Annual Clean-Up Campaign Has Year-Around Feature

Final plans were made this week for an extension beautification plan in Hereford.

The plan will start going into operation during the regular spring Clean-Up-Paint-Up-Fix Up Week, which is slated for April 23-29.

But, unlike previous clean-up campaigns here, this one will become a year-around program through a master plan which has been drawn up.

Hereford will enter the 1961 Clean Town Contest, it was announced by Mrs. Jimmie Gillentine, chairman of the Clean-Up campaign.

Last year more than 6,000 cities, towns and villages throughout the country competed for national honors. Since there are eight different population categories, Hereford will be compared with other communities of similar size.

The degree of improvement and the amount of participation by residents provide principal basis for picking the winners in the National Cleanest Town contests. Trophies are given to the winning towns.

Mrs. Irving Alexander, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce beautification committee, said a number of special projects were being started that will carry over after the Clean-Up campaign is finished.

One of these is the request that every resident of Hereford plant red geraniums this spring to give the town a bright, cheerful atmosphere. Mrs. Belle Hromas, in charge of park beautification, told a

County Sets Up Pay Scale For Ballot Workers

In a special meeting Wednesday, Deaf Smith County Commissioners set a definite pay scale for election officials. They also approved a fire protection agreement with the Wildorado Volunteer Fire Department.

Commissioners voted to pay $5 to election judges for returning ballot boxes to the Court-house after elections. The compensation also will help pay cost of transportation for officials who come to Hereford for the boxes.

They also voted to pay all election workers $10 per day or $1 per hour for less than ten hours.

The Commission voted to pay the Wildorado Volunteer Fire Department $200 for fire protection in Deaf Smith County, mostly in the northeastern section. The agreement is on a year-to-year basis and includes an option to cancel at any time.

Commissioners were called together to canvass election results for the County School Board and the special U. S. Senate vote.

Two Important Sugar Beet Meetings Scheduled Here

Two important sugar beet meetings will be held in Hereford Monday and Tuesday, it has been announced by H. L. Benefield of Hereford, president of Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association.

A community-wide sugar beet growers meeting, pertaining to legislation as to what has happened up to now and work that needs to be done this month, will be held in the ballroom of the Jim Hill Hotel at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 10.

On Tuesday, following the area meeting, directors of all sugar beet growers associations in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the same place.

"It is urgent that all land owners and farmers in the area be present at the community meeting Monday," Benefield said. The meeting will be conducted by Benefield, Henry Sears and Jim Witherspoon of Hereford, Association representatives.

"Since the Senate passed an amendment to the 15-month extension giving new areas all the Cuban quota, but not having time for the House to pass this bill as amended without the sugar act expiring, the committee feels that it is possible to get permanent legislation enacted in both Houses in the month of May or June this year," Benefield said.

He added: "Since there was not time enough for the

ASC MANAGER ANSWERS QUESTIONS

Feed Grain Program Objectives

(Editor's note: Many farmers in Deaf Smith County have inquired as to objectives of the new feed grain legislation which was signed into law on March 22 by President Kennedy. County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office manager Faust Collier of Hereford answers the major questions asked by the farmers. The ASC office has not yet received the official acreage and yield for the county, but expects to receive both early this week.)

Q. What is the purpose of the new program?
A. The feed grain legislation has four purposes — to increase farm income; prevent further buildup of the feed grain surplus and reduce it if possible; help assure the consumer of fair and stable prices for meat, poultry and dairy products; and reduce the ultimate feed grain program costs to taxpayers.

Q. Generally, how is the program set up?

A. The program is voluntary and applies only to 1961. All field corn and grain sorghum, whether for grain, fodder or silage, are covered and cooperators are being asked to reduce their 1961 plantings of these crops by at least 20 per cent below the 1959-60 average acreage. Voluntary reductions up to 40 per cent are encouraged for growers with bases of 100 acres or more. Growers with bases of 25 acres or less may retire the total under the program.

Q. What advantages are offered to cooperating farmers?

A. Cooperating farmers will be eligible for support prices—$1.20 per bushel on corn, 92 cents per bushel on barley, 62 cents for oats and $1.02 per bushel for rye. These figures are all national averages. The non-cooperator will not be eligible for price support on any of these crops. His production would have to move at market prices. He cannot depend upon the government price support or his neighbor's production adjustment to hold up the market price.

Q. How will payment be made?

A. Cooperators, if they choose, may receive payments in the form of negotiable certificates which represent grain from CCC stocks. The Secretary of Agriculture will determine the flow of this grain into market channels.

Q. What agreement must the cooperators make?

A. A cooperator agrees to reduce by at least 20 per cent his grain sorghum or corn acreage for 1961 below his 1959-60 average. The diverted acres must be put to some conservation use. It cannot be harvested but fall seeded wheat and barley can be grazed. Weeds, insects and rodents must be controlled on the diverted acreage. In turn he will receive, in addition to his eligibility for price supporters on his grain crops, a payment for each acre diverted to conservation use. The rate of payment for the first 20 per cent diverted will be 50 per cent of the normal production of the acreage diverted times the county support price. As an additional incentive, a grower

Hereford Brand Receives General Excellence Award

Around Town

"Sunny and warmer" was the forecast for Friday, but that was a laugh. But we could have predicted bad weather of some type, since this was the weekend of the Panhandle Press Association convention in Amarillo. During the past six years, we have been to five of the meetings. The score is two ice storms, two snow storms and one torrential rain. The other year we didn't go, and the weather was pretty nice. They'll probably ban us from attending future get-togethers.

A regular meeting of the County Program Building Committee has been scheduled for Monday, April 10, at 10 a.m. in the Hereford Community Center.

The Hereford Brand was awarded first place for general excellence for papers over 1500 circulation at the 52nd Annual Panhandle Press Association Convention held in Amarillo this weekend.

The Brand also won three other awards, which were presented at the annual awards breakfast held Saturday morning in the Old Tascosa Room of the Herring Hotel.

Other awards included second place in women's page features or columns, second place in columns and third place for special editions.

The awards were presented by Professor W. E. Garetz, head of the Department of Journalism at Texas Technological

With the proper spelling of "zealous," the fifth grader from Alkman was pronounced the Junior champion. Miss Della Stagner pronounced the words for the group. Judges were Mrs. D. F. (Continued from page 1) may divert an additional 20 per cent and receive a payment rate of 60 per cent times the county price per acre diverted.

Q. How does a grower become eligible for advance payment?

A. A grower becomes eligible for advance payment — 50 per cent of the total — when he signifies his intention of cooperating. This advance payment will help the producer meet his production expenses and is expected to be an important incentive for cooperation.

Q. What protection does the program offer?

A. The program is effective protection in case of crop failure. The payment on diverted acres will be made regardless of weather and is a measure of income insurance as are the higher price supports.

Q. Will the non-cooperator be eligible for price support? A. The non-cooperator will not be eligible for price support on any grain crop and cannot expect to build up his acreage base for future programs. It has been emphasized that the U. S. Department of Agriculture will strongly recommend to Congress any legislation involving establishment of base acreages for production adjustment give no advantage to producers who fail to cooperate in the 1961 feed grain program.

Q. Can I put all the grain under loan that I produce on acreage remaining after reduction?

A. A cooperator can only place under loan the amount of grain indicated by his farm index, which is the yield given him by the Community Committee.

Q. If I agree to reduce my acreage by 20 per cent and when the acreage is measured, if there is an excess, will I be allowed to destroy down to the 20 per cent?

A. Yes.

Q. How much acreage will I be allowed to divert?

A. There is no limit on the number of acres that may be reduced, except that payment cannot be earned in excess of 40 per cent — with the exception of certain cases of small farms.

Q. May I summer fallow acreage left out and plant to wheat this fall, for harvest in 1962? May it be grazed?

A. Yes, and that also applies to any fall seeded crop to be harvested in 1962.

Q. Can I cooperate with the program on one farm and not cooperate on another and remain eligible for price support on the cooperating farm?

A. Yes, and no. There are certain provisions which apply in some instances.

Q. On what will the yield on my farm be based?

A. It will be based on the yield for the county. This yield will be given to us by the Agricultural Market Service of the Department of Agriculture.

