More OIL cutbacks: 160 'furloughed'

Firm now employs just over 300

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

Oilfield Industrial Lines announced yesterday that 160 employees of the Industrial Park firm have been "furloughed."

"We will be cutting back to a little more than 300 employees," said Charles Christopher, O.I.L. chief executive officer. "That's an across-the-line furlough, and it is a furlough, not a layoff. It reaches every department and every category."

The cutbacks were the second in two weeks for O.I.L. On Dec. 23, 40 workers were laid off. In March, 1982 O.I.L. had 770 persons on its payroll. Layoffs and terminations, especially those of contract welders, have brought the totals down throughout 1982.

THE FURLONGS Thursday came despite O.I.L.'s reported gross business of $175 million last year. During 1982, the Big Spring company captured one half or more of the oilfield equipment market in the U.S. dealing with new rig manufacturing, said Christopher.

However, business does not look as good at the beginning of 1983, Christopher said.

"We are going into '83 assuming that '83 is as flat and dead as '82 was," he said. "We're going into 1983 with a budget designed to support a business base of $50 million to $75 million. That means we would do approximately half or a little less than half of the business we did in 1982. That's assuming an absolutely dead marketplace."

Christopher said the 160 furloughed workers would be called back as the marketplace developed in excess of his minimum business base.

Dick Fackler, O.I.L. chief of manufacturing, said department managers made the decisions about which workers would be furloughed.

"WE'VE TRIED to retain our best people" in past layoffs, he said, "but at this point in time, we don't have any 'worst.' That makes it very difficult. It was no simple decision."

Fackler said the employees who received their pink slips yesterday would be placed on an "inactive payroll." They will not receive a paycheck, and they will be eligible for unemployment benefits, he said.

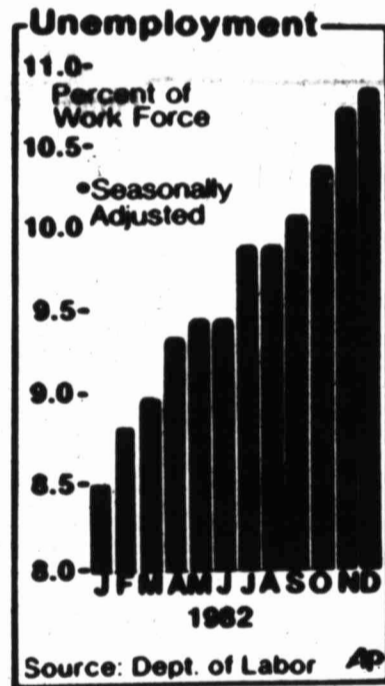

"They have recall rights," Fackler said. "They will not be paid, but they will be the people we respond to immediately when we need somebody for this job or that job. The people we are releasing — on a very temporary basis — will be retrieved as soon as the downturn (in the marketplace) is over."

THOSE ON the inactive payroll will be the first to be hired as the market picks up, Christopher said. They will not lose any of their seniority, he added.

"Our belief generally is that most of the people will be called back by the end of January or the first of February," he said.

Unemployment rate inches up

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate climbed to 10.8 percent of the labor force in December, a slight rise from the previous month's revised 10.7 percent, as the number of Americans giving up the search for jobs reached an all-time high, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said the ranks of "discouraged workers" — those no longer counted as unemployed because they have left the labor force — swelled by more than 200,000, to 1.8 million, the highest since the government began keeping this statistic in 1970.

The jobless rate in Texas rose slightly in December, mainly because Christmas just didn't come for many retailers, the U.S. Department of Labor announced today.

The seasonally adjusted figures, released the first Friday of every month, showed that in December, 598,000 Texans were out of work, a jobless rate of 8.0 percent.

In November, unemployment in Texas was 7.6 percent. Labor Department analyst Nick Santangelo said that in December 1981, unemployment in Texas was 5.1 percent.

While the nation's unemployment rolls swelled by 130,000 last month, to well above the 12 million of November, only 87,000 people entered the labor force in search of work.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics initially had reported that November's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was a post-Depression high of 10.8 percent. But in today's announcement, which took into account annual, end-of-the-year revisions in labor-force statistics, the agency lowered the November rate to 10.7 percent.

Thus, the one-tenth percentage point rise in December meant that joblessness had risen for the fourth consecutive month.

The increase, however, was well below the three-tenths percentage point rise from October to November.

For the year, unemployment averaged 9.7 percent, compared to 7.6 percent in 1981.

John Bregger, head of the bureau's Division of Employment and Unemployment Analysis, cautioned against interpreting December's moderate rise as indicating that unemployment overall has peaked.

He added, however, that "there are definitely indications of a flat-trending out here. There have been some positive developments in the manufacturing sector, for instance, which had been declining sharply in recent months."

In a statement prepared for delivery at a news conference, Janet L. Norwood, commissioner of labor statistics, said the latest figures "show some leveling off from the steady deterioration in the labor market that has occurred over the past year and a half."

Be on the lookout for stray whooping crane

By CLIFF COAN
Staff Writer

Look — in the sky. It's a bird, it's a plane, it could be a whooping crane.

Big Spring bird enthusiast Bebe McCasland said a possible sighting of a whooping crane in flight was reported to her yesterday afternoon.

"We're asking anyone who sights it to call us," she said. "We would notify the Department of the Interior, and they would send spotters out."

Although most whoopers winter at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge or Apache Del Bosque in New Mexico, Ms. McCasland said the strayed bird could have been pushed southward from New Mexico by last week's cold weather.

The Department of the Interior reported seven whooping cranes missing from Aransas and four have strayed from Apache Del Bosque, she said.

"So there's a darn good chance it (the sighting report) is accurate," Ms. McCasland said. "We could have more (than the one reported)."

"It could be with some sandhill cranes," she said. "It's a large white bird with black wingtips — It looks like a sandhill, only larger."

"For goodness' sakes, don't shoot it," said Ms. McCasland, adding that to kill a whooping crane would carry a large fine and possibly a jail term. "It's a very rare bird," she said.

She asks anyone sighting the whooping crane to call her at 263-0203 or 267-6536 or Midge Erskine in Midland at 694-8001.

Mr. Holmes wants no fuss on birthday

EDITOR'S NOTE — Fans of Sherlock Holmes, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's enduring fictional sleuth, celebrate his Jan. 6 birthday on the nearest Friday to the date, gathering this year in New York. The event inspired AP writer Marlene Aig, herself a Holmes fan, to report on the observance from the perspective of Dr. John H. Watson, the detective's chronicler, who lives in retirement with Holmes on a bee farm in Sussex, England.

A light snow was falling as I finished the excellent breakfast only Mrs. Hudson could make. My dearest friend, Sherlock Holmes, had eaten hours ago, as was his habit, and was sitting by the fire, brooding.

"You have to agree, Watson," Holmes muttered, "it is all very silly."

I sighed. "Oh, Holmes, why can't you just accept it?" He stood up, still very straight and tall. "Accept a group of otherwise perfectly normal adults gathering like spring geese from all over the United States and Canada to hold a birthday celebration for me in Manhattan? As if I needed them to remind me that on Twelfth Night I will be 129 years old!"

It was no use trying to reason with Holmes. We have been through this every January since 1934 when the first group of Holmes admirers gathered at a Manhattan hotel as a tribute to, as I put it in one of my tales, "the best and wisest man" we all have ever known.

They dubbed themselves the Baker Street Irregulars after the rag-tag lot of street urchins who assisted Holmes in the days when our rooms at 221-B Baker Street were a haven for those the law had misunderstood or could not help.

Despite our retirement to Sussex, the number of Holmes admirers has grown at an incredible pace and clusters of them have created societies throughout the world to study Holmes' life, my life, the life of our enemy, Professor Moriarty, and even the life of my literary agent, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

Holmes was now by the window, watching the snow, rather angry. "These people, Watson, dissect my life as if it were a dead frog! They traipse about wearing clashing plaids, puffing calabash pipes and sporting outrageous deerstalkers. Really, See Holmes, page 2-A

West Texans hear Legislature's plans

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

ODESSA — State lawmakers from West Texas told a meeting of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission Wednesday that restricted funds may prevent the Legislature from enacting needed legislation this year.

The legislators were introduced to requests for bills by the PBRPC, the Texas Municipal League and the Texas Association of Counties.

The legislators had a busy day as they were shuffled in front of television cameras, asked to make short talks on the upcoming session of the Legislature, and herded to corners for whispered conferences about important issues facing the state.

Getting an earful from their constituents were Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring; Rep. Jay Gibson, D-Odessa; and Sen. Bill Sims, D-Midland.

Among the more important pieces proposed for legislation were funding for the state highway system, a reworking of the ad valorem tax collection system, a plan designed to provide an adequate future water supply for West Texas and funding for additional prison facilities.

The representatives listened attentively to the requests but warned the crowd that funds were going to be tight this year and the battle for the scarce moneys would be great.

"We've got good leadership in Austin and in West Texas," Shaw said. "However, money is very tight."

Rape suspect held; bond set

Clifford Bart Dunbar, a 22-year-old suspect in the rape of three Ohio juvenile females, is in Howard County Jail. Peace Justice Lewis Heflin set bond yesterday at $60,000.

No formal charges have been filed against the man, the Howard County Sheriff's office said this morning. The Pennsylvania man was arrested yesterday in Midland on a Howard County warrant for rape of a child. The juveniles had told officials they were raped and forced into sexual acts with each other by a hitchhiker they picked up Wednesday on Interstate 20, said Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard.

The three juveniles were released yesterday to Mitchell County authorities on the authority of the Howard County juvenile officer.

The girls left Akron, Ohio, Sunday, stole a car and money from a person who picked them up in Sweetwater, Tenn. and left for Texas, the report said.

They picked up the hitchhiker Wednesday who pulled a knife, held it to their throats and forced them into a variety of sexual acts, the report said.

One girl escaped in Mitchell County during an assault and the other two were released one-half mile southeast of Highway 821 and Interstate 20 intersection after a second assault, the report said.

They then flagged down Department of Public Safety Trooper Jim Lasater on Interstate 20.

Mitchell County authorities said yesterday they expect to charge Dunbar with three counts of aggravated assault and one count of aggravated rape of a child.

Dunbar was in possession of the stolen car when he was arrested, the sheriff said.

