Herald and Harris Ace Hardware team up for flag promotion

HERALD Staff Report

Readers of the Big Spring Herald can get an American flag kit if they take advantage of a special promotion between the newspaper and Harris Ace Hardware.

WALKER

The promotion, which begins today and runs through Friday, June 30, will provide both new as well as current subscribers with the opportunity to get a kit to display the flag.

"With three major flag holidays — Memorial Day on May 29, Flag Day on June 14 and July 4 — we thought this would be the perfect opportunity to offer this promotion," explained Herald publisher John H. Walker.

Walker said new subscribers can get a kit that includes a 3-foot by 5-foot American flag, pole and mounting bracket for displaying the flag when they subscribe to the Herald for at least three months.

Existing subscribers will get the same kit when they renew their subscription for at least six months.

Subscription rates to the newspaper are $25.96 for three months and $49.30 for six months. Senior citizen rates are $23.36 and $46.72.

Walker said readers wishing to take advantage of the special promotion must pay for their subscriptions in advance at the Herald, 710 Scurry. They will then be given a certificate

Relay walks past goal to raise almost $120,000

By GINA GARZA

Staff Writer

For the hundreds of people gave up their weekend to participate in the annual Relay for Life and the news at Saturday's closing ceremonies was exhilarating.

"We were shooting for $110,000, but went over the top this year," said Diane Wood, chairman. "We raised $119,786.40."

As Wood made the announcement, she had to fight back the tears.

"It's unbelievable," she added. "Every year we say we can't do this again, but you have done it again!"

Organizers were concerned that the goal this year was $4,000 higher than last year's total — $106,000. But they were optimistic as 63 teams signed up this year.

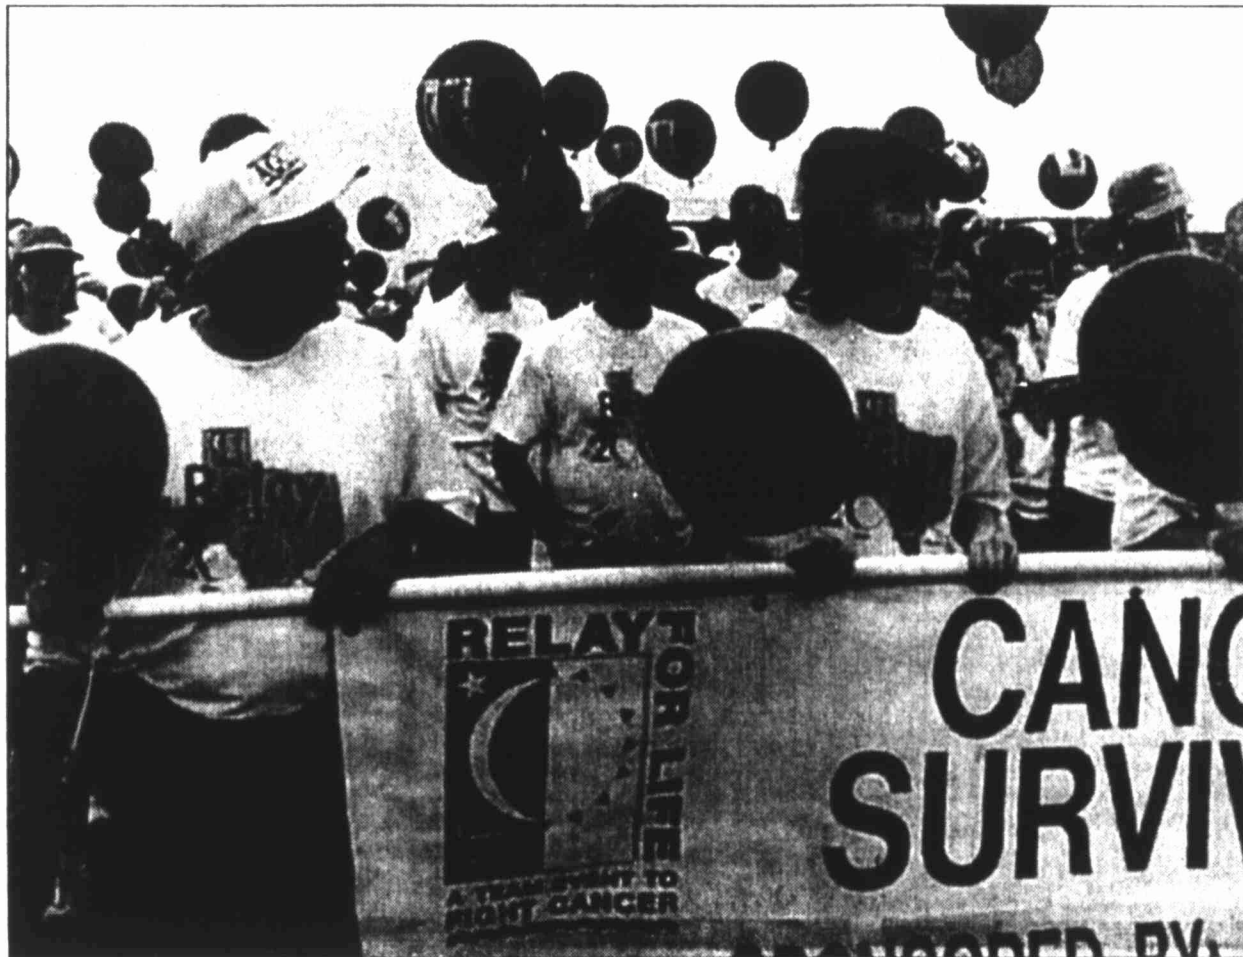

"We had 53 teams last year," said Gloria McDonald, team coordinator. "We really had some high-dollar teams this year. It's just phenomenal."

The relay began with an opening ceremony at 6:45 p.m. Dozens of local and area residents who have survived a fight with cancer, or are currently coping with the disease, walked the first lap around the track to officially start the relay.

Throughout the evening, many groups performed skits, songs and other entertainment for the participants. A luncheon ceremony began at 10 p.m., when candles were lit in memory or honor of cancer victims and survivors.

After nightly activities that included a 2 a.m. limbo contest, Saturday got off to an energetic start with a 7 a.m. aerobics wake-up activity.

"All the food and drinks are donated from many businesses in town," said Susan Lewis. "Our expenses are among the lowest in the state because we get so many items donated for this cause."

HERALD photos/Debbie L. Jensen and Gina Garza

During closing ceremonies Wood announced the teams raising the most money.

"For the sixth year in a row, Meagan's Angels have been the top team raiser," she said. "They raised a total of $6,324.78."

Other teams raising $4,000 or more were Tawanna's Troopers — $4,446.79, Men in Black with $5,002 and Malone & Hogan's Cancer Warriors with $5,315.45.

Relay is a family event, and a children's area is set aside for special games and appearances by costumed mascots such as the Big Spring Steer.

"During the relay, we celebrate those who have survived are in the process as well as honor those who didn't," said Wood. "It's a celebration but we have shed a lot of tears."

All money goes to cancer research, patient's costs as well as educating the public.

Special tribute

Howard County law enforcement employees to be honored Monday

By BILL McCLELLAN

News Editor

Big Spring will be recognizing National Police Week with an event Monday to honor all Howard County law enforcement personnel.

PARKER

The special ceremonies will begin at 7 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium. The public is invited.

"We're going to offer prayers for our officers as well as honor those who have died in the line of duty across the United States," said Gayann Parker, organizer of the event.

State Rep. David Counts will read the names of the 112 officers who died last year and a candle will be lit for each one.

Also speaking will be two officers from San Angelo and Tricia Cauble, sister of the late Troy Hogue, Department of Public Safety State Trooper out of Big Spring who was killed in the line of duty.

"I really encourage the community to come and show their support," said Parker. "As officers, these men and women hear the complaints, but they rarely hear from people who appreciate the job they do."

"They need our support," said Parker, who's husband, Shon Parker, is a DPS trooper stationed out of Big Spring.

OUR VIEWS

Take the time to say thanks to your mom

Is there really a way to thank your mother for all the things she has meant to you? A card, a gift, lunch or dinner out — we all try, but do we come close to appreciating the life of a mother?

We have in today's life! section identified Big Spring's Busiest Mom as working mother of two Jackie Bagnall. But she is far from alone in her round-the-clock commitment. Read the excerpts from our other nominations and you may be surprised how many busy, busy women there are in our community. On the average day, plenty of local mothers juggle a job, housework, the kids, dinner, perhaps meetings and taking care of extended family members. Some of our nominees use hours the rest of us reserve for sleeping to finish what they don't get done in a day!

In short, stop and think today about all the things your mother, or the mother of your children, does for your family. If she's like many moms, she is the glue that holds that family together.

So you got her the card, the gift, and maybe you served her breakfast in bed this morning. But did you stop and think what you can do every day to make her life easier?

If she's a mom, working outside the home or at home, with one child or five, she's bound to be busy. Extend your thanks for her work not just today, but every day.

And a nice dinner out wouldn't hurt a bit!

YOUR VIEWS

TO THE EDITOR:

This is a complaint with an intent to vent off some steam concerning our infamous Big Spring water and sewer service.