Q. How did the Community Committee determine the yield for my farm?

A. The committee, to the best of their knowledge, set a rate that would reflect whether or not the farm was irrigated, whether it was well-irrigated, to what extent the farm was capable of producing, and the ability of the farmer to produce.

Court, Judge Schultz recessed the Grand Jury until June 12 at 10 a. m. Next criminal jury trials in District Court has tentatively been set for May 10 by Judge Schultz.

'Maashin Doodi' Baffles Camels

BY DAVE LANCASHIRE
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Every Friday an antique locomotive wheezes and whistles out of Tehran, towing a trainload of religious pilgrims. It's "Le Chemin de Fer et Tramways En Iran," affectionately known as the "Maashin Doodi" (Smoking Machine), running on the oldest railway in the Middle East.

Huge funnel belching smoke and tram-like carriages rattling furiously at 15 miles an hour, No. 663 coaxes screams of delight from children and inquisitive stares from passing camels — whose ancestors carried the train into Persia on their backs.

The little train runs on wobbly, narrow-gauge tracks from Shahabolazim Shrine where most of its passengers are headed.

Through patches of desert and clusters of adobe houses, the six-mile run is non-stop, except when a stray camel or donkey blocks the rails. Passengers leap on and off at full speed, and the spy ones can outrun the locomotive.

The Smoking Machine's schedule is a once-in-a-while affair, but business booms with pilgrims on Friday, the Moslem Sabbath.

A ride costs three cents U.S., but for a few extra dollars the line will hook up the carriage once reserved for the board of directors, a regal-looking coach with shabby brocade seats and brass lamp brackets.

Hidden in a workshop is a coach specially built for the Shah — who has ridden in it only once in 74 years — a remnant of the railway's illustrious early days as a pilgrim carrier. The line was established by Russians and Belgians in 1886, and the rolling stock and equipment were carried by camel from a seaport on the Caspian. The Belgian locomotives were hauled through the mountains by mules and army gun carriages.

The workshop was once the most modern in Iran, and still boasts proudly that it has never had to import a part for the four locomotives. Three of the widest looking engines are still operating — on kerosene instead of coal — and the fourth is cannibalized for spare parts. The line is owned almost out-

Mrs. Odella Huckert . . . celebrates 80th birthday

Mrs. Huckert Is Honored Sunday

Mrs. Odella Huckert was honored Sunday on her 80th birthday with a surprise party and luncheon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huckert of Summerfield.

Mrs. Huckert was presented a corsage of white gardenias and a phonograph by her children. Another gift was a selection of records by Lawrence Welk, who was born in the same village in France as Mrs. Huckert.

The luncheon table was centered with a birthday cake iced in white and embellished with dainty pink and blue roses. Tiny gold cake decoys formed a rosary and the numerals "80". Mrs. Huckert was born in Alsace Lorraine, France, on April 2, 1881. She came to the United States in 1905 with her husband, where the couple made the first home in Akron, Iowa. They lived there for four years before moving to Summerfield. Mr. Huckert died in 1923.

Those attending the birthday celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Huckert and children, C. D.

Beauty At Home

Q. How can I exercise to reduce large, flabby-looking thighs?

A. Lie on back on floor with legs straight and arms resting on floor at sides. Bend both knees and place feet on floor fairly close to your hips. Lift your heels from floor, but keep toes on it, and roll from side to side, slapping your legs on the floor at the end of each roll.

Population of Ireland is about 2,989,700.

The subject was charged with theft of $30 from a billfold belonging to a Hereford woman. Presiding in County Court was Judge Don Zimmerman.

Household Scrapbook

Ice on Cement Steps

Sprinkle several handfuls of saltpeter on cement steps or walks that have ice on them. Ice will not form if washed with hot water in which a handful of salt is dissolved. This is better than sprinkling with salt.

The Saucepan

Never scrape a saucepan with a knife. This tends to make the pan burn quickly the next time it is used, to say nothing of injuring the knife.

Childers, Stumbo Vows Are Solemnized Friday

Mrs. Floyd Ivan Stumbo
... nee Patricia Childers

The Church of Christ of Coleman was the scene Friday evening for the marriage of Miss Patricia Marlene Childers of Lubbock and Floyd Ivan Stumbo of Lubbock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Childers of Coleman, former Hereford residents. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Stumbo of Douglas, Kan.

The Rev. Harrison Mathews, pastor of the University Church of Christ in Austin, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a formal gown of embroidered silk organza over satin. Styled along empire lines, the gown featured a shallow portrait neckline and tapering sleeves which ended in petal points, accented with organza-covered buttons at the wrist. An organza bow emphasized the waistline, which was dramatized by the bouffant floor-length skirt ending in a chapel train. Four organza roses placed at the points of four scallops created contrast on the skirt.

The bride's shoulder-length veil of illusion cascaded from a pearl studded lace tiara. The bridal bouquet was fashioned of white gladiolus surrounded by traditional wedding flowers.

Mrs. Curtis Barclay of Deming, N. M., was her sister's matron of honor. Miss Elizabeth Kimberlin of Maplewood, La., and Miss Verna Veach of Mt. Vernon, Ill., were bridesmaids.

Fred L. Stumbo of Shawnee, Kan., brother of the groom, was best man. Acting as groom-

Mrs. Art Manjoet was guest speaker for the evening. She spoke on "Let's Give Thought to Thinking." Mrs. Manjoet pointed out that every waking moment is filled with thinking and emphasized the importance of good thoughts.

Federation Meeting Is Held

Clubwomen from Pioneer Study Club and La Plata Study Club were in attendance at the first annual Top of Texas district convention of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs held recently in Pampa.

Those attending from Pioneer Club were Mesdames Ralph McCullough, Ray Johnson, L. H. Lookingbill Sr., Buddie Evans and Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. Mrs. Elmer Patterson and Mrs. Elmer Kimball represented La Plata Study Club.

Dr. D. Ray Lindley of Fort Worth, president of Texas Christian University, was one of several featured speakers. He spoke on "Continuing Education for Responsible Citizens." He stated that an explosion of knowledge is more important than an explosion of population in our times. The world we have studied in the past has changed, he said.

Dr. Lindley continued by saying that education doesn't cease with the formal. In our culture, one fifth of the jobs are open to those who have no formal education or skill and one third of the jobs are filled by women.

Other speakers during the two day session, which was held at the Robert E. Lee school in Pampa, were Dr. Cleo Dawson of Lexington, Ky., a psychologist, lecturer and writer and Dr. Richard Crews, pastor of the First Christian Church in Pampa.

Mrs. Harry Griffiths of Austin, president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke to the group on projects of the state federation. She announced she has been invited to open the National Fair in Finland in recognition of her efforts to create understanding between Finland and the United States. She plans to take two members from each of the 14 Texas Districts with her on her trip.

Mrs. Jack R. Allen of Perryton, president of the district, presided during the two-day session. She addressed the group on "Education of Our Hearts, Hands and Minds for Service." Mrs. J. B. Lindley of Canadian was presented the mother of the year award and Mrs. John Coleman of Wallingford was chosen club woman of the year. The 89 clubs in the federation offered 89 original project ideas, according to Mrs. Hugh Crawford of Pampa, who was in charge of club reports. Mrs. Ray Johnson of Summerfield, second vice-president of District Federation, presided during the department reports.

Mrs. Wesley Izzard of Amario, district Federation parliamentarian, conducted a parliamentary school preceding the convention. Mrs. Ralph McCullough is Texas Heritage chairman and Mrs. O. G. Hill Sr. is In Memoriam chairman of District Federation.

It was announced that Federation will sponsor an endowment fund for the upkeep of the Federation Headquarters in Austin.

Resolutions passed by the 362 club women attending the convention included: (1) To promote the inclusion of foreign language in the curriculum being taught in the primary grades in Texas schools; (2) To organize an effort to perpetuate legends of Texas and her heritage by the inclusion in club study programs of material on the commemoration of the Texas Civil War Centennial; (3) To favor legislation to prevent

Once Over Lightly

It looks like our office is turning into a kind of off-beat poet's corner. Tuck ends his literary gem each week with an appropriate poem... so I think I'll make my bid for poet laureate of the fourth estate.

'Twas the week after Easter And throughout our abode, The eggs were all eaten; and chicks flushed down the comode.

