City earmarks Kids Zone for renovation project

Vandalism all too common at Comanche Trail Park, and the playground is no exception, officials say

By THOMAS JENKINS
Staff Writer

One of the hot spots for area youth will be closed the beginning of next week, as city crews prepare to make some much-needed repairs to the Kids Zone playground at Comanche Trail Park.

According to Todd Darden, director of public works for the city of Big Spring, the playground will be closed Monday through Wednesday in order to make some regular — and not so regular — repairs.

“Part of this is just regularly scheduled maintenance,” said Darden. “We’ll go in and seal the wood and fix any of the fixtures that have become loose. A lot of the bolts and screws used in the structure get loose over time and can make it an unsafe environment, so we’ll go in and take care of all of that.

“Not all of it’s just maintenance, however. We also have quite a bit of vandalism to repair. People go out there and tear things up, knocking wooden planks off the structure and things like that.”

Darden said vandalism is common at Comanche Trail Park, a problem he and his crews see on a daily basis.

“Kids Zone is handicap accessible, and we’ve had people go in and steal the hand rails before,” said Darden. “They’ve taken boulders and rocks and just thrown them through the planking. So much of the structure is wood, it really doesn’t take much to tear it up.

“It’s not just Kids Zone. We have the same problem all over the park. We recently

County looks at new site for proposed jail

Commissioners to consider 144-bed facility Monday

By THOMAS JENKINS
Staff Writer

Howard County commissioners are expected to vote on a 144-bed jail facility to be located on a two-block plat on North Highway 87 during their Monday meeting, possibly bringing more than a year of internal struggle to an end.

If approved, the resolution would call for the facility to be located within blocks 34 and 35 of the Bauer Addition, of which the county already owns a portion of the properties.

“It’s where the old Broughton Tractor house used to be. It’s in that area where the lot is vacant,” said Crooker. “The county owns a part of the property. There are

Monday’s agenda calls for Commissioner Gary Simer to rescind the motion he made during

Love of flying links celebrities, museum

Call 264-1999 for reservations to the Silver Wings Ball.

By BILL MCCLELLAN
News Editor

What do actor John Travolta, Harrison Ford and the Hangar 25 Air Museum have in common? A love of flying, of course.

Among the items up for auction during this year’s Silver Wings Ball is a Travolta-autographed poster advertising his 2005 movie, “Be Cool.”

“We were excited about receiving it,” said Heather Wallace, museum director. “Along with it, his wife (actress Kelly Preston) wrote a note and expressed an interest in the museum and in what we were doing. She said any time they could help out, to let her know. That’s wonderful that they would care about the Hangar 25 Air Museum.”

Travolta is a licensed jet pilot with a passion for aviation. That passion also lives within Ford, who pilots planes and helicopters and is the Experimental Aircraft Association’s chairman of

‘Big Steps For Big Spring’ is YMCA healthy living incentive

Special to the Herald

The Big Spring YMCA wants local residents to hit the road — minus their cars, of course.

“Big Steps For Big Spring” is a program the YMCA is offering to encourage community members to make healthy living a reality.

Anyone who registers for the free program pledges to walk at least 2,000 steps a day and eat 100 fewer calories by reducing the amount of junk food consumed per day, said Pete Thiry, executive director of the local YMCA.

Thiry

To help participants reach their walking goal, the YMCA will distribute pedometers to all participants. The pedometers are free, thanks to a donation by the Dora Roberts Foundation, Thiry said.

Participants can wear their pedometers daily at work or play and jot down their daily total in a journal. Recognition will be given those who accomplish various goals and milestones.

Special events will be held in conjunction with the Big Steps program, including America on the Move Week in September. The goal for this designated week, Thiry said, is to track the total number of steps Americans take during the week.

To participate, all one needs to do is register at the YMCA and attend one of the scheduled bimonthly meetings beginning

ONE OF THE FAMILY

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A pug puppy rejected by his mother has found a new, more welcoming family — a cat and her three kittens.

Kelly Kent said her 2-year-old cat, Zoey, has been nursing the black pug puppy since late March. Zoey doesn’t usually like dogs but seems to have made an exception, Kent said. The puppy, who belongs to Kent’s neighbor, is about the same size as Zoey’s kittens and regularly lines up for milk with his adopted feline siblings.

In nature, it is not unusual for mothers to adopt, even if the baby is of another species, said William Shepherd, a Uniontown veterinarian.

