Argo Gets Increase In Oil At Central Glasscock Wildcat

Argo Oil Corporation No. 1 M. E. Cook Central Glasscock county wildcat, four miles southwest of Garden City swabbed 50 barrels of new oil and no water in 22 hours. Swabbing is continuing. The swab is being pulled once each two hours. The production is coming from open hole in the Wolfcamp at 7,350-7,501 feet. That zone had been treated with 2,000 gallons and with 6,000 gallons of acid.

Second Shot Hoped
The second acid injection appears to have more than double the oil yield of the project. After the 2,000-gallon treatment the wildcat swabbed 21 barrels of oil in 24 hours. Operator will continue swabbing and try to complete the prospector as a commercial producer and the opener of a new field. Location is 660 feet from west and 1,980 feet from south lines of section 17, block 34, T-4-S. T&P survey.

Barnhart Deepens Reagan Discovery Gets New Potential

Paul F. Barnhart of Houston No. 1 Wimberly, discovery well of the Aldwell-Spraberry field of Northwest Reagan County, has been re-potentialized from the lower Spraberry. The discovery, completed from the upper Spraberry section, declined to about 25 barrels of oil per day on the pump. Operator deepened to 7,733 feet and hydraulically fractured the lower Spraberry with 4,500 gallons. The well then potentialized for 451 barrels per day, flowing. Location is at the center of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 15, block C, L&SV survey.

Magnolia Has Slight Gas Shows In DST Of Wildcat In Andrews

Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 University, East-Central Andrews County wildcat, 11 miles east and slightly north of the town of Andrews ran a 30-minute drillstem test in the Wolfcamp lime of the lower Permian at 10,185-211 feet. Recovery was 10 feet of very slightly gas cut drilling fluid. There were no signs of oil or of formation water.

Will Core Deeper
Operator is to core ahead and if more signs of petroleum are developed another test probably will be run. Top of the Wolfcamp has not yet been picked. Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 17, block 8, University survey. That makes it 13 miles southeast of Magnolia No. 1 Tom Peay, discovery well of the Nolley-Wolfcamp field near Florey in Central-North Andrews County.

Small San Andres Discovery Fined In NW Tom Green
The Texas Company No. 1 Joe E. Hill, wildcat in Northwest Tom Green County, was completed on the pump for a 24-hour potential of 13.85 barrels of oil. Production was from perforations at 1,046-94 and 1,087-92 feet. The discovery was completed from the San Andres after 2,000-gallon acid treatment. Location is 990 feet from north and 336 feet from east lines of section 66, block 5, H&TC survey. That puts it three miles southeast of Waigr Valley-San Andres field and eight and three-quarter miles west of Carlsbad.

500 Bodies Recovered In Volcano Area

MANILA—(AP)—The Philippine News Service Wednesday night said more than 500 bodies had been recovered from the ash-strewn slopes of Hibok Hibok Volcano, on Camiguin Island in the Southern Philippines.

The volcano erupted twice Tuesday. It still spouted smoke and flames Wednesday.

Gov. Pacencio Ysalina of Eastern Misamis Province, who came from nearby Mindanao Island to take charge of rescue and evacuation, estimated that 2,000 may have died in Tuesday's first eruption, which witnesses have called an atomic-like blast. Neither the governor's estimate nor the news service's figure had confirmation.

Red Cross headquarters in Manila said the Philippine Army had recovered 169 bodies.

A Red Cross director of disaster relief, Dr. Joaquin Canuto, radioed headquarters that the dead were being cremated or interred as fast as they were found. He said injured were being sent from the stricken northern section of Camiguin to Mahinog, on the southeast coast of the island, for treatment for scalds and burns.

Volcanic heat began subsiding and rescue workers were able to penetrate deeper into the ash and lava area.

Second Mighty Blast
The Philippine News Service said 10,000 of Camiguin's 45,000 residents had been evacuated to safer areas.

Hibok Hibok's crater still was visible late Wednesday, shrouded by low, dense clouds of smoke.

Early Payments Of Poll Taxes Indicate Record Vote In '52
Midland County voters, faced with a hot national election along with city and county races, probably will go to the polls in record-breaking numbers in 1952.

This was indicated Wednesday when County Tax Assessor-Collector J. M. Speed reported that more than 800 voters had already paid their 1951 poll tax and the figure is expected to reach a record-breaking 10,000 by the deadline on January 31.

Speed said the 880 poll tax payments is unusually large at this time, since no public appeal has yet been made to register for the 1952 elections.

Payments for 1950 totaled 6,908. Speed said, and 10,000 poll tax receipts already have been ordered for this year.

Speed also pointed out that this year all persons more than 60 years old must apply for exemptions, regardless of whether or not they have held them in the past. Last year it was not necessary to re-apply.

He also pointed out that all persons who have reached the age of 21 since last January 1, or who will be 21 before the first election in 1952, also may apply for poll tax exemptions.

$8,968 Damages Asked In Lawsuit Against CRMWD

The Colorado River Municipal Water District faced a suit for approximately $9,000 damages here Wednesday for allegedly trespassing on a ranch 10 miles north of Midland to lay a water pipe line to Odessa.

The suit was filed Tuesday afternoon in 70th District Court by J. O. Nobles, who asked damages totaling $8,968.

Also named in the suit were Ben Sira and Company and G. L. McKenzie, both of Dallas, contractors for laying the pipe line, which will carry water to Odessa from wells in Martin County.

Nobles' attorney, Kelly Bell, asserted in the petition that the contractors, without obtaining permission, had cut a trench in three places and cleared a strip of land 37 feet wide and 9,847 feet long.

He asked $2,067 for damage to the fence; $47 for loss of grass; $800 for damage to the land and $5,779 as punitive damages.

British Bus Crushes 23 Boy Cadets
CHATHAM, ENGLAND —(AP)—An eight-ton, double-decker bus, operated by a driver cited for a quarter century of safe driving, rumbled into the singing ranks of marching boy cadets Tuesday night and killed 23 of them.

Nineteen more boys, some near death, lay in hospitals. Ten others were treated for shock. It was the worst road accident in British motoring history.

The driver, John George Samson, 57, was taken home and put under a doctor's care. Shocked and sick, Samson was unable to explain immediately how the big bus happened to hit the formation of more than 50 marching boys. It smashed into them from behind.

Ten to 15 years old. The children, all between 10 and 13 years old, were cadets in the Royal Marine Corps. They sang in step as they marched—their twin files just the width of the bus—to see an amateur boxing match at Chatham's Naval Barracks.

Passengers on the bus, riding home in the supertime rush hour darkness, didn't know what was happening until it was over. Mangled bodies were strewn 30 yards along the cobblestone road. The huge vehicle lurched through almost the whole formation and careened into a lamp post, its fenders bent and bloody.

A passenger on the upper deck said he felt only "a series of light bumps" as the heavy wheels crunched through. The bus was operated by the (Continued On Page Nine)

Burglar Kills Woman With Hammer Blows

HOUSTON —(AP)—A 59-year-old woman was beaten to death with a hammer early Wednesday by a burglar who was surprised as he crawled through a small fan inside a tiny cage.

Killed was Mrs. Gussie L. Hall. A negro suspect with several cuts about his face and ear was being held.

Mrs. Hall and her husband, George, lived in one room adjoining the cage.

The beating occurred about 2:30 a.m. when Mrs. Hall went to investigate a noise on one side of the building.

She surprised the burglar as he jumped from a kitchen sink just under the fan.

The suspect arrested by police twice escaped from an ambulance taking him to a hospital for treatment. He was recaptured the second time by officers who found him lying in a field.

Odessa Reports Two New Cases Of Polio

ODESSA —(AP)—Two new polio cases Wednesday sent the year's total to 66 as Odessa's big clean-up drive neared completion.

The newest cases are those of Sammy Bell, six, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reece Bell, and Stephen Bacuss, nine. Fourteen of the 1951 cases have occurred since December 1. Nine persons have died of the disease.

More than 3,000 loads of trash were hauled to the city dumps Monday and Tuesday. Theaters are to reopen Thursday and school attendance was reported increasing.

Texas cities were rallying to ease the worst polio epidemic in Odessa's history.

The Dallas County Chapter of the Paralysis Foundation Wednesday sent three doctors trained to fight polio. Fort Worth, itself fighting an outbreak, appealed for trained polo workers to volunteer to come to Odessa.

Driver Field Fire Destroys Truck, Tanks, Buildings

Fire, during a raging sandstorm, Tuesday destroyed a butane truck, two 1,000-gallon tanks, a tool shed and a bunkhouse at a Loftland Brothers rig in the Driver Field, 46 miles southeast of Midland.

