Junior Show Winners Told

The Gray County Junior Livestock Show, sponsored by the Noon Lions Club of Pampa, ran throughout the afternoon Saturday. Joe Wheeley acted as superintendent.

Two young Pampa exhibitors were awarded special awards for showmanship.

The tophies, provided by Canadian Production Credit Association and Kennedy Jewelry, were presented to Joe Couts, Pampa Future Farmers of America, exhibiting a steer; and Greg Gable, Gray County 4-H in the swine division.

Crossbreeds took the honors of the day when both grand and reserve champs were chosen by the judge, Kenneth Holloway, Moore County Extension Agent. Grand Champion in the competition was a crossbreed exhibited by Hank Jordan, Pampa FFA. The winner weighed in at 1186 to catch the judge's eye.

Reserve Champion banner went to Joe Couts, Pampa FFA. Couts' animal, again a crossbreed, weighed 924 pounds, and was marked as number one in the light weight class.

Grand Champion Barrow, a York breed, was shown by Russell Thornburg. The winner, picked by swine judge, Larry D. Schickendanz, head of the Agriculture Department at Frank Phillips, weighed 201 pounds. The white champion was shown to top of class in breed section before obtaining top f the show honors.

Reserve champion honors were copped by Randy Skaggs, Pampa FFA, who showed a Duroc to first in breed class by weight, then to the Reserve honor. His barrow weighed 226, making him medium weight in breed class.

MOVING DAY — The Drivers Licensing and Testing Station was closed Friday in Pampa to mark moving day. The bureau was moved to 1313 N. Hobart after many years in Gray County Courthouse. The North Hobart facility will open at 8:30 a.m. Monday on the regular schedule. The office conducts testing Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. with a one-hour break at noon. In the photo, James Dunlap, DPS trooper, and Betty Mackie, clerk, contemplate the moving chore.

Unemployment Causing Rise In Crime Rate

United Press International

The recession's spreading joblessness is spawning a crop of thieves and robbers, from big time crooks to petty ripoff artists.

A UPI survey around the country has turned up statistics that show crimes against property, from bank robbing to shoplifting, are on the increase.

While many authorities are cautious in blaming the increase in crime on the recession, others, such as New Jersey Public Advocate Stanley Van Ness, point out the obvious:

"There are some guys who just aren't going to sit back quietly and starve to death."

In Detroit, overall crime in January rose 27.3 per cent higher than last year, with auto thefts, larceny, robbery and burglary accounting for the rise.

In other major cities such as Miami, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Dallas and New York, crimes involving financial gain are up.

Said a New York City police official: "The conclusion is simple. You got more guys out of work, more guys with mouths to feed and nothing to feed them with.

GAO Studies Food Stamps

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., Saturday released contents of a General Accounting Office study of the food stamp program showing widespread discrepancies in the program.

Dole said the study made at his request indicated one in five food stamp recipients does not meet eligibility standards. The GAO said the government was spending $23 million each month for ineligible recipients.

"The study shows, too, that a significant number —seven per cent of the cases reviewed —of applicants for food stamps were turned down improperly," Dole said in a prepared statement.

"Almost two out of every five recipients were found to be required to pay the incorrect amount for the stamps they did receive."

Dole said the GAO reviewed only cases involving recipients receiving no other form of welfare payments or public assistance.

The senator has asked the Senate Agriculture Committee to hold oversight hearings on GAO recommendations for regulatory changes in the food stamp program. Dole is the ranking Republican on the committee.

DESPITE PLEA FOR LIFE

Leftist Guerrillas Kill US Consul John Egan

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) — Honorary U.S. Consul John P. Egan was shot to death by leftist guerrillas late Friday night despite his handwritten plea to the American ambassador to save his life.

In a letter appearing in Los Principios newspaper of Cordoba today, Egan urged American Ambassador Robert C. Hill to use his influence to comply with guerrilla demands and prevent him from suffering.

"If the request of the Montoneros is not completed in time, I will suffer," the letter from Egan said.

The Montoneros demanded proof from the Argentine government that four of their missing comrades were alive and well. Egan wrote. "If these people are not dead, please use your influece to have them released.

A spokesman at Los Principios said that before Egan's killing, a woman telephoned the newspaper and indicated where a communique from the Montoneros would be found. Egan's handwritten letter to Hill was the document found, the spokesman said.

The leftists killed Egan with a single bullet between the eyes and dumped his body along a lonely dirt road.

His hands were tied behind his back and he still wore his bedroom slippers and the clothes he had on when four heavily armed men dragged him from his home Wednesday.

His body was draped in the blue and white flag of the leftist Montoneros guerrillas.

A newspaper clipping describing the death of two Montoneros in a gunfight with police Monday was wired to his body. The Montoneros said earlier they kidnaped Egan in the name of their slain comrades.

A scrawled message on a piece of cardboard leaning against the body read: "Peron or Death. Long Live the Fatherland. Until victory, my general."

The Montoneros, who claim allegiance to the memory of Juan Peron, the late Argentine president, had vowed to execute Egan unless the government bowed to their demands for proof that four missing comrades were still alive.

They set a deadline of 7 p.m. Friday, but Foreign Minister Alberto Vignes said the government would never negotiate with terrorists.

Egan, 62, was a Perma, Mont., native who worked for the Kaiser Corp. for 30 years before he retired to this city 430 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

He had been serving as honorary consul since the previous American consul was kidnaped last year.

In Washington, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger called the slaying "a senseless and despicable crime which shocks the sensibility of all civilized men."

"Mr. Egan was a loyal, dedicated citizen who served his country quietly and effectively," Kissinger said. "He joins the ranks of loyal Americans who have laid down their lives in the line of duty."

Egan's death raised new fears for the safety of the president of the supreme court of Buenos Aires, Alfredo Benedicto Anzoarregui, who was dragged from his chauffered car Friday in Monte Grande, about 17 miles south of Buenos Aires.

Sources close to the American Embassy said Egan's funeral has been set for Sunday morning in Cordoba despite his widow's wish to postpone it so his relatives could come from Montana. They said authorities put pressure on Mrs. Egan to have him buried as soon as possible and his three brothers and only daughter will not attend the funeral.

City Fathers Still Studying Chief Situation

By TEX DeWEESE

The LIKELIHOOD arose after Friday's closed door meeting of the City Commission on the Pampa police chief situation that an appointment may not come this week as previously indicated.

From all that could be learned city commissioners and the city manager are still involved in interviewing applicants for the job.

They met for two hours Friday in executive session and it is understood at least one or two applicants were scheduled to be interviewed.

Before the Friday meeting City Manager Mack Wofford had stated that "hopefully" the matter could be resolved and an appointment of police chief could be announced this week.

However, it was learned Saturday the announcement probably will not be made until further interviews with some of the 22 applicants for the post are concluded.

One of the city officials who attended Friday's meeting said he thought there "is no hurry about making the appointment."

He added that "the police department seems to be operating smoothly under the current acting police chief."

The acting chief is George Wallace, who was the first applicant to file for the job.

Wallace has been assistant chief of police for the past six years and was moved up to the acting chief's post following the Jan. 1 death of Police Chief James B. Conner who had held the post for 23 years.

City Manager Wofford was out of the city over the weekend and was not expected to return to his office until Tuesday.

Henry Hints Lifting Of Cuban Sanctions

HOUSTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said Saturday the Administration was prepared to develop "new principles and practices," toward Cuba once the Organization of American States lifts its 11-year embargo against the regime of Fidel Castro.

In a major policy statement on Latin American, Kissinger hinted that Cuban sanctions could be lifted as early as this spring and also said Washington was prepared to recognize Panama's full sovereignty over the Canal Zone, an area now administered by the United States.

"We see no vitue in perpetual antagonism between the United States and Cuba," Kissinger said in a speech to a combined service club. "Experience has demonstrated that automatic sanctions are almost always counterproductive.

"Automatic sanctions allow no tactical flexibility. The Administration is prepared to develop new principles and practices which may commend themselves to Congress as a better remedy than automatic sanctions."

Kissinger said nations in the early 1960s which felt most threatened by Cuban revolutionary violence no longer felt that meance so acutely.

"Our guiding principle then as now is to prevent the Cuban issue from dividing us from our hemispheric neighbors," Kissinger sad.

The secretary said that in return for granting Panama sovereignty over the Canal Zone, a treaty now being negotiated would guarantee U.S. defense and operation of the canal "for an extended period of time," and the protection "of legitimate interests of our citizens and property in Panama."

Kissinger also promised to seek reform of the new U.S. Foreign Trade Act, which has been strongly criticized in Latin America.

Kissinger addressed a Combined Service Club in Houston, Texas. The text of his 13-page speech was released by the State Department in Washington.

Kissinger announced he will visit South America in April and said he would consult Latin American leaders during the trip "with the attitude of finding a generally accepted solution" to the Cuban issue.

"If the OAS sanctions are eventually repealed, the United States will consider changes in its bilateral relations with Cuba and in its regulations," Kissinger said.

He told the Houston audience the U.S. decision on Cuba "will be based on what we consider to be in our own best interests and will be heavily influenced by the external policies of the Cuban government."

In that connection he mentioned Cuba's military relationship with countries outside the (western) hemisphere," meaning the Soviet Union.

The United States and Cuba broke relations more than 14 years ago. But now, Kissinger said, "we have taken some symbolic steps to indicate that we are prepared to move in a new direction if Cuba will.

"Fundamental change cannot come, however, unless Cuba demonstrates a readiness to assume the mutuality of obligation and regard upon which a new relationship must be founded."

Kissinger said the United States had maintained a position of "complete neutrality" during the recent Quito, Ecuador, conference of OAS foreign ministers which failed, against expectations, to lift the Cuban embargo imposed by the OAS in 1964.

A change in voting procedure, supported by the United States, will make it easier to achieve the necessary votes to end the 11-year ban. Two thirds (14 votes) were needed in Quito, but a decision to vote in the sanctions by simple majority (12 votes) will be considered and probably approved by the upcoming OAS general assembly. It meets in Washington in early May.

From that point to taking a vote on the sanctions is just a small procedural step, which could be taken at the same general assembly.

U.S. officials said it was possible the crucial vote would occur then, and said the United States might go along with a consensus on the matter.

Clovis Shipp Seeking Post Of City Mayor

H. Clovis Shipp, 1057 Prairie Dr., filed his candidacy for mayor Friday afternoon subject to Pampa's April 1 municipal election.

Shipp, an employe of the Cabot Corp. Ordnance Department at the Machinery Division, is 33 years old. He will oppose incumbent Mayor R.D. Wilkerson in the only contested race at the upcoming election.

When the deadline fell at 5 p.m. Friday, no candidates had filed to oppose Ward 1 City Commissioner Ray Thompson and Ward 3 City Commissioner Leo Braswell, who are seeking re - election.

Mayor Wilkerson and Commissioner Thompson are running for second two - year terms and Commissioner Braswell, the city council veteran, is seeking a fourth term.

Shipp is a graduate of Lubbock Christian and Abilene Christian

Colleges and has studied at Harding College in Searcy, Ark., and Pepperdine University.

For the past 15 years he has preached for Chruches of Christ in 17 states and three foreign countries. He has been the prime mover in an attempt to establish a Junior Christian College in Pampa.

Shipp, in a statement issued Saturday, said if he is elected he would work to see that a middle to upper middle class housing addition is started, seek financial aid for the Pampa Industrial Foundation to secure new industry, help the poor aged, find employment for all able - bodied men, upgrade law enforcement bodies, and provide jobs for young people in summer, among other things.

Shipp said anyone interested in what he would stand for as mayor of Pampa is invited to call him at 669 - 7762 or drop him a card at 1057 Prairie Dr.

Shipp added in his statement that one of his goals is to be vice president of the United States by 1996 with Dr. Bill Banowsky, president of Pepperdine College, Los Angeles, Calif., "to be the President of the United States."

Armed Indians Plan To Keep Plant Occupied

SHIPROCK, N.M. (UPI) — Armed Indians holding an electronics plant on the Navajo Reservation said Saturday they will not leave the facility, even if company officials carry out a threat to close the plant permanently.

"We will continue to sit here," said Lorenzo Lovaldo, one of the Indians inside the plant and a member of the Shiprock chapter of the American Indian Movement.

The electronics plant, operated by the Fairchild Corp., under a lease agreement with the Navajo Tribe, was beseiged by a group of 20 armed Indians last Monday. The Indians said they took the plant to force the company to rehire 140 Navajo employes layed off last week.

Fairchild, which said the layoffs were made necessary by economic setbacks the firm has suffered, has said it will close the plant permanently if the "intruders," do not leave by 6 P.M. EDT Sunday.

MacDonald and the advisory council met most of the day Friday with council member Fred Johnson representing the Indians inside the plant.

Concert Assn. To Open New Memberships

Memberships for the 1975-76 concert season will be opened to the public tomorrow by the Pampa Community Concert Association.

New members will be admitted on a first - come basis when the association opens headquarters at 10 a.m. in the lobby of Coronado Inn.

Association officials said Saturday approximately 100 memberships will be available at the opening hour.

They will consist of memberships not renewed because of transferrals, illness and other varied reasons.

Drive chairmen also announced there will be no personal solicitation made to obtain new members as in previous years.

New memberships may be obtained by applying at the headquarters office or calling there at 669-3511 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Reservations may be made during evening hours by calling Mrs. Josephine Lawson, membership chairman at 665-2004 or Mrs. Ruth Riehart at 665-3362.

The 1975-76 concert season will bring four stellar attractions to Pampa. They are:

"The New Christy Minstrels."

"1776," a musical extravaganza with the bicentennial theme;

"The Little Angels of Korea," and "Longstreet and Escosa," internationally famous harpist duo.

Because of heavy membership renewals, Mrs. Lawson said requests for new memberships should be made early. They will be cut off as soon as the 1,600 seat capacity of the M.K. Brown Auditorium is sold out.

Memberships are $12 for adults and $6 for students and include admission to all four concerts.

Officials To Observe Public Schools Week

Pampa school officials encourage all parents and concerned citizens to observe Texas Public Schools Week from March 3 - 7 by visiting neighborhood schools and becoming acquainted with the local educational system and its needs and problems.

School officials and teachers feel that a public awareness of the workings of the local school system and an understanding of the problems posed by inflation, and new school legislation is vital to the maintenance and improvement of educational quality.

Public schools at all levels — elementary through high school will be open for visitation during the week. Special student presentations, displays of art and other projects are planned. Some schools will send special invitations home with students as personal reminders to parents.

School officials extend an open invitation to the public to visit schools at any time during the year, but urge everyone to observe Texas Public Schools Week, March 3-7.

