Water to be shut off

BIG SPRING — Water will be shut off in the Greenbelt section of the Industrial Park from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Tuesday so city crews can repair water valves, a city spokesperson said.

Area residents around the industrial park may experience a drop in water pressure, the spokesperson said.

Grim task begins

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Hampered by low clouds and rain, rescuers today began the grim task of recovering the bodies of Rep. Mickey Leland and 15 others who died when their airplane crashed in a mountain in southwestern Ethiopia.

The bodies of the Texas Democrat and 11 others were found Sunday in the wreckage of the twin-engine plane, which disappeared Monday during bad weather on a flight to a refugee camp near the Sudanese border.

The others were presumed dead in the crash that one U.S. Air Force pilot described as "awesome, unsurvivable," and the search for the other bodies began today in a steep ravine below a jagged cliff about 500 miles southwest of the capital.

Flags were lowered to half staff at the White House and President Bush and other leaders expressed sorrow at the death of Leland, who was en route to inspect conditions of 300,000 Sudanese civil war refugees at a camp in Fugnido, about 100 miles southwest of the crash site.

Searchers had no immediate report of what caused the crash. Mourned as a fighter for the homeless and hungry worldwide, Leland was a six-term representative from Houston who began his political career as a firebrand militant but later won the respect of both liberals and conservatives.

Bush said in a statement from the White House, "Mickey Leland and the other members of his traveling party, both Americans and Ethiopians, were engaged in a noble cause — trying to feed the hungry."

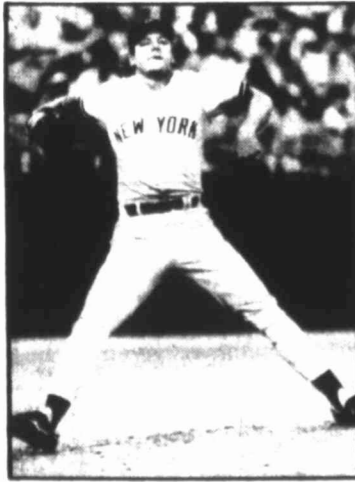

Leland often said his commitment to ending hunger was rooted in a trip he made to Sudan in 1984, when a starving young girl died before his eyes at a refugee camp. "Every day I see her face," he told reporters.

The trip that ended with his death was his second there since March; he visited Ethiopia and Sudan six times in the 10 years he served in Congress. He was elected to fill the seat vacated by Barbara Jordan when she retired.

Stanton council

STANTON — The Stanton City Council will meet at 7 p.m. tonight in regular session in the council chambers at city hall.

Members will consider any matters concerning a new landfill project as well as any items pertaining to the 1989-90 budget.

Hospital service could suffer if bills aren't paid

By BRADLEY WORRELL
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Unpaid medical bills and delays in payments could threaten the ability of the local hospital to provide certain medical services for residents of Howard County, a hospital representative told Howard County Commissioners today.

"The hospital cannot continue to operate at a loss," said Dan Wise, director of social services at Scenic Mountain Medical Service. "We're in a situation now where we've got to get some help," he said.

Wise appealed to commissioners to use indigent health care funding to reimburse the hospital for expenses it incurred while caring for two Howard County residents. The two residents are indigent and unable to pay for their medical bills, which Wise estimated total $50,000.

Wise said he would like to see the county pay for the expenses, and then have the state reimburse the county if the state chose to assist in reimbursing the hospital for providing medical services. The county is able to provide $30,000 in indigent health care funding for anyone who qualifies, he said.

"We've built up some pretty good size bills, we'd like to see the county provide funds to offset those bills," Wise explained after the meeting today. "We need to get some money coming in, just in case the state doesn't make restitution."

But Irene Rodriguez, director of the Howard County Indigent Health Care program, said legislation passed Feb. 1 limits the health care program. That legislation keeps the program from providing compensation to hospitals before the state has the chance to pay for any expenses.

To pay for a person's expenses before the state has the opportunity to accept the person for social

Area S&Ls combine

HERALD STAFF REPORT

BIG SPRING — One of two branches of the former Consolidated Federal Savings office in Big Spring closed permanently Friday, and those accounts have now been transferred to the other local office, a spokesperson for the newly-formed Bluebonnet Savings Bank said.

"By streamlining our operation, Bluebonnet Savings Bank is contributing to the revitalization of the Texas economy and the thrift industry," said Burl Greaves, Bluebonnet Savings Bank regional manager for the West Texas Region.

The office of the former Big Spring Savings Association, 604 Main St., closed its doors at 1 p.m. Friday to begin a consolidation process with the other savings and loan office at 500 Main St., he said.

The reason for the consolidation, Greaves said, "Very simply, is the consolidation of two offices a block apart."

The reason the 500 block office was chosen to remain open and the other office closed is because the 600 block office is not large enough to hold the newly-combined services, he said.

Also, Wanda Haggard, head of marketing for the business, said previously the 600 block office was

Cat lover: Arrest not fair

By RUTH COCHRAN
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — A 61-year-old cat lover here said it wasn't fair that she was arrested because her cats run loose and bother her neighbors.

Flora "Rosie" Posey was arrested last week on a warrant charging cat at large. City officials have said Posey has owned as many as 42 cats and that numerous complaints about the animals as well as Posey's practice of leaving food for them on other people's property prompted the arrest.

Posey, however, said she's never owned that many cats, and any that cause problems to neighbors are moved to the country. Furthermore, she said, she's never left food for stray cats on other people's property.

"They said I had 42 cats and I never in my life had 42 cats at the same time," said an indignant Posey. "I've never had over maybe 10 cats. Even when I lived in the country I didn't have that many cats."

Posey said she currently has just six cats of her own, two of which stay inside all the time. When she feeds the others, she said, she feeds them in her yard. As soon as they finish eating, she takes up the food to avoid drawing strays, she said.

"Of course, there's other people's cats but they don't stay," she said. "I was putting food over (in a vacant lot) for a dog, but I quit do-

Howard County 4-Hers learn about food and nutrition

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

BIG SPRING — Howard County 4-H Club members took part in a Foods and Nutrition Workshop Friday where they learned about diets and tried new foods.

Nine 4-Hers completed the workshop, according to County Extension Agent Naomi Hunt.

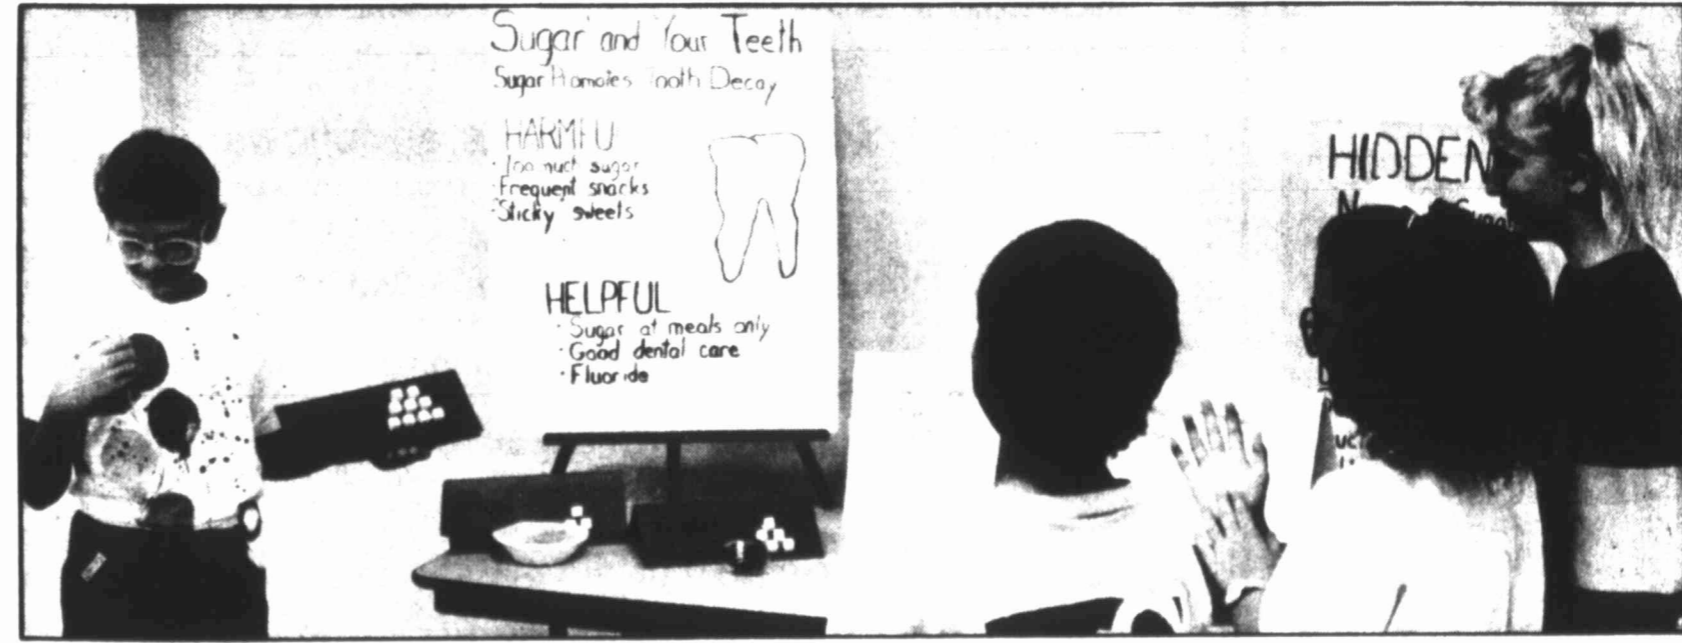

"What we try to do with the workshop is provide some activities on a countywide basis that would be harder to get in a club project or individually," Hunt said. "The workshop helped them know where they were as far as fitness was concerned. Plus, the exhibit on sugar helped make them aware of how much sugar is in foods."

Hunt said the workshop had two main objectives.

"We wanted them to develop desirable eating habits and develop skills in buying foods and studying food costs," she said.

Among the events at the workshop:

- Individual fitness status was evaluated with measurements of flexibility, cardiovascular fitness, muscle strength and endurance, height and weight. Jewel Hyer took each person's blood pressure.
- Becky Walker presented an illustrated talk on controlling fats in the diet.
- During the food preparation session, teams of 4-Hers prepared lunch. Part of the meal was a taste comparison of honeydew, casaba, Persian and cranshaw melons.

• Dustin and Katie Gaskins directed the group in preparing 4-H Snack Mix using a variety of cereals, dried fruit, crackers, seeds and candy. The home made mix is lower in fat and sugar than commercial products and ingredients can be substituted to suit personal preference and to reduce costs.

JUMPING FOR JOY . . .

By STEVE RAY
Herald Editor

BIG SPRING — Last June, 17-year-old Marcus Grisham found himself plummeting to the earth at about 120 miles per hour. It didn't make his mother happy.

But for Marcus, now a senior at Big Spring High School, it was the beginning of a longtime dream — the dream to become a sky diver. "I wasn't happy about it," said Inge Grisham, Marcus' mother and now one of his most ardent admirers. "To be honest, when he first came home with the idea and the paper for me to give permission, I was frantic. . . I was scared."

"I thought, 'Oh no, that's dangerous.' I had him explain to me all that was involved but it took me two days to sign the permission slip. I thought, well, maybe he'll get over it. . . But he was very determined, and I trusted his good judgement. Marcus is a great student. . . very responsible. . . and he does an excellent job at his part time job. Now I think (what he's doing) . . . it's great!"

Marcus, the son of Charles and Inge Grisham of Big Spring, and Chris Funua, the son of R.D. Funua and Virginia Berry, are the only two teenagers in a group of sky divers that regularly jump from planes that headquarter two miles north of Stanton on Hwy. 137.

About 20 regular sky divers and there was some aerial activity near Stanton.

"I'd heard there was some sky diving in the area," Grisham said. "One day Chris and I just set out to go there. We went down Hwy. 137 and saw some parachutes opening up in the air and we knew we had found it. I watched that weekend, and the next weekend I went out and made my first jump."

Chris made his jump a few weeks later.

"There is about five hours of training that you have to go through before you can make a jump," Grisham said about his longtime dream. "I'd seen them sky dive on TV, and I'd been to air shows before where they had jumped. . . I'd always just wanted to do it."

For Grisham, the hardest part wasn't the jump — it was convincing his parents.