The Midland Fire Department extinguished the blaze which probably occurred when static electricity ignited the butane truck as it was transferring fuel to tanks. The fire spread to the tool shed and bunkhouse.

The truck belonged to J. W. Gaddy of Odessa. No one was injured. Midland firemen, who took a booster truck to the fire, fought the blaze three hours.

Lawyer Says High Officials Are Involved

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Democratic chairman of a House committee looking into charges of an attempted $500,000 "tax fix shakedown" Wednesday declared there is no evidence that high government officials were involved.

But Representative King (D-Calif) scolded T. Lamar Caudle, ousted former assistant attorney general, in a statement for Caudle's association with Frank Nathan—one of two men named by Chicago lawyer Abraham Teitelbaum as having sought $500,000 from him to "take care" of his tax troubles.

Representative Byrnes (R-Wis), another member of the House Ways and Means subcommittee, said King was speaking only for himself in declaring there was no direct evidence of high government officials being involved. Byrnes said the evidence was not all in.

In any event, Byrnes declared, the story unfolded by the committee Tuesday had provided "an object lesson in vicious influence peddling."

King and Byrnes made their statements when the committee convened to question Nathan about the sensational story told by Teitelbaum. Look For 'Self-Teaches'

In short, Teitelbaum's testimony was that Nathan and Bert K. Nester, a Hollywood, Fla., businessman, represented to him that there was a "clique" in Washington that looked for "soft touches" and that they were connected with this "clique."

He said Nathan and Nester asked him for $125,000 immediately and $375,000 "within 72 hours" to save Teitelbaum from income tax prosecution and possible imprisonment.

Teitelbaum said those named to him as in the "clique" included Caudle, Jess Larson, head of the General Services Administration; Charles Oliphant, chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau, and George J. Schoeneman and Joseph Nanan, former commissioners of Internal Revenue.

All those named promptly made de- (Continued On Page Nine)

MUNSAN, KOREA —(AP)—Allied negotiators asked questions for two hours and a half at an Alice-in-Wonderland sort of Korean truce session Wednesday—and got the answer to just one question.

The Reds defined what they meant by a neutral country and gave examples: Communist Czechoslovakia and Poland, or non-Communist Switzerland, Sweden and Denmark.

The Communists want neutral teams to supervise any truce reached, and only at "ports of entry."

Worst Sandstorm Since Spring Sets Midland Sweeping

Midland Wednesday swept its way out of its worst sandstorm since last spring.

Gusts of wind up to 60 miles an hour whirled the sand through city streets and into Midland homes for more than 12 hours Tuesday.

There were scattered reports of momentary power failures during the day but there was little actual damage.

All of the gay Christmas decorations along Wall Street were down by nightfall but it was largely the work of Texas Electric Service Company crews rather than the wind itself.

District Manager R. L. Miller said that as soon as the heavy winds threatened the strings of tinsel and lights the crews were instructed to take them down to prevent traffic interference.

Only one or two strings actually were blown down.

"There were a few trip-outs," said Miller, "when pieces of metal were blown against our lines. There were momentary power failures and both radio stations were off the air briefly. But in all cases service quickly was restored and little damage has been reported."

Street decorations were being restored quickly Wednesday.

Freakish Tornado Rips New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)—A freakish tornado ripped through the up-town industrial section here early Wednesday and caused damage estimated at more than one million dollars. But no one was reported injured.

Tornadoes are extremely rare in this area often frequented by hurricanes.

George L. Canady of the U. S. Weather Bureau, who made the damage estimate, said the tornado-swept area was about 400 to 600 feet wide and about 1,200 feet long.

Two Negroes Charged In Grocery Burglary

Two negroes were charged formally with burglary Wednesday after they were arrested by city and county officers early Saturday in the Piggly Wiggly Store No. 3, Missouri and A Streets.

Named in the information filed with Justice of the Peace L. C. Stephenson were Johnnie Kinnebrew and Lionel White, Bond was set at $3,000 each.

Wednesday Meeting To Map Final Plans For Clean-Up Effort

An intensive campaign to clean up Midland and the surrounding area was to be planned in detail Wednesday afternoon.

Faced with the threat of a polio outbreak similar to the one in Odessa 30 miles away, the city's business, government, religious and school leaders scheduled a meeting at 5 p.m. in the City Hall to map the meeting.

The meeting was called Tuesday by Dr. F. E. Sadler, director of the City-County Health Unit, to direct the city and county forces in the clean-up drive.

"And the response to the invitations to participate in the meeting," said Cass Wednesday, "has been wonderful."

"Every civic organization has promised to send a representative, and business houses and oil companies are anxious to get a campaign underway."

Plenty To Be Done
Cass made a quick tour of Midland Wednesday morning.

"And there is plenty to be done," he reported later, "in cleaning up the city. The work will not be confined to the lower-income residential areas, either."

Mayor Perry Pickett called on every Midland resident to cooperate in the campaign.

"The polio situation is under control here," he said, "and we want to keep it that way."

"It would be tragic if we were to have an outbreak to mar our Christmas season.

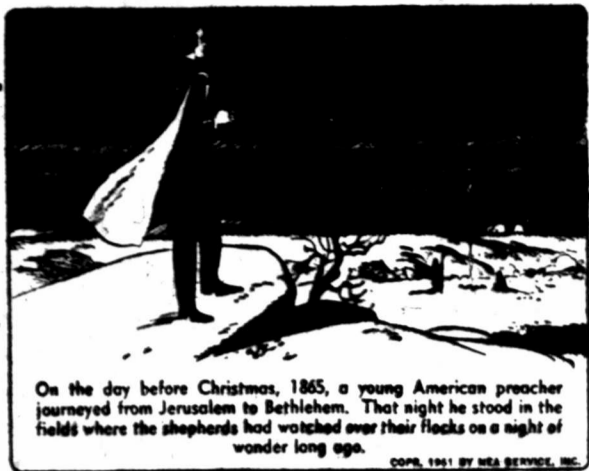

"We must take every step possible to guard against it and I think we can accomplish much with a general clean-up drive, with every organization and every individual cooperating to the fullest extent."

East, West Still Differ In Arms Talk

PARIS —(AP)—United Nations Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo Wednesday said Russia and the Western powers are clarifying their positions as never before in secret disarmament talks here.

But as the fifth session of the Big Four disarmament conference ended Wednesday, there was no indication that West and East had reached any substantial agreement on their poles-apart views on how to end the world's arms race.

THE SONGS OF CHRISTMAS

On the day before Christmas, 1865, a young American preacher journeyed from Jerusalem to Bethlehem. That night he stood in the fields where the shepherds had watched over their flocks on a night of wonder long ago.

The shepherds were still tending their flocks. As he watched, Phillip Brooks, desiring to become one of the most beloved and famed of American clergymen, stirred with emotion.

In his mind he looked back through the centuries to that other unforgettable night. Three years later he was to perpetuate the beauty of the scene in an immortal Christmas carol.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Careful, Dinah; Uncle Sam's Waiting For You To Sit Down

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Hollywood Correspondent HOLLYWOOD — Behind the Screen: "If you can't sit down in 'em, you can deduct 'em." That's Dinah Shore talking about Uncle Sam's tax sleuths and the fancy gowns she buys for her warbling career.

Dinah's ups and downs for the Internal Revenue Department came up again as she started rehearsal for her new twice-weekly television show.

For a 26-week series, Dinah wailed, she'll spend about $20,000 on clothes. Naturally, being a woman, she doesn't want any backache gossip in Iowa like:

"Gee, Myrtle, Dinah wore that dress AGAIN last night." So up pops the question of whether Dinah can deduct the $20,000 worth of glad rags as a business expense, which it most certainly sounds like. But Dinah knows the answer from past experience.

She can deduct 'em only if she can't sit down in 'em. That's what a U. S. income tax man told me when I deducted 16 gowns I bought for an engagement at the Waldorf Astoria hotel," Dinah said. "But I'd have to prove it, the man said. So I invited him out to the house and I tried on every one of those 16 gowns. I was up and down all afternoon."

"I couldn't sit down in three of them. Those were the only ones Uncle Sam would let me deduct as a business expense." Dinah's new TV show just started recently.

If she sits down during the show score a point for Uncle Sam. If she doesn't sit down, score a point for Dinah.

Humphrey Bogart on television soon? "I'm going to wait," he told me, "until they can keep my face on my shoulders. I did a live show in New York a few months ago. You know what happened?"