Cambodian President Offers To Step Down To Gain Aid

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian President Lon Nol told six visiting U.S. Congressional fact-finders Saturday he is willing to step down in order to help bring peace to his nation. He pleaded for more U.S. aid and asked the Americans "not to abandon us."

The six members of Congress flew to Phnom Penh from Saigon Saturday, braving rebel rockets that have been hitting the capital's airport and the city itself daily.

Rebel forces slammed 20 rockets into Pochentong airport and a nearby village before and after the Congressional group's arrival, and another pair of rockets hit Phnom Penh itself, about half a mile from where the lawmakers were having lunch with senior government officials.

"I would do whatever is possible and necessary so that peace and the welfare of my people can be achieved," Lon Nol told the six legislators.

Lon Nol appealed for another $222 million in military aid for Cambodia. "I would like to urge you not to abandon us," he said.

During their flying eight-hour visit to Phnom Penh, the Congress members were told by U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean they must vote on the aid bill within two weeks or Cambodia will run out of ammunition.

It marked the first time any senior U.S. official had put a time limit on Congressional action.

"We were told by the ambassador that if we do not vote more aid within two weeks, Phnom Penh will run out of ammunition and fall," said Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., after a private meeting with Dean.

Lon Nol's offer to step down in the interests of bringing peace came as a surprise to most of the six legislators, all of whom said they were impressed by the passionate appeal for more aid by the Cambodian president.

The six-star general, however, did not outline the circumstances under which he would quit his position as the head of the Cambodian government, which he has held for nearly five years.

One member of the Congressional group, Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., told newsmen she might change her mind and vote for continuing military aid to Cambodia.

But Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., although moved by the "depth of the misery" of the refugees and soldiers she visited, said she intended to vote against more aid to Phnom Penh.

The six congressmen and women attended a dinner reception at the Saigon palace of President Nguyen Van Thieu Saturday evening.

Mrs. Abzug refused to speak to Thieu or his aides, and turned away when the president offered her a drink.

False Political 'Solutions'

The current Potomac debate on whether to introduce higher gasoline taxes or impose mandatory rationing shapes up superficially along partisan lines. President Ford wants to conserve gas by making it more costly, thereby contributing to inflation which only months ago was his "Public Enemy Number One." Democrats want rationing, which could easily brake the economy to a near halt.

Tactically, we suspect partisanship matters very little. Strategically, the issue is whether Americans are going to allow politicians to prescribe economic remedies when such political contriviances have failed to make things better, and in fact have exacerbated problems.

The pro-rationing gaggle cites polls suggesting majority support. For some unexplained reason the public seems to prefer the economically disruptive rationing system — over the tax. Perhaps because people are more familiary with taxes?

Already people have minimized their purchases of gasoline to an extraordinary degree; there are few joy riders on the road. If the mandatory gas allotment were to reach, say, nine gallon a week per customer, the effect on economy would be severe. In turn the automotive industry could be sent into a tailspin.

Any allotment plan would have negative effects. And we have not even mentioned the likelihood of corruption among the rationers, nor the inevitable black market. On the other hand the White House tax proposal would have dissimilar but equally pernicious effects on the economy, for government to reduce demand by holding up cost has always been an extremely risky venture. In this case it is a huge gamble, certain to fuel the inflationary spiral.

Washington has presented the public with two false and dangerous alternatives. America simply should not have to live resignedly with either scheme, both of which despair of any idea other than government control. And let us be clear: government control of the economy means, perforce, government control of personal lifestyles.

The unfortunate irony is that none of the oncoming travail has to be experienced. Sufficient energy could be developed if government got out of the way. There is a great deal of obvious deregulation to be done, which as it happens, Congress does not want to do.

So the question really is a strategic one, frankly pitting freeborn Americans aginst the political establishment — just in time for the Bicentennial.

Breathe this exhaust and live

TUCSON, Ariz. — The day may not be too far away when you can have both better mileage and less pollution thanks to a couple of University of Arizona engineers who are developing a catalytic reactor that converts gasoline and water into hydrogen by using waste energy.

The hydrogen and water go into the engine, the water is recycled and the engine heat keeps the whole thing going. And the exhaust is so clean you can stick you head into it and come out feeling fine.

It's always later than you think

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister passed away last month and I found a yellowed clipping of your column in her Bible. Here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: Will you please remind your readers to look after their parents who are too old to look after themselves? Old parents need all their children. It's not always easy to cope with aging parents, but we weren't easy to cope with when they were raising US either. We OWE it to them. I just wish someone had reminded ME of these things when Mama was still alive. It's too late now, and I haven't had a decent night's sleep since she died three months ago.

I knew she had a good home with my sister, so that was that. Why didn't I take her for a few weeks, or even for Sunday dinner, or for a little drive? I never had time for her yet I had time for others, and anything else I wanted to do. A change of scenery or even a meal at my home would have meant so much to her, but I was too busy. Oh, I had plenty of excuses.

I suppose the only one in our large family who is sleeping is my sister who took Mama to live with her. I've tried to ease my conscience by telling myself that I wasn't really ashamed of Mama like my brothers were. Or that I wasn't cheap, like another sister. I DID buy her things (which she never really needed or enjoyed much.) But it's too late now. I hope Mama forgives me. CAN'T SLEEP

Abby, "Can't Sleep" was my sister. I'm the one Mama went to live with.

It's too late for me to tell my sister that Mama did forgive her. Mothers always do. But I hope you will print this again for those for whom it's not yet too late. THE OLDEST

DEAR OLDEST: Consider it done. It's always later than we think.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm some kind of nut, but I can't find the answer in any book and don't want to show my ignorance by asking someone I know. I'm a grown woman and probably should know the answer, but here goes:

Is it true that horses sleep standing up? Someone said they did, but I didn't know whether he was serious or not. STUPID QUESTION

DEAR QUESTION: First, no question is stupid if it's sincere. Second, all horses are able to "lock" their legs with very little muscle strain, which enables them to sleep standing up if they so desire. However not all horses sleep this way. Some prefer to lie down. (It's about fifty-fifty.) At least my animal expert has so informed me, and he got it straight from the horse's mouth.

Kissinger Accused Of 'Deception'

By C. MOLLENHOFF

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has virtually destroyed his credibility with Congress by "forgetting" to disclose the contents of letter when he was testifying about a Soviet - American trade agreement.

Following flat charges by Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.) and Sen. Adlai Steveson (D-Ill.) that Kissinger "deceived" and "misled" Congress, the State Department has admitted that the letter from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to Kissinger was relevant to his testimony and "probably should have been produced at that time."

Robert McCloskey of the State Department, however, insists that "it was not a deception or an active misrepresentation."

Seeking to put Kissinger's withholding of the letter in the best possible light, McCloskey declared that "it was simply a sin of omission.

"Secretary Kissinger has said he simply forgot to mention the letter, and we admit now that it should have been mentioned," McCloskey said.

McCloskey said that it had been Kissinger's intention to call the letter to the attention of Jackson and others.

"Although Henry said he was going to show it to Senator Jackson, and that there should be a complete disclosure to Congress, some of his associates said it should not be disclosed," McCloskey said.

McCloskey said Kissinger had never had any intention other than to isclose the Gromyko letter.

"He put it aside and simply forgot to mention it when he was before the Senate Finance Committee," McCloskey said. "There was no intent to deceive the committee."

Jackson's staff points out that the Gromyko letter directly contradicted assurances that Kissinger had given Jackson on a compromise on the 1972 Soviet - American trade agreements.

In October, 1972, more than 70 senators introduced legislation limiting most - favored - nations status to those that permitted their citizens the right and opportunity to emigrate. The legislation was aimed at persuading the Soviet Union to change its policies requiring Soviet Jews to pay up to $30,000 as an education tax to obtain an emigration visa. It was pointed out that with Russian salaries averaging $150 a month, emigration of anyone with substantial education was virtually immpossible.

The importance of Kissinger's deceptions is pointed out by Jackson's staff in this chronology of events:

October 26, 1974: Gromyko handed Kissinger a letter which denied there was any agreement with the Soviet Union. This letter contradicted the assurances that Kissinger had given Jackson and others in his October 18 letter. Kissinger recognized it as altering the situation and had conversations with his aides on the importance of notifying Jackson and others.

December 3, 1974: Kissinger testified before the Senate Finance Committee, urged passage of the trade bill with the waiver authority included, and did not produce the October 26 letter from Gromyko.

Stevenson charged that Kissinger "mislead the Congress" into believing there were assurances from top Soviet leaders when he knew there were none.

The State Department explanations that Kissinger simply "forgot" to tell Congress was incredible to both conservatives and liberals in the Senate and House.

If Gas Cost Rises...?

By BERNARD SIEGAN
Professor of Law,
University of San Diego
Law School

(Copyright 1974 Bernard H. Siegan)

Not long ago I discussed prices with a Russian. She said the monthly rent on her apartment in U.S. currency was about $15.00. It sounded like a fantastic buy until she disclosed her income. After learning how much she and her husband together earn, I told her that instead of getting a bargain, they were being exploited. In this country, they would earn more and pay a smaller portion of their spendable income for about the same quality of housing.

Prices are a matter of relativity; by themselves, without reference to incomes, they mean little. Using this kind of comparison, one finds that prices on certain items have not risen as much as appears.

E. Bruce Briggs, in an article in the Public Interest for Fall, 1974, makes this analysis for the cost of gasoline and shows that the complaining is much louder than warranted. He comes to the surprising conclusion that in 1974, "gasoline remains relatively cheaper than it was in the early 1960's."

Poor Job of "Control"

In 1960, the average cost per gallon was 31.13 cents, while in May, 1974, it was 53.71 cents. A different picture is presented, however, by referring these prices to income. Briggs calculates that in 1960, the cost of 1000 gallons of gasoline (roughly, he says, the annual consumption of a motorist) was 5.5 per cent of median family income and 8.5 per cent of annual spendable income. By contrast, he estimates that in May 1974, the corresponding figures were 4.1 per cent and 8.1 per cent. People should have been screaming louder in the '60s than now.

If the oil companies are as capable of controlling prices as we are told they are, Briggs' statistics show they have performed very poorly in this respect. A comparison with the overall price index for the period 1955 to 1973 discloses that gasoline prices lagged considerably behind the average.

During this time, Bureau of Labor Statistics figures cited by Briggs show that the price of all items went from the index number of 80.2 to 129.8 (61.8 per cent increase), whereas for gasoline, it rose from 83.6 to 118.1 (41.2 per cent increase).

For this period therefore, the general price index increased about 20 per cent more than the one for gas. Briggs calculates that in 1973 (prior to the jump) gas cost only half as much of median family income as it had in the mid 1950s and only two - thirds as much of the income of a blue collar family.

If the oil companies actually conspire and control price, they should have been rewarded for service to their country for holding prices down during that period.

Briggs has some interesting speculations in the event gas prices continue to rise as a result of a hike in either federal taxes or charges by foreign producers. Will higher prices discourage driving and make public transit a necessity? Will there be a serious change in the American life style?

Even if the charge per gallon is $1, he believes the use of the auto will continue pretty much as before. A price of 80 cents merely returns gas to its 1955 level relative to median income and 60 cents accomplishes the same compared to spendable income for that year. At that time, the country was experiencing a suburban boom that was dependent on the use and availability of the auto.

There are other factors militating against the increased price. If personal income continues to appreciate as it has in the past (assuming prior patterns return after the recession), the motorist will be able to absorb higher gas costs and still keep pace with the mid 1950s.

Lesson From Europe

A family could more than compensate for increases by purchasing a smaller car. Briggs shows that for 10,000 miles of driving annually, the cost of gas at 80 cents per gallon would be same for a car that gets 25 miles per gallon as it would be at 50 cents for one that runs at 15 miles per gallon. At 60 cents per gallon, "merely switching from a standard to a compact sedan more than makes up for the increased gas price." Moreover, in the past gasoline has constituted only about one fifth of auto operating costs.

The European experience shows that price of gasoline does not readily discourage auto use. Gas prices there have been much higher than in this country and incomes are considerably less. Briggs indicates that despite these factors and strong controls in urban growth, "the increase of auto ownership and the spread of suburbanization in Europe have gone on unchecked."

The foregoing analysis certainly does not remove the need for increasing energy (oil, coal and nuclear) production in this country. Greater production of energy will make more of it available at a lower price. That will provide more persons with an opportunity to use it and derivative products and maintain a higher standard of living.

THERE STILL had been no appointment of a Pampa police chief as the week ended and there was no indication of just when it would come.

Last word, according to the City Hall Cat, came about mid-week when it was stated by the city manager it was his hope the matter could be resolved this week.

Insofar as the Cat could learn, the city manager has been trying his best for weeks to get city commissioners to agree on somebody for the post.

It is known the applicants — there are 22 of them — have been investigated up and down, across and, in fact, from every possible angle.

The C.H. Cat is under the impression none of the investigation has been done with a quorum of the City Commission present. Otherwise there has been a violation of the law that requires a notice must be posted.

Questioned about it, the city manager said that to his knowledge no such meeting had been held until the one duly called on Friday in compliance with the law.

Any investigation so far, it is understood, has been done by not more than two of the city commissioners at a time. If that is the case, all that remained to be done as this was written — was the legal calling of the Friday meeting of the entire City Commission with the city manager to check out what their individual investigations have turned up.

★★★

THE NEXT step, it would appear, would be for the city manager to make his recommendation for an appointment with the "advice and consent" of the commissioners. It would take three of the five commissioners to "consent."

If at least three of them do not okay the city manager's appointment, the matter would then be tossed back into his lap and he would have to start all over hunting for a chief.

There is another possibility.

It just could be that some of the out - of - town applicants may reconsider and drop from the race after learning what happened to the out - of - town applicant picked a week or so ago as Amarillo's police chief.

A burglar broke into the apartment of newly - appointed Police Chief Lee Spradlin early last Tuesday morning and gave the chief a rough time, banged him up a bit and escaped.

They haven't quite figured out yet whether the burglar blundered into the wrong apartment by mistake or was trying to show the new police chief Amarillo's crime wave was for real and there wasn't too much he could do about it.

Spradlin came to the Amarillo job from Dallas. It is understood Pampa also received some applications from down that way.

At any rate, the one bright cloud on the horizon is that it is probable the boys at City Hall may be able to agree on a man for the job within the next few days.

IS THERE such a thing as a "too nice" cop? Could be. But, we don't think so.

Out in Capitola, Calif., a 7,300 population community, Officer Henry Murran was the kind of cop who saw that drunks got home safely, gave cheerful directions to motorists, fixed flats, and rarely saw a reason to pull out his pad and write a ticket.

And that cost him his job. Officer Murran has been fired. The official excuse was that he was too nice.