What a week! After scrunching around on discarded Easter egg shells and picking up purple and green chicken feathers, I was beginning to think that the life of the housewife was not exactly a bowl of cherries.

It was a lovely Easter, but I'm glad it's over. After three funerals for the baby chicks (one who died after a trial by water and fire; that is, an unsanitary bath and then died out in front of a blazing bathroom heater that not only scorched chicken feathers but the paint job in the bathroom) I was ready to go to fist city with the egg-layers of America.

And by the way, if a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Chickens exists, don't jump on me... jump on the Poultry Association or whoever it was that dyed those poor defenseless little chicks such stunning shades of green, purple and blue. I would love to know how many were sold and how many are still alive. Maybe I could prove my children aren't the only pre-school sadists alive.

I'm glad I got some pictures of the children right before Sunday School. Their teacher probably passed out when they walked in. I can just hear her now: "Surely those aren't the Jette rag-muffins... I must confess, they looked like little angels... (with slightly tilted halos.)"

Engagement Announced

(Photo by Angel)
Miss Kylene Hodges
... plans June wedding

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Norma Kylene Hodges to James Howard Gentry was announced Saturday afternoon with an announcement tea in the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hodges. The prospective bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gentry, co-hosted the event.

The entrance hall of the Gentry home was decorated in the bride-elect's chosen colors of emerald green and white. The tea table in the entertaining room was laid with white net over green and adorned with miniature cupids and wedding bells. Tall white candles in milk glass holders flanked a centerpiece of white stock in a white milk glass bowl. Streamers, inscribed with the couple's name and the date of the wedding, hung from the table.

Alternating at the guest register and punch bowl were the bride-elect's maid of honor, Miss Sandra Hodges, and bridesmaids, Miss Cherry Holt, Mrs. Terrell Hodges and Miss Ann Gentry.

Mrs. Carl Wimberley of Dawn and Mrs. Bill Carthel of Black played appropriate piano selections throughout the afternoon for background music.

Also assisting in the house party were Mesdames Charles Packard, George Olson, Robert Hickman and Walter Lemons.

The couple plan to be married June 11 at the Temple Baptist Church in Hereford. They are both seniors at Hereford High School and will be graduated in May ceremonies.

Ceremony Is Read For Denton Couple

The home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bullard, 701 N. Main, was the setting Sunday morning, April 2, for the marriage of Miss Lorraine Gambill and A. C. Miles, both of Denton.

The Rev. Eugene Naugle, pastor of the Bippus Methodist Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride chose a powder blue suit for her wedding costume. The suit was worn with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Mrs. R. L. Bullard, longtime friend of the bride, was matron of honor. Charlie Burk served his brother-in-law as best man.

Following the simple ceremony, the couple was entertained with a short reception. The serving table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, iced in white. (Continued on page 3)

Paul Stevens Speaker At La Plata Study Club

Paul Stevens, superintendent of Hereford schools, was special speaker at the Tuesday meeting of La Plata Study Club. Members met in the home of Mrs. Raymond White hostess for the meeting.

Carrying out the theme of the year, "Our Changing World," Stevens spoke on "Our Changing World In Education." Among the needs of public schools he listed music as one of the main subjects needing attention. He stated that plans are being made to start music instruction in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of local schools.

"Much interest has been shown by the local school board for starting a program teaching foreign languages in elementary schools, also," Stevens remarked.

He reported on a recent evaluation of Hereford High School graduates from 1957 to 1959. Of that group, he said, only five percent of total courses were failed. There were no failures in English at all, he continued. He concluded his program by discussing the married student policy recently initiated and the program to help students secure scholarships in their lines of interest.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames Leroy Aven, Jay Boston, Jack Brown, C. L. Chisholm, Joel Hodges, L. G. Hutson, J. M. Madison, Ansel McDowell, Lloyd McGee, Elmer Patterson, Frank Prowell, A. J. Schroeter, T. T. Seigler Jr., Joe Smith, E. D. Hopson, Raymond White and special guest Paul Stevens.

 cording to the calendar, coming up this month is National Automobile Month (our clan could use one), Teaching Career Month (bless their hearts), Ice Cream Month (Shhhh... not so loud!), National Wallpaper Month (is that a hint?) and April 16 has been designated as Mother-In-Law Day.

The latter has interesting possibilities. Aside from the rather pointed hints on child raising, (she doesn't believe in capital punishment for children either) I've got a jewel of a mother-in-law. She looks younger than I do and is a perfect size nine. (Which is a low blow to a gangling near six-footer like myself.)

She holds down a full time civil service job, has time to sponsor a Beta Sigma Phi sorority and plays one of the meanest hands of bridge in Winkler County. Still full of pep, she teaches a Sunday School class and serves as secretary and pla-nist for her church. And (to my horror, when she visits our home) she is an immaculate housekeeper.

As to faults, she never arrives anywhere on time and is a confirmed packrat. She has check stubs from the meeting, at which the president, Dorothea Stewart, presided, new officers were elected. Those who will serve during the coming year are: Ann Gentry, president; Robert Caraway, vice-president; Laura Higgins, secretary; and Becky Betzen, treasurer.

Attending were Phyllis Richardson, Janice Galley, Linda Sewart, Glen Polan, Ted Richardson Jr., Alice Ann Caraway, Laura Higgins, Beverly Betzen, Ann Gentry, Douglas
 May, Robert Caraway, Robert Richardson, Wayne Polan, Jerrry Stewart, Buddie Stewart,
 Mrs. J. B. Caraway, Mrs. Carl Wimberley and Mrs. W. H. Gentry.

The next meeting will be in the form of a community party

year one and has never thrown away a Christmas card in her life. She saves paper bags, rubber bands, pictures of her grandchildren and old two ed skirts.

All of you have heard some to of the hair-raising tales circulated around about mother-in-laws. Well, if you ask me, they were originated by men.
 Do I hear cries of agony? I just stop to think that my husband was once mother's precious little boy and maybe she's justified in wanting the best for him. As I look at my son, shuddering in the knowledge that in a few years he'll be ready for a life of his own, I just wish the girl of his choice the best of luck. Believe you me, she'll need it.

Life has a wonderful way of not standing still and waiting for you. Easter, Fourth of July, Halloween, Christmas... baby boy, man, father...
 little girl, woman, wrinkles and grandchildren... and don't we love it?

And as my middle daughter asks: "Mommie, where did I sit at your wedding?"
 (and in front of company, too), and my better half says "Hon, let's see if your mother will keep the kids for the weekend while we go to Ruidoso," then I know the honeymoon really never is over and give myself another good swift kick for thinking the life of a housewife and mother is one of boredom.

Why Bosses Don't Hire Students

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Newsfeatures Writer
 Many employers have become wary of job-hunting students because of the attitude they take toward their summer employment. Some employers feel it just isn't worth the bother to train young people for jobs because they sometimes prove to be disappointments.
 What are their complaints? How can you profit by them? An employer who hired a girl as a waitress at a summer resort said:
 "Many students work at resorts because they feel it is a vacation in a sense. The majority are willing to conform to regulations, but many girls are rude to guests who do not leave the expected tip. One girl managed to lose business for us because she froze out people who did not give her the gratuities she anticipated. I'd rather have mature women in the job, unless the girls regain their perspective."
 An advertising man who has a small business says that the big problem with young people today is that they don't want to do a day's work for the money they earn.
 "I hired a girl who could do stenography and wanted to be a secretary. If the job worked out, she said, she would like to go to college at night and continue to work in the fall.
 "We hired her but after three weeks she was working about four hours a day. She took several half-hour coffee breaks, cigarette breaks, ran out to shop during the day, talked on the phone to her friends throughout the day, took long lunch hours, came in a half-hour late in the morning, and took a day off whenever she was out late the night before. The final straw was when she balked at staying a few minutes overtime to help us on a special project."
 Another employer experienced a let-down when the girl's appearance became a problem:
 "When we hired a girl to be a receptionist in our office, she looked very attractive," he explains. "Her clothes were just right for the job. She was well-groomed and looked like a young lady should look in a job like that. In no time, she dressed like a sloppy member of the campus pizza pie set. When she came to work in flat shoes without stockings, chewing gum, we fired her. It was the only thing we could do, but I doubt that it taught her a lesson. Some young girls refuse to grow up to the trusts they seek."
 One employer had a girl who operated a monitor switchboard at a reception desk. The office staff was out to lunch one day and she was left in control when an important client called to ask a question. She told him that she couldn't talk then and would call him back. When she did, she said she was sorry that she hadn't been able to take a message because she was listening to the ball game on the radio and had that particular inning in the office pool. Employers can't afford to lose business with inexperienced help. Many firms have given young students the chance for summer employment in their firms, but it is going to be difficult for young girls to clinch these jobs in the future unless they learn that time in the office belongs to the boss, and that a good appearance counts on a job. It's a good thing to know this when you seek a job, so that you can impress your employer-to-be with your eagerness to work.