"I was supposed to shoot a guy, but we didn't have time to rehearse it. The guy dropped dead before I could get the gun out of my pocket. Really, I don't want to be THAT tough!"

Errol Flynn, I can report, is giving up something that's brought him a lot of joy. His writing, I mean. No more novels like "Beam's End" or screenplays for bawdy Errol, told me on Warner's "Mara Maru" set: "I've realized that I can't write worth a hoot. I'll stick to things that I can do from now on."

What about "The Adventures of Captain Fabian," written with Errol's own lit-white hands? Errol's screenplay for the picture hadn't exactly been slaughtered by the critics, had it? "Brother," Errol shuddered, "you have touched upon an exposed nerve."

as far as she'd like to go on celluloid and it's all the fault of the movie censors. They keep yelling "Cut" just when Barbara's about to rattle with sizzling dialog or a racy plot twist. "We've got to get up in pizazz," she complained on the "Clash By Night" set at RKO. "It's not boy-meets-girl anymore. The public won't leave their television sets to see it. We've got to do what they're doing in Europe. They're making life."

Barbara isn't sure what will have to be done about the kiddies, but "look at what the youngsters are getting on radio and TV. Horrible stuff. I defy parents to keep them away from those programs."

She's still red-faced, she said, about a comic book she picked up the other day, and the scanty attire of the heroine. "She was wearing a couple of beads, that's all," Barbara shuddered. "Kids can buy those books for 10 cents, yet Hollywood's blamed and criticized for juvenile delinquency."

It took Keenan Wynn 12 years to make the grade, but he's vowing that he's in the character groove to stay and that the Wynn brand of zany comedy is going the way of the dodo bird.

U. S. Has To Start All Over Again With Military Government Schools

LONDON —(NEA)— Brig. Gen. Julius Holmes, now U. S. minister-counselor at the U. S. Embassy in London, tells the story of how the United States got into the field of military government during World War II. It has an important bearing on one of the major U. S. responsibilities today, which is in finding good and competent men who can work with foreign governments in developing their rearmament programs.

The United States has no West Point for training diplomats. And such "pro-consuls" as it does develop have to learn their lessons the hard way, by bitter experience. It was like that in World War II, according to General Holmes. After the conclusion of the African campaign, General Eisenhower received a directive from the Chiefs of Staff to take Sicily. The plan for the military campaign was all worked out in detail. And then General Holmes, who was on Eisenhower's staff, raised the question, "What are we going to do with it after we get it?"

Everybody looked up in amazement and asked General Holmes what he meant. Well, he explained, here was a good-sized island with a lot of people on it. They had to be fed, the police and fire departments had to be run, and so on. "You do that," said General Eisenhower.

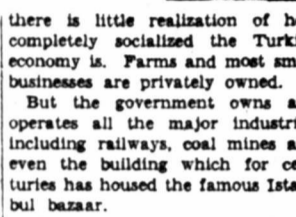

"In addition to my other duties?" asked General Holmes. "Yeah," said Ike. And so the idea of military government was born. General Holmes sent scouts into the African towns to see if they could buy copies of Baedeker's guide to Italy, and any other books on Sicily. They came back with two. They served as the basis for seeing what the geography of the place was, and how it had been governed.

When General Holmes had figured out what the Army would do with Sicily after it was taken, he flew to Washington with his plans and got them approved. Two days later Maj. Gen. John M. Hildring was assigned by General Marshall, then Chief of Staff, to open a military government school at University of Virginia. And so the U. S. got into the business.

At the end of the war, however, the school was allowed to die, and all the civilians who had been recruited as military governors were mustered out of the Army. So now the job has to be done all over again.

Other big issues before the assembly include ratification of the Schuman plan and agreement on incorporation of German troop units in a European army. The present French government may try to present all these programs in a single package, as the French national defense plan.

ANKARA — While nobody hates the Russians more than the Turks, the racketeers take nail polish there is little realization of how completely socialized the Turkish economy is. Farms and most small businesses are privately owned. But the government owns and operates all the major industries, including railways, coal mines and even the building which for centuries has housed the famous Istanbul bazaar.

The government is even building the new hotel which it hopes will attract many more tourists to Turkey. But the plan is to sell this property to a private operator, once it is built.

One of the major side-line efforts of Marshall Plan mission in Turkey has been to convince the government that it should do more to develop private industry, and divert itself of much of the 70 per cent of Turkish business which it now controls.

Francis Does Her Part PARIS—Few people realize the tough road that France has come, and the progress made in six years since the end of the war. France has met the Indo-China threat, and has been fighting international Communist aggression there—with greater casualties than the United States has had in Korea.

Francis kicked the Communist Party out of government in 1947. Next year the French licked the Communist coal strike. France joined the Marshall Plan in 1948 in spite of Communist Party intimidation.

Francis took the lead in organizing the Western European Union and joined the Atlantic Pact. French initiative was responsible for the Schuman plan to pool Western Europe's coal and iron production.

Gradually France has increased her military budget from zero to the present equivalent of $2,700,000,000. This is a fourth of the total French government budget and 10 per cent of France's $27,000,000,000 gross national product. To meet this budget, France has had to raise her taxes to $9,000,000,000 a year, a record high.

PARIS—In spite of the good showing France has made politically and militarily, its economic position still presents a tremendous weakness. Actually, the French worker is no better off now than he was in 1938.

If the cost of living index is figured at 100 for that year, the 1950 level is 1700. And there has been a 35 per cent increase to about 2,300 this year. How to stabilize the franc and head off this terrific inflation is the greatest problem that faces the French National Assembly when it meets next month.

In Western Australia an attempt is being made to develop hop-raising on a large scale.

Defense Effort Lags

Nothing could be more unfair than to demand that our Western Allies knuckle down harder while we ourselves permit vital defense efforts to lag. There is impressive evidence that this very thing is happening.
The able Senate Preparedness Committee under Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas has turned up defense production facts which are difficult to blink. For the period from April to June of this year, aircraft deliveries were 24 per cent below expectations; tank deliveries 40 per cent below; electronics equipment 30 per cent short, and guided missiles 70 per cent under the goal.
In all, deliveries for all kinds of weapons and equipment fell $600,000,000 behind projected objectives.
The committee properly chided Maj. Gen. George H. Olmsted, director of the Defense Department's military aid program, for attempting to conceal some of these facts.

When original schedules for arms shipments to Europe collapsed, his office simply lowered its sights to easier goals. Later, because these more limited aims were surpassed, the general misleadingly told newsmen overseas shipments were "well ahead of schedule."

This kind of performance has no place in a nation trying seriously to contribute the lion's share to defense of the free world. We cannot inspire confidence in the American government by resort to statistical trickery. Both the people at home and our friends abroad are entitled to a straight story.

In this case, the story is not a happy one. According to the Johnson report, our production deficiencies can be laid to shortages of materials, manpower and machine tools. We seem not to have learned the lesson of World War II—that ample provision for greatly expanded output of machine tools is fundamental to the entire defense effort.

These shortages exist, said the committee, because production is badly coordinated and because we Americans do not "have the courage to put guns ahead of butter." In other words, we are still too intent on maintaining business as usual and running the defense program as a sort of sideshow. The hard decisions that would give defense the dominating priority it needs are not being made.

All this means, of course, that neither we nor our Allies are getting the sort of defense we presumably want. For example, the Johnson committee declared "the sad fact is we do not have a modernized air fleet which begins to approach our target of 95 wings." To authorize 140-odd wings, as is contemplated, will only add to an illusion of strength which does not exist. We are still just paper-strong.

We are asking the Europeans to face the realities, to slash through the underbrush of preliminaries and get down to business. We had better practice what we preach.

"Sam, You Made The Pants Too Long"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson
Copyright, 1951, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.
Drew Pearson says: Brass ring goes to J. Howard McGrath; Attorney general has his eye on Supreme Court; Friendships come first with McGrath.

WASHINGTON — Those who have worked with likable Howard McGrath as attorney general say there are only two things wrong with him.
1. He seldom is around the place where he is supposed to work—the Justice Department.
2. He has his eyes so firmly fixed on the U. S. Supreme Court he is afraid to make any moves that might make enemies.

Real fact is that McGrath entered the Justice Department with every expectation of being upped to the Supreme Court within a year. Justice Stanley Reed, not in the best of health, was expected to retire. But Reed recovered. Meanwhile the policy of offending no one, established early in the McGrath regime, has drifted on.

Early in life, likewise, Howard got into the habit of offending no one. He learned that if you're lucky and don't rock the boat, things come your way. He also learned that if you exude enough charm, a reasonable degree of common sense, and know how to finesse friendships you can get along with most of the people most of the time—at least in a small state like Rhode Island.