LEGAL AID SEEKS HELP

Legal Aid of Northwest Texas is seeking private attorneys to volunteer in one of two monthly legal clinics. The clinics are held every first and third Wednesday of each month.

Volunteers are asked to participate in one clinic a month for about two hours in the afternoon.

Legal Aid of Northwest Texas will be providing short informative sessions at 11 a.m. May 4 and May 17 at the Northside Community Center, 108 E. NE Eighth Street. If you cannot attend but would like more information, contact Pete Fierro, EJVP coordinator, at 432 686-0647 or 800 926-5330.

FREE IMMUNIZATIONS

Next week is National Infant Immunization Week and the Texas Department of State Health Services at 501 Birdwell Lane, Suite 28B, will be giving free shots to children.

The immunizations will be given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Parents should bring the child’s shot record or a note from school to the clinic.

“It’s important for children age 9 and under to get their first flu immunization if they’ve never had one,” the clinic stated in a news release. It’s also important to ensure children have all their vaccinations by age 2 and that 4-year-olds receive boosters. Questions? call 263-9775.

Joyce Williams

The laughter has fallen silent for Joyce Glenn (Croft) Williams, who died at the Dammert Geriatric Center in Belleville, Ill., Dec. 23, 2005, of pneumonia.

Born Nov. 5, 1921, to L.W. and Bess (Boyd) Croft, Joyce was a native of Big Spring. While she spent most of her life outside of the state she loved, Joyce proved that one could not take the state out of the girl.

Her charming Texas twang and infectious laugh easily endeared Joyce to her Midwestern friends.

Although she couldn't tell a joke, Joyce surrounded herself with loyal friends who, like her, loved life and laughter. She enjoyed spending hours sitting around the table, engaged in witty conversation.

Ever the optimist, Joyce pragmatically chose to see the good in people. A patriotic American, she loved the sound of the fighter jets at Webb Air Force Base, where she eventually worked and met her future husband.

Joyce and Walter Dakin Williams, brother of the late playwright Tennessee Williams, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary earlier this year. Together they enjoyed attending Tennessee's Broadway openings and socializing with the A-list celebrities of the era.

A stay-at-home Mom to their adopted daughters, Francesca (Darrell Burson) Williams and Anne Caserta, Joyce instilled in them her love of Texas and family via annual visits to Texas. They, along with Dakin, granddaughters, Gianna and Christina and cousins survive.

In later years, Joyce relied on her joyful Texas exuberance to hide the pain she uncomplainingly endured from one affliction after another, including breast cancer, spinal fractures, osteoarthritis and macular degeneration.

Losing her eyesight was an unexpected blow to a woman who had hoped to spend her final years reading, writing letters and putting photos in albums.

Although she courageously recovered from breaking her hip in July, numerous bouts with pneumonia finally took their toll.

The modest, little red-haired girl from West Texas is finally at peace, free from pain.

"The eyes of Texas are upon you."

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Macular Degeneration Foundation.

Herr Funeral Home of Collinsville, Ill., is in charge of arrangements.

Graveside services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, April 29, 2006, at Trinity Memorial Park.

Howard College trustees expected to add another professor emeritus

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Howard College trustees are expected to add another professor emeritus to the district ranks when they hold their regular meeting at 12:30 p.m. Monday in the East Room of Garrett Coliseum.

Professors emeriti are usually retired instructors at a college or university who are honored for their long careers at the institutions by retaining the professor title, HC President Dr. Cheryl Sparks said.

Sparks said there were currently seven or eight professors emeriti on the district's rolls.

To qualify for the honorary title at Howard, the person must be retired from the faculty, served as a faculty member for at least 20 years and be retired from the district.

The honoree must be recommended by at least three current faculty members. Final recommendation to trustees is made by Sparks.

In other business Monday, trustees will consider:

- Resolutions honoring retiring nursing instructor Velma Clay and work done on campus by inmates at the Texas Department of Criminal Justice Wallace and Ware units.

- A congressional resolution sponsored by U.S.

Rep. Randy Neugebauer honoring the HC men's basketball team for its recent regional championship.

- A memorandum of understanding between the college and the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf Foundation.

- Contract renewal for the district's 125 full-time instructors.

Darden said he won't have an estimate on the cost of the damages until his crews begin repairs, but it's a problem the citizens of Big Spring can help prevent.