"At first they were really skeptical of it, but I finally talked them into it. They came out and watched the first one, that's the only one they've ever watched. . . they don't like to watch me jump. They figure I'm going to have a malfunction anytime they're there."

Grisham sky dives "every weekend." So far he has made 200 jumps.

"The first time it was weird. I watched the airplanes fly away from me, but there was no sensation of falling," Grisham said.

"Through the training you're supposed to keep looking at the

Three killed in small plane crash

MOUND CITY, Kan. (AP) — A small plane crashed into a field in Linn County on Sunday, killing a St. Joseph, Mo., couple and their 16-year-old granddaughter, authorities said.

The single-engine Mooney crashed about 1 p.m., 5½ miles north of Mound City, said Jim Grayson, a dispatcher for the Kansas Highway Patrol.

Grayson said the victims were identified as James W. Worley, 66, who was the pilot; his wife, Josephine G. Worley, 57, and their granddaughter, Angela J. Procella, 16, of Kirbyville, Texas.

They were the only people on board the plane, Grayson said.

Heavy rains in the area may have contributed to the accident, but no witnesses were known, he said. The Federal Aviation Administration and National Transportation Safety Board were expected to investigate the crash on Monday.

The route of the flight was unknown.

Mexico attempts to control killer bees

MEXICO CITY (AP) — About 12,000 swarms of killer bees were captured in Mexico in 1988, a National University researcher said.

The swarms would have reproduced into 250,000 others, a number equal to the entire bee population of the southern states of Chiapas, Oaxaca and Tabasco, said Gustavo Rodriguez, a researcher at the veterinary medicine school and former director of Mexico's Africanized bee control program.

Because of the control program, Mexico remained a leading honey exporter last year, he said. The country exports between 60,000 and 70,000 tons of honey a year.

Africanized bees, commonly known as killer bees, produce less honey and are more aggressive than the European strains. They are descendants of South African bees that escaped from a researcher in Brazil in 1956 and have been moving north since then.

Phone cable theft disrupts service

DALLAS (AP) — Telephone service was disrupted today to the University of Dallas and hundreds of other customers because of the theft of some in-use cable, an official said.

GTE Southwest spokeswoman Janet Perkins said about 50 feet of cable was reported stolen, sometime between midnight and 5 a.m.

The cable theft disrupted service to more than 500 customers in the Dallas area, including UT Dallas, said Ms. Perkins.

It was expected to be midnight before full service was restored, she said.

Columbia astronauts aren't talking

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Space shuttle Columbia's astronauts were tight-lipped after returning to Earth from a military mission believed to include the deployment of a spy satellite and tests of "Star Wars" equipment.

"We had a great time," Air Force Col. Mark Brown said after the Columbia glided to a pinpoint landing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., early Sunday.

Neither he nor the four other astronauts had much else to say about the five-day, one-hour and 56-minute flight, the first for NASA's oldest shuttle in more than 3½ years.

The crew was resting today but will return to the Johnson Space Center on Tuesday for briefings about the flight.

The five astronauts and their wives returned home to Houston on Sunday afternoon. They were greeted at Ellington Field by their families and about 300 cheering friends and co-workers.

"It wasn't nice, it was fantastic," pilot Richard Richards, a Navy commander and one of three space rookies on the flight, told the crowd.

"Our mission went perfectly smooth," said Brown, a mission specialist and another first-timer in space. "The vehicle was flawless."

A news blackout ordered by the Department of Defense prevailed over the flight, and only a few brief announcements broke the silence. Even the landing was closed to the public.

The main goal of the mission was widely believed to be deployment of a powerful, 10-ton spy satellite that can snap highly detailed photographs of military installations, troop movements and other targets around the world. Such a satellite would help the United States verify Soviet compliance with arms treaties.

Air Force Secretary Donald Rice confirmed last week that the astronauts had deployed a satellite several hours after blastoff Tuesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., but he would not elaborate about its purpose.

The astronauts also were believed to have conducted "Star Wars" experiments and to have performed tests aimed at determining the feasibility of monitoring military sites from space.

Columbia was commanded by Air Force Col. Brewster Shaw, a veteran of two previous shuttle flights. The crew also included mission specialists Navy Cmdr. David Leestma, who flew one previous flight, and Army Lt. Col. James Adamson.

The orbiter sustained little damage to its protective tiles, and no tiles appeared to be missing, said Ed Jenner, shuttle support manager for the Air Force at Edwards.

The flight was the first for Columbia since January 1986, when the spaceship flew on a mission that landed just 10 days before the Challenger explosion, which killed seven astronauts.

Columbia had remained in the hangar while the two newer shuttles, Discovery and Atlantis, made two trips each since manned missions resumed last September. Columbia eventually was overhauled, undergoing more than 250 modifications.

The mission was the 30th shuttle flight overall. Three more shuttle flights are planned this year and nine are scheduled in 1990.

Southwestern Bell, union agree on terms

By The Associated Press

More than 190,000 telephone employees were on strike nationwide today after workers in five Midwestern states joined the walkout. But two regional telephone companies reached settlements to keep 83,000 workers on the job.

About 35,000 members of the Communications Workers of America went on strike Sunday against Chicago-based Ameritech, which serves 12.3 million customers in the Midwest.

They joined more than 156,000 operators, installers and other employees at three other "Baby Bells" — NYNEX, Bell Atlantic, and Pacific Telesis — who entered the second week of their walkout today.

There were few signs of progress in resolving any of the disputes, which center on wages and company plans to cut back health benefits.

Nevertheless, the CWA reached agreement Sunday with U S West, which serves 14 western states, and with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which has 11 million customers in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas.

In both cases, the union accepted lower wage increases in exchange for company agreements to maintain health benefits more or less intact. Workers at U S West, based in the Denver area, settled for an immediate 5 percent increase, while St. Louis-based Southwestern Bell agreed to a 5.25 percent hike.

The accords averted strikes by 42,000 U S West workers and 41,000 employees of Southwestern Bell.

Union officials reached agreement Aug. 5 with the seventh regional company, Atlanta-based BellSouth.

The seven Baby Bells were created by the 1984 breakup of American Telephone & Telegraph. Each has sought to get workers to pay a larger share of their health insurance costs, which have soared at twice the rate of inflation in recent years.

The regional companies already on strike have said that most direct-dial calls were going through normally on automated equipment. Some union jobs were filled by management employees, but the walkouts disrupted installations and repairs, operator-assisted calls and inquiries to directory assistance.

In Chicago, CWA and Ameritech officials said they were willing to talk, but neither side seemed in a hurry.

Talks "have not occurred in any of the states, nor do we anticipate any occurring in the next few days," Ameritech spokesman Steve Ford said Sunday. The company's subsidiaries in Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio and Wisconsin were negotiating separately with the union.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which has been on strike against the three other regional companies but settled its contract with Ameritech, was respecting picket lines on Sunday, said Greg Kenefick, a CWA spokesman in Cleveland. But Illinois Bell spokesman Larry Cose said he had no indication the IBEW employees had joined the walkout.

The CWA rejected Ameritech's offer of a 7.5 percent pay increase over three years, $700 of it in the form of a lump-sum payment upon ratification. The offer eliminated cost-of-living raises from the expired, three-year contract.

"We're dealing with a very cash-rich company," said Frank Scala, president of CWA Local 4100 in Detroit. "Our sweat, our dedication, made that profit for the stockholders."

Ameritech Vice President Paul Downing said: "It is unfortunate the CWA does not recognize the attractiveness of the companies' proposals in our increasingly competitive marketplace."

Talks were scheduled to resume today in Philadelphia, where Bell Atlantic representatives met for an hour Sunday with union officials representing workers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Health care issues were discussed at the brief morning session, said Ken Pitt, a company spokesman.

Bell Atlantic has asked more than 41,000 CWA members to pick up a greater share of health insurance premiums, according to the union. About 11,000 members of the IBEW are also on strike in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Pitt said 19,000 managers were working 12-hour shifts, six days a week to fill in for 52,000 workers.

The strikes involve 60,000 workers at New York-based NYNEX, which serves New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Connecticut. Pacific Telesis, which has its headquarters in San Francisco and serves northern Nevada and all of California, has 44,500 striking employees.

U.S. Rep. Larkin Smith died in crash of small plane

Larkin Smith

NEW AUGUSTA, Miss. (AP) — U.S. Rep. Larkin Smith was found dead today in the wreckage of a small plane that crashed in a forest, authorities said.

The twin-engine plane carrying the Mississippi Republican and his pilot disappeared from radar screens about 9:30 p.m. Sunday and was spotted early today from a Customs aircraft 25 miles from Hattiesburg, authorities said.

Searchers trekked through heavy woods to reach the site near the community of Janice, removing the bodies of the freshman congressman and his pilot, Chuck Vierling, from the wreckage, said acting Harrison County Sheriff Farley Rhoads.

The cause of the crash was under investigation. Smith, 45, who had succeeded Republican Trent Lott, now a U.S.

senator, was returning home to Gulfport from Hattiesburg, where he had thrown out the first ball at youth baseball tournament, said press secretary Charles Busby.

"The plane was all to pieces," said Perry County deputy sheriff Gene McRee. "It appeared it centered a big pine tree. There was no way anyone could have survived." McRee said there was no fire.

Smith was the second congressman in a week to die in a plane crash. Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, was killed when his plane crashed Aug. 7 on a flight to a remote village in Ethiopia. Searchers on Monday began efforts to recover the bodies of Leland and 15 others from the wreckage, which was found Sunday.

Rep. G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., said he had spoken to Smith about Leland's death the night before the crash and had warned his colleague to be careful traveling.

"He was so happy and enjoying being a member of Congress," Montgomery said.

Smith's plane took off in clear weather at 9:10 p.m. for the 90-mile trip to Gulfport, said John Walker, a spokesman for the congressman.

Busby said authorities got a call about 10:05 p.m. from a resident who reported seeing a plane go down in the heavily wooded area. Dozens of military, civilian and law enforcement rescuers joined the search in the DeSoto National Forest.

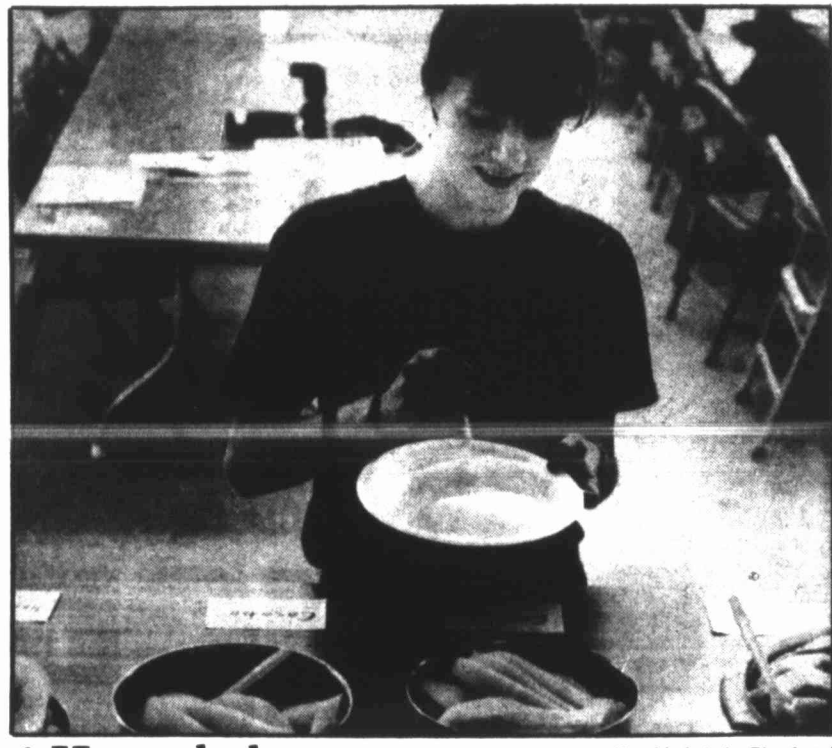

In his seven months in Congress, Smith, a former police chief known as a law-and-order candidate, co-sponsored legislation to strengthen drug laws. He recently objected to drug czar William Bennett's ban on imports of semiautomatic assault weapons. The congressman supported making death penalty laws uniform across the country, eliminating paroles and early release for dangerous criminals and streamlining the federal appeals process, which he called "never-ending."

Smith, who represented Mississippi's 5th Congressional District, was a member of the Judiciary and Government Operations committees. He also served on task forces concentrating on defense, crime and problems of the savings and loan industry.

