FARM AND RANCH

FEATURES of INTEREST

STRIP CROPPING NEEDED ON TERRACED LAND

An inspection was made recently by the Soil Conservation Service on a cooperating farm in the Gatesville Camp Area to determine approximately the amount of soil that shifted between terraces on which strip cropping has not been practiced. The amount of soil carried off by water in the discharge in the terrace flowlines in this case would not be considered due to the fact that the terraces are level and the ends stopped The subsoil in this field is such that it provides an excellant sub drainage and moisture penetration is freater here than normally observed i this area.

In the past six years, eleven inches of topsoil has collected aove the terraces, making them almost appaer as stairsteps down the slope on this portion of the field not strip cropped. Bearing in mind that a portion of the soil collected above the terraces has been moved up on theb due to maintenance. On another part if the field, the soil, slopes, terraces and theoir vertical intervals being almost identical with that portion of the field just discussed has been almost continously to small grain due to this part of the field being subject to excessive root rot. The same observaton were made on this part of the field as that made on the field formerly discussed and found that three inches of top soil has been collected above the terraces.

COST OF NEGLECTING EROSION POINTED OUT BY CORYELL FARMER

"The planning if my farm by the Soil Conservation Service has caused me to realize the damage done by erosion in my community," said Mr. Alf Lockhart, a cooperator with the Gatesville Camp at a recent meeting of the local Soil Conservation Association.

Mr. Lockhart added, "Until recent years soil erosion was not a serious problem in my community because most of the land was in grass. A few years ago, however, when the price of cotton was high and the price of livestock were low much of the grass land was converted into crop land, at which time soil erosion became noticeable active.

"About six years ago this erosion led me to terrace a portion of one of my fields which was becoming badly gullied. At that time I thought this field was adequately protected. This year when my farm was being planned, however it was found necessary to terrace farther down th slope to eliminate new gullies which my old terrace system had been unable to prevent. It is interesting to note that the cost of obtaining full protection on that portion of the field partly terraced will be considerably less than the cost of protecting that portion of the field which had not been terraced. This fact proves to me that the longer erosion is neglected the greater will be th cost of stopping it'.

Legion Pushes Hiway Lighting for Traffic Safety

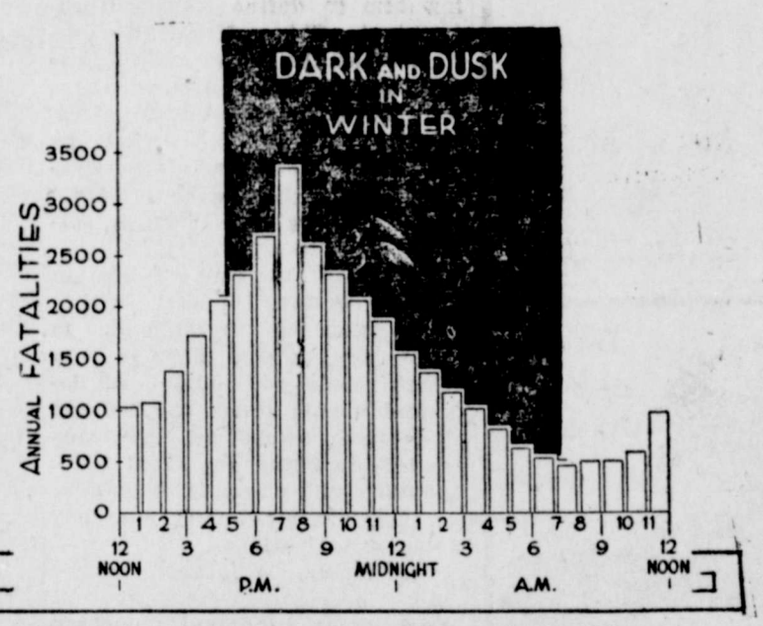

Chart shows low and peak of night traffic fatalities. Note that in the hours of darkness, when only 25 percent of all automobiles are on the road, the death rate is at its highest. Of the 37,800 people killed in traffic accidents in 1936, 23,000 or 60 percent met death after dark. Night driving is six to ten times as dangerous as driving in daylight hours.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

It is unfortunate that the entire nation cannot wholehartedly endorse the program of President Roosevelt for a broadened natonal defense. But the failure of the chief executive and his foreign advisors, including Secretary Hull to formulate for the American people just what policy this country is going to pursue in the Far East and any future conflicts in Asia or Europe makes it imperative that Congress throroughly discuss American foreign policy before enacting the eight point program for national defense.

All good Americans want adequate national defense—that is and army, navy and air corps capable of defending continental United States, Hawaii, Alaska, the Panama Canal nd the lesser American Possessions from any nation or combination of nations We all deplore the necessity for armaments at all, but they are necessary for the defense of our homes. And therefore all money spent for an adequate defense constitutes an expenditure which no one will denounce.

The request for a great expenditure of public funds over a period of years for new naval vessels brng to a head questions which many of us have been asking for some months, and which should be answered before Congress approves the recommedations of the President which, on the surface, are in every respect commendable.

These questions center around the Sino-Japanese conflict but would be applicable to warfare anywhere which might involve American nationals ir priperty. (1) Will the United States go to war to protect investments of its nationals abroad? (2) Will this natiin if 130,000,000 people be vlunge into war to protect the lives of a handful of citizens who refuse to leave a war zone after repeated warnings. (3) Why are American troops and naval vessels maintained in China? (4) Under what circumstances, if any, will this country wage war on foriegn soil?

Answers to the questions regarding China may in part be posed upon the facts submitted to the senate by Secretary Hull in response to a resolution asking him to define American interests in China. Mr. Hull replied that at the beginning of hostilities; that is, in August, there were about 10,000 American residents in China, and that by November 4,600 had been evacuated; that there were not quite 4,000 soldiers and marines stationed in China and that there were about 13 war vessels in Chinese waters. He said further that American investments in China were about $132,000,000 besides some $40,000,000 of defaulted bonds some $25,000,000 of property owned by Americans resident in China and about $40,000,000 of property belonging to American missionary and char 'table organizations.