Man pleads guilty to teen's murder

Curtis Ray Williams pleaded guilty yesterday in 118th District Court to the murder of 19-year-old Cynthia Moore and was sentenced to 30 years in the Texas Department of Corrections.

District Judge Jim Gregg added a five-year sentence to be served concurrently because Williams was on probation for theft over $200 and under $10,000 at the time of the murder.

The 20-year-old man had been indicted in June for the May 21 shooting death of Ms. Moore.

Police said that Williams broke down the front door of the 807 Wyoming residence and found Miss Moore hiding in a closet. He beat her, shot her in the chest and in the chin and then beat her again, police said.

Ms. Moore had told police about two hours before her death that Williams had assaulted her at Johnny Stone Park, striking her in the mouth with his fist. He then forced her to walk to his residence at 1518 Wood.

Ms. Moore escaped and fled to the house she shared with a couple and their six-month-old baby. Williams found Ms. Moore there and shot her with a .22-caliber pistol in front of the couple, police said.

Police arrested Williams about 10 minutes later as he walked near Lakeview Elementary School with an 18-year-old female companion.

Crews continue work on waterline breaks

Big Spring maintenance crews are "saturated" with waterline repairs this year. Public Works Director Tom Decell said.

Workers are repairing three major waterline breaks today, calling for water service to be shut off in those areas for several hours. A break on 18th and Scurry was repaired this morning and crews were examining another on Nolan behind the police station, Decell said.

Also, a 12-inch line on Dixon is scheduled to be repaired this afternoon. Water service for residents on Dixon from Parkway to Hearn will be shut off from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Decell said.

Decell said bad weather has worsened problems that already existed with old waterlines.

Some of these are just old lines that, because of the heaving and shifting cause them to pop," Decell said. "I'm on my way to look at these areas to see if I should recommend they be put on the C.I.P. (capital improvements program)."

Decell said that anyone who observes water coming out of pavement should notify him at City Hall.

"The faster they tell us, the faster we can get on it," he said.

Deaf college gets donation

The SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf recently received a $500 donation from the Frist National Bank of Midland toward the purchase of a reading machine for the visually impaired, according to Dr. Charles Hays, president of the Howard County Junior College District.

The Visualtek machine is designed to help a legally blind person read print, writing or typing.

The donation will help equip the SWCID library, where a comprehensive reference section and facilities for the visually impaired are growing.

Ceremonies break ground at Canterbury

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held this morning for the $2.3 million Canterbury Phase II Retirement Center. A crowd of 150 people were on hand for the event and a service by the Rev. Harland Hulseley from diocese of Northwest Texas.

Construction on the planned 59-unit, five-story apartment building will begin late this year and be completed by December 1985.

The Rev. Hulseley asked during prayer that the senior citizens be able to "lay aside former responsibilities without regret" and to enjoy their newfound leisure at Canterbury with open minds and young hearts.

"Five years ago this was just a dream," said the Rev. David Bristow of St. Mary's Episcopal Church. "And now we have already realized the first phase of Canterbury and we are moving in the the second phase."

The new building will help to ease a shortage of affordable housing for senior citizens, according to Pat Johnston, assistant administrator at Canterbury. She said the present facility gets 10 applications a month for housing.

Also attending the service were the Rev. Robert Bonnington, curate of St. Mary's; the Rev. Harland Birdwell, rector of St. Andrew's in Roswell, N.M.; and O.C. Shapland, president of the Canterbury board of directors.

The new building is sponsored by St. Mary's Retirement Homes, Inc. and will be constructed under regulations set by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Contractor for the building to be located at 1600 Lancaster is J.W. Cooper of Odessa.

February," said Christopher. "But we don't have any sound basis for that."

Fackler said he didn't have any way to predict when the workers could be called back, saying "that depends on the workload in their particular department."

Christopher said he believes production in 1983 will equal that of 1982.

"I believe we'll do as much in 1983 as we did in 1982 — we'll do 2 1/2 times what we geared down to," he said. "There'll be a pretty good spring dip, but in the third and fourth quarter it will go bananas. That's what I think is going to happen."

Christopher said there were approximately 5,000 active rigs in January of 1982. A normal year sees a 10 percent attrition rate, he said, and in 1982, he classified an additional 10 percent of the active rigs as "junk."

BY JUNE 30 Christopher said he expected to see 20 percent of the rig fleet "go down." Half of that, he said, would be through normal attrition and half through "cannibalizing" or using parts off some rigs to keep others running.

"We expect that to result in approximately 3,600 active rigs by June 30 of 1983," said Christopher. "We expect 1983 to see a 3,100 to 3,300 active rig demand."

O.I.L. has 12 rigs in its schedule now, Christopher said, and "about half those are sold."

"Quite frankly one of the things we're doing right now is we're dragging our feet," said Christopher.

"We want to dole that manufacturing out. Hell, we could build those rigs in 60 days."

"And then maybe close the door and wait?" he asked. "That's not good business. We're going to slow the delivery of those rigs until we see a viable backorder that allows us to pick up the pace."

"Our first obligation is to our stockholders, to Big Spring, and to this company," said Christopher. That means, he said, "We pare this thing to a level that we can do business — no matter what."

"That means on occasion we have to stop and back up and do things that if we had our 'druthers' we wouldn't," Christopher said. "Shoot, if we had our 'druthers' and thought it was a nice world, we'd probably set back here, wait 90 days, keep people on the payroll and lose a bunch of money."

"What we could be doing, by doing that," Christopher said, "is jeopardizing the full existence of this company. We're not going to do that."

In addition to gearing production down in 1983, O.I.L. is working on several plans to boost rig production. One of those is the "Nomad" rig, "a cross between a trailer rig and a fixed-box rig," he said. O.I.L. also is gearing up to enter the foreign markets, Christopher said.

The firm will not be relinquishing its leases on any of its buildings at the Industrial Park, he said. In fact, Christopher said, the company could require more buildings for "Nomad" construction.

He said O.I.L. had other projects in development, but was not prepared to discuss them at this time.

tight and we're going to have to put on the best dog and pony show to get some of those funds."

Shaw said that due to redistricting West Texas had lost political clout in Austin to more urban areas of the state, which means funds could be directed away from this area.

"We're just going to have to work harder to negotiate and compromise in areas that are beneficial to us," Shaw said.

Gibson agreed with Shaw saying, "There will be a serious problem this time with money; it's going to be hard to get funds spread around for highways, prisons and other projects which demand attention."

In other action at the meeting Big Spring City Councilman Jack Y. Smith was elected vice chairman of the PBRPC, and the PBRPC voted to include one member of the Texas Legislature on the board of directors. The legislator was not named at yesterday's meeting.

So did I, but Holmes no longer sees it that way. Gillette, the actor, wrote a play about Holmes that premiered in 1899. Gillette starred in the play, too, performing in it to the end of his days.

Fog reported in Northeast Texas

By The Associated Press

Dense fog covered wide sections of South and Northeast Texas early today, creating hazardous driving conditions and prompting travelers advisories.

Fog extended from south of Brownsville to north of the Red River and east of the Sabine River. Some drizzle accompanied the haze along the Rio Grande near McAllen. An isolated patch of fog covered the El Paso area.

A band of high clouds stretched across the northern Panhandle. Skies were mostly clear across the rest of Texas.

Pre-dawn temperatures were in the 20s across West Texas, in the 30s and 40s over North Central and East Texas and in the 50s and 60s in South Texas.

The forecast called for late night and early morning low clouds and fog over wide areas of the state through Saturday. Some drizzle was expected to accompany the fog in the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Mostly fair skies and warmer temperatures were forecast for the rest of Texas.

A FAST-MOVING storm system carried snow and freezing rain to the upper Mississippi Valley on Thursday, with snow across much of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

A mixture of rain, freezing rain and sleet fell over southern sections of the two states.

A travelers' advisory warning of up to 4 inches of new snow was issued for much of central and northwestern Minnesota, and an advisory warning of freezing rain and snow was issued for all of Wisconsin and southeastern Minnesota.

Strong southwesterly wind blew across the Great Lakes, with gale warnings in effect for lakes Superior, Erie and Michigan.

The wind helped push temperatures to 47 degrees at Aberdeen, S.D., during the morning, tying the record for the date.

Team waits for falling satellite

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer

Deep in the mountains of Colorado, eyes stare at a blip on a screen. One of 4,779 blips.

In Nevada and Maryland, the government's Nuclear Emergency Search Team is on standby alert.

The concern is Cosmos 1402, a Soviet nuclear-powered spy satellite that could spray 100 pounds of radioactive uranium over an area 200 miles wide and 1,000 miles long if it crashes later this month as the Pentagon predicts.

"If they've run out of all controls, it's got a mind of its own," said Dr. Melvin Herlin, assistant to the director at Lincoln Laboratories, a Lexington, Mass., firm that builds components for military communications satellites.

"We can't do anything. It's up to the Russians and we don't know what they're going to do," said Staff Sgt. Ed Rasco, a spokesman for the North American Air Defense Command.

Vladimir Kotelnikov of the Soviet Academy of Sciences said in Moscow Thursday that "there is no danger, we have no alarm about the fate of this satellite."

But at the State Department, where the standby alert was announced Thursday, spokesman John Hughes said, "They say it may not come down. Our information is different."

Pentagon officials believe Cosmos 1402 is in trouble because of the failure of rocket boosters designed to propel it into a 500-mile-high orbit where it would stay indefinitely.

Of the 4,779 objects orbiting the Earth, spy ships are the most likely to crash because their proximity — 150 miles above the Earth — makes them more susceptible to gravity, according to satellite experts. In contrast, communications satellites orbit at 22,000 miles, where there is less pull.

The Soviet surveillance vehicles are the most dangerous because of their enriched uranium fuel, which no other country uses.

As Cosmos 1402 gets closer to Earth, the atmosphere will exert more pull and slow it down, said Bill Heiser, a Western Union director for satellite planning.

The pull will get stronger with each orbit until the satellite is only 40-50 miles from the surface, the upper limits of the Earth's atmosphere, Heiser said.

On Thursday, according to NORAD Cosmos 1402's orbits took 15 seconds longer than the day before.

Rasco said NORAD will be able to estimate 90 minutes before impact where the satellite will be when its altitude is six miles.

At that point, officials will forecast the likely impact area. If Cosmos breaks up during re-entry, a 200,000-square-mile zone could get debris, according to Rasco.