The irony of the thing is that, in a time when police vocabulary seems to consist mainly of "move on," "step back," and "lemme see your driver's license," Officer Murran was dishing out the kind of public relations police departments need and would have trouble buying.

We know a former Pampa police officer who had much the same philosophy as Officer Murran when it came to dealing with the public. He always believed in warnings, in trying to help and used good judgement before taking action. Incidentally, he is one of the applicants for the Pampa police chief post.

MORE PAMPANS than you would suspect are interested in those "How - To" books currently inundating the publishing market with appeals to consumers who want to save by doing it themselves.

Some of the books telling how to do this and how to do that are not the conventional home handyman's guides.

William Morrow & Co. is coming out with one in April entitled "How to Hide Almost Anything." There's even one "How to Make Money Publishing Books."

Another odd item just on the market for consumers is a $5 block of walnut wood. It's called The Executive Knocking Block, a specialty for businessmen who have offices without any wood to knock on for luck.

It comes with a lifetime guarantee and is "equally effective whether rapped with the right hand or the left," according to the manufacturer.

DETECTIVE CLAIMS

Proper Lighting Prevents Burglaries

"One of the most effective ways to prevent commercial burglaries is proper lighting," commented J.J. Ryzman of the Pampa Police Department crime prevention unit in one of a series of interviews designed to help reduce crimes against businesses.

"The cost of crime itself far outweighs the cost of illuminating all access areas," he explained. "Most burglaries occur under cover of darkness, since the burglar has less chance of being caught. Eliminate the dark and you've discouraged the burglar. This isn't wasting energy; it's using it wisely."

Ryzman went on to say that crime - deterrent commercial lighting is essential for both interior and exterior business premises.

Exterior lighting must eliminate hiding places and illuminate all access areas. Doors, windows, skylights, and all other possible entrances should be clearly lighted to protect people on legitimate business and to make suspicious activity easily observable to passers - by and patrols.

Shrubs should be trimmed and piles of boxes and other debris removed. The sides and rear of the building should be free of dark corners. To be truly effective, all exterior lights should be protected by weather - and vandal - resistant globes.

Inside a place of business, security lighting acts as a crime deterrent. The safe should be lighted and placed where it can be seen from the street to give passers - by and patrols easy visibility of anyone tampering with it. Whenever possible, lights and light switches used for night protection should be out of reach, making them difficult to disconnect or turn off.

A light should be kept burning inside the building at all times. The interior is lighted from the rear so as to silhouette intruders.

"Business people who follow these guidelines greatly reduce their chances of being burglarized," Ryzman commented, "because they increase the risk for the burglar. If all the businesses in a neighborhood are properly illuminated, the entire area will be avoided by criminals."

The commercial crime prevention program conducted by Pampa Police Department is part of the Panhandle Regional Crime Prevention program partially funded by the Criminal Justice Division of the Governor's Office.

Professionally trained crime prevention officers from the police, will inspect any local business free of charge and advise the proprietor or manager of ways to improve lighting and other security measures. Those persons interested should call J.J. Ryzman at 669-2515.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Had your biorhythms checked lately?

If not, that may explain why, while passing the Robot Brass Band at the Mechanical Music Museum, you got your head caught in the tuba and were nearly oompahed to death.

Biorhythms, according to those who believe in such things, are the ebb and flow of your physical, sensitivity and intellectual capacities. Each of which goes its own separate way.

In theory, the waxing and waning of these capacities accounts for the fact that you feel energetic one week and pooped the next; creative on some days, dull-witted on others; etc.

Also in theory, these fluctuations run in cycles that can be charted so you will know ahead of time when you will be most competent or most vulnerable.

Advance information of that sort is said to be especially helpful in preventing accidents. Biorhythmists claim that "awareness of your critical days can decrease chances of accidents by as much as 70 per cent."

Example: Had you consulted a biorhythmic chart you would have known that a week ago last Tuesday was not a good day to visit the Mechanical Music Museum.

There is a company in this area that prepares these charts on a six-month basis for $5.95 per individual. But think twice about ordering one.

Being forewarned of your own peaks and valleys is only half the battle. To take maximum advantage of the system you would need to know the biorhythmic cycles of persons with whom you are traveling down life's highway.

In fact, knowing your own nadirs and zeniths without knowing another person's apogees and perigees could be a distinct disadvantage.

Let's say your local cultural impresario has booked a classical trombone virtuoso for a concert the 17th of next month.

Your biorhythm chart shows your sensitivity curve is on the upswing and is due to top out around that date. Good.

That means your receptors will be fully attuned to derive the utmost enjoyment from the concert. So you rush out and buy a ticket for the best seat in the house. Aha!

Now what if the trombonist's chart shows his physical and intellectual curves bottoming out on the same evening?

That means he is going to have trouble (a) reading the notes on his score and (b) playing them right when he does read them.

And with your sensitivity preception at its most acute, all those clinkers he hits will sound doubly bad to your ears.

The moral of which is: Until you are in a position to synchronize your biorhythms with the company you keep, you may be better off uncharted.

CHECK LEAKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — To save money and energy, check and repair leaky hot water faucets. A leak of only one drop a second can mean a loss of 700 gallons of hot water a year.

Also, slow leaking will erode valve seats. It costs money to heat the wasted water and wastes fuel used to heat it.

New Patrolman

Alvin Bruck Denham, 37, began duties as a patrolman with the Pampa Police Department Saturday night.

Retired from the Navy, Denham is married and has three children.

The new patrolman is a graduate of Shamrock High School and resides in Pampa with his family.

Miami Gaining Housing Units

MIAMI — A contract for construction of a 12-unit housing development in Miami has been awarded to the Lev Old Connor Construction Company of Dalhart, for a low submitted bid of $158,420.

The development will consist of two three-bedroom units, four two-bedroom units and four one-bedroom apartments with two efficienty units.

Architects for the project are Luther E. Wossum and Associates of Amarillo.

Construction is planned to begin in about two weeks, officials said. Completion date has been projected as 120 days following beginning of construction.

The units are expected to be ready for occupancy at that time.

Demos To Set Club Activities

Future activities of the newly - organized Top O' Texas Democratic Club will be discussed at a meeting called for 7 p.m. Monday in the county court room of the Gray County Court House.

J. L. Holmes, club president, said all future meetings will be scheduled at the same place on the first Monday of each month.

Holmes added that tomorrow night's meeting will be open to the public.

WATCH THE CORK

NEW YORK (UPI) — When opening a bottle of champagne, aim the cork some harmless way such as into an open space where it can't hit humans or bounce back and strike.

Dr. Sherwin H. Sloan of Jules Stein Eye Institute in Los Angeles so cautioned at the annual meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology. He reported on 14 cases of ocular injuries caused by champagne corks. All victims had corneal abrasions.

Groom School Trustees To Consider Contracts

The Groom Independent School District board of trustees will convene March 4 at 7:30 p.m. to consider contracts for teachers, including Charles Burk, Betty Hudson, Kay Burk, Lois Campbell, Burniece Johnson, Tony McGowan, Bess Crownover, Calvin Campbell, Janetta Lamb, Pat Tilger, Judy Babcock, Leatrice Reak, Mrs. Barbara Newman, Jerry Young and Lou Ann McGowan.

The board is expected to set a Drivers' Education fee and approve the textbook committee report.

Bids on school buses will be opened and bills and invoices will be approved for payment.

Other agenda items are presentation of curriculum awareness program and approval of Plan A Special Education Co-op and Borger ISD as fiscal agent.

The proposed school calendar is scheduled for study and approval and consideration of a kindergarten instructor to replace Judy Fields is planned. Mrs. Fields has submitted a letter of resignation, creating the vacancy.

A Student Council request for a dance April 11 will be studied by trustees.

NEITHER WOODPECKERS — nor erosion did it. The discovery of more than 50 shotgun shells nearby alleges that vandals were responsible for this "barbarism." Examined above by Gordon S. Taylor of Pampa, Highway Department maintenance foreman for Gray County, this sign was located on State Highway 273 about 1½ miles south of McLean. Besides being a waste of more than $7 in shotgun shells, the vandalism cost taxpayers more than $100 in labor and materials to replace the partially illegible signboard. A motorist's inability to read the sign could contribute to an accident. Such 3 x 8-foot traffic regulatory signs are made of plastic-faced marine plywood ⅝ths of an inch thick.

Poison Gas Deaths Under Study

AUSTIN, TEX. (UPI) — A white cloud of gas with the smell of rotten eggs hugged the ground in the chilled, West Texas predawn a month ago and then slowly seeped into a farmhouse, awakening the J.C. Patton family.

Patton, his wife and daughter and their five overnight guests struggled into their clothes and telephoned for help from the gas leaking from an oil well 150 yards from their house near Denver City. The family then tried to flee.

All eight were found dead beside cars outside the house. A young oil field worker who responded to their plea for help died in his truck.

The deaths brought to 17 the number of persons killed in West Texas gas mishaps in four months and set off investigative demands by state legislators.

The legislature and the state railroad commission, which governs gas and oil operations, may have to decide if additional fuel recovery is worth the risk involved in using hydrogen sulfide gas injection to revive "dead" oil wells.

"Hydrogen sulfide is corrosive as hell, particularly when it's put under pressure," said Rep. Milton Fox, R-Houston, a petroleum engineer. "It will crystalize steel in just a short time. Unfortunately, gas with hydrogen sulfide in it is heavier than air, and when it escapes it just rolls along in a bank to a low spot.

"It can knock you dead in a minute. It's the rotten egg smell."

Rep. E.L. Short, D-Tahoka, sponsored a resolution endorsing the railroad commission's investigation of the West Texas accidents involving the injection process designed to free millions of barrels of oil otherwise locked in the underground.

"I believe the people in those areas have a right to know if there's a danger around their homes," he said. "If these people at Denver City had known the danger, they could have gotten out of there."

Short said since the Feb. 2 Denver City accident he had reports of only five or six locations in Texas where families are living within 150 yards of wells using hydrogen sulfide injections.

"Let's face it," Short said, "the oil companies know where these things are, and the railroad commission is trying to find out where they are. I'm mostly concerned about the people being notified if they live near one of those wells.

"I don't care how they do it. If they have to go house to house, it's worth it to save the lives of some people."

Six oil field workers died near Abilene last Dec. 1 from hydrogen sulfide while attempting to repair a ruptured crude oil pipeline. Two other workers were killed last Oct. 1 near Snyder while cleaning equipment near Sundown.

The Denver City accident was significant, Short said, because it involved deliberate injection of hydrogen sulfide. He said the process still was continuing near Denver City, Snyder and Sundown.

"It's a recognized method of recovery," said chief engineer Arthur H. Barbeck of the commission's oil and gas division. "If it's got some bugs in it, they need to be ironed out.

"We had a very distasteful and sorrowful thing happen out there, and this has not been completely investigated yet, but we're pretty far along.

"We're going into the whole matter out there in West Texas, and it involves a great many things. We've got just about the whole field staff on it. Let's get the whole story before we talk about it."

The Denver City gas leak apparently stemmed from failure of an automatic shutoff valve.

"We have never had a problem before and we certainly were not taking the operation for granted," said the well operator. "...for some reason the leak was so minor that it did not cause a major pressure change and the automatic valve did not shut off."

Engineer-legislator Fox is confident the commission's investigation will result in precautions to prevent more accidents at injection wells. But, he said legislative solutions could be unfeasible.

"Scrubbing hydrogen sulfide out of the gas is extremely expensive," Fox said. "If we came up with some half-baked legislation saying everybody has to sweeten the gas in West Texas, we'd just shut them down."

Judge Rules Against State On Drug Ads

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Legislature cannot prohibit pharmacies from advertising prices on prescription drugs, District Judge Charles Mathews has ruled in a suit filed by Gibson Discount Centers.

Mathews ruled a state law passed in 1973 banning advertising of prescription prices and prohibiting discount stores from advertising "discount pharmacy" is unconstitutional.

The judge permanently enjoined the state from enforcing the advertising ban against pharmacies.

Under the 1973 law, pharmacies were required to post in a public place the prices of the 100 most commonly prescribed drugs, but were not permitted to otherwise advertise prices.

"As originally introduced the bill was one designed to protect and to benefit consumers by requiring the posting of prices of certain prescription drugs," Mathews' opinion said. "The original bill contained no prohibitions of advertising."

The judge said a legislative committee rewrote the bill, however, and "outlawed all advertising of precription drugs and provided severe sanctions, penal in nature."

Mathews said the caption of the bill was not expanded to note the ban on advertising, thus making the bill unconstitutional. He said the final legislation bears no relationship to the original purpose it set out to accomplish.

County Agrees Upon Contracts

The Gray County Commission met Saturday in regular session and agreed upon tax and fire contracts with the City of Pampa.

The City of Pampa will receive $230 per run outside the city limits under the 1975 fire contract. In the tax department, the present $350 per month rate will continue to the city for use of appraisal information.

Usage of the city records prevent duplication and added expense, according to the county officials.

In other action, bills and salaries were paid and $50,000 was put on time deposit for 90 days with interest to be channeled to the General Fund.

Horace Williams representing Highland General, explained a voluntary participation plan for hospital workers wishing to take part in a Federal Credit Union. Williams will be in charge of the county group participation.

Commissioners will meet again at 10 a.m. on March 11.

Youth Injured

Rocholle Jowers, 6, 1125 Huff Rd. was admitted to Highland General Hospital for treatment of injuries sustained in an automobile - pedestrian accident Friday shortly before 3 p.m. She was listed in satisfactoy conditon Saturday.

The girl, according to police reports, darted into the path of a southbound autombile, driven by Lidy Mae Andrews, as she left the school yard of Baker Elementary School.

The girl reportedly suffered head and jaw injuries as a result of the accident.

No citations were issued. Police labeled the accident unavoidable.

AT SPRING BRANCH

Former Pampan Gets 'Man Of Year' Honor

Greg Jewell, former resident of Pampa, has been named Man of the Year in Spring Branch.

Jewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jewell, 1109 Huff Rd., is president and general manager of Waltrip Funeral Directors at Spring Branch.

He was awarded the honor by The Houston West Side Reporter and Elam's Photography Studio in Town & Country Village.

Jewell was named Man of the Month for September before receiving the year's award.

A graduate of Pampa High School, Jewell started to work for Waltrip Funeral Directors and in a short time was made manager and director.

Jewell was past president of Pi Sigma Eta professional fraternity and past member of the Kiwanis Club. He is on the board of directors of the Spring Branch - Memorial Chamber of Commerce. He served as secretary and vice president of the Memorial - Spring Branch Rotary Club and was recently named president of the club, the youngest in its history.

Jewell is a Memorial area resident with his wife, Linda, and their two children, Chris and Abby. He is an armchair quarterback, likes to golf and does small game hunting.