Obviously, in relation to the total American investments abroad or as to actual monetary value alone, this does not represent a very great tangible asset. Commenting on it, Mr. Hull went on to say that "the interest and concern of the United States in the Far Eastern situation, in the European situation and in situations on this contient are not measured by the number of American citizens residing in a particular country at a particular moment, nor by the amount of investment of American citizens there nor by the volume of trade. There is a broader and much more fundamental interest; which is that orderly processes in international rerelationships be maintained"

Here is the point issue: Is the "broader and much more fundamental interest" of which Mr. Hull speaks to include the maintenance of "orderly processes in international relationships" by the United States? He did not clarify this point, but it is only one of those which should be explained.

Mr. Hull and Mr. Roosevelt have never subscribed to either of the two opposing viewpoints regarding American policy in the Far East or any war zone. One faction maintains that it is of vital American concern to protect American interests abroad, regardless of their money value. The opposition believes that the United States has no vital interests abroad and that the prudent policy is to withdraw from all the theatres of war.

The old "theirs not to reason why, theirs but to do and die" attitude is a thing of the past and perished when so many of those noble people of Germany and Russia and Austria went to war in pursance of a false ideal? And might not America be placed in that category also?

After the Congress determins a few silent facts about our foreign policy, it will then be time to seriously consiader the proposed defense recommendations.

No one is accusing Mr. Roosevelt of having ulterior motives and wanting America into war. But the man who maintains silent when information is essential to the public welfare inevitable throws suspicion upon hmself in the eyes of the people.

Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee has introduced in the House a bill embodying the essential recommendations made by the president to Congress, including an authorized 20 per cent increase in the combat strength of the fleet.

Vinson asked Congress to authorize an $800,000,000 program calling for forty seven new combat ships and 1,000 additional airplanes.

Enactment of the bill would increase the naval program beyond expired treaty limitations to a strength comparable with that of other great powers in their projected building programs and give to this ciuntry the greatest navy it ever had.

Included in these increases would be three new battleships, which with the four new ones ordered constructed or appropriated for the 1939 naval supply bill, would give the United States 18 "under-age" battleships; two new aircraft carriers, making a total of of eight; eight additional cruisers, making a total of 47; 1,200 additional officers and 20,000 more enlisted men.

Quite timely was the release of a table showing the world naval strength of the great powers by the United Press. Some idea of how the U. S. fleet compares with navies of other powers may gleaned from these figures, although they do not tell the entire story, as over age vessels cut down the apparent superiorty of the U. S. fleet which the figures tend to show:

The total number of ships afloat: Great Britain, 295; U. S. 340; Japan, 216; France, 177; Italy, 238; Germany, 76.

Ships under construction or provided for: Great Britain, 83; U. S., 86; Japan, 18; France 27; Italy 63; Germany, 60.

SYNOPSIS

Ramsay McKay, handsome Wells Fargo agent, leaves St. Louis to map out possible routes for the extension of the express service to California. Justine Pryor, an aristocratic Southern belle with whom he is in love promises to wait for him. McKay, however is caught in the California gold rush and stays on to take care of the increasing Wells Fargo business. Months later Justine ignores her mother's warning and joins Ramsay in San Francisco. They are married and Justine gives birth to a son.

CHAPTER VII

WITH all her Southern background and family tradition, Justine Pryor thrilled to the glamor of gold-mad San Francisco. As the wife of Ramsay McKay, her position in the community was assured from the beginning, and as her baby daughter grew less dependent upon her, Ramsay and she were able to enjoy much of the gayety which filled life in the California metropolis.

One evening in the late Fall of 1854, Ramsay and Justine McKay were entertaining at dinner in The St. Francis Hotel—the same name, the same proprietor, but far from the same building they had entered upon their wedding night four years before. Rebuilt, enlarged, lavishly furnished, its dining room was now a richly appointed rendezvous for finely dressed men and women, serving food and wines unsurpassed in any other world capital.

The MacKay guests commented upon the dazzling picture before them.

"Yes," Ramsay agreed, "and everything you see which incites your wonder was brought here, by express."

His friend Edwards, a newspaper editor, laughed.

"Transportation again, eh, Ramsay?"

Ramsay grinned at the jibe.

"No wonder it is unusually gay tonight," commented Ward, a banker. "Big day on the Exchange. Mining shares shot sky-high. That new Golden Empire stock went to $17.50."

"Well, if the gamblers have gone crazy, everyone else in town is with them," Edwards rejoined.

"That's my chief objection," Ramsay observed. "Such insane speculation is bad for a community. As long as only the professional stock gamblers are concerned, it is not so bad. But when guardians of other peoples' money get as wild as the rest, I fear for the future."

Justine touched her husband's arm.

"Who," she asked, "is that beautiful woman with the man who nodded to you?"

"That's Lola Montez," Ramsay answered.

"The famous dancer?" Mrs. Ward inquired.

"The King's darling."

"Who are the men with her?" Justine asked.

"Dal Slade and Jim Oliver," Ramsay replied.

"Your husband's competitors," Edwards amended, "and the boys behind the boom in Golden Empire."

"So I understand," Ramsay agreed, drily.

Succeeding days carried the wave of speculation higher and higher, with Ramsay McKay powerless to do other than refuse to ride it.

"Not as long as I have responsibility for other people's money," he insisted to friends and acquaintances who begged him to join their orgy.

He was at his desk one morning in February of 1855 when a burly figure in travel-stained buckskin appeared in his doorway.

"Hank!" Ramsay exclaimed in delight. "Where are you in from, and where's Pawnee?"

"St. Louis. Outside. How's the family, Miss Justine and the little girl?"

"Fine. Justine will be more than pleased to see you She'll want to ask you all about her family, and we both want to show off Alice—she's the cutest youngster you ever saw."

"I got some letters for her, from her maw and paw," Hank said, "and I got one for you from Mr. Wells. Only reason I come on this time of year was because he wanted to get this to you, quick."