NORAD has been tracking Cosmos 1402 since last week, when sensors at the Space Defense Center in Cheyenne Mountain, Colo., "noticed erratic behavior by the object," Rasco said in a telephone interview.

1 killed, 23 hurt in gas explosion

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Gasoline from a ruptured storage tank gushed "like Niagara Falls" before erupting early today in a window-shattering explosion that killed one man, injured at least 23 others and sent flames hundreds of feet into the sky.

The 12:15 a.m. blast was reported felt 130 miles away. The flames reached 1,000 feet into the air and the fire was so intense that firefighters were forced back from the burning tanks and were waiting today for the fire burn itself out.

As the sun rose, winds that had been blowing the thick, black smoke northeast toward New York City shifted to the west, sending billowing clouds over New Jersey. The flames were visible miles away.

There were reports of looting in nearby Jersey City after the explosion blew out windows downtown.

Top Ingram, a spokesman for the northeast division of Texaco USA, which owned the tank, said the company had no indication what caused the rupture or the blast. City officials said the fire did not appear to be suspicious.

The fuel "went through the holes ... it was spilling out like Niagara Falls," said George Gray, describing the scene just before the explosion. "We all saw the gas. That's when we decided to run."

Newark Fire Director John Caufield said the three gasoline tanks which caught fire held a total of 19 million gallons of the fuel.

Caufield said the dead man, 40-year-old William Vanzile of North Arlington, was found lying on his back several hundred feet from the burning 10-story tanks. Charles Sands, assistant manager of the terminal, said Vanzile was a Texaco truck operator.

Authorities said they believe one man is missing, but they would release no details. Sands said all Texaco employees were accounted for.

"It looks like devastation. There's many buildings in there that have been very heavily damaged, some automobiles that are completely demolished," Caufield said. "Of course the tanks themselves, two of them are collapsed and the third one looks like it's melting down."

Police said there were about 40 railroad tank cars

GAS TANK BURNS — Firemen fight a blaze at a Texaco storage facility in Newark, N.J., Friday morning within 100 feet of the blazing storage tanks, but Caufield said the fire "is not going anywhere."

Tom Norwood, a spokesman for Texaco in Houston, said the facility is a sales terminal where tanker trucks load with gasoline and diesel fuel to make deliveries to service stations.

The terminal is in a heavily industrial area about five miles from New York City across the mouth of the Hudson River with few residences nearby.

after an explosion shattered the plant. The Newark skyline is in the background.

The concussion from the blast was felt in Mount Sinai, N.Y., about 75 miles from Newark, police said.

In Greenwich, Conn., about 50 miles away, police said they received 300 calls within 20 minutes of the explosion. Callers to police and radio stations reported the blast shook windows in Preston, Conn., 130 miles from Newark.

Shock waves from the blast blew out windows in the downtown shopping district of Jersey City.

Innocent man spent 31 days in New Mexico jail, officials say

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An innocent man was jailed 31 days in connection with the hit-and-run murder of four Texas men because of shoddy work by New Mexico police, authorities here say.

Gregorio Sanchez, 28, of Carlsbad, N.M., had the same name and height and was born the same year as a San Antonio man charged with ramming a pickup truck into a street crowd, killing four people and injuring two others.

Thirty-one days after Sanchez' Nov. 28 arrest — which included him spending Christmas in a Carlsbad jail — police admitted they had the wrong man and released him.

Sanchez' jail stay was the result of a foul-up by New Mexico authorities, Bexar County Sheriff's Commander Gene Talbert said Thursday.

"Carlsbad police were at fault in this case because they told us they had the man we wanted here," Talbert said. "We simply proceeded to bring him at all costs to face charges."

But Carlsbad Police Chief Charles Galloway disagreed.

Galloway said his officers had "minimal" information from a national crime computer, and that the mistake was not discovered until San Antonio authorities sent photos that confirmed the wrong man had been arrested.

"I'm not going to try to place the blame on anybody," Galloway said. "Officers here acted in good faith based on the information they had and detained the man in cooperation with another agency."

"We tried to help," he said. "We thought we arrested the person they were looking for."

Galloway said he did not think any department was at fault.

"If the sheriff or whoever down there (Texas) wants to say we were wrong, I'm sorry to see him take that approach when we were trying to help," he said.

The other Gregorio Sanchez, of San Antonio, remains at large, officials said.

The troubles began for the Carlsbad Sanchez on Nov. 28 when Carlsbad police notified San Antonio authorities they had arrested the man wanted in the July 17, 1982, hit-and-run incident.

Sanchez initially was questioned about a used car lot that had been the target of recent burglaries, since officers had spotted him near the lot. He was released, but arrested two days later after a check of computerized national crime records showed a Gregorio Sanchez was wanted in Texas on four murder warrants.

Carlsbad directory assistance had no listing for Sanchez.

His attorney, Mike Carrasco, told the San Antonio Express that Texas authorities were at fault for not sending more information to New Mexico sooner.

"Every one of those days, he was treated as the worst criminal in the Southwest," Carrasco said of his client.

Carrasco also said he thought New Mexico authorities should have found more evidence than a "computer blip" before locking up Sanchez.

"That's all the police needed to bust this innocent guy," Carrasco said. "They didn't even bother to double-check everything. They simply saw the warrants and got excited they had captured a real bad guy and that's all they cared about."

When photographs of Sanchez arrived in New Mexico on Dec. 27, the mistake was acknowledged and the man was freed, Carrasco said.

Gramm may face challenges

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — A 14-year veteran of the Texas Legislature who unsuccessfully ran for state land commissioner last year says it is "extremely likely" he will challenge Phil Gramm for a seat in the U.S. House.

Former state Rep. Dan Kubiak scheduled a news conference here Monday at which he is expected to announce his challenge of Gramm, the College Station Democrat who resigned his seat and joined the Republican Party after being thrown out of the House Budget Committee.

It was from that committee post that Gramm spearheaded the campaign for President Reagan's economic package. Gramm resigned Wednesday and is seeking to regain his seat as a Republican in a special election.

Kubiak, a Rockdale Democrat, said he thinks Gramm is vulnerable because many residents see him as a "turncoat" and as "the little boy" who, if he doesn't get his way, picks up his toys and goes home.

Kubiak said his decision would hinge on commitments of funds to oppose Gramm's well-financed campaign.

"It's extremely likely that I'll run," Kubiak said Wednesday. "I'm waiting on some calls for some dollars right now."

Kubiak planned to meet with reporters today, but said he would not make an announcement regarding his candidacy until Monday.

Gov. Bill Clements scheduled a Feb. 12 special election to fill Gramm's vacated seat, with a filing deadline of 5 p.m. Jan. 12.

Kubiak said he has strong support in the congressional district and suggested Gramm was "trying a sympathy vote procedure which I think is going to backfire."

If Kubiak does not oppose Gramm, Madisonville humorist John Henry Faulk said he'll step into the race.

"Number two, that he (Gramm) can be beat, although the time is very short," Faulk said.

Phil Gramm had nothing to lose

How America loves an underdog. Phil Gramm is gambling on that basic American instinct. He resigned from the Democratic Party Wednesday after he was kicked off the House Budget Committee by the House Democratic leadership. His sin: to actually work — not just give lip service — toward a leaner budget.

House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth and Speaker Tip O'Neill of Massachusetts were infuriated last term when Gramm turned out to be a sincere person, "practicing in Washington what I preach at home." They had expected him to be a good little party loyalist. Instead, he listened to his folks at home, and he was effective in helping obtain what may be the last big budget cuts we'll see for some time.

SO HOW DO THE DEMOCRATS retaliate against their own party member? They strip him of his key committee assignment.

By resigning from Congress, Gramm loses nothing. As a Democrat, he would have been ineffective anyway now. But, by running as a Republican in a special election, he has an excellent chance of returning to the House. And Republicans have hinted they will have a place for him on the Budget Committee when he returns. So, he will have lost nothing while gaining public vindication.

IT'S THE DEMOCRATS who have exposed their weakness by punishing Gramm. They have called attention to the strict lock-step party madness that has enabled individual Congressmen to over-spend, over-tax and over-borrow the nation's economy without taking individual responsibility for their collective irresponsibility.

Have the Democrats already forgotten the overpowering message of the 1980 elections? — that there are many Democrats who believe the federal budget is out-of-control, who believe you can't solve all the country's social problems by slap-happily flinging money at them, and who are tired of forking over one-fourth of their paychecks to Washington?

Yes, in this scenario, the Democrats are playing the "bad-dies," at least that's the way we folks at home perceive it. Sure, O'Neill and Wright may enjoy the brief smug satisfaction of wielding their power to shoot down a "traitor." But this time, we think, the gun has backfired.

Around the Rim

On becoming a man

There are several times in a young man's life when he realizes he is now a "man," not just a "young man."

One of those, for me, was on the way to the altar — stepping out of the little room in the church, it suddenly dawned that I was no longer responsible for only my own safety and well-being. I had a wife to think about, now.

And, although our marriage is a partnership and Kit is perfectly capable of taking care of herself, our society places the traditional role of breadwinner-protector on the husband.

Not long ago, another instance opened my eyes to the responsibility of manhood.

I learned that I am soon to become a father.

I want to see the always-beautiful eyes of my wife as she holds our child for the first time. Nothing could be more beautiful. I have no idea what my emotions will be at the time — but I'm sure they will be the strongest ones I have ever felt.

And I want to see the pride in my parents' and Kit's parents' eyes when they look at their new grandchild for the first time.

I'm sure, for weeks after the birth, I'll have to continually reassure myself that this tiny new being belongs to me. Late night visits to the crib, feeding my child, holding my baby close to me, they'll all be a wonderful experience.

But all these wonderful things do not come without massive responsibilities.

Everything takes on a new light. Every penny is important — if at all possible, I want my child to want for nothing. I've always been a tightwad, but now each minor cost is a major expenditure and requires great thought.

MATURITY HAS a new value — admittedly, I expect (and need) to act like a child from time to time, but more important, I want to set a good example for those little eyes to see.

Whatever I teach my child will live on in that being long after I'm gone. And I hope the things I leave behind will be good and pure.

A little less than nine months from now, my views might change. Some of these thoughts will be obsolete, and some will be more important than ever. For better or for worse, I will be a father.

It will be something new, something important, something wondrous. I'm looking forward to the event.

With mixed emotions, of course, but looking forward.

