by Western Texas College.

New Mexico Junior College copped second with a 587, followed by Western Texas No. 1 with a 589. The event was played at Great Hills Country Club.

"WTC had some good rounds and some poor rounds," said Western Texas Coach Bob O'Day. "It was the second tournament in a row that the weather was not ideal for golf. Some of our sophomores are not playing or scoring to their capabilities and it has made the difference of finishing first in the past two tournaments than second and third."

WTC freshman Jeff Seger grabbed medalist honors, however, turning scores of 70 and 69 for a 139 total, one under par. Runnerup medalist was McLennan's Duane Standley with a 70-71--141, followed by Carl Bielstein with a 70-72--142.

Twelve junior colleges competed in the tournament under cloudy skies most of the time. Saturday's winds were 15 to 20 mph and Sunday's 18 had to be postponed for an hour and a half because of rain.

Midland College took fourth in the tournament with a two-day total 596. The Chaps were in second place after Saturday's round, but a 303 on Sunday knocked them back in the pack.

WTC No. 2 was fifth with a 604, led by freshman Matt Vincent's 148.

Next action for Western Texas will be the Paris Junior College Intercollegiate at Paris, Tex. on March 13-14.

Jury Recommends 99 Years On Murder Rap

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A state district court jury Monday deliberated just over an hour before recommending a sentence of 99 years in prison for an Abilene man convicted of murder.

The 10-woman, two-man jury deliberated 50 minutes earlier in the day before convicting 27-year-old Rex Shanks in the July 28 stabbing death of James McPeters, 46, of Odessa.

Shanks' attorneys said the verdict would be appealed. No formal sentencing date was set.

Shanks had contended he stabbed McPeters in self-defense, after McPeters stabbed him, and to protect McPeters' wife and child, who were traveling with Shanks.

Prosecution witnesses, however, testified Shanks had plotted to kill McPeters for a cut of the victim's life insurance money.

McPeters' wife, Patricia, 27, was convicted of murder Dec. 19 and is serving a 50-year sentence. Willie Wayne Jennings of Wichita Falls also was indicted on a murder charge and is awaiting trial.

Jennings' wife, Tammy, was granted immunity and was the state's key witness in the trial.

She and her husband testified Shanks offered Jennings $7,000 to help murder McPeters after a drunken drive from Wichita Falls to Abilene to Odessa.

Mrs. Jennings testified Shanks set up an ambush after she, her husband, Shanks and Mrs. McPeters searched for an isolated spot to attack him. McPeters' young son, D.J., also was with the group, she said.

Mrs. Jennings, 22, said the victim had fallen in a ditch after the stabbing and that Shanks wanted to drive over him.

Shanks, however, testified McPeters was alive and standing up when the group left the scene for Sweetwater, where Shanks received treatment for cuts.

Authorities found McPeters slumped over in a car on the service road to Interstate 20 between Midland and Odessa. An autopsy showed he had been stabbed five times.

After "the right spot" was located, Mrs. Jennings said, Mrs. McPeters phoned her husband and told him her car was broken down.

The group drove to the spot and raised the car's hood, then the Jenningses and Shanks hid behind a bush in a nearby field, she said.

After McPeters arrived, Mrs. Jennings testified, Shanks told Jennings to "go get him." But she said she told Shanks to "do it himself."

"He said he didn't need any help," she said.

Shanks then ran to the McPeters' car, Mrs. Jennings said, and "the last thing I remember was McPeters looking at Rex. Then I didn't look any more."

She said her husband stayed in the field until Shanks yelled for help.

"'Wayne, he's hurt me,'" she quoted Shanks as saying. "'He's got a knife. He's cut me.'"

McPeters staggered to the highway and tried to flag down passing cars, but no one stopped, Jennings said.

State Waste Sites Okayed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Legislation authorizing state-owned disposal sites for low-level radioactive wastes has won House committee approval after a hearing in which Texas' only licensed nuclear waste disposal company announced it was quitting the business.

"It can be be very serious," State Health Commissioner Robert Bernstein said of Nuclear Sources and Services Inc.'s withdrawal as a disposer of Texas' radioactive waste.

NSSI's president, Robert Gallagher, made the dramatic announcement about an hour before the House Environmental Affairs Committee approved a Senate-passed bill backed by Bernstein and the medical profession.

The bill goes next to the House floor, possibly as early as this week.
