'OUTSIDERS' SUSPECTED

Marshall Judge Orders Probe Of Negro Protests

MARSHALL (AP)—Dist. Judge Sam B. Hall today ordered the Harrison County grand jury to probe for possible outside influences in last week's turbulent sit-down protests against lunch counter segregation.

Judge Hall told the jury, "If you can carve out any indictment against outsiders, you would be doing a service to the county and to local Negroes."

Negro college students demonstrated here for eight days, beginning Saturday a week ago, against segregated lunch counters in downtown stores.

Authorities arrested 71 of them on various charges, including unlawful assembly, illegal picketing and failure to leave stores when asked to do so.

Judge Hall termed the demonstrations "uncalledfor occurrences" and that they were "not a child of the local citizens."

"We have had (racial) peace and tranquility for the past 75 years here," the judge said.

He called the situation unfortunate and said it was not brought about by local Negroes, "But was brought about by outsiders who do not have the best interests of the county or the local Negroes at heart."

Hall said Negroes are "misinformed" about their rights to eat at all white lunch counters.

"This is not a right but a privilege," the judge told the grand jury.

"Likewise, all-Negro lunch counters are not for whites. If the operators permitted it, it would be a privilege, but there is no legal status to demand service not offered."

Referring to previous Supreme Court decisions on racial matters, the judge added that "the nine men on the U.S. Supreme Court can, with one stroke of the pen, undo all the good you do in there.

"I do not question their having the power to do it, but I seriously question their having the right to do it."

Judge Hall praised law enforcement officers for what he termed "the masterful way" in which they dealt with the demonstrations. He said they took an "impartial yet firm stand."

No evidence has become known that any persons other than students have participated in the sit-in demonstrations, climaxed last Wednesday when 700 were driven from the courthouse lawn by streams from fire hoses.

One of the student leaders is Roosevelt Peabody East St. Louis, Ill. Two others out of nine who initiated the sit-downs were identified by police as being from out of state.

Dallas attorneys for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People have helped the Negro students who were jailed.

Oscar Night Tonight Will See Winners

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tonight is Oscar night and the nation, via television, will get a look at the prettiest bunch of unemployed workers in history.

The month-old actors strike will put a pall over the 32nd annual Academy Awards but the public won't see it. The 90-minute show—NBC-TV 10:30 p.m., EST promises to be as gay and glamorous as ever.

If more time is needed, an extra 30 minutes will be tagged on the end. Last year the two-hour show found itself with 20 minutes of embarrassing dead air.

Fourteen of the 20 acting nominees will be on hand, including the two favorites for best actress —Elizabeth Taylor and Simone Signoret—both wearing gowns by the same Parisian designer.

Audrey Hepburn, also a potential winner, is kept in Europe by pregnancy and Katharine Hepburn, who seldom appears at industry functions, will be home in Connecticut. Doris Day, nominated for a comedy performance in "Pillow Talk," is not listed among favorites but will be present.

Of the top actor nominees, only veteran Paul Mini will be absent. Favorite is Charlton Heston who is expected to win on a "Ben-Hur" sweep but James Stewart and Jack Lemmon could take it. Lemmon, who won the supporting Oscar with a comedy protrayal a few years ago, could repeat in the top acting category. It would make him the first actor to ever win in both divisions and comedy is the hard way to do it.

Laurence Harvey, the Britisher, also is rated an outside chance for his "Room at the Top" performance.

In the supporting categories, Hugh Griffith, a favorite, is in England; George Scott is in a New York play and Thelma Ritter is at sea on a world cruise.

Shelly Winters and Ed Wynn, favorites for their performances in "The Diary of Anne Frank," will be on hand.

Some of the biggest names in the business will hand out awards including Gary Cooper, Olivia de Havilland, Tony Curtis, Fred Astaire, Doris Day, Susan Hayward, John Wayne, Natalie Wood, Rock Hudson, Mitzi Gaynor, Edmond O'Brien, Robert Ryan, Gina Lollobrigida and Gene Kelly. Entertainment will be furnished by Yves Montand, (husband of Miss Signoret) Ella Fitzgerald, Joni James, Frankie Laine, Gogi Grant, Frankie Vaughan and Sammy Davis Jr.

Bob Hope, the all-time Oscar champ at these affairs, will be emcee.

But the big star will be Oscar—the little gold statuette—as always.

Business Men Move Against Negro Boycott

By The Associated Press

Merchants moved swiftly today to counteract a threatened boycott by integration-seeking Negroes in one Texas city while a proposal for the mass withdrawal of students at a Louisiana university appeared to be losing ground.

At Greensboro, N.C., where sit-down demonstrations began Feb. 1, a Negro leader said students have set their elders an example. He urged adults to stop "sitting on the sidelines wringing your hands."

Merchants at Marshall, Tex., called a meeting Tuesday night to talk about "the situation that confronts us." One unidentified merchant said the possibility of an economic boycott against Negroes might be discussed.

Negroes last week threatened boycott of local stores after more than 70 were arrested for integration demonstrations, lunch counter sit-ins, and picketing. All have been released on bond.

Courthouse Square Merchants admitted their business was off sharply Saturday. Marshall is a city of about 30,000 that takes pride in its old South traditions.

FEW LEAVE

At Baton Rouge, La., J. J. Hedgemon, dean of registration at all-Negro Southern University said less than 200 students had left. The registration office was opened Sunday to permit withdrawals.

Student leaders originally asked the entire student body of about 5,000 to withdraw because of the arrest of nine students in connection with sit-in demonstrations protesting segregated lunch counters.

Thurgood Marshall, chief attorney of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, told 1,000 Negroes attending a meeting at Bennett College in Greensboro, N.C., that "the world will never condone oppression of minorities."

He said business firms catering to the general public are not private property. If the owners maintain they are private, the Negro should "make it private. Close it up," he said.

ORGANIZE

Students representing 17 colleges and universities in seven states recommended a South-wide organization for promoting the sit-in movement and urged extended picketing and boycotting. They were attending a college workshop at interracial Highlander Folk School at Monteagle, Tenn.

A seven-foot cross was burned in front of the municipal auditorium at Columbus, Ga., Sunday night during a Negro gospel meeting attended by about 4,000 persons. No incidents were reported.

Other racial developments:

Durham, N. C.—The Rev. A. C. Thomas, an unordained white minister who holds integrated church services in his home, told police vandals smeared his home and car with swastikas and obscene words over the weekend.

Bessemer, Ala.—A sheriff's investigator planned to confer with other authorities to determine whether any charges would be brought against four white men in connection with whipping a white woman they said dated Negro men. The woman denied the accusations. Officers said the unidentified men were detained and later released without charge.

ON TRIAL

Birmingham, Ala. — Two Negro ministers and 10 college students go on trial in recorder's court tonight in connection with sit-down demonstrations at downtown eating places last week. All are free on $300 bond each.

Atlanta — The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., a Negro integration leader, says schools are being conducted in the South to pick and train Negroes best suited for passive resistance to segregation.

Tallahassee, Fla. — Dr. Robert M. Strozier, president of Florida State University, says he has found no basis for reports faculty members were encouraging sit-down demonstrations. Six white students from FSU were arrested with 29 Negroes during a sit-in protest last month. Their cases have not been set for trial.

Boycott Causes Business Loss

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Troops and police clubbed hundreds of Negroes in the Cape Town area today who failed to join a native back-to-work movement. Police also staged house-to-house raids and shooting was heard in one township.

An African priest telephoned from Nyanga East native settlement, a center of racial unrest, saying two were killed and three wounded. Later reports from another Negro there said police opened fire and four Africans were wounded.

It appeared Africans were assembled atop a small hill in Nyanga, defying police armored cars. This was where the firing was reported.

Across the country, near Durban, one Negro was killed when police charged scattered demonstrators at Claremont native township. Unrest also continued in other places over wide areas of the troubled country.

BREAK BOYCOTT

The tough police moves apparently were aimed at breaking up the Negro work boycott in Cape Town once and for all. The Negro stay-at-home campaign had hit this big port city hardest of all South Africa's major population centers. The campaign was started two weeks ago to back up a drive against the passes all non-whites must carry.

Authorities waited this morning to see if the Negroes would return to work today. When they realized that most of them had, they moved in on the holdouts still at home.

The raids followed what appeared to be Cape Town's quiet est day since the current racial trouble began.

The Chamber of Commerce had reported about 60 per cent of the Negroes back at work and said the "labor situation seemed to be coming back to normal." Trains and buses bringing nonwhite workers in to the city were full again.

The African "stay-at-home" campaign has been costly. The Chamber of Commerce estimated the business loss in Cape Town alone at 2 million pounds—$5,600,000.

STILL RESTLESS

Negro townships were still restless, like a hissing bomb that could explode at any moment. Troop reinforcements were flown to Durban Sunday to keep an eye on Cato Manor.

Armored police cars roam the settlements, but it is difficult to find out what the Negro leaders are planning and thinking.

The government has accused them of resorting to intimidation to keep alive the campaign of defiance. Whether this is true or not, it is apparent that the strength and organization of such political movements as the Pan Africanist Congress and the African National Congress are much stronger than the whites ever believed.

"All elements are present for the development not only of a crisis but of a national catastrophe," said the Afrikaans Sunday newspaper Dagbreek.

"We can put it out of our minds to suppress this awakening by violence. We shall have to make room for the political awakening of the black man," the paper said.

NO RETREAT

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd is chairman of the trust controlling the newspaper. But the nationalist government has given no indication that "making room" for the Negro means any relaxation in strict segregation, its apartheid policy.

For the whites, living goes on pretty much as usual though they have to do some of the chores normally left to the Negroes. There has been no sign of panic.

Movie theaters and restaurants are filled as ever. All shops and stores remain open.

Permission must be obtained for public meetings, but local magistrates are allowing most applications. Sports events, dances and club outings were in full swing during the feekend.

The ban on meetings was aimed mainly at Negro meetings in fear African political leaders would incite demonstrations.

Under the emergency there is no official censorship except on the names of persons arrested. But newspapers, magazines and radio stations are leaning backward to avoid reporting anything that might be regarded as incitement.

Official news sources in Cape Town, the parliamentary seat, are difficult to reach. Most information on the situation created by the Negro demonstrations is given out by army headquarters rather than by the police.

Three City Council Places To Be Filled Here Tuesday

Tuesday is election day again in Big Spring.

This time voting switches to the fire station at the City Hall to name three members of the city commission.

Only incumbents are on the ballot for two-year terms. They are Mayor Lee O. Rogers, John Taylor and George Zachariah.

The voting potential for the election has been considerably broadened by annexations last year, which added several thousand new residents to the city proper.

All those in the annexed areas, who are otherwise qualified to vote, will be eligible to cast ballots in the election, as well as those who were previously inside the corporate limits.

Polls open at 8 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. There is only the one voting box for all the city.

Sunday Night On Brisk Side

If you thought that Sunday night was a bit on the brisk side, weatherwise, you were right.

The temperature toppled to a chilly 30 degrees and there was a touch of frost according to the U. S. Experiment Station. The frost was in evidence on buildings and grass and left thin skims of ice in puddles which were created by the showers of the weekend. Officially, the moisture for the weekend interval was . 2 inch.

Mistakes Cited In Plane Crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—Improper maintenance and inadequate inspection were blamed today for the fatal crash of a commercial cargo plane at Dyess Air Force Base, Abilene, Tex., on Sept. 2.

The only persons aboard the plane were killed. They were Capt. William J. Bagus, 36, and the first officer, Erceill Maher, 38.

Campaigning Nears Climax As Wisconsin Prepares Vote

MILWAUKEE, U. S. (AP) — Campaigning comes to a climax in Wisconsin today and the state is a political sphinx on the eve of its crucial presidential primary election.

Upwards of a million voters, and possibly more, go to the polls Tuesday.

They allocate delegate votes to the nominating conventions of both major political parties. But far more important is the potential psychological effect of the balloting on the outlook for the two Democratic rivals, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota.

With good reason, Wisconsin has come to be known as "the graveyard of candidates."

An air of caution pervades Kennedy's camp. His supporters have sharply tempered the exuberant predictions they were making earlier in the campaign.

Vice versa, Humphrey looks and acts more confident than he did a few weeks ago. "I believe we will obtain a majority of the delegates," he said. "And I would consider that a substantial victory."

HUMPHREY GAINS

A recent poll in Wisconsin indicated that Humphrey has gained on Kennedy, although Kennedy is still the front runner.

This seemed to check with findings by two of Kennedy's professional aides.

One took samplings in Milwaukee Sunday. He said he found an edge for Kennedy. But his tabulation fell well below the two-to-one, or even three-to-one margin Kennedy is supposed to enjoy in the Milwaukee districts.

"What surprised me even more," he said, "was that about 22 per cent said they didn't know. I've never found that many still undecided 48 hours before an election."

The other Kennedy lieutenant, who has been concentrating on labor union voters, said he could not tell how these votes will go. The AFL-CIO leadership in the state is boosting Humphrey.

You hear much less talk today of a Kennedy "grand slam" — that is, that he will get the highest total vote, scoop up the delegates in all 10 congressional districts, and win all the at-large delegates. The total is 30, with the 31st already split between him and Humphrey.

TWO REASONS

There are two reasons for this eleventh-hour uncertainty:

1. No one can say with precision how injecting the religious issue into the campaign will effect either Humphrey or Kennedy. Humphrey is a Protestant and Kennedy is a Roman Catholic.

Anti-Catholic literature was distributed Sunday on the street near the hotel where Kennedy is staying. Tracts of a similar nature were handed to persons entering a television station where he and Humphrey appeared in the afternoon.

Both lashed out against it on the TV programs.

"I deplore above all things in my life," Humphrey said, "this injection of what I call religious intolerance into the campaign."

He was asked, on a panel program, whether he had heard that "subtle and effective use of the religious issue" had been made on his behalf in the campaign.

With a flush of irritation, he snapped: "Can you imagine anything more ridiculous than this extraordinary charge? It's a very serious political charge. But what's the evidence for it."

NO BLOC

Humphrey said he did not believe there is a "Catholic vote" and gave as evidence the results of various elections in his home state.

About 30 per cent of the voters in Wisconsin are Catholics.

The state law permits a voter to ballot for either a Republican or Democratic candidate.

2. The second great imponderable in the battle as it stands now is the extent to which Humphrey's campaign has caught on with the voters.

His backers insist he has picked up momentum in the past few days. Neutral observers tend to agree.

But no one knows whether he has gained enough to offset Kennedy's early lead.

Humphrey contrasts his record on legislation relating to farm problems with Kennedy's record. He contrasts his financial position with Kennedy's.

During a series of questions about their respective campaign expenditures, Humphrey shot out, with a flash of annoyance: "Let's not kid ourselves, gentlemen. I know a Greyhound bus costs less than a Convair."

Kennedy has been travelling by private airplane, Humphrey largely by bus.

They were on television Sunday for a total of two full hours.

Each appeared on different half hour panel shows. Then each came before the same panel, but at separate times, for a half hour.

Pickets Arrested

These two Negro youths were arrested shortly after they started picketing the F. W. Woolworth store in downtown Marshall. The arresting officer is W. D. Stanfield. The two youths were led off to jail shortly after picture was made.

Rev. Alexander Dies In Crash

The Rev. William H. Alexander, pastor of the First Christian Church in Oklahoma City, and Mrs. Alexander were killed last night in a plane crash at Camp Hill, a suburb of Harrisburg, Pa.

N. S. Shumman of Enid, Okla., their pilot, was also killed when their plane crashed into a parking lot after narrowly missing some houses and a crowded highway.

The Rev. Alexander appeared here last November as speaker for the Texas Electric Service Company Quarter Century Club meeting. He was widely known in the Southwest as a speaker.

In 1954 he was an unsuccessful GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate and he was chaplain for the Republican Party in 1952 when President Eisenhower was first elected. He and the president became fast friends. His church was one of the largest in the denomination.

Tag Sales Ease But Tempo Fair

Sale of 1960 automobile tags moved ahead Monday but at a more leisurely pace than it followed all of last week. Those showing up Monday usually signed affadavits they had not driven their cars since midnight on April 1. Such affadavits saved them the 20 per cent penalty which is now applicable to license plates.

It was announced that Friday's business was brisk but not the biggest of the last week before deadline. Gross receipts for car plates on Friday were $25,881.41. This brought the total car $155,608.10.

DiMaggio Has 2 'Bad Banks'

HOUSTON (AP) — Two ornaments in his home proved to be bad "banks" Sunday for restaurateur Joe Dimaggio.

Dimaggio's wife told police that $1,110 in currency and coins were taken from a vermouth bottle and a chalk dog in the Dimaggio home.

The couple operate an Italian restaurant here.

Bolstered Grand Jury Is Convened

A grand jury comprising nine of the original panel and three new members, including a new foreman, began work Monday morning on 25 criminal cases.

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District court, had recalled the grand jurors in order to catch up on accumulated cases which have been filed since the initial session early in 1960.

It had been previously announced that two members of the original jury would not be in attendance. One, Boone Cramer, has died since the jury was first organized. Another W. J. Barnes, is seriously ill and cannot serve. This morning, it was revealed that Robert J. Cook, foreman, had been called out of town unexpectedly on business and would not be able to report.