Sharp words from the Navy

Secretary of the Navy John Lehman has a problem. He was accused in The New York Times of not fully disclosing all the details of the sale of his consulting firm, Abington Corp., when he joined the government. Mr. Lehman's clients included many defense contractors such as Northrop, Boeing and TRW, and therefore questions were raised at the time, as to conflict of interest when he became Secretary of the Navy.

Mr. Lehman testified at his hearing he had divested himself of all interest in the consulting business, and had made Abington a holding company instead, with his wife as president.

He told a press conference last week that unfortunately his wife, in filing corporate records with the District of Columbia, had mistakenly listed Abington as "a consulting firm" and not a "holding company" as he had instructed her to do. He was quoted as saying, "I will have sharp words with my wife about that."

This is where he got himself in serious trouble. Whether Mr. Lehman is in conflict with his job is not for the press to decide. But anyone who publicly announces he's going to have sharp words with his wife over a business deal has really got himself in a box.

"Well, Barbara, you really made a mess of things."

"Why are you speaking so sharply, John?"

"Because of the stupid mistake you made when you filed the incorporation papers for our new company."

"I told you I didn't know anything about corporations when you made me president of Abington."

"I didn't expect you to know very much. But any simpleton knows the difference between a consulting firm and a holding company!"

"Don't shout at me. What's the difference?"

"A consulting firm consults. It gives advice to clients for a fee. A holding company holds things like stocks and bonds and cash and real estate."

"So what's the big deal?"

"The big deal is that as Secretary of the Navy I am not allowed to consult, and I promised Congress I would cut all ties with the defense establishment when I became Secretary of the Navy. If Abington is still listed as a consulting firm with you as president it looks as if we're still in business."

"That's silly. I don't know anything about the consulting business. I wouldn't be able to tell the difference between an F-18 and a Boeing 747."

"I know that, but the press doesn't. They dug up the fact that I sold our overseas business to Lord Chalfont in England for $60,000, and we had a verbal agreement he'd sell it back to me after I left the government. It looks as if I plan to go back in the consulting business after I leave the Navy."

"If you don't stop yelling I'm walking out of this house. Why didn't you have a lawyer file the corporation papers instead of me?"

"Because I figured any dumb wife should know how to incorporate a holding company. What did they teach you at college?"

"I majored in fine arts. John, why don't I just go down to the City Hall and tell the man I made a mistake and I don't want to be president of a consulting firm any more, and I've decided to go into the holding company business instead?"

"You can do anything you want, but you've got every newspaper, man and TV reporter digging into our personal affairs. They have nothing else to do during the holidays. We'll be on Page One until Congress comes back from vacation."

"That's your problem. You can't push me around like some three star admiral. I'm going to resign from the company. You can get yourself a new president of Abington."

"Why would you resign now?"

"Because I'm not going to have you yelling at me every time you get a call from the 'Washington Post.'"

Billy Graham

I am tired of my problems

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I want you to pray that God will take away all of my problems. I am tired of having problems all the time. — Mrs. A.P.H.

DEAR MRS. A.P.H.: I have traveled all over the world and met people from all kinds of different backgrounds, but there is one thing that has struck me about all people: no one I have ever met has been completely free of problems. Our problems may be different from those of someone else, but none of us is completely exempt from problems. As the book of Job declares, "Man is born to trouble as surely as sparks fly upward" (Job 5:7).

At the same time, I want to assure you that God is concerned about you and your problems, and he wants to help you deal with them. No, all your problems will not automatically vanish if you turn to God — but some of them will, and he can give you strength to meet those that are not taken away.

Yes, I will pray for you — but one of the greatest truths you can ever know is that God wants you to come to him in prayer, and he has made it possible for you to do this through Jesus Christ. God loves you very, very much, and he wants you to come to know him in a personal way. He wants you to turn to him for forgiveness, and he wants to cleanse you from the sins that have separated you from God and made your life less than it should be. Accept Jesus Christ into your heart by faith, and then realize that you can — and should — commit every detail of your life to God.

Once you realize that God loves you — and he loves you so much that he was willing to let his only Son die on the cross for you — then you will learn what it means to turn your problems over to him. The Bible says, "Rejoice in the Lord always... Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:4, 6-7).

Yes, you can know Christ's peace and strength as you commit your life to him and let him be Lord of your life.

Social Security skirmish

WASHINGTON — Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., wears power like the infantry helmet he wore in Korea — and he's soon going to need all the protection he can get.

As chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, the big man from Chicago is responsible for legislation to keep Social Security solvent. He'll be the target of potshots from all sides — congressional colleagues, the White House and the public. Even a Solomon couldn't please everybody on this one, and nobody has ever accused Rostenkowski of being a Solomon.

If the prospect of impending battle daunts him, he didn't show it during a recent meeting with aides in his office a few steps from the House floor. Knowing that many, perhaps most, of his colleagues consider it the better part of political valor to avoid either tax hikes or benefit cuts, Rostenkowski realizes he's not going to be popular when he proposes one solution or the other — perhaps both. But he also recognizes necessity when it confronts him.

"I'm going to deal with this even if it means standing alone and being a S.O.B.," he said, jabbing a finger in the air for emphasis.

He is now in demand for political appearances. But he observed that once he tackles the Social Security mess, he'll be about as popular as Typhoid Mary.

Rostenkowski has already had a brief skirmish with the White House. On a reconnaissance mission down Pennsylvania Avenue a few weeks ago, he had breakfast with James Baker, the president's chief of staff.

Baker, still smarting from the November election results, accused the Democrats of irresponsibly politicizing Social Security during the campaign. Baloney, Rostenkowski responded (or something to that effect). The painful truth was that President Reagan's vaunted safety net had developed gaping holes — and the voters had simply caught onto it, he said.

Rostenkowski will also have to deal with another powerful committee chairman, Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla. The 82-year-old Rules Committee boss is the foremost congressional champion of the elderly, and can be expected to bottle up any Social Security reform bill that tampers with their benefits.

THE GRAVITY of the problem is emphasized in a report prepared for the Senate Budget Committee by the Congressional Research Service. My associate Micheal Binstein has seen a draft of the report.

"The public... seems to have lost a significant degree of confidence that the system will survive over the long haul," the report warns, "and it is not likely that recurring 'minimal measures' to restore financial soundness will remove these doubts."

With startling frankness, the report suggests that if the public really understood how Social Security is funded, it might well consider it "as a sort of 'Ponzi game' in which the cost of meeting today's benefit obligations is borne not by the recipients of those benefits but by today's workers — a sort of passing the buck to future generations."

The unflattering reference, of course, is to Charlie Ponzi, a con man who, in 1920, paid "dividends" to investors out of money he got from new investors instead of earnings — precisely the way Social Security operates, as the Senate report admits.

PENTAGON PIPELINE: One reason the Air Force keeps throwing billions into its much-criticized Maverick anti-tank missile may be that Old Pentagon institution — the "revolving door" that leads former Defense Department employees to lucrative jobs with contractors whose weapons they worked on for the government. Hughes Aircraft of Tucson, Ariz., which makes the Maverick, has hired three ex-Air Force employees who dealt with the controversial missile at the Pentagon: Ronald Decosmo, now a project engineer at Hughes, Wayne Mattson, a senior staff engineer, and Lochlan Macleay, assistant manager of programs.

—The Armed Forces Professional Entertainment Program, which arranges performances for American troops overseas, has been caught with its male chauvinism showing. A new brochure contains several pictures of pretty women, and demands: "Touring groups must include at least one female." The brochure explains that servicemen "welcome the opportunity to talk with young people their own age (especially the girls!)" A Pentagon official confessed that the brochure was "embarrassing." The people who edited it have been reassigned to Korea.

ISRAELI MICHIEF: In a cocky bit of bear-baiting, the Israelis deliberately bombed the Soviet Embassy compound in West Beirut at least twice during the siege and raided the place when they took over the city, according to intelligence sources.

Israeli officers secretly boasted of their feat to U.S. liaison officers. The Israelis explained that they knew the Soviets were powerless to intervene in Lebanon, and figured a good way to demonstrate this to the world was to deliver a calculated military insult. Sure enough, all the Soviets did was splutter at the "outrages," showing friend and foe alike just how helpless they were.

Library people friendly, helpful

Dear Editor,

We would like to give a different view of the public library.

We have visited the library a number of times and have found these people friendly and helpful.

We have all encountered rude people at one time or another. In fact most of us have been rude sometimes — not realizing it — when we are busy or not feeling our best.

We should be more concerned with the great number of illiterates and not with who is rude.

Thank you.

Experts pick worst leaders in the world

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan ranked as the 12th worst leader in the world — between Pieter Botha of South Africa and Pol Pot of Cambodia — in a survey of 51 international affairs experts, Parade magazine said Thursday.

The Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini took first place as the world's worst leader. He was followed by Moammar Khadafy of Libya, Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire, Jean-Claude Duvalier of Haiti and Menachem Begin of Israel.

The late Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev was ninth. The survey was taken before he died.

Pope John Paul II was 37th.

In the survey, syndicated columnist Jack Anderson asked U.S. government specialists, foreign diplomats, academics and journalists to choose the five worst leaders after considering five criteria: despotism, ineffectiveness, irresponsibility, personal greed and personal instability.

Anderson said he tried to poll experts who span the political spectrum.

At Anderson's Washington office, Joseph Spear, who supervised the project, said he could not name the respondents because they agreed to be polled only under a guarantee of anonymity.

But Spear said they included members of Congress, State Department executives two levels below the secretary of state, heads of public interest groups that specialize in foreign affairs, diplomats from what he described as a middle of the road nations, generals, CIA officials and academics and international scholars from the leading universities in the Washington area.

Anderson said he did not believe Reagan or Begin deserved their rankings on the list. He called Reagan "a most amiable and decent man" and said Begin should not have been ahead of Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat, who did not make the list of 47 "presumably because he heads no nation."

Alfredo Stroessner of Paraguay was No. 6. He was followed by Augusto Pinochet of Chile; Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines; Brezhnev; the Argentine junta; Pieter Botha of South Africa; Reagan, and Pol Pot.

Fidel Castro of Cuba was 16th. Margaret Thatcher of Great Britain was ranked No. 22; Helmut Schmidt of West Germany was No. 32.