Ramsay opened the letter, read, and reached for his hat.

"Take Pawnee up to the house," he suggested to Hank. "I've a job on hand that won't wait."

Ramsay McKay hurried across the street to the offices of Slade and Oliver, where he broke in on the partners engaged in what he surmised to have been a heated argument. Closing the door to their private room behind him, Ramsay came straight to his point.

"Your drafts in large amount have been protested in New York," he charged.

"Who said so?" Slade demanded.

"But how could you get word this soon?" Oliver cut in. "The boat isn't due until next week."

"Shut up, you fool," Slade snarled.

"Guilty, eh?" said Ramsay. "My letter, from Mr Wells, came overland. What are you going to do?"

"What are you going to do?" Slade asked.

"Protect my firm and our customers," Ramsay rejoined. "When word of this gets out it will start a run on every banking office in California. It will send more firms than yours to the wall. Wells Fargo can meet any run, and I'm going to get ready to do just that."

"But, we can make good," Slade protested. "We've got a shipment of bullion coming in from the Golden Empire that will more than see us through."

"When is it due?"

"Tomorrow morning."

"All right," Ramsay agreed, 'I'll give you until tomorrow."

Back in his own office Ramsay labored late to balance books and accounts, checking his supply of bullion against every demand that might be made upon it, and going over the most recent statements from branches in the mining camps. It was long after dark when he walked up the street toward home. As he passed the corner of a building, a pistol-shot roared behind him. Ramsay dropped prone, and lay still until the sound of running feet had died in the distance. Then he arose, dusted his clothing and went on. He said nothing of the incident to Justine.

Before nine o'clock next morning Ramsay was at a meeting of bankers which he had called, to read Henry Wells' letter in confidence. From expressions which greeted his announcement he knew that even among those present were some not much better off than Slade and Oliver.

"We must keep this quiet," Ramsay advised. "Now that we're forewarned we can stave off a panic. We can all get ourselves in shape to stand a run, and if Slade and Oliver can't make good, we can organize a committee to protect their customers. With the condition all this speculation has brought about, a panic now would wreck all of San Francisco and California."

Lola Montez, the famous dancer, was in the party which included the notorious Dal Slade and Jim Oliver.

His listeners agreed with him, but further deliberations were short-lived. An insistent knocking at the door, and a messenger entered with a note for Ward. He read it, and arose.

"Too late, gentlemen," Ward said. "Slade and Oliver have absconded. Right now, their depositors are wrecking their offices."

Ramsay McKay arose.

"Where are you going?" someone inquired.

"To my office," Ramsay answered.

"But we must reach some agreement," another urged. "None of us is prepared to pay off in full, on demand. We must all close, and stay closed until this hysteria dies down."

"Not Wells Fargo," replied Ramsay. "We'll not close our doors as long as we have an ounce of bullion in our vaults that belongs to some man who wants it."

He turned as he heard Justine calling his name. There she stood in the doorway, flushed, excited, and slightly disheveled.

"Ramsay," she gasped. "Mr. Padden has closed the office."

Padden was Ramsay's office manager.

"I told him he shouldn't," Justine went on, "that I knew he shouldn't. But he did."

Ramsay recovered his composure.

"Thank you, dear," he said, as he took her arm.

He turned to the others.

"Good day, gentlemen," he told them. "We're going to re-open Wells Fargo."

EYE OPENERS---by Bob Crosby

According to available records, one of America's greatest scholars, Benjamin Franklin, went to school but two years in his entire life—between the ages of eight and ten This fact, however, should not set an example for young America!

From the time man first huddled over a fire, keeping warm has been a problem. Today, however, with gas heat, he merely turns a key or presses a button for a flood of clean, healthful warmth. And too, modern gas heating appliances may be thermostatically controlled.

CITY BUYS 500 FEET OF NEW FIRE HOSE FOR FIRE BOYS

Five hundred feet of new standard fire hose has just been received by the city, giving the city two completely furnished fire trucks with the "hosage" being up to the standard recommendation by the State Fire Insurance Commission.

Interesting and timely too, is the fact that the cemetery has been completely cleaned, and is now in better condition than it has ever been, according to reports.

Public utility men and the employees of the city water department have been clearing the Torbett town section of Hwy 7 preparatory to the coming highway work..

It is reported by W. F. (Francis) Young, that Ira Young car lights were on dim and Muth did not see them. Muth stated he had a leaky tire and his car swerved, causing him to hit the parked car, standing it on it's radiator and putting Muth's in the ditch.

E. R. Alexander Is Farm Speaker Here Tuesday To 1,000

E. R. Alexanedr, student and expert on farms and farm problems was a very interesting speaker in Gatesville to approximately 1,000 people in the City Hall Tuesday afternoon..

Mr. Alexander was introduced by County Agent Guy Powell and stated in art: "Any farm problems will not be worked out until there is less difference in the buying and selling of farm products".

Synoposis of other leoding statemens was "Farmers must eventually work out their own problems and must familiarize themselves with farm improvements and improving. Farmers need to know where products go, and how they are handled etc. after they are produced. They must study production as related to consumption, markets and transportation problems.

DISTRICT COURT SETTLES TWO MORE CASES SINCE MONDAY

Two cases have been handled in Judge R. B. Cross' District Court since our last issue, and they are:

P. D. Littlefiield vs. Mrs. R. T. (Maggie) Littlefield, suit for partition. Land found capable of partition and will be divided.

G. J. Wolf vs. Jennie Wolf, injunction granted and defendant awarded alimony pendente lite.

Of especial interest Monday will be the case of Grover Wiley vs. Dempster Mill Manufacturing Co. suit for damages. This case grows out of the tragedy when the water tank at Evant fell. Some 12 or 15 lawyers are handling the case on both sides, and a battle of wits looks probable.

Little Miss Helen Joyce Thomas is spending this week with her grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McLarty and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Thomas.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S still lots of windmills out in the plains country, where the breeze is generally good enough to pump the water that's needed. Some farmers have put in gas engines to pump their water, but others figure out that they ain't going to be in any hurry trading their free wind power away before congress gets around to farm relief. There was a New York college girl visiting out in Nebraska lately, and when she went back home she told her friends the farmers out in Nebraska were the kindest to their animals of any people she ever seen.