Top Producing Natural Gas Well Located

A natural gas well that has been tested for potential production of 500 million cubic feet per day has been brought in about 4½ miles northeast of Miami in Roberts County.

Earl T. Smith, Amarillo independent oil operator, made what oilmen call the "once in a lifetime discovery."

Originally known as "The McCoy No. 1," the well has been renamed "The Real McCoy No. 1."

Five hundred million cubic feet of gas a day is about the total amount Pioneer Natural Gas Co. uses daily along its entire West Texas system.

The well could not supply the whole system because it will be tapped for only a fraction of its potential when it goes on stream.

Smith, head of the Earl T. Smith & Associates in Amarillo, said the discovery would not have been possible had it not been for the depletion allowance.

Noting that the U.S. House of Representatives voted Friday to eliminate the depletion allowance, Smith said:

"If the Senate follows through and takes the depletion allowance away from independents, there probably won't be any wells drilled in the near future.

"If they had taken the depletion allowance away before this well (The Real McCoy) was drilled, it probably wouldn't have been drilled for years."

Smith declared that "any profits from a well of this nature are used for drilling new wells."

While "The Real McCoy No. 1" is one of the biggest gas producers in the area, it is not the biggest. Gulf Oil Co. came in with a project in Hemphill County two or three years ago that had a potentital of around 1.2 billion cubic feet of gas per day.

Paul McCoy of Amarillo was the geologist for "The Real McCoy," which was spudded last Dec. 1 and reached a total depth of 11,404 feet by Jan. 31.

Smith said when the well goes on tap, it will likely produce at 10 to 15 MMCF a day.

IN WEST BERLIN

Guerrillas Holding Mayor Candidate

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin police Saturday fulfilled the first demand of urban guerrillas holding the Christian Democratic candidate for mayor. Government officials began talks with Western allies about supplying the kidnapers with a getaway plane.

Police released two young leftists jailed in November for illegal demonstrations as the first condition for the release of 52-year-old Peter Lorenz.

The kidnapers had also demanded the release of six jailed members of the Baader-Meinhof band, a cash payment of over $8,000 to each and a long-range plane to fly them out of the country. One of the six has said he is not sure he wants to be released.

Late Saturday the government announced it had approached the allies about the "extremely complicated" technical problems involved in supplying the aircraft. Only U.S., British or French aircraft are allowed to overfly East Germany to and from West Berlin, which means one of those countries would have to provide the plane. The Russians, who control the air space over East Germany, also must agree to the flight.

However, a government spokesman cautioned that this "does not mean that a decision of principle has been taken" to give the kidnapers safe passage. He said the government wants proof Lorenz is still alive before any final decision is taken.

Soon after that statement, the West Berlin crisis committee formed to deal with the kidnaping went into unscheduled session at city hall to consider what a police spokesman described as "a new development."

A police source said the committee studied a letter received by Lorenz' Christian Democratic party and purporting to be from the abductors. No details of the letter were disclosed.

The guerrillas, who kidnaped Lorenz Thursday, said in a letter to the West German news agency DPA that Lorenz would be excuted unless all demands are met by Monday morning.

Police appealed to the kidnapers over local radio stations for "convincing proof" that Lorenz was still alive and suggested they supply the politican's passport number.

Amateur Radio Club To Meet

The Pampa Amateur Radio Club will meet Monday, March 3, in Furr's Cafeteria at 6 p.m.

Special guests of the meeting will include members of the current novice code and theory class and Jim Brown of the Panhandle Amateur Radio Club, who will discuss plans for a proposed swapfest.

Also on the agenda will be a discussion of a club comment to the Federal Communications Proposal on amateur radio licensing.

All members are urged to attend this meeting. Guests are welcome.

Subway Crash Death Toll At 23, 100 Injured

LONDON (UPI) — Rescue workers using hydraulic equipment and acetylene torches Saturday cut through the twisted wreckage of London's worst subway crash in an agonizingly slow operation to extract the last of the trapped bodies. Officials said they feared the death toll could reach almost 50.

The official death count was put at 23, but a police spokesman said it was feared another 24 bodies would be found when the crumpled remains of the front two cars were hauled from the dead-end tunnel at Moorgate station.

"There cannot be any hope left for the people still in that black hole," an ambulance service official said more than 24 hours after the crash.

Among the bodies still in the wreckage was that of the motorman, Leslie B. Newson, 55. His cab was squashed flat by the terrific impact.

Subway officials said it appeared brake failure caused the six-car train to overshoot the last stop on the line and slam into the dead-end tunnel during rush hour Friday morning. But they said the brakes were designed to be failsafe and automatic equipment should have stopped the train.

Over 100 persons were injured in the crash and at least 78 were still hospitalized Saturday, many badly maimed.

"Work will go on all day today and tomorrow moving the wreckage and recovering the remaining bodies," said Police Inspector John Conroy.

"Our priority is to get the bodies to end the suffering of the people who are still waiting for news of relatives."

Despite extractor fans operating at the scene, rescue workers said the temperature was at least 100 degrees.

"It is impossible to move quickly because the wreckage is tight against the tunnel walls, and breathing is difficult," one rescue worker said.

The front 15 seats of the first car were squashed into just two feet by the force of the impact.

Mathematics Workshop To Be Held At PJHS

Representing 39 District XVI schools, 298 teachers and 15 administrators have registered to attend a mathematics workshop to be held at Pampa Junior High School March 8, according to Dr. Dan F. Long, superintendent of Pampa schools.

Teachers will make aids to use with the metric system and materials for activities in practicing multiplication and division. Manipulatives and games utilizing fractions will be constructed.

A balance beam will be constructed, ideas for its use to practice addition and subtraction will be presented. Tangrams and other activities for teaching geometrical concepts will be made.

Dr. Alice Kidd, math consultant of the Texas Education Agency who also is president of the Texas Association of Supervisors of Mathematics, will attend and assist in the primary section.

Consultants, who are donating their time to improve instruction of mathematics in Texas are R.D. Thomas, Aldine, primary section, grades K-3; Madolyn Reed, Houston, and Cathy Rahlfs, PESO math specialist, intermediate section, grades 4-6; Mary Anne Roberts, Spring, and Evelyn Robson, Goose Creek, junior high section, grades 7-9; and Anne Wood, Spring Branch, senior high section, grades 10-12.

This is a unique opportunity for the Panhandle area, as it is the only workshop sponsored by the Texas Association of Supervisors of Mathematics held yearly in Texas, according to Mrs. Betty Tom Graham, coordinator of the Pampa school system's Title III mathematics project.

The workshop in Pampa was secured through the efforts of the school district's administrative staff, after local teachers who attended a previous workshop in Abilene received many excellent materials and ideas for activities for mathematics instruction, Mrs. Graham said.

All school districts in Region XVI have been invited to participate in the March 8 workshop here.

Unemployment Not A Problem In ToT Area

Unemployment that has beset much of the nation apparently is not a major problem in the Top O' Texas area.

Dr. Charles Smallwood, dean of the School of Agriculture at West Texas State University, told Pampa Kiwanians at their Friday luncheon "there are many agriculture related jobs open to qualified men and women in this area as well as all over the country."

A couple of weeks ago Cabot Corp. officials told a group of Pampa businessmen there are job openings in the company's Machinery Division if housing can be found in Pampa for new workers and their families.

With unemployment standing at around 8 percent nationwide, the figure for Pampa is less than 2 percent, according to latest figures.

Even that percentage figure is reduced to zero when it is revealed the 2 percent is taken up with persons on welfare unable to work or unqualified.

Dr. Smallwood in his Pampa address Friday pointed to what he called the need for education and research for modern - day farms and ranches.

Along with his discussion, Dr. Smallwood presented an informative slide exhibit depicting agricultural research being conducted at West Texas State.

tips for consumers from your BETTER BUSINESS BUREAU TM

People are becoming more and more concerned about burglaries, not only in cities but in small towns as well. One way to protect yourself against someone breaking into your home is to install a burglar alarm system. If you're considering having one installed, it will be to your advantage to know what to look for.

All burglar alarm systems, no matter how simple or how complex, consist of two main parts, detection and reporting. In order to have a good system, both parts must perform their functions thoroughly and dependably. The best detection device is of little or no value if the reporting equipment fails. So it's important to consider each part carefully.

There are at least ten different types of sensory devices available to protect residences. These vary from a simple closed circuit loop system of contacts and screens on doors and windows to more complex systems, such as photoelectric beams, pressure sensitive devices, ultrasonic infrared and microwave systems and others.

There can be advantages and disadvantages to each system; the type you choose will depend on what type of house or apartment you have and how much you choose to spend.

Most systems are designed to ring a bell and - or illuminate the area to scare off an intruder. Some alarms are hooked up to a local police station, a burglar alarm company central station or even a neighbor. Some alarm companies will dispatch personnel to respond to the alarm for an extra fee.

Find out, though, what the local police department's regulations are concerning hook ups with private residence alarms. This is discouraged in some areas because of a large number of false alarms.

In general, your intrusion system should be able to detect entry at doors and windows or at strategic points throughout the house, and not just at one or two isolated points. The total cost depends on the number and type of sensors employed and how much wire is used and how well you desire it concealed.

Often there's the option of signing a monthly maintenance contract, which provides 24 - hour service and testing once a year. Burglar alarm systems can also be tied in with fire alarm systems.

Shop For The Company

Everyone is afraid of crime and some unscrupulous companies will capitalize on this fact by using scare tactics to induce you to buy their system. Don't fall for high - pressure schemes like this. And don't take a salesman's word for it that installation of a system will reduce your insurance premiums — instead call your insurance agent to check this out.

When you're shopping for as important an investment as a burglar alarm systems, be sure you know the company you're dealing with. Call or write a Better Business Bureau to see if any complaints have been filed against the company.

Ask for a reliable report. It's always a good idea to get competitive bids from at least two companies, so you can compare prices. And you can ask the firm selling the equipment for names of former customers you may contact. If they stand behind their product, they should be happy to comply.

Never sign any contract that doesn't list points of protection or doesn't itemize the equipment to be installed. Be suspicious of any claims for a life - time guarantee — no one can guarantee any system that long.

The Better Business Bureau suggests you write for further information if you're considering buying a burglar alarm system. You can get a free copy of "Considerations When Looking for a Burglar Alarm System" from the National Burglar and Fire Alarm Association, 1730 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W., Washington DC 20006.

Social Security Q's & A's

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly Branch Manager, Social Security Administration, 1541 N. Hobart Street, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

By H.L. WEATHERLY

Q. I'm getting monthly supplemental security income payments now because I'm over 65 and have a very small income. When I talked with the man at the social security office I asked him if the federal government could put a lien on my little house because I'm getting these payments. He told me they would not.

But I forgot to ask him what happens after I die. Will the government put a lien on my house then so they can sell my house and get the money they've given me?

A. No. The federal government will not put a lien on your house while you're alive or after your death.

Q. My mother, who's covered by both parts of Medicare, visits her doctor quite often because she has a heart condition. However, her doctor refuses to apply for the Medical Insurance payments, so my mother pays him directly and then she makes a claim to Medicare.

Is there any way to make the doctor apply for the payment himself?

A. No. Your mother and the doctor both have to agree that he'll apply for the Medical Insurance payments to be made directly to him. If he agrees, this means he also agrees that he will accept as full payment the amount allowed by Medicare, except for the deductible and the 20 percent that Medicare does not pay.

AND PLAYS BRIDGE GAME

Newsman Receives Call For Jury Service

DALLAS (UPI) — The decision —a fateful moment that every Texan called to jury duty might have to face —was mine alone to make.

If right, justice would triumph. If mistaken, I would have to live with my conscience. I stood my ground and did what I had to do.

"Six spades," I bid, without batting an eyelash.

That decision was typical for many persons summoned for jury duty in the Lone Star State. Every resident is subject to the call at least once a year on a lottery basis.

The only exceptions are mothers of children 10 or under and senior citizens over 65, although the latter are encouraged to sit on juries if they desire. Policemen, firemen, attorneys, insurance agents and even newsmen serve on Texas juries.

My summons came on a 3 x 8 card mailed in an envelope with "summons: jury duty" emblazoned across the front. "Greetings:" it began. (Now I know where all the ex-draft board people went to work.) "You are hereby summoned to report Wednesday, Feb. 19, for service as a prospective juror for Dallas County. Report to the jury room at 8:45 a.m. Men usually wear coats."

So, it was up at a horribly early hour to drive my car to a parking lot to catch a bus for downtown. Courthouse arrival was exactly at 8:45 a.m. lest there would be a tonguelashing for being a minute late in the service of justice or possibly a week to 10 days in the jug for contempt of court.

It seemed like a couple million other people were called for the same reason but there were only about 500 lounging in the auditorium. First-timers usually sit bolt upright in their chairs. Those who've been here before have their coffee, morning paper, dominoes and cards in the back for a party.

First, however, a black-robed judge enters and in a booming voice lectures about our duty to sit in the cause of justice and what an honor it is.

"Now will you all stand up, raise your right hand while I administer the oath," he says. Almost before I can say "I will" he says "Be seated."

Then the clerk reads off a list of names to report to courtroom so-and-so. My name wasn't among them and as I settled to read the morning paper I heard from across the room, "We need a fouth for bridge."

Raising my hand, I dashed across the auditorium to the bridge game, tripping along the way over the legs of four women knitting and two writing letters.

It was mid-morning when my chance came to bid and make a small slam in spades. My partner, Mary Bennett, a silver-haired lady, opened a notrump, we immediately went to Staymon, then Blackwood and wound up in six spades. It was cold.

The clerk interruped the game by calling roll and sending us to lunch. An hour later we gathered around the table again and we played until 4 p.m., switching partners after each rubber. The clerk dismissed those who had served on a jury but instructed those who hadn't to return Thursday morning.

The Dallas County Courthouse Bridge and Jury Association, Inc., agreed to meet at the same table.

So there we were again at 9 a.m., secretly hoping we wouldn't get called up and bust up the game. We played until noon when the clerk read a list of names —one of which was Mary Bennett's —who must return at 1 p.m. The clerk read another list —which contained my name —of those who get to go home and not return.

I got a check in the mail for $10 today and that's the most money I've ever made playing bridge.

Small Portable Heaters Need 'Special Care'

Many consumers are using portable heaters to cut down on utility bills this winter, and the U.S. Department of Agriculture is concerned that the public may not handle these heaters with sufficient care.

One USDA housing specialist warned: "Any device which burns fuel must be vented outside — both to eliminate smoke and gas and to provide oxygen. Burning fuel uses up the same oxygen which you breathe to stay alive."

Electric heaters should only be used with the cord made for the specific appliance, USDA said. Using a wire that is too small to carry the load of electricity can cause a fire.