The complete list follows: 1. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini of Iran; 2. Moammar Khadafy of Libya; 3. Mobutu Sese Seko of Zaire; 4. Jean-Claude Duvalier of Haiti; 5. Menachem Begin of Israel; 6. Alfredo Stroessner of Paraguay; 7. Augusto Pinochet of Chile; 8. Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines; 9. Leonid Brezhnev of the Soviet Union; 10. the Argentine junta.

11. Pieter Botha of South Africa; 12. President Reagan of the United States; 13. Pol Pot of Cambodia; 14. Kim Il-sung of North Korea; 15. Roberto D'Aubuisson of El Salvador; 16. Fidel Castro of Cuba; 17. Indira Gandhi of India; 18. Gen. Efraim Rios-Mont of Guatemala; 19. Mohammad Zia ul-Haq of Pakistan; 20. Enver Hoxha of Albania.

21. Saddam Hussein of Iraq; 22. Margaret Thatcher of the United Kingdom; 23. Babrak Karmal of Afghanistan; 24. Forbes Burnham of Guyana; 25. Ahmed Sekou Toure of Guinea; 26. Hafez al-Assad of Syria; 27. Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski of Poland; 28. Jose Lopez Portillo of Mexico; 29. Julius Kambunge Nyerere of Tanzania; 30. Suharto of Indonesia.

31. Robert G. Mugabe of Zimbabwe; 32. Helmut Schmidt of West Germany; 33. Sandinista directorate of Nicaragua; 34. Le Duan of Vietnam; 35. Hua Kuo-feng of the People's Republic of China; 36. Milton Obote of Uganda; 37. Pope John Paul II of the Vatican; 38. Kenneth David Kaunda of Zambia; 39. Jose Eduardo dos Santos of Angola; 40. House of Saud of Saudi Arabia.

41. the Bolivian junta; 42. Juan Carlos of Spain; 43. Mengistu Haile-Mariam of Ethiopia; 44. Hissene Habre of Chad; 45. Mathieu Kerekou of Benin; 46. Jerry Rawlings of Ghana; 47. Master Sgt. Samuel K. Doe of Liberia.

Day-care center health problems cited

CHICAGO (AP) — Day-care centers have become "networks" for spreading diarrhea, dysentery and other intestinal diseases to children and their parents, causing outbreaks "reminiscent of the presanitation days of the 17th century," a doctor reports.

The problem is too widespread to be solved by case-by-case treatment and diagnosis, Dr. Stanley H. Schuman wrote in Friday's edition of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"We don't have enough vaccine to prevent the spread of infections in day-care facilities," Schuman said in a telephone interview. "We don't have the medical dollars or the public health dollars. We have to go back to the basics of sanitation."

The pattern is a throwback to conditions in 17th century Europe, when doctors realized the link between poor sanitation and certain diseases although they didn't understand the biological cause of the diseases, Schuman said.

Schuman, a professor at the Medical University of South Carolina in Charleston, S.C., cited several factors believed to contribute to the problem:

—Day-care workers "develop a casual, tolerant attitude toward frequent lapses in sanitary routines," even those as simple as washing hands.

—Public health officials "tend to accept little clear-cut responsibility for day-care operations." In addition, regulations vary among states and money is sometimes inadequate for strict enforcement of the rules.

—Day-care centers often serve more meals than a restaurant on a given day, but proprietors sometimes have little training in food-handling.

—Children enter and leave day-care centers in an erratic pattern, "ensuring maximum mixing of infected and susceptible" children.

—Gatherings of diaper-age children present many opportunities for transmission of bacteria from fecal matter.

—Children under 6 sometimes carry infections that they transmit to their parents without showing any symptoms themselves.

A 1981 study found that 25 percent of the children entering day-care centers came down with diarrhea. The rate declined to 10 percent in subsequent weeks, the study found, but children ran the same one-in-four chance of getting diarrhea if they entered a new center.

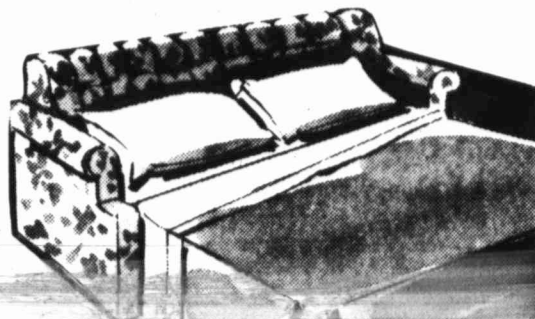

Concern over the problem has prompted physicians to organize the First International Symposium on Day-Care-Associated Infections. The meeting, scheduled for June 1984 in Minneapolis, will include doctors, day-care operators, parents and public health officials.

According to figures released by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, 7 million children were in day-care centers outside of their home in 1981. Of those, 5.1 million were in private homes other than their own and 1.9 million attended small and large organized day-care centers.

Schuman said day-care facilities in private homes pose as great a danger of spreading infection as larger, more crowded centers.

Dr. Donohue

Surgery is one treatment

Dear Dr. Donohue: Over the past two years and after many tests, doctors have concluded that my son-in-law (middle-aged) has acromegaly tumor. We would like you to explain the seriousness of it. We are old that doctors can remove this tumor from his pituitary gland, but we would like to have you explain in greater detail just what this illness is. Your articles do not appear in my daughter's paper, so that's why I am asking. — Mrs. C.M.L.

Acromegaly is an illness that results when there is a special kind of tumor of the pituitary, a small (about pea bean-sized) gland located deep within the skull. Among the many hormones produced by this gland is IGH (for human growth hormone). It normally controls the rate of growth, how tall we become, etc.

If a child has a tumor, then too much of the hormone might be produced and the rate of growth might become alarming unless this is taken care of. Giant body proportions might develop. In an adult, whose bone growth has stopped, the extra hormone induces enlargement in distant (acral) parts of the body — the hands, feet, jaws, lips, tongue, nose and face.

Since the pituitary gland is attached to the brain and is near the optic chiasm, it can, if enlarged by a tumor, press on the optic chiasm and cause blindness. This is why the tumor must be removed.

Acromegaly is a serious disease, but one for which there are many treatments available. The kind your son-in-law is to get is one of them. With modern techniques, the gland is easily reached by introducing a special surgical tool through the nose and into the little space in the skull where the pituitary is located. With removal comes an end of the illness and freedom from its many and varied ill effects — like blood pressure rises, diabetes or weakening of muscles.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My daughter has been taking tranquilizers because of great nervousness associated with her menstrual cycle. She is very irritable during her premenstrual week, and she loses friends, and her work is affected. She is single and lives alone. She has the problem every month. Can you suggest anything for her besides tranquilizers? — Mrs. E.L.

I am not going to comment on her use of tranquilizers except to note that such medicines have their place for brief periods in treatment of problems that cause the patient difficulty in functioning. However, I am going to suggest that she begin looking for new paths out of her dilemma, specifically paths to determine what is causing her to have such distress with her menstrual cycle.

She should begin with a gynecologist. She can be examined to exclude any problems with her uterus and ovaries. And the doctor might, based on his findings, be able to prescribe other medicines. Many can be tried. Does that sound like the medical establishment line popping up again — "See your doctor"? If it does, so be it. I am sure both you and your daughter will see the wisdom in it. Suffering in silence is not the cure for very many illnesses.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a heavy smoker. I am going in for major surgery soon and my doctor wants me to quit smoking beforehand. He's not kidding, either. Can a couple of weeks of non-smoking really help all that much? Wondering is all. — E.B.

This is the word from the American Society of Anesthesiologists, E.B. They now advise patients to stop smoking cigarettes at least 12 hours before surgery. The idea is to increase the oxygen-carrying capacity of the blood. Smoking can increase the risk of complications during surgery by reducing the oxygen flow to vital organs and other tissues, according to the society.

It notes that in tests on chronic smokers, the carbon monoxide in the blood does significantly decrease the oxygen-carrying capacity. When smoking is stopped, the carbon monoxide in the blood clears rapidly — in about 12 hours. Of course, the longer before surgery you quit, the freer the blood will be of carbon monoxide. But even 12 hours helps.

Dr. Donohue welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Ever Ready Civic, Art Club names president

At the regular monthly meeting of the Ever Ready Civic and Art Club held Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jo Hazel Dawson, the club elected Mrs. Barbara Bess as president for 1983.

The presiding officer, Mrs. Anna Green, has served as interim president for several months since the former president, Mrs. Shirley A. Tate, moved to Breckenridge on a job assignment. Prior to the election of officers, Mrs. Green asked that her name not be submitted for president.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Anna Green, first vice-president; Mrs. Essie L. Person, secretary; Mrs. Viola Merritt, treasurer; Mrs. Rosie L. Stewart, chaplain; Mrs. Louisiana Jones, ways and means chairman; and Clemmie Johnson, year-book chairperson.

Others are Mrs. Naomi Graham and Mrs. Dawson, program committee; and Mrs. Earline Newton, telephone chairperson. Other committees will be appointed at the next meeting.

Steps were taken for pre-planning a spring fashion review and spaghetti supper, and a charity project (regular donation) of refreshments for patients at the Big Spring State Hospital.

BARBARA BESS... named president

The meeting date was changed from Tuesday to the first and third Wednesdays of each month. The club also began a financial project.

Members made donations to the district's scholarship fund. At the recent meeting of the executive board of Stokes-Parker District, "western jars" were given to clubs for monthly contributions to this fund. Two scholarships will be awarded to seniors at the district convention in Abilene in April.

The hostesses served dinner to the members present.

The next meeting will be Jan. 19 in the home of Mrs. Bess, 1712 E. 15th.

Communication devices surveyed

The first statistically valid survey of telecommunication device (TDD) usage by deaf persons in Texas has been compiled, according to officials of the Texas Commission for the Deaf, headquartered in Austin.

Telecommunication devices can be attached to telephones and enable the deaf and hearing impaired to communicate via the telephone by using typewritten messages which are transmitted over telephone wires.

The Texas Association of the Deaf conducted the survey. Between July 1 and Sept. 30 nearly 11,000 surveys were distributed.

Survey results show that only 30 percent of those responding own TDDs, while more than 63 percent do not own TDDs. Of these owners, nearly one-quarter said they own donated teletypewriter equipment similar to devices used by telegraph offices more than a century ago. Many indicated that they borrow TDDs for use. According to the responses, the two biggest reasons TDDs are borrowed are for emergencies and communication. Only 2.6 percent of the survey respondents said they rent TDDs.