Judge Caton instructed Fern Cox, deputy sheriff, to bring in six talesmen. One of these was disqualified when it was shown he had not paid his current poll tax. Another was excused because he said he was badly needed on his job. From the four remaining, Lee Hanson, George Hill and Charles Lusk were selected and added to the jury.

Judge Caton then appointed Clifton Bellamy as the new foreman. The jurors filed to their conference room and immediately began work. The third floor corridor of the court house was jammed with defendants and witnesses waiting their turn to appear before the grand jury.

Other members of the jury are Rufus Davidson, Floyd McIntyre, A. C. McClendon, R. W. River, H. C. Tidwell, Domingo Abrego, W. E. Buckner and Mrs. Roy Rogan.

It was estimated the jury would complete its work in two days.

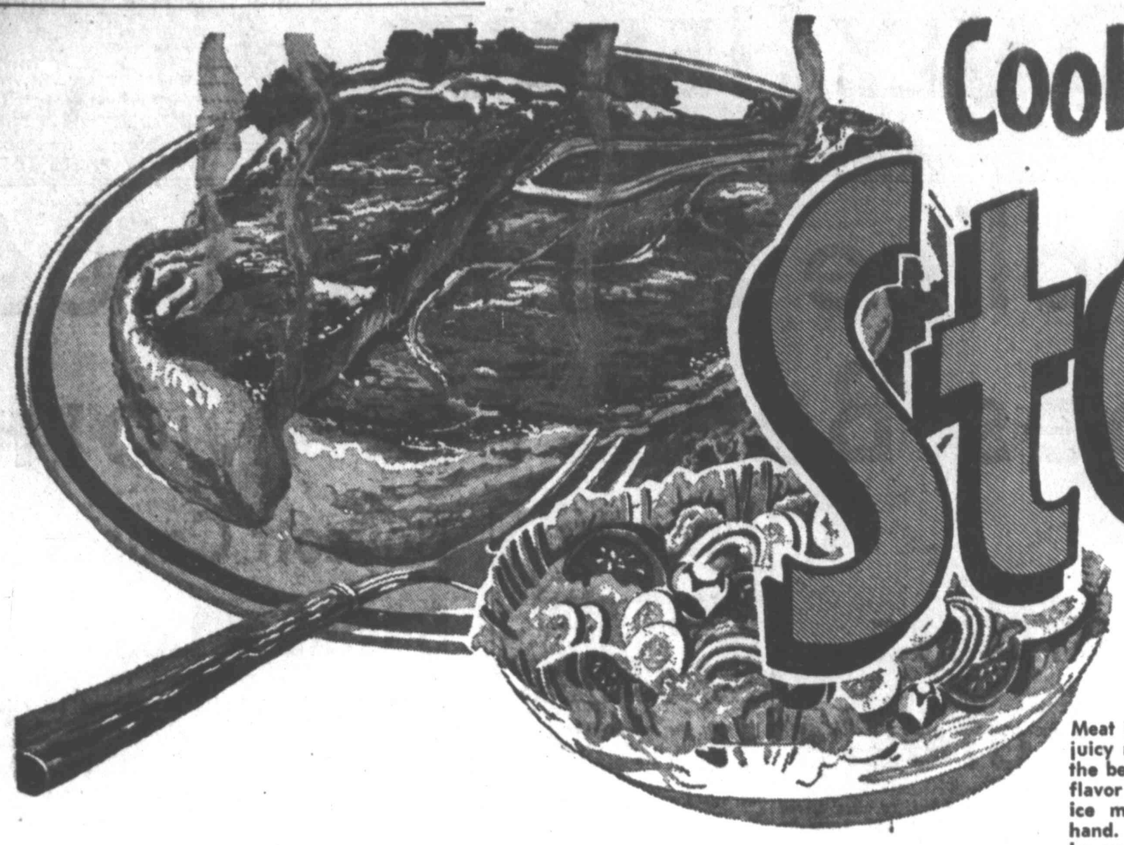

Hurry for the Hundred

Entries in the "How Big Is Big Spring" census contest must be postmarked no later than next Sunday, April 8, to be counted.

Send your estimate as to the city's official 1960 population, with name and address, on a U.S. postcard, to Box 1391. Only one entry.

Better get in on this — now! (P.S.: Be sure you are counted in the official enumeration).

Boycott Talk Follows City Race Trouble

MARSHALL (AP) — Economic boycotts posed a threat to Marshall today in the wake of a turbulent week that saw more than 70 Negro college students arrested for lunch counter sit-ins and picketing of firms that refused them service.

A closed meeting of downtown merchants has been called by a small group of businessmen to discuss "the situation that confronts us." The session is set for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the American Legion Hall.

One of the signers of a letter calling the meeting said a economic boycott against Negroes would be mapped, apparently in retaliation against an earlier threat by students to boycott the downtown stores.

But some of the merchants who were asked to attend the meeting discounted any possibility of a boycott. Many stores around the square reported sales dipped during last week's tensions and several expressed a desire to "get this over with and let business get back to normal."

There were no indications what forms the boycotts would take if they were attempted.

Meanwhile, Marshall had a quiet Sunday. There had been reports that Negro students would attempt to attend white churches but none appeared at the services.

Student leaders refused to say what their future action will be. The presidents of both Bishop and Wiley colleges have asked that the students discontinue their sit-ins, picketing and other demonstration. Only Wiley students participated in Saturday's picketing, the only activity of the day.

'Anybody Out There?' Earth Asks As Sky Search Begins

EDITOR'S NOTE — Is there life on other planets? Some astronomers think so, and today for the first time they are turning the earth's ear to try to catch sounds of faraway life. In this first in a three-part series, AP science writer Alton Blakeslee explains the quest of Project Ozma.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

GREEN BANK, W. Va. (AP)—Earthlings today begin a search to hear signals from intelligent life somewhere else in our universe.

Many scientists are convinced somebody is out there, somewhere among billion times billions of stars, and probably billions of other planets.

Seeking contact, young astronomers here first are pointing the giant ear of a radio telescope at two fairly nearby stars which may have planets, and perhaps intelligent life.

Just conceivably, those planets may be beaming "Is anyone there" signals at earth, explains Dr. Frank D. Drake, 29-year-old associate astronomer of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory perched in this mountainous hamlet of only 100 souls.

Or perhaps new and sensitive equipment here can pick up commands they are sending to their own space probes, as we are sending signals out to our recent Venus probe.

Today Dr. Drake and associates are installing the special equipment in the 85-foot radio telescope pointing a shiny, cup-shaped ear out into space.

Tonight or Tuesday if all goes well, they will actually begin listening for the first time on earth for messages from far out there.

Success on this first venture is scarcely to be hoped for, astronomers concede.

Yet there is a faint chance man will suddenly receive the electrifying answer to one of his questions: "Is there intelligent life elsewhere than on earth?"

Many hours every day for a month the radio telescope will hunt for coded signals along frequencies which life elsewhere might be beaming right now at us.

After a month, if no word comes this first vigil will end and the radio telescope will resume doing other astronomical research.

But the quest will be resumed later, probably with more powerful receivers, "for there is no doubt in the minds of many or most of astronomers that some day success will be achieved—now or 100 years from now, but some day," Dr. Drake declares.

The handsome, gray-eyed astronomer with graying-brown hair mainly conceived and is directing this search named Project Ozma, after the queen of fictional Oz, "a place very far away, difficult to reach, and populated by strange and exotic beings."

The initial targets are two stars, Tau Ceti and Epsilon Eridani, each barely visible to the naked eye, in our southern skies.

Each is about the size of our own sun or star, and each is about 11 light years away. A light year is the distance light travels in one year at its speed of 186,400 miles per second. That means each star is about 66 thousand billion-66 trillion-miles away.

A radio signal would take 11 years to reach us too, since radio waves travel at the speed of light.

"We could quickly beam back an acknowledgement, but it would take another 11 years—from now until 1971—for them to receive it and know we had replied. And until 1982 for us to get the message they had heard us."

A 22-year "Hello-hello" — long enough to give pause even to a teen-ager on the telephone—would mean decades before much intelligent knowledge could be exchanged.

To be recognizable despite language difficulties, the first signal might only state the value of pi, or the atomic weight of uranium, or some other mathematical or physical fact which intelligent life on any planet ultimately would have learned, Dr. Drake theorizes.

Despite all difficulties, the search has begun to seek word from life beyond this earth.

Tomorrow: Man may not be alone.

Youth Parley Gains Praise

DALLAS (AP)—The unity between the grass-roots citizenry and the federal government was displayed at the White House Conference on Children and Youth, Sen. Lyndon Johnson said Sunday.

The senator discussed the meeting that took place in Washington last week on his weekly recorded talk over Texas radio stations.

About 7,000 persons took part in the meeting with "one interest in mind—the welfare of our nation's young people."

Johnson said that information compiled for the conference shows:

The population of the United States is 180 million. This is an increase of 28 million since 1950.

Families are getting larger. Studies show that 58 per cent of all children in the country are in families of three or more children. The proportion of families with one child has decreased.

About 44 per cent of the children under 18 live in seven states —Texas, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and California.

Johnson pointed out some of the problems that exist:

Juvenile delinquency continues to rise; classroom and teacher shortages exist in many areas; city slums provide a breeding ground for juvenile crime; public health and welfare services face serious manpower shortages.

Marshall, Proud Of Dixie Tradition, Had No Violence

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK

MARSHALL (AP) — This East Texas city, proud of strict adherence to Southern segregation customs for more than a century came face to face last week with a 1960 situation and emerged without a single instance of race violence.

"We want no Little Rock here," Dist. Atty. Charles Allen told newsmen who flocked here when scores of Negro students from two local colleges sought service at all-white lunch counters.

While integration of schools, buses, recreation facilities and even lunch counters has begun in a number of Texas cities, it was generally agreed that the last place in the state where Negroes would seek an end to segregation would be Marshall. Because of its strict hewing to century-old customs, Marshall has been considered an explosive tinder box of racial strife should integration be attempted.

Yet hundreds of Negro students have staged a weeklong demonstration here without bloodshed.

There are several reasons Marshall has not become a second Little Rock.

While the students sought arrest to test laws now barring them from service to which they feel entitled, they employed no violence and indicated they wanted none.

The majority of white citizens who boast that Marshall has never been a scene of race violence, were equally desirous of avoiding bloody clashes. The placards and tactics used against Negroes in Little Rock would be diametrically opposed to the tranquility they seek.

The result was an underlying battle of wits and legal maneuvering here.

Insistence on strict law and order by Allen, a key figure in handling last week's potentially explosive situation, was perhaps the major single factor in keeping Marshall from becoming another Little Rock. And in this he had the support of all community leaders and most of the citizens.

Allen told the students they had their rights but the whites also had theirs, and that he would tolerate no infringement by either race on rights of the other.

Fearing flareups between what he termed the "hotheads of both races," he talked to separate groups of white and Negro youths, warning them there would be no toleration or provocative acts. Allen spurned offers of volunteer "vigilantes" and insisted that only experienced peace officers be used for maintaining order. When breeders of vicious police dogs appeared on the courthouse square and heightened tension, he ordered them out of the city.

The presence of a large number of Texas Rangers and State Highway Patrolmen, experienced in handling racial situations impartially, was another deterrent to any violence.

Intensive patroling by local and out-of-town squad cars with instructions to pick up potential troublemakers—white or Negro—also helped prevent outbreaks.

The only incidents were between local officers and visiting newsmen and photographers.

A minority of white residents turned the wrath they held against the protesting Negroes onto newsmen and photographers, blaming and even cursing them for being here and accusing them of encouraging the demonstrations.

But the majority of whites, while regretting what they considered unfavorable publicity, knew that the presence of out-of-town newspaper, wire service, radio and television men made it doubly important that no violence occur. They knew that the eyes of Texas were literally on Marshall.

Although fire hoses were turned on demonstrating Negroes and there were a few so far unconfirmed reports of rough handling, the students knew that even the arresting officers were their protection against possible violence.

Almost without exception, the students were well mannered and cooperated fully with the officers. And almost without exception, there was no complaint on the part of students about the manner in which they were treated by officers.

Whether the Negroes are to attain any degree of integration remained an unanswered and even bitter question in Marshall.

But this city, proud of its 19th Century traditions, passed its test of meeting a 20th Century situation without violence.

Complete Moving Service Fits Into Modern Living

Modern way of life makes it imperative that more folk move from one address to another or from one town to another than ever in the history of this nation.

Time was in the old days when a family would occupy one house for their entire lifetime and often for the lifetime of their children. After the first mass migration of the pioneers there was a long period when moving was looked upon as a sort of instability — a weakness of character.

Today the demands of modern life make it necessary that nearly all of us do more or less moving from place to place. We seek out and provide ourselves with more commodious homes; our jobs require that we transfer our residence to other towns, other states and, sometimes, even to other countries.

To cope with this new trend, a new sort of business has developed and has become a major enterprise in this country. Moving and storage operations are definitely big business in these United States. Like any such business, the firm which wants to stay in the game and grow is the one where the best service, best equipment, and the most skill is developed.

Harvey Wooten Transfer & Storage at 506 E. 2nd, is such an establishment. Wooten is prepared to handle any sort of moving assignment. He has the equipment to do the work right; he has the men trained to perform the task properly. He has the facilities and connections to see to it that any moving demand is met efficiently and properly.

If you have a move coming up, why not call Wooten and let him handle the details. All you have to do is dial AM 4-7741. Tell Wooten your problem. Get his figures and the chances are that you'll tell him to do the job. From then on your worries are over.

Quality Work Costs You Less

Ever try to lay a line of brick? Or build forms for a cement walk? Or plan a planter or remodeling job on your house?

For the do-it-yourself man with a little experience, it is a difficult job. For the inexperienced, it is nearly impossible to finish with a professional looking job.

For really good cement or stone work around your home, give Charles Campbell an opportunity to give you an estimate. He will give you an expertly finished planter, or remodeling job by expert craftsman.

"Quality concrete work costs less" is the motto of Campbell, and he says he can prove it to you. The telephone number is AM 4-2407 and he lives in the Hilldale Addition.

Regardless what improvements you have planned, Campbell can handle the job well. Experience and knowledge are important when working with cement, brick and stone.

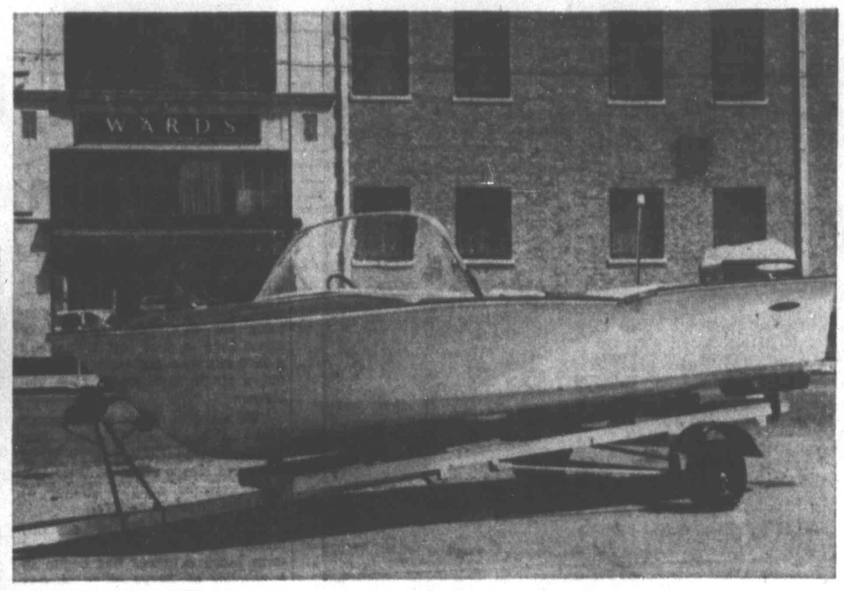

With cement, there is more to the mixture that sloshing the cement, gravel and water toegther. It must be carefully prepared if it is to be a permanent addition to your home.

Bricklaying is also important if it is to stay put. Not an easy task in the first place, if done correctly, laying a wall of brick properly for strength and show can offer many problems. Everything from mortar preparation to proper alignment must be met and tackled.

The easy, inexpensive way to add quality cement and brick improvements around your home is to call Charles Campbell.

THE NEGRO IN AMERICA—1

The Colonial Years Were A Period Of African Influx

Editor's Note—From earliest times, the Negro has played a part in the taming of the American continent. However, his role was that a slave—and one which, an eminent historian comments, denied his "moral personality." From this very old institution, harrowing troubles would flow later, for master and slave alike.