"Why," she says, "you just wouldn't hardly believe it, but farmers, lots of 'em, has put up big rotary fans out in the pastures to keep the cattle cooled off in the hot weather."

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

FOLKS is always tellin' how stiff-necked the people of Boston are. It has got to be a standing joke the way the Bostonians brag about their ancestors. Seems like no one amounts to much in that town unless his great-great-grandfather fought in the Revolution or spilled tea into the harbor. Anyhow ... to do with a lady that got all fed up hearing about ancestry in Boston.

This lady come from way out in Michigan and was visiting some relatives in the Hub city. They all were calling on some folks who were related to the Cabots or the Cod-fishes or something.

The hostess in the course of her bragging said with pride, "Why my ancestors came over in the Mayflower."

This riled the lady from Michigan, and she came back right snappily, "It's a lucky thing they did. The immigration laws are so much stricter now."

Basket Ball, mlae type grabs the spotlight with the county-wide All-Stars making their bids with the "pickers" on hand. Play your best, boys.

Warm weather has called out the ball batters, and the usual "build-up" at this time for the National (?) sport. Anything we know of would 'sell' with the 'free' publicity baseball gets.

Skaters have been in evidance lately, and we suppose, Sonja Henie got the "skate" minded. Well, she should.

Wed. night, we saw the Hornettes take into camp the touted Abbottetes, without straining too much. The count was 34-19. Looks like these Hornettes are going just about get "A" in the AAU Tournament, if they enter wherever it is, and when.

Bowling has added two 'teams' in the local hardwood with the following scores for their curtain raisers:

K B Watson's Team
Watson	88	147	105
Edwards, R.	115	132	112
Bauman C.	117	95	120
Edwards, A.	120	144	120
Gibson	124	114	89
Manning	89	100	98

Three Game Total 2028

Raymond Bullock's Team
Bullock R.	115	181	158
Boynton E.	118	123	118
Milke	157	146	156
Gresham	127	104	113
Shepherd	75	125	134
Franklin, E.	120	109	116

Three game Total 2295

Individual highs are: 10-pin, L. Ashby 208; 5 pin B. Richardson 315; 3 pin Jack Morse 328; Jelly Sadler, Ducks 111.

In the sq'd ring racket, there are 49 entries, which means about 25 bouts and lots of give and take. Entries close Feb. 19th.

That press agent nom plus ultra, or something; Jas. (Rodeo) Read Saunders has been signed to pump up "Killer" Rutherford and that's something.

Over in the "Anchor Club" Den, they've installed a new table for those who have celuloiditis and "belong" to the club.

HORNETTES RUN OVER ABBOTT, 34-19

The Hornettes broke through a weak Abbott defense to score 34 points and win a lop-sided victory from the Abbott lassies. MaryEubanks again led the Hornette offense with 15 points chalked up to her credit. Ragan, mainspring of the Abbott outfit who almost beat the Hornettes when they played in Abbott by scoring 15 points was held down to 7 Wednesday by the steady guarding of Hinson and Thomason. Kennedy scored nine for Abbott.

Among the guards, Margaret Weaver stood out like a light house is the fog. She intercepted a total of 12 Abbott passes, and took the ball off the Abbott backboard 80 percent of the time. Her defensive play was the main reason the strong Abbott offense was able to garner only 19 points.

FORTY-TWO ENTRIES IN FFA-NEWS BOXING TOURNEY

Ninetien new entries during the past week brought the total up to forty-two in the FFA-News boxing tournament. This number was far beyond the expectations of the directors, and there will probably have to be two nights for preliminaries instead of one as was previously planned.

All entries must be in by Saturday February 19. No entries will be accepted after that date

The officials have not been decided upon.

Following are the new entries. J. W. Thomson, 135; Clyde Hodge, 154; Truman Davis, 125; Ray Cox, 118; Lee Brown, 170; Foy Wicker, 160; Dick Chandler 160; R. L. SOCIETY

W. M. U. Tea For Brides at Church

In a setting made beautiful with a Valentine theme for decoration, lovely flowers and soft lights, supplanted by a cheerful home like atmosphere, the W. M. U. of the First Baptist church entertained on Tuesday February 8th in the banquet rooms of the church honoring the brides of the membership of 1937. The honored gueasts were Mesdames Johnnie Pacillo, Dawson Cooper, David Corrigan, Charles Martin; Everett Ritchie; Doyle Singleton, Crawford Scott and Jack Odell.

The ninety-four guests were greeted by Mrs. D. R. Boone, as President of the W. M. U.. Receiving with her were Mesdames B. O. Herring, J. W. Downer, E. H. Odell and Sam Saxon of Waco, and the brides with their mothers. As Chairman of the brides' circle of the W. M. S.., Mrs. Leo Jenson presented each guest with a hand-penned program in a Valentine folder.

A well arranged program held the interest of the assembled guests. Mrs. E. H. Schloeman rendered piano music throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Edgar Frank presented the objects of the W. M. U. Calendar. Because of her unusal talent, Mrs. E. W. Brooks is much in demand for her Book Reviews. On this occasion she reviewed Mrs. Wharton's book, "The Fruits of the years" which portrays the work of Southern Baptist in the homeland. She presented the development of the tree from the seed through maturity. This included the drough of the Civil War Period and the thrilling effects of the World War Freeze. Showing the poster of a tree some branches undeveloped, some fruit in the green stage but with abundance of ripened fruit, a challenging story as told of the people who are trained but have to await the opportunity to go bear yet more fruit. In closing she showed the fruit harvest of 1937 of the workers already on the field. Fittingly beautiful was the singing of Joyce Kilmer's tribute to "Trees" by Mrs. Leo Jenson.

In well chosen words Mrs. J. O. Brown presented the brides to the W. M. U. of the church for loyal service and to each bride she presented gifts. Her presentation to the brides was climaxed in the reading by Miss Nona Diltz, the poem by Robert W. Service, "Love and Honor."