"We can't have eyes everywhere. That's why we really need help from the citizens," said Darden.

Contractor said he filed lien because he was owed money

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Richard Higgins, who has filed a lien against property owned by the Forsan school superintendent, said he took that action because he is owed money for work he did on the property.

Higgins, who until recently was supervisor of Forsan school construction projects authorized by a $4.9 million bond issue, recently filed a lien against property owned by Randy Johnson, superintendent of Forsan ISD.

Grimes and Associates, the chief consultant to Forsan ISD during the project, dismissed Higgins from his position earlier this year.

Higgins was living on the property prior to his dismissal as supervisor of the construction projects. Soon afterward, he filed a lien against the property with the Howard County Clerk's Office.

He said he filed the lien because he was owed money for work and other improvements he did on the property.

During their Monday night board meeting, Forsan school trustees voted to give Johnson a helping hand in the dispute in the form of paying for some legal fees.

Contacted this week, Johnson acknowledged Higgins' statements regarding the lien, but declined further comment until the matter is settled.

OUR VIEWS

It's time to take credit for a job very well done

All right, now it's time to take a bow. That's right ... go ahead ... don't be embarrassed. Take a bow Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison. You, too, Congressman Randy Neugebauer. Big Spring, you deserve to take a bow as well, as do the thousands of veterans here in West Texas who make their feelings known about the need to keep the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Big Spring open.

Sen. Hutchison, Rep. Neugebauer and Under Secretary for Veterans Affairs Dr. Jonathan B. Perlin made the announcement Thursday afternoon that not only would the VA Medical Center in Big Spring stay right where it is, but it would be growing.

Perlin said the decision to keep the facility open is the result of an exhaustive study by the department, and there's no question that if veterans would have been better served by a facility located elsewhere, the VA would have closed the hospital.

But the residents of our community and the veterans served by the VAMC didn't take any chances. They made it clear that not only did we want the hospital to stay here, but we were interested in improving the scope of the facility's service in any way possible.

And that's why Perlin not only said the VA will continue to operate both inpatient beds and long term beds here in Big Spring, but has been directed "to look at ways to expand the residential mental health services we provide in this region."

Hutchison, who clearly played a vital role in the process, stressed the real deciding factor in the situation was the people of Big Spring.

"The community made a fabulous effort, led by Mayor (Russ) McEwen and certainly with the community leaders there to show their very best of what this facility is and what it could do," said Hutchison, noting that Big Spring put together a task force of community leaders committed to being pro-active and search for ways in which the entire community to help the hospital and its staff provide health care for veterans in this region.

Neugebauer voiced pride in the Big Spring community, saying it "came together."

"I am proud of the VA task force that was put together by the community," he said. "The case they made and the scenarios they worked up were very professional, and I think the fruits that are going to be borne from that is the community is going to begin to network, take this day and move forward and grow this facility."

Let us not forget the staff here at the hospital played a pivotal role, as well. Unable to publicly voice their concerns, and Lord knows they must have been countless, VAMC employees went about their jobs making sure West Texas' veterans had quality medical care.

In short, it was a job well done by all.

A SMALL PRAYER

by K. Rae Anderson

Any minute of the day or night is the best time for us to come to You, Lord.

Amen

Believing makes all the difference

In an earlier column, I suggested that I would share a few insights I'd gleaned at the Duke University Diet and Fitness Center in Durham, N.C., that I believe medical professionals, not only in our community, but throughout this country need to take to heart.

First, however, let me preface all this by noting that New Year's Day, 2006, was unlike any day I'd ever experienced.

That was the day I began a three-month stay at the Duke University Diet and Fitness Center in Durham, N.C., and walked into an orientation session having very little belief that I had a chance of success.

I didn't know it yet, but I weighed more than 576 pounds. I could barely walk across a small room. When I did, I was so exhausted that I had to sit and literally gasp for air.

In a word, it was embarrassing. Sadly, embarrassment is something those of us who are obese are all too familiar with.

Believe me, you won't find a fat person on this planet that doesn't in their heart of hearts want to be healthy and fit.

The problem, of course, is they simply don't know how. I certainly didn't.

Oh, yeah, back when I was in high school I managed to lose about 50 pounds when my grandfather offered to buy me a brand new Z28 Camaro if I lost below 200 pounds. I got down to 203, but then went weeks being unable to lose another pound, regardless of how hard I exercised and dieted. Eventually I became discouraged and gave up the quest.