McGrath's father was a prominent member of the Knights of Columbus and one of his father's jobs was to handle K. C. insurance. So, through his father, young Howard got to know most of the Irish in the small state of Rhode Island.
On top of this, Howard married the daughter of the leading French-Canadian, Estelle Cadorette, one of the loveliest ladies now in the cabinet. There is a heavy French population in Rhode Island, and the marriage didn't hurt him at all with French voters.

Shrewd Partnerships
In addition, McGrath formed a law partnership with the leading New England blue blood of the state, Theodore Francis Green, one of the most courageous members of the U. S. Senate.

It may have been pure accident, or it may have been—as the politicians say—because the Italian population is heavy in Rhode Island. But McGrath also formed a political partnership with John Pastore, Italian-American governor of the state, who took McGrath's seat in the Senate when he became attorney general.

With this array of nationalities behind him, nobody could lose in Rhode Island, and Howard has gone a long way. In the Senate he had an excellent record, while as attorney general he never has flinched at a case involving civil rights or human tolerance.

The chief trouble is that Howard doesn't have many opportunities to flinch; for the men below bring few complex or forthright cases to him for decision.

They know, first, that Howard isn't around much of the time to review cases; second, that the key tune of the Justice Department is pitched at a low, easygoing, make-few-enemies level.
They know, for instance, that their boss, the attorney general, was a leading figure in one of the big tax-avoidance foundations, Textron, set up as a charity trust, although it operated huge textile mills. There was nothing illegal about this, but when the man you are working for once drew a $15,000 salary merely for being a figure-head on a large tax-avoidance scheme, its doesn't encourage his subordinates to push tax prosecution.

Those who work in the Justice Department also know that McGrath's long has been part-owner of the Lincoln Downs race track. And while he has had absolutely no part in the gambling surrounding this activity, it's only natural that some of the A. G.'s subordinates should not feel too enthusiastic about cracking down on gambling.
Undoubtedly there is no connection, but they also know that the attorney general took a definite stand against deporting gambling king Frankie Costello when a fraud was discovered in his naturalization papers.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
If you happened to drop in on the national bridge tournament now being held in Detroit, half of the experts of your acquaintance would give you hard luck stories and the other half would probably tell you about all the mistakes their partners had made. Years of experience at this have taught me to look sympathetic and say "Tsk! Tsk!" every twenty seconds.

you're at the top of your game, your partner's mistakes sometimes work for you instead of against you.
For example, consider today's hand, which was played in the national championships of 1948. The hand played an important part in the victory of Helen Sobel, of New York and Margaret Wagar, of Atlanta, for the second year in a row.

Many experts thought that Mrs. Wagar's jump to four hearts was a distinct overbid. It certainly encouraged Mrs. Sobel to jump right to six hearts, a very shaky contract. I would hesitate to call Mrs. Wagar's jump to four hearts a "mistake" since any player with her magnificent tournament record has a right to her own ideas about jump raises. However, that's the sort of bid that you'd have to say "Tsk! Tsk!" about 't' it had turned out badly.

Actually, all turned out for the best. West happened to pick the deuce of diamonds as his opening lead. He couldn't have picked a more favorable lead.
Mrs. Sobel discarded a club from the dummy and captured the queen of diamonds with her ace. She continued with the ace and king of hearts, and then led the jack of diamonds through West.

West played low, and Mrs. Sobel boldly led the jack of diamonds trick. Fortunately for her, it held the trick, whereupon she ruffed a low diamond with the six of hearts. Next she cashed the ace and king of spades and ruffed a spade in her own hand. When the suit broke 3-3, she could afford a sigh or relief.

Mrs. Sobel next ruffed another diamond in dummy, catching West's king. This allowed her to lead an established spade from dummy, to discard the losing club. West could ruff, but that was the only trick he could take.

Students Simplify Yuletide Shopping

Christmas shopping isn't much of a problem for the eighth graders at John M. Cowden Junior High School. From inland wood coasters and leather belts for Mom and Dad to plastic jewelry for the best girl, they are making their own gifts this year in the school shop.
New equipment has been installed this year to enable them to do a great variety of work. They have a new drill press, band saw, lathe, jig saw and sander. There also is a new table saw that Bill Braley, new shop instructor, uses to prepare work for the boys and girls. Because of the possibility of an accident, students are not allowed to work with the saw.

Many new hand tools also have been added this year. Some of these have been made by the students themselves. Student assistants issue the tools and keep a careful check on each piece of equipment used in the shop.
Braley, who moved to Midland this year from Dimmitt, has a well-rounded program for his students. It includes elementary mechanical drawing and the reading of blue prints, woodwork, leathercraft, metal work, plastic and elementary wiring. In the latter the boys and girls learn the principles of currents, how batteries work, and other fundamentals.

Braley has 420 students enrolled in his classes. He teaches 210 of them each day. According to him, "The students enjoy their work and at the same time learn an interesting hobby or profitable vocation."

Q—When was the Cao Dai religion founded?
A—Founded only 25 years ago, the Cao Dai religion is becoming an important spiritual authority in Indo-China. The new faith preaches that Buddha, Christ and Confucius were all messengers sent by the same supreme God at different times to save mankind.

Q—What is the scientific name for chemical gardening?
A—Hydroponic. No soil is needed—only water, sawdust or sand, and chemicals. You can grow almost anything by means of this "chemical gardening."

Q—Is Friday considered an unlucky day in most countries of the world?
A—This superstition prevails almost everywhere in Christian countries. The association of Friday with ill-luck probably arose from the connection of this day with the Crucifixion.
Q—When did the Vatican City become an independent state?
A—The Vatican City was created as an independent state by the Lateran Treaty signed by Cardinal Gasparri and Premier Mussolini and ratified by the Pope in 1929.

Munitions Board Is Weakness Of Military Unification Plan

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—One of the big weaknesses of the military unification set-up which has been exposed by the Korean emergency is the Munitions Board.

The report of Senator Lyndon Johnson's Senate preparedness subcommittee, which lashes out at the slowness of the build-up of the services, says this about the board:

"One of the fundamental failures to effective procurement coordination has been the lack of an official, other than the secretary of Defense, in the Department of Defense with the authority and responsibility, and the sole job of overseeing and expediting procurement for all the military services, and resolving conflicts between them. It appears that the Munitions Board was intended by statute to perform that function."

However, three of the four members of the board are under secretaries from each of the three military departments. They cannot be expected to have the objective perspective required for unified procurement.

Each succeeding secretary of Defense has tried to do something about bolstering the board's authority and activities, but with not much success. No matter what has been done, the board has succeeded in remaining a kind of nebulous, upper atmosphere organization which never seemed to do anything more concrete than turn out dull reports about what had been purchased some time back. The board was not set up to do any purchasing itself, but sort of supervise and coordinate it.

Changes Haven't Helped
New chairmen came and went. Staffs were shifted. No matter how much personnel of the board was changed to get it a going concern, the result always was more of the same.

The most recent and drastic effort to improve the board was attempted last summer by Secretary of Defense Lovett. It aimed at providing a maximum centralization of control over military supply. Lovett ordered the services to furnish the board detailed production schedules. He gave the board authority to monitor and police all delivery times. He gave the board authority to change any orders of the individual services to avoid overstocking or duplication of orders.

He instructed the board to set up special task forces to see that special procurement programs were going smoothly. He gave the board power to allocate the scarce machine tools among the three services.

On top of that, Lovett wrote a regulation forcing the services to report to the Munitions Board any important deficiencies or bottlenecks which the board might not know about otherwise.

scribes the total strength of the hand and the strength in the unbid suits. A re-bid of only two spades would be an underbid, while a re-bid of 3 spades would exaggerate the strength of the suit in addition to being a slight overbid.

TODAY'S QUESTION
The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-7-4, Hearts A-Q-2, Diamonds 9-3, Clubs K-J-5. What do you do?
Answer Tomorrow

Perhaps not. At least she had better not brag too generally until the store grapevine had established Tommy's new secret important position at the House. This impulse to be careful was not an altogether happy one. And it seemed a little strange and lonely not to walk to work with Tommy as she usually did.

The new m/ow building which Trumbull & Co. had recently erected stood gleaming in the midwinter sunshine, and Alma, on the opposite corner, paused for a moment to gaze at it with a sort of obeisance to The House as a symbol of integrity. This was a quality which had been bound up in the fr-ils many years ago.