Elbow Room Is Still Growing In Spacious Texas

DALLAS (AP) — There's good news for those people who yearn for a little more elbow room.

Texas, despite its growing population and expanding cities, still offers plenty of wide open spaces — and they're growing wider and more open all the time.

An Associated Press dissection of the 1960 federal census report shows a number of Texas counties where a bomb exploded by a next-door neighbor would go virtually unnoticed.

Brewster County, the largest in the state with 6,208 square miles, emased 7,309 residents for the 1960 census. In 1960, enumerators could find only 6,434.

King County (944 square miles) now has 640 residents, 230 less than 1950, and Loving where the couples enjoyed playing "42."

Charles Bass, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bass, fell Friday and dislocated his elbow. The family had planned to spend Easter in Oklahoma with relatives but plans were delayed.

The S. N. Thweatts met Mrs. Thweatt's brother, W. H. Hagan of Sisseton, in Hereford Thursday afternoon. Hagan will spend some time in the Thweatt home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brown and family spent Easter Sunday in Portales, N. M., visiting Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Pulliam. They went to the Sand Hills and had an Easter egg hunt and a picnic.

There were 30 votes cast in the election held Tuesday at Garcia for U. S. Senator.

County (647 square miles) increased its elbow room by reducing its population from 227 to 226.

Some other data for devotees of the wide open spaces:

Texas has 254 counties and 101 of them have less than 10,000 population. Another 70 have populations between 10,000 and 20,000.

These 171 counties occupy about two-thirds of the state's land area — and only some 16 per cent of its population.

On the other hand, four counties — Harris, Dallas, Bexar and Tarrant — have less than 2 per cent of Texas' land area and more than 35 per cent of its population.

It's small wonder that a cowboy from little Hudspeth County (4,533 sq. mi.; 3,343 p.o.p.) might consider these four counties as unfit for human habitation.

"Just corral for people," he would say.

How Can I?

Q. The areas around our light switches are forever becoming smudged up. How can I keep these areas clean more easily?

A. After a good cleaning job, apply a thin coat or two of fresh white shellac. This will make future cleanings much easier and quicker. An occasional dab with a damp cloth will usually do the trick.

Q. How can I keep the inside of a cedar closet or chest fragrant and mothproof?

A. By sanding the inside of these containers lightly at least once a year. Sanding opens the pores in the wood, releasing the natural oil which repels the moths.

Q. How can I keep lacquered copper in good condition?

A. Rub it occasionally with a cloth wet in kerosene.

Films shown for assembly programs on Wednesday morning were both on firearms, "Shooting Safety" was produced by the Sports, Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers Institute. In this, young people were taught how to carefully handle and shoot guns. They started with dry shooting to learn correct habits. Never point a gun at anything you don't want to shoot, they were advised. Other pointers were to make sure you have a safe backdrop, learn good gun care and obey game laws for the best protection of all. These beginning sportsmen became good shooters through patient practice and keen competition. They learned to shoot with confidence and pride under good supervision and instruction. It's not the gun but the man who misses the target, the film pointed out.

"Trigger Happy Harry" was filmed by the National Rifle Association. It showed that shooting is a safe sport so long as we know what we're doing. Watch that muzzle. "I didn't know it was loaded" is the most unexcusable alibi we can utter, the film explained. Always check the gun to be sure. It was stressed that many shells are dangerous up to two miles, so be sure of your target. The film advocated to hunters to dress in bright clothes when hunting. Hunting parties must stick together; don't trust any gun, and always watch where you're pointing the gun, the film advised.

"Land of the Sky" was filmed in North Carolina's Pisgah National Forest by the Department of Agriculture, Conservation is everybody's business, the film explained. Timber must be protected for lumber, paper pulp wood and Christmas trees. The trees help in the forest watershed to provide a pure water supply for the drinking and home for the fish.

America's 19th Century Headache

Should Cities Finance Industrial Expansion?

Industry, like the old saying about gold, seems to be where you find it these days.

The situation is due, in a large measure, to a finance plan adopted by seven of our fifty states to attract industry.

New Mexico, for instance, adopted one of these plans recently and, as a result, has "bumped" Hereford on at least one major project.

Whether Texas should follow suit with such a plan is highly debatable. In the first place, the use of tax money for private expansion is a definite step toward further socialism in the nation.

Most industries say that they oppose government ownership but, in order to compete, they must go along with the plan - or find their production costs higher than that of their competitors.

Nevertheless, competition from community financed industries is hard to meet in those states which have no such plan, and this is especially true in Hereford, located a mere 60 miles from Clovis, which seems to be pushing the New Mexico plan for all it is worth.

Everything considered, we would not recommend the plan for Texas or for Hereford, even considering current loss of industry. The other alternate, it seems, would center around removal of the tax free exemption clause on municipal, state and other government bonds - which is now in the wind on the federal level.

The situation is a "19th Century Headache" which definitely needs to be worked out in a fair and equitable manner.

Down To Earth Economic Plan

Six prominent men offered their time and 681 voters last Saturday turned out to elect two trustees. This condition indicates a sincere interest in our public schools and in the curricula which they offer.

Without being critical we sometimes wonder, however, if Texas schools might not introduce on the state level at least an optional course on everyday economics, or "How to Live in the 19th Century".

While some students learn these things at the hands of their parents, literally hundreds of others acquire the knowledge the "hard way" and unfortunately, some never fully appreciate the benefits of which various institutions have to offer.

Education has long stressed arts and sciences, which is fitting and proper. At the same time our universal school system is primarily based on the creation of better informed and happier citizens - and we cannot help but believe that a financially solvent people would be a primary step in this direction.

Change Seen In Texas Politics

The current race for U. S. Senator, if nothing else, has effected a change in the tenor of Texas' politics. For once, in a long time, the conservatives are in the saddle.

Wm. Blakley is a devout and declared conservative, while John Tower, his Republican opponent, used a conservative appeal as the basis of a powerful challenge against Vice President Lyndon Johnson for the Senate post last November.

Observers point to liberal Ralph Yarborough's victory over Blakley for the same post only a few years back, and declare that there has been a definite change. Blakley and Tower, the two liberals, polled approximately 49 percent of the votes cast last Tuesday, which is fairly close to the margin polled on the conservative side in November.

Anyway, regardless of the run-off, it does appear that Texans will have an ultra-conservative Senator for the next four years. After that, your guess is as good as the next one.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

Rafer Johnson, who has been called "world's greatest living athlete," and who was elected by his teammates to carry the American flag into the Olympic Games, where he won the decathlon, manifests faith in sports.

C-C MANAGER WARNS:

Guard Against 'Model Re-Siding Job Racket'

Homeowners in this area are warned by Bill Thompson, Manager of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, to be on guard against a vicious scheme that is prevalent today - the "Model Re-Siding Job Racket."

Although this scheme may victimize homeowners regardless of their circumstances, it is particularly reprehensible, Thompson stated, because it frequently works a severe hardship on those who can least afford to suffer any financial loss.

Thompson emphasized that although the vast majority of firms engaged in home repair and maintenance work are reputable businessmen, a small, shady element in this field operates one of the costliest, as well as one of the slickest, rackets to which the public falls victim.

The promoters of this scheme are itinerants who usually approach a homeowner with the yarn that they are just coming into the neighborhood and would like to use their home as a model to demonstrate to others what a fine home re-siding job they do. Thompson stated that according to the National Better Business Bureau, with which the Chamber is affiliated, these promoters offer $50 or $100 as commission on every subsequent sale made in the area, and a bonus for every customer the victim recommends.