Countless other times I'd try to lose weight — never with anything like that success.

Too often, in fact, dieting led to more rapid weight gains.

Each failure seems to lead the same place ... food.

Without spending much time trying to argue with those who stress that compulsive overeating has some similarities to alcoholism and other drug addictions, the fact remains that most overweight people use food in much the same way alcoholics drink and drug addicts use.

Happy?

Let's have a hamburger or two ... don't forget the fries.

Depressed?

Have another size of cheesecake.

Angry?

Milk and cookies ... the whole package.

Celebrating?

Head for the nicest restaurant around.

Disgusted with yourself?

Start with a couple of burgers.

Add the fries. Ice cream's nice, so add a big shake. Cheesecake, that'll help, too. And where's that other bag of cookies?

It's a vicious cycle.

Want to know when it's often at its worst? Right after we've visited our family physician or some other health care professional.

It's true. Ask virtually any obese person and they'll tell you they can't begin to count the times they've seen a doctor and been criticized or otherwise made to feel bad about themselves for being so fat. So, what do they do? They eat.

At one time, McDonald's and Baskin-Robbins were on my way home. I usually stopped at both.

But the folks at the Duke DFC were different.

I walked in the DFC doors expecting what I'd almost always known in my dealings with doctors — there had only really been one real exception, but Scenic Mountain Medical Center chose not to renew Dr. Donald Ferguson's contract a couple of years ago — and wound up with a real surprise on my hands.

Instead of finding looks of disgust on the faces of these professionals, there were re-assuring smiles.

Instead of criticism, there was kind encouragement.

That's right, they simply love you into having success.

In the three full months I was a client at the DFC, not one person — from the janitors, to the fitness staff and nutritionists, to the behavioral health specialists, to the director of the facility — there was never a frown. Every man and woman smiling, encouraging, helping in any way they could.

Couple that with being surrounded by about 100 other clients focused on doing the same thing I was doing, and it's not surprising that I was able to lose 116 pounds in 90 days. Nor is it surprising that I've been able continue eating healthier than I ever have and been more active than I've been in more than 30 years.

It's harder today than it was in Durham; I'd be lying if I didn't admit that.

I am, after all, back in the real world.

Yet I'm still having success. That's in large part to friends and family who support me; a doctor, Bruce Cox, who's being extremely supportive; and the staff at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center where I'm doing some of my workouts.

But more than anything, it's because I now believe.

And that, as they say, makes all the difference.

Musings of the vacation-minded

Random thoughts while making vacation plans: Everybody's got to be proud of something, as the following Associated Press news item attests:

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — They're flush with pride at an Ohio restaurant that has won an annual search for America's tidiest toilets.

The sleek and spiffy sports-themed restrooms at Wendell's, in the Columbus suburb of Westerville, were chosen the nation's finest

Thursday in a non-scientific online poll sponsored by a bathroom supply company.

Wendell's prize-winning potties are always well-supplied with towels, soap and mouthwash, and are a hit with sports fans big on cleanliness, said Cintas, the Cincinnati-based manufacturer of restroom supplies.

The eatery is ecstatic over its honor and won't mind if the curious drop by just to check out the fancy plumbing, said Rich Belding, Wendell's general manager.

"In our business, being known for anything good is good," Belding said.

Tens of thousands of votes were registered on a Web site, Cintas said. For its winning effort, Wendell's gets a month's worth of free restroom-cleaning service and an "America's Best Restroom" plaque.

Naturally, the plaque is getting a special place at Wendell's: On the wall outside the men's and women's rooms, Belding said.

OK, I can hear you thinking, "Reagan, you're starting to hit rock bottom when you pull out the ol' bathroom humor."

And you're probably right.

But just a few thoughts before moving on:

• After reading the "flush with pride" sentence, I'm relieved to discover that even nationally respected news organizations like the AP can have leads to their stories that are just as groan-inducing as yours truly.

• I also like the restaurant owners comments about "being known for anything good is good." But as spotless restrooms really that big a draw as compared to say, the food the place offers?

What kind of advertising slogan could they devise? "Come on in. Our food stinks, but you could it the stuff out of our sinks."

Hey, that rhymed. Dang, I'm practically poetic today.

• Exactly who is qualified to help judge the cleanest restrooms in the United States. I'm having a mental vision of squadrons of little old women who look exactly like my grandmother fanning out across the country in search of the perfect bathroom.