Today, after a good morning of golf, I parked my truck on the street, next to our water meter. I came around to the curve and took my golf bag out. I turned and stepped flatly on the water meter plate. Well it appears that when they last read the meter they did not secure the plate correctly and I stepped right through it. I scraped my shin and wrenched my back, and to my horror I stepped right on the resident side of the water main. I broke the PVC pipe and water began to gush everywhere. Now had the meter man secured the main correctly, I wouldn't have had this accident.

I called the water company and explained my dilemma to the lady who answered. She laughed! She said she was sorry, but it seemed funny to her. She dispatched two men who arrived quickly. The young man turned the water off and his partner said, "Well the break is on the customer side, we can't fix it."

I advised him if the plate had been on correctly, I wouldn't have broke the main, scraped my shin and wrenched my back. So he called his supervisor on the radio, and he told him that I would have to file with the city if I thought the city was at fault. The other young man told me it would be easy to fix and even showed me the part, but because the break was on my side, etc. etc.

I called a Mr. Ferguson at city hall and he told me to pick up some forms and file also. Meanwhile, I called the plumber and it may be a while. I have to get ready for work and I am reduced to washing up with a gallon of water.

Now this is funny. Here I am in the shower, with a bum leg and back, holding a plastic jug of water trying to clean off all the sand I got from yesterday's sand storm and today's golf game. Needless to say, you can never get all of the soap off!

Now the plumber arrived and he cannot take the plate off. The plate had been locked as it was supposed to have been! What happened is that they had placed a new plate at some point with a locking mechanism.

I can't believe they couldn't help me, especially with ridiculously high water bills we receive during the summer.

Oh, and don't ever be a day late when paying your bill because they will not send you a warning notice, they will turn you right off!

Israeli-Palestinian peace accord won't happen

If you took a map of the West Bank and painted in red those areas that have been turned over to the Palestinian Authority, the West Bank would look like it had a bad case of the measles.

CHARLEY REESE

Whether there will be peace depends on connecting all those dots so that Palestinians can form a state out of a whole territory. For that to occur, Jewish settlements on the West Bank and in Gaza will have to be either dismantled or turned over to the jurisdiction of the Palestinians. In addition, East Jerusalem must be returned to the Palestinians, and Palestinian refugees now living in foreign countries must be allowed to return or be compensated for their lost property.

Now you know why I do not believe that there is going to be peace. I do not believe that the Israeli government has any intention of dismantling all the settlements or turning them over to Arab jurisdiction. I do not believe that the Israelis will entertain even the idea of returning East Jerusalem to Palestinian control. And I do not believe that the Israeli government has any intention of providing for either return or compensation to the Palestinian refugees.

Once this truth is laid on the table, the charade of peace negotiations will collapse. Yasser Arafat's gamble that the United States would ultimately pressure Israel to make concessions will have been lost. The original flaw of the Oslo process and the original sin of the American position is that two parties, one enormously powerful and the other as weak as weak can be, cannot negotiate. That is because the weakness of one party makes the stronger party not predisposed to make any concessions, while the weaker party has no means of forcing the other to make a concession. Because the Palestinians have nothing, they have nothing to offer in the way of a concession.

Only parties of roughly equal power really can negotiate. If the United States had at least been neutral, that would have helped, but because the United States made it clear from the beginning that it would back Israel, negotiations were doomed from the start.

After all these years, the Palestinians have limited authority over disconnected portions of their own land. They have no control over the water. They have no control over what Israel can do in the Occupied Territories. And they have no leverage. Any attempt to enlist the help of the United Nations is summarily blocked by the United States.

In virtually every case, a Palestinian wishing to travel from one area of Palestinian authority to another must pass through Israeli-controlled territory. That effectively means Palestinians can travel only with Israeli permission.

The only card that Arafat can play is to insist that Israel lay on the table its final position right now. That way, everyone can see that Israel has no interest in a valid peace deal, and the conflict can resume. It will be very difficult for Egypt and Jordan to maintain their peace treaties once it is clear that, once more, the Israelis have shafted the Palestinians and are stubbornly refusing to relinquish land to which, under international law, they have no valid claim.

Hamas, a Palestinian organization that has stood aside more or less while Arafat played his hand, will say, "OK, you tried your way, and it failed; now we'll try our way."

No one should take any pleasure in the prospect of more bloodshed. People should not delude themselves that bloodshed can be avoided if good-faith negotiations and the rule of law are tossed into the trash can. Israel and the U.S. government are systematically blocking all the roads to peaceful resolution of the just claims by the Palestinians. The blood will be on their hands.

Getting the good side of the cook

Out of the blue, whence most good things come, a reporter for a cooking magazine phoned to ask about my culinary habits.

"You must have the wrong number," I said. I was surprised, but game. A lot of my friends are good cooks, and I thought how they would turn the color of pistachio salad if they spotted my mug alongside a feature on cooking.

RHETA GRIMSLEY JOHNSON

(I also remembered what my then-husband once replied when asked if his wife was a good cook: "I don't know," he shrugged.)

But I was thinking mostly about my mother, how proud she might be if I somehow ended up in the slick pages of any old subsidiary publication of Southern Living, hallowed be its name. She no doubt would swoon.

So I bragged shamelessly to the magazine lady about my skill with a pressure cooker — the only way I can cook a real meal is to jiggle and blow off steam — and even mentioned a killer lemon pie, my only non-pressurized dish.

The writer seemed satisfied with my talents; it helps if you don't actually have to eat my recipes. Then I forgot all about it. Until the week when a cheerful photographer named Mark Sandlin called from Newnan, Ga., to say he worked for Southern Living and needed to take my picture.

Now he knew and I knew the picture wasn't actually for Southern Living magazine and that the story had nothing to do with my dwelling or lawn. But you can bet it wasn't myself that I gussed up for the photo session.

Instead, I looked around in true alarm at my humble home, a real ramblar with wings to represent each of the last eight decades. Let's just say its look had not leapt off the pages of Southern Living. This was like sending Ansel Adams to Three Mile Island.

Right now things are rougher than usual. The bathroom is in a state of flux, which explains the spare toilet sitting in the mudroom. Sheetrock dust and odd tile pieces are all about, giving the heart of the house the look of a bombed London Underground station.

Any girl who ever washed the grits pot knows what Southern Living homes don't have. They don't have propane tanks that refuse to be hidden with lattice or vines. They don't have garbage cans about, or bug zappers, or bright-orange extension cords stretched from porch to porch like a crime scene ribbon.

They don't have seams. Southern Living homes have white columns that look as if they are cleaned weekly with peroxide and an old toothbrush. They have yellow cats asleep on cushions that somehow remain free of cat hair and perfectly plumped in old wicker rockers on sunlit porches.

I thought about my own backyard, where lately the dogs have taken turns chewing a hot-pink Tupperware lid. I decided to limit the photographer — and my emergency cleaning efforts — to the side deck, which can be de-cluttered easily in a couple of hours. The deck is on the house's good side, the one that faced a river before the drought.

The photographer was right on time, and he graciously accepted being herded to the deck. He commiserated about the loss of the river, sat me behind a table, dead-headed a few of my geraniums and went straight to work.

"This will be a fairly tight shot," he said.

The relief that came with the news of cropped surroundings was quickly replaced with worry that there might be lipstick on my teeth or circles beneath my eyes. Tight? How tight?

What if I looked tired and bedraggled, the kind of cook who supplies the short orders at a grill where they never change aprons — or the grease?

It was worth the worry, however, to be able to phone Mother and tell her a photographer for Southern Living had just left the building.

I didn't tell her he was running.

Residents get first word on fate of their homes

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP) — As flames that have charred tens of thousands of acres across northern New Mexico slowed their advance Saturday, residents learned for the first time whether their homes were among the scores reduced to ash and melted rubble.

"We hoped we were one of the lucky ones, and we just weren't," said Kevin Granville, who found his address on a list of 260 homes that had been destroyed by the fire.

Others among the 25,000 Los Alamos fire evacuees imagined the worst and were stunned to learn their homes survived.

"We are experiencing a miracle at the moment: Our house, which we were absolutely sure was gone, is standing," said Karen Brandt, who had checked into a Santa Fe motel with her husband and her mother.

Lower temperatures and higher humidity early Saturday helped firefighters trying to get control of the blaze, which was still only about 5 percent contained. Crews were using bulldozers and hand tools to cut brush and dig trenches in still-standing Los Alamos neighborhoods, fearful the flames still might take an unexpected turn.

"I'm sure it got down to freezing in a few spots, generally 35 degrees, which did help," fire information officer Dave Schultz said today. "It really holds the fire in place, cools it down significantly."

Schultz said the fire hadn't made any significant movement since Friday night.

Los Alamos Fire Chief Doug MacDonald assured residents: "I can say with a high degree of confidence that we will not have more structures burned in Los Alamos or White Rock."

Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt on Friday promised residents they would have answers by last next week about why the National Park Service started the blaze May 4 at Bandelier National Monument. The fire — intended to remove dry brush and grass to eliminate possible fire hazards — spread into Los Alamos and charred 36,000 acres.