Old Victor Blanchard, her grandfather had been at Trumbull's for 60 years. Her father, Jules Blanchard, had been a touneyman-jeweler at The House upon his sudden death from pneumonia when Alma was only three years old. Then, six years ago, Papa Victor had brought her to work and presented her to the president of Trumbull's in much the same manner with which a knight of King Arthur's Court might have presented a young aspirant of his own blood to the service of the Round Table.

MR. Muncie did not show how deeply he was touched by the little ceremony, for emotional display had no place in his conception of permissible behavior, and he had concealed his interest in the youngster.

"She is far too young to be any good!" Mr. Muncie had declared, "and we don't take any apprentices any more, Mr. Victor."

"Ah! miss none, she is not an apprentice!" Old Victor's voice had been gentle but stubborn. "She is a workman of high skill! I have trained her myself. As for being too young, why! I was only 16 when my father first brought me to Mr. Trumbull at the old lower Broadway establishment, and I too, was already a skilled journeyman. Jules, my son, came to us at Union Square when he had just 19 years! I stake my reputation that you will not regret taking this young woman."

I have been running around together for years. Joe is devoted to you!"
"How do I know?" said Tommy, stamping out his cigarette viciously. "Maybe I don't know anything—except that right now I'm hungry. What happened to that dinner we were going to have?" Alma sprang up with her usual devoted obedience.

"I'll try and rescue it!" she said.
THE next morning Tommy left early Alma, still glowing from the happiness of the evening before, breakfasted and set the apartment to rights quickly and efficiently. Then she pulled a large hat that was beautiful but unfashionable down over her rough-cut copper-colored hair and stood for a long moment staring at the mirrored reflection of the full mouth and wide set gray eyes which dominated her face.

It was not, strictly speaking, a beautiful face, and Alma knew it. She was aware too that her body was just an average, gently rounded body looking neither older nor younger than her 26 years. As a rule Alma cared very little about her appearance excepting only that it be cleanly and devoid of the ridiculousness of too current fashion. But today, thinking of Tommy's surprising jealousy, she realized for the first time that she bore a certain intangible resemblance to Gran' Bijou.

"A French temperament and a New England conscience!" she said aloud. "That's me, and it's an awful combination!"

She picked up the lovely new fox stole and drew it around her tenderly, caressing it with her cheek. It was going to be a bit of triumph to be able to say Tommy had given it to her. or—and it was a chilling thought—ought she to mention that fact just yet?

DADDY RINGTAIL

Daddy Ringtail And Cloud Came Down

Mugwump Monkey, the monkey boy, stood out on the porch of the monkey house, high in the top of the very tall tree, there in the middle of the Great Forest.

Mugwump saw that fog was all around him, and above him, and below him too. The fog was wet gray air so thick that Mugwump could not see past the end of the porch. Too much fog. Mugwump could not see the chimney top of the house. Too much fog.

The fog was a cloud come down to earth. Daddy Ringtail had said, but Daddy Ringtail was busy in the kitchen with drying the dishes. Mugwump would have to slide on down to the ground by himself, he would, and see what else there was to see about the fog.

Mugwump did slide down to the ground, and what do you think he saw? He saw fog and more fog; wet and gray and thick. Why, no one could see very far past the end of his nose, even. The fog was much too thick and wet and gray.

Yes, and seeing things was so hard to do, nobody was walking or running about in the forest. Everything was warm and dry and snug inside his hollow log, or hollow tree, or den, or in whatever kind of house the animal-people happened to live in.

Only Mugwump Monkey was out in the fog, Mugwump decided, and so now his job was to see that everything was all right for everybody. He walked away down the Elephant Path, pushing through the fog. Yes, and the thick gray fog closed around him, and he was as much alone as though he were lost in another world. No one else was around or about, and so Mugwump now would look after things for everyone, except—who would look after Mugwump? Who on who would look after this boy?

Mugwump began to be a little afraid of being so alone and by himself in all the silence of the wet, gray fog. Mugwump was tempted to begin to run, but then he remembered. Nobody is ever alone, because the Heavenly Father is everywhere you go. God made the sun that shines. He made the clouds up high in the sky, and now He had made this cloud come down to earth to be a fog. Why, a fog was a happy thing after all, Mugwump decided. Happy day!

Police Find Second Jar Of Home-Made Rocket Propellant

HOUSTON—(AP)—A second jar of home-made rocket propellant—the same kind that killed one high school youth and injured three others November 21—was found by William Calvin Montgomery, Jr., one of the injured youths. He told Capt. W. W. Davis of the River Oaks police force that the jar was in the pocket of a coat in an automobile belonging to David Dillman 16. Dillman was injured in the November 21 explosion. Young Montgomery said the coat belonged to Ted Strong, killed in the blast. Captain Davis and Jesse Madden, assistant principal of Lamar High School, obtained the jar and called officials of San Jacinto Ordnance Depot.

Brilliant White Flash
Depot workers packed the jar in a container of water, surrounded by excelsior and sandbags. They used an electric detonator to explode the propellant at a testing area. A spokesman for the depot said the explosion made a brilliant white flash and it could be assumed that the substance was the same as that which took Strong's life. All four youths involved in the November 21 tragedy were brilliant chemistry students at Lamar High School. They planned to use the propellant they had mixed for a rocket they hoped to design according to a physics formula. Witnesses said the first mass of propellant was in a small pickle jar. Strong shook it, witnesses said. The explosion shook a wide area around the Lamar campus.

Lili St. Cyr Will Strip For Free In California Court

BEVERLY HILLS CALIF.—(AP)—Time was when you could turn up your coat collar, duck into a Main Street burlesque house, and watch Lili St. Cyr shuck her clothes for 85 cents. Later, after she moved to a plush night spot on Sunset Boulevard, the tab assumed the proportions of a $20 bill. There was no cover charge, because what could you say was covered? But food and drink come high where the lights and the music are low. Lili's next public performance, however, is going to be free. The jury trying Miss St. Cyr on charges of staging an indecent performance October 29 was informed by her attorney Tuesday that she will repeat her show in the courtroom. The idea, he said, would be to prove that when Lili strips to the buff, it isn't rough stuff, it's art.

K&F Club Speaker Urges MacArthur's Return To Pentagon

Advocating the use of atomic bombs and all other available weapons as a means of ending the Korean war promptly and successfully, John Morley, war correspondent and columnist, addressed 246 members of the Midland Knife and Fork Club at its meeting Tuesday night in the high school cafeteria. He also recommended the return to command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur during the Korean crisis, crediting the general with knowing more about Korea and the Far East than any other military man today.

Speaking straight from the shoulder and in a positive and forceful manner, Morley rapped politicians who "think more of the outcome of the next election than they do of the blood of young American men."

"I will honor you with the truth as I saw it," Morley, who recently returned from a global reporting assignment including the fighting front in Korea, told his large and appreciative audience.

The guest speaker was introduced by John Younger, Carroll L. Thomas, club president, presided, and the invocation was by Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

In a brief business session preceding the program, L. E. Patterson, Max David and Thornton Hardie, Jr., were elected K&F Club directors for three year terms.

Attired in the khaki uniform of a war correspondent, with "Korea—UN War Correspondent" shoulder patches, Morley spoke on the subject "A Correspondent's Unensored Report on World Crises."

He declared that America today faces one of the most shocking crises in her history and that this country can lose its freedom from within.

"So long as Russia is winning the economic war against the United States and so long as the Reds can undermine this and other free nations, why should Russia tackle the armies of the United States and the United Nations?" the speaker asked.

He said it is the belief of many military experts that Russia will not make war on the United States as long as she is convinced she cannot defeat the military might of this nation.

"The government is not giving you all the truth," Morley stated. "There are too many political shenanigans."

"We have got to call a spade a spade in this political crisis." He listed six things the "men who are dying in Korea want you to know"—(1) Ask the government to stop bowing to the Reds; (2) Invite the well-trained and well-equipped Chinese Nationalist troops on Formosa to fight with the UN troops in Korea; (3) Give the military the authority to run the war on military grounds; (4) Ask the government to send MacArthur back to the Pentagon during the Korean crisis; (5) Appoint diplomats on the basis of ability rather than on political alignment.

"Since July we have not been fighting the kind of a war in Korea our commanders are accustomed to fighting," Morley declared.

"The government hasn't had the courage to tell you the truth about the casualties and atrocities in Korea," he charged.

Morley also discussed the crisis in Iran, attributing the situation there not to oil, but to political blundering in Washington. The benefits and major mistakes of the Marshall Plan in Europe also were mentioned.

"God bless you and God bless this great country," was the concluding statement of his address. A prolonged applause followed.

Muscular Rheumatism Is More Painful Than Dangerous

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.