Smith, a graduate of William Carey College, was a former police chief in Gulfport and was Harrison County sheriff before being elected to Congress in November.

Survivors include his wife, Sheila, a daughter and a grandson.

Hospital

Continued from page 1-A security supplement could mean that the state would provide the funding and the county program would not be reimbursed. The costs could be declared an ineligible expense the county should not have paid for, Rodriguez explained.

Rodriguez said the indigent health care program is forced to put people "on hold" until they receive an answer from the state on whether it will pay for medical expenses.

Wise said he was sympathetic to such concerns but reiterated that the hospital needs the funding.

"We'll take whatever we can get," he said.

The hospital had to "write off" about $1 million a year in unpaid medical bills recently and needs to be reimbursed for expenditures, he said. Wise said the $1 million is not just lack of payment from providing indigent health care but includes all unpaid medical bills.

If the hospital cannot receive adequate funding in the future, Wise warned that areas such as the emergency room and obstetrics will suffer. Scenic Mountain is the only health care provider in Big Spring, he said.

S&Ls

The consolidation should provide "improved and expanded service" for all of Bluebonnet Savings Bank customers, Greaves said. Expanded services include business hours on Mondays and use of the motor bank on FM 700 for customers of First Federal Savings.

The consolidation did lead to cuts in personnel, Greaves said, although he does not know how many were dismissed. He said some cuts were made to reduce expenses.

The Big Spring office is not the only one being affected by the consolidation: 15 other of the businesses will also be combined — five in West Texas.

"We're in process of consolidating several others, another five in West Texas, where we have duplication of services," Greaves said. Bluebonnet Savings Bank has operations in 20 towns in West Texas.

Other cities that will have their offices merged are: Colorado City with an office in Sweetwater; two offices in Dimmitt will be combined into one; in Lamesa, two offices will be combined into one; in Odessa, four offices will be combined into three; the office in Hale Center will be merged with the office in Plainview.

The new service, Bluebonnet Savings Bank, is financially solid, Greaves said. The bank has more than a $100 million in deposits $3.2 billion in assets, he said.

The reason for the name change is to symbolize the banks new image: Texas and tradition, he said. "The Bluebonnets come back each year, stronger than before," he said.

airplane until the parachute opens up. It helps you maintain a more stable body position."

"The airplane ride up to altitude only takes about five minutes but Grisham says the first time "it was a pretty long five minutes."

"I had a lot of butterflies until I finally got out there on the wing and was hanging on and then it got fun," Grisham said.

Grisham also practices his favorite hobby while he's in the air — photography! In fact, the amateur photographer has a camera mounted on a helmet.

"I have a cable release that runs through my jump suit and I hold it in my hand while I'm falling. You have about 45 seconds when you jump from about 9,000 feet. So you have about 45 seconds to shoot pictures until we get away from each other and open up the parachutes."

So far Grisham has taken about four or five rolls of film but "most of them didn't turn out real good."

"It's kind of a pain in the neck," he said. "The camera's real heavy in the front and when the parachute opens up it tends to put your head down near your chest. I always pack my parachute to open real slowly so it lessens the opening shock."

Whatever else you can say about parachuting — it doesn't come cheap. Grisham says it can cost "a lot of money, depending on how much of your equipment you own."

But Grisham's mother says the teenager pays for everything himself — money from a part-time job he holds after school.

The expense is one thing that has kept Fuqua's feet glued to the ground. "I've really just been parachuting about six times," he said. "It's too expensive for me... but sometimes I can't stand it and I've just got to go up there anyway."

Fuqua says he has only been parachuting — not sky diving. He said sky diving is when you have a free fall before pulling the chute. In parachuting you pull the chute as soon as you jump out of the plane.

"But it's coming," Fuqua said. "I've been out there just watching everybody do it (sky diving) and I'm going to give it a try."

For Fuqua, the thrill of the jump is what keeps him going back.

"It's hard to describe," he said. "It's better than any natural high you could ever have. You don't really know what to think. You're just thinking, the ground is pretty far down there. Then when you're under a canopy, you forget it and you're just having fun."

"I'm going to keep doing this forever," a wistful Grisham said. "I don't ever intend to quit. I've even thought about joining the Army so I can join the Golden Knights Free Fall team."

"It's so neat... it's just like flying."

ing that."

Posey admits that two of the cats, a mother with a kitten, have been using a neighbor's driveway as a litter box. She said she's been trying to catch the two, which are wild, so she can take them to a friend's house in the country.

"They get city officials" never really said they rid of them," Posey said of her cats. "It's the one bothering the people I want to get rid of."

"I've never found anyone but them that's complaining (about the cats.) The only complaint, I think, was the cats using the dirt."

Posey said she has called both the Humane Society and the city animal control department to ask for help in catching the cats but hasn't received any response.

When she moved to Big Spring from outside the city limits, Posey said she brought only two cats with her. The number multiplied as she took in several strays.

"Nobody would give them water and food and they were hungry," she said. "I can't stand to see them hungry. I hate to see them put to sleep, that's my problem. But I hate to see them hungry too."

Weather

Strong thunderstorms moved across the upper Mississippi Valley and the northern Plains early today, while rain continued to soak New England.

In South Dakota, hail an inch in diameter covered the ground at Avon and marble-size hail fell on Brookings.

Thunderstorms were diminishing over the northern Rockies after one storm dumped more than a third of an inch of rain in two minutes at Pony, Mont.

Elsewhere, showers and thunderstorms, some with locally heavy rainfall, extended from the Texas panhandle into central Oklahoma. Between 1 and 2 1/2 inches of rain drenched the Oklahoma City, Okla., area Sunday night.

Today's forecast called for showers and thunderstorms over Iowa, the upper Great Lakes, Florida and much of the Atlantic Coast; and scattered showers and thunderstorms from central Texas into Oklahoma.

Breaking down is part of the fun

ATLANTA (AP) — Mike Sica admits it's sometimes a bit embarrassing when his beloved Edsel has one of its frequent roadside breakdowns, but then that's part of the charm of owning a relic from the auto industry's most famous failure.

"Breaking down, too, is just part of the fun," said Sica of Port Jefferson, N.Y., one of more than 100 Edsel owners gathered here this week for the 21st annual meeting of the International Edsel Club, a four-day affair that ends Saturday.

The club, which claims 1,500 members, holds parts auctions, exhibitions and awards banquets at its annual gathering, which also provides a chance for the Edsel owners to get together and talk about their passion — the car whose name for many is synonymous with failure.

"We're proud of our Edsels," said Morris Ferguson, who brought his white 1959 model from Memphis, Tenn., for the meeting. "We talk about the love and labor we put into them."

Ford Motor Co. launched the gadgety Edsel on Sept. 4, 1957, with an unprecedented marketing blitz. Ford lost about $450 million, and the car was discontinued by 1960. But with only about 3,500 still on the road, it has become the stuff of legends.

There have been different theories about why the Edsel bombed. Some say it was a combination of a reaction against the hype, a recession in the auto industry and the car's unusual "horse collar" grill.

Sica, who owns a white '59 model, said the rarity of the Edsel is what attracted him to the car. "It's something different, if you want attention," he said.

Large and showy by today's standards, the Edsels — some painted in extremely bright colors — do get their owners lots of attention. The cars' history also draws plenty of jokes.

"It's embarrassing when they break down, and they do that a lot. But all old cars do that," said Sica, an electrician. "When you break down and pull over on the side of the road, everybody ribs you."

Sica spent part of Friday morning washing his Edsel in the parking lot of the suburban northwest Atlanta hotel where the convention was held. Several others took their cars on a 30-mile "Edselcade" to an outing at Stone Mountain Park.

Don Carpenter has four Edsels, including a '59 red convertible, and members of his family have 16 more.

"I like the red, the wild colors," said Carpenter, a retiree from Mountain View, Wyo. "It's a good car — I've never driven one I like more."

ATLANTA — Morris Ferguson, Memphis, Tenn., puts one coat of wax on his 1959 Edsel Ranger. Ferguson is one of the more than 100 Edsel owners who gathered in Atlanta for the 21st annual meeting on International Edsel Club.

Commission recalls hair dryers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission announced today that four companies have agreed to recall approximately 250,000 hair dryers that the commission believes present a danger of electrocution.

In announcing the voluntary recall, the commission said it estimates that 17 Americans die each year of accidental electrocution by hair dryers, usually when they are dropped into bathtubs.

Anne Graham, acting chairman of the commission, said that from eight to 10 of the victims are usually children, often playing with the hair dryers as toys.

The firms and the hair dryers involved in the recall are MBR Industries Inc. of Miami, Fla., maker of Pomair Pro 2100 and 1900; Mustang Electronics Inc., of Hallandale, Fla., maker of Mus-tant MU 2100; Major International, Inc. of Orange, Calif., maker of Major Styling Dryer Model 1250; and China Bazaar of San Francisco, Minimate Hair Dryer and Iron DS-601.

The commission said all of the Minimate dryers had been stopped in inventory before being sold to consumers.

Consumers who purchased any of the other dryers can return them to the store where they bought them and receive a refund or replacement, Ms. Graham said.

"In addition to recalling the hair dryers, these firms have agreed to market only hair dryers which meet acceptable minimum safety levels," she said. "This means that they are contacting their foreign suppliers and demanding a safer product."

David Schmeltzer, the commission's associate executive director for compliance and administrative litigation, said virtually all hair dryers sold in the United States are imported.

He said the dryers that are being recalled fail to meet a voluntary standard laid down in 1987 that requires a device to avoid any fatal leakage of current when the dryer enters the water with the switch in the "off" position.

Schmeltzer said there are still some 80 million hair dryers in the hands of consumers that do not meet this voluntary standard, and the staff is contacting other firms seeking additional recalls.

"Most consumers have the erroneous idea that when a hair dryer is turned off it does not create an electrocution hazard," Schmeltzer said. "This is simply not the case."

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. — Volunteers from many Indian nations took turns digging a grave Friday for 1,200 pounds of remains of Seminole Indians dug up near Tampa, Fla. several years ago.

Mike Haney, left, with the Gar Creek Band of the Seminole Nation in Oklahoma, and Jerry Bear Shield, who owns the land where the bones are to be reburied, begin the digging.

Eclipse to be visible Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — A total lunar eclipse will occur after sunset in five continents on Wednesday when the full moon orbits into the shadow of the Earth and slowly turns from a bright silver into a copper or orange disk.

More than a billion people in the Western Hemisphere will have a chance to watch as the moon appears to be slowly nibbled away, changing from the normal bright reflected light of a full moon into the colorful glow of eclipse.

The celestial show starts at 8:23 p.m. EDT over the United States and will end about 5½ hours later. The eastern United States will get the best viewing and Alaska will miss the eclipse altogether.

Visible eclipse phases will vary for the central and western parts of the country because of the difference in sunset and moonrise. In Los Angeles, for instance, the eclipse will have started before the sun has set or the moon has risen. By the time the sky has darkened completely in California, the moon will already be in the deepest part of its eclipse. For Seattle, the moon will still be below the horizon at mid-eclipse, but will rise during the totality phase.

Clouds, of course, could ruin the viewing at any location.

With clear skies, though, some phase of the celestial spectacle should be visible to observers in North and South America, western Europe and Africa, and the Antarctic. Sailors at sea in the Atlantic and in the eastern Pacific Ocean also will be able to see part of the eclipse, weather permitting.

A lunar eclipse occurs when the moon passes through the shadow created by the Earth blocking the sun's light. The moon, in its orbit of the Earth, usually passes above or below this shadowline, but every few years it follows a path that puts it completely in shade for a time. When the whole moon passes through the shadow, it is called a total eclipse.

The last total lunar eclipse visible over most of North America occurred in December 1982, and the next one is not until December 1992.

Astronomers are forecasting that Wednesday's eclipse may be a bright one.

The moon can appear during an eclipse to be a bright coppery red if there is clear, clean air between the lunar surface and the observer on Earth. If smoke or dust obscures the view, the moon will diminish to an orange color or perhaps even fade from view altogether.

Volcanic eruptions historically have dimmed eclipse viewing by dumping tons of dust into the atmosphere. But astronomers say enough time has passed since the last major volcanic eruption that most dust has settled.