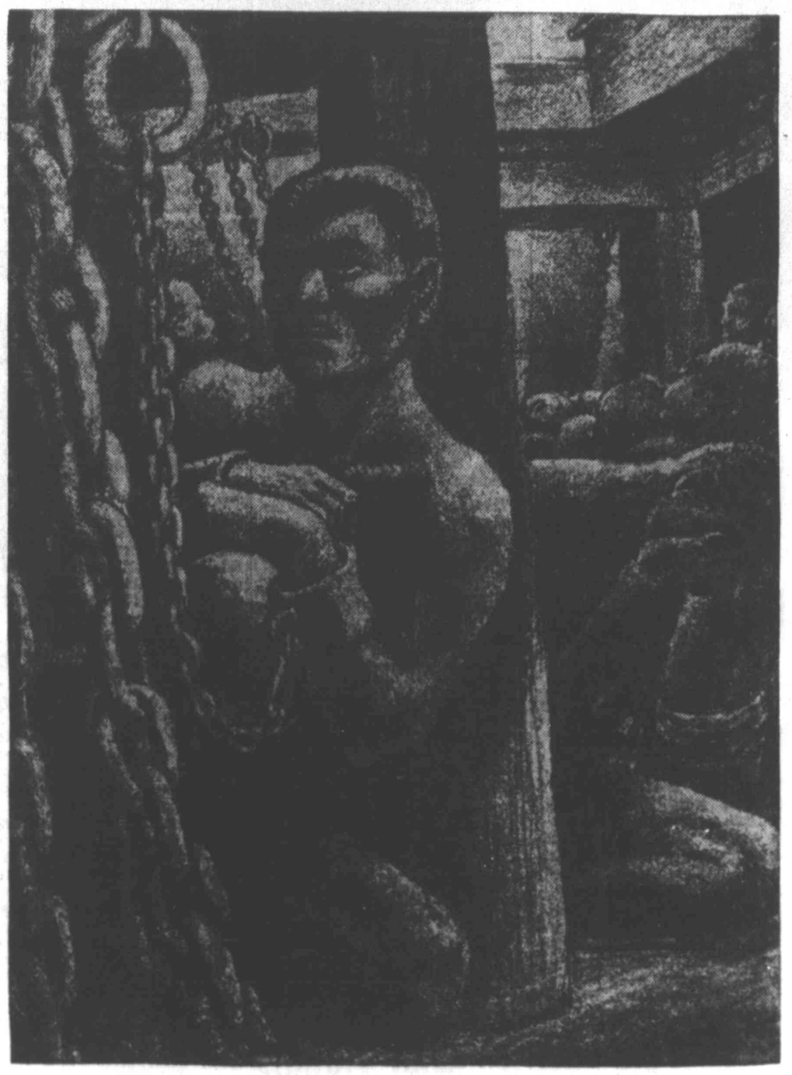

By C. VANN WOODWARD

Written for The Associated Press
Copyright 1960, The Associated Press

Before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth, Africans had already arrived in Virginia. The Negroes were therefore, in the literal sense, among the first families of America. Like early 17th Century immigrants of some other races, they brought no family names. But they now bear the oldest family names in America, names they eventually took from the oldest English settlers.

Another claim of the Negroes to being among the oldest Americans lies in the outlawing of the slave trade after 1807. Although slaves continued to be brought in illegally for another half century, the majority of American Negroes today are probably descended from those who arrived in the 17th and 18th Centuries. Their ancestors had long been established here before the great tide of the Atlantic Migration set in after the Napoleonic wars.

The early Negro Americans were not the only people in the colonies who were unfree. Free-born Englishmen and white people of other national origin were bought, sold, chained, whipped, and compelled to do a master's bidding without pay. These "indentured servants" included many convicts, a few political prisoners, and some who were tricked or "spirited" into servitude. They were often brought over like the Africans, chained between decks. But the majority voluntarily sold themselves or their children into bondage for a term of years in order to escape evils in the old country and find opportunities abroad. The white bondsmen far outnumbered the black and until the end of the 17th Century were the principal source of labor in the colonies.

LITTLE DIFERENCE

There was little difference between the lot of the white and black bondsmen in the early days. They often worked side by side at the same tasks and shared the same miserable life. The ordeal of "seasoning" took a frightful toll of life among both races. Because of the great need for labor the colonies sought to increase the supply by shortening the term of servitude and improving working conditions. This inducement could only affect the supply of white servants, however, for they alone were in any sense voluntary immigrants.

The African was brought by force and had to accept such conditions as he found. For this reason the changes that slowly improved the lot of the white servant were not extended to the black servant. As the distinction between the two increased, the term "slave" was more and more used to identify the inferior status of the Negro servant.

The English colonists had no law and no tradition of slavery ready to receive the African and define his status. Slavery had long since disappeared in the mother country. Obviously the law of indentured servants would not answer the purpose, for it presumed eventual freedom and the full enjoyment of English rights once the servant had served his term. The Anglo-Americans therefore had to start virtually from scratch to give new meaning to a very old institution.

LATIN AMERICAN SLAVES

With the Latin Americans it was different. Spain and Portugal still had slaves of more than one race and elaborate slave laws that dated back to ancient Rome and the Emperor Justinian, laws that had been elaborated and humanized by the Church. Law, custom and tradition conferred many rights on the slave, protecting his person, his marriage, his children, his right to justice and to membership in the Church. Law and custom also encouraged the slave's aspiration to freedom and provided means of attaining it. Slavery was not regarded as the natural and permanent lot of an inferior race, but as a misfortune that might happen to any man. The Spanish and Portuguese colonists transferred these laws and practices to the New World, and there the African became the beneficiary of an ancient legal heritage.

Lacking this heritage of slave law and tradition, the Anglo-Americans in their perplexity settled the issue crudely by defining the slave as a "chattel." The law did not deny the slave's humanity, but it did obscure it, and the effect was to deny him a moral personality. With no powerful state and no vigilant church to reckon with, no restraining tradition to flout, the American planters and masters in their colonial assemblies consulted their own interests and framed their laws accordingly.

The American slave codes greatly enhanced the power of masters and left the slave little defense against the master's will. Unlike, the Latin American codes, which encouraged attainment of freedom and produced a large proportion of free Negroes, the Anglo-American laws discouraged freedom and kept the proportion of Negro freedmen to slaves very small. All sorts of obstacles were placed in the way of emancipation, and those who attain freedom found full acceptance barred to them. White people came to attribute the slave's inferior status to his race, and since he could not change his race by freedom, he could not escape the stigma of inferiority.

At the time of the Revolution the proportion of Negroes to whites was much greater than it is at present. There were more than three-quarters of a million Negroes in a total population of fewer than four million in 1790. The proportion in most Latin American countries was even larger. Their contribution was indispensable to the taming of the two continents and numerous islands of the Americas. The settling of the New World is usually described as a purely European enterprise, but that leaves out of account the large part that Africa played.

Big Bend Tunnel Is Dedicated

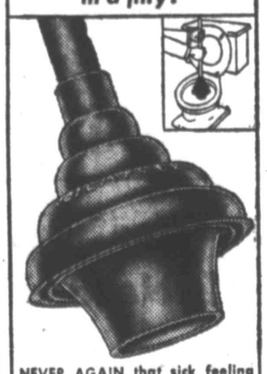

BIG BEND NATIONAL PARK (AP)—The only surface vehicular tunnel in Texas was dedicated before about 1,800 persons Sunday at Big Bend National Park.

Improvements in the park are about half completed and the National Park Service plans to spend another $6,000,000 before the improvement program is finished in 1966, Thomas A. Allen said. He is regional director of the National Park Service.

The tunnel is 301 feet long and has two way traffic, and two footwalks four feet wide. It replaces Dead Man's Curve leading into the Boquillas Canyon.

One accident marred the dedication ceremonies. The state editor of the El Paso Times, Buck Lanier, suffered broken ribs when his car skidded on an icy curve outside the west entrance to the park Saturday night. He was reported in good condition at the Brewster County Memorial Hospital, Alpine, Sunday.

You May Be Glad You Were Counted

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—You may be glad some day that the census taker counted you 'way back in April 1960.

People who can't locate a birth certificate often find that the Census Bureau can furnish an acceptable substitute—a copy of the information listed about them in census files.

Nearly one billion names, together with identifying data, are filed in an agency warehouse at Pittsburg, Kan. The billion names include many duplications, of course, since a census is taken every ten years.

You can find out what the files say about you by paying $3—$4 if you want the information in a hurry. Before sending any money, you should get an application form by writing to the bureau's Personal Census Service Branch, at Pittsburg.

Use of the census files spurted in the late 1930s with the advent of the Social Security program. Many people had to supply proof of age in order to get coverage. About 200,000 people a year now use the agency's special service and 3½ million have done so since 1936.

Proof of age is not the only help the bureau can supply. Some people have to establish their relationship to someone else in order to claim their share of an estate. Such questions often can be settled through census records.

If you were counted in 1880, 1900 or 1920, finding your file should be a simple matter. WPA workers during the depression filed all the reports for those years in alphabetical order.

For other years, records are filed according to the communities in which people were counted. When you send in an application, you must give your address at the time of the census involved and the names of the people you lived with.

You can only apply for information about yourself. However, you can have your report sent to someone else. Even then, you will be notified if the record shows something that might embarrass you. Some people, for instance, are counted in jail.

Ike Kin Arrives

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Edgar Eisenhower, second brother of President Eisenhower, arrived Sunday for a five day visit, after a three-hour delay due to a motor failure in a Western Airlines plane.

GOP Seeks Win In N. Dakota Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are preparing for an all-out effort in a special North Dakota senatorial election which could influence the whole presidential campaign.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said that so far as the June 28 North Dakota balloting is concerned "this is it."

"If we Republicans lose this special election in the Midwest just prior to the convention, it will influence the whole campaign this year," he said. "If we can't win in a key pivotal state like this, we may lose the presidential election."

Republicans have nominated Gov. John E. Davis to fill the remainder of more than four years of the term of the late Republican Sen. William Langer. Democrats are expected to nominate Rep. Quentin N. Burdick at their state convention Thursday.

Because the farm issue is likely to be paramount, Goldwater said he has been urging Vice President Richard M. Nixon to go into the state and make a farm speech.

Goldwater thinks this program may prove to be something of an antidote to the policies of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. Benson's ideas are under heavy attack from Democrats and many Middle Western Republicans are considerably less than charmed with them.

"We know that Nixon doesn't agree with Benson," Goldwater said in an interview, "but we don't know the extent to which he doesn't."

Thus far Nixon has said no to Goldwater's pleas for a North Dakota speech.

Arrangements have been made for New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to make a two-day tour in North Dakota. Rockefeller has sent word to the senatorial committee to hold down on bookings for formal speeches.

The New York governor wants to try out his smile on North Dakotans. So he'll take to the streets, the supermarkets and the roadside farm stands to pass the republican word.

Goldwater indicated the Republicans will try to hang a radical label on Burdick. He said Burdick will get help not only from the Democratic senatorial and national committees but from Americans for Democratic Action, the Farmers Union and the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Action.

"If Burdick should win, I'm afraid it will influence both parties to go left," Goldwater said. "And if the Republicans get into a 'me too' position, we're going to lose the election."

Laredo Politics Coming To Head

LAREDO (AP)—This politically turbulent border town goes to the polls Tuesday to decide a battle between the young Reform Party and the entrenced Independent Club.

Thirty-six candidates seek 15 positions. The key contest is for the office of mayor.

Joe Martin Jr., mayor and president of the Independent Club, has held the mayor's office six years. His party's candidates have held the office 35 years.

Martin is opposed by Harry Galvis, 36, a member of the Reform Party, which was organized two years ago. The party won two school board posts in Saturday's election. Two independents, Mike Cantu and Hector Trevino also seek the mayor's office.

Church Delegates Challenged On Expansion Work

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — More than 900 delegates to a special council of the Episcopal Diocese of West Texas were challenged Monday to put first things first and to create a new sense of oneness and strength.

The challenge was made by the Rt. Rev. Everett Jones, bishop of the diocese, as the council met to make plans for a $995,000 fund drive to expand the church's work in 60 South Texas counties.

Half of the money will be used to build new churches and missions. Other projects include two new conference and retreat centers, one near Rockport and the other in the Rio Grande Valley; new campus facilities at San Marcos and Kingsville; a new diocesan center in San Antonio; expansion of a church camp near Waring; and grants to chapels at Austin's Seminary of the Southwest and at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.

Keynote speakers were Chester Rude, Los Angeles banker, and the Rt. Rev. Nelson Burroughs, bishop of the ciocese of Ohio.

Delegates will organize local fund drives in the diocese's 80 congregations.

Suspect Sought In Hotel Deaths

BOSTON (AP)—Police are looking for a man who registered in two Boston hotels over the weekend and left behind a dead woman in each of his rooms.

Police said autopsies showed no signs of injury or violence on either body. Chemical tests were ordered to determine the possibility of poison.

The man registered under the same name at both hotels and gave a fictitious address at Norwood, Mass.

The women were identified as Anna Kennedy, 74, of the South End, and Joan Pelechowicz, 24, of the Roxbury section.

A register showed the man and the Kennedy woman entered the hotel Berkeley in the South End late Thursday. Hotel personnel found her dead on a bed at 3 p.m. Friday.

Several hours later the same man registered at Hotel Broadway, several blocks away, with Mrs. Pelechowicz. Her body was discovered at 12:45 p.m. Saturday. She was identified by her husband, George.

We've got a good neighbor for company.

Levee Workers Call For Help To Hold Back The Mississippi

By The Associated Press

Workers striving to hold back the levee-bursting Mississippi River called for help today along the Illinois and Missouri shores.

A levee break about 5 miles north of Quincy near Meyer, Ill., early in the day sent water surging across 30,000 acres of farm land. National Guardsmen and college students and other volunteers had labored around the clock in an effort to hold the wall there.

Flood fighters appealed for help in the Gregory Landing Levee area on the Missouri side near the Iowa border. The Mississippi reached the top of the levee protecting 20,000 acres there and only the sandbag topping held back the icy waters.

The Gregory Landing volunteers included some Quincy College students and numbered 250 in all.

"They're hollering for help there," said Sheriff C. F. Milligan of Clark County, Mo.

More than 300 Missouri convicts were sent into the flood battle along the Missouri River. Most of them were assigned to sandbagging details near Cedar City.

Eighty-eight National Guardsmen rolled out of Hannibal, Mo., to flood duty in the Canton-Alexandria, Mo., sector.

Almost all the 450 residents left Alexandria and about 300 moved from their homes in Canton.

The Mississippi edged up past 24 feet in Quincy, 6 feet above technical flood stage and one of the highest levels ever recorded. But the city of 42,000 is on high ground and no major trouble is expected there.

Skies were clearing in the Midwestern flood zone.

But moderate to heavy rain in southern Alabama and northern Florida sent rivers over their sides.

Other rivers and streams in a half dozen other Midwest states were causing trouble after more than a week of flooding, but the worst appeared over in hard-hit Nebraska.

The spring floods which also have hit Wisconsin, Kansas, Iowa, Michigan and South Dakota have driven thousands from their homes. The American Red Cross said 28,000 persons have been affected by the overflows. Damage was expected to run into the millions of dollars.

The Big Sioux River in South Dakota and the Skung in Iowa were causing trouble. The big Missouri River continued its slow climb in northwest Missouri and northeast Kansas.

The Big Sioux flooded thousands of acres from Elk Point, S.D., to Sioux City, Iowa, forcing some 700 persons to leave their homes in North Sioux City, S.D. The Skung River continued to threaten weakened dikes near Burlington, in southeast Iowa.

Nikita Says Russia Pushes Reich Treaty

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today the Soviet Union will do "everything for the solution of the question of a German peace treaty on a basis acceptable to the Western powers."

But at a Moscow homecoming rally reporting on his visit to France, Khrushchev once more insisted on signing separate treaties with East and West Germany, a proposal repeatedly rejected by the West.

Khrushchev said the German question had bulked large in his talks with President Charles de Gaulle and he expressed belief those talks had clarified the Soviet position for the French. The Soviet Premier returned Sunday from an 11-day visit to France.

Khrushchev once more lashed out at Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany. He said on his visits to the United States and Japan, Adenauer tried to mobilize "the cold war champions" against a German peace treaty.

Turning to the question of disarmament, the Premier told about 17,000 persons at a French-Soviet friendship rally in the Sports Palace: "As for disarmament, which is the most important question facing the world today, I would say that our (Khrushchev-De Gaulle) opinions coincide."

A final communique in Paris Saturday said both leaders agreed on the need for disarmament. De Gaulle said nothing about Khrushchev's plan for total disarmament within four years, which the French delegation at Geneva has called unrealistic.

Khrushchev conceded there are differences in the positions of France and the Soviet Union on major issues.

"No doubt they resulted in a better understanding," he said of the talks. "On the most important questions we were obviously not always in agreement, but on the most important we came closely together."

No Injuries In Eight Crashes

A hit-and-run accident was reported at 4th and Gregg. Police are searching for the missing driver who was in collision with Don L. Hawks, 1311 Robin.

A three car mishap was reported at the Marcy Drive-Air Base Road intersection. Drivers involved were Robert Sharp, 1906 Runnels, Clyde Lyons, 603 E. 17th, and Joyce McLaughlin, 1506-B Lincoln.

At 8th and Gregg, Bobby Hewitt, 1107 W. 3rd, and Louis Duque, Tarzan, were drivers involved in a wreck.

Vickie Deel, 909 E. 16th, was involved in a crash at Sycamore and Rosemont with Harmon Smith, 1302 Tucson.

U.S. Clarifies Tax Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has clarified regulations employes must follow if they don't want to be questioned by tax agents about their expense accounts.

Since the rules announced Sunday represent a clarification of regulations already in effect, they will apply to 1959 tax returns being filed this year.

The Internal Revenue Service also listed final details of a program requiring corporations, partnerships and individual businessmen to file more information proving claimed deductions for entertainment and expense allowances.