It is also best to connect an electric heater directly to a wall outlet and avoid using extension cords.

Portable oil or kerosene heaters should always be set level on the floor, and must be used with a fresh air supply available. They should not be refueled until the fire is out and the heater has cooled.

MEMBERSHIPS — A lot of people in our great City still do not know that the Pampa Youth and Community Center even exists. They do not know that we have an indoor heated swimming pool open the year round, a spacious gymnasium, a large recreation hall, one of the finest equipped health clubs with racquetball courts and handball courts along with plenty of dressing room facilities.

Well, now you know and you should take advantage of these facilities. There are activities for all ages and through a membership plan you can participate in these programs.

The use of the gym, recreation hall and swimming pool is listed under our very inexpensive membership plan for both individuals and families. You also receive free swim lessons under this membership. Individual limited memberships are only $8 for six months and $10 per year. Family limited memberships are only $15 for six months or $25 a year.

For the more luxurous unlimited membership which entitles you to all of the facilities that the Youth and Community Center has including the health club, the cost is a little higher. The reason is for the cost of the equipment and the upkeep of the building.

The individual plan will cost $68 for six months or $120 a year. The husband - wife combination plan costs $96 for six months or $170 a year. Each of these plans can be paid out over a six months period.

Membership is limited to adults, their children who also must have their own memberships and to some high school students selected because of their good character. To purchase a membership or to learn more about each plan, simply come by the Youth Center.

WOMEN'S EXERCISE CLASS — The women of Pampa have a very special time at the Youth Center on Monday and Friday mornings. On these mornings beginning at 9:30 the women exercise to precision recordings by Bonnie Prudence, Jack La Lane and others led by Mrs. Sally White. This is an informal class with the mats furnished. Exercise time usually lasts about 30 minutes. Then at 10 there is an informal swim time in the pool. No lessons are given unless otherwise scheduled in advance.

To participate in these classes you simply need only be a Youth Center member. No daily fees are accepted at these classes. Come join us and be trim.

PAPIAMENTO

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (UPI) — Papiamento, the rapid-fire linqua franca of this Dutch island in the Caribbean, is taught at the University of Amsterdam in the Netherlands. The native language is a mixture of Dutch, English, Spanish, Portuguese, Indian and African dialects. Appropriately enough, papiamento is derived from a Portuguese word meaning to "jabber."

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health

Accent on Health

J.E. PEAVY, M.D., Commissioner of Health

A person normally doesn't think of the home as a booby - trap, but when it comes to poisonings the home is a virtual time bomb, especially for children.

A look under your kitchen sink, in your medicine cabinet — and even at the shrubbery in your yard — may pinpoint a score or more of lethal poisons. Many plants, such as the oleander, are poisonous.

Your State Health Department has an interest in poisons — and poison prevention. That's the reason it helped establish 21 poison control centers throughout Texas. These centers are fully prepared to provide your family doctor with information about any of thousands of lethal substances. These emergency centers can provide treatment as well as give out information.

Prevention of poisoning will be emphasized March 16 - 22 during National Poison Prevention Week. Local proclamations and a decree by Governor Dolph Briscoe, plus cooperation from news media, will call attention to this special week.

A need for a more comprehensive network of Poison Control Centers has been expressed by members of the Texas Legislature.

All households contain some form of poison. No home is likely to be without a large bottle of aspirin, a container of some cleaning fluid, a can of caustic soda or similar product for stopped - up drains, laundry detergent or bleach, or perhaps some poison for mice.

In this — the pill age — a medicine cabinet is likely to have more than enough barbiturates and other sedative drugs to cause a poisoning incident. The common aspirin continues to be the chief cause of poisonings among children.

Each year more than one million cases of poisoning occur in the United Sataes with approximately 3,600 deaths. About half are accidental and one - third occur in children under five years. These are somber statistics for a cause of death that is largely preventable.

In Texas during 1973 — last full year for which statistics are available — there were 247 deaths from ingesting poisons and liquids. Most were listed as suicides. In addition, more than 300 persons died from gases and vapors, the vast majority listed as suicides.

Health experts estimate that the number of accidental poisonings in children is declining where drugs is concerned. Part of the reason: those hard - to - open containers now in use which sometimes even baffle adults.

What do you do IF — despite all precautions — your child takes a sip from a bottle of bleach or swallows pills which may have been left within the child's reach?

The first thing to remember, says a State Health Department expert, is to stay calm. This will help you make the right decisions and also may keep your child from becomming hysterical and uncooperative. Remove all the foreign material from your child's mouth.

Call your family physician for instructions, carefully telling him what happened and what substance was involved. He may want you to read from the label, if it was a packaged substance. He may advise some first aid procedure.

If there's a Poison Control Center in your home town, he may tell you to meet him there, or in your local hospital's emergency room, with the child and the substance. He may telephone the nearest Poison Control Center at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

The Galveston center has the best resource file in the state on poisons and has the professional faculty as backup for required research. The associate director of the Poison Control Center has just edited a book on other dangers: "Dangerous Plants, Snakes, Arthropods and Marine Life of Texas."

Once at the emergency poison control center, appropriate treatment can be given by your physician and center staff.

This start in Chicago was the forerunner of the vast network of Poison Control Centers located nationwide. In addition, there are programs in more than 30 other countries.

Texas, alone, has 21 Poison Control Centers located in virtually every part of the state for the purpose of preventing poisonings from turning into falalities. The State Health Department is happy to be a working partner with these centers.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SUNDAY, MARCH 2

Your birthday today: This is the year to master the fine art of letting well enough alone in matters of lesser importance. Put your main energy into goals that are compatible with your spiritual growth. Relationships do not pose any serious problems if they have been sincere from the beginning. Today's natives are impressionable and sentimental. Many of them are artists, musicians or writers.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Daydreaming comes all too easy and could cause you to miss an appointment or travel connection. Stay alert. Keep track of what the youngsters around you are up to.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: You needn't waste your sympathy; it's not wanted, and your associates had a share in bringing present conditions to pass. Everyone offers you well-intended advice.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Do what's expected of you, then seek the easiest course: extra rest or hobbies. Stories you find shocking don't upset others nearly as much.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Leave business out of your plans. Dress up and make a round of visits in youthful spirits. A hint of romance is in the air.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Keep yourself busy with active pursuits that bring you in to contact with more people. Friends are in the mood for bright and lively diversions.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: You enjoy extra benefits beyond normal Sunday amenities. You can skip some details, but those you have a hand in must be exact and clear. Travel doesn't live up to expectations.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Careless words of yours or others may stir up dissension. Concentrate on activity that doesn't require a lot of talk. Work on something that is urgently needed.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Your sense of mission and purpose comes on stronger. Declare yourself where it helps to establish your position. Participate in serious discussions.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Get off the beaten track and explore a bit. Do it yourself and avoid endless rounds of talk with your friends. Pushing matters gets you nowhere.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Fresh contacts and old friends compete for your time. Set priorities early and allot your time to get the most out of the day and evening. Most routines can be put off.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Don't be surprised by having to supply most of the drive. People are willing to sit back and rest from work and decision-making. When intuition awakes, respond promptly.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Take a realistic point of view and stick to what you've proved in the past. Others are at odds among themselves; you shouldn't take sides or get involved.

MONDAY, MARCH 10

Your birthday today: Concentrate on holding onto the progress you've made so far. Convert potential resources into tangible cash as rapidly as circumstances permit. Relationships become touchy, improve suddenly, or suffer from misunderstanding if you aren't careful. Today's natives are often at a special disadvantage, which is not always obvious, but which they overcome by courage and enthusiasm.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Change is the order of the day. Just realize it's only an experimental transition to something else yet to be put together. Stay in good humor!

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: It's quite sufficient if you can keep to schedules, mark time or complete routine work. Tomorrow's new facts will completely reverse or revise any decisions made today.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: The bird in the hand isn't as valuable as the one in the bush today, but at least it's in hand. Live within your means. Let well enough alone; pay no attention to rumors.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Don't extend credit, and avoid lending or borrowing. You can learn from critical comment and by watching the schemes of others fall apart. Keep your temper.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Declare a personal holiday, if possible. If not, do the minimum; let decisions wait for better information. Make choices early this evening or you'll be left behind.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Now you may as well admit that you have an interest in what's happening, but don't take sides yet. There's more than meets the eye in even the simplest presentation.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: You've got everything going well for you except serious business. This is not the day to close a deal or settle final terms. Use your charm to brighten up the local scene.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: You can redeem long-standing social obligations and repay an overdue favor. Just don't expect any "thank you," particularly where you've really extended yourself.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Today is a circus! Stay on the sidelines; enjoy it. Tomorrow is soon enough to collect scattered resources, regroup with refresh energy, perhaps for new ventures altogether.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Don't believe much of what you see today, even less of what you hear, pleasant as it sounds. Money gets away from you all too easily; be a good sport and you'll earn it back.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Chance remarks uncover a good reason for shifting your course. You become aware that current conditions will never return. Remain calm on the surface, whatever your feelings are.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Just be yourself as you go along with the drift of today. Nothing works quite as planned, and the less fuss you make of it, the easier you can correct matters later.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, March 2, the 61st day of 1975 with 314 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury and Mars.

The evening stars are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

Texas frontier hero Sam Houston was born March 2, 1783.

On this day in history:

In 1899, Congress established Mt. Rainier National Park in Washington state.

In 1927, Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees signed for $70,000—the highest paid at the time with practically no income taxes.

In 1943, American airmen destroyed a Japanese convoy of 21 ships in a World War II battle in the Pacific.

A thought for the day: British statesman John Viscount Morley said, "In my creed, waste of public money is like the sin against the Holy Ghost."

Lake Displays Artist Exhibits

The National Park Service is showcasing Panhandle artists. Each month works by a local artist are being exhibited at Lake Meredith Headquarters in Fritch.

Many visitors to Lake Meredith visit the building for information on Lake Meredith and the Panhandle. According to Park Superintendent Bill Dyer: "It is our pleasure to offer them not only information, but a sample of the creativity and talent of our local artists."

Area residents, as well as visitors, are welcome to view the exhibits between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays, and from noon to five p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Lake Meredith Headquarters building is located at 419 East Broadway in Fritch.

Twentieth Century Club Has Americanism Program

The Twentieth Century Club met Tuesday Feb. 25, in the home of Mrs. David McGahey. President, Mrs. R.W. Stowers, called the meeting to order and Miss Elsie Cunningham led the group in reciting the Club Collect and pledge to the flags. Mrs. C.E. Steel called the roll and read the minutes. She also read a "Thank - you" note from the Altrusa Club for members help in serving the Senior Citizens at Lovett Library on Feb. 13.

Mrs. Steel announced that Mrs. Dan Long has accepted an invitation to become a member of Twentieth Century Club.

Mrs. Fred Neslage reported that the Outreach Committee of Friends of the Library take books to shutins and the elderly. If anyone knows of a person in Pampa in need of using Talking Books, please contact the Library, and they will arrange for this form of book to be made available to those who cannot see well enough to read.

Mrs. Roy Braswell reported that the new scholarship forms were in the school counselors' office, and that seniors would begin to look at them this week.

Home Life Chairman, Mrs. Tom Wilkinson, announced that the next program will be on Home Life and members are requested to bring a baby picture of themselves.

Program leader, Miss Cunningham, introduced the program for the day with a quote from the yearbook: "America...our greatness is built upon our freedom." Woodrow Wilson. Mrs. John Rankin gave the program for the day based on the book "American Century," the Montgomery - Ward Centennial book.

The speaker stated, we have gone from horse power and the farm to nuclear power and the moon in the past 100 years. These years were divided into the following decades:

I. Guilded Age 1872 - 1879 — era of the Philadelphia Centennial where there were no side shows, only techinical novelties which were later to become household standards.

II. Victorian America 1880 - 1889 — era of phones in only public places, unveiling of the Statue of Liberty, safety bicycles replaced the High - Wheelers.

III. Gay Nineties 1890 - 1899 — era of Gibson Girls, first auto built to be sold on the open Market. IV. Into the 20th Century 1900 - 1909 — era of automation, Model T Ford first sold, Wright brothers flew first airplane. V. End of Innocence 1910 - 1919 — era of World War I, Prohibition, and first Income Tax was levied in 1913.

VI. Jazz Age 1920 - 1929 — era of Charles Linburg flight to Paris, the great Black Friday Stock Market Crash. VII. Lean Years, 1930 - 39 — era of the Great Depression. Big Bands, Radio, Dictators rose to power in Europe.

VIII. War and Change 1940 - 1949 era of W.W. II, 16 million men and women in uniform, women worked at defense work, great advances in medicine. T.V. came to stay. IX. Prosperity & Problems 1950 - 1959 — era of Korean War, Senator Joseph McCaty's search for Communist infiltrators in government, first industrial computer sold. Supreme Court ordered school desegration. X. Restless Years 1960 - 69 — era of public revolt against Viet Nam war, Hippie movement. Voting age lowered to 18.

The program was concluded with the group singing "This Land is Your Land" with Mrs. Tom Wilkinson accompaning Mrs. Lloyd Hamilton in leading the group.

Refreshments were served to the following members Mmes. Braswell, W.R. Campbell, Cunningham, Hamilton, Neslage, Rankin, Rex Rose, R.H. Sanford, Steel, Stowers, Wilkinson, H.R. Thompson, Lloyd Harvey, Carlton Freeman and the hostess.

Forum Program Given On Personal Finances

Twentieth Century Forum Study Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Larry Cross 2555 Aspen St.

Mrs. Jack Ward, president, conducted the business meeting and introduced Mrs. Frank Kelley who presented the program for the afternoon on "Personal Finances."

She began by telling the world we live in today is complex and getting more so rapidly. This applies to business and finance as well as to every other phase of life. Therefore we must study and keep informed on the things which pertain to our personal business. Women can be a tremendous help to their husbands if they will learn how to handle the personal finances and then share this job with their husbands.

Since 1940 more than 750 colleges and universities have introduced courses in personal finance or some name varient thereof. This is clear recognition of the growing complexity of the many financial decisions and judgments which the average individual and family must make during a lifetime.

In this report, I will outline some of the topics that are covered in these courses, she continued. I will not go into detail but will merely give an overall picture and hit the high points and you individually can go deeper into the subjects that are of interest to you.

First you should work out a good family record system. It is wise, then to work out a budget and make a net worth statement, which you keep up to date.

You should become informed about charge accounts, credit cards, and installment buying. You will learn that today charge accounts are a vital part of retail merchandising and it is important to note that charge purchases do not have the carrying charge if the bill is paid in full in thirty days, she said.

Anyone involved in personal finances should be well acquainted with the services offered by banks and should always keep accurate records with check book.