The eclipse starts when the moon enters what is called the penumbra. This outer fringe of the Earth's shadow will show up on the moon as a grayish shading. After about half an hour, the moon will edge into the umbra, the dark, central part of the shadow. Total eclipse, when all of the moon is covered by the umbra, will begin at about 10:20 p.m. EDT and last for one hour, 36 minutes.

When the moon leaves the umbra, the events will occur in reverse order. The eclipse ends about 1:53 a.m. EDT when the moon edges out of the shadow altogether.

While a lunar eclipse occurs when the Earth blocks sunlight from the moon, a solar eclipse is caused when the moon blocks sunlight from the Earth.

Because of the differences in sunset and moonrise times, viewing will start at different eclipse phases in the western parts of the country.

Sunset will occur at 8:01 p.m. in Houston and moonrise is at 7:55 p.m. The best viewing will follow twilight which ends about 25 minutes after sunset.

Opinion

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

Opinions from across the U.S.

No simple solution

No matter what option President George Bush selects to respond to the new terroristic activities in the Middle East, that option must not involve negotiation with the terrorists, under any circumstances.

Bush began weighing his options after the reported hanging of Marine Lt. Col. William Higgins, a member of the United Nations peacekeeping force, by his Lebanese kidnappers, even as the terrorists threatened other murders.

Our president made an urgent call for all parties holding hostages in the Middle East to release them immediately, "to begin to reverse the cycle of violence in that region."

In Bush's policy crisis over the new terroristic activities, he confronts the same problems his two presidential predecessors encountered in relation to Middle East atrocities: An enemy in large part unseen, splintered into many religious factions with many different names, embracing a culture in which these splinter groups play by rules with which we are not familiar.

It would be easy to invoke a knee-jerk reaction of an eye for an eye in relation to the activities of terrorists, but that kind of retaliation is not effective against such a mysterious enemy. A diffused target is difficult to hit.

Because each situation of Middle East terrorism is unique, it is difficult for this nation to establish one national policy to cover all.

The no-negotiation policy, however, must be retained.

San Antonio Light

If George Bush isn't careful, he's going to fall into the same trap which ensnared Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan.

The president has come dangerously close to becoming a hostage to the hostage situation in the Middle East.

That's what happened to Jimmy Carter, distorting his presidency and sending him packing for Georgia. And that's what happened to Ronald Reagan in his second term, resulting in the legal abuses and policy disasters of the Iran-Contra affair.

It could happen again. Unless President Bush and his advisers handle the situation adroitly, they could find themselves doing nothing more than reacting to an agenda set by a group of terrorists in Beirut.

What the president must do, instead, is make clear American outrage over the murder of Lt. Col. William R. Higgins and the death threats made against other hostages, make clear that the United States will not deal with barbarians and criminals, and keep his mouth shut about when or where or in what form retribution will come.

A patient, steady course is the right one, a course determined by American interests and a firm resolve to see justice done.

The alternative is to let a band of criminals in Lebanon indirectly seize control of this country's foreign policy.

The Commercial Review, Portland, Ind.

What initially had been proffered as a more or less straightforward swap of a radical Lebanese Shiite cleric abducted by Israel... for three of its captured servicemen is... showing signs of evolving into a multidimensional international bargaining session of great complexity and perhaps long duration.

As Richard W. Murphy, formerly one of the State Department's top Middle East experts so aptly put it over the weekend, "the bazaar is open," and the offers, counteroffers, threats and ultimatums are starting to be heard from all sides.

It could be encouraging if it means that Iran and Syria are finally ready to use their influence — which means apply pressure — on Hezbollah, the radical Shiite group that holds the Western hostages.

At the same time, the direct involvement of outside forces, each with its own priorities, promises to complicate any confidential negotiations aimed at pulling off a prisoner swap.

Complicating things still further are the family ties that account for at least some of the hostage-taking in Lebanon. Many of the 17 Shiites jailed in Kuwait for attacks on the U.S. and French embassies, for example, are related to a single Lebanese hostage-taking clan, whose one demand from the beginning has been for their release.

If indeed, behind-the-scenes efforts are under way to construct a grand exchange, a lot of countries and a lot of parties will have to be involved. It's going to be a hard and probably lengthy business, and given the disparate interests involved, the outcome can by no means be taken for granted.

Los Angeles Times

It's time to admit it: The West just doesn't have a handle on how to deal with savage Mideast terrorists.

Threats against the American hostages in the Middle East make it important to recognize a few basic facts:

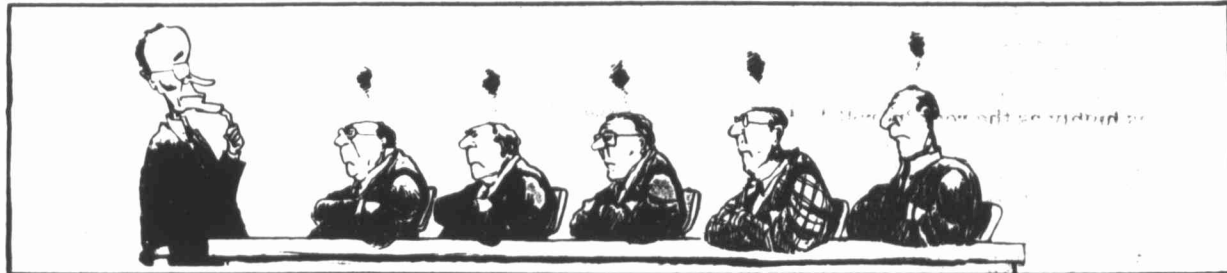

— Anger over the execution should be directed straight at the pro-Iranian group that says it acted in retaliation for an Israeli commando raid and capture of Sheik Abdul Karim Obeid.

— The Bush Administration must consider a more active military role in protecting Americans who are held hostage.

— An international effort must be made to pressure Mideast governments into discouraging terrorist acts.

A decade of watching in horror and lame condemnations has not made the world a safer place. Honorable world leaders must now stand together — boldly — to hold terrorists accountable for their grisly deeds.

NOW proposal draws criticism

By BOB MITCHELL
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Third parties in the United States have traditionally been the political equivalent of expansion baseball franchises — ineffective also-rans that occasionally play the role of spoiler by denying victory to a contender.

That's why the leadership of the National Organization for Women has earned criticism for bad judgment from political observers and even longtime feminist allies as the movement gears up for state legislative elections in which abortion is expected to play a dominant role.

The controversy involves plans by NOW to study formation of a third party devoted to issues such as abortion and the Equal Rights Amendment — an idea that NOW President Molly Yard and Eleanor Smeal, a former NOW president, did not originate but defend as plausible.

Smeal, a political scientist, said the idea of a third party should not be dismissed. As examples, she cited formation of the Republican party in the mid-19th century as an alternative to the dying Whig party. Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moose presidential campaign that ensured the election of Woodrow Wilson in 1912, and the impact of George Wallace's third-party White House bid on the 1968 presidential race.

"I don't think one can take lightly what has happened with new parties, especially if they are responding to something that is a serious movement," Smeal said. "I think the demand for women's equality is very serious, deep and historically solid."

Capitol report

To no one's surprise, the concept is dismissed out of hand by conservative activists who oppose legalized abortion and the Equal Rights Amendment. "We think it is a sign of desperation," said Susan Larson, executive director of Concerned Women for America.

But political experts have also expressed skepticism and even NOW's feminist allies have been critical.

Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said formation of a third party would be self-defeating.

Noting that Democrats adopted a pro-choice plank in their 1988 platform, political analyst William Schneider of the American Enterprise Institute said formation of a third party would be self-destructive for the women's right movement as it girds for the upcoming abortion battle. "It means punishing your friends to get back at your enemies," he said.

Talk of a third party is especially ill-timed now because feminists should be exerting their influence on the two parties as they prepare for reapportionment following the 1990 census, said Irene Natividad of the National Women's Political Caucus. "A third party would be locked out of that process for almost a decade," she said.

Ill-timed or not, Smeal said the notion is fueled by anger and frustration with the two parties for ignoring the feminist agenda on issues including the ERA and abortion. The ERA, defeated earlier this decade, died not because it lacked public support, but because of "corrupt politics" involving Democratic leaders in key state legislatures, she maintained.

"They stopped us by trading votes in states where public opinion was for us. Now what are we going to do about that?" she asserted.

"Neither party has been terrific in promoting our issues," Natividad concedes. But the key to solving that problem is getting more women to the polls and involved in the parties, she said.

"In practical terms, while I commiserate with the frustration expressed by the women with this proposal, I don't believe it is an activity we should undertake at this moment," Natividad said.

Lowering the boom on Rob

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

You've got to go with the wisdom of Los Angeles school officials who said, "Rob Lowe is going to lecture our kids? Think again."

Movie star Lowe agreed to give high-school lectures on drug abuse in Los Angeles to avoid a trial on charges he videotaped a 16-year-old girl having sex while he was visiting the 1988 Democratic National Convention in Atlanta.

But Los Angeles school board president Jackie Goldberg's reaction went something like, "Over my dead body," and said parents would have to have a guarantee of protection before the obviously hot-blooded Mr. Lowe would be allowed near their kids.

Can you blame her? Drugs are one thing. A guy with a history of having the hots for 16-year-olds is quite another. So, with apologies to David Letterman, I sat down and thought up 10 better ways Atlanta authorities could have punished Rob Lowe. Here they are, in descending order.

10. Make him spend a weekend in Dog Patch USA with a really ugly girl. I mean really ugly, as in fat, cross-eyed and hairy-thighed, and here's the kicker: She's a nympho.

9. Make him enroll at the Jimmy Swaggart Bible College in Baton Rouge, La., for a year and be given — besides his studies in such areas as biblical metaphors, the humor of Moses and who begat whom — the task of keeping the grass cut at the Rev. Swaggart's multi-acred estate.

8. Make him write on a blackboard 10 million times, "I am a bad boy." Give him just one piece of chalk, and when it runs out, tell him he's got to finish with his fingernails.

7. Send him to Beirut and make him stand on a street corner with an American flag draped across his shoulders and read aloud "The Satanic Verses."

6. Make him go into the wild and videotape the mating habits of a male tiger who has a terrible toothache.

5. Make him attend the 1992 Democratic National Convention wherever it might be, and instead of hanging around nightclubs and picking up 16-year-old girls to videotape, make him sit and listen to every speech, including the one where Jesse Jackson goes on for two hours on the theme, "I'm gonna get you, Suckahs, if you try to do this to me again."

4. Tell Mike Tyson that the whole time he was married to Robin Givens she was having an affair with Rob Lowe and that when friends warned Lowe he might be in some physical danger if Tyson found out about the involvement, Lowe replied, laughing hysterically, "That stupid, ugly bear? You're kidding me?"

3. Make him appear with Mr. Rogers on television and stand there looking like an idiot when Mr. Rogers says to his audience, "Remember this face."

2. Make him stand up at the National Rifle Association's annual convention in Shoot-to-Kill, Mont., and say, "Remember when Ted Turner called all those pro-lifers boozers? Well, the same goes for you bulletheads."

And now No. 1. The Very Best Way to Punish Rob Lowe for His Indiscretions:

Let the Iranian courts decide. There's no telling what they might order cut off.

Woodstock a historical milestone

NEW YORK (AP) — Echoes of the Woodstock festival reverberate in American society 20 years after the counterculture concert rocked the nation. But when it comes to rock 'n' roll itself, most people say the tune's gone flat.

Eight in 10 American adults have heard of the Woodstock festival, held Aug. 15-17, 1969, on a muddy farm in upstate New York — and three in 10 of them wish they had attended, a Media General-Associated Press poll has found.

That high level of awareness was rooted in a view of Woodstock as more of a historical milestone than simply a show. Most regard it as the expression of a social movement, and half of them said that movement continues today.

Yet the view of Woodstock was not an idealized one. While nearly six in 10 of those who knew of the festival said it had a lasting effect on American society, only half of them said the effect was a positive one.

Even more striking was the widely held opinion that the times have changed for the better. Just a quarter said the Woodstock era was a better time than today, while half viewed it a worse time than now.

But respondents were critical of the course of rock 'n' roll music, the raucous hallmark of the Woodstock era: Rock music of the Woodstock days was rated twice as highly as the rock 'n' roll of today. Nearly half of all respondents said they still listen to Woodstock-era rock.

Ammo explodes as boat burns

AVALON, Calif. (AP) — An FBI agent's boat caught fire offshore, forcing seven people to abandon ship before several hundred rounds of ammunition began to explode.

No injuries were reported Sunday afternoon.