Very few people responding to the survey felt that TDDs were not needed. One respondent said "Enabling the deaf to talk on the phone gives them a greater access to the hearing world." Another said "I think the TDD is one of the most needed pieces of equipment for deaf people...to be able to contact someone in an emergency, or just feel part of the world."

Dear Abby

Woman questions sending money

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is eating my insides out. I started writing to a TV evangelist because I have multiple sclerosis. I know he is well-respected, in touch with God and does many good things. The problem is that he always wants more money. I sent him $100. Then he wrote to me personally and told me that something great was going to happen to me, but I had to send him another $100 first — even if I had to save my pennies and get the money any way I could!

I believe in God with all my heart and strive to be a good person, but, Abby, I can't take food from my children's mouths because this man says God will do something good for me if I do. That comes very close to saying that God can be bought.

My husband is very angry with me because I sent as much as I did. I would like to be free of my disease, but I will not deny my family necessities in order to send this man money.

Please tell me something positive about these TV evangelists. I'm beginning to believe that all they want is my money — money that I don't have.

God understands. Why can't they?

brush. Many inspire their followers to be better people — to be kinder to their fellow men and have faith in the Lord.

God cannot be bought, nor does he reserve his blessings for those who send money to a TV evangelist.

DEAR ABBY: I being married in the near future. My father is living, but my mother is deceased. However, my mother is with me in spirit all the time.

Is there any way I can tactfully acknowledge my mother on my wedding invitations?

REMEMBERING MAMA DEAR REMEMBERING: You might identify yourself as the daughter of

"Mr. () and the late Mrs. ()."

It is not usually done, but if it will give you pleasure, I see no reason why you shouldn't do it.

Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send $2 and a long-stamped (37 cents), advice-president, Ruth Norton, secretary, and Irene Pribie, treasurer.

Officers are Merl Soles, president, Frances Mason,

A devotion on faith was given by Carolyn Reed. Yearbooks for the 1983 year were distributed. It was announced that the area extension clubs are still taking up cans for the scholarship fund.

Members were told that the Howard County Stock Show is Jan. 28-29, and that there will be a leadership training meeting in El Paso Jan. 26.

Recommendation of the club by-laws was accepted and amended. The council will meet again Feb. 7.

Baby born recently to Big-Spring couple

Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Ayala, 3301 Abilene Ave., announce the birth of a daughter, Jennifer Parras, at 10:22 a.m. Dec. 31 in Malone-Hogan Hospital. The baby weighed 8 pounds, 1 3/4 ounces at birth, and was 19 1/2 inches long.

Maternal grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. J.C.

Parras, 409 S. Benton. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Felix Dominguez, 505 S. Bell. Maternal great-grandmother is Petra Hernandez, 507 NW 7th. Paternal great-grandmother is Juana Galaviz, 505 S. Bell.

Jennifer Parras was welcomed home by two sisters, Brandi, 4, and Tawanna, 5.

Richard, Jeanie Pitts announce baby's birth

Richard and Jeanie Pitts, Rosharon, announce the birth of their third child, a daughter, Melinda Rae Ann, on Jan. 4 in the Clute Community Hospital.

The baby weighed 12 pounds, 2 ounces at birth, and was 20 inches long. Grandparents include Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Box, Sterling City Route, and Mr. and Mrs. Max Pitts, Clute. Great-grandmother is Mrs. R.L. Pitts, 1303 Lincoln.

Melinda Rae Ann was welcomed home by her sister, Gayle Renee, 6, and her brother, Ricky Martin, 4.

Some programs on the rise

These may be uncertain economic times for some, but not for those in charge of their companies' employee training programs.

According to a recent survey by the Sandy Corp., a training and communications consulting firm in Southfield, Mich., almost 80 percent of corporate trainers expect an increase in training expenditures over the next five years.

More than half of the respondents said they thought computer-assisted training was the wave of the future. A minority expressed reluctance to enter the computer arena. One said: "Computer technology (in training) is faddish...it eliminates the effectiveness of the human element."

The survey included executives from 125 of the nation's top corporations.

MANY HIGH HOPES RESTING ON GAS TAX INCREASE
... Reagan signs measure Thursday as Congressmen look on

Reagan 'restrained' about budget victories

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — House Republican leaders attending White House budget meetings say President Reagan seems to have more restrained expectations of the budget victories he can win in Congress this year.

The president is "in some degree tempering his enthusiasms," Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y., said Thursday evening after the latest in a series of budget meetings Reagan has conducted with GOP members of Congress.

"He has had a tough couple of years and now tends to be more realistic in his relations with congressmen," Conable said. "He's a more complex man than he was."

The Republicans, who have been earnestly lobbying Reagan to moderate his budget course, say the president still has not made any final decisions on the fiscal 1984 spending blueprint he will send to Capitol Hill at the end of the month.

"They (the White House) still obviously don't have things in any concrete form yet," House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois said following the session.

House Republicans were able to deliver major budget victories for the president over the last two years by holding their ranks and attracting dozens of conservative Democrats.

Over the objections of House Democratic leaders, supporters of Reagan's economic plan passed a three-year personal income tax cut, reduced domestic programs by tens of billions of dollars and increased defense spending.

But Democrats picked up 26 seats in the fall elections and they have demonstrated in the early days of the 98th Congress that they will exert firmer control over the chamber.

"I just don't see on real big critical issues we have any hope of the same type of coalition being put together," Michel said.

Some Senate Republican leaders, along with some administration officials, have been pressing Reagan to seek tax increases and defense spending cuts to trim deficits.

Thousands of veterans seek Agent Orange damages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 16,000 Vietnam veterans have told the government that their health was damaged by exposure to the herbicide Agent Orange in Vietnam and asked for compensation.

The Veterans Administration, after examining the 15,867 veterans, acknowledged that about half of them suffered disabling conditions. But the VA but does not agree that Agent Orange was the culprit in any of the cases.

The figures came to light in a report that the VA made available to the American Legion, and that the Legion provided to The Associated Press.

So far, no veterans have been awarded disability compensation on the basis of ailments attributed to the chemical defoliant.

The VA's position is that compensation cannot be paid until research establishes that Agent Orange damaged soldiers' health.

"The best available scientific evidence fails to indicate that exposure to Agent Orange or other herbicides used in Vietnam has caused any long-term health problems for veterans or their children," the VA tells inquiring former servicemen.

A government study will compare the health of veterans who were exposed with those who were not.

'The Upper Room' opens soon

By CAROL HART
Lifestyle Writer

Members of the East Fourth Baptist Church are preparing for the Jan. 14 opening of "The Upper Room," a coffee-house which will operate as a mission of the church, Doyle Rice, outreach missionary for the church, says.

"The Upper Room will be geared to reach people off the streets," Rice says. "We hope to do that with live gospel entertainment. We'll be serving coffee, soft drinks and chips and dips free to the public." There will be no cover charge at the coffee-house, Rice added.

"The Upper Room" is located at 313 Runnels, in what was at one time the Traveler's Cafeteria, next to the Greyhound Bus Station. Members of East Fourth Street Baptist Church found the building after an extensive search, Rice says. Once the building was secured, members of the church began remodeling it to prepare for the Jan. 14 opening.

Church members also assisted in painting the building, rearranging existing counters, and hanging curtains.

"We are renting the building," Rice explains. The project is "supported by the East Fourth Street Baptist Church mission fund."

The coffee-house will open Jan. 14 with Living Water, a gospel group from Levelland. "The Upper Room" will be opened every Friday and Saturday night from 7 p.m. to midnight, Rice says.

Rice said The Upper Room won't be set up like a church program, but "we might have testimonies from time to time, and will be showing films." In the future, The Upper Room hopes to bring Rick Stanley and Vance Greek to Big Spring to perform. Stanley is the step-brother of Elvis Presley, and Greek is an Elvis-imitator who "looks a lot like Elvis." Both men now travel giving testimonies and talking about "their relationship with the Lord," Rice said. "Vance Greek and Rick Stanley work together at revivals," he added.

The Upper Room also hopes to highlight local gospel talents.

Rice said "The Upper Room is geared to bring Christians together in Big Spring. It's open to every Christian in Big Spring. We want our brothers and sisters to feel free to come to this. It's not just for East Fourth Street Baptist Church."

Rice, one of the people responsible for the opening of The Upper Room, said "I've felt the burden for this type of ministry in Big Spring for several years. I've tried to get it started in the past, but could never come up with funding."

Rice remembers talking with a friend, Clifton Platte, about the need for a gathering-place such as The Upper Room. "We wanted a way to reach more Christians."

Once he joined the staff at East Fourth Street Baptist Church, Rice said "I presented the idea to the missions committee. They presented it to the deacons, and then the church voted" on the idea. Members of the church felt "that Big Spring needed this type of ministry, and that our church could be an asset."

DOYLE RICE
...discusses 'The Upper Room'

Rice said he fears "the church is not reaching people effectively. This may be a way to reach people who would never step foot inside a church."

The reaction at East Fourth Street Baptist Church has been positive toward the project. "We're looking forward to this mission to bring God's people together. We're looking forward to winning people to Jesus."

Rice, in addition to working as outreach missionary for East Fourth Street Baptist Church, is working toward a bachelor's degree from the Luther Rice Seminary in Jacksonville, Fla.

"I graduated from Big Spring High School in 1978," he says. "I was saved in August of 1978, and the Lord called me to preach six months after that. I've been in church work ever since, but this is my first church staff position."

Rice and his wife, Peggy, are both involved in a jail ministry. The couple visits inmates in the city and county jail to counsel and serve as witnesses.

Of The Upper Room, Rice says he and other involved are "excited, and welcome it coming. I would say that there is a need for it here, and a lot of other Christians see the need for it."

Baptists to burn note

Members of East Baptist Church, 705 W. Marcy Drive, will conduct a note burning ceremony at 10:55 a.m. Sunday during the regular Sunday morning worship hour according to Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the church.

Dr. Patrick said the ceremony "will climax the completion of a recent building program" undertaken by the church. The building program saw the completion of the Family Life Center, a chapel, a parlor, a kitchen and educational space at the church. The construction added "42,000 square feet of new construction," and saw the remodeling of 6,000 square feet.

The new facilities were dedicated September 1980. Total cost for the new buildings, including furnishings, was $1,500,000, said Dr. Patrick. "The debt has been paid, and Sunday we will burn the note."