Park Superintendent Roy Weaver has been placed on leave with pay pending an investigation, and Babbitt said all prescribed fires in the West would be put on hold for a month.

Los Alamos winds calmed Friday, allowing an all-out air bombardment of the fire that danced around the nuclear research facilities of Los Alamos National Laboratory.

Meanwhile, 70 mph gusts flung flames across 20 miles of southern New Mexico late Thursday and early Friday, burning 20,700 acres and forcing 125 people from their homes in the Sacramento Mountains. The villages of Sacramento and Weed were evacuated, along with several nearby canyon enclaves.

The fire was caused by a downed power line but spread quickly with help from the howling winds, firefighters said. Early today, authorities said the fire was 50 percent contained, with full containment expected by Tuesday.

Across New Mexico, months of drought have left the state tinder dry. Though the fire season has just begun, already more than 200,000 acres have burned — nearly four times the total for all of last year.

The Los Alamos fire was still growing, but at a slower pace, and firefighters expected winds to remain calm through today.

The nuclear lab also appeared out of danger.

Richard Burick, deputy lab director for operations, said all major buildings were unscathed. Lab Director John Browne said late Friday that the lab would resume limited operations Monday to plan for a phased reopening.

But fire officials and Gov. Gary Johnson warned that the battle is far from over.

"This fire is not over with and nobody here is pretending it is," Johnson said.

One dead, one injured in Central Texas storms

WACO (AP) — Authorities in North Texas began sifting through the debris of some 20 homes destroyed by a tornado that touched down on a lake bordered by several residential areas Friday evening.

In the wake of the destruction along the border of Bosque and Hill counties, a 70-year-old man has been found dead and at least one other person has been reported seriously injured, police said.

A statement issued by the Bosque County Sheriff's Department said the tornado was spotted just after 5 p.m. when it "hit the water on Lake Whitney, then jumped up on the land and struck a residential area in the Walling Bend area."

The twister then moved back across the lake, striking a second residential area and a marina, according to the statement. Lake Whitney borders the two counties and is located about 60 miles south of Dallas.

Cpl. Charlie Morgan with the Texas Department of Public Safety in nearby Waco said the elderly man died when the tornado struck his home on the Hill County side of the lake. A second person in the home was critically injured, he said.

Bosque County Sheriff Tim Gage said the name of the deceased man was being withheld until relatives could be notified. Further information on the injured person was not immediately available.

Gage told the Waco Tribune-Herald that at least 20 homes were heavily damaged by the storm in neighborhoods that sit on cliffs at the fringe of the lake, but all other residents were accounted for late Friday night. He said those whose homes were destroyed would be allowed to return and claim belongings in the morning.

Confederate Air Force show company considers name change to end image problem

DALLAS (AP) — Some members of the Confederate Air Force, an organization of pilots who fly World War II-era military planes at air shows across the country, are suggesting the group get a new name because they say controversy associated with the word confederate is costing them business.

"If we don't get the word Confederate out of our name, the Confederate Air Force won't survive," Chris Avery, an Atlantic Southeast Airlines instructor pilot who spends his weekends flying aerobatics, told The Dallas Morning News.

Avery, 35, said he was told by two air show organizers this year that the name Confederate was becoming a public relations problem. He also said the name has cost him $10,000 in air show bookings this year.

"They said they love the airplane and the act, but that they were getting pressure about being associated with a group with a name like ours," he said. "I'm finding myself spending more and more time defending a name that has nothing to do with what our mission is."

One CAF official said they've lost hundreds of thousands of dollars in potential funding because of their name.

"We have heard from a number of unit leaders that big corporations believe in what we are doing, but that the name hurts us," said Neils Agather, a Dallas businessman and member of the CAF's elected board, known as the General Staff.

The Midland-based organization got the name in the 1950s, when somebody painted it on the tail of a P-51 Mustang fighter. At the time, the handful of original members thought it was funny, so the name stuck.

Some members have suggested calling themselves Ghost Squadron, which appears at the bottom of the CAF's present insignia. Other include the Commemorative Air Force or the Freedom Air Force.

CAF spokeswoman Tina Corbett said the issue has been under discussion for several months, and will continue at an annual board meeting in July in Midland. She said a name change would require an amendment to the organization's constitution.

Dallas stunt pilot and CAF member Jan Collmer said the organization inevitably will be faced with protests and controversy over "having their name associated with a word that starts such intense fires."

"The Confederacy stuff was a good-old-boy joke that is now completely worn out," he said. "It is like a lightning rod sticking up. Real life says that if you want to be a lightning rod, lightning is going to hit you sooner or later."

After 102 years, momentum gaining for phone tax repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — On Mother's Day, traditionally one of the busiest telephone calling days in America, millions of dutiful sons and daughters will use the phone to wish mom well. Each time, they will pay a tax established in 1898 to finance the Spanish-American War.

A century after that war's end, momentum is gaining to repeal the 3 percent excise tax on telephone service in an election-year Congress searching for popular accomplishments. The nearly $5 billion raised annually now goes into the government's general fund for any federal expense.

Easy approval of the repeal is expected by both Republicans and Democrats when the bill is taken up this week by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Several factors have combined to set the stage for repeal, including huge projected budget surpluses and a Republican congressional leadership bent on cutting taxes whenever possible. Perhaps the most important element is that the tax is now considered part of the "digital divide," a cost that hinders lower-income people from gaining Internet access.

"This is clearly a great target for repeal," said the main Republican sponsor, Rep. Rob Portman of Ohio. "It is really a tax on the Internet as well."

Originally imposed as a luxury tax when there were only 1,376 telephones in the United States, the tax is now collected on the total bill of an estimated 252 million business and residential telephone lines, including cellular phones and those hooked up to fax machines and computer modems. People and businesses with multiple phones often pay the tax several times a month.

The tax has been repealed twice before, then brought back when the United States entered World War I and during the Depression. It has been raised, lowered, put on track for a phaseout that was delayed numerous times and, finally, made permanent a decade ago.

"One thing about Washington is that once a tax is on the books, it's hard to get rid of," said Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The legislation would repeal the tax 90 days after the bill is signed into law. A vote of the full House is expected the week of May 22.

The tax hits lower-income people hardest. Families earning between $10,000 and $30,000 a year spend between 3 percent and 4 percent of their incomes on telephone service, while those earning $70,000 or more spend only about 1 percent, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

"Getting rid of the excise tax, especially on telephones, would be great tax relief to the broad number of lower- and middle-class people," said Rep. Charles Rangel of New York, the senior Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee.

Eliminating the tax would reduce government revenue by about $24 billion over five years. Some Democrats and the White House have raised concern about slicing away that money while Social Security still faces future insolvency and Medicare offers no prescription drug benefit.

A Clinton administration statement said repeal was a "worthy policy objective" that must be weighed against these other priorities. "Phasing out of the tax cannot be considered in a vacuum," said senior officials at the White House.

Six people killed in small plane crash at Hobby Airport

HOUSTON (AP) — A team of investigators looking into the crash of a twin-engine airplane that killed six men said wreckage of the downed craft would be moved from the crash site Saturday so they could get a closer look at cockpit instruments, flight controls and other details that might lead them to a cause.

Pilot Kent John Chatagnier of Austin and five passengers died when the airplane crashed and burned after stalling during takeoff at Houston Hobby Airport.

Also killed was Roger Fernandez, 66, chief financial officer of the Galena Park

Independent School District; his brother, Ruben Fernandez; Leroy Johnson, superintendent of the Gregory-Portland Independent School District; Clay Gillis, business manager for the district; and Jim Pfluger, an architect who had been contracted to build a new high school in the district, which is just north of Corpus Christi.

The men were headed for a fishing trip in Louisiana.

Houston Aviation Department spokesman Ernie DeSoto said the plane was about 300 feet in the air just before noon Friday when the engine stalled and the plane nosedived into a grassy area next to runways.

"Apparently it exploded on impact," DeSoto said.

"It was a very violent crash scene," said J.R. Flanagan, a Houston Fire Department assistant chief.

The plane, a 1970 model Beechcraft Baron 55, has a six-person capacity and also was filled with gear. DeSoto would not speculate on whether the aircraft was overloaded, saying that would be determined by investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board.

Investigators from the NTSB, the Federal Aviation Administration, the manufacturer of the plane and one from the maker of the engine also would be looking for signs of whether both engines were producing power when the crash occurred, said Jason Ragogna, an NTSB air safety investigator.

It also will include a check of the aircraft's maintenance record and the pilot's training record, he said.

"The entire investigation takes six months to a year," he said.

"When I leave here, when the entire team leaves here, we will not have a probable cause."

DeSoto said the plane was headed to Galliano, La., about 40 miles southwest of New Orleans.

New Deal wins playoff; now faces Coahoma

New Deal (18-7) earned the spot opposite Coahoma with a 7-1 win over an outclassed Reagan County (18-10) squad. The Lions got a seven-walk no-hitter from junior right-hander Cade Pierce. Pierce gave up a lone run in the first when a walk and an error put a Reagan County runner into scoring position and allowed the Owls to tie the game at 1-1.

New Deal took a 2-1 lead in the third on back-to-back singles by Ramiro Hernandez and Jaime Longoria, with Hernandez scoring on a passed ball.