The homeowner is led to believe that the cost of the job will thereby be liquidated in short order. Thompson reported that victims learn to their sorrow that everyone is given the same sales pitch, the price stipulated generally is higher than the prevailing costs for such work, the work is apt to be sub-standard, oral promises are not kept, and that the commissions and bonuses are a myth. Their obligation to pay, however, is set forth in a signed contract, which contains none of the salesman's misrepresentations.

"Perpetrators of this scheme," Thompson stated, "usually select homes which obviously require re-siding. Since the owners of such homes frequently are lacking in funds, they are obligated to take out loans, or mortgage their homes. Thus, the costs which may run as high as several thousand dollars victimize those who can least afford it."

How to Avoid the Racket

"Homeowners can avoid being victimized on a re-siding job, or on the other home repair work," Thompson concluded, "if they will heed the following guide:

"1. Take your time! Don't rush into any important home improvement job.

"2. Beware of the salesman who represents at the outset that your home is desired as a 'model' and promises a commission for each sales lead or sale in the area, and who states, or implies, that such commissions will defray substantially all of the cost of the job.

"3. Deal only with firms whose dependability and reliability are known to you, or which you have established through intelligent inquiry.

"4. Get several estimates from reliable local firms and make sure that you understand exactly what each bid includes and what work is excluded.

"5. Get the names of several others in or near your home town who have done business with the contractor selected and find out from them whether their experience was satisfactory or otherwise. Don't rely on written testimonials.

"6. Make sure that the salesman you are dealing with represents the company you think he does, and that the firm handles the brand or brands (Continued on page 2)

COUNCIL OKAYS WATER RATE

Levelland City Councilmen in a brief Monday afternoon meeting approved on second reading an ordinance increasing water rates in the city and set April 17 as the date for accepting bids for the city depository. The afternoon session replaced the regular evening meeting of the council because the agenda was short. Councilmen also approved placing of eight more 4,000 lumen street lights up at various locations in the city. Reports on progress being made in the development of two of the city's newer subdivisions were also presented. City Attorney Frank Kiser told councilmen that the nineteenth home in the County Club subdivision had either been built or construction was underway. City Manager Kenneth Harper said that the 30 homes had been started in the A. J. Kauffman subdivision.

PERMITS TOP $1.6 MILLION

Andrews building during the first quarter of 1961 inserted an optimistic note into the area's depressed economy, permits showed this week. With the biggest single boost coming from a $1,250,000 permit for construction of a new hospital, permits at City Hall totaled $1,612,055 for the first three months of the year. Building activity here has increased steadily since January with the biggest jump coming in March. Spurred by permits for construction of 13 new residences here, the March total was $98,000. In Feb. permits climbed to 113,375 as new home building began to pick up. The number of new homes in each month of the first quarter tells the story of the increase in permits. In January contractors took out permits for only six new homes. In February the number rose to nine and was capped by the 13 of March. New homes by W. E. Flanery on Crescent Street and by Blackmon Associates in the Terrace Circle addition headed the list of permits.

FEED GRAIN LAW INCREASES INCOME

Governmental support on grain sorghum plus compensation payments for "retired" acreage could inject another $1.5 million into Lamb County's farm income under the new feed grain program recently signed into law. Figures released by Lamar Aten, county ASC representative, show that the price support on grain sorghum will average "close to $1.88 per hundred-weight" up from last year's gross price of $1.48. ASC officials are expected to have base acreage and payment rates ready for the farmers by mid-April so that they can be studied by the producers in order to determine whether or not they wish to enter the governmental program. The deadline for entering has been set tentatively for the first part of May. Those farmers who participate in the program, therefore, can expect to gross slightly more on grain than they did last year, even though they have 20 per cent less acres in cultivation, if the government figures on base acreage comply along the lines of the estimated county average of 1000 pounds per acre on dryland. And a compensation payment of one-half of the crop average received at the new $1.88 price support for the 2 per cent retired acres and income from the production of feed grains should rise considerably in the county.

The BOOTLEG Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his blind-wood farm must have been using a neighbor's telephone, his letter this week implies.

I know everybody is supposed to be concentrating hard on the solution to the problem in Laos, but a man can stand just so much of these high-level problems and has to rest his mind occasionally by working on small ones.

What threw me off the major problem was an article I read in a Sunday newspaper which I didn't get hold of until Wednesday, which is soon enough, about progress being made with the telephone.

As I understand it, the telephone company is working hard all the time to improve service, and everybody has to admit the phone today is better than it was a generation ago, but the thing can be carried too far.

For example, they're working on a dialing system now whereby you can dial more than one number at a time. It's a fact, you may be able to dial three or four numbers and carry on conversations with all of them at the same time, in a sort of general conference.

Now this may be handy for busy executives in business or for housewives trying to decide in a hurry, what kind of sandwiches to serve at the reading club, but has the telephone company ever stopped to think what teenagers will do with this system? They'll break down the communication network. Instead of tying up two telephones for two hours, they can tie up four.

This is the way with a lot of progress. It finally becomes so unwieldy it defeats its purpose, like cars in a traffic jam, and the only answer is to work harder and put in a second phone for your own use, and for the amount of work it takes to pay for both, you could walk over about as cheap and see in person the man you wanted to talk to on the phone in the first place.

Also, telephones are becoming too thorough. The purpose of a telephone, as far as I'm concerned, is to reach somebody without having to go see him, but they're working on new phones that'll reverse this, and make it possible for people to reach me on the same terms. If you're not at one number, the phone will automatically trace you to the next one; if your phone is busy, it'll wait till you hang up and then ring immediately. Why, even if you're off on a tractor, it's possible to reach you by phone. This is going too far.

As far as I'm concerned, a phone is to reach somebody else with, not for somebody else to reach me with. I'd better get back to working on Laos.

Yours faithfully, J. A.

Weather Reports About Panhandle

There is an ever growing list of people who feel that Panhandle Weather is slandered and maligned. What's more, no one seems to know what to do about it.

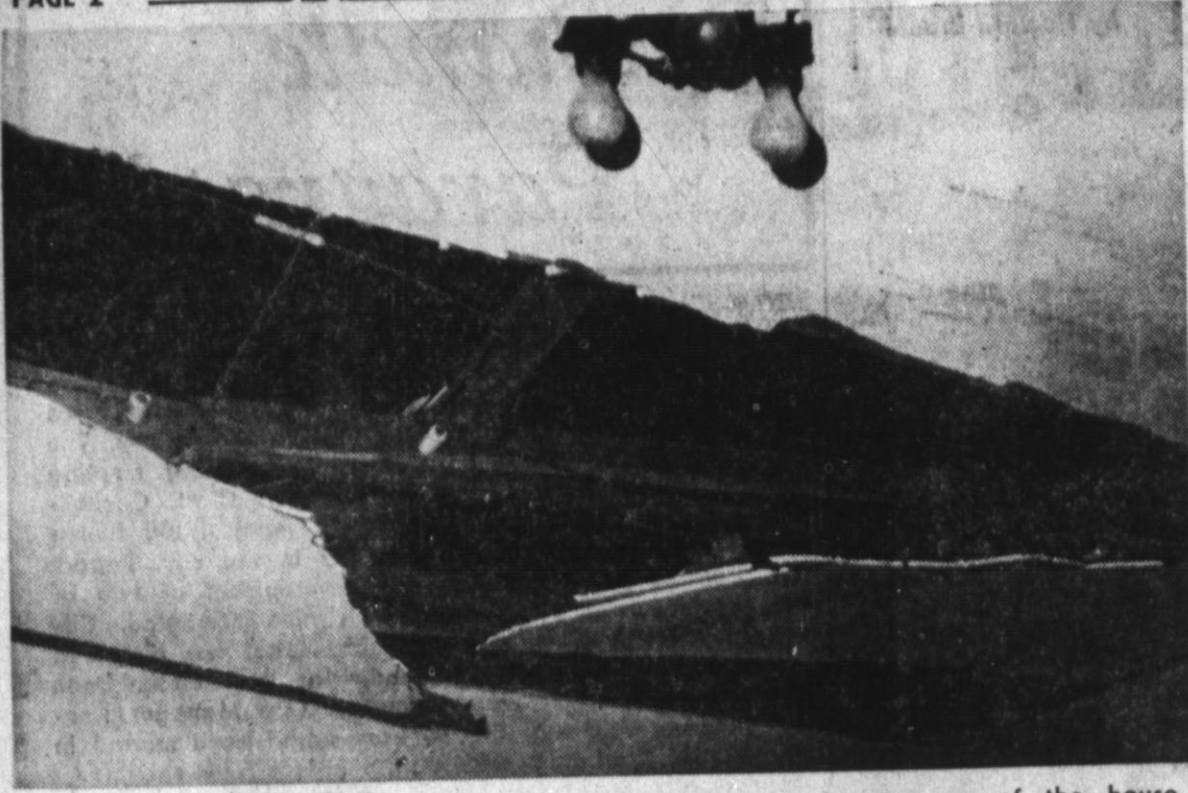

Climaxing the scores of complaints we have received from individuals about unreliable reporting concerning our weather during the past winter, Bill Phipps this week brought in a clipping from a Boston newspaper, dated March 19, which openly declared that Amarillo and Hereford had "10 inches of snow", while Tulsa and the Lubbock area were covered with 12 inches and "power service was disrupted".