The social hour was arranged by Mesdames Rufus Brown, Bates Cobbs and H. K. Jackson. The tea table was covered with lace and centered with red carnations and further decorated with white tapers. Mesdames Billy Nesbitt and Sherrill Kendrick presided at the table and were assisted in serving by Mesdames Charles Powell, Conrad Brown, Dean Jones; Leo Johnson and L. A. Parnell.

A. Biffle assisted by Mr. R. E. Ashby. Favors of candy hearts tied in cellophane bags were presented to each guest.

Mrs. M. E. Watson Entertains Official Group

Mrs. Melvin Watson assisted by Mrs. W. J. and Marvin Watson entertained the officers of the Jonesboro Baptist W. M. S. last Friday with a luncheon at her home near Jonesboro.

The Luncheon was a unique affair, celebrating the 59th anniversary of the W. M. S. of Baptist denomination.

The following program was rendered; Song, Unisom; Prayer, Mrs. L. P. Foster; Scripture, Mrs. W. C. McBride; Greetings from W. S. M. President; Response, Mrs. C. P. McAnelly;

After a business session Mrs. W. J. and Marvin Watson, dressed in gold aprons and caps ushered the group into a dining room where a three course luncheon was served. Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THE Worst Joke I heard today was a Scotch Story. England couldn't get along without telling its daily Scotch story. A Scot from Aberdeen was head over heels in love with a Girl he had left behind. He could stand it no longer, so he decided to telegraph a proposal of marriage to her. In case she refused and with true Scotch caution, he did not prepay the reply, but kept calling at the Telegraph office all day to see if she had answered. Night arrived and at last a message arrived and he feverishly opened it to find that she had accepted him. Overjoyed at his good fortune, he told the Girl at the Telegraph office all about it. "Yes," said the Girl, "she kept you waiting here all day for an answer. I would think twice before I would marry a person that would do that."

"That's whaur ye're wrang, Lassie," replied the Scotchman. "She's been waiting for the reduced night rate—she's the lass for me."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

NERVOUS?

DO you feel so nervous that you want to scream? Are there times when you are cross and irritable—times when you scold those who are dearest to you?

If your nerves are on edge, try that world-famous LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND. It will help Nature calm your quivering nerves and give you the strength and energy to face life with a smile.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through" with this reliable, time-tested medicine made especially for women from wholesome herbs and roots. More than a million grateful women have written in reporting benefit from Pinkham's Compound. Why not give it a chance to help YOU?

VOLUME VI GATESVILLE, TEXAS, TUESDAY FEB. 8, 1938 NUMBER 13

Waco-Gatesville, West Highway Work Is Started

One-half million is being spent from Waco, west to Arnett at this time by the State Highway Department on construction and improvement projects which made their starts last week, according to the announcement by D. M. Puckett, division engineer; whose office is in Waco.

With the total cost of $650,000 an estimated six months will be required to complete this work, which will give an all weather road from Arnett to Waco, when finished.

Locally, Thomas & Ratliff have have started with a motor shovel tearing down a hill just west of the Leon, and with a dragline and shovel arrangement; have made excavations for a new bridge over the old river.

East, Cage Bros. and L. A. Turner are 'fencing' and preparing to do the paving to the county line from Waco's pavement, near South Bosque.

Work begins this week on the stretch from near Oglesby to Gatesville, this to be 'topping' of some sort on a crushed rock base.

The portion of the Oglesby-Gatesville stretch will cost approximately $100,000 being handled by Cage Bros. A crushing plant for work on this section is now being set up.

West of Gatesville, and including the bridge, the cost will be $220,000.

Advertising for bids on contracts to be let Februaoy 21 for construction work from the Coryell county line near Evant to the Mills county line near Starr has been announced by the highway department. A stone crushed base will be used for the road with building of drainage structures and grading also included in the job.

NO YOLK, MRS. FRANK'S CHICKEN'S EGG HAS NO SHELL

It's no yolk, yes mam, it's no joke Mrs. A. J. Frank's chicken lays her eggs with noshell, and we saw the self same egg Saturday.

Also this particular egg was not in the usual oval shape. It had a properly shaped "yellow" but the white was strung out something terrible. It did not even look like a finished job, and was not. Just a fraction of shell was on the part presented.

Anyway, it was one of those novelties presented by one of Coryell county's chicks, and there are many.

NEWS GETS AND GIVES THE NEWS, SAYS TEXAS MAG.

Well it don't exactly say that but, in the 1936 Texas Highway Taxes and Truck Accidents publication by the Railway and Express Employees Association of Houston the News, in this vicinity, is quoted exclusive for accident reports all accidents "clipped" from the News during that year.

Two accidents to Coryell county cars which happened out of the county, or near the borders of the county were reported by out of county papers.

Latest additions to the "Dionne" political column (fast multiplying) are the names of J. H. (Jim) Brown, candidate for sherriff from out Turnersville way, andC. C. (Lum) Hubbard, in the commissioner Beat 2 race.

That makes three in the sheriff's race, and a big "seven" in the Commissioner Beat 2 race. There's certainly something "Dionne" in this race,—in fact, one better.

High School Press Club to Edit News Feb. 18th Issue

SELECTED EDITORIAL STAFF TO ISSUE NEWS WITH EDITORAL CONTROL

Something new in 'country journalism' will be the name tagged on the Coryell County News Edition of Friday February 18, when a selected staff from Gatesville High School Press Club takes over the Editorial duties for one issue.

The plan has been tried successfully by larger papers using collegians from Journalism departments of various universities in the state but so far as is known this is the first attempt to have an editorial staff from a high school.

As for the editorial duties, they will consist of editorials by the Press Club Editor, society items, all news with the exceptions of the Community Correspondents; and probably; a little of the advertising.

This is in line with the idea of putting into practice what is learned in the various clubs and courses in the local high school as applied to the actual experience in the business interests of the county.