Hernandez drove in Pierce with another run in the fifth before the Lions iced the game for the District 4-2A runner-up with a four-run seventh.

Borden County's Pepper repeats as state champ in 3,200

From staff and wire reports

AUSTIN—Once again, Borden County distance star Trent Pepper claimed the Class 1A state championship in the boys' 3,200-meter run Friday with a 9:58.69 clocking.

Pepper, who went into Friday's race as the defending champion, was the only Class 1A participant to break the 10-minute barrier in the event.

He would later add a third-place finish in the boys' 1,600 meters, posting a time of 4:35.73 in that event.

Pepper had the most success of the five Crossroads area athletes that qualified for the UIL state track and field championships.

Garden City's M'Lynn Niehues, a member of the Lady Bearkats' state championship 1,600-meter relay team a year ago, was unable to garner gold in her second trip to Austin, but did walk away with the bronze medal in the Class 1A girls' 400 meters, finishing with a time of 1:00.99.

Coahoma's Rachel Williams, the Region 1, Class 2A champion in the 400 meters, finished sixth in the state field, posting a time of 59.54 seconds.

Williams had finished sixth at last year's meet.

Big Spring Lady Steers high jumper Alexis Casillas, having posted a personal best of 5 feet, 5 inches in winning the Region 1, Class 4A high jump two weeks ago, was only able to clear the bar at 5-2 Friday, finishing seventh in the eight-girl field.

Stanton's Jeremy Hull rounded out the Crossroads contingent. He finished eighth in the Class 2A boys' long jump with a 21-13/4 leap.

Otherwise, the meet turned into a showcase for the state's best female athletes.

Luling's Ychindria Spears successfully defended her Class 3A state titles in the long jump, triple jump and 100 meters. The sophomore came just one one-hundredth of a second short from a fourth time when she came in second in the 200 meter dash.

Spears started her dominating day by winning the long jump with a leap of 21 feet, 1 1/2 inches, topping the mark of 20-10 1/4 set a day earlier by Chandi Jones of Bay City.

The jump also qualified the sophomore for the Olympic trials. The qualifying standard is 20-11 1/4.

Spears later set a 3A record in the triple jump at 42-0 1/2 to top her own mark of 41-8 1/2 set last year.

After winning the 100 in 11.98 seconds, she came up just short in the 200 when she staggered down the last 20 meters to finish in 24.50 seconds, a hair behind Meoucha Davis of Giddings who won in 24.49.

"My goal over my junior and senior seasons is to get better in every event each year," Spears said.

"Right now, I'm just a threat in each event. By the time I'm a senior, I want to walk out and know for a fact that I'm going to win each event."

Spears' efforts carried Luling to the girls' 3A team title with 62 points, well ahead of second place Wills Point which finished with 48.

Sonora no match for Bulldogs

By JOHN A. MOSELEY
Managing Editor

ABILENE — Coahoma's Bulldogs were nothing short of intimidating Friday and Saturday, as they swept the first two games in a best-of-three Class 2A area baseball playoff series from Sonora's Broncos, romping to 10-0 and 11-3 victories at McMurry University's Walt Driggers Field.

"So much for people thinking we don't have anybody to throw at them but Delvin (White)," Bulldogs head coach Scott Lewis said after watching senior right-hander Aaron Ovale scatter four Sonora hits and strike out 13 in going the distance for Saturday's Game 2 win.

The Broncos had hoped winning a coin toss and forcing Coahoma to play a best-of-three series would give them a better chance of advancing to the regional quarterfinals than rolling all the dice against White, the Bulldogs' hard throwing lefthanded ace.

"It was scary for a while there ... they just kept answering us," Lewis said, especially when Ovale found himself protecting a 5-3 lead with one out and runners at the corners in the top of the fifth inning. "I was just about ready to bring Delvin in, but Aaron took care of all that."

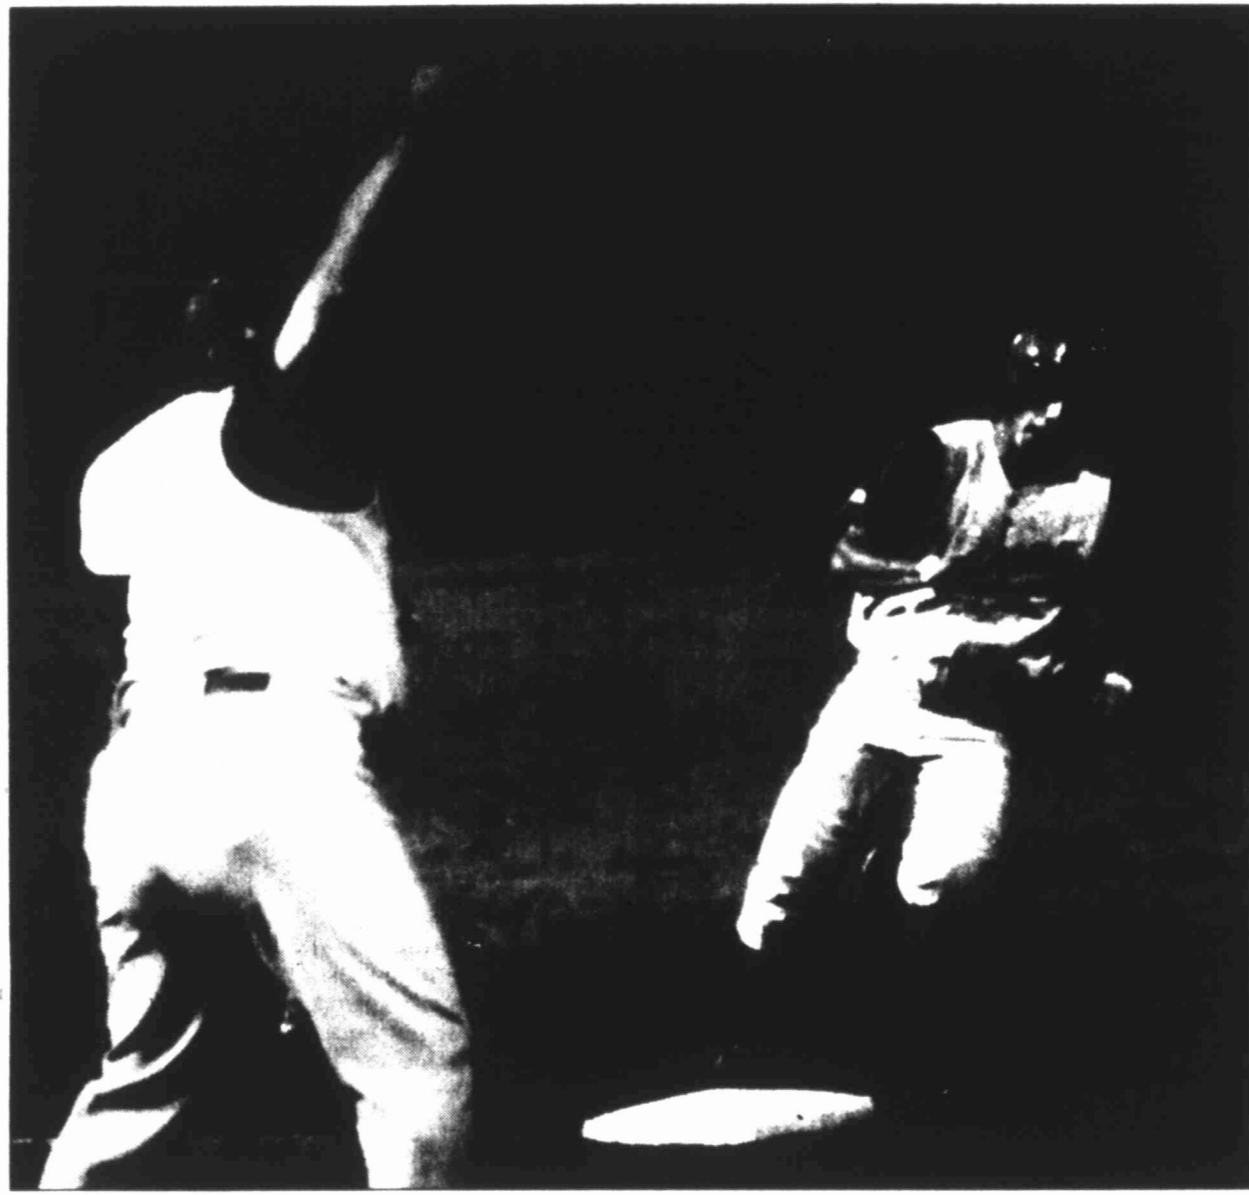

Indeed, All Ovale did was strike out Sonora third baseman Crispin Lira and pick Broncos catcher Javier Gayton off at first to end the threat.

Lewis' concerns became a moot point in the bottom of the sixth inning when the Bulldogs chased Sonora's Jerad Solis from the mound and then roughed up reliever Edgar Gonzalez to score six more runs, ending any hope the Broncos might have had for a seventh-inning miracle.

As a result, the Bulldogs improved to 24-5 on the season and advance to the Region 1, Class 2A quarterfinals where they'll face New Deal's Lions, who eliminated Reagan County's Owls with a 7-1 area win Friday afternoon at Jack Barber Field.