A pleasure boat picked up the passengers from the water as the 39-foot vessel burned a mile offshore, said Los Angeles County sheriff's Deputy Bill Wehner.

A passenger, Kirsten Rascati, 16, said 500 rounds of ammunition were kept on the boat by owner and FBI agent Stanley Los, 47, of Santa Barbara.

She said the passengers smelled smoke and put on their life jackets.

"Then we saw smoke and flames that came from the pilot house," said Ms. Rascati. "(Los) yelled, 'Jump' and we all jumped into the water. Another boat nearby rescued us."

"Stanley explained that the trawler, a 39-foot, twin-engine diesel fishing vessel, was also his residence and that he kept both guns and ammo on the boat. It is not against the law," Wehner said.

Dade County restricts pit bulls

MIAMI (AP) — Dozens of Dade County pit bull owners wore black armbands to protest a new licensing ordinance for their dogs, but grudgingly complied with a requirement they register and insure the pets.

The measure, which goes into effect today, requires owners to keep their dogs securely fenced with a "dangerous dog" sign and to have insurance in case their dogs attack someone.

A young girl was badly mauled in the worst of several attacks that led the Metro-Dade Commission to pass the ordinance earlier this year.

Some of the owners who registered their dogs and paid $50 fees at the Dade County Animal Control center Sunday predicted the commission would suffer a political backlash from angry dog owners.

"This commission has woken up a sleeping giant," said Bob Sanchez, president of the 400-member Responsible Dog Owners of Dade County.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Soldiers keep automatic rifles on alert in predominantly Roman Catholic West Belfast Monday as rioting erupted on the 20th anniversary of the arrival of British troops in Northern Ireland.

Anniversary rally sparks riots in Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Police fired plastic bullets at rioting youths in mainly Roman Catholic West Belfast early today on the 20th anniversary of the arrival of British troops in Northern Ireland.

There were no reported injuries in disturbances that started about 6:15 a.m., said a spokesman for the Royal Ulster Constabulary, Northern Ireland's police force.

Two buses and a truck were hijacked and set on fire, said the spokesman, speaking anonymously in keeping with British custom. Bus service to the area was cut off for two hours to prevent more hijackings, he said.

Chief Constable Hugh Annesley appealed Sunday for calm across Northern Ireland during events today marking the day British troops entered Londonderry two decades ago to separate rebellious Catholics from charging police. Troops moved into Belfast a day later.

Protestants marched Saturday in a parade in Londonderry to mark the 300th anniversary of a defeat over the Catholic King James II, and Catholics marched Sunday up the Falls Road in west Belfast.

Republicans plan to gather in Londonderry tonight to march through Waterloo Place where British soldiers first arrived at 5 p.m. on Aug. 14, 1969, after sectarian riots had engulfed the city for two days and nights.

Gerry Adams, president of Sinn Fein, the legal political wing of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, told Sunday's marchers:

"We have a lot to be proud of because we have come a long way in 20 years. Our opponents have failed to defeat us."

Bernadette Devlin McAliskey, a leader in the Catholic civil rights marches of the 1960's, told the cheering crowd:

"The British army came in 19 and 69 not because we were being attacked, but because for the first time since the beginning of this state — this misbegotten tuppence half penny bastardized state — we were fighting back."

World

Chernobyl area to be sanctuary

MOSCOW (AP) — The area contaminated by the Chernobyl nuclear accident will be made a sanctuary to study such phenomena as strangely heavy pine needles and rodents with genetic abnormalities, the official Tass news agency said today.

Three regions of Byelorussia that were evacuated after the 1986 accident will be set aside for scientists to observe how radiation affects plants and wildlife, Tass said. Some sections of the Ukraine on the other side of Chernobyl are already study areas.

Tass said pine needles in parts of the poisoned forests remained normal size but were ten times heavier than normal and that some conifers had grown into giants.

Scientists found high radiation levels in reservoirs, and especially high levels in fish that feed off other fish, including pike and perch.

Although some rodents "developed genetic abnormalities, no marked changes occurred in their condition and behavior," Tass said.

Among mammals, wild boars, foxes and rabbits showed the highest radiation readings, but scientists observed no abnormal behavior among them, Tass said.

The explosion and fire at the northern Ukraine nuclear plant's No. 4 reactor April 26, 1986 killed 31 people and released a cloud of radioactive material that eventually circled the globe. More than three years later, the effects continue to be felt.

Christian forces repel Syrians

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — In the first heavy ground fighting since artillery duels began five months ago, Christian forces repelled an attempt by Syrian troops and Moslem militias to take a mountaintop stronghold overlooking the capital.

A Christian senior army source said about 50 attackers were killed in the fighting at the Souk el-Gharb garrison Sunday and said there were "plenty" of Christian casualties, but he would not give an exact figure.

The attack on the garrison was the first time the Syrians and their allies, who outnumber the Christian forces by more than two-to-one, have tried to push into the Christian heartland since March 8 when the latest round of violence began in the civil war.

"This is a sterling victory," the Christian army commander, Gen. Michel Aoun, said on Voice of Lebanon radio. "The Syrian enemy and its surrogates have been dealt a crushing defeat."

The fall of Souk el-Gharb would have been a major setback for the Christians. Its loss would leave the Christian suburbs of Baabda and Yarze, where the bulk of Christian forces and armor are deployed, vulnerable to attack.

Refugees force embassy closing

BONN, West Germany (AP) — The government announced it will close the West German Embassy in Budapest today because it is overcrowded with East German refugees seeking to escape to the West.

A Foreign Ministry statement issued Sunday said, "The reception capacity for East German asylum seekers at the representation in Budapest is totally exhausted."

"The embassy must therefore be closed for the time being, beginning Monday, Aug. 14."

East Germans have been packing into the West German embassy in Budapest and its diplomatic missions in Prague and East Berlin in recent weeks hoping to escape from their communist homeland.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Claus Wunderlich would not say how many East Germans were inside the embassy in Budapest, the Hungarian capital, but news reports last week placed the figure at 300 and said others were arriving daily.

West Germany closed its East Berlin mission last Tuesday after 131 East Germans sought refuge there. Officials said the mission will not re-open until normal diplomatic operations can be resumed.

Looney promotion

MINNEAPOLIS — A 40-foot-long, 30-foot-high air-filled loon took a dip in the lake in Loring Park Friday. The floating fowl was a promotion for the Gaviidae Common shopping center, which will open in the near future. Gaviidae is the Latin name for the loon family.

New study: Toothbrush can make you sick

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Your toothbrush, your dentures — even your bathroom — may be dangerous to your health, a University of Oklahoma researcher warns.

Dr. Tom Glass of the OU Health Sciences Center says his research shows that dentures and toothbrushes harbor disease-causing microorganisms. Other researchers have found that toilet stools send germs swirling through the air every time they are flushed, he says.

"The health implications are tremendous," Glass says.

The microorganisms he's found on dentures, for instance, are capable of producing diseases of the lungs, gastrointestinal tract and kidneys.

"You can't dip it in Listerine and kill it. And things like Polydent only change the color," he said.

"We estimate probably a third to a half of all denture wearers are walking around sick" because of mouth germs, Glass said. "It's a very common problem among denture wearers and also among kids who wear orthodontic appliances."

Ditto for toothbrushes. "We've found lots of very serious organisms on toothbrushes," he said.

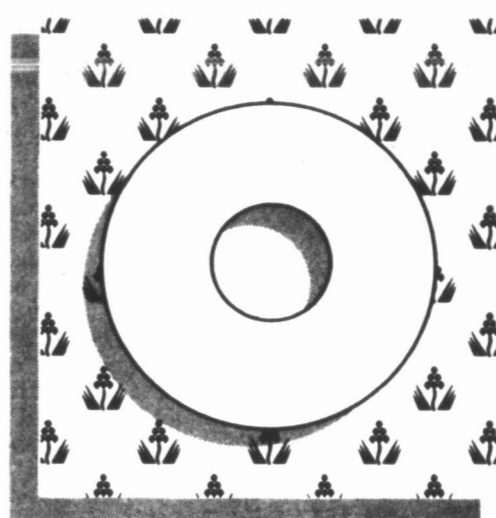

Glass, a dentist who is chairman of the university's oral pathology department, began his bathroom investigations by chance in 1983.

At the time, he had many patients with recurring mouth infections and other ailments.

Then one day, while cleaning the tile grout in his bathroom with an old toothbrush, Glass noticed that the residue from the dirty grout resembled the buildup on the bottom of his own toothbrush.

Reeds celebrate 30th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Reed, 118 Lincoln Ave., celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary July 30 at a 7 p.m. family dinner at the home of Mike and Cindy Guzman.

They were surprised with a two tier anniversary cake adorned with the original bride and groom used on their wedding cake 30 years ago. After the dinner, slides of their wedding were shown.

The event was hosted by their daughter and son-in-law, Mike and Cindy Guzman.

Mr. Reed was born in Big Spring to Olga Reed and the late Howard Reed.

Mrs. Reed, the former Rosalie A. Ebersale, was born in Pilot Point to Mrs. Leona Ebersale and the late J.C. Ebersale.

The couple met in 1958 at Big Spring High School. The couple attended study hall together while in high school. They were married Aug. 1, 1959 at the home of the bride's parents with the Rev. Warren Stowe officiating.

Their children are: Johnny Reed, 613 Steakly, Big Spring; and Cindy Guzman, 3220 Auburn, Big Spring.

The couple has two grandchildren.

Mr. Reed is employed at Big Spring Automotive and Rosalie has been and is currently a bookkeeper at Higgenbotham-Barlett for 12 years.

Korean War Memorial will be American gift

DEAR ABBY: Orchids to you for calling public attention to the Korean War veterans.

In March, my wife, two sons and I visited Washington, D.C., for a sightseeing vacation that included a tour of Arlington National Cemetery. Our guide pointed out the Korean War "memorial," which was a cement park bench on which was engraved: "In Sacred Memory of Those Americans Who Gave Their Lives During the Korean War (1950-1953). 54,246 Died; 8,377 Missing in Action; 559 Unaccounted-For POWs."

Our sons were incensed after reading the casualty statistics. They had no idea the Korean War was so bloody and costly, and couldn't understand why those who fought in Vietnam had been honored with such an impressive memorial, while the Korean War veterans had only a cement park bench.

Matt, 13, felt compelled to do something about it, so for his Eagle Scout project he researched the Korean War and began a movement in our city to raise awareness, support and money for a proper memorial to honor those who served — including my own cousin who was killed in action.

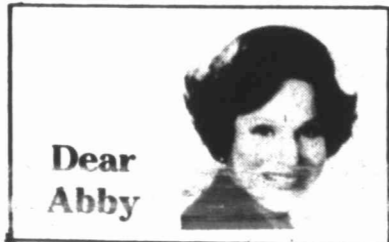

I am proud of Matt's sensitivity. And God bless you, Abby, for caring so much. — THANKFUL IN FORT WORTH

P.S. Please tell us where we can send contributions for the Korean War Veterans Memorial.

DEAR THANKFUL: Thank you for asking. Contributions (checks or money orders; no cash, please) should be made out to: Korean War Memorial, P.O. Box 2372, Washington, D.C. 20013-2372.

The proposed memorial will cost $6 million — funded by contributions from the public, and not one dime of government money. Let's get that well-deserved memorial built. A buck or two from you will do it!

DEAR ABBY: This problem may seem insignificant to you, but it's important to me. When I was in Byrd High School in Shreveport, La., in the '60s, I loved to dance the "twist." I spent every weekend at dances, and as soon as the music began, I couldn't control my feet.

Dear Abby

Toes tapping, fingers snapping — up and away onto the dance floor to twist the night away.

My 25th high school reunion is coming up, and I want to go to the dance and see my old classmates. However, I'm embarrassed to say that I haven't changed my style of dancing; I still love to do the twist. Should I go and risk humiliation? Or stay in Pensacola in the safety of my home? — LOUIE THE TWISTER

DEAR LOUIE: People attend class reunions to relive the good old days, so go back, enjoy your reunion and twist to your heart's content. It's not only great fun, it's great for the waistline.

DEAR ABBY: As the parents of three adopted Korean children, we would like to offer another way to handle questions from strangers who ask what nationality our children are, and where did we get them. (You said strangers who ask such questions are rude. We say they are naturally curious.)

When strangers question us, we explain how we adopted these children, how old they were when we got them, and how an international adoption works.