We cannot speak for the other towns, but on this particular occasion, Hereford had less than six inches of snow (exactly .57 of an inch of moisture was recorded for the two-day period). In truth, the people of Hereford, Tulsa, Amarillo and Lubbock were probably in much better shape than were the people of Boston - and certainly we did not begin to suffer the snow troubles faced this winter by New Yorkers who spent so much time worrying about Panhandle weather and horrible hardships on friends and relatives.

The Boston paper in question carried its article under an "Amarillo, Texas" Associated Press dateline, which seems to put the bee on the Amarillo correspondent for misinformation, likely also distributed over radio and TV channels. Apparently these boys are sold on the idea of giving the rest of the country "what they want to hear", rather than accurate reports. And, certainly, this is of no credit to the Associated Press, or to the individuals concerned.

Frankly, we always felt that Panhandle weather was bad enough, without doubling or multiplying its severity. When we do have blizzards and intense weather, they should be reported, but the distribution of unfounded slander is uncalled for, even on the childish level which seems to exist.

Most of all, we are surprised at an institution like Associated Press sponsoring such base untruths. To say the least, those who live in the Panhandle and know the truth are beginning to view and hear all AP reports with a grain of salt.

AN EXPLOSION THAT ROCKED the west part of Hereford Tuesday morning wrecked a home at 513 Knight. This view shows some of the damage of the ceiling, which collapsed in three rooms of the house. For those of you who haven't read the book, I strongly recommend It Happens Every Thursday by Jane McIlvaine. It is humorous and lively, interesting even to those who have never been inside a newspaper office. It is a story of rugged individualism and a couple's dream to have something of their own, even if they work twice as hard and make half as much as they would employed by someone else.

OFF THE Shelf

BY H. A. TUCK

This week we departed from the lure of new books at the Deaf Smith County Library and treated ourselves to a second reading of It Happens Every Thursday by Jane McIlvaine.

It is one of many humorous volumes that are often remembered but seldom read again. But they are akin to the rare jewels of cinema-making art that occasionally appear on the late TV movie.

At 18, Jane was most interested in horses and least interested in fishing. But she used all her inborn female wiles to convince the "older" man who suddenly appeared that she liked nothing better than seafood and fishing.

One year after they met, Jane married tall Robert McIlvaine and went sailing on a tiny boat for a honeymoon. As Bob predicted, after the introduction to married bliss, everything else was smooth by comparison.

But their frantic efforts to maintain a family during World War II while Bob was in the Navy were almost as primitive.

When Bob returned to a bright new world after his discharge, he confided the dream that he had built during long hours on watch: he wanted to buy a country newspaper.

Months later, with no money or collateral, they finally purchased the Downington Archive. Its subscription list consisted mostly of dead people and usually sold five copies on newsstands. It was surrounded by strong dailies and published among cautious merchants who sat back to watch another owner bite the dust.

The McIlvaines took over expecting to move mountains and become molders of public opinion. They soon found the first move was to find a place to get their paper printed.

This involved endless trips to near-by towns, they found a publisher who agreed to print their paper. For better or worse, they were committed.

And often it was worse. Ads appeared upside down or got left out. A wedding story told of the bride wearing "a pair of homemade pretty pint lace" and "a yoke of oxen around her neck."

In spite of floods, irate readers, bouts with federal snoopers and temperamental addressing machines, the Archive appeared each Thursday. Audit Bureau of Circulation field men threw up their hands and hunted a saloon, five accountants quit in frustration. With iron constitutions and notes in every pocket, Bob and Jane plowed on.

But they were almost plowed under when they started getting their paper printed at a large plant which set type for Time, U. S. Camera and Beauty Fashion. The august editors of Time later wondered why they had more mistakes per story during that period than any other in their history.

Eventually, the Archive bought its own press, then another. But the rat race continued unabated. For a couple with iron constitutions and the ability

Prairie Publication Fills Gap In World Literature

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 11 (AP)—Libraries and literary experts from Moscow to San Francisco look to a little known college quarterly for the latest news in international literature.

It is "Books Abroad," a survey of the best in current literature ranging from Rumanian poetry to Indian metaphysics and touching all points in between.

"Books Abroad," published by the University of Oklahoma Press, is edited by Vienna-born Wolfgang Bernard Fleischmann, a chunky, chain-smoking Ph. D. with a job as formidable as his name.

His prairie publication has a circulation of about 1,500, barely enough to pay the ink bill for most modern newsmagazines.

But its subscribers form a cosmopolitan clientele of scholars, libraries and critics. They are a devoted group and somewhat dependent, for "Books Abroad" is the only publication of its kind in the world.

To keep them happy, Fleischmann edits 1,200 book reviews a year. They are written by his pool of 500 reviewers who—like the subscribers—are scattered over the western world.

Rarely is there a wide difference of opinion about the style and excellence of a literary work among the battalion of reviewers.

"They may disagree about the theme of a work," says Fleischmann, "but in the West we don't differ very much in estimates of its purely literary value."

"Take Lolita," he says in reference to the best selling novel by Vladimir Nabokov. "There is little argument over the novel's excellence of style and structure, but on its theme there are big differences of opinion."

However, not all is harmony in the world of literature. There is a deep cleavage in outlooks between the West and Iron Curtain countries.

From his book lined basement office in an aging building on the Oklahoma campus, Fleischmann has a rare vista of this intellectual corollary to the Cold War.

"Any subject up to Marx coming from East German scholars is treated with common sense and restraint," says Fleischmann. "After that, it's the party line."

"They are quite objective about Goethe and Schiller, but their interpretations of American writers is far wide of the mark. For instance, their first rank of American writers would include Howard Fast, Jack London, the James T. Farrell of Studs Lonigan and Albert Maltz."

Maltz is best known in this country as a screenwriter recently hired to write a movie for Frank Sinatra, then dropped after a public uproar. Fleischmann makes it clear the primary business of "Books Abroad" is the exchange and evaluation of western ideas and values.

He finds a gap between the themes of literature from the United States and literature from Western Europe.

"The general theme of Continental literature is the alienation of man; the effect of technology, bureaucracy and restrictions of modern life which strange man from nature."

"This is a step away from the ideas found in the novels of Albert Camus who thought that the attempt by man to accomplish things was significant of itself."

"To the new continental writers it is simply absurd." Fleischmann sees modern American literature as considerably more complex, but a lot less pessimistic about the plight of man.

"In fact, I don't think there's any real pessimism at all in our literature," he says after a moment's reflection. "And in the so-called 'beat' authors we find outright optimism—a legacy of Walt Whitman."

"The Beats say all you have to do is 'get with it, get hip' and life has significance. This is very optimistic."

Have You Ever Seen A "Prayer Book"?

If not, you've missed one of the most important publications in the English language. The Book of Common Prayer of the Anglican Communion (of which the Episcopal Church in the United States is a part) is, second only to the Holy Bible, probably the most widely printed and used book in the English language.

Records fail to show how many millions of copies of this unusual book have been printed and circulated since it was first issued by the Church of England in the sixteenth century. Sufficient to say that it has had a profound influence on the development of the English language as we use it today. The Prayer Book, in English and translated into many other tongues, is today the guide to worship for more than 40,000,000 Anglicans the world over.

It is called the Book of Common Prayer because we use it in "common," so that we may join together as participants in corporate worship—not as individuals, but as joint members in "the Body of Christ"—the Church.