That regional quarterfinal will more than likely take place at Snyder's Moffett Field on Tuesday. New Deal coaches are expected to insist on another best-of-three series, while Lewis says he'd rather play a one-game affair.

"I'm pretty sure they (Lions coaches) are going to want to Coahoma's Mario Garcia rounds third base as Bulldogs head coach Scott Lewis waves him home during the fifth inning of Friday's 10-0 area playoff win over Sonora's Broncos. Garcia scored the Bulldogs' seventh run of the game on Aaron Ovale's two-out double. Coahoma swept the best-of-three series with Sonora with an 11-3 win Saturday and now face New Deal in the regional quarterfinals.

play two-of-three ... we don't," Lewis explained. "We'll just have to wait and see whether or not I lose the coin flip again."

While Ovale was spectacular in his distance-going win Saturday, White made it clear Sonora coaches knew what they were doing when they insisted on playing a best-of-three series by posting an 18-strikeout, two-hit shutout in Game 1 Friday night.

In fact, the fireballing lefty was perfect through 42/3 innings before giving up a walk to Solis with two gone in the bottom of the fifth inning.

Frustrated by missing his chance, White's next throw was to first base, picking off Solis and ending the inning.

The Broncos finally thwarted the Bulldog ace's bid for a no-hitter in the seventh inning with a pair of infield singles by Ubaldo Vega and Bryce Williams, but White responded by striking out the next three batters he faced to end the game.

Not only did White preserve the shutout, but refused to let the Broncos ever get the ball out of the infield.

The Bulldogs offensive output of 23 hits and 21 runs in two games may have been a bigger thrill for Lewis than his pitchers' accomplishments.

"We really hit the ball ... hit it well," Lewis admitted. "We've played two games in an area playoff and we've already scored more runs and had more hits than we did throughout the playoffs last year."

The Bulldogs got the only run White would need in the top of the first inning when center fielder Mario Garcia led off with a double to the left field power alley fence and scored on a first baseman Travis McMillan's single to right.

Coahoma left fielder Joe Wright opened a two-run rally in the top of the second when he led off with a single to left. Lance Monteleone then reached base on an error and with one out, Garcia returned to the plate and lined an RBI single up the middle.

Another Sonora error would allow McMillan to reach first, loading the bases and Ovale followed with a ground ball to short that scored Monteleone.

All but one of the Bulldogs' batters managed a hit in the 11-hit attack.

In the third, Colby Ditto singled with one out and moved to second when Wright was hit by a pitch. With two gone, right fielder Cody Teeler singled up the middle to plate both runners, who'd moved into scoring position moments earlier on a wild pitch.

With White literally mowing down the Sonora lineup, the Bulldogs made it 8-0 in the

Sixers keep hopes alive with victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers haven't lost their fighting spirit. Unfortunately for the Indiana Pacers, neither has Reggie Miller.

Philadelphia kept its season alive Saturday with a 92-90 victory over Indiana in a fight-marred Game 4. The Sixers still trail 3-1 in the best-of-seven series.

Travis Best missed two long jumpers in the final seconds, including a 3-pointer as time expired that could have ended the series. The Pacers rallied from an 18-point deficit to lead by five after Miller and Philadelphia's Matt Geiger were ejected with 1:19 left in the third quarter.

Both are subject to suspensions for the next game Monday.

Tyrone Hill put back Allen Iverson's miss to give the 76ers a 91-90 lead with 42 seconds left. Jalen Rose missed a layup with 8.9 seconds left, and Toni Kukoc was fouled after he grabbed the rebound. He made one free throw to make it 92-90 with 8.5 seconds left.

Best barely missed both shots in the final seconds, sending the series back to Indiana for Game 5.

Iverson scored 19 points and Hill 18 to lead the Sixers, who were swept by Indiana last season.

But they could well be forced to play without Miller in Game 5. After Geiger knocked Miller to the floor late in the third quarter, Geiger's second flagrant foul, Miller retaliated. He rushed Geiger and took a swipe at the 7-footer's face, connecting with a left hand.

Both players were ejected with 1:19 left in the third and the Sixers leading 79-61.

Miller's ejection invigorated the Pacers. Indiana scored 10 straight to end the quarter and five more to open the fourth, closing to 79-76 on a 3-pointer by Rose.

Hill ended the 15-0 run with a dunk and a free throw to complete a three-point play, giving the Sixers an 82-76 lead. Philadelphia went 5-03 without a point.

But Indiana, playing with Rose and four subs, wouldn't go away. Chris Mullin tied the game at 85-85 with a 3-pointer with 4:25 left. Best's driving

Love, Huston tied for lead going into final round of Nelson

IRVING (AP) — The wind changed, and so did the fortunes of Davis Love III in the Byron Nelson Classic.

Love lost his four-stroke lead and had to scramble for a 1-over 71 to regain a share of the lead with John Huston on Saturday. In the process, he brought a bunch of other players back into the picture — perhaps even Tiger Woods and David Duval.

After struggling all day to gauge a strong wind that came from the opposite direction, Love made birdie from the bunker on the par-5 16th and finished at 10-under 200 with Huston, who had a 3-under 67 on another tough day for scoring.

"I hit it just as good," Love said. "I just didn't hit the right club three or four times. You start second-guessing yourself. I lost some confidence because I got surprised."

Jesper Parnevik, trying to win for the second time this year, had a 68 and was three strokes back. Phil Mickelson also had a 68 and was at 206.

"Phil and Jesper are right where they wanted to be — three or four back, which is well within reach," Love said. "And John did what he wanted to do — catch up. It should be a good race."

Three Texans — Mark Brooks, Paul Stankowski and Bob Estes — were at 205.

Woods and Duval, the top two players in the world ranking, were at 203 and will be paired alone together in the final round for the first time in their career.

"Each day, I've felt better," said Woods, who birdied two of the last three holes for his second straight 3-under 67. "I hate to say it, but it feels like I'm getting my competitive edge back."

Duval, who had a 68, and Woods were in a threesome in the final round of the Nissan Open, although neither made a run. That might be the case again Sunday, depending on Love and Huston, and the Texas wind that made the TPC at Las Colinas play entirely different than the first two rounds.

Parnevik hit a wedge into the 490-yard third hole with gusts behind him. On Saturday, he had to rip a 5-wood just to reach the green.

"The course played a lot tougher in this wind," he said. "Still, he liked his chances a lot better at the end of a blustery day."

"It's nice to have only two guys in front of you," he said. "When it's like that, anybody can win."

Love could have changed all that. His four-stroke lead after Friday was largest in tournament history after two rounds, and he kept that cushion until the wind started playing tricks on him.

Love had only two decent birdie chances on the front nine, and most of the time had to make 4- and 6-footers just to save par. Huston didn't hit the ball nearly as well as Love off the tee — or as long — but he gave himself more birdie opportunities and converted.

Love finally lost his lead on No. 14. He was 170 yards from the hole and selected an 8-iron, turning to his caddie to say, "At least I can't fly this green."

Wrong. It sailed some 30 yards over, behind a cluster of flowers. Love chipped up the hill and over the green and made a nice chip for bogey. But Huston holed an 8-footer for birdie and a two-shot swing.

Huston had only one such problem, blasting out of the rough on the par-5 16th and causing the gallery to scatter like birds. He had to settle for par on the easiest hole on the course, while Love got up-and-down from the bunker to forge a tie.

"There was nothing I could do about 'Davis. I had to stick to my game plan," said Huston, whose last victory was the Disney Classic in 1998. "I'm very satisfied."

Junior hits two homers in Reds' win over Astros

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ken Griffey Jr. hit two home runs, including a two-out, two-run shot in the ninth inning Saturday that gave the Cincinnati Reds their sixth straight victory, 8-7 over the Houston Astros.

Michael Tucker, Griffey and Dmitri Young hit consecutive homers in the eighth that tied it at 6. Houston took the lead in the bottom half on Richard Hidalgo's RBI double.

Astros closer Billy Wagner got two quick outs in the ninth before walking pinch-hitter Dante Bichette. Griffey connected on an 0-2 pitch, hitting a drive into the right-field seats for his 12th home run.

Griffey, who entered the game hitting .176 (6-for-34) during May, also had a run-scoring double and finished with four RBIs. It was his 42nd career multihomer game.

The Astros loaded the bases with one out in the ninth before Scott Williamson got pinch-hitter Russ Johnson to ground into a game-ending double play.

Dennys Reyes (1-1) was the winner and Williamson got his fifth save. Wagner (1-2) blew a save chance for the second straight day.

first appeared to be in time, but first base umpire Ron Kulpa called Hunter safe.

The Giants erased a five-run deficit behind seventh-inning home runs by Bonds and Rich Aurilia, but it wasn't enough as San Francisco lost for the fifth time in 19 games.

Todd Helton, the National League RBI leader, went 2-for-3 with a solo homer for Colorado and raised his major league leading average to .414 (53-for-128). He is hitting .536 (30-for-53) at Coors Field.

The Rockies improved to 11-4 at home and scored in double figures for the sixth straight game at Coors Field.