Dr. Patrick added that it took two years and three months to liquidate the debt.

First Baptist Church "is now debt-free," Dr. Patrick added.

Blackwood Brothers to appear

The Blackwood Brothers will appear in concert Jan. 18 at the Big Spring Municipal Auditorium. Admission to the concert is free.

The Blackwood Brothers have been associated with gospel music for many years, and tour the country 270 nights a year.

When asked about the different age breakdown of their audiences, Cecil Blackwood, spokesman for the group, said "They are composed of a blend from each age bracket. We offer music that will appeal to all age groups. In each concert, we feature a few songs made popular over the years plus many new songs. We have added some middle of the road style music which has proven to be very popular with the younger set of the audiences."

The Blackwood Brothers often appear on cable television programs, and are seen up to seven times weekly in communities across the United States. Their television show is seen in 15 foreign countries.

Haney to present concert

Members of Christ Fellowship Church, FM 700 and 3401 11th Place, invite the public to hear Don Hal Haney present his ministry of music at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Haney is a pianist, organist and vocal soloist. He encourages audience participation in his programs and is recommended by pastors and other religious leaders throughout the world. According to David Wilkerson, author of "The Cross and the Switchblade," Haney is "an excellent musical artist and a man of God."

Haney was a featured soloist with the World Action Singers of Oral Roberts University on a tour of Europe and in Estonia, U.S.S.R. He worked as a Crusade Associate with David Wilkerson for two years before establishing his own ministry in 1975.

Women's salaries not equal

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — A study of clergy in nine U.S. Protestant denominations finds that female clergy are not getting the salaries and positions of their male counterparts.

The findings, released at the recent meeting of the Society for Scientific Study of Religion, showed that only 15 percent of full-time women ministers who had reached their third parish assignment were earning incomes of $15,000 or more, compared to 56 percent of male clergy.

The study, made by Jackson W. Carroll of the Center for Social and Religious Research at Hartford Seminary, also found that female clergy were six times more likely than males to remain in assistant or associate roles by the time they reached their third parish.

Atheist group files lawsuit

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — An atheist-group, the Freedom from Religion Foundation, has filed suit in federal court asking it to enjoin President Reagan from proclaiming 1983 "The Year of the Bible."

The group claims such a proclamation, as asked in a joint House-Senate resolution, would violate the First Amendment prohibiting establishment of religion. Anne Gaynor, the foundation president, says "most people have no idea what a mean and sordid book the Bible is."

The joint House-Senate resolution says the Bible "has made a unique contribution in shaping the United States" and that "renewing our knowledge of and faith in God through

Natural gas prices may go up more than hoped

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Energy Department, revising an earlier forecast, now says natural gas prices will rise even faster for the rest of the winter than it had anticipated.

In its latest "Short-Term Energy Outlook," the department predicted Thursday that homeowners' bills would rise by 25 percent in the first three months of this year, compared to the same period last year.

The DOE forecast an average price of $6.17 per thousand cubic feet — 20 cents more than it projected in a late September estimate.

DOE officials said the revisions were made because recent data shows gas prices going up more quickly than expected.

Consumer groups said the new figures prove there are serious distortions in the market caused by the failure of interstate pipeline companies to bargain effectively for new supplies.

THE PRICE pipelines charge for gas is based on the average of all prices they pay producers. Faced with slumping demand last year, pipelines were forced to close down some wells.

In many cases they shut in wells supplying low cost gas because they had signed contracts forcing them to pay for newer, more expensive gas. They passed these higher costs on to consumers.

Some congressmen, angry over steep increases in gas prices coming at a same time of record gas surpluses, have called for an immediate price freeze and legislation to force renegotiation of contracts between pipelines and producers.

"This provides more evidence for members of Congress who are already hearing loudly from constituents that prices are zooming to exorbitant heights," said Edwin Rothschild, spokesman for the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition. The consumer spokesman said the latest DOE report presented concrete proof that "take-or-pay contracts" must be dealt with.

But Mike Waters, spokesman for the Natural Gas Supply Association, said the new report showed that "burdensome regulations" in current law were hurting consumers, producers, pipelines and utilities. The association, which represents producers, is in favor of complete decontrol of all gas prices.

THE ENERGY Department report predicted that gas prices will reach $6.60 a thousand cubic feet by the end of 1983 — a 150 percent increase from the $2.63 consumers were paying in 1978, the year Congress voted to begin removing price controls from about 60 percent of gas supplies.

For all of 1983, the DOE projects an average gas price of $6.37 per thousand cubic feet, a 16 percent increase over the $5.48 average in 1982. For the typical homeowner using 96,000 cubic feet of gas annually that would translate into an increase of $86, bringing his annual bill to $612.

The latest price projections were released as Energy Secretary Donald Hodel announced Thursday he will lead a month-long effort to seek a consensus between warring factions in the natural gas industry and consumer groups over how to correct problems in the Natural Gas Policy Act.

Hodel said he hoped to have a recommendation for the president by Feb. 1. The administration is expected to push to fulfill Reagan's campaign pledge to speed up decontrol of prices and extend decontrol to all categories of gas. This is expected to spark a bitter fight in Congress.

THE DOE report offered some good news for homeowners who heat with fuel oil. The report said the average price in 1983 will be $1.22 a gallon, only 2 cents higher than the price two years ago.

On an energy equivalent basis, natural gas is still priced about one-third cheaper than fuel oil.

The DOE predicted that the average price of gasoline in 1983 will be $1.32 a gallon, 3 cents below the top reached immediately after President Reagan decontrolled oil prices in early 1981. This projection does not take into account the 5-cent-a-gallon tax increase that takes effect April 1.

Reagan may rethink arms reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, in a letter to a congressman, says he may have to change his strategic arms reductions proposals to the Soviet Union if Congress fails to approve the MX missile, according to published reports.

Reagan made the statement in a letter sent Tuesday to Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., The Washington Post said in its Friday edition.

Hot and cold BSHS survives

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Question — How does a team turn the ball over 12 times, miss all eight of its foul shots, score just one basket — all in the fourth quarter — and still manage to win the basketball game?

Answer — By playing the same stingy defense as it had done for the previous three quarters.

Clinging jealously to a 14-point lead after three periods, the Big Spring Lady Steers gave Midland High umpteen chances to get back in the game. But in the end, coach Annette Fowler's team pulled off a 45-37 victory over the first place in District 4-A.

Midland's loss evens both teams at 3-1 in league play. For the season, Big Spring squares up at 8-8 while the Bulldogs slip to 11-8. BSHS travels to Odessa Monday for its next district encounter.

For one half, the Lady Steers looked as good as Los Angeles Lakers. A redesigned defense stopped Midland cold while a quick-passing offense consistently found the open player. The result, a 36-19 BSHS lead after two quarters.

Perhaps unsure what to do with such a big lead, the Lady Steers sat on the football in the second half. But the defense performed well again in the third quarter and the Bulldogs were able to chop off only three points from the Big Spring lead.

Then came the fourth quarter, a demonstration of unintentional ineptness on the part of both teams. A desperate Midland defense forced 12 turnovers but the offense couldn't put the ball in the hoop. The Bulldogs were whistled for a dozen mistakes themselves. The only BSHS points came at the 3:48 mark when Monette Wise hit a short jumper.

The eight foul misses gave the Lady Steers a 3-for-19 night, the worst evening of a season-long slump at the stripe. But the defense hung tough and preserved the win which reversed an earlier 10-point loss to the Bulldogs.

"What happened was she (Midland coach Jane Young) switched to a player-to-player defense. That freaked us out," Fowler explained. "We were just hanging on by our thumbs."

"That's what saved us," she said of her team's best defensive showing of the season. "We were really working the baseline." The idea, Fowler said, was to protect the baseline and keep the ball at the perimeter where the guards could pressure turnovers.

Big Spring opened the game by dropping back into a tight zone defense. Midland scorers Sheila Christian and Orvetta Johnson weren't allowed to roam free under the basket as they had done earlier this season. At the BSHS scoring end of the court, crisp passing and some hot shooting from Sylvia Randle and Debra Rubio zoomed the Lady Steers into a 15-10 first quarter lead.

BSHS scored the first six points of the second quarter as Rubio hit a jumper and then stole the ball, turning the theft into an easy layup. Jumpers by Wise and Randle boosted the lead to 33-17 before the half. Wise sunk a free shot and Rutledge scored with 20 seconds left to give the Lady Steers their biggest lead, 36-19, at halftime.

MHS scored the first six points of the second half before Big Spring finally got on the board at 4:32 on a set-shot by Rubio. Rutledge scored from the lane with 12 seconds left to propel BSHS into a 43-27 lead before Rebecca Caton closed the margin to 14 points with a late basket.

The fourth quarter played like a tennis match with the fans trying to follow 24 quick-reversals in possession. Midland trailed by only 10 with 3:48 to play but could get no closer than eight points when Griffin hit with 1:24 to go.

"It'll be tough when we go back over there," Fowler smiled, relieved that game was over. What about the free throws? "I don't know. They're so set in their ways. Monette hit 12 in a row in practice this morning," she answered quizzically.

Rutledge led all scorers with 14 points while Randle added 10. Caton and Christian had 10 each for Midland.

In the junior varsity game, Big Spring closed to within seven points midway through the fourth quarter but a rash of turnovers allowed MHS to run away with a 59-36 victory. Tina Knight scored 14 for the winners while Monique Jones had 12 and Tris Clemons 11 for Big Spring.

Queens lose in tourney

ODESSA — Turnovers, poor shooting and a collapsing three-player defense around leading scorer Nell Haskins cost the Howard College Hawk Queens dearly in a 63-58 loss to Eastern Oklahoma here in the Odessa Classic Thursday afternoon.

The loss drops the No. 2 nationally-rated Queens to 12-3 and into a 4 p.m. consolation semifinal game today against South Plains, 92-70 losers to Moberly Thursday. In other games, San Jacinto North topped Dodge City 64-60 and host Odessa bombed Western Oklahoma 86-55.

Howard's loss was the third in the past four games for the defending Region V champs.

"We made a lot of mistakes and missed a lot of shots," said a discouraging coach Don Stevens Friday morning. "I'm really worried about us. We don't have the intensity we need. I don't think we're as good as people think we are."