Over the years Americans have, rather consistantly adhered to the habits of thrift suggested and advanced by their ancestors, and the consequent enormous capital accumulation channeled into productive facilities has made the United States the most advanced industrial country in the world. If there is any one single factor which distinguishes advanced from underdeveloped countries it is the ability of the former to accumulate savings and funnel them into productive economic activity.

We should therefore become aware of the forms of savings and investments. As we strive to increase our wealth we should remember not to make it our god for when the size of a nest - egg becomes the god, the virtue of economy is degraded to miserliness, extreme selfishness, total lack of concern for the needs of others. It leads to such greed that even honesty is forgotten, she told.

In concluding Mrs. Kelley told, the paper, taxes, social security, and medicare are explained. If one handles personal finances efficiently during their lifetime they will also prepare for those who survive them by means of estate planning and a will.

ARTHRITIS SEMINAR

Kathy lives in Amarillo. She is young, about 28, married, and extremely attractive. She smiles often, is quiet, with a pleasant personality that belies the pain and misery she suffers. Kathy has had rheumatoid arthritis for 15 years, yet she's coped with the disease so well that others around her seldom notice.

Though the name is fictitious, the girl is real. She and others like her will be among an expected capacity crowd to attend a seminar on arthritis at Amarillo's Hilton Inn next April 30, sharing how they have learned to cope with one of this nation's most crippling diseases.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the West Texas Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation are co - sponsoring the event.

Arthritis is often called "everybody's disease." It affects everyone in some way, directly or indirectly, physically or economically. Yet most people have only hazy ideas — and often incorrect ideas — of what it's all about, says the Arthritis Foundation. The result is that people become crippled or suffer pains and stiffness unnecessarily.

Whether you have just a touch of arthritis or none at all, this seminar is just what the doctor ordered. Area folks have an opportunity to learn the truth about the disease, and how, in one form or another it will eventually affect us all.

Heading up the welcome and introductions on the special occasion will be Edd McLeroy, chairman of the Family Living Youth Task Force, a committee of the Extension - sponsored Panhandle Economic Program.

Speakers will include Kenneth Johnston, M.D.; Charles Seward, M.D.; Bob Stafford, M.D.; Maurice Dyer, M.D.; and Gilbert Gimbel, LPT; all of Amarillo.

Also, Bruce Bartholomew, M.D., rheumatologist from Texas Tech University School of Medicine; Mrs. Charlotte Bauder, former director of the Panhandle Division, West Texas Chapter, Arthritis Foundation; and Mrs. Mary K. Sweeten, Extension foods and nutrition specialist from College Station.

A panel of five who will discuss firsthand experiences with arthritis include Mrs. Bauder, her daughter Laura, H.L. Hershey of Hereford, Thelma Mayes of Borger, and Mrs. Linda Carr of Amarillo.

Medical and surgical treatments, including hip replacement, will be discussed by a panel of medical doctors. Diets, physical therapy, arthritis in children, and quakery (medical pratice under false pretenses) are other topics on the one - day program.

District Extension Agent Sue Farris and Charlotte Bauder, volunteer worker, are corrdinating planning and arrangements for the seminar.

NEWOPERA .....

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Opera has commissioned a new opera for its American bicentennial celebration.

The opera will be composed by Andrew Imbrie, professor of music at the University of California in Berkeley, and librettist Oakley M. Hall. They will collaborate on a setting of Wallace Stegner's Pulitzer Prize novel, "Angel of Repose."

Ball-Lewis Vows Pledged In Double-Ring Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Cynthia Ball and Thomas Lewis was solemnized Saturday, Feb. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in Barrett Baptist Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin D. Ball, 1125 Cinderella, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Tommy King, 1120 E. Francis.

THE CEREMONY

Officiating for the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Jackie Lee. Diane Yondo, organist played and sang the theme from "Love Story," "Always," and "More."

The church was decorated with two spiral candelabra.

THE BRIDE

The bride was given in marriage by her father attired in a formal gown of white crepe. The high-rise fitted bodice featured a low neckline and matching lace collar. Her long lace sleeves were closely fitted and fell over her wrists. The floor-length soft skirt was highlighted with a chapel length train, that fell from the back waistline, enhanced with lace appliques.

Her tiered waist length veil of bridal illusion fell from a white crepe bow and she carried a bouquet of white carnations tipped in blue and accented with white crepe net.

ATTENDANTS

Linda Blakemore served her sister as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Teresa Bivins and Rhonda Chance. They wore identical floor-lengh dresses of blue crepe, styled with fitted empire waistlines and long sleeves. Each carried a nosegay of white carnations accented with blue and white net.

Candlelighters were Don Smithee and Kirk Roberts, both of Pampa.

David Hager of Pampa served the bridegroom as best man.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in fellowship hall immediately following the ceremony. The serving table was covered with the bridal bouquets and held the three-tiered white cake, decorated with white love birds and blue roses.

Mrs. Wilma Shaw served cake and Miss Karen Anderson and Connie Walters assisted at the punch bowl and coffee service. Guests were registered by Miss Jackie Roberson.

For traveling the bride wore a blue pant suit.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a 1974-75 mid-term graduate of Pampa High School. The bridegroom is presently employed at J-Co.

A pre-nuptial miscellaneous shower was recently hosted by Teresa Bivins and Rhonda Chance.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Covert of Beliot, Kan., were out-of-town guests attending the event.

American — Bicentennial Involvement Is Subject For Civic Culture Club

Mrs. Frank Grantham presented the program "Americanism Bicentennial Involvement" when the club met in the home of Mrs. Chester Williams recently.

Mrs. Grantham began by asking "Are we becoming involved in the excitement of the events being planned for our bicentennial celebration?" Those plans are still rocking along and gaining momentum for this 'once in a lifetime' occasion."

"Special dates to circle on the calendar for this year is a three week period between June 14, Flag Day to July 4, Independence Day, referred to as "Honor America" days. If you do not own a flag, get one NOW and be proud to fly it every day even if it isn't a so called special day," she said.

"Bicentennial Medallions are already available for those who care to purchase them. They are made of various metals and are at varied prices. Do you have that garden plot all ready for your red, white and blue flowers?" Mrs. Grantham asked.

"There are some traveling exhibits that will be seen in various regions of our country both this year and next. Among them are "Frontier America," which features art and artifacts of the Indians and the west; "American Freedom Train," 25 car exposition powered by a restored vintage steam engine; and "The Age of Franklin and Jefferson," project of the National Endowment for Humanities," the speaker stated.

"Every American citizen should do a lot of reading about past history and become involved, may we think not so much of what is good for me and mine but what is best for our nation, the world and future generations," Mrs. Grantham concluded.

Mrs. D.A. Rife, president, led in the pledge to the flags and conducted the business meeting.

A period of fellowship and refreshments were served by members attending, Mmes. Irvin Cole, A.B. Cross, F.R. Grantham, A.D. Hills, A.C. Houchin, George Neef, Teresa Reed, D.A. Rife, H.W. Waters, Emmett Gee and W.R. Harden.

The next meeting will be March 11 with Mrs. Carl Smith.

Methodist Women Slate World Day Of Prayer Service

A World Day of Prayer service will be held in the chapel of First United Methodist Church on Friday, March 7 at 10 a.m., sponsored by the Methodist women. Members and friends of the community are invited to attend.

Dr. Lloyd Hamilton, minister of First United Methodist Church, will speak on the topic "Brotherhood."

A portion of the worship service, which was prepared by the Women's Ecumenical Prayer Fellowship for this special occassion, will be used.

Vocal music will be presented by Ann Hamilton and Morris Kille, with Betty Dotts, organist.

A nursery will be provided.

PILL POPPING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Georgetown University researchers quizzed members of nearly 3,500 households in Baltimore. The topic: use of medicine in the two days before the survey.

In the 48-hour period, it was found, 56 per cent of the household's occupants used medicines; 33 per cent used prescribed drugs; 36 per cent nonprescribed drugs; 13 per cent used both. More than 23 per cent of those surveyed used three or more kinds of medicines.

Panhandle Water

By FELIX W. RYALS

Today's colum is another in a series of articles dealing with local control and management of water. Last week we discussed ground water management. Today we will discuss the creation of ground water districts under Article 7880-3C.

Creating Districts

The Texas Legislature, the Texas Water Rights Commission, and county commissioners' courts may create underground water conservation districts. Before creating a ground water conservation district, the Texas Water Rights Commission must make a study and delineate and designate an underground water reservoir or underground subdivision. Only the Texas Legislature or the Texas Water Rights Commission may create underground water conservation districts that covers all or parts of two or more counties. The respective county commissioners' courts may create an underground water conservation district, only if the underground reservoir or underground subdivision has been delineated by the Texas Water Rights Commission as lying wholly within one county.

Under Chapter 52, underground water conservation districts cannot be permanently created by decree of any State agency. The procedures involved in creating underground water conservation districts are very democratic. The creation is based soley on the determined need and desire of the affected property owners.

The procedures that have been followed that led to the creation of those groundwater conservation districts that are currently active are as follows:

1. Petitions were presented to the Texas State Board of Water Engineers (predecessor of the Texas Water Commission and the present Texas Water Rights Commission pleading for the delineation of an underground wate reservoir or subdivision thereof.

2. The staff of the then Texas State Board of Water Engineers conducted the necessary surveys to determine geo - hydrologic conditions within and the bordering area of the petitioned area. Should an area desire a delineation at the present time the Texas Water Development Board performs this task for the Texas Water Rights Commission.

3. The then Texas Board of Water Engineers called a public hearing to receive the evidence developed by its investigators, and any and all other testimony from the general public, pertaining to the possible existence, or non - existence of an underground water reservoir or subdivision thereof.

4 As a result of the consideration of the testimony presented at the public hearing, the Texas Board of Water Engineers delineated a subdivision of the underground water reservoir and described its boundaries. All underground water reservoirs in the Panhandle area or Ogallala aquifers.

5. Following the delineation of an underground water reservoir or subdivision, the landowners then presented the Texas Board of Water Engineers another petition to form a ground water conservation district. In response to this petition, the Texas Board of Water Engineers called another public hearing to receive testimony for and against the need for creating a groundwater conservation district, and to determine if such a district would be of public benefit.

6. After receiving and considering the testimony presented at the public hearing, the Texas Board of Water Engineers created a groundwater conservation district, with boundaries coterminous with those of the underground water subdivision and proceded to appoint the district's first five - member board of directors.

7. As required by law, the newly appointed board of directors called a confirmation election to allow property owners in the newly created district to vote for or against joining the district and for or against assessing upon themselves taxes at the rate of five cents per one hundred dollars valuation to support the district. Valuations used were those of the county and State.

8. Following the affirmative vote the district was then validated by the Texas Legislature and the district proceded to pass all reasonable rules to carry on operation of the district.

Next week we will discuss the powers of ground water conservation districts that came into being under Article 7880-3C.

NFU Hits Congress

On The Farm Front
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rober G. Lewis, secretary of the National Farmers Union, told Congress this week that encouraging needy nations to give top priority to expanded food production is "economic nonsense."

The policy, pushed by both Democratic and Republican administrations, dates back to the early 1960's and was written into the Food for Peace law in 1966. It has been enthusiastically embraced by the Ford administration, with top State and Agriculture Department officials agreeing that increased food production in hungry nations is vital to any hopes of preventing widespread starvation abroad a generation from now.

Lewis, testifying before the Senate Agriculture Committee this week, called it "economic nonsense."

As a general rule, he said, "the poor countries should put their first priority on expanding their manufacturing sectors rather than their agriculture." The fact is, Lewis contended, that technology already in existence can be used to feed double the world's population by the end of the 20th century.

"It is simply appalling to contemplate the fantastic distress nd disruption, that will result in the poor countries of the world if they follow America's advice and hurry their farm laborers off the land before urban jobs are created to employ them," Lewis said.

Modern scientific agriculture can produce enough to feed the world — but only if the poor people of developing nations are somehow given the purchasing power needed to stimulate production, he said.

If developing nations like India concentrate first on promoting modern, scientific agriculture, the NFU official added, vast new problems will be created.

Instead of pressing India and other countries to concentrate first on farm technology, Lewis said American farmers should be encouraged to produce for an expanded Food for Peace program including a "food for work" plan. Under this plan, he said, local currency from U.S. food sales would be used to finance public works such as water and sewer systems.

By FOSTER WHALEY

Raymond Maddox was elected chairman of the Extension Service Program Building Committee in a meeting held in the Extension office the evening of Feb. 25.

Elaine Houston gave an excellent report on the fine work being done by the ladies in such areas as Public Health, Nutrition, Canning, Freezing Home Products, Gardening, and Clothing.

Mollie Carlton and Frank Morrison gave an excellent report on planned 4-H activities.

Earl Smith, John Spearman, Rex McAnelly, and Robert Sailor all expressed great concern for the tremendous, increased cost of farm inputs. Cost of natural gas came in for some keen discussion. It was pointed out that farmers might be looking more in the future to producing at levels that would yield the highest net return and less at a level that would give the highest yield.

Rising gas cost seems to have farmers worried as much as the rapidly falling price of farm products.

They expressed concern that some gas companies first stripped the BTU content of the natural gas then have raised the rate substantially as well. Some wells that cost $325 to run for a full month four years ago are now $775 per month.

Anhydrous ammonia that cost $50 per ton three years ago is now costing $275. This is a 550 percent increase in cost. The price of diesel has doubled in less than four years.

Farmers are heavily dependent on energy products. This is why they shudder when some mention is made of applying a heavy tax to regulate consumption. They are also opposed to a rationing system that would take an army of people to administer.

Another matter in which this group was concerned had to do with the new make up of the House Agricultural Committee. Twelve to fifteen new urban members have been added to this committee. Some of these members resigned from other key committees to become members of the Agricultural Committee. The Agricultural Committee was enlarged by about fifteen members. Congressman Bob Poage, Waco, by a very close one (144) to (141) vote lost his chairmanship of this committee to Tom Foley, Washington State.

Some observers feel the new members might be more sympathetic to agriculture's cause after they have had an opportunity to become acquainted with their problems. Foley is known to be more sympathetic to the Food Stamp program that Poage. It is felt this might give the man representing the rural areas more lever in obtaining more favorable agricultural programs.

Other farm groups are very concerned that too much influence by consumer oriented congressmen might adversely affect farm programs and legislation.

Possible Farm Legislation

Most observers feel the raising of target prices is a strong possibility. As one farmer put it, "if all the high officials in the Department of Agriculture are going up and down every fence row asking farmers to plant fence to fence, there should be some assurance they won't produce themselves into bankruptcy." The cattle bust has brought it home to the entire agricultural sector that no kind of disaster in prices would surprise anyone very much. Two - thirds of our wheat crop is exported. We are totally dependent on world markets. A shut down of buying by one or two countries could drop prices by one - half.