Helton's solo homer, his 13th, gave the Rockies a 9-4 lead in the sixth, but Rockies starter Pedro Astacio could not hold on as he missed a chance to set Colorado's career victory record.

bleachers for his eighth home run of the season. He also doubled twice and had four RBIs.

With runners at the corners in the eighth, Braden Loper struck out pinch-hitters Mike Piazza and Jon Nunnally.

Antonio Alfonseca, Florida's fifth pitcher, got three outs for his 13th save in 14 chances. He gave up an RBI single to Edgardo Alfonzo, then struck out pinch-hitter Mike Hampton.

Indians 7, Royals 6
David Justice's two-run single with one out in the 12th inning Saturday rallied the Cleveland Indians to their third straight victory, 7-6 over the Kansas City Royals.

Justice slapped a single off Jose Santiago just inside the bag at third for Cleveland, which trailed 5-2 after seven innings before scoring twice in the eighth and tying it in the ninth on Richie Sexson's leadoff homer off Ricky Bottalico.

Dave McCarty's RBI double off Steve Reed (1-0) in the top of the 12th gave the Royals a 6-5 lead before the Indians came back again.

STATE MEET

Hamlin's Tiffany Green was just as dominant in Class 2A. She defended her state titles in the 100 and 200 meters. Her time of 11.62 in the 100 shattered the mark of 11.80 shared by Angelia Allen of Universal City Randolph (1995) and Schreese Vanibus (1990).

After winning the 200 with a time of 23.78, Green capped a spectacular day when her blazing anchor leg in the 4x400 relay propelled Hamlin to the winning time of 3:55.69.

Green was in second and about 15 meters back when she got the baton and the last exchange and quickly closed the gap in the first turn. A final burst in the home stretch allowed her to pass Spearman's Stephanie Bynum about 50 meters from the finish line.

"If feels good to accomplish this as a senior because a lot of people said I had already peaked," said Green, who will run for Texas Tech in college. "I proved I still have new heights I can reach."

Spearman won the girls' 2A title with 55 points despite winning just one event. Spearman won the 4x200 relay when Shamus Lewis, McCain, Mayes and Willie Hodge circled the track in 3:15.77.

Class 5A Klein Forest's Lejuan Simon set a new record for all classes in the boys' tripled jump with a leap of 51-1, topping the old mark of 50-10/4 set in 1995 by E.J. Hill of Klein Oak.

Karen Honea of Ingram Moore set a 3A record in the girls' discus with a throw of 153 feet, nine inches. The previous record of 151-4 was set in 1996 by Precious Thibodeaus of Van Vleet.

Class 4A, which started Friday but had competition delayed because of lightning, finished Saturday morning with Austin Reagan (57 points) and Houston Forest Brook (48 points), winning the boys' and girls' team titles, respectively.

Austin Reagan won the girls' title on the strength of its relay teams. Laprecia Harvey, Natashia Franklin, Ladonna Moore and Angela Taylor won the 4x100 in a 4A record of 46.31, breaking the old mark of 46.60 set by Jasper in 1991.

Moore, Sonia Brantley, Taylor and Franklin followed that by setting a 4A record in the 4x200 in 1:38.79. Dallas Spruce set the old mark of 1:38.82 in 1998.

Ivory McCain won the 400 meters for Houston Forest Brook's boys team in 46.73 seconds and Adrian Mayes won the 110-meter high hurdles in 13.71. Houston Forest Brook also won the 4x400 relay when Shamus Lewis, McCain, Mayes and Willie Hodge circled the track in 3:15.77.

Jackie Bagnall IS Big Spring's busiest mom!

Once she gets her kids to bed in the evenings and takes a quick nap, it might be off to the stores for one Big Spring mom: She occasionally does her grocery shopping in the middle of the night. Or maybe this night she will just throw in a couple of loads of clothes and do some cleaning.

What she cannot get done during the day, this mother of two young children often relegates to the nighttime hours.

Besides working full-time, this mother takes her children to all their activities, including T-ball, swimming lessons and watching their cousins participate in sports. If this mom finds something going on that her kids might enjoy, she takes them to that, too.

Birthday parties for the kids are something special — no super-market cakes here. This mom makes them homemade.

On the weekends, she makes other homemade treats for her family and friends. She runs errands for her parents and mother-in-law, and still finds time to participate in fundraisers for good causes like the recent MS Walk.

Those are a few reasons Jackie Bagnall was chosen Big Spring's Busiest Mom.

Married to Keith, a counselor at Big Spring High School, Jackie has two children, Dillon John, 5, and Erin Nicole, 2-1/2.

"Anybody that knows her will tell you what a special person Jackie is," said her mother, Mary Ray. She and Jackie's sister, Penny Phillips conspired to nominate Jackie in the Big Spring Herald contest.

Now the Bagnalls will be off to KC Steakhouse for an evening out — dinner for two donated by the restaurant. Jackie will also get a massage from Sharon Smith, RMT, and Faye's Flowers will deliver a fresh arrangement to her office on Monday.

"She lives her life for everyone else," said her sister, Penny Phillips. "She works so hard every day and in the evenings. I don't know how she does it, sheer determination I guess."

Jackie, who was interviewed on the ruse of a story about working mothers, said her job is made easier with help from her husband.

"I do let things go, like housework," she said. "I would rather spend the time with my kids."

She also spreads out her vacation days into short breaks rather than several weeks at a time. She uses a calendar to keep up with the family's activities, and occasionally does say "no" to requests to join committees or participate in special projects.

"It's a hard job," she admitted. "But it is so rewarding. And it's a lot of fun."

Runners-up

Susan Palmer and Valerie Avery were named runners-up in the busiest mom contest.

Nominated by her husband, Clarence, Susan Palmer is mother to Brianna, 8, and Kylie, 6 months. Last November, just four weeks after giving birth, Susan returned to Sul Ross University in Alpine to take the exams required for her master's degree in school administration. She also holds a master's in counseling and is a licensed professional counselor.

This summer, Susan plans to take another exam for her counseling work, in addition to serving as Vacation Bible School director for her church.

Susan Palmer

Valerie Avery

Valerie Avery is mother to four, ages 9, 7, 5, and 2. She works part-time at the Big Spring State Hospital as public information coordinator and does free-lance writing for the Herald among other publications.

Her husband, Jimmy, said, "I don't know how she keeps up this pace. I am so lucky to have her share her life with me and take care of us. I love her so much."

Many other deserving women were nominated by their family and friends to be named "Big Spring's Busiest Mom."

Excerpts from some of the other nominations follow.

"Our daughter Darla June Estell is the busiest mom in Big Spring. She is a wife and mom of four daughters. Her day begins about 4:30 a.m. when she gets ready for work, does a couple loads of clothes. Then she gets two of her daughters up for breakfast. After her day is winding down, she gathers up her 2-year-old and reads her a story and rocks her to sleep."

—Darlene Hipp

"My mother has been through a great deal the last couple of months, and yet she keeps on going. My mother works non stop and never complains. I just believe that she needs one day to celebrate her work, at least one night where her worries can disappear."

—Brandy Kinsey

"Her name is Lynne Chalker and first of all she has five kids. She takes us to and from school and other activities, brings my brother lunch at school at least twice a week and finds time to get together art projects to do with our classes. While she is busy doing that, she finds time to cook dinner almost every night and then cleans the kitchen and stays up late cleaning up."

—Lynsey Chalker

"Evelyn (Bennett) is my aunt, but in my heart, she is my second mother. In 1991, at age 11, I was diagnosed with cancer. Evelyn would go home, clean house and get her kids ready for school, then come over and stay with me until she had to go to her job. She did this for the entire year. When I got bored, she would take me for drives in the country and around town. When I started to lose my hair, she took me to Wal-Mart and bought me a hat to wear. I will never forget all the love and support she gave to me and my family, nor the good times we shared."

—Lisa Boyd

"My sister-in-law, Sheri Nichols, is married to Darrell Nichols and has two boys, Justin and Jacob. She works full time as a registered nurse at Best Home Care, has been actively involved in the American Little League for numerous years, and has helped to keep the Howard County Youth Baseball League the last few years, even though she does not have a child playing there. And above all these things, she is always there when you need her, personally or professionally. The only thing Sheri has bigger than her schedule is her heart of gold."

—Twila Wegner

"My daughter, Paula Hunt, is the busiest mom in Howard County. She is a senior at Angelo State University, works at the Dora Roberts Rehab Center as their Fitness Director. She is the mother of two, Kaegan, 10 and Kenzie, 8. In her spare time, Paula is the coach of a Coahoma girls softball team. Even though she is very, very busy, she never lets a day go by without calling to say, 'I love you, Mom.'"

"Kris (Moore) is the single mother of three boys, Brent, Casey and Sklyer; I have never seen her sit down. Besides being Mom and working, she also volunteers her time at First Baptist Church and is on the board of directors of the Rape Crisis Center. She manages to do it all with a smile on her face."

Congratulations to all of our busiest mom nominees. You all do a great job, every day, and deserve a very special Mother's Day!

My cookbook collection has some very distinguished members

I am so proud of my personal cookbook collection at home, that I could just bust.