The Queens led 32-29 at halftime and built leads as large as nine points in the second half before giving Eastern its chances to get back into the game. The Oklahoma team tied the game with 10 minutes to play and hung on for the five-point victory.

For the contest, the Queens sunk just 18 of 54 shots for 34 per cent and were charged with 22 turnovers.

Stevens said Eastern dropped three players back on Haskins and his team wasn't able to hit its shots from the outside to compensate. Haskins, the No. 2 scorer in the country, still managed 27 points. EO held her to just seven total goals but the sophomore from Orange converted 13 of 16 foul shots to keep her team in the game. She also had 12 rebounds.

Howard had 38 tries at the foul line but could sink just 22 for 58 per cent.

Miller tops in Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Johnny Miller had just finished off a 4-under-par 66 — a single stroke back of Gil Morgan's lead — and was mentally kicking himself for the round that got away.

"After the way I hit the ball, to shoot 66 is a crime. I should be locked up, jailed, for the night," Miller said Thursday after the opening round of the $300,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open, the inaugural event on the 10-month PGA Tour.

The day's play was delayed an hour by frozen greens and eventually was halted by darkness with 17 men stranded on the 6,830-yard Randolph Park Municipal Course. They were scheduled to complete the round at daylight today.

Miller, a four-time winner of this event, built his reputation as golf's Golden Boy on his domination of the desert events. In this one, he said he had a chance to shoot 59, the Tour's all-time record, "but just threw away a lot of shots."

"I was hitting my irons right on the sticks. I hit some flags and lipped out some and I shoot 66. At the very worst it should have been 63. In '74 or '75 it would have been a 61. No question. Absolutely no question about it. And it may have been a 59," Miller said.

He birdied his first five holes, missed four other times from less than six feet, hit the stick and failed to birdie on another, got his approach within six inches of the cup on still another and, after the ball spun back, ended up with a 3-putt bogey.

"I don't know," he said. "I just can't do it any more."

Morgan, a non-winner since 1979, said he benefited from a recent session with his long-time teacher Ernie Vossler, a session that put Morgan's game "in the best shape it's been in a long time, a good or better than it's been in the last two or three years," he said.

He did not make a bogey and took sole control of the top spot with a 15-foot birdie putt on his final hole, which completed a 65.

"I'm kind of surprised," he said. "I'm usually rather a slow starter."

About one-half hour later, Graham said, Stadler also arrived in "exactly the same situation I was in."

Howard (58) — Andrea Fowler 2 0 4; Holl Holloway 2 0 4; Janene Berry 3 4 10; Nell Haskins 7 13 27; Pam Robertson 1 4 6; Susan Cordell 1 1 7; Totals 18 22 58

Hawks, Chaps get nod for OIL tournament

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Leaving it up to Tyler and Western Texas, the two underdogs would be more than happy to meet in the finals of the First Annual OIL Classic Saturday in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Apaches and Westerners have their work cut out for them, however. Tyler tests No. 3 rated and defending national champion Midland in tonight's 7 p.m. tournament opener while WTC tries for a second time against No. 10-ranked and host Howard College at 9 p.m.

The losers play for the consolation championship at 7 p.m. Saturday while the winners battle for the first place trophy in the 9 p.m. game. Tickets per night are $2 for adults and $1 for students, sold at the door both days.

The hometown folks would like to see Howard in the finals, of course, and an HC-Midland battle in the finale would draw the largest crowd of the season into DGC. The game would serve as preview of Thursday's Western Junior College Athletic Conference fight between the two teams in the Tall City.

The Chaps, currently 14-1, are led by 5-6 guard Sped Webb and tough inside scorer Chester Smith, both returning honor players from 1982's banner season. Also scoring points are newcomers Nate Bufford (17 ppg) and Ervin Williams (11 ppg) and sophomore Jerome Crowe (11 ppg).

HC boasts the WJCAC's top scorer and rebounder in sophomore Nate Givens (26.6 ppg and 13.7 rpg). Sophomore Leon Issac scores 14.4 points, freshman Dwight Harris 13.4 points and sophomore Reggie Childress 11.8 points.

As a team, the Hawks are scoring 96 points each contests and hitting 51 per cent from the floor.

Tyler is 5-7 and led by a trio of megatalent players. 6-5 sophomore Rusty McDowell scores 18 points, 6-7 sophomore Oscar Woods 15 points and 6-9 sophomore Michael Kennedy 10 points each night.

Western Texas, national champs in 1974-75 and 1979-80, is 4-10 this year. Michael Speight, a 6-2 sophomore guard, leads the Westerners on the scoreboard with 13.8 points.

The tournament is designed to help all the teams recover from the holidays and prepare for their conference openers HC coach Harold Wilder says.

Y hoop starts Saturday

The 1983 YMCA Youth Basketball Program begins Saturday with games scheduled in three age groups. In the 6-8-year-old league, the Reds meet the Blues at 9:30 a.m. and the Green test the Golds at 10:30 a.m. at Jack & Jill Day School. In the fifth and sixth girls division, the Golds and Greens battle at 9:30 a.m. while the Reds and Blues play at 10:30 a.m., both games at the Y.

The Hawks and Lakers play at 12 noon, Stars and Jazz at 1 p.m. and Bulldogs and Spurs at 2 p.m. in the 9-10 and 11 age group, also at the Y.

ROCKETS TAKE WIN

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Houston Rockets Coach Del Harris says his team is the poorest shooting club in the National Basketball Association. That assessment may come as something of a surprise to the San Diego Clippers, considering the Rockets' Alan Leavell hit a 20-foot jumpshot with one second remaining Thursday night to give Houston a 109-107 triumph over San Diego.

"We're happy with the intensity throughout the 48 minutes," said Harris, whose team ended an eight-game losing streak with the victory. "We're playing about like we've been playing and our problems are basically that we're the poorest shooting team in the league."

Leavell, who finished the game with 17 points and 13 assists, said he almost passed up taking the winning shot when he saw a momentary opening closer to the basket.

Major Jones scored a career-high 21 points, all in the second half, and Calvin Murphy added 16 in the final two periods as the Rockets rallied to overcome a 57-49 halftime deficit. The Rockets were outmanned for much of the game after their leading scorer and rebounder,

Glasscock

pecans win

Four Glasscock County residents won awards at the 1982 Regional Pecan Show held in Wichita Falls.

School Superintendent Don Stringer displayed the champion native variety at the show. For his winners, he received a plaque and a ribbon.

Judy Kingston exhibited the first place Success, and Eugene Hirt showed the first place Imperial.

George Schawrtz was a double winner at the show, taking a second with his Mahan variety and a third with his Delmas entry.

John Robinson won a second place award for his John Garner variety.

These winners will now advance to state competition.

NCAA strikes again

• Oklahoma City hit with sanctions

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Oklahoma City University officials say they are trying to help their athletic department comply with NCAA regulations, but their efforts didn't prevent the school from receiving a two-year probation for violations.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association announced Thursday in Mission, Kan., that a wide range of violations, including a cash Christmas present to the school's basketball team, led it to assess its second probation in two days. The NCAA on Wednesday slapped Wichita State with a two-year penalty for violations in its football program.

Oklahoma City officials responded to the announcement with a three-sentence statement and refused further comment.

The entire athletic program was put on probation, although most of the violations occurred in the basketball program, said Charles Alan Wright, chairman of the NCAA Committee on Infractions. He said most of the violations took place in 1979 and 1980.

The NCAA penalty bars the basketball team from playing in any televised or post-season games this year.

Oklahoma City University President Dr. Jerald Walker issued a terse statement Thursday night:

"Internal management systems have been in place since the fall of 1980 to provide more effective monitoring of the university's intercollegiate athletic programs toward the end of upholding NCAA rules.

"It must be remembered, however, that an individual can, if so determined, subvert the best monitoring program.

"It is the institution's policy to conduct its varsity athletic programs in full compliance with NCAA policies and regulations," the statement said.

An investigation of the Oklahoma City program turned up violations involving extra benefits to student-athletes and improper use of funds, financial aid, transportation, entertainment, tryouts, scouting and certification of compliance, Wright said.

The NCAA said the university reported the violations, and that the school's former athletic director and former members of the basketball coaching staff were involved.

In its report, the NCAA cited nine examples of extra benefits and improper transportation supplied to student-athletes or prospective student athletes between August 1979 and the summer of 1980. The NCAA said violations involved credit given for commercial flights to and from the university, and automobile rides to and from the school.

The violators included the head basketball coach, assistant basketball coach and the head tennis coach.

A spokesman at the school said the head coach in question was Ken Trickey, who also was the school's athletic director. He said the assistant coach included in the investigation was Gene Andruss and the tennis coach was Henry Tryon.

The NCAA said Trickey, now a coach at Century High School near Cairo, Ill., also distributed "a small amount of cash" to the team as a Christmas present in December 1979.

• Should WSU drop sports?

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — The president of probation-plagued Wichita State University says he wonders if the school should drop its athletic program if it can't abide by NCAA rules.

"Some people may ask why we don't get out of athletics," WSU President Clark Ahlberg said Thursday. "If we can't run a program without violations, maybe we ought to get out of it."

Wichita State has been stung for a record seventh time for violating NCAA rules. The school's football program received a two-year probation Wednesday for recruiting violations. Its basketball program was cited last year and placed on a three-year probation. The university president said part of the answer to the problem could be to "create an environment in which people are conscious of the fact this institution is in trouble."

The NCAA issued sanctions against WSU for five violations of its rules by the head football coach, an assistant coach and a graduate assistant. Three of the five violations the recruiting effort aimed at Dennis "Tex" Allen, a Dallas-area junior college athlete who now attends Kansas State University.

Ahlberg on Thursday said he froze the salaries of football coach Willie Jeffries and assistant coach Floyd Henson at their 1982 levels. They also were prohibited from recruiting off-campus until May 1.

Acting Athletic Director Dr. C. Russell Wentworth said the rest of the coaching staff got pay raises of about 5 percent on Jan. 1. Records show Jeffries' salary is $50,300 a year with an additional $17,000 in income from radio and television shows. Henson makes about $28,500.

Jeffries denied NCAA allegations he had told an athlete and his family to lie to investigators. He also denied giving a football player cash during WSU's recruiting effort.

The NCAA barred the Shockers from bowl games following the 1983 and 1984 seasons and from appearing in televised games during those years. The Missouri Valley Conference school will be allowed only 25 football scholarships in each of those years instead of the normal 30.