The IRS said the employe must list his expenses in writing, show that they are connected with his work, give enough information to show the expenses were necessary and include expenses charged to the employer through credit cards or otherwise. Regarding entertainment expenses, the employe must show the who, where, how, why and how much in his deduction claim. He must list the when and where with his travel deductions.

Teacher Admits Bigamy Charge

LEE, Mass. (AP)—For seven months high school teacher Joseph R. Dischino, an admitted bigamist, kept two wives and four children in homes eight miles apart.

The secret double life of the respected civics instructor, exposed through an anonymous tip sent to Police Chief William R. Obanheim of Stockbridge, stunned this western Massachusetts community and cost Dischino his job.

The wives also were stunned, Obanheim said.

In Lee District Court Saturday, Dischino pleaded guilty to bigamy and was held in $700 bail for disposition Wednesday.

Dischino, 15 years on the high school faculty, is 37. Short, dark and stocky, he is a mild mannered man who wears glasses.

Obanheim said Dischino divided his nights between the two homes and used a part-time job at a South Lee resort to explain his absences.

The teacher married the first Mrs. Dischino, Mary, 15 years ago at Wellesley. They had three children ranging in age from 3½ to 9.

The second wife, Obanheim said, was Margaret Burnhop of Waterbury, Conn., whom Dischino married July 28, 1958 at Elkton, Md. She remained in Connecticut until after a child was born last September, the chief said.

Then she moved to Stockbridge, adjoining Lee, where the first Mrs. Dischino resides.

Besides civics, he was an assistant basketball coach at Lee High School.

Services Today

Funeral services were conducted at 8 a.m. today for Mrs. Evarista Moreno Cruz, 80, at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Burial was in the city cemetery. Father Patrick Casey officiated and Nalley-Pickle Funeral home was in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Cruz died Saturday.

Health Unit Director Says Another Nurse Is Needed

Dr. R. E. Johnson, director of the Howard-Ector-Midland County Health Unit, told the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday the unit wishes to add one full time nurse to its local staff. He said that the nurse would probably be on duty late this year and explained that qualified nurses of the calibre sought are difficult to employ.

He made the announcement in a request to the county for an increase in the county's share of the city-county health unit budget for next year. If the new nurse is employed, she will receive a salary of $4,620 which will include a $1,200 travel expense allowance.

Dr. Johnson also asked for small pay increases for several members of the local unit. No increase for either himself nor for Lige Fox, local director, was asked. Fox was with Dr. Johnson in his appearance before the court.

Increases of $72 a year in the salary of Thomas G. Smith, inspector; $180 a year for William F. Jackson, junior inspector; $120 a year for Bo Bowen, graduate nurse and $50 a year for Alamanda Wozencraft, clerk, were asked by the director. The commissioners agreed that these raises were justified and approved them, subject to next year's budget.

The commissioners also agreed to go along with the additional nurse, provided that she can be employed and that the funds can be earmarked in the next budget. The county and the city cooperatively finance the health unit here. The total increase in the unit budget if all of the requested items were adopted would be $5,052 of which the county would provide one half.

In response to an inquiry from the court Johnson told the commissioners that the wxtra nurse was needed and would be used to extend health services into the rural areas in a better way than is now possible.

T&P Revenue Is Up, Expenses Too

Operating revenues increased by approximately $1,200,000 but operating expenses were up by $1,600,000 for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company in 1959.

These were contributing factors to a $650,000 decline in net income. On a per share basis, the net income was $5.57 as compared to $6.62 the previous year. The earnings on property investment declined to 1.94 per cent, a new post-war low, as against 2.18 the previous year.

The past year, said President J. T. Suggs in the 88th annual statement for the carrier, would have shown some significant gains except for the sudden decline following the onset of the steel strike. As it was, freight dropped sharply and gains were wiped out in the year. Net freight revenue loss was $600,000. On the other hand, T&P's aggressive passenger policies (rate concessions, economy meals, etc.) brought a 5.9 per cent or $217,790 increase in this revenue. Other revenues, also reflecting a management policy, showed a $442,000 increase. The freight revenue total was $62,943,000, passenger $3,934,000, and other $7,631,000.

COST FACTORS

Wages constituted the biggest single item of expense, or $37,686,733 (up $777,736) exclusive of payroll taxes. Actually higher wage rates increased the total by $1,316,479, but cuts in the working force whittled $490,000 from this. An increase in the railroad retirement act benefits raised the rates for employes and employer alike, and the T&P's increase by reason of this was $650,000.

The T&P maintained its static dividend rate of $5 per share on common and preferred, but in so doing it cut its working capital by $1,200,000.

Tax accruals of $5,650,000 were up by a quarter of a million dollars for the year. The funded debt remained practically static at $56,477,000. During the year T&P floated a $3,000,000 issue to purchase eight diesel-electric road switching locomotives costing $1,544,000, plus 100 all steel flat cars and 75 all-steel box cars.

RAILROAD PROBLEM

The problem confronting railroads was pinpointed by Suggs in his letter to stockholders. He called attention to rising costs—principally payroll, taxes and rentals of equipment—which loaded the T&P with another $2,000,000 last year.

"When the railroads were faced with increased wages, the pattern used to be to raise freight rates sufficiently to offset the higher wage costs," he said. "In recent years however it has become apparent, in view of the competition of other forms of transportation, that the railroads could no longer increase freight rates without pricing themselves out of business. Consequently, many rates have had to be reduced to hold traffic."

He referred to the wage and job rule differences between management and operating brotherhoods and saw some hopeful signs in negotiations on wages. He also noted that "relief from some of the outmoded work rules which long have plagued the industry would prove helpful in reducing operating costs and in meeting the competition of other forms of transportation."

Labor Probers Review Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee, reviewing three stormy years of investigation, figures the taxpayers got their two million dollars' worth.

Looking back on its revelations of scandals in the labor-management relations field, the committee claims credit for:

1. Enactment of the new anti-corruption labor law.

2. The downfall of former Teamsters Union President Dave Beck.

3. A long string of federal and state indictments of labor racketeers and others.

4. The ousting of a Tennessee judge for allegedly taking payoffs to fix a case before him.

But the committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) has missed fire up to now on its prime objective—to knock out James R. Hoffa, who succeeded Beck in the Teamsters presidency.

Youth Picked Up In Scooter Theft

Police arrested a 13-year-old boy Sunday for theft of a motor scooter. It had been stolen from a Mr. Winn, 707 E. 13th. The youth was to be turned over to Juvenile Officer A. E. Long.

Two burglaries and another theft were reported to officers during the weekend. S. P. Petty, 3600 Hamilton, reported a tire and wheel taken.

J. R. Cathey, Lincoln and West U. S. 80, reported a burglary. Missing is a portable television set and table, and a sewing machine.

The other burglary was reported by Mrs. C. V. Criswell, 1202 Stanford. A portable radio and three packages of cigarettes were taken.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Emmett Kent Morgan had a good reason for missing Friday's four-way golf meet at Snyder.

The youth, who has grown so much he could play some football with the Big Spring varsity troops next fall, was in San Angelo attending the YMCA Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y district rally. He was named district president Saturday.

Emmett will be available next weekend, when the Steers compete in the District 2-AAAA meet at Midland.

* * *

Originally, coach Emmett McKenzie planned to start spring football workouts here Monday, May 2.

However, that would have meant the annual spring intra-squad game would have conflicted with the National Junior College Track and Field meet, which takes place here May 20-21.

By moving the start of the workouts back one day to Tuesday, May 3, McKenzie can hold the intra-squad battle on Monday night, May 23.

In many places, the annual intra-squad game does much to bolster a school's athletic budget, since a slight admissions charge is exacted at the gate. Such a promotion perhaps would pay off here.

* * *

Big Spring's R. L. Lasater earned himself a belt buckle, boasting an appropriately decorated medal, by being declared the outstanding entry in the Brady Relays last weekend.

Lasater is being deprived of the opportunity of setting records all over West Texas this spring because of bad weather.

* * *

Glynn Gregory, the SMU football great from Abilene, will spend this summer selling automobiles in Dallas.

* * *

HCJC's Jayhawks have been back from the National Junior College Basketball tournament only a short while but Coach Buddy Travis opens spring workouts today.

An estimated 14 boys will be in uniform, most of whom have faces familiar to local basketball fans. Travis will have only four scholarships available for freshmen next season and is going to take a long look at anyone trying out before offering him one.

Two boys who have already received scholarship offers from the college, however, are the LeFevre twins, Zay and Jay, of Big Spring. The boys, of course, won't sign with any school until after baseball season has ended.

* * *

Travis reasoned he had an excellent chance to sign a 6-feet-5 crackerjack who played for Girard High School. The team hadn't fared well and most scouts are apt to overlook the small school.

One who didn't, however, was a West Texas State bird-dog. He had already given the cage flash a four-year scholarship.

* * *

All of the National junior college track and field records (22 in all) were set and are held by athletes representing California schools.

Some of them stand a fair chance of being broken during the National Juco meet here May 20-21.

Incidentally, the California Jaycees have been extended invitations to take part in the local cinder show. They haven't had teams in the meet at Hutchinson, Kan., for a number of years.

Four Reasons For Bright Steer Future

Big Spring's track future takes on a favorable outlook, due mainly to these four sophomores. With the usual improvement, Coach Curtis Kelley feels these boys have the necessities to construct a winning mile relay team. Left to right they are: Earnest Samples, John de la Garza, Bill Case and Eddie Everett. Case is a promising Steer miler and the other three are 440 men.

Steers Host Angelo In 2-AAAA Opener

Big Spring plays host at 4 p.m. Tuesday to one of their District 2-AAAA baseball favorites, San Angelo, in their 1960 conference debut.

San Angelo has won 10 of 11 starts this season and some observers are fingering the Bobcats for a first place finish in the district race.

The Cats, coached by J. C. Gotcher, came back to win fifth place in the Austin High School tournament last weekend after losing their opening game to Austin, McCallum, 3-0.

In capturing consolation laurels in the meet, the Tabbies defeated Austin Johnson, 24-2, and San Antonio Alamo Heights, 8-1, in that order.

Big Spring carries a lackluster 6-7 won-lost record onto the field. The Steers lost four games in a row before breaking into the win column and has been playing more impressively in recent outings.

Gotcher has built his San Angelo team around 11 lettermen. He can call upon Ronnie Stephens, who had a 2-2 mark last year; Mike Talley, Dave Dorris and Jim Aufderheide for mound duties.

San Angelo had a won-lost record last season of 10-11, compared to 14-11 for Big Spring. In conference play, however, the Felines were 3-5, compared to 1-7 for Big Spring.

The Angeloans can field an experienced infield, with Lester Turner or Franklin Willis at third base, Tommy Ford at shortstop, Bud Ewing at second base and Don Hall at first base.

In the outfield, the visitors will probably go with Jim McDougal, Stephens, Talley or possibly Sammy Soto.

Roy Franklin, who was a basketball regular at San Angelo, will probably be behind the plate for the Cats.

Roy Baird, the local coach, probably will start either Zay LeFevre or Jerry Phillips against the Cats. Both have been impressive in recent starts.

Other probable starters for Big Spring include Jimmy Roger behind the plate, Don Everett at first base, Coy Mitchell at second, James Kinman at shortstop, Jerry Dunlap at third, Jack Irons in left field, Bob Andrews in center and James Farris or Alf Cobb in right field. Gene Rzasa could fit in somewhere in the outer cordon.

The Longhorns go to Abilene for a contest Saturday.

Meanwhile, many of his fellow touring golf professionals headed for Augusta, Ga., and the Masters Tournament opening Thursday.

Nieporte didn't get an invitation to the blue ribbon event. He's won only one other major event in his six years as a pro. That was at Akron, Ohio, last summer.

Tigers Join Loop For Sunday Play

The Big Spring Tigers have joined a seven-team circuit, after playing independent baseball for many years.

The league will be identified as the Mex-Tex Baseball circuit and will have two teams from Lamesa and one each from Levelland, Seminole, Hobbs, N. M., and Brownfield as other members.

There is a bare possibilty Odessa will come into the league. Present plans call for the league teams to play on Sundays only. The schedule will extend through 24 games for each team.

The Lamesa clubs will be known as the Red Sox and the White Sox. League play will commence on April 17.

First place team will be awarded $300 at the conclusion of play while the runnerup gets $140 and the third place squad $40.

Each team will be permitted to suit out 20 players. A unique arrangement will have the losing team in each game forfeiting $5, which will go toward the prize money.

Tito Arencibia has been named to serve as assistant manager of the Tigers. Sonny Dutchover is the pilot of the local team while Danny Valdes will be the treasurer.

The local team will have new uniforms, complete with the sponsors' names on the back of the shirts.

Stephens Winner In Go-Kart Race

First in a series of Go-Kart races were held at the racing strip west of town here Sunday afternoon.

In the 15-lap men's race, Malcolm Stephens shaded Gerald Cox, while in the men's 20-lap race, Gerald Cox edged out Joe Clark.

Malcolm Stephens won the men's Australian pursuit, and Gerald Cox won the men's balloon chase.

In the junior division, Howard Hall nosed out his brother, Donnie Hall. The two boys were so evenly matched in the balloon chase that this was called a tie.

Winners in the events are accumulating points and on the basis of the cumulative total, a bronze trophy will be awarded Sunday.

Mrs. Pat Porter served as flag lady at the Sunday races.

Those interested in the Go-Kart racing will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Joe Clark, and those interested in information about this new sport are invited to come, or to contact Buster Weaver, track owner.

Fort Worth Man Bowling Leader

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Fort Worth' bowler J. P. Hicks moved into the lead in three Class B divisions of the men's state bowling tournament Sunday night.

Hicks rolled a 517 team score, 620 in doubles, and 665 in singles to get a total of 1,802. He and E. Lopresti defeated San Antonio's Wes Menking and George Dubensky in doubles with 1,184.

The Class D doubles team of H. Worthey and B. Bickley of Denton rolled 1,131 to move ahead of N. Westbrook and Jack Baldwin of Beaumont.

Sievers Goes To White Sox

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Washington Senators today traded one of their most powerful hitters, Roy Sievers, to the Chicago White Sox for catcher Earl Battey, first baseman Don Mincher and an estimated $150,000.

Senator's President Cal Griffith reported the trade.

Sievers, a first baseman, is expected to give the White Sox some badly needed power. In six seasons with the Senators, he hit 180 home runs and averaged 96 runs batted in.

Minsher had 22 homers and batted in 92 runs with Charleston, W. Va., while hitting .272.

Battey hit only .219 with the Sox last season but his defensive work is regarded as superb.

It was the Senators' second trade within 24 hours. Sunday the Senators swapped catcher Clint Courtney, and infielder Ron Samford, for Billy Gardner, 32, infielder of the Baltimore Orioles.

Last June, Bill Veeck president of the White Sox, offered the Senators five players and $250,000 for Sievers, Courtney and pitcher Russ Kemmerer. This deal was rejected by the Senators.

National Loop Opens Season On April 12

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League clubs start thinking ahead today to the earliest season openers in the history of major league baseball's senior circuit.

With regular season operations getting under way a week from Tuesday, many of the teams broke camp and began the northward trek with the surprising St. Louis Cardinals clinging to the top of the exhibition standings with a 13-7 record.

Getting a second consecutive route-going performance from Ron Kline, the Cardinals concluded their Florida phase of training Sunday by defeating the New York Yankees 6-3.

Kline, acquired in a trade with Pittsburgh, scattered 10 hits and now has allowed only four runs —two earned—in 28 innings.

Milwaukee's Bob Buhl also went the distance, holding Washington to four hits in the Braves' 3-2 victory while Detroit's Hank Aguirre pitched a six-inning one-hitter for a 1-0 victory over Pittsburgh in a game shortened by rain.

In other day games, San Francisco blasted the Chicago Cubs 14-9, Baltimore beat Kansas City 5-2, Boston edged Cleveland 5-4 in 10 innings, and Los Angeles and Cincinnati were tied 4 - 4 when a downpour ended their game in the eighth inning.

In a night game, the Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia wound up their three-game series in Puerto Rico with Chicago winning 4-2. The Phils took the first two.

The Cardinals backed Kline with six extra-base hits against the Yanks and won it in the fifth with a four-run uprising.

Milwaukee collected just five hits off the Senators' Don Lee and Jack Kralick, but Joe Adcock's solo homer—his fifth of the spring —proved the clincher.

Aguirre, bidding for a berth with the Tigers, just about nailed a spot when Steve Demeter accounted for the game's only run against the Pirates with a third inning homer.

A nine-run six inning, highlighted by Ed Bressoud's two triples that drove in five runs, brought the Giants from behind for their victory. Chicago's Frank Thomas slugged two home runs in a 16-hit Cub offensive.

Six-hit pitching by rookies Chuck Estrada and Arne Thorsland collared the A's as the Orioles clustered five of their seven hits in the second inning for all five runs.

Vada Pinson's fourth spring homer and a double and single by Ed Bailey good for two runs where the big blows for the Reds. The Dodgers clubbed Cal McLish and Claude Osteen for 10 hits, including Don Demeter's homer, before the rain broke it up.

Stanton Triumphs In Gay Hill Meet

GAY HILL (SC) — Stanton's boys and the Courtney girls won championship honors in the Five-County Volleyball League tournament conducted here Saturday.

Stanton defeated Gay Hill in the boys' finals while Courtney winged past Klondike in the girls' title match.