The most speculated target price level is that of seventy percent of parity on the basic grain and cotton crops. Target price has lagged by one - two years behind current year cost of inputs.

If the seventy percent target price was established for the current situation, it would mean corn would have a floor under it at two dollars and six cents per bushel; wheat would be pegged at three dollars and ten cents; milo at three dollars and forty - six cents per CWT; and cotton at fifty - two dollars and fifty cents. It remains to be seen as to what will be done.

Equine Interest Growing In USA

AMARILLO — A record eight million horses inhabit this country according to estimates from the American Horse Council in Washington, D.C., and the number is increasing rapidly.

The horse population has more than doubled since 1960. In fact, there are more horses now in the United States than before the birth of the automobile, when horses were used as a primary source of transportation and power.

Again from American Horse Council estimates, equine events drew over 105 million spectators in 1973. And in a 1970 survey, sixty percent of all horse - owning families made less than $9000 annual income.

Why the sudden interest?

Part of the growth is explained in an announcement from the U.S. Extension Service, which administers the nations 4-H program. At the end of 1974, 320,767 4-H members were enrolled in horse projects, compared to 160,846 in beef cattle and 106,526 in swine. This compares to 30,000 horse projects 15 years earlier.

But that's only part of the increase. The 12 largest breed organizations recorded 36 percent more horses in 1973 than in 1960.

Don Jones, Executive Secretary of the American Quarter Horse Association (AQHA), the world's largest and fastest growing equine registery, explains the growth in this way. "Many people are searching for sources of recreation, an 'escape' from the everyday routine, or perhaps a new business venture. Our society has a great deal of affluence and leisure time to offer the individual, and, likewise he desires to get away from the hustle and bustle of the modern, mechanized world. This outlet, more than ever before we are pleased to say, is becoming the horse."

Growth in the American Quarter Horse Association is exemplary of all breeds of horses. AQHA year - end figures illustrate the phenomenon. On Nov. 8, 1974, the AQHA officially registered one million American Quarter Horses, which is quite a feat for an association only 34 years old. The AQHA closed out the year with 1,038,559 horses recorded in the Stud Book, registering 76,559 new animals in 1974 alone at the headquarters office in Amarillo, Texas.

Transfer of ownership, considered as the barometer of any industry, also reached a new high in 1974, with 153,236 American Quarter Horses changing hands.

A total of 51 foreign countries have imported the American Quarter Horse, but a large percentage of them are being purchased by people in the upper midwest and along the Eastern seaboard. Thus, the American Quarter Horse is returning once again to the place of his origin. For it was in the early 1600's, in the Carolina and Virginia colonies, that settlers developed this animal, by crossing horses brought from England with those left in America by the Spanish Explorers. These animals, known as "Quarter Pathers" were raced against each other by the colonists at distances up to a quarter of a mile.

Now racing has grown in this country to become the number one spectator sport. During 1974, Quarter Horses competed for over $18 million in purses at over 100 tracks throughout the United States. Pari - mutuel wagering on Quarter Hourse races was an astounding $173 million, up nearly $10 million from the previous year.

Equally popular in the Quarter Horse industry are approved shows and performance events for both youth and adults. Over 3000 of them were held in 1974 and 500,000 entries participated. While the parent AQHA has a membership of over 75,000, the American Junior Quarter Horse Association lists 5700 members.

Surprised? Statistics don't lie, so don't be shocked if a son or daughter soon pops the question, "Can I get a horse?"

Yes, horses are big business these days. Not even Henry Ford could overcome man's love and devotion to the horse. Perhaps it's only fitting that the Model T's engine, and all subsequent auto's thereafter, were measured in horsepower!

SELF INTEREST

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — America should stress its own national self-interest in any foreign aid as well as expressing its humanitarian concerns when assistance is given to droughtstricken areas, says a Stanford University professor.

Associate Prof. David Abernethy, a political scientist, said instead of allowing people to point out hidden elements of self-interest as "part of an evil capitalist plot, the government should openly and candidly stress self-interest."

Stock Show

Thirty - one Gray County 4-H steers and thirty - four Gray County 4-H barrows have been entered in the Gray County Show and the Top O' Texas Livestock Show to be held March 1 - 5. The County Show will be held Saturday, March 1 and the Top O' Texas District Livestock Show will be held March 2 - 5. 12 noon March 2 is the deadline for weighing in for the Top o' Texas Show, and judging will begin at 8 a.m. Monday, with the Swine judging. The Show will end Wednesday March 5 with the Junior Livestock Sale.

Below is a full schedule of events for the show:

Saturday, March 1 — 1:00 P.M. — Gray County Jr. Livestock Show

Sunday, March 2 — 12:00 Noon — Final weigh in time for Top O' Texas Show

Monday, March 3 — 8:00 A.M. — Swine Show — 1:30 P.M. — Steer Show — 6:30 P.M. — Exhibitor's Barbecue and Awards Program

Tuesday, March 4 — 1:00 P.M. — Registered Hereford Show (Registered Hereford Heifer Show by 4-H and FFA)

Wednesday, March 5 — 8:00 A.M. - 9:00 A.M. — Bidder's Breakfast — 9:30 A.M. — Sale of Jr. Livestock — Calves sell first.

Food Show

Plans for the County Food Show are well underway for March 8 at 1:30 in the Courthouse Annex. Some food groups have had club shows to prepare for the county competition. Anyone who plans to enter the County show should let the County Extension office know by Monday, March 3. The office also needs to know which food group the contestant plans to enter. The public is invited to come to the Awards program and view the foods at 3:30. Refreshments will follow the Awards announcements.

Spring Fashions

The fashion look for Spring and Summer will be modeled by 4-H boys and girls March 17 at 7:30 in the Courthouse Annex meeting room. The clothes will be provided by the Simplicity Pattern Company. It will be a great opportunity for boys and girls to plan their Spring and Summer wardrobes. Make plans now to attend.

Leathercraft

The leathercraft class is busy working on their chaps and vests. Some are ready to do the finishing touches.

JAMES M. MCCARTY

Feeder Names Manager

AMARILLO — James M. McCarty, Hereford, has been named manager of Sooner Beef, one of the four custom cattle feed yards operated by Prochemco, Inc. of Amarillo.

News of the appointment was given by R.D. Josserand, Prochemco senior vice president in charge of cattle operations.

Sooner Beef is located about 25 miles northwest of Guymon, Okla. The yard has a one - time capacity of 30,000 head, second largest in the Prochemco group, which can hold 130,000 at a fill.

McCarty has spent his entire career in the cattle business. He followed his family's tradition into order buying and ranching from his U.S. Army Air Corps separation in 1945 until 1963, when he entered feed yard management. He ran the Nortex Feedlot at his native Dalhart for four years, and subsequently managed Big Tex feed yard at Hereford and Gaines County Feeders at Seminole.

His father, the late W.T. (Big Bill) McCarty, was well known in cattle circles. He has a brother, Bill, who is with another large custom cattle feeding company.

Prochemco, which recently reported assets of $16 million and working capital of $5.8 million, has launched an aggressive program to attract owners of feeder cattle to its Hereford and Heaton (near Pampa) feed yards, both in Texas, and to its Mid - America facility in Nebraska, as well as to Sooner Beef.

Beef Import Limit Still Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Negotiations with major meat exporting nations soon will produce a series of voluntary agreements limiting U.S. meat imports in 1975, a government source predicted today.

Some U.S. trade technicians remain openly dubious about prospects for quick action. One high-ranking administration official said, however, the State Department now hopes to complete the talks in the near future.

The official said it now appears the department will be successful in putting together a package of voluntary restraint deals holding 1975 beef imports to or near the announced U.S. target of 1.150 billion pounds. The official said the package is expected to be under the 1.180 billion pounds set this year as the "trigger level" under federal beef import law.

Imports of 1.150 billion pounds would be up 71 million pounds from the unusually low 1974 level, a prospect which produces little joy from U.S. cattlemen who are currently producing beef at record levels and have been losing money heavily for more than a year. But if shipments remain below the trigger, it would soften unrest among farmers and allow the administration to escape making a hard choice.

Under existing law, if imports exceed the trigger, the government would have to either impose mandatory beef import quotas or invoke a national security exemption to allow added imports.

Administration officials do not want to take either of those steps. Adoption of formal quotas would damage the U.S. drive for general trade liberalization, and a move to allow imports above the trigger would bring howls of outrage from cattlemen who got an election-season promise from President Ford last fall that he would protect them from excessive import competition.

Government technicians said some meat exporting countries have appeared satisfied or noncommittal in discussing the shipping rights they would get under a voluntary restraint program holding total 1975 imports to 1.150 billion pounds. But others, particularly in Latin America, reportedly responded initially by asking for higher totals.

Stock Shows

Stock shows are keeping many 4-H'ers busy. Cindy Gage, Bobbie Gay Skaggs, Kevin George, Tircia George, and Randy Skaggs showed barrows at the San Antonio Livestock Exposition this month. Cindy Gage place third in the heavy weight Hampshire division; and Kevin George placed thirteenth in the light weight Spotted Poland China division. The McLean Livestock Show was Saturday, Feb. 22. The winners of each division received ribbons. The show was good preparation for the Top o' Texas Livestock Show whcih will be int main show 4-H'ers will want to see. March 1 - 5 will be the dates for the big event.

Food Show

The Lefors 4-H Food Group finished their projects with a club food show. The twelve participants showed goods which they will take to the Gray County Food Show March 8. Other food groups are also finishing up. We hope to see a lot of contestants in the County Show.

New Year

For most people the new year begins in January. However, in 4-H the new year starts on July 1. The County Agents are busy planning for the new year. If you have some suggestions or ideas for new programs and projects, contact the County Extension Office. We would appreciate your help. The March 4-H Newsletter will go out the end of this week. If you have anything to include, contact the Extension Office by Tuesday, Feb. 25.

Pampa Stops Rebs, Wins 3-AAAA Title

By PAUL SIMS

AMARILLO — Howie Lewis, Billy Wilbon and Robert Young combined for 76 points, exactly what Tascosa's final point total was, and led Pampa to a 92 - 76 win over the Rebels and the District 3-AAAA championship before 4,500 fans in the Amarillo Civic Center Friday night.

Pampa, 25-4 for the season, plays Lubbock Monterey, 4-AAAA champion, at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the West Texas State University Fieldhouse at Canyon. Winner of that game will advance to the regional playoffs next weekend in Abilene.

The Harvesters, in winning their ninth consecutive game, started slowly but finished in championship style. Behind, 18 - 15, at the start of the second quarter, Pampa grabbed a 45 - 41 halftime lead and was up by nine, 64 - 55, going into the final period.

Young scored on the opening tipoff of the fourth quarter, giving Pampa an 11 - point advantage. Tascosa cut the lead to seven on a layup by Dwight Cleveland and a pair of free shots by Dave Gilbreath.

Pampa got its 11 - point lead back on a short jumper by Nick Slaymaker and a layup by Lewis, who made it 72 - 61. The Harvesters slowly increased their lead to 13, 81 - 68 and to as many as 16, 90 - 74 with only 30 seconds left.

"Ninety - two points is a lot of points," Pampa coach Robert McPherson said Saturday. "We gave up more points than what we'd been giving up. It wasn't bad defense, though.

"In the end, the best team won. In the last five minutes of the game, we really went to the boards tough. I thought we got stronger as the game went on."

Tascosa, which got off to a red - hot start, ran out of gas in the third quarter and was unable to keep pace with the fast - breaking Harvesters. "They were very tired in the last three minutes of the third quarter."

TASCOSA	15	41	55	76
PAMPA	18	45	64	92

Pampa, obviously tight from the pressure that goes with a title game, committed nine turnovers and missed several easy chances to score in the first quarter.

Tascosa outrebounded Pampa, 19 - 7, in the quarter. "They kept getting the offensive rebounds and putting them back in," McPherson said. Still, Pampa held a three point lead, thanks to six points from Lewis and Young, at the end of the quarter.

The game was tied three times in the second quarter, and Tascosa led on four different occasions. Pampa got the lead back on a layup by Wilbon, who made the score 32 - 30.

The Harvesters led by as many as six, 40 - 34, in the second period.

In the first half, Pampa lost the ball 14 times to turnovers, while Tascosa committed 10 miscues.

Wilbon was superb in the second quarter after getting only four points in the first. The 6-2 senior had 15 points in the second period, making four field goals and seven of eight free shots.

Tascosa's Byron Carter was almost as hot in the first half, getting 13 points. Cleveland added 11.

Pampa turned the ball over only once in the third quarter and began using the fast break more often.

The turning point in the game, according to McPherson, came in the third quarter. "I felt like it was in the third quarter when Billy hit Robert with a pass. Robert scored and got fouled and made the free throw. It kind of broke the ball game open."

The three - point play gave Pampa a 64 - 53 led with 54 seconds left in the period. Tascosa's Lewis Moore scored on a tipin to narrow the lead back to nine shortly thereafter in the quarter.

"It feels super," McPherson said. "The best thing about these kids is their conduct and attitude. Their attitude as far as team play. They do a super job playing together on offense, and playing defense too.

"I'm very, very proud of our kids. They showed a tremendous amount of poise. That's normal in a playoff game because the best teams are there."

Lewis led all scorers with 27 points. Wilbon and Young added 26 and 23, respectively. Slaymaker also hit in double figures, scoring 10, all on field goals.

Carter was high for Tascosa, now 18 - 12, with 19 points. Moore, Gilbreath and Dwight Cleveland each scored 15.

Lewis also paced Pampa on the boards with 20 rebounds, as the Harvesters outrebounded the physical Rebels, 50 - 36. Wilbon added 10 carroms and Young seven.

Gilbreath pulled down 10 to lead the losers, followed by Moore with eight and Cleveland with seven.

"I thought we played extremely well after the first quarter," the Pampa coach said. "We had a hard time getting going.

"I thought everybody played a very good ball game. I was not unhappy with anybody's performance. Billy got to penetrating with the basketball, and Howie went to the boards real tough in the second half. In the first half, he didn't rebound like I thought he was capable of.

"I thought Robert did a good job taking the shots he had. Nick got some big buckets for us in the second half, there in the third quarter when we started to break things open."

McPherson credited Tascosa with playing well, especially in the early stages of the game. "I thought they played well for the first quarter and a half. They played then as good as I've seen them play this year. But you should play good in the playoffs.

"I thought the key was our fast breaking. We started breaking at the end of the first quarter and into the second quarter."

About Monterey, McPherson said, "They'll be tough. It's a bi-district ball game so they ought to be. They're going to try. I would imagine to slow us down.