Only recently I received a most coveted one that came to me from Avery Island, La. "A Gentlemen's Guide to Memorable Hospitality" written by Marine Brigadier General Walter McIlhenny.

The good general was the founder of the famous hot stuff called Tabasco Chili Pepper Sauce. This book is one of my favorites, among an entire slew of recipe collections. They repose on a shelf in my kitchen pantry.

I have several chili cookbooks, of which I am very proud. One is by the late cowboy cartoonist Ace Reid. I picked it up somewhere for 50 cents.

It's a small orange-colored book that has just gotta be a collectors item now. It has Mr. Reid's Texas Chili Recipe for one thing, along with his Texas Sour Dough Formula, starter and all.

I have several by "Frugal

Gourmet"

Jeff Smith. One of my favorites is by "Alaganie Janie" from San Antonio, with her "Hot Pants" chili recipe.

Also, I have several ring-binder books going back to the Neanderthal era, when some caveman accidentally dropped a piece of meat in the fire, thereby creating the very first barbecue, an event just as historic as the wheel invention.

One of these ring-binder jobs is my own, titled "Al Cooks Chili At The Rusty Bucket Saloon."

I wonder if any Big Springers remember the Rusty Bucket Saloon. It was out on West Highway 87, but the building has since been torn down.

I am certain many of our bikers remember the Bucket.

Former Marine Jesse Shrum was the first owner-bartender out there. Jesse was his own bouncer for awhile, then my number two son Glen Scott took over as bartender and bouncer.

Cavorting out there with all that great crowd was such fun for all of us.

Later the Bucket was taken over by the now late Harry Hepner and his wife Cindy ran it for a time. "Uncle Al" Scott cooked his chili there each

Saturday night for a number of years. (circa 1987-88).

Some joker put a sign on the door of the entrance: "ARE YOU CARRYING A FIREARM?" Then in smaller letters: "See the bartender and one will be given to you."

The notorious Rusty Bucket should, in my humble opinion, have a Historical Marker out at its former location.

The noble bar with its crowd of characters was all such great fun.

Al Scott's columns appear regularly in the Big Spring Herald.

With never-say-never attitudes, these four Texas Moms pursue their passions

EL PASO (AP) — One went to law school at the age of 36 and became a federal prosecutor. One is graduating from college alongside her graduate-student daughter. Another, a longtime schoolteacher, threw herself into politics and became a mayor in her 50s. Still another became a newspaper reporter at 52.

Four Texas moms, all refusing to believe they were too old or too busy or too tired or too anything. Each, with children in school or already grown, followed her heart and reinvented herself.

Jan Bonner's friends thought she was crazy.

A year after her divorce, the day after her 36th birthday, the stay-at-home mom of 10 years started law school.

"I had a great aunt who lived to be 113, and I thought, 'If I have any of her genes, I have to find something I want to do for a long time,'" jokes Bonner, now a federal prosecutor.

Bonner, 56, taught high school P.E. for a couple of years after her first daughter was born, but decided to stay home once the family moved from Bloomington, Ill., to San Antonio.

Ten years later, when her younger daughter was 6 and entering first grade, Bonner enrolled at St. Mary's University School of Law. While she studied, her older daughter, then a teen-ager, helped out with errands and shopping.

Though they saw a lot less of their mom, the two girls kept a sense of humor: On the day Bonner finished the bar exam, her daughters put a sign on the lawn that said, "Now will you fix dinner?"

Today, 17 years later, Bonner is an assistant U.S. attorney specializing in immigration law in El Paso. She got remarried on her 50th birthday to a civil defense lawyer she first laid eyes on in court — his case was interrupted so the judge could swear her in.

Even with an infant son at home, Diana De Leon pushed herself to go to night school and get her GED.

After working at a bakery and a department store, she taught herself to type so she could land a better job. She then offered to work for free for a month at a laboratory to prove she'd make a good secretary.

Now, at age 51, after raising two children and working as a secretary for 20 years, the Harlingen woman is graduating from the University of Texas at Brownsville alongside her daughter, Cyndi, who is earning her master's degree.

Diana has managed to complete her bachelor's in psychology even while caring for Cyndi, who has rheumatoid arthritis, and for several other family members who were ill.

Diana now wants to go to work to help others, perhaps the elderly or at-risk teens.

"I want to give back," she says, "by doing something to help someone who's maybe in our situation or do something to help whoever needs it."

John Sitton knew his mother as a teacher and a counselor. But in 1996, when she was 52, she told him she was running for mayor of a city of 200,000.

"He said, 'Mother, go for it,'" recalls Windy Sitton, the first female mayor of Lubbock. "He was very proud of me."

Sitton, now 56, taught high school English and history in Denton and Carrollton, a suburb of Dallas, before moving to Lubbock in 1986. There she started a company to restore historical homes. Noticing the improvements she made, a neighborhood association asked her to run for City Council.

By that time, in 1994, her son was a 29-year-old college graduate working in sales.

Sitton hadn't even finished her first term when the mayor's seat came open.

Deciding whether to "go for it" was not easy. Even some of her closest friends were skeptical, offering warnings such as, "I don't think they're ready for a woman mayor," and "I don't want you to get hurt."

But Sitton trusted her instincts.

"It's just been a rewarding

Texas moms plan rally in Houston against guns today

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas women who can't make it to the Million Mom March in Washington today will have a rally of their own.

Hundreds of women were expected to gather today at Houston's Market Square Park for a rally against gun violence. They'll be the Texas component of a movement of mothers outraged by weapons-related violence in schools, hoping to pressure Congress into passing gun control laws.

The Houston rally, scheduled for 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., will feature U.S. Rep. Sheila Jackson Lee, D-Houston, and others.

Helen Chan, Million Mom March Houston coordinator, told the Houston Chronicle in Friday's editions that nearly 600 women have registered for the event.

"The goal is to put enough pressure on our lawmakers so the ones that are not responding to public desires know that they will no longer be in office," Chan told the paper. "That then lets the NRA and the gun lobby know that we as mothers and as voters expect democracy."

She said a smaller group will travel to Washington to participate in the main march. About 200,000 women are expected to march on the U.S. Capitol for Mother's Day.

Houston marchers plan to walk to the old Harris County Courthouse and back to Market Square. Unable to secure a march permit, however, the group will have to use sidewalks.

Among issues the women are pushing for are the enactment of weapons control laws that would require background checks for gun show purchases, safety locks for all handguns and a one-handgun-per-month limit on sales to individuals.

During the six weeks of training, the airmen studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

The Cobbs are the sons of Joyce McCalister of Midland and the grandsons of Elnora McCalister of Stanton. Justin is a 1999 graduate of Stanton High School and Chester is a 1998 graduate of Stanton High School.

Seattle's high-tech bachelors are romantically challenged

SEATTLE (AP) — Single white geek looking for mate who likes pizza by the light of a PC and crunching numbers past midnight, and won't mind sharing me with 80-hour-a-week career.

That's the plaintive cry among a lot of Seattle-area techies who are too busy trying to build start-ups, develop killer applications and count their stock options to have a love life.

Kevin Adams co-founded an Internet start-up three years ago and routinely put in 80-hour weeks, with no weekends, before the company went belly-up 18 months ago. As for romance, forget it.

"For the first six months, I basically did nothing but work," he said.

Adams, 34, of suburban Bellevue, is now at Amazon.com and clocks in a mere 60 hours a week. But finding time for romance is still tough.

"You look at it and say, 'Is it worth working a couple of years for the opportunity to retire early?'" Adams said during a recent outing organized by a singles club.

The abundance of young, eligible techies with no time for romance has spawned a plethora of singles clubs and online dating services in this high-tech mecca.

Dante Martin said the Seattle singles Web site he co-founded eight months ago, SinglesinSeattle.com, averages more than 6,000 visits a day.

"Our target audience is the rookies in their careers working 80 hours a week," said Martin, a senior at the University of Washington business school. "They're very techno-savvy."

Tom Lee, a life and relationship coach who teaches a class for singles at Discover U, a Seattle-based professional and personal-development learning program, said most are searching for low-maintenance relationships.

"Most high-tech people are so busy and so fulfilled in their work, they want to download. They don't want to upload," he said. "If they're in a relationship that doesn't help them, they really don't want the extra pressure."

The Puget Sound area is home to some 14,000 computer-related companies. Microsoft, the largest, employs 40 percent of the region's software workforce, with about 17,000 employees at its headquarters in suburban Redmond.

It's important: Although women should get an initial mammogram by age 40, it's especially crucial for older women to have regular screenings because the risk of developing breast cancer increases with age. Women ages 40 or above should have annual screenings, because early detection is a key factor in successful treatment.

Medicare will pay for an annual mammogram for eligible women.

Commissioners unanimously approve new changes to Lotto Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Lottery Commission on Friday unanimously approved changes to Lotto Texas that are expected to make the twice-weekly game harder to win, but make for larger jackpots that spark more sales. The three-member commission voted to add four balls to the 7-year-old game in an attempt to increase sales that have been consistently declining for the past three years. Lotto Texas sales of $11.2 million for the first 36 weeks of the fiscal year were down 23 percent compared with the same period last year. "We hope the people Texas like this new game," said Commissioner C. Thomas Clowe of Waco. "We're enthusiastic about the results that are being created here today and they will benefit all." Commissioners Betsy Whitaker, of Dallas, and Anthony J. SADBERRY, of Cypress, voted without comment. Before the vote, the commission heard testimony from the president of the Texas Lottery Retailers Association, who said a survey of members showed they favored the change. Not everyone was excited about the increased odds.