We have met some very nice people and welcome an opportunity to educate them. It's led to a better understanding of why and how some people choose to adopt children from another country.

We answer these questions in the presence of our children, and they have not suffered from it. They realize that they are of a different race, and they know that they are adopted. And since these conversations are always friendly, it assures our children that their adoption was positive and good.

Sa, Abby, our advice to adoptive parents of children of another race is: Don't be offended when strangers ask questions. Answer them honestly. FRIENDS FROM IOWA

Johnson era begins with bang; Pokes win, 20-3

SAN DIEGO — Troy Aikman fired a volley while Steve Walsh only managed to get off a couple of rounds in the debut of Dallas' dueling rookie quarterbacks.

"I am pleased and I felt comfortable out there," said Aikman, who completed 8 of 11 passes, including a 9-yarder for a touchdown to Kelvin Martin, in the Cowboys' 20-3 exhibition victory Sunday over the San Diego Chargers.

"I don't know what is going to happen three weeks down the line. There is still lots of football to be played. If they count on me to be the starter, I'll be ready for the challenge."

Aikman played the first half and registered 67 passing yards, while Walsh was 2-of-8 for 22 yards in about one quarter of play. Veteran free agent Babe Laufenberg played the fourth quarter.

"It's frustrating when you don't move the ball," said Walsh. "The job is not determined yet. I am just looking for the next chance to get out there and show what I can do."

Aikman and Walsh both worked under a limited game plan for the exhibition opener, which was Dallas' first game without Tom Landry as head coach.

"It's good to get this one behind us. Now we can get into our normal routine," said Jimmy Johnson, the former University of Miami coach who replaced Landry.

The game also marked the debut of Chargers coach Dan Henning, who replaced the fired Al Saunders.

Henning's team committed four turnovers, the last coming in the fourth quarter when Dallas cornerback Everson Walls intercepted a Mark Malone pass and returned it 72 yards for a touchdown.

"I don't think anyone proved today that he can take the reins in any way, shape or form," Henning said of his trio of quarterbacks.

Veteran San Diego quarterback Mark Vlasic, recovering from a severe knee injury, did not play.

Testaverde leads Tampa Bay to win

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. — The main conclusion of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Houston Oilers drew from their preseason opener is that both teams still have a lot of work to do to get ready for the regular season.

While Bucs coach Ray Perkins was encouraged by his team's 41-23 victory Saturday night, he stressed the importance of keeping the triumph in perspective. Oilers coach Jerry Glanville urged the same, while not offering any excuses for losing.

"We're going to look at the films and see a lot of mistakes... but I think winning will boost our guys' confidence," Perkins said. "It's a preseason game, and you've got to take it in stride, but it should be evidence for our players that we can compete."

The Oilers had four first-half turnovers and trailed 31-9 at halftime. Warren Moon played only two series at quarterback, and backups Cody Carlson and Chuck Hartlieb ran an offense operating without most of its most potent weapons.

"We've gotten where we are because of depth, and we are missing some of that tonight," Oilers wide receiver Ernest Givins said, alluding to injuries and holdouts that have left Houston at less than full strength in training camp. "This loss isn't going to hurt us one bit."

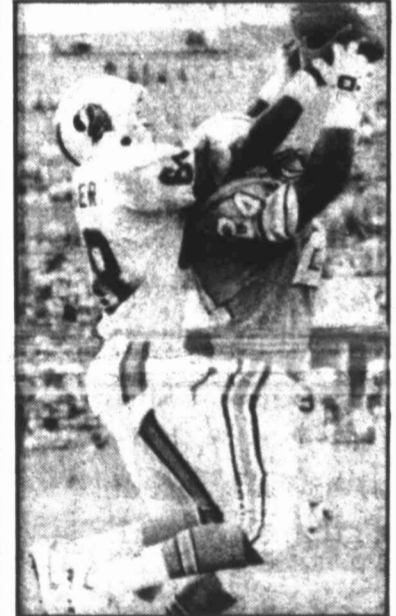

Vinny Testaverde passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third to pace the victory before a crowd of 37,830 in Tampa Stadium. Ode Harris intercepted a Carlson pass and returned it 27 yards for a TD and Lars Tate scored on a 1-yard run for Tampa Bay.

The Bucs defense surrendered Moon's 6-yard touchdown pass to Givins; Carlson's 11-yard TD toss to Tracy Johnson, and Chuck Hartlieb's 34-yard scoring pass to Mike Akiu.

"The biggest thing is we were getting after people. That's what this game is supposed to be all about. As long as we do that, we'll win our share," Perkins said. "We made some mistakes, but nothing that can't be corrected."

"It doesn't matter about the win so much as that we played well together as a team," said Testaverde, who completed 9 of 22 passes for 137 yards with no interceptions.

The Bucs quarterback threw a 32-yard touchdown pass to Mark Carrier in the first quarter and a 28-yarder to Danny Peebles during Tampa Bay's 24-point second period.

TAMPA, Fla. — Tampa Bay's Mark Carrier, left, goes over the back of Houston Oiler Steve Brown to catch a touchdown pass from Vinnie Testaverde during first-quarter exhibition action Saturday.

Doe and Mize deadly duo for Oilers

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

BIG SPRING — When the Big Spring Oilers compete in the regional fast-pitch softball tournament in Pasadena this weekend, their main weapons will be on the mound. Pitchers Bobby Doe and Johnny Mize have been a picture of consistency this year.

Doe and Mize's excellent pitching, combined with an air-tight defense, enabled the Oilers to win both the Class A state and regionals championships last year. Two weeks ago, the Oilers finished second at the state tourney, thus earning a chance to defend their regional championship.

Mize is a former Big Spring resident who now lives in Amarillo. His father, Cotton, is the manager of the team.

Doe is also a Big Springer. Last year he moved away to coach baseball in Hawley. This year he's back in the Spring City, coaching at Big Spring.

It seems only natural that Doe be a star on the diamond; it runs in the family. Dad Huck, who died last year, played professionally in the Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies organizations.

Bobby played his high school ball at tradition-rich Snyder. Under the direction of coach Albert Lewis, the Tigers won two district championships. Bobby was an all-league shortstop.

"I grew up in a baseball family. I was always around it. I learned quite a bit when I was at Snyder," said Doe.

After Snyder, Doe played his college ball at Lubbock Christian College and Hardin-Simmons University, playing either shortstop or catcher.

At LCC, Bobby was introduced to the game of fast-pitch softball. Ironically, his coach at LCC, Larry Hays, who's now the coach at Texas Tech, got Doe interested.

"Coach Hays talked me into playing," said Doe. "He was pitching, and he still does. I played shortstop then."

After finishing college, Doe mov-

Bobby Doe, left, and Johnny Mize are two of the main reasons the Fina Oilers will be making a return trip to the Class A regional fast-pitch softball tournament this weekend. Doe and Mize have combined to give the Oilers a reliable one-two punch at pitching.

"I started messing with it (pitching) when I was on the sidelines. But it was really the shortage of pitchers that made me try it. There's just not that many pitchers in fast-pitch." — Bobby Doe.

ed back to Big Spring and gradually got involved in fast-pitch in his old stomping ground.

He played sparingly with coach Mize's club when it was known as the Cotton Chippers. But he's become a full-time player the past three seasons. "They (Oilers) are a good ballclub and Cotton is a good manager. Plus I wanted to play a better class of ball," said Doe.

And with the success Doe has had, it's hard to believe that he's only been pitching four years. "I started messing with it (pitching) when I was on the sidelines. But it was really the shortage of pitchers that made me try it. There's just not that many pitchers in fast-pitch," he said.

In four years Doe has become of the top pitchers in the state — maybe in the nation — but he won't comment on that.

But his stats speak for themselves. Last year, he put on a superb performance while leading the Oilers to a berth in the national Class A tournament. At both the state and regional tournament, Doe won a combined eight games without a loss. Making history, he became the first pitcher to be named MVP at both the state and regional tourney in the same season.

At nationals in Fargo, N.D., Johnny Mize lost the first game, as the Oilers dropped a 4-1 decision to Elkhart, Ind. In their second game, with Doe on the mound, the Oilers lost to Kidron, Ohio, 5-3. In that game, Doe surrendered his only homer of the year.

This season has been nothing but a success for Doe and his teammates. After a slow start, the Oilers have won 30 of their last 34 games. As usual, Doe and Johnny Mize have been awesome, carrying a combined ERA of 1.20, averaging 11 strikeouts per game.

Doe fired a no-hitter against a Lubbock team earlier in the year, and Johnny Mize hurled a perfect game against a team from Austin last weekend in the Austin tournament.

Doe's record is currently 30-7. At one time he had streaks of 14 straight wins and 11 consecutive games without allowing a run.

And Doe, who like Johnny Mize throws excess of 90 miles per hour, says he has a lot more to learn. "Last year was the first time I pitched against really good competition. We've got a great defense and that helps me a lot."

"Johnny and Cotton have helped me a lot with my pitches. They've helped me with my rise ball, which is their strongest pitch and my weakest pitch."

In addition to pitching, Doe is a crafty batsman also. He's just coming off a tournament where he batted .428, and he also did some catching, a position the Oilers are hurting at now.

"It's going to be tough on us (winning regional)," said Doe. "We got both our catchers injured (Burl Roberts, David Altom) and our center fielder (Ricky Martinez), plus we had some players last year that we don't have this year. But we've still got a chance."

And it doesn't hurt to have two top-notch pitchers.

Torrid finish helps Stewart overtake Reid for PGA crown

By RON SIRAK
AP Sports Writer

HAWTHORN WOODS, Ill. (AP) — This PGA started out in a time machine and ended up missing from radar.

Day One was stolen by Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson.

And the tournament was stolen by Payne Stewart after Mike Reid, the man called Radar because his accuracy, lost his way on the last three holes.

While Stewart was finishing with a 31 on the back nine, birdieing four of the last five holes, Reid drove in to the water on 16 for a bogey, missed a 2-foot putt on 17 for a double bogey and missed a 7-foot birdie putt on 18 that would have saved a playoff.

"The Russians must have been transmitting because my radar kind of got zapped," a tearful Reid said.

Reid, who led the Masters on the final day this year before driving-putting 14 for a bogey and driving into the water at 15 for a double bogey, said he had learned from that collapse.

Floyd finalizing Ryder Cup team

HAWTHORN WOODS, Ill. (AP)

— The 17th hole of the Kemper Lakes Golf Course cost both Mike Reid and Scott Hoch a place on the 12-man U.S. Ryder Cup team.

Reid, who needed to win the PGA to qualify for the team, double-bogeyed the 172-yard, par-3 17th on Sunday and he eventually finished one stroke behind Payne Stewart.

Hoch, who needed a sixth-place finish to make the team, finished eighth because of a bogey on the

"I want to make that experience a stepping stone, not a tombstone," Reid said Sunday morning after finishing the back nine of the rain-interrupted third round.

Instead, he sank like a stone. Stewart, playing three groups in front of Reid, made up six shots on the last nine holes, birdieing Nos. 11, 14, 15, 16 and 18 for a 67 to Reid's 74.

"Man, this is unbelievable," said Stewart, who was actually nine strokes behind Reid when the third round resumed Sunday morning with Reid on No. 10 at 13-under and Stewart on No. 12 at 4-under.

"This is a dream I've been trying to work at for some time," Stewart said. "I'll cherish this moment for a long time."

Stewart's birdie at 18 put him at 12-under-par 276, one stroke ahead of Reid, U.S. Open champion Curtis Strange and Andy Bean.

Dave Rummells was alone at 10-under with Ian Woosnam at 9-under and Scott Hoch and Craig Stadler at 8-under. Watson, who was trying to win the only one of the four Grand Slam events to elude him in his career, shot a closing-round 71 to finish at 281, 7-under par and five shots back.

Nicklaus closed with a 72 for a 3-under 285.

And Palmer thrilled his army one more time with a fine fourth-round 70, including a birdie on 18 that followed a five-minute standing, roaring ovation as he walked to the green.

Palmer finished the tournament at 5-over 293.

The trio, who have combined to win 164 tournaments, including 36 majors, electrified the crowd on Thursday when Watson, 39, shot a 67, and Nicklaus, 49, and Palmer, 59, each had 68s.

But the magic faded and names like Reid, Strange, Stadler and Stewart started taking over.

For Stewart, the 32-year-old known for his snazzy knickers and for always being around the lead, it was his first victory in a major tournament and his fourth overall.