"We're going to have to have balanced scoring again and go to the boards tough. They have three kids who are 6-5, 6-6, and they play aggressive on defense."

Pampa is in the playoffs for the first time since 1971.

Harvesters Fare Well In Practice

Pampa's mile relay team of Noel Hansen, Chuck Quarles, Barry Lemmons and Mike Glover ran an impressive 3:29.0, the Harvesters' finest performance in the district practice track meet Saturday in Harvester Stadium.

Pampa, Amarillo High and Caprock ran in one group, while Palo Duro, Tascosa and Borger competed in another. No team scores were kept, although Pampa would have won in its group had the meet been official.

Besides the mile - relay team's time, Pampa had other impressive showings, including 44.0 seconds in the sprint-relay.

Pampa will host the Top O' Texas Invitational Saturday.

Pampa Results

440 RELAY—Barry Lemmons, Mike Glover, Chuck Quarles and David Caldwell, 44.0; Paul Sloan, Billy Joe Mathis, Ernie Tollison and Steve Hancock, no time (dropped baton).
880 DASH—Noel Hansen, 2:00.6; Clinton Henry, 2:16.0; Steve Harwood, 2:17.0; Mark Keyes, 2:18.0; George Sturgill, 2:46.0.

'BABE' SPECIAL

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Susan Clark, who costars in "Airport '75," will portray the late great woman athlete Babe Didrikson Zaharias in a two-hour CBS special titled "Babe."

The first cross-country championship ski race was held in Brattleboro, Vt., in 1934. The event is still held annually on its traditional date, Washington's Birthday.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Eight baseball teams, including New York, Boston and Chicago, joined to organize the National League on Feb. 2, 1876.

Jack Leading Inverrary

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus surged to birdies on the last two holes for a 66 Saturday and a one-shot lead over young Eddie Pearce after three rounds of the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic.

Nicklaus' six-under-par round gave him a 202 for the three rounds one better than Pearce, who fired a 72 after going into the round leading the field.

Pearce had a chance to get back in a tie on the last two holes, but missed birdie putts of six feet on the 17th and nine feet on the 18th.

In third place was Arnold Palmer, who shot a 71 on the par 72, 7,128-yard Inverrary course for an 11-under-par 205, three shots behind Nicklaus. He was tied with Tom Kite, a University of Texas alum, who shot a 70 Saturday, and Bob Murphy, who had a 66.

Nicklaus and Palmer will be paired with Murphy on Sunday. It will be the first time the two superstars have been paired while they were still in contention since the 1973 Bob Hope Desert Classic, the last tour event Palmer has won.

"Maybe that's a good indication," Palmer said. "I just hope I play better than I did today."

Nicklaus played steady golf with no bogeys, while Palmer was scrambling out of the trees every other hole.

Nicklaus went into the last two holes four under par. He had birdied the first hole with a 20-foot putt, the fifth with a 12-footer and sank an 18-foot putt and a three-footer on the 12th and 13th.

Pearce lost a stroke with a bogey on the first hole, when he hit his second shot in a bunker. A sand trap cost him another bogey on the sixth hole. His two birdies came on putts of 12 and six feet.

A huge gallery followed the threesome containing Pearce and Palmer, and Pearce noted, "It's tough to play with someoe with that much charisma. But I think he controlled it as well as expected.

Palmer described his round as "awful."

"I think that's one of the worst rounds of golf I've played in a long time. I hit some of the worst tee shots I've hit in 20 years," he said. "It was just an unbelievable round."

After landing in a banker on both his second and third shots on the 15th hole, it looked like Palmer would drop out of contention. But he sank a 10-footer on the 17th to climb back among the leaders.

Thompson, McMullan Lead Girls To Third

Debbie Thompson and Amy McMullan shot 96 and 98, respectively, to lead Pampa to a third - place finish in the Pampa High School Invitational Girls Golf Tournament Friday at the Pampa Country Club.

Tascosa won the tournament with a 359, while Amarillo High was second with 361 and Pampa next with 403. Other teams entered were Palo Duro, 413; Borger, 424; Plainview, 450; Caprock, 467, and Dalhart, 547.

Kim Snook of Amarillo was medalist with an 84. Tascosa's Valerie Prince and Patty Loehr were next with 86 and 87.

Other Pampa scores were Sue Cook, 102; Geralyn Hills, 107, and Serena Shearer, 108 (dropped). Singles scores for the Harvesters were Janet Keagy, 117, and Lisa Weigel, 133.

"I was well pleased with the outcome of the tournament. All our girls gave their best effort. We'll just have to work harder if we hope to catch Amarillo and Tascosa," Pampa coach Tommy Lindsey said.

"All the girls enjoyed playing Pampa Country Club, a super golf course in fine shape. The weather was nice, the girls were able to play on a warm day for a change. Thanks and appreciation go to our golf professionals, Hart Warren and Sherwin Cox for their cooperation in making the girls' tournament a success."

Pampa plays the first of four district rounds Friday in Amarillo.

'Horns Hold Early Lead

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI) — The University of Texas, helped along by a 1-2 finish in the discus throw by Jim Goldrick and Dana LeDuc, jumped into the early lead Saturday in the University Division of the Border Olympics.

Only two afternoon events were held in University Division Saturday, but the Longhorns leaped to a 10-point lead over Rice, 26-16. Texas A&M was third with 10 points, followed by Texas Tech with 6.

The Longhorns had been expected to face a tough test repeating as Border Olympic title holder because of a heavy toll taken by graduation and injury.

Texas had defeated Baylor by only two points in the Southwest Conference Indoor championships last month, but the discus event was not held in that meet and its addition at the Border event helped the Longhorns in the point column.

Goldrick captured the discus title with a throw of 182-3 while LeDuc finished second with a heave of 177-9.

In the only other afternoon event, William Newton of Texas A&M captured the javelin throw with a heave of 222-3. Texas' Marty Petermann finished second with a toss of 217-5.

In the College Division, favored Howard Payne jumped into the early lead with 26 points after five events.

Raiders Crush UT, 78-51

LUBBOCK Tex. (UPI) — Center Rick Bullock scored 27 points Saturday and helped key a ferocious Texas Tech defense that sent the Red Raiders coasting past Texas 78 - 51 to protect their share of the Southwest Conference lead.

The victory was the ninth straight for the Red Raiders and ended a six - game winning streak for the Longhorns. Tech is now 10-2 in league play while the Longhorns slumped to 6 - 6.

Texas Tech which held Texas A&M to a 35 per cent field goals shooting average in its crucial victory over the Aggies last Tuesday night allowed the Longhorns only 19 field goals Saturday. Texas shot a mere 35.8 per cent from the field.

The Raiders led 37 - 22 at the half and steadily built an even bigger lead in the second half that reached 28 points before coach Gerald Myers ran in the substitutes.

Tyrone Johnson led Texas scoring with 14 points — the only Longhorn in double figures.

Phil Bailey contributed 14 and Rudy Liggins added 11 for Texas Tech.

Pampa Linksters Grab Lead In District Play

AMARILLO — With one round down and five to go, the Pampa High golf teams has the lead in District 3-AAAA competition after posting a 297 team total Friday at Southwest Public Golf Course here.

Pampa leads the district race by six shots over Amarillo High, 303. Other scores posted Friday included Amarillo High B - team, 304; Tascosa, 324; Borger, 326; Palo Duro, 330; Caprock, 335; Borger B - team, 335; Tascosa B - team, 342; Pampa B - team, 359; Caprock B - team, 367, and Palo Duro B - team, 402.

Wiley McIntire fired a 37-36 — 72, even par, for the tournament. He and Mickey Lowe, 73, led Pampa to the district leadership.

Other Pampa scores were Randy Watson, 75; Scott White, 77, and Curt Beck, 82. Beck's score was not counted in the team total.

McIntire won medalist honors for the tournament, while Lowe and Amarillo High's Steve Hyde tied at 73 for second.

Pampa B - team scores were Danny Kohler, 83; Joel Hickey, 84; Bruce Hungerford, 90, and Richard Norwood, 102 (not figured into total). Singles players were sophomores Bill Browning, 84; Kevin Kirby, 89, and Mark Epperson, 96.

Needless to say, Pampa golf coach Deck Woldt was pleased after the round. "Anytime you can cut an 82, you know you're playing good," Woldt said.

"If we could go out everytime and know we're gonna have an 82 that we cut, that would be great.

We had 16 birdies and a 62 low - ball score. Lowe had seven birdies and only one double bogey. He and Wiley thought they both could have been under par. They had a little trouble putting on a couple of holes."

The 297 is the best team score for the Harvesters since the same score was earned in a fall tournament. The total, however, was the lowest for Pampa at the Amarillo course since 1971. The previous best was a 306.

Friday, the second district round will be played at the old Amarillo Air Force Base Course, where Pampa has never played very well.

"If we could just stay around the 300 to 310 mark, we're not gonna lose a lot of shots."

The article today will be the final standings in the men's city tournament.

The city champion for 1975 is Ted Erickson.

Our local bowlers did quite well and especially one of our new league bowlers, Cliff McDaniel came out to bowl and that he did. In singles, Cliff had 715, which won that event, and he also cashed in our invitational tournament. I'm sure he is as proud as we that he did so well.

Another bowler who has been around awhile longer is Dale Haynes who came up with a 1952 all events handicap series to win that event. Cliff, Ted and Dale averaged over 200 a game in the events they won. Congratulations go to all of the men bowlers, who helped make their city tournament a success.

Here now is the final standing for the 1975 Men's City Tournament. Team: 1. Top O' Texas Tournament 3126, 2. Celanese No. 10 3064, 3. Celanese Lab 3047, 4. Transwestern Pipeline 3034, 5. Alibates 3033. Doubles: 1. D. Haynes - D. Richardson 1331, 2. J. Cox - P. Cole 1328, 3. H. Seymour - D. McNair 1304, 4. J. Snuggs - C. Wisdom 1302. Singles: 1. Cliff McDaniel 715, 2. Jim Cantrell 683, 3. Cliff Westbrook - W. Baily (tie) 672. All Events: Dale Haynes 1952, 2. Ted Erickson 1924, 3. Pete Cole 1920. All Events (scratch): Ted Erickson 1885.

Ladies the time is growing near for you to have your city tournament entry in by next Saturday. We want to urge you to enter because it's fun, as well as rewarding if you bowl well.

Also don't forget the stamp bowling that we have two nights a week now, Fridays and Sundays.

Now here are the scores rolled during league play for the past week.

Women: L. Swain 201 - 532, D. Osborne 210 - 526, 534, R.L. Hedricks 212 - 202 - 584, 229 - 545, C. Furrh 511, G. Tidwell 501, B. Wortham 506, 209 - 507, J. Rose 219 - 504, S. Bryan 201 - 535, F. UCLA, Belmont Added To Amarillo's NWIT

AMARILLO — The UCLA Bruins and the Belmont College Rebelettes were named Saturday to the National Women's Invitational Basketball Tournament March 13 - 15.

They will join defending champion Wayland Baptist, 18 - 0, North Carolina of Chapel Hill, 14 - 1, and John F. Kennedy College, last year's runner - up, for the seventh annual NWIT sponsored by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce. Three places in the eight - team field remain to be selected.

"With the addition of UCLA and Belmont, we feel the NWIT now has five of probably the top eight women's teams playing basketball at the college leel," said Pat Truelove, chairman of the selection committee.

"If the three remaining schools we have in mind accept our invitations, then this undoubtedly will be the strongest field of women's college teams I have ever seen," added Mrs. Truelove, herself an All - American in college and AAU competition.

UCLA, which placed fourth in its initial appearance in the NWIT last year, completed its regular season schedule with 16 victories and two losses. The Bruins and California State at Fullerton were co - champions of the Southern California Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Conference with 9 - 1 marks. Each lost to the other.

The Bruins are led by Ann Meyers, sister of Dave Meyers, ann All - American candidate and leading scorer on the UCLA men's team.

Miss Meyers, 5 - foot - 9 freshman, is averaging about 18 points a game and leads in scoring, rebounding and assists.

"Ann is a fantastic player," said Mrs. Truelove, a participant and observer of women's basketball for 25 years. "She could become one of the all - time greats of the sport."

Belmont of Nashville, Tenn., will bring a 21 - 2 record into its fifth NWIT.

WAGNER DEAD

German composer Richard Wagner died at 70 on Feb. 18, 1883.

PROSTATE CANCER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — More than 15,000 American men die each year of cancer of the prostate, according to Dr. Donald R. Smith, urology department chairman at the University of California.

The overall cure rate for cancer victims is only about five to 10 per cent because too few men undergo periodic examinations advisable after they reach age 50, Smith said.

Friends, Romans, countrymen
Lend me your ears;
Especially if your water heater
Has a lot of years.
It's easy to forget
An appliance such as this,
But cold water at those urgent times
Could be a real crisis.
Your Reddy friends remind you
With this little poem
An electric water heater's perfect
For each and every home.

Red Cross News

By LIBBY SHOTWELL

We are so very glad that our community is using our Atomic Annie Doll to learn how to give artificial respiration.

Mrs. Jessie Newberry, RN used our doll to demonstrate to the Altrusa Club, Monday night the right way to give heart massage and other techniques to give victims of a heart attack.

Tuesday afternoon the women of Pampa gathered at the Flame Room where Dr. Carl Lang and June Johnson, RN, demonstrated again the right method of giving artificial Respiration. We are grateful to Dr. Lang and to Dr. Charles Forrest Sparger and other Dr's in our community who are taking their time to teach and demonstrate with our doll. Sixty ladies were present Tuesday afternoon.

We received our monthly magazine, Youth News, this month for March, and we always turn to the page of poems to see if any of our children made the page. The poems came from the schools in Houston; Gardner, Mass., Pasedena, Calif. Corpus Christi, and Woodlawn, N.Y.

We hope to find Pampa among the poems or short stories soon.

We hope all the school children will read the story of Clara Barton and the American Red Cross.

We have lost another Hospital Volunteen this week. Miss Teressa Featherston and her family are moving to Arkansas. We will miss Teressa. We need some new girls who want to work at the hospital to come to our office for training.

We sent a wire to Diaster Headquarters this past week regarding two brothers of Pampa residents who lived in Lindsey, Okla.

College Notes

AMARILLO — Tom Foran, Pampa high school graduate of 1974, was finalist in the recent Mr. and Miss State Tech contest at Texas State Technical Institute, Amarillo. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foran.

Students are selected for the contest by popular election of the student body. Dan Archer of Shamrock and Kathy Britten, Groom, were named Mr. and Miss State Tech. All finalists were presented in a coronation ceremony at the annual Sweetheart Ball in the Campus Activity Center. There are 384 students on campus.