Announcement of the Editorial Staff will be made as soon as the selection has been made

IN MEMORY OF C. J. WILSON

Carroll Joper Wilson wos born in Coryell, December 5; 1886 and died August 26, 1937. In 1908 he joined the Methodist Church and lived a true Christian life until his death. He died very suddenly with heart trouble, but had been in bad health for several years. He leaves an aged mother, a wife and five children, three sons and two daughters; one sister and three brothers to mourn his death but we grieve not as those who have no hopes, for we know he is at rest and some sweet day we will see him in the home.

John Calvin Wilson was born in Coryell County, Feb. 12, 1892 and died January 28, 1938, he professed religion in 1910; joined the Methodist Church and was a good Christian man until his death. He was a great sufferer for years, as he died of cancer; he and his mother were living at the time of his death with Mr. and Mrs. John Roach. Ah! he was so sweet through his sufferings; his last month on earth were awful sufferings, but he bore it all bravely. He was always praying for the Lord to help him bear these pains and sufferings. The last 15 hours was so hard he felt he could not bear it. About five hours before his passing he said he could not stand another spell, but we prayed for the dear Lord to bless us all and he always trusted God in his affliction. He and his mother spent so many happy hours while keeping house which will be sweet remembrants for her. He leaves his aged mother, one sister and two brothers to mourn his passing, but praise God we don't have to grieve for our dear loved ones as those who have no hope, for we know that they are at rest for our coming; he has four neices and seven nephews. We are lonely, but not grieving for I know my dear brothers are at rest, just waiting on the golden day and the rest of us.—Written by their sister, Sallie Roach.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE

Census blanks are at the office for this year. These may be had as soon as census trustees are appointed. The school law states, "That the county superintendent and the Board of Trustees of independent Districts on the first day of January or as soon after as practical shall appoint one of the trustees or some other sualified person to take the scholastic census."

The person taking the census should study carefully all regulations and then faithfully observe them. Each year children in Coryell County are omitted. Neglecting one child costs Coryell county $22.00 Neglecting 10 children costs the county $220.-00. Every child in every district in Coryell County should be enumerated by the census trustee.

Among the worthy units of work that are being built in the County at present, Pearl Rural High School is developing one worthy of special mention. The Student body is drawing articles of government for the school for the next 4½ months These articles includes a constitution which defined the qualifications of all school officials. These regulations are very practial yet they portray a sincerity in the young people of the day that makes the hearts of the older generation rejoice.

Tuesday of this week was spent with the State Department by County Supt. Witcher. The Department means to be thru checking aid applications for Coryell County before the February State Board meeting. If the Auditor, who checks after the Department has passed on applications completes his work State Aid warrants will be out in the near future. A few schools in this county are still down on their average daily attendance. Their aid will be withheld until this average is 65 per cent of the students who are due to attend these schools.

WITH THE SHIP OF STATE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—There is a noticeable lifting of the gloom which pervaded this capitol during the Fall of '37—a Definite Lessening of the Tension—in spite of the Filibuster over the Anti-Lynching bill and the attacks of assistant Attorney Jackson and the President on holding companies.

There are two causes. First, Congress and the country at large have at last realized that there is a recession—or a new Depression—and he problems of relief and increased Government spendings can be faced squarely. Second—The leaders of business have professed themselves ready to cooperate.

The stream of important business men flowing into the White house these days does not, however, meet with the approval of all the administraion stalwarts. There is a consideration and important Bloc who reason thus; Big business caused the recession—not by deliberately plotting—but by raising prices, opposition to wage increases, covert efforts to block court reform, wage-hour legislation, farm benefits and similar plans.

This bloc is now busy telling the President that he holds the whip once more and he must use it. They whisper that he was too easy with the 'Malefactors of great wealth' when he had them under his thumb before. They insist that the spirit of cooperation which has so suddenly sprung up in this time of stress will as promptly fade away when prosperity seeps back again.

Only one man can say whether the president will accept the prospects of cooperation or whether he will demand submission. That man is Mr. Roosevelt himself.

His more conservative advisors point out that he has won or is winning many of he objectives which he failed to reach last year. A wage-hour bill is considered certain. And the supreme court has managed to reorganize itself far better than any legislative measure could have done. It is freely predicted that by 1940 at least five of the nine members will have been Roosevelt appointees.

An auspicious sign for the year has been the almost national approval of justice Reed as well as the satisfaction with the ambassadorial nomination earlier in the month.

The state department is supposed to be breathing more easily with the knowledge that London and Berlin are in competent hands—so much that even the Frantic nazi protests over Ex-ambassador Dodd's scathing denunciation of Hitler failed to Ruffle Secretary Hull.

It is no secret that the European situation is much less disturbing to Wahington than it was last year. In spite of the growth and truculence of the facist powers, the internal problems of France and Russia, no war is expected in '38. Even the Spanish troubles promises to die down. The recapture of the key position of Teruel by the Loyalists may well prove to have been the decisive action of this civil war.

KNOW TEXAS

Wisely shanging sentiment now allows the staggering figures on venereal diseases to be published, an along with the other states in the union Texas is getting its eyes opened to the need for a concentrated fight against this danger.

Not only do gonorrea and syphilis disable more than a half million people in the United States each year, but in Texas alone there are around 50,000 vitims annually, according to figures supplied by G. W. Cox, State Health Officer in the January issue of the "The Texas Planning Bulletin". Ranking with cancer, tuberculosis and pneumonia as one of the four great killing diseases, these cases are a hundred times more numerous thas infantile paralysis.

Three thousand miles of large irrigation canals are located in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, a section of four counties which covers about 3,000 square miles. Tabulations in the Mission Times show that 700,000 acre feet of water meaning enough to cover 700,000 acres with one foot of water are pumped annually from the Rio Grande for irrigation purposes. The cost of this irrigation is from $1 to $10 per acre, depending on the amount used..

Lets Talk about Clothes

TEXAS STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN (CIA)

When Parisionne Mme. Schiaparelli breaks down and hands boquets to American women on the way they dress, it's good news. And when that same madame give us a tip on how to get even ritzier in the fashion business it's a real scoop..