The Book of Common Prayer is a thrilling document with a thrilling history. Learn more about it. Learn the great satisfaction of corporate worship by joining us in the worship of God in the Episcopal Church near you—soon!

You can learn more about the Book of Common Prayer by reading the interesting booklet "How We Got the Prayer Book". Send the coupon. It's free. No obligation.

Nature's Wonders Are Viewed By Youngsters

BY MRS. R. L. CRISWELL
Easter Sunday has come and gone. It was a beautiful, beautiful day and if you failed to visit your church nursery on that morning you missed something lovely indeed.

What did you miss, you say? The little ones—all dressed in their Easter finery and lovely little faces, wreathed in smiles as they happily modeled for everyone to see.

There were pastel cottons galore and ribbons, laces, and tiny little gloves and bags that were a delight to behold. Little boys were so handsome it made your heart turn over with delight, and little girls in ruffles and laces, their little faces beaming so prettily under little bonnets with little puffs of ribbon showing to accent their color. It was a delight indeed.

One little girl in a beruffled frock and can-can gaiter did a pirouette to show her little frock and suddenly she was very tired. She wanted to be put into her bed, and when she put her little head down the little frock and can-can puffed about her like a long feathered bird; the ruffles fell over her face and she pushed at them angrily and cried because she could not make them stay down. She was just a tiny little girl tired of all the finery that she had been so glad to put on only a short time before. Is it any wonder that Jesus said "Let the little children come unto me."

Have you noticed the red tulips? So many, it is a joy to drive around and feast your soul upon them. The daffodils waving their white and yellow bonnets are showy and lovely, but the red tulips far outshine them now.

The tulips are on Grand, Union and many other streets. The Gilliland Funeral Home has a perfect row across the front of the home. The Lowell Sharps have a bed of hyacinths that is a delight to the eye. Spring and the lowering bulbs, the fruit trees and the flowering peach remind us that warm weather is to come soon but some cold days will come along before warm weather is here.

The seasons of the year are a pleasant change. The beauty of spring, summer and fall and we have to admit that old man winter has a few points, too, as he covers everything with a blanket of snow, making beauty where it has never been before and nourishing the bulbs and other plants to shed their beauty and their food that the life of the earth might continue. It is time for making cookies and candy for the youngsters and getting a bit closer to the older members of the family.

Speaking of children: A little boy had asked his mother to tie his shoe. His mother, being busy preparing the evening meal, told him she would tie it directly. He waited and waited, and at last in a small voice asked: "Mother, how long is directly?" And a little girl playing on the porch had acci-dently laid the calf of her leg on a wasp, with a resulting sting. She rubbed it vigorously for a minute and came running in yelling "Mother, mother. Come quick and see a hot bug. It was so hot it burned my leg."

There are so many things that are new to the little folks that their days are full of wonder. They stare in wonder as they see one of nature's amazing miracles, the slow opening of a wild primrose. A new baby calf, the baby pig that is so cute with its curly tail, the pattern in the shade made by waving grasses or leaves. Perhaps as adults we should take time to view some of these wonders with the eye of a child and not as one who has lost the ability to see the hand of God in the everyday world.

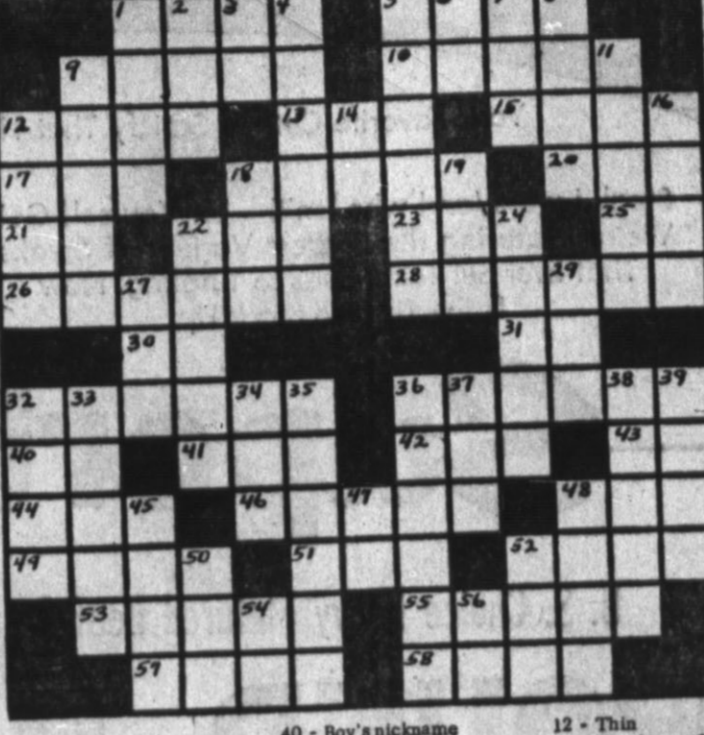

It has been said that during Spurgeon's time of evangelism, a man came up to him in the crowd and said: "I just want you to know that I do not believe in God. I do not believe He had a plan for the world nor a plan for salvation."

Spurgeon looked the man over sadly: "My son, if God did not have a plan, why did not your mouth come out on top of your head instead of your face?"

In stunned silence, the man walked away.

Pittsburgh was originally named Pitts-Borough, in honor of English statesman William Pitt.

Fashions For Boys Are Just Like Dad's

Today's young man should consider himself lucky and well dressed. Let the young man select his wardrobe from these main categories: (1) Ivy-Continental; this the traditional three button style coat with little or no suppression at the coat waist. Its Ivy-type fabrics and colors, but has hacking pockets and side vents. Trousers are either beltless or with belt loops, with three-quarter pocket for detailing. (2) Ivy-Ivy, for the young man with extreme fancy flair. (3) Natural Shoulder; this has the natural style-look with very little shoulder padding.

Sparsely seen, but not quite enough to merit a fourth category, is the British influence. British styling offers suppressed coat waist, extra pocket for change, slightly wider lapels.

Let's talk about colors... the trend is for soft shading in big patterns; solids will be good too; also small patterns, plaids, checks and madras (not just the bleeders, but also dacron and cotton blends). Sure to stand out will be new putty (bone tone) pewter (green cast), sailing blue, mustard, olive with other color combinations and traditional blacks and browns.

As for fabrics, the flat, smooth ones will generally predominate—hard-finish worsteds, gabardines of dracoon/worsted blends and dracoon/wool blends and mohair.

As a bright added footnote, this season will offer double breasted styling. Look for new surface textures in twill weaves. As for colors, mustard, pewter, olive and navy will prevail. As a young man has varied character, Spring too, offers him a varied character of clothing, all waiting to suit him best.

A boy's wardrobe wouldn't be complete this spring without a sportshirt! This season offers countless styles, one, will sure to be his favorite.

Notable, and the single newest fashion sensation will be the poncho or pull-over style. Smartly tapered to fit the body more closely. Among the fabric favorites—ticking stripes, sa-teen (with carefully matched scarf prints), hopsacking in solid and printed versions, fine woven mesh, popular oxford cloth, woven jacquards and as always iridescent cottons....

all sure to give spring a "cool" welcoming.

Seersucker, (the original wash and wear fabric) is seen this season in interesting checks and addition to traditional stripe patterns. Embroidery, too, is widely used, with motif sometimes picked up on the buttons. Newsworthy are self-front closures. Trims of self fabric weaving on shirt fronts are frequently used. Knits, too, will take to the popular poncho style with a solid color emphasis.

As always, beachwear offers something new—stretchknits in boxer and brief lengths. And, beachwear co-ordinates that have shorts teamed with matching sport shirts, which can be worn open as jackets, or tucked in as shirts.

SEERSUCKER is headed for lots of attention on the masculine side of the fashion picture this season. This suit has a single-breasted vented jacket topping a gay reversible vest and no-pleat slacks.

REMEMBER WHEN?

BY CHARLIE SEEDS

In the first six months of its publication, the thousand page novel had sold over a million copies. Translated into more than a dozen languages, it was a smash best seller all over the world.

And wherever "Gone with the Wind" was read, there was speculation over who would play the key characters in the epic movie being made by David Selznick.

Clark Gable was a unanimous choice for Rhett Butler, but there was a long search before the young English actress was finally picked to play the part of Scarlett O'Hara.