Written for NEA Service

Sometimes one really can be reassured about conditions which often cause as much distress of the mind as they do to the physical body. Mrs. M. L. T. writes "What is the cause of myostitis, or muscular rheumatism? Is it likely to affect the heart muscles and what are the chances of a complete cure?"

To answer Mrs. T's questions backwards, complete cure of muscular rheumatism is the rule and failure to recover entirely is the exception.

True muscular rheumatism is not

SANTA and the MAGIC MIRROR

by LUCRECE HUDGINS

AP Newsfeatures

SYNOPSIS: Belinda meets Mr. Lump's little boy, Thomas, who is very unhappy because he has never had a Christmas in his house. She decides to take Tommy to Santa in the department store.

CHAPTER TWO

THE MEAN MR. LUMP

TOMMY LUMP brushed the tears from his eyes and stared at Belinda.

"How could you take me to Santa?" he asked.

"Well," said Belinda, "of course it isn't really Santa. I mean it's Poppy. Poppy's my father and he's Santa Claus. Do you see?"

No, Tommy didn't see at all. So Belinda explained how Poppy had a job as a department store Santa and since Tommy had never seen a Santa Claus Belinda would take him to see Poppy. And moreover, she said, she was sure Poppy would be able to do something about Tommy Lump's father who never let Christmas come into his house.

Tommy listened eagerly to all this but at the end he shook his head hopelessly. "My father would never permit it," he said.

"I will ask your father," said Belinda and she ran up the marble steps to the door.

"Oh, don't!" cried Tommy, leaping to his feet. "You don't know—"

But Belinda was already standing in the vast hall of the cold, sad house and knocking at the door.

Now I want to tell you about Jeremiah Lump, Tommy's father. He was a mean and miserable man. There wasn't room in his life for anything except money. He filled the banks with money and then he dug a big hole in the floor of his cellar and buried money there.

He didn't live like a rich man because he couldn't bring himself to spend the money for grand furnishings or servants or automobiles or even clothes. So even though he made a great deal of money in business the money never did anything but take up more space under the cellar floor.

His wife was dead and he lived alone with his son, Thomas. He never brought clothes for the boy until the old ones were in rags. He never brought the boy a toy or took him to a circus or a theatre or on a vacation because those things cost money and Mr. Lump was too mean to spend money.

ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL

Glynn Love, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Love, 205 South Jefferson Street, was admitted to Midland Memorial Hospital Monday as a medical patient.

MEDICAL PATIENT

Larry Tracy, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Tracy of Young's Trailer Court, entered Midland Memorial Hospital Monday as a medical patient.

He Was the Meanest Looking Man Belinda Had Ever Seen or Dreamed of.

BELINDA did not know all this about Mr. Lump. She only knew he was a rich man and it was a shame Tommy had never seen Santa Claus and she, Belinda, was going to do something about it.

When she got no answer to her knock at the door she touched it gently and it opened. She waved back at Tommy, said, "I'll be right back!" and walked in.

It was so dark in the house she could hardly see. But she didn't have to worry about bumping into furniture because there was hardly any to bump.

She wandered around until she saw a light in a little room at the back of the house. She went in and there, at a desk, sat Mr. Lump.

"I'm Belinda," said Belinda gently. "I've come to see—"

Mr. Lump sprang up and a handful of papers scattered to the floor. He had been adding columns of figures and he was furious because he had added to 473,895 dollars and now he would have to start all over again.

He glared at Belinda from beneath great black eyebrows. He was the meanest looking man Belinda had ever seen or dreamed of.

He never said a word. Just glared. Belinda lost her voice entirely. Presently she felt her knees begin to shake. She smiled faintly at Mr. Lump the way you would if you found yourself in a cage with a lion and you wanted the lion to know you meant it no harm.

But a growl began curling up in Mr. Lump's throat and Belinda stopped smiling and turned and ran out of the house.

"I told you I told you!" cried Tommy, standing on the steps. "He won't even talk to children!"

"Does he know you are out here?" she asked Tommy.

The boy nodded. "I guess so. I just sit here all day."

Belinda took his hand. "Come with me, Tommy. We'll go see Santa."

The boy stood up and took Belinda's hand. "I'll go!" he said.

With a breathless laugh the two children ran down the sidewalk and disappeared around the corner. Not a moment too soon either, for hardly had they gone than the door opened and Mr. Lump stormed out on the marble stairs of the house.

Reds Stand—

(Continued From Page One) would have the effect of removing foreign troops from Korea. This was one of the Red's first political demands. Under the Red plan, troops leaving for sickness, injury, rotation or expired enlistment couldn't be replaced.

The broadcast also charged the Communist "are more interested in building airstrips for war than in rebuilding the country for peace."

Communist negotiators said they weren't yet ready to answer the Allied request to put another subcommittee to work on the problem of exchanging prisoners. The Allies proposed this in hopes of getting an armistice by December 27, the deadline set for making the tentative cease-fire line effective.

No Country Selected
UN Command communique said one thing was accomplished at Wednesday's session. That was the identification of the sort of countries the Reds were willing to have supervise a peace. Countries named were precisely what had been expected.

Both the communique and UN spokesman, Col. Howard Lewis, cautioned that no country was selected; this was just an exploratory phase.

The Allies have not accepted the Red's neutral supervision idea. The UN Command wants free-roving, Allied-Red joint teams.

The Communist subcommittee members named only Poland and Czechoslovakia. Under questioning from the UN, they agreed Switzerland, Sweden and Denmark were all right, too.

But the Allied questioning on other points was not so successful. The communique said, "The Communists repeatedly gave evasive answers or refused to answer."

American-British Party Makes Second Raid In North Korea

SEOUL, KOREA —(AP)— An Allied raiding party stormed ashore deep behind Red lines on the east coast Monday in the second hit-and-run raid in two nights.

Black-faced American Marines and British Commandos scaled a cliff and attacked a vital Communist rail line south of Songjin, about 185 miles north of Pusan.

Shells from the U. S. destroyer Tingey pounded the rail line farther north.

Allied Naval headquarters in Korea said the night raiders left an unknown number of Communist dead. The Allies suffered only two casualties.

No Ground Fighting
There was no report of any serious ground action along the frost-bitten front lines.

South Korean troops pushed home their attack on bandits and Red guerrillas in the Chiri Mountains, far behind Allied lines in South Korea. Tuesday, the South Koreans reported their biggest haul of the campaign: 407 prisoners taken and 57 killed.

The Commando-Marine attack south of Songjin was launched from the fast attack transport Horace A. Bass. When the raiding party hit the top of the cliff, the Reds opened fire and threw grenades.

The Allied striking force fought back fiercely at pointblank range. The Navy reports did not say whether any damage was inflicted on the closely-guarded rail line. In Sunday night's attack, in the same area, raiders blasted a tunnel with bazookas.

Yugoslavia Grants Freedom To Catholic Archbishop Sjepinac

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA —(AP)— Communist Yugoslavia Wednesday gave Mgr. Alojzije Sjepinac his conditional freedom, making it clear he could not work with government approval resume his duties as Roman Catholic primate of Yugoslavia.

The official news agency Tanjug announced the spiritual leader of Yugoslavia's seven million Catholics would live in a parish house at his native village of Rasce, near the Croatian capital of Zagreb.

Mgr. Sjepinac was sentenced five years ago to 16 years in prison. He denied the charges of wartime collaboration with the Axis and post-war plotting to overthrow the regime of Premier Marshal Tito.

The 53-year-old archbishop had spent the five years in a small two-room cell in Croatia's Lepoglava Prison.

First Leader Imprisoned
His arrest and trial aroused Catholic indignation throughout the world. He was the first high Catholic leader to be imprisoned on Eastern Europe after the war.

It was not until Feb. 8, 1949, that Josef Cardinal Mindszenty was sentenced to life imprisonment in Communist Hungary.

Unlike Cardinal Mindszenty, who "confessed" to charges of espionage, anti-state activities and black marketing in Hungary, Sjepinac denied all the charges against him.

Although the Vatican and Roman Catholic leaders throughout the world denounced the trial and conviction of Sjepinac, there never was a suggestion that he had been mistreated physically. Western observers at the later Budapest trial of Cardinal Mindszenty expressed belief Mindszenty had been drugged or tortured into making a submissive confession.

Lubbock, Wink To Advance In Grid Playoff Contests

By LARRY KING
Reporter-Telegram Sports Editor

The two West Texas teams remaining in the school-boy state championship playoffs—Lubbock and Wink—get the nod in The Reporter-Telegram's selections this weekend.