Individuality in dress is the key to our success at present with the world known designer, according to New York papers, and she suggested that we carry out the idea a little more in hats and other accessories. It seems that heretofore American women have all been cut from the same pattern changing with the season but changing too strictly in unison.

Now Miss U. S. has stopped wanting a certain dress just because Mrs. Jones has one. Mrs. Jones can go her way and Mrs. Brown will cheerfully go the other, looking around to find the clothes that will enhance her own personality and make her particular face and figure beautiful.

But hats are still in the standardized group, says Schiaparelli and we are neglecting the possibilities there for iriginality. Shops offer a wide enough variety but we got stuck on one style and are afraid to let it go.

There is no gain saying that it takes courage to blossom forth in a new creation, the kind of courage that the French women have always had and the American women are just learning. But if everyone would blossom at once the general effect on a much better than if he were visitor in this country would be greeted with a row of carbon copies.

Since the girls at Texas State Colege for Women are now allowed to go out of uniform on the campus, they are experimenting with the madame's advice, and so far have been highly pleased with the results.

New York, N. Y. —January, month of that two faced old mytholigical deity Janus. You never could be sure wheather he was giving you a laugh or a frown and this first month of the year is certainly living up to his uncertainties. When you clap on your topper and sally out to a night club you are never sure it will be open or like the banks back in '31 and '32 it will go bust in your face. But at the very time that some of the high spots are shuttering and some are stringing along by paying the help fifty cents on the dollar. International Casino chirps that it has grossed a million since it opened last September. Safe prediction department; the old old-fashioned waltz will K. O the Big Apple and the Shag and such like crazy cavortings before Easter. N. Y. baseball writers pick Joe Di Maggio as outstanding big leaguer of '37 which makes six Gotham players they've tapped in eight years but maybe they never heard there are sixteen teams. Race betting parlors are locked tighter than the well known barn after the horse had been pilfered; for fear the new District Attorney will crack down and street corner bookies in the flashy forties stand around trying to look like actors at liberty and here today and gone tomorrow. Claudette Colbert on her way back to get an eyeful of her native France. Errol Flynn just in from Hollywood and denying he will go to Spain again to help the loyalists and we wonder why? At the film critics party, Mary Pickford and Bob Benchley and Wallace Ford and Paul Lukas and Dame May Whitty (remember 'Night Must Fall'?) her show with Fredrick March just flopped after five days.. The blazing boulevard hasn't been kind to the Hollywooders this season. Sylvia Sidney and Elissa Landi were early closings and now Miriam Hopkins refuses to come to town with that three actor that has been groaning in the suburbs. Meanwhile the annual rush of superstars from Europe is on, they come from every country by every boat and plane away to the coast, future Garbos and Valentinos, we've forgotten their name and you will never kow them for in a month or two month they will be coming back not by plane, and that's that. But a real success story, Ray Parker who started last fall in a five dollar a week walk-on part over in Newark and who opens next month as a star of a Broadway play. Sheila Barrett our favorite mimic takes over the sert room at the Waldorf. Toby Wing clicking at the Paradise and a press agent stutters with excitment as he insists that a certain Spanish dancer was once a bull fighter, and goes home mad when we say we think he must have left out "frog". The what's in a name department, two side street eateries, the Nectar and the Ambrosia fold but the Greasy Spoon next door doubes its space. The fisticuffs between playwright Kirkland who dramatized 'Tortilla Flat' and newspaper critic Richard Watts who said he did not like it had the stem standing up and cheering because there isn't an actor or an author who would not like to take a sock at a critic or a critic, just once, for luck. FOR YOUR VALENTINE PARTY

If you are giving a Valentine party you'll want something that's in keeping with the day for dessert. Here are cake and cooky recipes calculated to win the hearts of all who partake of them.

HEART COOKIES

Three-fourth cup of butter or margarine; One-half cup granulated sugar; One-half tsp. almond and lemon flavoring; Two and one-fourth cups all purpose flour, sifted; One-fourth tsp. salt.

Cream butter or margarine, add sugar gradually; beat in egg yolk, then flavorong. Stir in flour and salt. Fill cooky press and put batter through it, using the heart plate or mold onto large baking sheets. Bake in hot oven for 8 to ten minutes or until the edges begin to brown.

VALENTINE CAKE

One-half cup shortening; 1 and one-half cups granulated sugar sifted; 3 cups cake flour, sifted; 4 tsp. baking powder; One-half tsp. salt; One-eighth tsp. cream of tartar. 1 cup of milk; One-half tsp. lemon flavoring; One-half tsp. vanilla; 4 egg whites.

Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light. Sift cake flour baking powder, salt and cream of tartar. stir into first mixture alternately with the milk, a small amount at a time, and then add the flavoring. Beat between each addition until smooth. Beat egg whites until they form gently rounded peaks, not stiff. Fold in carefully but thoroughly. Pour into a greased Valentine mold or a rectangular pan and bake in a moderate oven for one hour and 15 minutes. Frost with a white frosting and decorate with candied roses.

CHERRY ICE-BOX CAKE

Soften 2 tablespoons gelatin in a tablespoon cold water, add one-half cup maraschino cherry syrup and stand over hot water until the gelatin is dissolved. Cool slightly. Beat 2 cups heavy cream, fold in the cherry syrup 16 crushed macaroons and 16 to 20 diced maraschino cherries. Pour in a 7-inch spring form mold lined with lady fingers and macaroons. Chill one day, remove the mold rim, decorate with cherries; sweetened whipped cream or crumbled macaroons and cut-up marshmallows.

ICE CREAM CHERRY TART

Drain liquid from 1 can of sour cherries. To 1 cup liquid add 1 cup sugar and boil 10 minutes. Add one cup cherries and cook 8 minutes longer. Moisten 1 tablespoon cornstarch with a little cold water and add to the cherry mixture. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Bake rich pastry in individual heart shaped tart shells. Fill each shell one-half to two-thirds full of ice cream and cover with the cold cherry mixture. Serve immediately.