Union was boys' consolation round winner while Gay Hill won girls' consolations.

In all, eight teams competed in the tournament.

Harlem Stars In Game Here

Lakeview's Rockets meet the touring Harlem Stars in a basketball exhibition in the Lakeview Gym here at 8 p.m. Wednesday evening.

Admission charges have been pegged at $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students.

One of the members of the touring team is Boid Buie, who formerly played with the Harlem Globetrotters but who now owns most of the stock in the Stars. Buie is considered to be the world's finest one-armed player.

Like the better-known Globetrotters, the Stars play every day and tour the country. They began their season in October and expect to play in about 40 states before they wind up competition for the season.

Robertson, West Head Olympic Cage Cast

By FRANK PITMAN

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — All-Americas Oscar Robertson and Jerry West head a brilliant cast of seven collegians anchoring the U.S. Olympic basketball team that will play in Rome this summer under the command of Coach Pete Newell of California.

The college stars for the first time shoved aside veteran AAU players to dominate the 12-member team chosen Sunday by the Olympic Basketball Committee.

The selections followed the three-day trials here climaxed by the NCAA University all-stars' 124-97 conquest of Peoria's AAU champions in Saturday night's finals before 10,000 fans.

The victory earned the NCAA team six Olympic berths and won for Newell, their 44-year-old towel-chewing coach, the honor of directing the team in the Olympic competition. He'll be assisted by Peoria's Warren Womble, who coached the 1952 Olympic champions.

West, 6-3 Comet from Cabin Creek, W.Va., riddled Peoria with a 39-point burst, 24 in the first half, to set an individual high for the trials. Robertson, incomparable playmaker and collegiate scoring leader from Cincinnati, poured in 20 points to take scoring honors for the tryouts. He totaled 72 and West, a senior at West Virginia, was runnerup with 65 in three games.

Also picked from the NCAA team were two 6-foot-11 defensive stars, All-America Darrall Imhoff of California, and Walt Bellamy of Indiana; Purdue's 6-6 sophomore Terry Dischinger, who led the Big Ten in scoring, and Texas' 6-2 back court artist, Jay Arnette.

All-America Jerry Lucas, 6-8 sophomore star of Ohio State's NCAA champions, is the seventh collegian picked from the field of 96 players.

The four AAU stars named to the team include the only repeater from 1956, Burdie Haldorson, 6-8 leading scorer for Bartlesville's (Okla.). The others are 6-8 Bob Boozer and 6-foot Allen Kelley, both of Peoria, and Les Lane, Bartlesville.

Adrian Smith, 6-1 former Kentucky ace, was chosen from the armed forces all-stars.

The players will report about Aug. 1 for training at the U.S. Military Academy in West Point, N.Y.

Third place in the trials here was won Saturday by Akron's AAU team in an 88-77 conquest of the NAIA all-stars, who spilled Ohio State 76-69 in a first-round upset. Ohio State placed fifth by defeating Bartlesville 87-77. The armed forces all-stars finished seventh by overcoming the NCAA all-stars coached by Arad McCutchan of Evansville, Ind., College 98-85.

Hawks Square Set With Boston Five

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks turned Boston's favorite weapons — ball stealing and home-run passes — against the Celtics' and squared pro basketball's world series, but the Celtics believe it's their turn to bounce back.

"I never saw us steal the ball so much from the Celtics," said Hawks owner Ben Kerner. "This is what they do to us too often."

Kerner was happy over the Hawks inspired, aggressive effort Sunday in a 106-96 victory which tied the National Basketball Assn. title series at 2-2. The scene shifts to the Boston Garden Tuesday night for the key fifth game in the best-four-of-seven series for a $17,000 jackpot.

"We'll come back, don't worry," said Boston Coach Red Auerbach. "But they (the officials) are going to have to stop the rought stuff. This was a mighty rough game.

"Clyde Lovellette, is murdering Bill Russell. The officials call a couple and then, when (Hawk Coach Ed) Macauley complains, they stop."

Russell, the Celtics 6-foot-10 pivot, played all 48 minutes for the second time in two days and was a prime target for the hustling Hawks. Lovellette got plenty of help as the Hawks battled Russell and got the ball away from him several times.

"I can't out-jump Russell," Clyde said. "I just kept batting the ball up in the air. I knew if we could keep the ball up, (Bob) Pettit would grab it sooner or later."

As in last week's St. Louis victory, Pettit was the big scorer. He made 23 of his 32 points in the last half.

Chicago White Sox Employ All Tricks To Defeat Foe

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)— The Chicago White Sox don't scare you. They just beat you. They slash, dash, bunt and eke out runs while the other fellow waits for the long ball. They throw up a tight defense to protect a veteran pitching staff. In short, the Sox are a solid ball club with the age of their pitching the only questionable factor.

Since the World Series, Manager Al Lopez has added power in Minnie Minoso and Gene Freese without giving up front-line strength.

Because the Sox appear to have strengthened a pennant-winning club, they figure to repeat in the American League. For the long-range future, look elsewhere but for 1960 this should be the ball club.

New York, it says here, is the main threat. The trade that brought Roger Maris to the Stadium from Kansas City gives the Yankees a batting order that should be the strongest in the league. Maris, Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Bill Skowron and Hector Lopez can erupt at any moment.

However, the Yankee pitching still is questionable. It depends, to a great extent, on the ability of Bob Turley to bounce back from an off year and the untested ability of rookie Bill Short. If Turley can regain his 1958 form, and if Short lives up to all the nice things said about his work for Richmond in the International League, it could be a happy year for Casey Stengel.

Cleveland's trades built a solid infield. Frank Lane got second baseman Johnny Temple and third baseman Bubba Phillips but may have given up too much in Cal McLish, a 19-game winner, and Minoso. The Indians must sink or swim with kid pitchers. It might be too much to ask of a young staff.

Detroit has fine front-line pitching, plus the bats of Al Kaline and Harvey Kuenn. Manager Jimmy Dykes has to gamble at short with Chico Fernandez and at first base with big Steve Bilko. Baltimore is shooting the works with a young team, based on a fuzzy-cheeked pitching staff, that should improve as the year continues. Kansas City has spruced up with Hank Bauer, Norm Siebern and Don Larsen but the pitching still is too thin and the infield questionable.

Boston's hopes appear to be tied closely to Ted Williams who may not be able to play many games. The retirement of Jackie Jensen was a stiff blow and the pitching is only so-so. Washington will be fortunate to get the same home run production from Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Jim Lemon and still has a two-man pitching staff composed of Camilo Pascual and Pedro Ramos.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Chicago
2. New York
3. Cleveland
4. Detroit
5. Baltimore
6. Kansas City
7. Boston
8. Washington

Coahoma Girls Again Grab District Volleyball Title

COAHOMA (SC) — Coahoma repeated as champion in District 6-A girls' volleyball competition by winning the annual tournament here Saturday.

The Bulldogs defeated Rotan, 54-14, in their opening contest, then turned back Roby in the finals, 32-10.

Roby had decisioned Stanton in its first outing, 30-17. Stanton proceeded to win consolation laurels with a 28-21 success at the expense of Rotan.

In Coahoma's opening game against Rotan, Johnnie Nichols counted 19 points from the scoring line while Donna Cramer had 15 and Patsy Greenfield six. For Rotan, Janie Henderson and Patty McClung tallied four each.

Joyce Murff registered 13 points for Roby and Frances Graves five for Stanton in their first round tilt.

In the title game, Barbara Ritter served successfully nine times for Coahoma while Patsy Greenfield counted seven and Johnnie Nichols six.

For Rotan, Joyce and Judy Murff and Judy Long each counted two.

The Coahoma team is still undefeated. Coach Jean Wynn plans to take the girls to the state meet at HSU in Abilene May 5-6.

In the junior phase of the meet, Roscoe emerged as the champion by defeating Roby in the finals, 55-21. Stanton copped consolation laurels with a 60-33 triumph over Rotan.

Roscoe, which drew a first round bye, decisioned Coahoma in the semi-finals, 59-10.

In first round contests, Coahoma won over Rotan, 58-35, while Roby decisioned Stanton, 53-38.

MacArthur Leaves Clinic, Feels Fine

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur is out of the hospital and says he feels fine.

MacArthur had a big smile for photographers Sunday as he left Lenox Hill Hospital accompanied by his wife, Jean.

"One of the most striking stories in the Bible is that of Lazarus, who was raised from the dead," he said. "I feel very much like a modern Lazarus, whose resurrection is due to the extraordinary skill of Dr. George W. Slaughter and his able assistants."

MacArthur, 80, entered the hospital Jan. 29 and underwent an operation March 19 for removal of his prostrate gland.

DEAR ABBY

JUST WAIT

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a cashier at a local moving picture theatre. Naturally I am on display at all times. I have been told that I am very good looking.

Two weeks ago I received a dozen beautiful roses. The card enclosed read, "You are far more beautiful than these roses." There were only initials on the card.

A week later I received another dozen roses with the message, "I think of you night and day," signed with the same initials. I couldn't begin to name my unknown admirer, so I telephoned the florist who delivered the flowers and asked him who sent them. He said he couldn't tell me, but I'm sure he knows. I would like your help, Dear Abby, in finding out.

BLONDIE

DEAR BLONDIE: Be patient. Your "unknown admirer" will present himself sooner or later. But I warn you — don't expect too much. A handsome young Romeo doesn't have to.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What do you tell a child who was born six months after his parents were married, when he is old enough to start counting it up? Isn't there some little "white lie" that would sound convincing? I would like to hear from other parents who have had to face this problem. Has anyone come up with a foolproof solution?

JUMPED THE GUN

DEAR JUMPED: The most popular explanation is that the baby was "premature." Then, too, the parents can select a nice safe "wedding date" and celebrate it. Or they can predate their actual wedding date by one year and stick to it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We are submitting our problem to you for arbitration. I am a respectable bachelor living in a furnished apartment. There are other bachelors who have apartments in this building.

Our landlady is a "watcher." She is permanently stationed high up in her picture window from which vantage point she keeps an eye on all visitors day and night. She says she wants to keep a "respectable apartment." We are all over 21 and we call it nosiness. She has gone into our apartments (when we are out) and rummaged through our belongings. She says since it is her furniture she has a right to "check on its condition." Last year three tenants moved out en masse because they couldn't take her prying. Are we wrong or is she? Can you say something to her? SPIED ON

DEAR SPIED ON: She is wrong and I could say something to her but it wouldn't help you. The best solution is to move.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RICE PADDY DADDY IN KOREA": Your letter was beautiful. No wonder your wife back in the States is red, white and true blue.

* * *

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of The Big Spring Herald and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

2 Voters Okay Big Bond Issue

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—The two persons eligible to vote in a million-dollar bond election both voted for the measure.

They were Jesse Mendoza, a barber, and his wife, a secretary. The couple voted in their home Saturday when Mendoza got home from work.

The only persons eligible to vote were residents of the Galveston County Drainage Dist. 4 — the Mendozas. The marshy area that comprises the district will be drained with the funds approved in the election. Other persons owning land in the district plan to build up to 300 homes as soon as water can be diverted and the low areas filled.

The election was called by the drainage district. Costs of the election were reduced by directors of the district acting as vote counters.

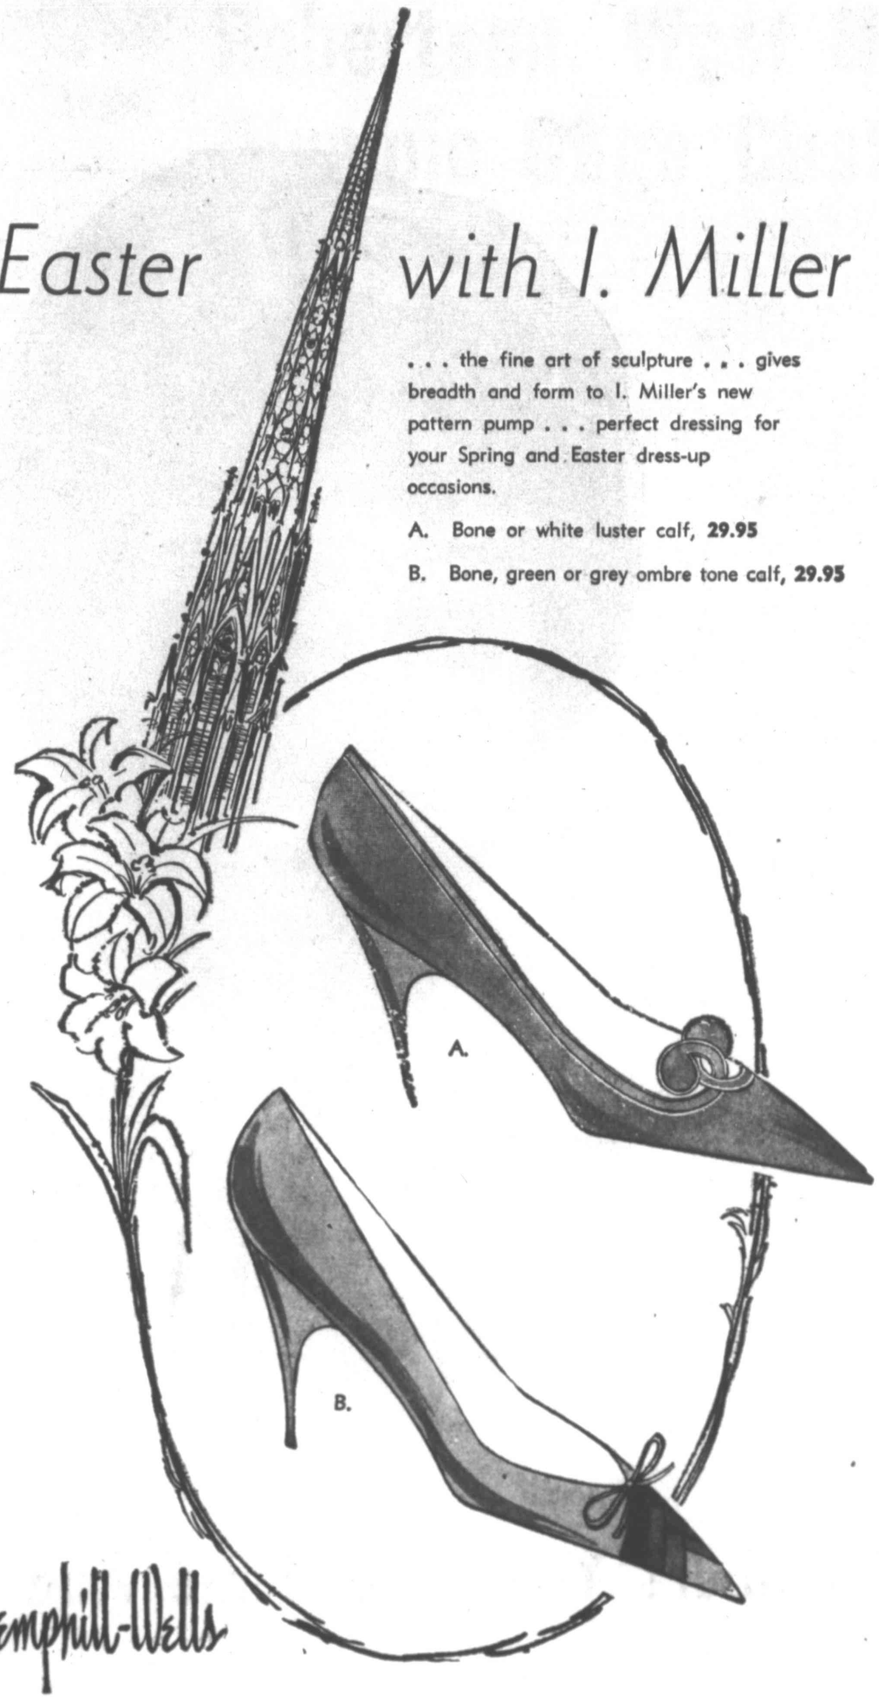

The printed ballots will be sent to the Capitol at Austin for certification.

Men's Wear Of Character

THE FRONT ROW

By Bob Smith

We note a group of church women met in San Angelo on the subject of bad literature, and the meeting fizzled. It could be, they didn't have the faintest notion of what they were dealing with—and for goodness' sake, let's not let the people who don't even know what pornography is be the ones to get laws passed dealing with such material.

A lawyer and a judge who met with the church women scuttled their efforts by pointing out that, when people are faced with a big problem, they try to get a law passed, and when faced with a little problem, they appoint a committee. They also pointed out that new laws would be useless, since juries are loathe to convict and appellate courts have a tendency to reverse.

It would seem there is no use in blaming the Supreme Court for its recent decisions in the field of literature, although taking pot shots at our U. S. justices seems to be the latest national sport. The court is concerned primarily in such cases with protecting individual rights, which are so often trampled through blind and all-inclusive enforcement of vague and poorly-conceived laws.

And that leaves the question, what is pornography? — a subject few people agree on. Considering that our own Pastors Association is presently concerned with bad literature, let's let the experts have their say:

PORNOGRAPHY AND THE LAW, by Drs. Eberhard and Phyllis Kronhausen. Introduction by Dr. Theodor Reik. Ballantine, $0.75, paperback.

This husband-wife team had been assigned as expert witnesses during U. S. court hearings on "Lady Chatterley's Lover," the D. H. Lawrence novel long banned in the U. S. as pornographic.