Both, however, meet worthy opponents. Wink takes on unbeaten, untied Abernathy at 2 p.m. Friday in Lubbock. The Wildcats, however, also are unbeaten and have faced better opponents. So its Wink 28, Abernathy 13 from this quarter.

Saturday afternoon, Lubbock takes on Arlington Heights of Fort Worth at Lubbock. The Westerners—rated the best schoolboy eleven in the state—still are unbeaten. They also defeated Abilene—a team which downed Arlington Heights, 20 to 14—by a margin of 34 to 20. Improving Arlington Heights probably will make it interesting, however. We see it this way: Lubbock 27, Arlington Heights 14. That's a AAAA battle.

Ray Over Baytown
In the other AAAA game, The Reporter-Telegram calls for Ray of Corpus Christi—coached by O. W. Poliss, 1950 Lamesa coach—to upset favored Baytown. Baytown and Ray both had rough battles last week, the Baytown team winning on penetrations over powerful Lamar of Houston—an outfit to which it had lost 13-6, earlier in the year. Ray edged Waco, 21-20, after overcoming a 9-13 halftime disadvantage. But call it Ray 27, Baytown 20.

Breckenridge—which last week humbled Midland, 33 to 14—will be a one to two touchdown underdog against undefeated Grand Prairie. However, The Reporter-Telegram sports department must string along with Kenneth Ford and Coach Cooper Robbins' eleven, 28 to 14. This one is Saturday at Breckenridge.

Brownville will be lucky to escape with a touchdown against mighty Temple, in a Class AAA game Friday night at Brownville. Call it Temple 28, Brownville 6.

Childress Over Anson
Class AA Anson—which last week dumped Kermit from the race with a 28 to 6 pounding—runs into rugged Childress at Wichita Falls Friday afternoon.

Childress is used to "big-time" ball, having been in the same loop with Wichita Falls and other powers until this year. This year, Amarillo could defeat Childress only 19 to 7 and Childress romped on Electric easily, 34 to 13—the same team Anson had to go all-out to defeat, 9-7.

So in spite of Anson's fine record, its Childress 19, Anson 13. In other AA games it looks this way: Arlington 27, Pleasant Grove 6; LaVega 13, Huntsville 6, and Donna 20, Lamar (Rosenberg) 14.

Class A games, in addition to the Wink-Abernathy contest, pit Newcastle against Hawkins Friday afternoon at Denton; Cedar Bayou against Giddings and Industrial (Vanderbilt) against Pearsall, Newcastle before.

The Newcastle-Hawkins game will bear watching, from a West Texas standpoint. This especially is true should Wink win, for the Wildcats would meet the winner of the tilt. A "dream" contest would pit Wink and Newcastle, as Wink has one of the best offensive outfits in the state and Newcastle is very rough defensively, having allowed but six points to be scored against it in 12 games. Newcastle gets the nod over Hawkins, 19-0. It's Cedar Bayou 7, Giddings 0, and Pearsall 21, Industrial (Vanderbilt) 14.

Kazmaier Piles Up Big Margin; Wins 1951 Heisman Award

NEW YORK—(AP)—Dick Kazmaier, Princeton's star fullback, is the 1951 winner of the coveted Heisman Award.

Kazmaier captured the honor, given annually by the New York Downtown Athletic Club to the outstanding football player in the nation, in a landslide.

The Princeton triple threat back collected 1,777 points, highest ever amassed by a player in the 17 years of voting.

Tail-back Hank Lauricella of Tennessee finished second with 424 votes and Babe Parilli of Kentucky came home third with 344. Larry Ibaull of Baylor was seventh and Jim Weatherall of Oklahoma twelfth.

Tilt With Odessa Is Called Off

The MHS basketballers didn't take a holiday Tuesday, but zipped through a snappy workout under the appraising eye of Coach F. D. (Red) Rutledge.

Several members of the football squad have joined the cagers and Rutledge has the hopefuls hard at work preparing for the 1951-52 season.

"It's too early to name a starting lineup," Rutledge said Wednesday. "However, I think we'll be better this season than we were last year."

Rutledge said the basketball game with Odessa—which was scheduled at Odessa Friday night—will be canceled due to the polio epidemic. That means barring changes within the next few days, Midland will open its non-conference schedule here December 11 against visiting San Angelo!

Returning Midland letterman include Corky Moss, a center who towers six feet, two inches; John Van Buskirk, guard; Ralph Brooks, guard, and forward and Forward Robert Keising. Boys up from the B squad who might help are Johnny Kennedy, Spec Culppepper and Jesse Hatfield.

Culppepper averaged 20 points per game with the B squad last season and Rutledge said Wednesday: "He's still hitting the bucket!"

Midland's 1-AAA foes on the hardwood will include Lamesa, Vernon, Plainview, Sweetwater and Big Spring. Vernon and Lamesa expect to be the top teams, the Dusters having four starters from the 1950-51 team returning, including Ramon Towery who was an all-district selection.

Lamesa will have to get along without Jerry Millsaps, star guard, during the non-conference games. Millsaps recently broke a thumb during workouts, but expects to be ready to go into conference play. Midland goes to Plainview January 22 to open the loop action.

Shannon Winds Up In Salad Bowl Against Dayton

HOUSTON—(AP)—Just one more game and Gene Shannon will complete his college football career. The fleet halfback of University of Houston has the nation's best average per carry.

His last appearance as a collegian comes in the Salad Bowl at Phoenix January 1 when Houston plays Dayton.

He has totaled 1,058 yards on 144 carries this season—an average of 7.3 per run.

The blond senior broke all previous records at the university in ball-toting, scoring an over-all average. He has played in 30 games, scored a total of 186 points and ground out a net total rushing of 2,410 yards on 372 carries for a 6.5 average.

In the three years Shannon has lost only 92 yards rushing, 58 of which were lost in his first two years, 1949-50.

One of the biggest on-the-fire deals cooking in the baseball world is taking place between officials of the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankee teams.

It's a giant deal of history-making importance which might see Ted Williams move out of Fenway Park and into Yankee Stadium in exchange for Joe DiMaggio and other bounty.

The Red Sox would like to have Infielder Gerry Coleman, Catcher Charlie Silveira and one other Yankee—although the Yanks may be reluctant to part with four players in exchange for Teddy, sometimes something of a temperamental prima donna.

Lou Boudreau, new pilot of the Red Sox, insists he is "taking Williams off the block because we haven't received any good offers." But the real story is this, according to baseball insiders: The Yanks would like to land Williams—to replace the fading DiMaggio as a drawing card—and told the Red Sox officials: "Wait until DiMaggio tells us his plans. If he's willing to play again, we'll make you a good offer for Williams, with DiMaggio included in the deal."

And how will this affect DiMaggio, who has been a star in the house that Ruth built since 1926? He's tickled pink, according to his friends. Joe feels that with the hovering left field wall in the freak Boston ball orchard he might regain some of his lost power, if not youth.

Huge Yankee Stadium now presents too much of an obstacle for the once-brilliant but now faltering outfielder.

Boudreau wants to trade Williams—and he wants to do so badly. It's no secret he and Slugger Ted kept away from each other during last season and exchanged very few words.

The boy wonder, who became a major league manager at the age of 24, doesn't think he can field a winner at Boston with Williams on the team. Now 34, and a man with the courage of his own convictions, Boudreau told owner Tom Yawkey he would insist on a five-year contract if Williams is to remain on the club. His exact words were: "I value my insides too much. If Williams stays, I want insurance in my job."

Williams, on the other hand, resented Boudreau as a dangerous invader to his Red Sox domination when Lou joined the team last year. Now that's Boudreau the manager, his feelings probably have increased.

Boudreau is confident DiMaggio still can kick up a lot of thunder—especially in Fenway Park—and he thinks Joe might provide the "spark" which would end the yearly fade-outs becoming so humiliating to Boston eyes and ears.

Lou's attitude toward Williams: "The Red Sox haven't got anywhere with Williams. He may hit great in New York. But at least we've got a chance to do something ourselves."

Lou wants all-out determination from his players next season. He thinks DiMaggio can foster it.

In the games he played, The Clipper would fill Williams' old left field berth in Fenway Park. He always played the wall to perfection while Williams is no machine in the outfield.

The deal, if closed, would unite the two brothers of baseball's greatest family, Domino and Joe.

And it's very, very possible such a deal will go through.

Trautman Says Broadcasts Hurt Minors

COLUMBUS, OHIO—(AP)—George Trautman sounded a grim warning Wednesday that minor league baseball cannot long survive the "radio umbrella" of major league broadcasts.