The House has been holding its regular sessions during the past week but for some reason does not seem to have been working with the vim that characterized the first four weeks of this session. This is possibly due to the fact that we had all expected to have the conference report on the farm bill this week. This report, however, has been postponed and it is now expected that it will be filed on Monday and the vote will be taken Tuesday. I sincerely hope there is no further delay because I know the farmers must know th provisions of the bill right away in order to plan their crop and also for the selfish reason that I plan to come to Texas next week and I do not want to leave until this vote is taken. I had planned to leave here tonight (February fourth) but now it will be impossible to do so before Tuesday night (February eighth).

I want to visit Temple, Waco and Belton with the officials of the United States Housing Authority in an effort to help the people of these cities establish "slum clearance" projects. I feel that this slum clearance work is very important not only to the particular cities where it is undertaken but to the whole nation as the program involves a expenditure of half a billion dollars of money secured by the sale of bonds against the property. It will mean the employment of hundreds of thousands of workers. It means the sale of tens of millions of dollars worth of building material and finally it means decent homes for thousands of families who could ever have a real home otherwise. We must provide more work or the relief rolls are bound to go up.. We must stimulate business by substantial expenditures or it will fall still further We must have public cooperation in providing decent home or many of people will not only suffer but will add to the public burden through loss of public health and efficiency. The Hocsing Program all of these things I expect to discuss it in Waco, Belton and Temple.

While I am home, I hope to also have a chance to discuss the new farm bill and explain some of its provisions in various parts of the district. In fact my present schedule calls for 12 meetings in three days that I expect to be home.

The House this week has passed two more major appropriation bills— The District of Columbia Supply Bill and the First Deficiency Bill. The District bill is for the support of the local government in Washington and comes largely out of local tax money. The Deficiency Bill is to pay for expenditures that were not foreseen at the time of the passage of the last regular appropriations bills. About two thirds of all money apropriated in the Deficiency Bill is to take care of interst on Federal Land Bank obligations. This expenditure was made necessary by the reduction of the rate of interest on Federal Land Bank leans and as I see it we are going to have to extend this reduction to future years if our farmers are not to lose their homes. I do not, of course, know that this will be done, but I feel that it should be done.

EUBANKS ESTABLISHES NEW SCORING RECORD

Red Eubanks, captain of the Hornette sexttette, hung up a new scoring record as the Hornettes tromped Copperas Cove 51-6. She scored the amazing total of 25 points, tossing in crips with the nonchalance of a bored bartender throwing out a drunk She scored sixteen points in the first half and added nine in the last half. Margaret Weaver who played guard the first half shifted to forward the final two periods and scored sixteen.

The Hornets trounced the Copperas Cove lads 42-16 as Red Fore scored 14 points and Felix Newland looped nine..

In the most interesting game of the night Red White's Alleyrat team defeated the Flat Yellowjackets 18-16. The Alleyrats held a 12-7 lead at the half, but until the Yellowjackets tied it up 12-12 and then scored three points to lead the Gatesville lads 15-12 with but three minutes to go. Sticky Anderson and Wright sunk two long shots to put White's team back in the lead 16-15. The Rats made two free throws and the Flat five one in the remaining time.

Sticky Anderson, star guard was high point man with eight points, while White was right behind him with 6 .

HORNETTES HOLD THEIR RECORD AGAINST ABBOTT 27-26

When it looked as if they were toppling down to their first defeat of the season those ever fighting Hornettes came back up and defeated a brilliant Abbott team by the slim margin of one point to keep their undefeated record intact.

It was Red Eubanks who led the Hornettes to victory with 17 points to her credit. Shoaf took the ball off the backboard 75 per cent of the time while Weaver Thomasson Martin and Hinson played outstanding defensive games. In fact the entire Gatesville team played great basket ball the never quit kind. It was nerve wracking but they stayed in there all the way and never slackened the terrific pace.

For basket ball skill and brilliance it was tops. Every girl that went in the game whether for Gatesville or Abbott turned in an inspired performance. For her uncanny brilliance on wheeling one-hand shots Evelyn Ragan lithe Abbott forward has seen no egual. She scored fifteen points to lead the Abbott scoring.

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP TO BE DECIDED AT TURNERSVILLE THIS WEEKEND

The basketball champion of Coryell County will be decided at Turnersville this weekend. The bracket was arranged so as to have some sensational games all the way through.

The frist game will be at four o'clock Friday, and at that time the strong Ireland team meets a brilliant Jonesboro outfit in what will be one of the best contests played this year. At 5 o clock Turnersville plays a weak Flat team.

In the feature game Friday night the local Hornets play the strong Pearl team, and at 8:30 two weak sisters clash, Copperas Cove and Oglesby.

The winner of the Jonesboro and Ireland fracas will tangle with the winner of Turnersville and Flat. In the semi-finals, while the victor of the Pearl-Gatesville tangle plays the winner of Copperas Cove and Oglesby.

CRIP SHOTS

By J. F. POST

It was a different Red Eubanks who performed against Ireland and Flat. Her play was exactly opposite from her exhibition against the Beattie sextette. She passed the ball deftly and her ball handling was perfect. In the Ireland game she made six out of eight free throws

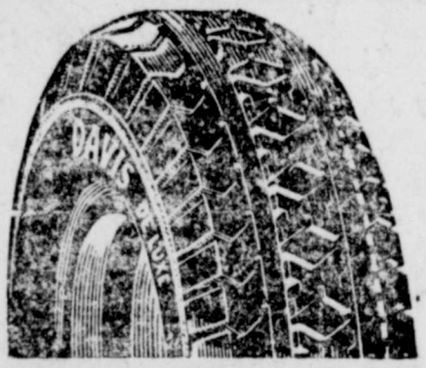

The Hornettes seem to have one of the best girls clubs in the state. They have defeated all the team in this county. They beat Beattie, ranked the best in Comanche county and they downed the West Trojanettes, who since that time have defeated every team they have played, and they have met the pick of this section's crop.