They discovered that no one knew what is meant by the term "pornographic," that the closest anyone had come to a definition was best illustrated by that old saw, "One man's pornography is another man's art." The laws covering such things, they discovered, were vague.

They found that obscenity almost defies a precise definition, and that previous attempts at writing a definition into law were like trying to judge the color of a horse by how fast he can run.

With the court hearings and their own training as background, the Kronhausens decided to apply the scientific method so as to come up with a more precise definition. Former students of Dr. Reik and well known in the field of psychology, the Kronhausens had received degrees at the University of Minnesota, followed by later work and post graduate study at Columbia University. They have been in private practice in San Francisco since 1958.

The result is this book, in which the authors have definitely pinpointed the nature of pornography, and have succeeded in separating that class of literature from another classification, called "erotic realism," which often is confused with pornography.

The book thus becomes a standard guide which may be used as a model for future legislation, or as a guide to help local groups, such as the church women or our own Pastors Association, in their investigations; or to help local law enforcement agencies in interpreting the usually vague statutes.

Realism and obscenity are shown to be two entirely different things, and those who read this book can no longer be confused.

It is a scholarly work, written in the style to which scientific investigators are accustomed, and any one who tries to read the book for kicks will be somewhat disappointed. And, of course, there are still people around with completely closed minds, to whom all sex is filth; these people will gain nothing in reading the Kronhausen treatise.

It is not a book for the timid, however, for the author found it necessary to quote extensively from specimens of pornography (but censored by the authors) and erotic realism both for understanding of the contents and for purpose of comparison.

Some of the writings of Shakespeare, Mark Twain, and modern writers are considered, and are compared with the usually anonymous authorings that constitute pornography.

The Kronhausens' work is an important contribution to enlightenment in a shadowy area, and to the cause of freedom of expression.

In light of Supreme Court decisions, and the possibility that the definition provided by "Pornography and the Law" will be generally adopted, it would seem useless to pursue any line of attack against bad literature that is not in accord with the decision and the definition. This makes a study of the material outlined in the book a necessity to anyone delving into the subject of pornography.

* * *

There is another issue—not covered in the book, but which this reviewer feels should be mentioned—that if parents took the trouble to inform their children, they'd have little to worry about from pornography.

And no need for more stringent laws.

A change in attitude could accomplish wonders, for it is true that whatever shocks, offends or horrifies their elders is what titillates the youngsters. If we approach the problem with dignity instead of going into orbit, the kids will have nothing to snicker at.

Mrs. Aadland Slapped By Swain

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—From now on, vows Florence Aadland, she's going to see to it that her daughter, Beverly, dates only doctors and lawyers.

Mrs. Aadland checked into a hospital to have her jaw examined. "I think it's broke," said the mother of the late Errol Flynn's teen-age protege. She said Beverly's latest admirer, age 19, "backhanded me when I told him to keep his hands off my baby."

Rattlesnake Meat Eaters Join Hunt

OKEENE, Okla. (AP)—Connoisseurs with a taste for rattlesnake meat joined hunters and curious spectators Sunday at the annual Okeene rattlesnake hunt.

The people numbered 19,000 and they turned this wind-swept northwestern Oklahoma town of 1,100 into a carnival.

The snakes bagged by hunters in heavy boots weighed 2,044 pounds—before those hungry lovers of barbecued snake meat went to work.

Chamber of Commerce President Anthony Felder said 500 pounds of the delicacy was sold right off the griddle. Without barbecue it tastes something like chicken breast.

Felder said the price of rattlesnake — down from 50 cents a pound last year to 20 cents this year—probably prevented a record catch.

San Angelo Tar Dies In Fall

PROVIDENCE, R.I (AP) — A sailor attached to the aircraft carrier Lake Champlain fell to his death Sunday from a third story window of the Mohican Hotel.

A medical examiner ruled accidental the death of Deriel D. Brazelton, 35, of San Angelo, Tex.

Police said Brazelton and another sailor retired about midnight Saturday, leaving a window of their room wide open. Brazelton was found dying on the sidewalk below three hours later. His roommate was asleep.

Eleanor Sprains Ankle In Mishap

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt suffered a sprained ankle when she stepped off a curb Sunday and was knocked down by a backing car. But she showed up for three speaking engagements despite her injury.

Mrs. Roosevelt, 75, was treated by her physician. She said she did not get the driver's name and did not report the incident to the police.

She said she was much too busy to think about her sprained ankle. She used a crutch when she showed up for her engagements.

Old Yarn Of Jeff Davis In Wife's Clothing Disproved

By W. JOYNES MACFARLAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Jefferson Davis was captured by Union forces on May 10, 1865, near Irwinville, Ga., he was wearing his wife's raincoat and shawl.

The story got started then that he was trying to escape by disguising himself as a woman.

The idea that the president of the Confederate States of America would resort to such poltroonery has been pretty well discredited. Nonetheless the federal government still has possession of that raincoat and shawl, plus a pair of mismatched spurs the Confederate leader also was wearing when captured.

Under a 1914 directive, the government is belatedly trying to give them back to Davis' descendants.

The government rather wishes the descendants can see their way clear to presenting the historical relics to the Smithsonian Institution.

By an intricate chain of happenstance, the shawl, raincoat and spurs wound up in the National Archives. On behalf of the archives, General Services Administrator Franklin Floete has undertaken to return them to Davis' heirs.

Floete recently wrote to a grandson, Jefferson Hays Davis of Colorado Springs, Colo., offering the articles to the descendants if they can properly identify themselves. He also suggested they give them to the Smithsonian.

Floete acted on information uncovered by Dr. Dallas Irvine, chief archivist of the War Records Division of the National Archives.

As to the charge that Davis dressed in woman's clothing in an effort to escape capture, Dr. Irvine said: "It is clear that he was not consciously and purposely, and with plans aforethought, in disguise. By mistake, apparently, he took his wife's coat, which resembled his, and his wife put her shawl on his head.

"From all accounts, he had the coat and shawl on only for maybe a minute or two. He threw them off when a Union cavalryman rode up, thrus. a carbine at his chest, and ordered him to surrender. He later said he had intended to try to take the trooper's horse.

"By his own story, and he was an honorable man, he is completely exonerated of the charge of trying to escape in woman's clothing."

Some newspaper accounts of the time had Davis dressed in his wife's crinoline petticoats and dress.

Davis himself said he wore a long coat, trousers tucked in high boots, and heavy spurs.

The official report of Lt. Col. B. D. Pritchard, who commanded the regiment that captured Davis, makes no mention of female attire.

Big Backlog Awaits Action Of Congress

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — A backlog of almost a dozen major bills will await congressional action following the abbreviated Easter recess this month.

Several of them contain the ingredients of major political issues in the November election.

Topping the list is civil rights legislation, which, barring unexpected developments, still will be kicking around when the Easter holiday starts April 14. Already passed by the House, the bill may be passed by the Senate this week and sent back to the House for action on Senate amendments. There is no present indication the House will speed up its final action on the explosive bill.

Likely to be passed by the House before the holiday is a bill extending the foreign aid program, but a more controversial measure financing the plan won't be ready until later.

A big defense appropriation bill is being whipped into shape for initial House action late in April or early May. Around it swirls the missile controversy.

Bottled up in the House Rules Committee are a housing bill and a measure to help economically depressed areas. Both are scheduled for House action.

Also in the offing and on the unofficial must program are bills to provide federal aid for school construction, an increase in minimum wages and a broadening of the Social Security program.

There is strong pressure also for legislation to increase interest rates on government bonds, to boost the pay of federal employes and to provide some form of health insurance for elderly persons on the Social Security Rolls.

The House Ways and Means Committee already has turned thumbs down on a broad health insurance bill but may come up later with a less expensive measure. Regardless of what is done, the subject is almost certain to be a hot campaign issue. Some Democrats woule like to bring the issue to a head by sending the President a bill he probably would veto.

Congressional leaders still are hopeful that Congress can adjourn for keeps before the first of the national political conventions starts July 11. But their earlier optimism about averting a post-convention session is dimming.

Lyndon Urges Russ Challenge To Cooperation

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson, who says he is a candidate for the U.S. Senate from Texas, declared Sunday Russia must be challenged to work in cooperation with this country toward a better world.

The Senate majority leader said the result of such cooperation could only be good.

"We cannot allow our minds to become obsessed with weapons," he told a luncheon meeting of the Oklahoma Press Assn. "We must not deceive ourselves into thinking that nuclear hardware and intercontinental ballistic missiles will maintain peace."

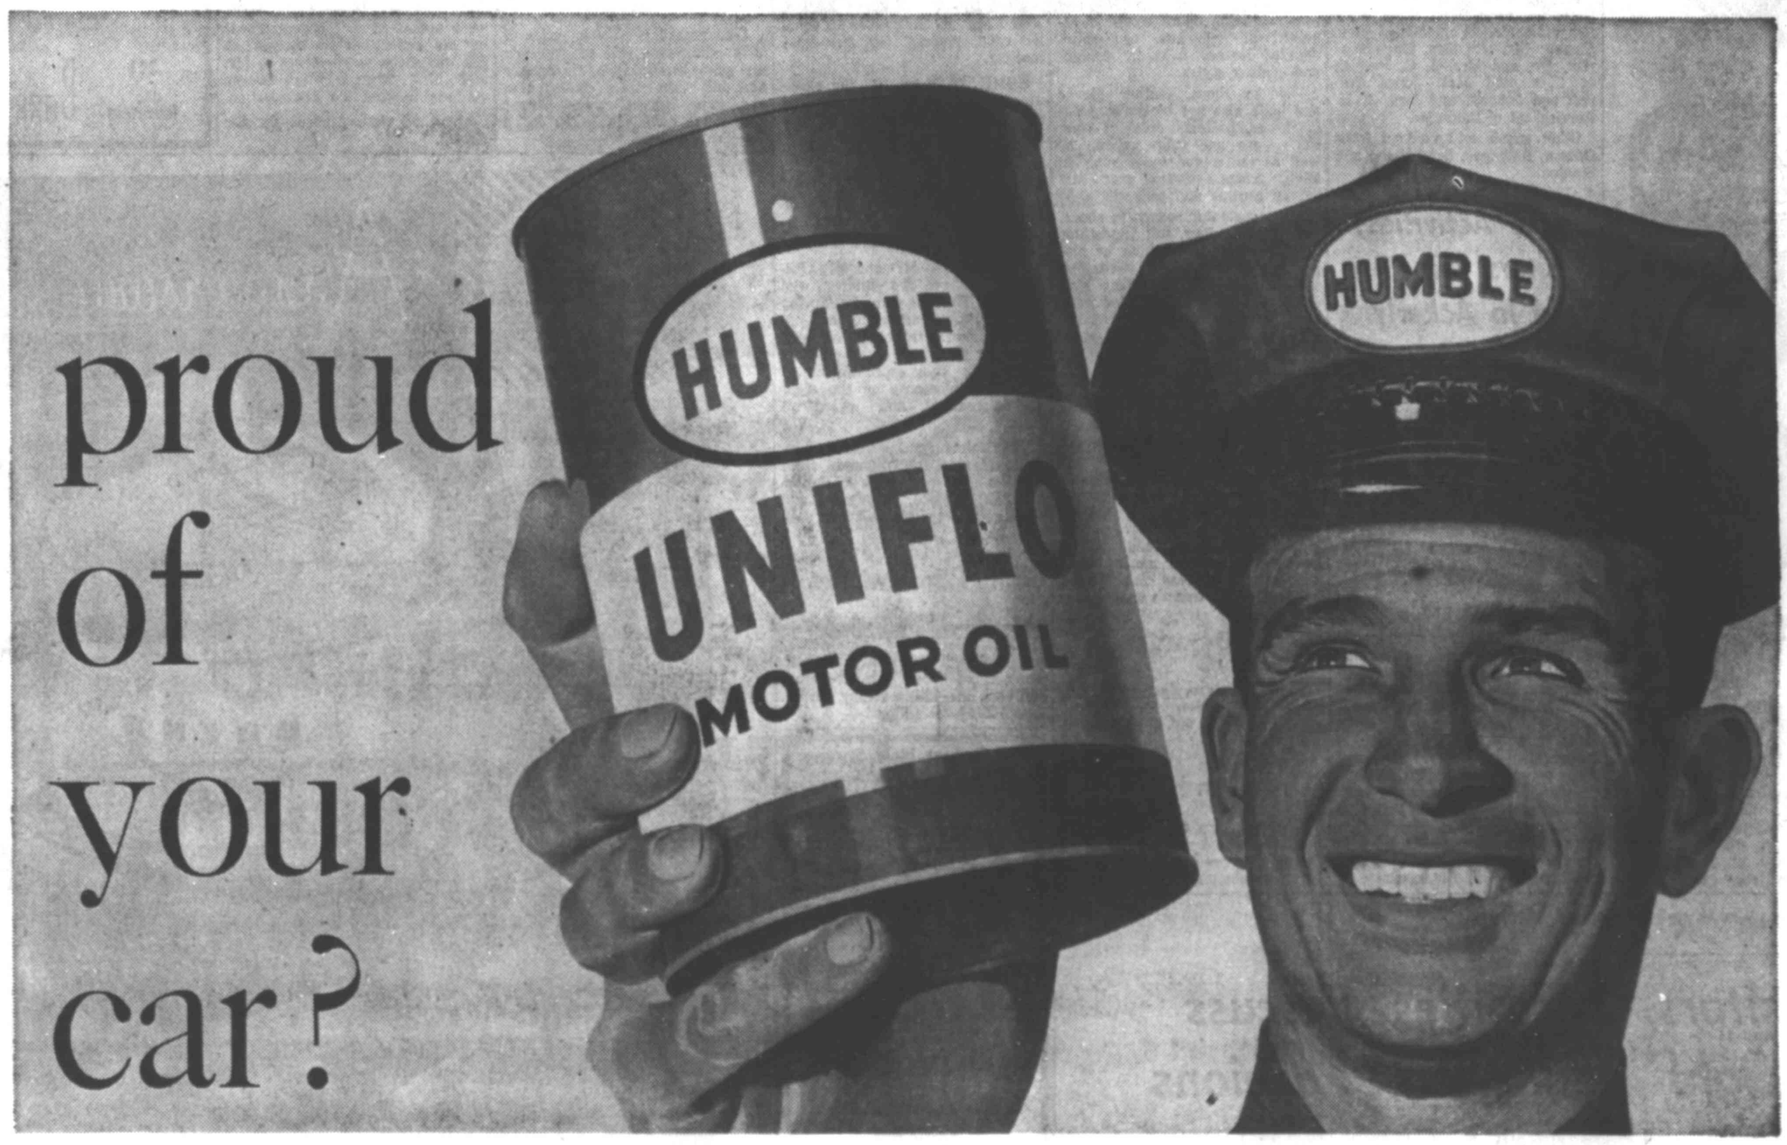

The newspaper editors questioned Johnson persistently on whether he is a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Johnson seemed to enjoy the verbal fencing, but failed to state any presidential ambitions.

He put the issue this way:

"My friend Bob Kerr told me the way to make news down here was to announce that I am a candidate for the nomination.

"Well, I'm announcing that I'm an avowed candidate; that I will conduct a diligent campaign—for reelection for the U.S. Senate from Texas."

protect its engine with new UNIFLO

1960 is Humble's year!

Announcement of this substantial improvement in the quality of Uniflo Motor Oil follows major improvements in the quality of Humble gasolines. Thus Humble again demonstrates its leadership in product quality, a big reason why so many motorists stop for service under Humble signs . . . Are you among them!

It seemed impossible to make further improvements in Uniflo, the "Happy Motoring"* oil beyond compare.

But Humble Research has done just that: the best motor oil of 1959 is a better oil for 1960. Two new additives put Uniflo even further ahead of other oils in quality.

These new additives break up sludge into harmless particles and hold them in suspension until the oil is changed. They retard, better than ever before, the formation of "varnish" on pistons, crankshafts, cylinder walls. In brief, new Uniflo gives your car's engine protection it has never had until now.

If you're proud of your car (most folks are!), change to new Uniflo Motor Oil under your neighbor's Humble sign . . . Uniflo is the original multi-grade oil, the one oil for every climate in any season.

You will be a happier motorist when you become a Humble customer.

Tasting Tea Assists Garden, Homemakers

City Park's formal rose garden received a financial boost Saturday afternoon, and homemakers throughout the town gained new ideas and recipes for tasty foods.

The occasion was the tasting tea, given in the Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College, sponsored by the seven units of the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs. The rose garden is a project of the group.

An array of dips, relishes, casseroles, salads, meats and desserts of various types was spread on tables for the delight of the more than 600 guests who called during the afternoon. Plates were provided for samples of any or all of the dishes, and coffee was served from a special refreshment table.

Presidents of the clubs alternated at the coffee services on the table which was centered with a large arrangement of chrysanthemums and Dutch iris. The officers also took turns in receiving guests at the door.

The sale of recipes, priced at 10 cents each, brought in $170.40, it was reported. Admission tickets sold for 50 cents.

Mrs. Travis Carlton, Rosebud club president, was general chairman of the tea; presidents of the clubs are Mrs. Zack Gray, Spader; Mrs. Lee Schattel, Four O'Clock; Mrs. Adrian Randle, After Five; Mrs. J. W. Trantham, Planters; Mrs. W. F. Taylor, Oasis; Mrs. Clyde Angel, Big Spring Club. Mrs. Bill Tubb is president of the council.