Clancy loses to Reds — again

By The Associated Press

Ten days later, Jim Clancy faced the Cincinnati Reds again. This time, it was a lot better, even though he lost again.

"I felt good today, unlike the last time," Clancy said Sunday after Cincinnati beat the Houston Astros 5-0.

On Aug. 3, he started against the Reds and Cincinnati started breaking records. Clancy allowed seven runs in the first inning without retiring a batter. The Reds finished the inning against Bob Forsch and wound up the first with 14 runs and 16 hits. Cincinnati won the game 18-2.

NL roundup

"I can't pinpoint one thing," Eric Davis said, "but maybe it's to our advantage that we don't know him, because we don't look for certain pitches by him."

Tom Browning, who won the 18-2 game, pitched a six-hitter on Sunday to win his eighth consecutive game against Houston.

"They are an aggressive team and a good fastball-hitting team," said Browning, who struck out seven and walked five. "I don't give them the same pitch in the same spot twice. I move the ball in and out and make them hit my pitch."

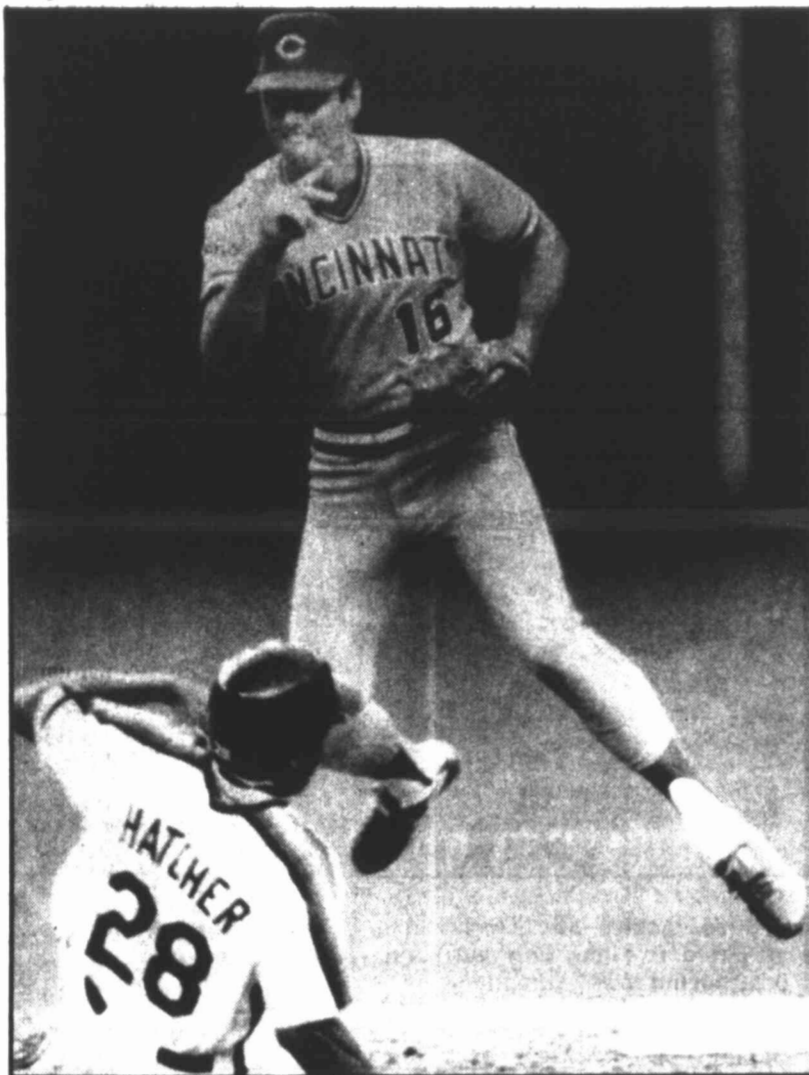

In other games, New York beat St. Louis 3-2, Philadelphia beat Chicago 5-3, Pittsburgh beat Montreal 6-4 and Los Angeles beat San Francisco 3-2 in 12 innings. San Diego and Atlanta were idle.

Clancy, 6-10, gave up three runs and four hits in four innings, losing for the sixth time in seven decisions. Houston lost for the fourth time in five games.

The visiting Reds took a 1-0 lead in the second on Jeff Reed's sacrifice fly, and run-scoring singles by Rolando Roomes and Ron Oester made it 3-0 in the fourth.

In the seventh, Luis Quinones hit an RBI single and Davis had a sacrifice fly.

ed to within 3½ games of first-place Chicago in the NL East.

New York has won 11 of 14 and, at 64-53, is 11 games over .500 for the first time this year. The visiting Cardinals remained 6½ games back.

Ojeda, 9-9, allowed seven hits in 7 1-3 innings. Randy Myers finished for his 19th save. Ken Hill, 6-9, allowed five hits in six innings.

Phillies 5, Cubs 3
Ricky Jordan's sacrifice fly snapped an eighth-inning tie at Wrigley Field and Darren Daulton followed with a run-scoring single.

Ryne Sandberg went 0-for-3, snapping his streak of five consecutive games with a home run. Jerome Walton's fifth-inning double extended his hitting streak to 24 games, longest in the major leagues this season.

Pirates 6, Expos 4
Bob Walk, 10-7, scattered eight hits over 8 2-3 innings at Olympic Stadium to become Pittsburgh's first 10-game winner. The Pirates snapped a three-game losing streak and Montreal remained 2½ games behind Chicago, a game ahead of New York.

Rookie leads O's past Boston

By The Associated Press

Whether it's behind the wheel or on the mound, Baltimore rookie Dave Johnson is content.

On Sunday, Johnson pitched his second straight complete game and Craig Worthington hit a two-run homer to help the Orioles beat Boston 6-1 for a split of their four-game series with the Red Sox.

Only 13 hours before the start of the game, the Red Sox won 10-8 in 13 innings with the Orioles using seven pitchers.

"I wanted to give them six or seven good innings. Going nine is a bonus," Johnson said.

AL roundup

Johnson, 2-1, allowed six hits, struck out three and walked two. He's the first Oriole to toss consecutive complete games since Jeff Ballard did it on Aug. 13 and 18 of last season.

Elsewhere in the AL, it was

Milwaukee 5, Cleveland 4 in 10 innings; Kansas City 8, Toronto 3; New York 9, Minnesota 7; California 4, Oakland 3; Chicago 6, Seattle 4, and Detroit 4, Texas 2.

Tigers 4, Rangers 2
Lou Whitaker's two-out, bases-loaded single in the ninth inning lifted Detroit past Texas at Arlington.

The Tigers loaded the bases with two out, when Mike Brumley singled off reliever Kenny Rogers, 2-2. Brumley stole second, and Jeff Russell, the Rangers' bullpen ace, walked Gary Pettis and hit Dave Bergman with a pitch to load the bases.

Mike Henneman, 9-4, pitched one inning of one-hit relief for the victory and Guillermo Hernandez got the save.

Angels 4, Athletics 3
Rookie Kent Anderson hit a two-run triple with two outs in the sixth inning and Claudell Washington followed with a single as California beat visiting Oakland to avert a sweep in the last meeting of the season between the AL West leaders.

The Angels snapped a three-game losing streak and pulled within one game of the AL West-leading Athletics.

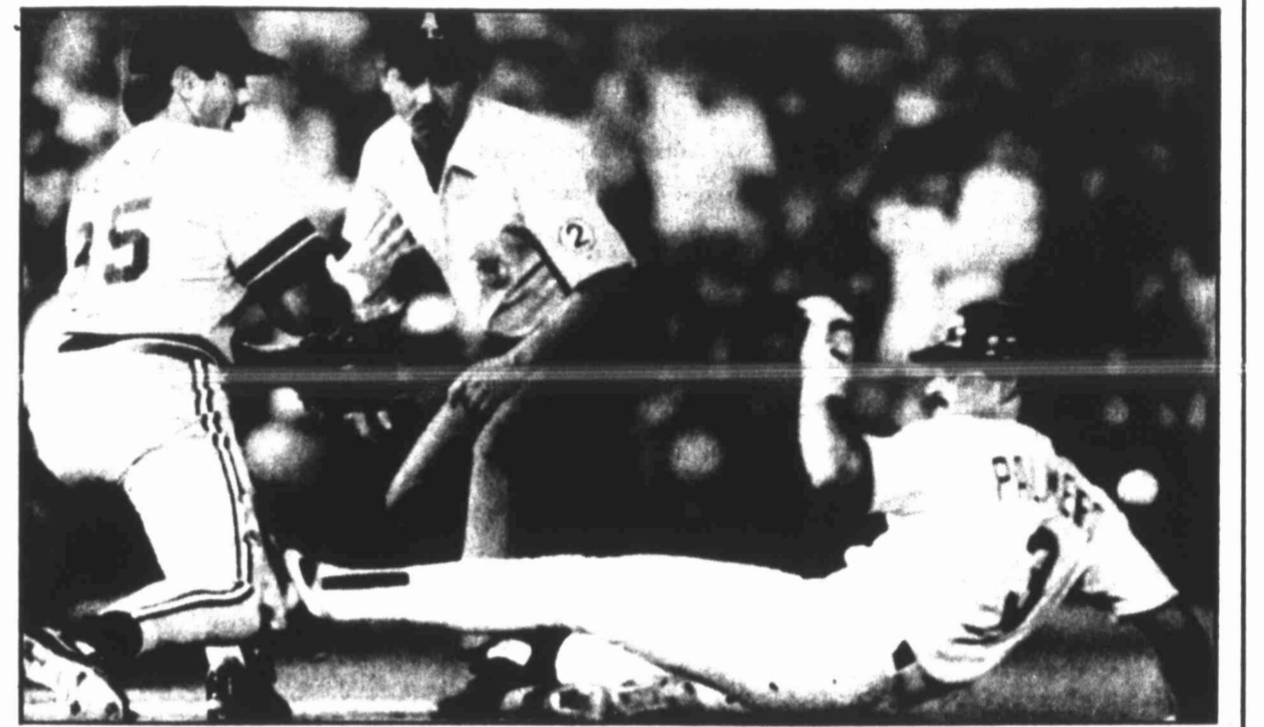

Anderson, filling in for injured shortstop Dick Schofield, tripled down the right-field line to give the Angels a 3-1 lead against Dave Stewart, 16-7. Chili Davis singled to open the inning and Jack Howell drew a two-out walk.

Bert Blyleven, 12-2, allowed seven hits in seven innings for the victory and Bryan Harvey finished for his 17th save.

Dave Parker hit his 16th homer for the A's.

Brewers 5, Indians 4
Robin Yount's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning spoiled a Cleveland comeback and lifted visiting Milwaukee over the Indians.

Dan Plesac, 3-3, got the victory despite blowing a save for the first time since June 13.

ARLINGTON — Texas Rangers Rafael Palmeiro slides into third base safely as Detroit Tigers third baseman Rick Schu tries to make a play. Palmeiro made the triple in the second inning of Saturday night's game.

the Sept. 22-24 matches against a European team.

Floyd will announce those choices on Tuesday in Castle Rock, Colo.

Tom Watson, Jack Nicklaus, and Lee Trevino, three veterans of Ryder Cup play, are expected to be at the top of Floyd's list.

Mark Calcavecchia, the winner of the British Open who did not play here because of the birth of his daughter, leads the team with 867,500 points.

Stewart

He won earlier this year at the Heritage.

For Reid, it was another bitter defeat.

"I led at the Masters through 14 and this time I made it through 15 or 16," he said as he started to choke with emotion.

"I'm getting there, I'll get it right," he said and then could not go on as tears welled in his eyes.

"I cry at supermarket grand openings," he said, trying to break the tension.

"This is only a game, right?" It is a game Stewart is familiar with.

"I know how Mike Reid feels," he said. "I've messed up a few tournaments in my time. But I sure am glad I won."

For Reid, the 35-year-old who has won just twice in 12 years on the Tour, it is the second bitter defeat the second half, Johnson said.

Cowboys

Aikman, formerly of UCLA and the first player taken in the draft, directed two second-quarter scoring drives.

The first ended in a 28-yard Roger Ruzek field goal and the second in the TD pass to Martin. Ruzek added a 41-yard field goal in the third period.

The scoring pass was lofted just beyond the reach of two defenders in the left corner of the end zone.

"We called two plays in the huddle," Aikman said. "I saw the double coverage, so I checked to the fade at the line. Kelvin Martin got a great release off the ball and he deserves the credit."