"I think the Lottery Commission has made a bad mistake. I believe Texans will quit playing with the four balls," said Dawn Nettles, publisher of the independent Lotto Report in Dallas. "I hope the people will now act. I hope they all quit." Nettles said her subscribers have told her that if the balls were added and the game became harder to win, they would stop purchasing tickets. The harder-to-win game could begin as soon as mid-July, the commission said. Increasing the number of balls to 54 in the Lotto will shrink the odds of winning the jackpot from 1 in 15.8 million to 1 in 25.8 million. With fewer winners, the commission predicts the average jackpot will increase from $11 million to $19 million in a year while increasing overall ticket sales by $11 million annually. "The odds for winning the top prize will be a little more difficult than what they were but as you saw during the record Big Game jackpot, nobody played for the odd. Everybody played for the jackpot amount and that's what we believe will be happening here in Texas," said lottery spokesman Keith Elkins.

Last Tuesday's the multistate Big Game $363 million jackpot was the largest in U.S. history. No multistate games are played in Texas. Under the Lotto changes approved Friday, players who match five of six numbers will win an estimated $2,500, up from the current $1,500. Four of six numbers will reap a $105 prize, up from the current $100, and the three of six prize will increase $2 to $5, according to the commission. Elkins said no specific marketing plans were in place yet, but that the commission will place emphasis on the anticipated higher jackpots.

Teal Carpets moves to new location in Big Spring

Teal Carpets, formerly at 3217 East FM 700, has moved to their new location at 2810 FM 700 and is ready to serve everyone's carpet needs. Owner Dillard Teal, who opened up his first carpet store here about a year and half ago, said he is here in Big Spring for the long run. "We bought this building and we plan on staying around here for a long time," said Teal. "We are not a fly-by-night operation." Teal was in the carpet business in Snyder for 23 years before deciding to open shop here in Big Spring. He said he has competitive prices with other area carpet outlets. "I will tell you, if you come see us before you buy elsewhere, we will do what we can to meet or beat that price," said Teal. "We may not make anything on the deal but we will do what is necessary to get you as one of our customers." Teal said he has experienced carpet layers ready and able to lay carpet after the purchase. Technology revealed for inexpensive, easy monitoring of wells

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — For many years, the only way for energy-company employees to check the operation of an oil or gas well was to drive into the field and look at the gauges. No more. In another example of the way the Internet is changing the workplace, technological improvements have made remote monitoring affordable even for small independent producers. The newest gadgets were demonstrated this week at a special conference on Internet technology sponsored by the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association. Aurion Technologies of Dallas installs well-monitoring systems for $1,500 to $3,400 per well and charges monthly fees ranging from $40 to $140. The company installs a computer that reads the gauges, and the information is transmitted to Aurion's headquarters and downloaded from the Internet for clients on a daily or instantaneous basis. The system flashes a pager alarm to the operator in the event of trouble, such as a leak or sudden drop in pressure. Dennis McLaughlin, founder and president of the company, said it is monitoring about 1,400 wells and the potential "is tremendous." "The big majors have been able to do this for years, using secure telephone lines," McLaughlin said. "The Internet now gives us a way to get the information to our clients." Regulators are also using the See TECHNOLOGY, Page 5B

Time to begin preparing for pecan casenut bearer

The pecan casenut bearer is found in almost all areas of pecan production. This pest can be very detrimental to pecan production. The casenut bearer larvae feed on pecan nut. The first generation larvae feed on small nutlets from May to June. The first generation is the one that does the primary damage. The adult casebearer is a gray moth about one-third inches long. A ridge of dark scales runs across the forewings. The moths are active only at night. Most eggs will be found on the tip of the nutlets. Each female lays 50 to 150 eggs during her five to eight day life. Casebearer eggs hatch in four to five days and larvae start feeding immediately. The pecan casenut bearer completes several generations each year, but by far the most important is the first and second generations. According to traps located at several locations around the county, there has been a large influx of moths the first week of May; therefore, now would be the best time to treat. Treatment for second generation larvae should be made around June 15. Life cycle is approximately every 42 days. There are many products that are available that will do an exceptional job on control of the pest. Be sure to follow recommended labeled rates and instructions. David Kight is the County Extension Agent, agriculture.

Area 4-H members fare well in livestock judging

Area 4-H members from District 6 competed in their annual livestock judging contest recently. Howard County 4-H sent senior and junior teams and three individuals. The senior team was made up of Megan Knight, Blake Coates, Ricky Crawford and Kyle Kight. Cody McCann and Rusty Crawford competed as individuals. On the junior level, the team consisted of Meagan Kothman, Trevor Bibb, Travis Roberts and Terrell Bibb. Nathan Sellars competed as an individual. The senior contest was tough competition, with Howard County 4-H going back and forth in the lead with Glasscock and Andrews counties. Meagan Knight led the way, placing as third-high individual in the beef classes and fifth high individual in reasons classes, giving her the overall fourth position in the competition. Kyle Kight was recognized in the sheep division for being the fourth-high individual. As a team, Howard County placed

Fiesta Dodge welcomes new general manager, sales manager, financial director

By CARL GRAHAM
Staff Writer

Fiesta Dodge, located at 502 East FM 700, is sporting a new look with the recent hiring of a new general manager, a new sales manager and a new financial director. The new GM is Dave Welling, who comes to Fiesta Dodge from All-American Chevrolet in San Angelo. Welling said this is a job he has always wanted, being a general manager. "We are very happy to be in Big Spring," said Welling. "We have a good client base here and everyone is just so friendly. We like the size of Big Spring and plan on getting involved in the community once things start to slow down a little around here." Also making a change in employers is his wife, Heidi, who comes to Fiesta Dodge after a five-year stint with Autoplex in San Angelo as finance manager. "I have been in some sort of banking business my whole career," said Heidi. "We are both looking forward to being a part of the community and in being here for your car needs." Welling said the most important thing to him is customer satisfaction. "Service is our highest priority," said Welling. "If you treat your customers right and with respect, they come back next time when it is time to trade. That is how you get repeat business." Welling, who spent three years at All-American Chevrolet, said the reason he came here is because of a change in direction the dealership is taking. "We plan on making a bigger presence in the market place," said Welling. "We have a lot of things in the works, but stay tuned. One of the things currently being worked is the pavement of the lots, which when completed will be a big plus." Welling said they plan on carrying a lot more inventory in the future and being more competitive. He brought a native resident of Big Spring with him to be his sales manager. "One of the first things I did is hire Arthur Barrera," said Welling. "I met Arthur at a hockey game in San Angelo and sort of brought him into the business. He was with me at All-American Chevrolet and was a good choice for the sales manager job." Barrera, a 1995 graduate of Big Spring High School, is happy to be back home. "It's good to be back closer to home and we plan on bringing back the trust in us that Fiesta Dodge once had," said Barrera. "We plan on bringing back some of our old customers and giving these folks some good deals on both new and used cars. If we have an auto in stock that you like, you can almost negotiate your own terms on it." Barrera said that prior to getting into the automobile dealership business he was a teller at Norwest Bank in San Angelo. He likes the change and looks forward to serving some of his old friends. "If they will just give us a chance, we will make it worth their time to check us out before going elsewhere to do their car shopping," said Barrera. "That's all anyone can ask."

Internet. The Texas Railroad Commission was represented at the conference in Dallas, showing off its new online well-perforation system.

More than 200 independent producers attended the conference and were intrigued by what the Internet can do for their businesses, which were rocked by low prices for crude oil in 1998 and early 1999.

"There is an urgent need to use computer and Internet technology to the fullest," said Scott Anderson, executive vice president of the Texas independent producers' group.

Some companies are using the Internet to diversify.

Midland-based Geospectrum, which has provided well-reservoir data for eight years, began using the Internet to transmit the information to clients. When the energy industry cratered in late 1997, the company put its computer savvy to work and became an Internet service provider.

"We did this to provide jobs and work for laid-off engineers in the Midland-Odessa area," said W. Hoxie Smith, vice president of Geospectrum. "It just grew. Right now, it's a lot easier to sell Internet access than oil and gas reservoir services."

Domestic rig count down three to 830

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of rigs actively exploring for oil and natural gas in the United States fell this week by three to 830.

Of the rigs running nationwide, 196 were exploring for oil and 634 were looking for gas. Houston-based Baker Hughes Inc. reported Friday. The year-ago total was 507.

Baker Hughes has kept track of the count since 1944. The tally peaked at 4,530 on Dec. 28, 1981, during the height of the oil boom but set several record lows last year, bottoming out at 488 in April 1999.

Of the major oil- and gas-producing states, New Mexico added five rigs while Oklahoma and Alaska each rose by one.

Texas declined by seven, Louisiana by two and California one. Wyoming was unchanged.