Wedding Anniversary Noted By Al Klovens

Marking their wedding day of 25 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kloven entertained friends Sunday afternoon with a pink and silver tea in the parlor of the Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College.

The couple was married on April 4, 1935, in Clovis, N. M., and moved to Big Spring in 1938. Kloven is a bookkeeper for Driver Implement Co., while Mrs. Kloven is a teacher in the public school system.

Assisting with the courtesy Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Al Kloven Jr., students at Howard Payne College, Brownwood, and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Price of Odessa. Mrs. Price is a sister of Mrs. Kloven.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Younger and Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Keese; assisting with the hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ray, Mrs. Creed Coffee, Mrs. Ray Cantrell, Mrs. Cass Hill, Mrs. J. W. Arnett, Mrs. C. L. Lumpkin, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Heoton, Mrs. Dewey Young and Mrs. Tom Cantrell.

Pink and silver predominated on the tea table, covered with pink nylon net over satin and pink and silver ribbon streamers. A monochromatic arrangement of pink stock and red roses centered the table. This was a gift from the Prices and served as a memorial to the late Mrs. T. A. Kolstad, an aunt of Kloven.

Coming from out of town for the festivities were Mrs. T. J. Parrish of Ballinger, mother of Mrs. Kloven; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Parrish and Mr. and Mrs. Jones Parrish and Johnny, and Mrs. J. H. Parrish, all of Ballinger.

Other guests attended from Odessa, Ballinger, Brownwood and Stanton.

Tonic For Early Spring Wardrobes Is White Leather

White leather gloves and belts will wake up sluggish wardrobes this spring. And this liveliest and most versatile of all colors is repeated in all-white or white-detailed leather belts in straight and contour styles.

Cued to shoes, leather gloves and belts also are blossoming out in flower pastels, notably lilac, Paris rose and tulip yellow, as well as the muted tones such as olive, greige, pewter gray and smoky browns and tans.

It's a spectator season in shoes, and gloves follow suit. Spectator touches of black stitching or piping outline cuff edges. Medallion and fleur-de-lis perforations give spectator pattern and added coolness to shorty gloves.

With waistlines dropping slightly, the new leather belts have been restyled accordingly. Especially versatile are pleated, cuffed and softly sashed leather belts that can be worn at various heights.

White and black are frequent companions in belts. You'll see white contour belts in various widths with a cuff of black leather just barely showing, or folding halfway over the white . . . or black grained or suede leather belts three or four inches wide with cutout sections crossed by bands of white smooth leather.

Better Brownies

To make brownies extra luscious, melt sweet chocolate and spread over the top, then sprinkle with nuts.

Takes An Hour

When you are reheating a family-size steamed pudding, count on the pudding needing about an hour before it is piping hot.

1930 Hyperions Warned Of Communism's Rise

Communism can take over in his country unless America finds the old sense of direction and purpose, members of the 1930 Hyperion Club were told at a meeting Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charles Weeg. Mrs. Malcolm Patterson was cohostess.

Speakers were Mrs. T. E. Helton, who discussed the importance of the humanism movement as the basis of socialism and communism, and Mrs. B. L. LeFever. Originating with the ancient Greeks, humanism was an effort to understand human experience and to glorify the life of man, Mrs. Helton explained. She discussed how the idea was threatened by the socialist movement.

The early Christians, Mrs. Helton continued, had a form of socialism with the austere life shared by all; it rose into prominence in the Middle Ages and aimed at the elimination of classes and grew as a result of capitalism, the speaker said.

Mrs. LeFever reviewed the history of communism from its start in March, 1917, when the Russians revolted against the rule of Czar Nicholas II. The development of the harsh rule of the party was described; supplementing the discussion with recent magazine articles, Mrs. LeFever brought out the fact that it is fear which makes communism work in the satellite countries—fear of one's fellow man and of his friends.

A general discussion of the subject followed rhe program.

The club voted to set the year's dues to the City Federation for the furnishing of the newly-gained center for crippled children and adults to be located near the new YMCA. This will be a project of the federation.

A club project is the assistance with occupational therapy supplies for the Big Spring State Hospital. Members volunteered to donate a sum of money for the purchase of such articles as are needed.

The last meeting of the year was announced as a coffee, slated for April 30, which is a change in the regular date. Guests will be invited to the affair, to be given at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. E. L. Powell, 900 Mountain Park Drive. Hostesses will be Mrs. Powell, Mrs. Elmo Wasson, Mrs. Herbert Keaton, Mrs. Leroy Tidwell, Mrs. Toots Mansfield, Mrs. Ed Cherry, Mrs. R. W. Thompson and Mrs. Robert Middleton.

During the tea hour, Mrs. E. V. Spence, president of the club, presided at a table laid with white cutwork; a mass arrangement of peppermint - striped carnations brightened the setting.

Onion With Eggs

Like onion? Cook thin strips of it in butter and add to eggs you are going to scramble. Go further and add some diced cooked ham and some minced green pepper and you'll have the filling for a Western Sandwich.

Pee-Wee Teams Are Entertained

Easter eggs and baskets centered runners on the banquet tables for the dinner given Saturday evening honoring the Pee - Wee basketball teams of Elbow School in the Truck Stop dining room.

Both boys and girls teams assembled for the affair, opened with an invocation by Joe Holten. The Rev. Jack Strickland, pastor of the East Fourth Baptist Church, spoke on the topic, "Go a Little Further", advising the youngsters to do just a bit more than their share of any task.

Certificates, lettered in gold, were presented to team members by the coach, Arlain Briggs. A gift was made by the team to Mr. and Mrs. Briggs, with Sheron Johnson making the presentation.

About 68 were present for the dinner.

AFTERNOON TEA

Visitors, Localities Discuss Weight Reduction, Fashions

A panel discussion of weight reduction, a fashion show and tea were part of Saturday afternoon's entertainment for wives of visiting physicians to the heart seminar and local women at the Cosden Country Club. Hostesses for the affair were members of the local medical auxiliary and women members of the local chapter of the Texas Heart Association.

More than 150 local women, members of the federated clubs and Officer's Wives Club from Webb, were included in the invitations.

Mrs. Vivian MacFawn, director of the Texas Heart Association from Houston, was the panel moderator when Mrs. Keith Brock, dietitian at the Big Spring State Hospital, and Mrs. Ed Swift as a housewife, pointed out good practices for keeping a healthy heart.

The three discussed the necessity for maintaining a normal weight; showed the women the different body types and gave basic diets for weight reduction. Women were warned against using drugs to aid in reducing or maintaining weight and were told to diet under a doctor's direction.

Mrs. Jim Zack was the narrator for the fashion show that included the showing of spring clothes from bathing suits to nightgowns. Children's fashions were from The Kid's Shop and also included small fry in play cothes, Sunday best and night wear.

Mrs. Bill Bonner furnished organ music during the show.

A show stopper was the appearance of Marvin Burleson, who sang Hush My Baby as he pushed a 100 year old perambulator about the ballroom singing to a large doll. The vehicle which has been painted white and has a pretty pink parasol and upholstering is the property of Mrs. Eva Pyeatt, Kid Shop owner.

Yellow flowers were used as floral decoration. A tea cart held a flat basket of tulips while a hanging birdcage was decorated with yellow birds and an arrangement of forsythia and jonquils.

The tea table was covered with an organza cloth of pale chartreuse over pastel yellow. The caduceus was based by a spring centerpiece composed of gladioli, stock, Dutch iris and chrysanthemums. Appointments were crystal.

Hair styles for the models were from the Hair Style Clinic—their fresh flowers were from Estah's.

Models for Zack's were Mrs. James Garriott, Mrs. Wm. E. Overacker, Mrs. Glen Clarfeo, Mrs. Wm. H. Huss, Mrs. Earl Kruger, Mrs. R. E. Magnusson, Mrs. R. R. Smith, Mrs. Wm. J. Boudreaux, Mrs. Joe M. Lyon, Mrs. Leroy A. Bruflat, Mrs. Russell Nelson, Mrs. Malcolm Williams, Mrs. L. J. Bellentoni, Mrs. Jas. Shattuck, Mrs. John W. Browning, Mrs. Wesley Strahan, Mrs. Hermann Hammerstein, Mrs. Quentin Leroy Watterman, Mrs. S. L. Davis, Mrs. Benjamin Yeargin.

Showing styles from the Kid's Shop were Cheryl Wilbanks, Jill Lewis, Halena Wozencraft, Veanda Griffith, Debbie Witter, Fain Sherrill, Danna Mancill, Ann Sanders, Mark Sanders, Marvin Burleson, Kay Ryan, Cheryl Turner, Lisa Taylor, Mark McMillan, Mary Wilcox, Sandra Nelson, Cindy Jones, Mary Jane Gulley, Elizabeth Phelan, Pamela Steffy, Susan Wilcox, Mary Anne Martin and Elaine Carpenter.

Members of the house party were Mrs. George Peacock, Mrs. C. O. Nalley, Mrs. Larson Lloyd, Mrs. J. E. Hogan, Mrs. Roscoe Cowper, Mrs. Doug Orme, Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle, Mrs. Swift, Mrs. G. T. Hall, Mrs. C. L. Rowe, Mrs. Floyd Mays and Mrs. Carl Marcum.

Make Garlic Bread

You can use an ordinary loaf of unsliced bread for making popular garlic bread. Cut the loaf lengthwise through the center but not through the bottom. Then cut the loaf across at 2-inch intervals. Spread the cuts with the garlic-butter mixture and heat in a moderate oven.

Paint Tip

A good method of painting stairs is to paint every other step. When one has dried, paint the ones you skipped.

Store Baked Apples

Baked apples may be kept in the freezer for four months, applesauce for as long as a year.

A Devotional For Today

"Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me." (Matthew 25:40. RSV.)

PRAYER: O God, touch our spirits that our eyes may see opportunities to minister to the world's need. May our discipleship be proved by our love expressed in helpful deeds. For Christ's sake, whose rule we long for. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Your Duty To Vote

Tuesday the annual election of city commissioners is to be held at the City Hall fire station. This year is more important than another for a number of reasons, one of them being that three commissioners are to be named. Another is that the commissioners to be chosen will serve in a very critical two years of our community history.

The fact that only the three incumbents are listed may in one sense dull the excitement of an election, but it should not dull the responsibilities of the individual voter.

As a matter of principle, every time the polls are open, every good citizen ought to vote. Exercise in the art of voting is like exercise in the art of athletics; you can't be good at it unless you take part.

Then, there is the matter of common courtesy of appreciation. Those who serve on the commission do so with a mere token payment for two meetings a month. Thus, the fact that men offer for these places is a high tribute to their sense of civic obligation. Since they give hours upon hours, and still more hours upon hours, of service each month, the least voters can do is to take the trouble to go to the polls and cast a ballot, whether for or against.

We think the commission has served with honor and fortitude, having faced some long-overdue actions forthrightly and with fairness and good spirit. Whether you agree or not, you have the duty to go to the polls Tuesday and vote.

The Handicap Of An Open Field

The sober-sided Wall Street Journal, taking a close look at the future of the Republican Party, particularly as applied to 1960, reaches the conclusion that Richard M. Nixon faces an uphill fight as the taken-for-granted nominee for President.

At least two of the Journal's staff writers think so, presenting their views in a recent issue.

They gained this impression by interviewing hundreds of Wisconsin voters, and turning up "an astonishingly large number of 1952 and 1956 Eisenhower fans who say that, as of now, they don't plan to vote for the vice president in November."

The article continues: "Democrats and Independents of this state who were charmed by Mr. Eisenhower's personality or won over by his views just don't feel the same way about the man he now wants to follow him into the White House. Most say they'll vote Democratic this fall—no matter who the Democratic nominee may be."

Mr. Nixon, the article concedes, will clearly get the votes of almost all hard-core Wisconsin Republicans, but some are "supporting him with a lack of enthusiasm that could cost him money and volunteer effort in the coming campaign."

Mr. Nixon himself makes no bones of the hard road ahead of him. Speaking in Nebraska this week he laid it on the line.

"Anyone who does not recognize that we are in the fight of our lives must be smoking opium," Mr. Nixon declared. "We must expect this to be one of the closest and hardest fought campaigns in America's political history."

Personal popularity is non-transferable.

Mr. Eisenhower never made any pretense of knowing more than the rudiments of politics, but Mr. Nixon is a recognized authority on the subject, and a shrewd practitioner of the art. He has built up a loyal following of enthusiastic young pros who keep him in constant touch with the ebb and flow in every part of the country, and when he says the GOP ticket faces "the fight of our lives" he probably spoke advisedly.

The Democratic pros themselves are too down-to-earth to make the mistake of thinking Nixon was trying to lull them into a sense of false optimism by his remarks. They know their side has a real fight on its hands too.

Prayers For Khrushchev

WASHINGTON—Nikita Khrushchev is a politician and, when he wishes to curry favor with an audience in a foreign land, he goes so far as to give Christianity a qualified endorsement even though he is a professed atheist himself.

But while Mr. Khrushchev is willing to quote the scriptures, he indicates that he doesn't really understand them. It may be a hopeful sign that the Soviet premier has begun to discuss Christian principles. In an off-the-cuff press conference in France, the Soviet ruler said:

"There is much in Christianity which is common to us Communists. I only disagree on one point and that was when Christ said, 'If I am struck on one cheek, I will turn the other.' I believe in another principle: If I am hit on the left cheek, I hit them back on the right cheek so strongly that the head may fall off. This is my only difference with Christ."

BUT THIS SO-CALLED "difference" emphasizes something that is the root of the world's tension today. If Mr. Khrushchev could only understand the teachings of Jesus and accept them in their real context, the whole world would benefit from the change that could ensue, for here's what Jesus said, as rendered in the book of Luke:

"Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you. Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you.

"And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other . . . and as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise."

THIS HAS BEEN KNOWN for ages as the Golden Rule. In it is embodied the doctrine of conciliation in human disputes. "Turning the other cheek" is, of course, figurative, and there is nothing in the scriptures which belies the right of self-defense or self-preservation in combat. Rather, the advice given is related to the highest ideals of human conduct—a sense of forebearance with a disputant and an unwillingness to resort to force to settle a controversy with one's friend or neighbor. Indeed, a formula for conciliation and the orderly settlement of civil disputes was outlined by Jesus in the book of Matthew as follows:

"Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more, that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church: but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as a heathen and a publican."

THE FINAL PENALTY recommended was, to be sure, ostracism by the community—a resort to moral force as a means of eventually persuading the sinner to listen to the voice of conscience. There is nothing in the scriptures which condones an evildoer or assures him that he may escape punishment for his acts. On the contrary, the wrongdoer is urged to be watchful, lest he be imprisoned for violating the law.

To many people in the world today, the words of Nikita Khrushchev are not accepted as sincere because they come from a man whose past deeds indicate that he believes "the end always justifies the means"—a man who would ask his adversary to disarm completely without giving any acceptable assurances that he will do likewise.

What is the answer? Jesus said: "Pray for them." Maybe the Soviet Premier doesn't know that many people in the world today do pray for him in the hope that he and his followers will abandon their atheism and their unscrupulous rule over the oppressed. Hundreds of people said so in letters commenting on an editorial by this writer entitled "Prayers for Khrushchev," which appeared in "U. S. News & World Report" on Oct. 5, 1959, just after the Soviet premier visited the United States. It read in part as follows:

"ALL OF US MUST come to learn that there is indeed a substitute for the hates and the passions that have led so often to 'organized murder.' It is human love. It can permeate nations as well as their rulers. And in that spirit, we pray for the transgressors in the Kremlin in the hope that they may be inspired to take to heart the words of the gospel:

" 'The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of Heaven is at hand: repent ye, and believe the gospel. Repent: for the kingdom of God is at hand . . . .

" 'Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

" 'Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

" 'Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

" 'Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

" 'Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called the children of God'."

Wisconsin—The Way To The Egress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Winning the Wisconsin presidential primary in recent years has been like winning one free pass to the exit.

So, even if Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) beats Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) in the Wisconsin Democratic primary Tuesday, it's no assurance he will win the Democratic presidential nomination at his party's convention in Los Angeles.

Look what happened to Sens. Estes Kefauver and Robert A. Taft in the past two elections and, before them, to Harold Stassen.

Tennessee's Kefauver won the Wisconsin primary twice in a row—in 1952 and 1956—but both times later lost the Democratic presidential nomination to Adlai Stevenson who did not run in either primary.

OHIO'S TAFT WON the Wisconsin Republication presidential primary in 1952 but then lost his party's presidential nomination to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The forever hopeful Stassen won in Wisconsin in 1948 only to be drowned out later when the Republican convention chose Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for its presidential candidate.

In 1952 in Wisconsin Kefauver had no opposition except for a couple of stand-ins for President Truman. But Truman had already said he was not a candidate.

That year Kefauver won 14 out of 16 primary races.

He had the primary all to himself in 1956, just a couple of weeks after beating Stevenson in the Minnesota primary.

The Tennessean's experience tends to support what Truman said this past weekend: that primaries are "eyewash" and a "waste of time" and if a candidate wants to be nominated he should not enter the primaries.

NEVERTHELESS, Kennedy and Humphrey are battling in Wisconsin and have entered other primaries in an effort to show they can win voter support.