"I'm sorry, but the hand dryer had a smudge on the funnel. I'm going to have to deduct points, young man."

OK, let's move on ...

• It's time to update the Files of the Criminally Stupid:

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A judge has had enough of one 17-year-old.

Cameron D. Wells, who was accused of vandalizing a court office and stealing a judge's gavel, repeatedly angered Circuit Court Judge Gene Schnelz with his behavior.

On Wednesday, the judge sentenced Wells to 56 days in a county boot camp program on a larceny charge. If Wells fails to complete the program, he will get 180 days in jail, and even prison time if he uses drugs or alcohol.

"Test positive one time, and I'm giving you two to four (years) in the state prison," Schnelz told the Novi teen.

Wells' problems started when district court judge sentenced him to community service on a charge of minor in possession of alcohol. While doing the work in September, Wells was accused of vandalizing a court office and stealing the gavel.

He ended up in circuit court, where he pleaded guilty to larceny in a building.

As a former teen-ager, I know members of that age group are not exactly known for their collective wisdom, but how stupid do you have to be to steal stuff from a court office — while you're being sentenced for another crime?

I'm stumped, folks. On one hand, I'm depressed when I consider this young man's future, which probably includes years of substandard state housing and license plate manufacturing.

On the other hand, I'm relieved that I don't have children myself. When actually in the office, Staff Writer Steve Reagan can be contacted at 263-7331 or by e-mail at reporter@bigspringherald.com.

COUNTY

the court's last meeting, which called for a 96-bed jail to be built on the northeast corner of Scurry and Third Street. Commissioner Emma Brown is also expected to rescind her second of the motion.

Crooker said the decision to change directions so abruptly came after County Judge Ben Lockhart spoke with each of the commissioners privately.

"It's pretty much a meeting of the minds," said Crooker. "Jerry and I have been working on this for quite some time, and the judge favored a 144-bed facility. He talked to Jerry, and later, he talked to me, and we were able to agree on the size and location. This is a location we originally looked at back in the 1990s when we had our first bond issue on this."

"The judge and I agreed that he needed to talk to Emma (Brown), so he talked to her independently. She agreed with it, as well. The judge then talked to (Gary) Simer, and he agreed with it as well."

Crooker said he expects Monday's vote on the proposed facility to be unanimous. However, the work on this matter is far from over.

"We're expecting a unanimous vote on this," said Crooker. "As of yet, we haven't discussed the financial side of this. We've managed to tackle the two main problems — location and size. Now we'll move on to the financial aspect of it."

As for the possibility of locating a joint law enforcement center that would house both the Big Spring Police Department and County Sheriff's Office, Crooker said that matter is still unresolved.

"I can't say that it's been nixed, because we haven't finished discussions on this," said

Crooker. "The first thing I'd like to see us do is discuss this in much more detail. So that part of it is still up in the air."

Also on Monday's agenda, County Auditor Jackie Olson will present the commissioners with invoices and purchase requests, while County Treasurer Teresa Thomas is expected to present personnel considerations.

County Road and Bridge Administrator Eddy Jameson is expected to discuss pipeline crossings and road maintenance in the county, while Justice of the Peace Bennie Green will present a request for a budget amendment for travel expenses.

The meeting is expected to get under way at 10 a.m. in the commissioners courtroom, located on the second floor of the county courthouse.

Ball, which will include an evening of dining and dancing.

The event is set to begin at 6 p.m. as couples mix and mingle over cocktails. The program will begin at 7 p.m. and feature a military theme, with a special tribute to Korean War veterans and a presentation on POW/MIA by area ROTC members.

"It's going to be something different than we've done in the past," said Wallace. "But I really think people will enjoy it."

Following a meal of prime rib and chicken, those attending will dance to the music of Carvel Mills and Sound Investment.

Tickets are $50 per person and reservations should be made by Tuesday morning, April 25.

Money raised through the ball will help fund museum activities, as well as future expansion plans, said Wallace.

"We're looking forward to the ball," she said. "I think it will really entertain and a lot of fun."

To make reservations, call the museum at 264-1999.

Those who cannot attend the ball but who would like to make a donation are invited to do so by contacting the museum.