The president of the National Association of Minor Leagues told the opening session of the Golden Jubilee convention "the solution is squarely in the hands of the individual club."

"It is the legal right (and moral obligation), said Trautman, for each individual club to exercise a reasonable restraint over its broadcasting and telecasting policies.

The minor league delegates were reminded that their structure shrunk from 59 leagues and 444 clubs in '49 to 49 leagues and 356 clubs in '51 while attendance declined from 43,100,000 in '49 to 27,500,000 last season.

Hard To Understand
"It is difficult to understand" said Trautman, "how any major league club could conceive it to be in its ultimate interest to engage in virtually unrestrained broadcasting. Certainly the immediate receipts cannot be the justification."

Calling the 24-hour recall a tool that makes a "whistle stop" of a minor league town for the benefit of a higher club, "Trautman asked for its abolition."

Trautman advised the delegates to give "serious and favorable consideration" to the proposed new high school boys on the same basis as agents of other sports.

Trautman proudly reported passing of another season without scandal but warned that baseball must never relax its fight on the gambling evil.

Ted Daffer Named As Top Lineman

NEW YORK—(AP)—Ted Daffer, guard on Tennessee's Sugar Bowl-bound team, Wednesday was named lineman of the week in the final Associated Press poll of the season.

Tennessee is the nation's No. 1 team. Daffer also was named the lineman of the week in the final poll of the 1950 season.

His fine work against Vanderbilt last Saturday brought him this week's laurels. Tennessee won, 35-7.

Tennessee's third touchdown came when Daffer blocked a Vandy punt. He slowed down Vanderbilt's star passer, Bill Wade, by his constant rushing.

Bill Athey, Baylor guard, played a terrific defensive game against Rice. He stopped all plays directed at his position and on four occasions threw Rice backs for losses. He made tackles all over the field and recovered a fumble that set up a touchdown.

"Athey was terrific," praised Coach George Sauer. "I never saw a greater game played by a lineman."

Herschel Forester, Southern Methodist guard, was highly praised for his play against Texas Christian. He twice dumped TCU backs for losses within the TCU five, plays that led to a safety.

Morgan Williams, TCU tackle, and Dick Hightower, SMU center, were other linemen getting votes in the final poll.

Texans Named To Small College All-America Squad

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty-two players—athletes representing schools not in the national limelight—won honors Wednesday on The Associated Press' annual Little College All-America football team for 1951.

There is nothing "little" about the players themselves, nor of their ability. The squad, divided for the first time into offensive and defensive units, averages six feet, one inch in height with some of the linemen pushing the scales to 245 pounds. The average age is 22.

Twenty-two colleges are represented on the first team, with only halfback Robert Miller of Emory & Henry, repeating from the 1950 selections. Miller started the 1951 season at a furious pace, slumped in mid-season but closed well enough to assure his return to the top team.

In the backfield with him on the all-star offensive aggregation are Robert Flanagan of St. Ambrose, one-time Notre Dame freshman who is giving up another year of eligibility to become a priest; Joe Parr of the unbeaten Valparaiso University team; and Ralph Di Micco of Alfred's unblemished outfit. Parr moved up from last year's second team.

The offensive line is centered by James Hazlett of Susquehanna. He passed up chances to play for larger and more widely known colleges for the privilege of playing under Coach A. A. Stagg, Sr., at the little Pennsylvania College State, whose club was unbeaten this year, has refused to pick "all" teams since the day his friend, Walter Camp, fostered the idea.

Stagg comments "Just say," said Stagg, "that without Jim Hazlett, Susquehanna would not have enjoyed the success it did this year."

Standouts of the first team are the guards, William Dawkins of Florida State, and William Chai of College of Emporia. The latter is a squat 200-pound Hawaiian and was the bulwark of the Kansas' unbeaten year. Dawkins, also 200 but eight inches taller than Chai, is a two-way player and gained almost as much recognition for line-backing as for his offensive prowess.

Two young giants, Lester Wheeler of Abilene Christian and Robert Williamson of San Francisco State, man the tackle posts while Dale Bruce of Ohio Wesleyan and Halde Norman of Gustavus Adolphus are the flankers. Wheeler and Williamson each is over 6-3 and the Californian is a lead 225-pounder.

Three players stand out in the defensive squad with top honors going to Tito Carinci of Xavier at Cincinnati. That young man, an even six feet in height and 207 pounds in weight, loves the line backing job where he can slam into opposing ball carriers. He is the object of numerous pro football scouts.

The other two defensive stalwarts are Ken Spencer, the St. Lawrence line-backer, a n d George Young, Bucknell tackle. Young, heaviest man on either first team at 245 pounds and standing 6-2, worked with such diligence that he was No. 1 on the Pennsylvania State all-college team. That meant he pushed aside athletes within the state who were playing for such famed colleges as

Braves May Give Up Spahn To Get Infield Strength

COLUMBUS, OHIO (AP)—Fully aware they must revamp their porous infield if they are to figure in flag contention, the Boston Braves are resigned to taking the wraps off southpaw Warren Spahn, to plug their weak shortstop position.

This came to light Wednesday when The Associated Press learned that the Braves were prepared to trade Spahn, one of the best pitchers in baseball, to the Philadelphia Phillies for shortstop Granby Hamner and righthander Emory (Bubba) Church.

Trading the 31-year-old Spahn, a four-time 20 game-plus winner, is one of the toughest decisions the Braves ever have been forced to make. General Manager John Quinn and Manager Tommy Holmes, however, have become convinced that is the only move they can make to strengthen the club where it is weakest. The Braves ranked sixth in double plays last season.

Spahn won 22 and lost 14 last season. Church, five years younger than Spahn, had a 14-11 record in his first full campaign. Promoted to a regular berth in June of 1950, the Birmingham righthander wound up with an 8-6 record. Hamner, regarded as one of the best shortstops in the National League, skidded a bit following a spectacular 1950 season, batting .255 in 150 games. A brilliant glove man, Hamner is only 24.

The only hitch is that the Phils are demanding a replacement at shortstop and want the veteran Sibby Sisti, who can fill in at any infield position. Sisti batted .279 in 114 games. Buddy Kerr and John Logan, who divided the regular shortstop berth last year, bated .186 and .219, respectively.

The Braves also have been negotiating with the Chicago Cubs for Third Baseman Ransom Jackson, one of the better young infielders in the circuit. The Cubs have asked for First Baseman Earl Torgeson in return. Jackson, 25, is a long ball hitter and an excellent fielder. While he hit only 273 in 145 games, he walked 186 home runs, stole 14 bases and batted in 76 runs. Torgeson, who will be 28 years old PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Young Bob Goode finally is producing in the manner expected of the former Texas A&M crusher. Goode has hurled his 220 pound frame into opposing National Football League team lines 163 times for 736 yards to lead the league in ground gaining. Goode gained an even 100 yards Sunday as his team lost to the Philadelphia Eagles. He now holds a 44 yard advantage over Deacon Dan Towler of Los Angeles.

Towler's 692 yards on 96 carries rates him ahead of Eddie Price of the New York Giants (662-214), John Dettley, Chicago Bears (610-116), and Bob (Hunchy) Hoernsmeyster, Detroit (602-105). Tobin Rote of Green Bay is the league's ninth leading ground gainer, but has the best average of 8.8 yards. Rote has gained 451 yards on 51 attempts.

Norman Van Brocklin of the Rams leads the passers for the eighth straight week. Van Brocklin now has gained 1,525 yards on 81 completions for a 9.3 average. He has thrown 13 touchdown passes.

Discovered By Humble
The Goens lime was discovered early in November by Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Bronte Gas Unit while that project was drilling for the Strawn gas pay. The Humble test drilled on to the Strawn for completion after having kicked off and flowed at the rate of 30 barrels of 50.5-gravity oil per hour on a two hour and nine minute drillstem test at 4,855-5,867 feet in the Goens lime.

Wind, Rain Batter Pacific Northwest

By The Associated Press
Wind and rain storms which battered the Pacific Northwest states, causing four deaths and heavy property damage, appeared diminishing Wednesday.
Gales of 70 to 75 miles an hour swept areas in Oregon and Washington Tuesday in the storm which extended north to British Columbia and south to California.
Three of the dead in the storm area were crushed by falling trees. The fourth died when the storm winds overturned his pickup truck, crushing him as he attempted to jump clear.
Transportation was disrupted throughout the storm belt. Communications were knocked out as power and telephone lines were snapped. Dikes broke in the Tacoma area, flooding pasture lands. Business houses in the waterfront district were threatened by floodwaters. The hardest hit area in Oregon was the Coos Bay area on the southern coast.