Stevenson, who took a physical beating running in the primaries in 1956, got his fill of it that year. This year, of course, he says he is not seeking the nomination, which is a good excuse for not going into primary races. But he has not said he would refuse the nomination.

The two other would-be Democratic presidential candidates — Sens. Stuart Symington of Missouri and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas—seem to share Truman's feeling about primaries. They are staying out.

Nothing conclusive is likely to be proved in Wisconsin anyway.

For instance, the question: Is Kennedy handicapped by being a Roman Catholic? In the first place Wisconsin has a large Catholic population. But the whole question got muddied up last week. This was when some of his enemies took newspaper ads to urge Protestants to vote against him on the grounds that a lot of Catholic Republicans would cross their party's lines to vote for a fellow-Catholic. Humphrey quickly said he had nothing to do with the ads and was sorry they were printed. Kennedy said he was sure that Humphrey was blameless.

This piece of bigotry may in the end get some protest votes for Kennedy from non-Catholics who might otherwise have voted for Humphrey but who got sickened by this anti-Catholic bias against Kennedy.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon's name is in this Wisconsin primary too, and unopposed, although he hasn't campaigned there. Even if Kennedy or Humphrey got more votes it still would not be a disaster to him.

It could cause trouble but with no other Republican presidential candidate in sight, he still has a strangle-hold on the party's nomination next summer.

The High Cost Of Children

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't read his mail:

To raise a child is a great reach of dollars as well as dearness. Someone has figured that to discipline a son or daughter from diaper to college degree now costs $29,204 and enough tears.

But the thump in the throat of fondness is worth it at one moment of achievement. All the gray years of denial reach a sunshine reward.

Nature note: A polar bear has the same number of teeth on each side. Put in your own finger to be sure.

Bubbles to Paris: We measure miles by habits. If you are an incessant smoker, the distance today between America and Europe is less than the puffs in one package of cigarettes. The hostesses of Air France have figured out that on a jet flight you eat one third of the distance. While drinking one glass of champagne you go 150 miles.

A bow to nicety: In 1850 the census taker asked whether you were a pauper, had idiots in your house or convicts in your family. They won't ask these questions in 1960.

For students of elections: Is it true that, beginning in 1840, every U.S. president elected in a year divisible by 20 died in office?

This is the income-measuring month when the price of patriotism is painful but must be paid from the testimony of the pocketbook. Everybody bleeds from both purse and purpose now. And I find graphic this borrowed description of the Eiffel Tower—the Empire State Building after taxes.

A signal for sure: The Catholic Digest points out that when a man says he "can take it or leave it"—he has already had it.

There is a theory that as we get more crowded as people we prefer smaller pets and we are going into the era of "the apartment-size dog." My own observation is that persons in crowded quarters often try to express their freedom by having larger pets. I know of a lady who bought a Great Dane, and it once wagged a friendly tail to say "hello" and broke her rib. She had a doctor's bill to prove her story.

Who are they calling? A check by the Hotel Edison here found that women in hotels make more phone calls than men. It also found that women are harder to wake up in the morning.

You think today's highways are unsafe? In the Circus Maximus of ancient Rome dawn-to-dusk chariot races sometimes caused 50 deaths a day. And without the loss of a single pedestrian.

Our quotable notables: "If a man has good manners and is not afraid of people," said Sir David Leccles, "He will get by—even if he is stupid."

New Hearts For People A Possibility

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I'm not much of a man for making extravagant or visionary predictions about what someday MAY be possible.

We are naturally interested in what may be possible later, but when it comes to our real problems, we want to know what is possible now. So that is what we almost always discuss in this column.

However, I can't help commenting on two of the extraordinary directions in which research is moving.

One is the experimentation with "substitute hearts."

The other is the transplantation of organs (including hearts). Which is the more breathtaking, I hardly dare guess.

From California, we have reports of a dog being kept alive for more than a week with a heart transplanted from another dog. And the research people claim it could have been for an even longer period. In the past, such transplanting has succeeded for only a matter of a few hours. So this is real progress.

Elsewhere (mainly in Boston) repeated success has been achieved in transplanting a kidney from one twin to another when this was necessary to save the life of a patient who chanced to have a twin.

In other parts of the world, Russia included, we hear of transplanting or replacing living parts.

From Illinois we learn about a mechanical and artificial heart which, for a short time—about half an hour—served to keep a dog active while exercising.

This is a far cry from using such a mechanical heart while the patient (whether a dog or human being) is at rest, under anesthesia, having an operation. Use of a mechanical heart for patients having heart surgery has become an everyday occurrence.

As a practical matter, we cannot yet install either a substitute or an artificial heart in a patient permanently. But in view of these new research efforts, we must begin to conjure with what the future holds.

We may, for all I know, never be able to give people "new hearts." And yet, who knows what new wonders we may now be working toward?

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have poor circulation. A friend who is a registered nurse says that some doctors recommend a little whisky or rum or brandy before going to bed. I am 77. How much should I take at a time? — G.B."

Yes, many doctors recommend it. A little alcohol will mildly dilate the small capillary blood vessels, allowing a little augmenting of circulation. I should say one ounce would be ample. But why don't you ask your doctor?

* * *

Mrs. A.B.R.; When a mole is so located that it is subject to continued irritation (like yours) don't wait any longer. Get rid of the mole. Yes, this is the sort of thing that can be done in your doctor's office.

Well, One Needs A Sense Of Humor

I've been told that men, as the years begin to string out behind them, rely more and more on their sense of humor whereas women, as they grow older, rely more and more on cosmetics.

I guess I'm getting old. I can even see more humor in politics now. Of course, some of the individuals on the political stage right now missed their calling. They should be in vaudeville.

I saw a cartoon the other day that fractured me, but I can understand why not everyone would think it was funny.

IT FEATURED a bleary-eyed man who obviously had been on the sauce the night before who hadn't bothered to shave when he came down to the breakfast table.

"Whose deal?" he asked his hostile-looking wife.

The writer of a column in a Southern paper was asked, in all seriousness, what was wrong in putting a penny behind a fuse.

The author of the news pillar, with tongue in cheek, replied that the coin was prone to get all smudgy and sooty—when the house burned down.

Probably you've listened to the story about two college boys who decided to defray their expenses by playing poker. Regrettably, they weren't very good at it and soon were operating on the other gamblers' money.

THEY DECIDED to outsmart the smart guys in another way. Their associates figured them out to be very dumb, they reasoned, so they set about to work out a gimmick to make this stupidity pay off. They hauled down a dictionary and the least brighter looking of the two trained diligently and ultimately learned how to spell rhinoceros and hippopotamus. He got so good at it he could rattle them off in his sleep.

Finally, the boys got a chance to spring their trap on a group of the easy-money fellows. One of the shills came around to the argument of his sidekick's intelligence (or lack of it) slowly. The intended victims got their money down.

"ALL RIGHT NOW," the chum said to the student of the dictionary, "spell rhinoceros."

"H-i-p-p-o-p-o-t-a-m-u-s," his crony replied proudly.

Then there was this unmarried female adult who was embarrassed when she found a whisky bottle in her garbage can.

"I got that bottle out of there in a hurry," she told a friend. "I certainly didn't want the garbage collector to think that I drink."

"What on earth did you do with it?" the friend asked.

"You know the Methodist minister is my next-door neighbor? Well, I waited until after dark and slipped over and put the bottle in his trash can. Everybody knows he doesn't drink."

The Good Ship Hope To Aid Others

A good man may be hard to find, but there are still a few in the clearing. One such came to my door a few days ago to tell me about a ship christened "Hope" that, loaded with this wonderful commodity, will sail out of San Francisco for the South Pacific in September.

Dr. William B. Walsh, 39, of Washington, D. C., is the man who has pried both a $35,000,000 hospital ship out of mothballs and out of the U. S. Government. He is also raising private funds to send it as a floating medical training school into parts of the world where doctors and nurses are in desperately short supply.

"THIS WHOLE PROJECT was conceived by the Committee on Medicine and Health of the People-to-People program," Dr. Walsh began. "Well, I'm chairman of that committee. It seemed to us that something ought to be done with those fine, big hospital ships—five of 'em — each worth $35,000,000 plus $350,000 worth of splendid medical equipment, and all in mothballs.

"How do you get a ship like that out of mothballs? Well, you ask for it! Then you convince the government that you can raise the money to operate it. Next, you get the ship. So we have a fine hospital ship, used in World War II and in the Korean War, now being de-mothballed in the Puget Sound Shipyard.

"PRIMARILY, THE ship will be a teaching project rather than a treatment center. But, remember, our first rule is that we go nowhere unless we are invited by the medical profession of the host country. The first country we visit will be Indonesia, where we shall spend six months. That is a nation of 87,000,000 persons, spread over 3,500 islands, with only 1,500 doctors.

"We hope to train local physicians, surgeons, nurses and medical aides in new techniques and skills. And we shall pray that they, in turn, will pass on their new knowledge to others.

"ON BOARD 'HOPE' there will be a permanent staff of fifteen doctors, specialists in many phases of medicine. In this jet age other doctors will fly out to join us from time to time. The medical complement will include 27 nurses, three of whom are graduate midwives.

"It will be our aim, wherever we go, to improve the level of medical training and techniques. Half of our personnel will remain on board ship, to train local doctors, nurses, medical aides and students there. The other half will work in local hospitals or inland in areas where training is needed."

It will cost $3,500,000 to keep "Hope" alive and in operation the first year. Dr. Walsh and his committee have already raised the first million and are heading toward their second. And I can see that he is eying those other four hospital ships

"WE HAVE RECEIVED money so far from almost every community in the United States, from Sunday School classes, women's clubs, civic groups, big business, big labor and industry." Dr. Walsh said. "We have received everything from nickels from kids to a promise of $2,000,000 worth of drugs from the pharmaceutical industry.

If anyone feels impelled to help this good work, DON'T send money to me; send it to HOPE, P.O. Box 9808, Washington 15, D. C.

A New Pattern In Naming Autos

"Giving a name, indeed, is a poetic art; all poetry . . is but a giving of names."—Thomas Carlyle.

The Ford Motor Co. had this idea. In the strenuous, nervous, anticipatory days before announcing the Edsel, David Wallace, then with the company's special products division, invited Marianne Moore, Brooklyn's gift to modern poetry, to try her imagery on naming a new car.

Thanks to the literary sense of Clarence Brown, a fellow at the University of Michigan and now an instructor in Russian at Princeton, the Wallace-Moore correspondence was printed in the New Yorker and preserved by the Morgan Library as a precious bit of belles lettres in book form.

"WE SHOULD like this name," Wallace wrote Miss Moore, "to have a compelling quality in itself and by itself. To convey, through association or other conjuration, some visceral feeling of elegance, fleetness, advanced features and design . .Another Thunderbird would be fine."

Miss Moore responded impulsively with Silver Sword, an Hawaiian plant whose silver-white leaves "have a pebbled texture that feels like Italian-twist backstitch all-over embroidery."

Later, Miss Moore proffered Resilient Bullet, Intelligent Bullet, Ford Faberge (referring to the original silversmith, not the perfume), Mongoose Civique, Anticipator, Regna Racer, Aeroterre, Varsity Stroke, Pastelogram, Astranaut, Reginarex, Andante con Moto, Utopian Turtletop, Taper Racer, and many more.

Ultimately, Wallace wrote Miss Moore:

"I FEEL A DEEP obligation to report . .We have chosen a name out of more than 6,000-odd candidates . . It fails somewhat of the resonance, gaiety and zest we were seeking. But it has a personal dignity and meaning to many of us here. Our name, dear Miss Moore, is—Edsel."

The name "Edsel," is a throwback. Early automobiles were named after the men who designed, financed or manufactured them, as John B. Rae, author of American Automobile Manufacturers (Chilton) and professor of history at Claremont College, points out in a nostalgic article, "Names Along the Highway," in the Claremont Quarterly.

Thus, Ford was named after Henry Ford, Chrysler after Walter P. Chrysler, Studebaker after the Studebaker brothers who made buggies. The Oldsmobile honors Ransom E. Olds, a machinist whose first effort in 1887 was a steam three-wheeler. Also, his initials gave America the Reo. The Buick memorializes David Dunbar Buick, a plumbing supply manufacturer who sponsored the valve-in-head engine.

LOUIS CHEVROLET, a racing driver is responsible for the Chevrolet. J. L. Hudson, Detroit department store magnate, was an early backer of the Hudson.

Companies also alighted on historic names—the Lincoln honors "Honest Abe," the Cadillac the French soldier who founded Detroit. Another Frenchman, the explorer, LaSalle, symbolized the junior Cadillac.

Chrysler Corp. was more successful with the DeSoto, the Spanish explorer who discovered the Mississippi, and with the Plymouth named after the historic New England rock. In the days of hub-cap ornaments, the Plymouth sported a replica of the Mayflower. Pontiac was an outgrowth of the Oakland, made in Pontiac, Mich., by the Pontiac Buggy Co.

ALL THE RECENT retirees from automotive competition—Nash, Hudson, Studebaker, Packard, Kaiser, Frazer, Willys, Crosley, and Edsel—had a common fatality. They were named after men.

All ten of the surviving postwar cars have a common bond—names with an image such as Wallace asked Miss Moore to find for the Edsel:

The corvette, the World War II escort vessel which dauntlessly dashed ahead to protect cargo ships from submarines, gave General Motors' sports car its name. It comes from the Latin meaning crow or raven.

CORVAIR IS an acronym of Corvette and the Chevrolet Bel Air. It suggests Corsair, J. P. Morgan's famous yacht, Ford's Falcon, Comet, and Thunderbird need no elaboration; nor do Chrysler's Dart and Valiant; nor American Motors' Rambler; nor Studebaker-Packard's Lark and Hawk.

In these modernized christenings, the manufacturers, pay homage to "association" and "conjuration," rather than persons. The process of selection is akin to giving cheese a fast age or bacon a synthetic cure. It takes high-cost advertising, and years, to develop a public image with the product itself. A name-image is an accelerator. The prayer is that the image will sell the product and the product will live up to the name.

Catholic Prelate Hits Liberalism

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Roman Catholic prelate says he believes misguided liberalism is departing from fundamental principles of right and wrong.

"There is nothing as stubborn as a fact—principles of truth, integrity and honesty," James Francis Cardinal McIntyre told a meeting of Knights of Columbus Sunday.

Commenting on recent court decisions on so-called obscene literature, the cardinal said: "The efforts of legislative and judicial agencies to depart from these principles are ludicrous. No matter how thin you slice it, it's still smut."

GARDEN TALK

1 Way To Have Flowers And Shade Trees, Too

Mr. W. H. Flippin Sr. of Friona wants to know what to do about trees growing in his yard and taking the moisture and plant food from the flowers. He also asks why his pear trees don't put on fruit in the 10 or 12 years he has had them.

Usually trees that do well in West Texas do well because they are very vigorous feeders putting out many branching roots. They compete with everything for water and will even grow into sewer lines, or crack foundations searching for food and moisture. It takes that sort of tree to do well in an arid climate. Still, flowers can be grown by root pruning the trees. To prune the roots, just dig a ditch between the trees and the area you want to grow flowers in. This cuts off the roots in that area. Refill the ditch and every year or two afterwards, just dig it again. Be careful not to remove so many roots so close to the tree that a strong wind upsets the tree. This is possible but not too likely with Chinese elms.

As for the pear tree, there are many things that could prevent fruiting. One is late freezes, or self-sterile blossoms. In the case of self-sterile blossoms, you need to plant trees of other varieties close enough for cross pollination. It could be fire blight or some other pear disease that prevents the setting of fruit or perhaps some other cause that would be best settled by looking the tree over carefully. If there is a nursery man nearby, call him out to look them over. I have found barnyard manure and plenty of water do wonders for most plants, and a feeding of chemical fertilizer helps even more, but most important is water and more water.

If your ground is bare under Chinese elm trees, try planting vinca as a ground cover. It does very well and is blooming at this time of year.

"HERE, TAKE MINE!"

SHORTLY before court was to start, a commotion began. On one side were several court attendants; on the other, a man, his wife and a little blonde girl.

The man and his wife had come to court to adopt the child, a German orphan. But one of the officials told the man (dressed in a suit and sports shirt) that it was the local custom for a man to wear a tie when appearing before the judge.

Protesting, the man said that if he were not allowed in court now, the adoption would be postponed, perhaps for months.

TELEPHONE MAN HELPS

Jerry Sharp, veteran installation foreman for Southwestern Bell, happened to overhear the discussion and walked over to the group.

"I heard you say this man can't go before the judge without a tie," he told one of the court attendants.

"Sorry, but that's the rule," the official said.

"Well," said Jerry with a smile, "that's easy to fix." He took off his tie, handed it to the tieless man. "Here, take mine," Jerry said.

JERRY SHARP

Surprised by this kindly gesture, the man managed a smile and a quick "thank you" just as the judge entered the crowded courtroom.

Minutes later the man—with his borrowed tie, his wife and the little German girl — appeared before the judge, and the adoption proceedings were under way. Later, as the "new father" left the courtroom, he returned Jerry's tie and said "thanks" once more.

Jerry Sharp's willingness to help a stranger was not unusual. He is that type of person. He is active in civic affairs, takes part in church and club work, is quick to lend a hand wherever he is needed.

We're proud of the Jerry Sharps in our company.