"Good health is very important and those who constantly eat junk food and avoid exercise are

Nation and World briefs

Report: Iran, Russia reach 'basic deal' on joint uranium enrichment project

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's envoy to the U.N. nuclear watchdog agency said Saturday the Islamic republic had reached a "basic deal" with the Kremlin to form a joint uranium enrichment venture on Russian territory, state-run television reported.

Ali Asghar Soltanieh, envoy to the International Atomic Energy Agency, "spoke of a basic agreement between Iran and Russia to set up a joint uranium enrichment firm on Russian soil," Iranian state television reported.

It remained unclear, though, whether Iran would entirely give up enrichment at home, a top demand of the West, or whether the joint venture would complement Iran's existing enrichment program. Enriched uranium can be used to fuel nuclear reactors that generate electricity or to make atomic bombs.

"Only issues regarding technical, legal and financial matters remain to be resolved which need more deliberation and exchange of views," the television quoted Soltanieh as saying Saturday in Moscow.

Soltanieh made the comment on the sidelines of an energy conference. Russia and state television gave no details on the deal.

In February, Iran and Russia announced that they had reached a "basic agreement" to establish a joint uranium enrichment venture in Russian, but details were never worked out.

CIA fires employee for alleged press leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA fired a top intelligence analyst who admitted leaking classified information that led to a Pulitzer Prize-winning story about a network of secret CIA prisons, government officials say.

The officer was a senior analyst nearing retirement, Mary McCarthy, The Associated Press learned. Reached Friday evening at home, her husband would not confirm her firing.

Almost immediately, the firing turned political. Senate Intelligence Committee chairman Pat Roberts, R-Kan., praised the agency for identifying a source of the leaks and encouraged vigorous investigation of other open cases. "Those guilty of improperly disclosing classified information should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law," Roberts said.

Sen. Robert Menendez, D-N.J., called on President Bush to hold accountable those in his administration who leaked information about the Iraq intelligence in the run-up to the war and outed undercover CIA operative Valerie Plame. "Apparently, President Bush doesn't believe what's good for the CIA is good for the White House," Menendez said.

Nepalese police open fire on protesters

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — Nepalese security forces opened fire Saturday on pro-democracy protesters marching toward the king's palace, witnesses said. At least four people were wounded.

The clash occurred about 3 miles from the royal palace in the heart of the capital, where tens of thousands of protesters were headed.

New Orleans residents to vote for mayor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Still staggering after Hurricane Katrina ravaged their city, voters were selecting the candidate they want to lead one of the biggest reconstruction projects in U.S. history Saturday.

Twenty-two candidates — including Mayor Ray Nagin, who has sometimes been criticized for his freewheeling and occasionally inflammatory speech — will appear on the ballot in the first municipal election since Katrina slammed into the Gulf Coast Aug. 29.

If no candidate gets more than 50 percent, a runoff between the top two vote-getters will be held May 20.

The winner faces a host of politically sticky and racially charged decisions about where and what to rebuild in a city where whole neighborhoods remain uninhabitable.

Four-fifths of the city was flooded, and large parts of New Orleans are still woeful tracts of ruin. Rebuilding plans — and the federal money to pay for them — are still being debated.

Student says rumors rampant before arrests

RIVERTON, Kan. (AP) — A student at the small-town high school where five teens are accused of planning an attack said that rumors were rampant on the day before their arrest, prompting some schoolmates to tell the suspects: "Whatever you do, don't shoot me."

Freshman Nathan Spriggs, 15, also said his friends, who are suspected of planning to shoot fellow students and school employees, told him they had posted a threat on the Internet as a joke and feared they would be suspended or expelled for doing it.

Riverton High School officials were taking no chances.

Five boys, ages 16 to 18, were arrested Thursday, the anniversary of the Columbine massacre, authorities said.

Iraqi parliament picks top leaders

By QASSIM ABDUL-ZAHRA
Associated Press Writer

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Iraq's president formally designated Shiite politician Jawad al-Maliki to form a new government Saturday, starting a process aimed at healing ethnic and religious wounds and pulling the nation out of insurgency and sectarian strife.

The move ends months of political deadlock among Shiites, Sunnis and Kurds that threatened to drag the nation into civil war. Al-Maliki has 30 days to present his Cabinet to parliament for approval.

Parliament elected President Jalal Talabani, a Kurd, to a second term and gave the post of parliament speaker to Mahmoud al-Mashhadani, a Sunni Arab. Al-Mashhadani's two deputies were to be Khalid al-Attayah, a Shiite, and Aref Tayfour, a Kurd.