Johnson said it's too early to make any definitive conclusions about the Cowboys' quarterback situation.

"It's difficult to evaluate Walsh's performance because of the situation we put him in and the personnel surrounding him at the time," said Johnson.

"We made a better evaluation of Troy Aikman because he started the game. I felt Aikman threw well and he was able to do what we wanted him to do."

Walsh, the first player taken in the supplemental draft, was 23-1 as a starter under Johnson at Miami.

But he doesn't think his earlier play under Johnson gives him an advantage now.

"The only thing that's going to matter is what happens on the field," Walsh said.

He added he doesn't mind the competition for the No. 1 job.

"Troy and I are not worried about it," Walsh said. "I don't think we're going to be on the same team for the rest of our careers."

For now, though, the situation is "great for two young quarterbacks," Walsh said.

What You Don't Know Can Hurt You.

But not if you take a few minutes to learn about electrical safety around your home or business.

Here are a few safety tips worth remembering.

Overhead.

Never fly a kite, or raise an antenna or place a ladder where it can come in contact with a power line. Touching power lines with any object can result in serious injury or even death. Stay clear of all overhead power lines.

Underground.

Know before you dig. Some neighborhoods have underground power lines. If you don't know whether you have underground power lines, or if you need to know their location, call TU Electric.

Out and around.

Pad mounted transformers, large metal boxes that are usually green or cream colored, are safe when they are closed and locked. However, if one is opened or damaged, it can be deadly. Call TU Electric immediately to report the situation and warn others to stay away until the repairman arrives.

Be safe around electricity.

Being aware of the location of power lines can save your life or the life of a loved one. So take time now, before you start your next fix-up project, to learn the location of power lines near your home or business. Because what you know about power lines can make the difference between being safe or being sorry.

DON'T LET A POWER LINE BE THE END OF THE LINE.

NEW YORK (AP) — Time hasn't healed the scars for actress Goldie Hawn and singer-actor Bill Hudson, who has described his ex-wife as a "cold-eyed shark."

In the September issue of Vanity Fair, Hawn said Hudson had "devastated" the couple's two children with his recent remarks to People magazine. The couple were divorced nine years ago.

Hudson, recently married to actress Cindy Williams, told People that Hawn, who has been living with actor Kurt Russell for six years, was not honoring his visiting rights to their two children, Oliver, 13, and Kate, 10.

"If Goldie's in control, she's happy," Hudson told Vanity Fair. "As soon as that bubble is burst," he added, she turns into "a cold-eyed shark."

Hawn said Hudson was getting revenge for her refusal to sign a document that would allow him to BOSTON (AP) — Michael Kennedy, eldest son of the late Robert F. Kennedy, has rounded up tons of medical supplies, thousands of sneakers and two U.S. congressmen for a junket to southern and central Africa.

Kennedy said the trip leaving Tuesday for Angola, Namibia and the Congo had political as well as humanitarian aims.

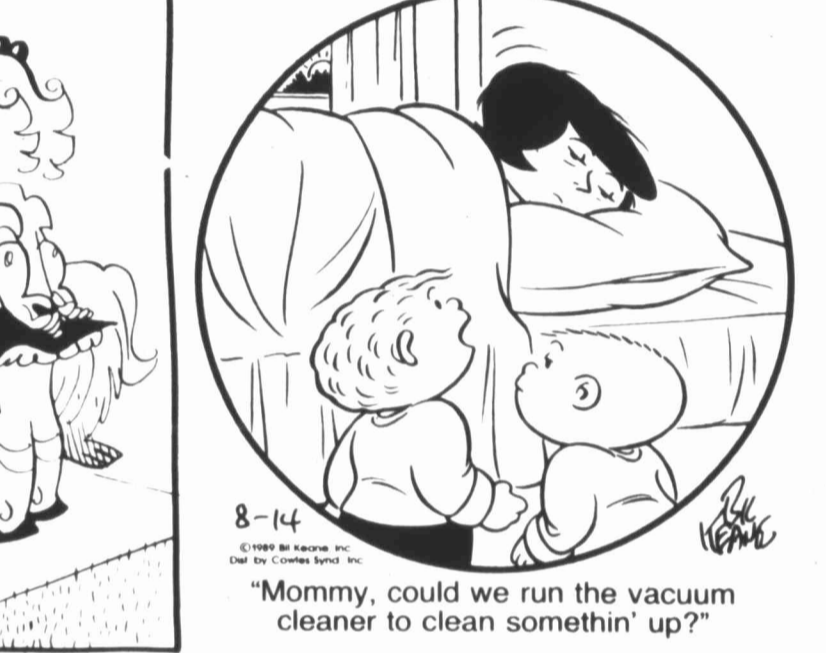

"We are showing a gesture from America that we are truly interested in that part of the world," said Kennedy, 31.

The next generation

Teen tutors teach others

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Maria Ybarra, 57, wants to become a United States citizen, but she can't because she doesn't know how to speak, read or write English.

She is being tutored in reading and writing by 14-year-old AnnaLiza Villarreal.

Mrs. Ybarra and Miss Villarreal are part of a new program designed to combat illiteracy in Nueces County and provide summer work for disadvantaged youth.

"Our goal with this program is to increase the reading level of the teen and the illiterate person," said Linda Lopez-George, executive director of the Corpus Christi Literacy Council.

Miss Villarreal is one teen-age tutor out of seven who were referred to the Corpus Christi Literacy Council by the Private Industry Council, a jobs training group, as possible candidates to teach others to read and write, said Ms. Lopez-George.

The PIC sponsors the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program, which offers summer employment for economically disadvantaged youths as an encouragement for them to remain in school, continue their education or otherwise find employment.

The program is for people between the ages of 14 and 21, said Billie O'Dowdy, special projects manager for the jobs training program.

She said this is the first time the Literacy Council has asked for workers in the summer youth program, which this summer has found employment for 1,063 people.

Five teen-age tutors are from the summer program, said Ms. Lopez-George. These teen-agers are paid to tutor either an adult or someone their own age in reading and writing English.

The citizenship test involves several questions given orally in English, said Pam Hinojosa, an instructor at the Jobs for Progress, a job training agency that prepares people applying for citizenship.

"The questions can be anything from 'How many stripes are on the flag?' to 'What do the stars represent?'" Ms. Hinojosa said.

There are about 47,000 people in Corpus Christi who cannot read or write, said Ms. Lopez-George. Most people who decide to learn to read and write later in life do so to advance at their present job or because they are tired of saying 'I can't read' to their families, she said.

Chris Clay, 15, a Miller High School sophomore, became a tutor because he wanted a summer job and thought the experience would be fun.

"It's been easy," he said. "Some of them (adult students) know how to spell and read a little."

Ms. Lopez-George said the teen-age tutors must be between the ages of 13 and 19. They go through the same 10-hour training program as the adult tutors, she said.

The training consists of lectures and tapes describing the adult learner and the teaching methods. The Laubach method, which uses pictures to represent each letter, allows tutoring for reading to begin at 0 level.

Nine Coahoma kids work to help homeless

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

COAHOMA — A group of nine teenagers from the First Presbyterian Church in Coahoma worked in a home for the homeless this summer.

The youngsters experienced a "life-changing" trip to the Fort Worth Night Shelter for the homeless.

The shelter feeds and provides beds for about 300 people per night, according to the Rev. Ray Bell, pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Coahoma, and one of the adult sponsors. They serve close to 200,000 meals per year. Bell said that although there are other shelters in the area and close-by towns, the Fort Worth shelter is the predominant one. They do not turn anyone away.

The Rev. Andrew Short serves as director of the nonprofit shelter, and Chuck Massey, assistant. The facility gives home to an office for the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Center, a drunk tank, a detoxification center, a dispensary, a kitchen, and sleeping areas. It is open seven days a week, 365 days a year.

"The staff provided a super orientation and tour before we started," Bell said. "They didn't pamper the kids, and by the second day we felt like we were part of the staff."

Bell said the group did everything from a major clean-up of the back lot area, getting rid of

lots of rocks, to cleaning the warehouse, food preparation, working in the dispensary, frisking the people as they came into the shelter, cataloging their possessions — whatever needed to be done.

Stacy Rash, 17, said she and her sister, Sharla, did whatever was needed, but mostly worked in the kitchen helping to serve the food. Although she would go back any time given the opportunity, Stacy said the experience was "completely different from what I expected."

"Everyone was real friendly, (they) came up and talked to you," Stacy said as she described the homeless people and shelter staff she worked with. Expecting the "scraggly" stereotyped homeless person she's seen on TV, she expressed surprise at how "normal" the people were.

Stacy said one of her biggest problems the first night was getting used to people being all around when she was trying to sleep. She estimated the work group got about five hours of sleep per night.

Rash said there are doctors and nurses who come in four days a week to see those who need medical services. Aspirin and other nonprescription drugs are dispensed as needed by the shelter staff.

The shelter, located at 2400 Cyprus Street, Fort Worth 76102, is always in need of dispensary items such as aspirin, antacids, disposable razors, tooth brushes, detergents, shampoo, shaving cream and soap, according to Bell. He said at the time the Coahoma group was working, the staff had shaving cream to dispense and was pleased to have that particular rare luxury to give away.

"I believe it changed everyone's life," Rash said. Bell declared the work trip a "super experience."

Ear piercing can be dangerous fad

TEMPLE — "If she had not come to us as soon as she did, there is a good chance she could have lost her ear," explains Dr. Armando Lenis, otolaryngologist (ear-nose-throat physician) at Scott and White Memorial Hospital and Clinic in Temple.

Lenis was discussing the case of a 13-year-old girl from Salado, whose father gave permission to a reputable earring and ear-piercing boutique to allow the piercing of his daughter's ear in the upper cartilage area just under the outside rim at the top of the ear.

"Ear-piercing in the lower soft lobe of the ear is fine," says Dr. Lenis, "but never in the cartilage area. Any cartilage area, whether in the ear or nose, is highly susceptible to infection from bacteria because there is no blood circulation in the cartilage area.

Dr. Lenis notes that "a certain amount of bacteria (called 'pseudomonas ae.') is normally found in the ear, however, when cartilage is perforated or punctured, a severe infection (called 'perichondritis') can result from this bacteria."

The pierced cartilage area will become painful, red and swollen, according to Dr. Lenis, and, if a physician is not seen immediately and antibiotic therapy started, the ear may become grossly deformed and surgery may be required to save the ear.

"Time is of the essence," emphasizes Dr. Lenis. "If the slightest pain or inflammation is noticed in the pierced area of cartilage, the person should be seen by a physician immediately in order that treatment with intravenous antibiotics can begin."

"Fortunately this girl's family brought her to the doctor in time," notes Dr. Lenis. She was admitted to the hospital to begin the intravenous antibiotic therapy.

"Normally the patient is hospitalized for at least ten days," explains Dr. Lenis, "however, since her father is a paramedic and could administer the antibiotics therapy."

"Normally the patient is hospitalized for at least ten days," explains Dr. Lenis, "however, since her father is a paramedic and could administer the antibiotics intravenously at home, we were able to dismiss her after only six days in the hospital."

"It is difficult to believe that a tiny hole in the ear's cartilage can result in such a serious infection, costly medical treatment, hospitalization, and possible deformity or loss of the ear," remarks Dr. Lenis. "I cannot emphasize strongly enough the importance of not piercing or puncturing any cartilage area in the ear or nose. The result could be a real tragedy which could easily have been avoided."

Dangerous infection caused a painful blister, redness and swelling of her ear after Amy Hrometz, 13, had her ear pierced in the cartilage area. Without proper treatment, she could have lost her ear.

Why everyone loves mystery

NEW YORK (AP) — Back in radio's glory days, a popular program was "I Love a Mystery."

The program is long gone now, but people still love mysteries. Why?

Ruth Cavin, a book editor at St. Martin's Press, takes a stab at answering the question in a monthly circular she writes about mysteries in addition to her editing duties. The little paper is called "Murder at the Flatiron Building." (St. Martin's, which publishes about 150 mystery novels a year, is headquartered in New York City's historic, triangular Flatiron Building.)

People read mysteries, Cavin thinks:

"Because they (almost always) give the bad guys their comeuppance at the end. Because they tie up everything neatly and logically (or, at least, they're supposed to, even if they don't always succeed)."

"Because they provide thrills and drama without risk. Because they tease the brain."