At last the movie was released. Enormous crowds lined up to see it wherever it was shown. It was the biggest of the screen epics, the longest, running well over three hours. The immense sweep of its scenes was something never seen before. And the key actors... Gable, Vivien Leigh, Leslie Howard and Olivia de Havilland... seemed to be people we had all know. Remember when this movie came out?

Remember the year? "Spectaculars" aren't so unusual today... in television, in movies... or even in car sales. This is the time of the "big picture" and the "Big Claim." It's getting harder to sort out the facts. It was a lot easier in the year "Gone With the Wind" came out.

The year was 1939. We don't make any "big claims" we can't back up with facts and figures. And give you the highest trade we can consistent with good business. We'll sell you a new 61 Ford at the lowest profit possible. It that makes sense to you, see CHARLIE SEEDS MOTOR Co., Inc.

WILLING HANDS . . . Transportation is no problem for Lillian Blewitt. Her girls carry the wheel chair from classroom to classroom.

Missionary Plans A Lifetime

BY FRANCES FAIRHALL
 NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Miss Lillian Blewitt has been in Kenya eight months, and she's decided to devote the rest of her life to missionary work in East Africa.

"I shall never return to America unless God calls me back, and I am prepared to finish my life here," says 45-year-old Miss Blewitt of Bellerose, N. Y.

Stricken by polio when only three years old, she is confined permanently to a wheel chair. But despite her handicap, Miss Blewitt didn't think twice when she received a letter last October from family friends, the Rev. and Mrs. John Twyler Ludwig, urging her to join them. They run a mission school for African girls at Ruaraka, in undulating, dusty bush country some miles north of Nairobi.

"The Ludwigs had been asking me to come to Kenya for the last 20 years, but this time I knew I must go," she says. "I had no money for the fare, no means of support when I got here and had no teaching experience or qualifications — but nevertheless, here I am."

The Ludwigs, who have been missionaries in East Africa since 1927, when Nairobi was a shanty-town, have been extending their school for African girls for the last 10 years.

Before this they were attached to the Church of God Mission in the humid heat of Kisumu on the shores of Lake Victoria. But when Mr. Ludwig, now 78, reached retirement age, he was advised to go home. The Ludwigs' answer to this was to accept 10 acres of land offered by a wealthy Nairobi hotelier, and to start a school for African girls, independent of any financial help from missions or the government.

Over the years the Ludwigs and their friends both in America and in Africa have given enough to take care of about 70 African girl boarders from 11 to 18 years old, from all parts of the Colony — which is about twice the size of the British Isles — and for a qualified teaching staff, mostly Africans.

Until they are 16 the girls get a general education, but for the following two years they are taught domestic science by Mrs. Ludwig, 70, who is a qualified nurse and domestic science teacher.

Throughout their schooling the pupils are given religious instruction by Miss Blewitt.

Her wheel chair is no longer a transport problem, despite the rough tracks which link the school's 21 separate buildings. About 30 of the girls hoist Miss Blewitt's chair shoulder high and carry her from classroom to classroom.

"Perhaps I've been naive in believing everything I've ever been told about Africa, but now

A ROSE IS A ROSE IS A ROSE And a skunk by any other name is still a skunk. Sandra and Debra McCauley of Houston of Houston aren't taking any chances. "Stinky", their little friend with the white stripe down his back, gets a bath in a weak solution of ammonia water to eliminate the "wild smell" and then he's perfumed until he comes out smelling like the proverbial rose. (AP Photo)

I find it's just how I imagined it," Miss Blewitt says.

She sees Kenya's present uneasy political situation "as something which goes on around me but which I don't know much about.

"I only know that I believe in the freedom of the individual but also believe that children should grow up before taking responsibility."

Though Miss Blewitt receives no salary for her work at the school, she refuses to waste time on financial worries. "I didn't have enough money to get here and I never thought I'd have enough to live on when I arrived — but something has always turned up," she says.

CHARRED FIRE WARNING

BALTIMORE (AP) — The copy of Mayor J. Harold Grady's schedule sheet that informed him of Fire Prevention week arrived at his desk in a slightly burned condition.

One of the mayor's secretaries dropped a cigarette cinder on the very paragraph which mentioned Fire Prevention Week. It scorched the word "hazards" in a sentence reminding the mayor he was to say a few words of warning about fire hazards.

Blind Youths Bring Light To Teen-Agers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When 17-year-old Jo Ann Singer began volunteer work at the Foundation for the Junior Blind, she admits she was "shocked."

"I guess I always thought blind people just sat on street corners with tin cups," she explains. "Here I found kids my age, and saw them doing all the things they do."

A veteran helper at the foundation since she was 11, Jo soon forgot her own uneasiness as she began to help with dances, dinners and group singing.

But the blind youngsters' activities went far beyond the center.

"We went horseback riding and water skiing," she says. "One Easter vacation we went iguana hunting on a camping trip through the backlands of Mexico."

"I guess I've never done so many things as I have since I've been here."

When she first volunteered at the foundation — "because I didn't have much else to do" — she started out with odd jobs, like stuffing envelopes. Then she began attending Friday night dances for teen-agers, and began coming in on Friday afternoon to help serve dinner.

Now she often works every day after her classes at Los Angeles City College, Friday evenings, all day Saturday, and sometimes on Sundays.

Weekday afternoons are devoted to calling blind youngsters to invite them to weekend activities, and arranging for adult drivers to transport them.

Frequently, Jo brings her dates to the Friday night dances at the center.

Jo, whose work recently brought her national recognition is modest about her own record of hundreds of hours of volunteering.

HER NICHE . . . Jo Ann Singer, 17, of Los Angeles helps plan activities for blind teen agers.

Cleaning fluid can be used for cleaning white felt hats, but it might turn them yellow in time. Instead, mix equal parts of cornmeal, salt, and flour, and rub into the felt. # How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do about air leaks around window frames?
A. You can fill these with caulking material. Putty may be used for small holes, but it is likely to dry and fall out of larger ones. In small quantities, the caulking material may be applied by hand with a putty knife. However, if the amount of work is considerable, you would do better with a caulking gun, which can be purchased from a paint or hardware store.

Q. How can I reduce the shrinkage of woolen socks?
A. Remember — woolen socks shrink not so much from soap and water as from extremes of water temperature. Tepid water is best for washing woolen socks.

Q. How can I camouflage some minor nicks and scratches in my black wrought-iron furniture?
A. You can effect this nicely with some black crayon. Wipe off the excess crayon with some face tissues.

Q. How can I easily remove the old, dried glue that remains in a hole in which a chair leg or rung is to be replaced?
A. Wrap some sandpaper around a dowel that is slightly smaller than the hole. Chuck the dowel in your hand brace, and rotate it in the hole. This will remove all the old bits of glue, and insure you a much better repair job.

Q. How can I make bottles carried in traveling leak-proof?
A. After fitting the corks tightly into them, dip into some melted paraffin. You can tie a piece of heavy paper over the tops of the bottles to make them even more secure.

Q. How can I keep the excess oil from soiling material after oiling the sewing machine?
A. This can be prevented by tying a small piece of cotton string tightly around the needle bar, near the place where the bar grips the needle.

William B. MacDonald's Royal Native earned $223,995 during 17 starts in 1960. The 4-year-old chestnut filly was unplaced only twice.

making them dangerous to wear on snow or ice, retrace the soles with a hot soldering iron. Simply burn shallow diagonal lines in criss-cross fashion for non-skid treads that will provide good traction.

Broken Marble
To mend broken marble, make a stiff paste by mixing Portland cement with water. Clean edges of the marble thoroughly, then put cement on both edges, press together tightly then tie until the cement has set.

Glass Cement
A transparent cement for glass can be made by digesting together for about a week, one ounce of india-rubber, 67 ounces of chloroform, and 40 ounces of mastic.

Firmer Candles
You can firm a candle in a too-large holder by burning down an old stub — or half-inch from the bottom of the new one — in the holder. Press the heat-softened bottom of the new candle firmly down on the still-burning stub. The candle will then adhere to its new holder-fitting base.

A Smoky Room
If the living room is heavy with smoke after a party, and you do not wish to retire leaving a window in this room open, put a basin of water in the room and leave overnight. The air will be fresh in the morning.