The tough-talking al-Maliki was nominated by the Shiites on Friday after outgoing Prime Minister Ibrahim al-Jaafari gave up his bid for another term. Al-Jaafari's attempt to stay in office was adamantly opposed by Sunnis and Kurds, causing a months-long deadlock while the country's security crisis worsened in the wake of December's election.

U.S. and Iraqi officials hope that a national unity government representing Shiites, Sunnis and Kurds will be able to quell both the Sunni-led insurgency and bloody Shiite-Sunni violence that has raged during the political uncertainty. If it succeeds, it could enable the U.S. to begin withdrawing its 133,000 troops.

White House spokesman Scott McClellan said the Bush administration is hopeful that the latest political developments in Iraq will lead to significant progress in forming a permanent government.

"We hope to see good progress in the coming days," McClellan told reporters traveling with President Bush to California. "We'll be watching."

Suspected insurgents, meanwhile, set off two bombs in a public market in central Iraq, killing at least two Iraqis and wounding 17.

The second blast was timed to hit emergency crews arriving at the scene.

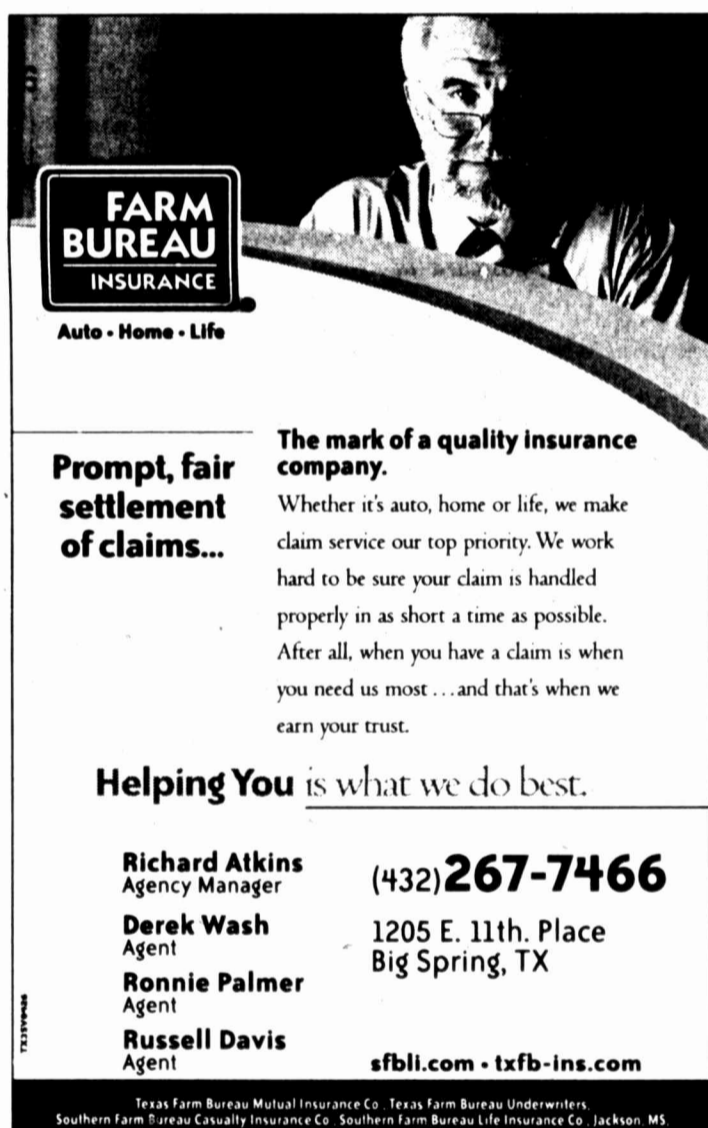

The first bomb exploded at 7:30 a.m. in the middle of Muqadiyah, about 60 miles northeast of Baghdad.

When fire engines arrived, the second bomb went off, killing a firefighter and a civilian, and wounding 17 civilians.

The bullet-ridden bodies of 10 Iraqis were found in and around Baghdad, many blindfolded with their hands and legs bound in rope.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

The concept of a "higher self" is not difficult to understand, but often, we don't recognize the response of that wise internal witness to our lives because we are distracted by the persistent needs of the ego. The waning Pisces moon is on a mission to bring your higher self down to earth — closer, louder and more persistent.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). You're finally able to relax to such a degree that you can tune in to those random thoughts that might normally waft across your mental screen undetected. These thoughts are rich in humor, wisdom and insight.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). You have sensuality and guts, playfulness and passion. You integrate these aspects of your personality seamlessly. It's no wonder a loved one is fascinated by your colorful complexity.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You're a giver, and giving is what you do. Although, you'll wonder this afternoon how much more you have to give. Don't worry, there's more. Your act of giving is what is creating the "more."

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Right feels so right to you today, and wrong feels so wrong. Maybe you have never been this sure before. It's as though certain answers have been in your heart since before the world was made.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Nature doesn't often tug your soul, but if you've never been startled by a thunderous flock of pheasants or awed by the forever echo of your voice through miles of canyon, this is an excellent time to pursue such experiences.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). There is never enough room, money or time. This is good news, since it means you don't have to wait for perfect circumstances. Jump into your new adventure. Just do it now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). For hundreds of generations, humans have believed themselves to be born into a certain station in life, and that's that. So your desire to leap past the expectations of everyone around you may still feel crazy, but it's not.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Consistency is overrated, especially in regard to your personal life. You're innocent one minute and streetwise the next. As long as you keep vacillating between extremes, you'll remain a compelling mystery to others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Use your visionary talent instead of relying on data to guide you. Studying the past is one way to learn about the future, but it's not the best way, since it can't take into account the impact of invention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Today brings a chance to form an alliance or join a group. Your power increases with the more people you know. It's also lucky to introduce folks who have something to gain from one another.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You're like a child at a magic show, obsessed with how it all comes together. You think of the angles the average person wouldn't consider. The stars align to bring you the opportunity to make use of this talent.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). The way to progress is through fixing things. Blame can only impede this effort, so you're in a position to forgive and forget. Tonight, you have special luck in predicting gaps of chance.

FORECAST FOR THE WEEK AHEAD: There are caves in southwestern France called Lascaux, where the earliest known paintings have been preserved for thousands of years — some scientists date the art to 25000 BC. Of all the images available to early man, what did he celebrate? Bulls. Muscular, marvelous, powerful creatures that have since been worshipped by countless cultures. In Greek mythology, Zeus took the form of a bull in order to win the breathtaking beauty Princess Europa. She was compelled to climb on the beast's back, and he whisked her away. Unfortunately for Europa, Zeus was more about the chase than about having meaningful relationships, so as a sort of notch on his belt, he commemorated the conquest with a sort of snapshot of a bull in the sky — the constellation Taurus. This week, the first full week of the 2006 solar journey through Taurus, brings the steadfast, strong, stable energy that bulls have been attributed with through the ages. An impressive amount of work can be accomplished, and all it takes is singularity of purpose. The new moon on Thursday is an opportunity to steel your resolve. It's also a time to, as the saying goes, "Keep it simple, stupid."

CELEBRITY PROFILES: From small-town Texas girl, to the first "American Idol," to multi-platinum recording artist, giant-voiced Kelly Clarkson is one centered Taurean. Taurus rules the throat, and many top singers are either Taurus sun signs or have Taurus energy featured prominently in their charts. This year features the resolution of Clarkson's "issues" with American Idol, which could be resolved with a grand gesture from the company that introduced her to the world.

Comptroller needles governor in politically charged session

By KELLEY SHANNON

AUSTIN — While Gov. Rick Perry keeps working to coax legislators onto his tax bill bandwagon, he's also busy trying to shake a menace off his tail.

Comptroller Carole Keeton Strayhorn, who calls herself "one tough grandma" and is in charge of the state's money, keeps pointedly telling Perry how to preside over the 30-day special legislative session on school finance.

It makes for new agitation in an already testy Texas governor's race as Strayhorn, a veteran politician running as an independent, attempts to oust the Republican Perry.

Strayhorn insists she's just doing her job — one loaded with power and history.

"Obviously I am running for governor, but this is all in my role as comptroller," Strayhorn said in an interview with The Associated Press.

She said she's exercising the powers of her office with "great gusto."

For months she chided Perry for not calling special sessions on hurricane relief or school finance and labeled him a failed leader.

After Perry ordered a school funding special session, she came out with a last-minute $8.2 billion state surplus update that could make some legislators more reluctant to back Perry's $6 billion tax swap plan. She also criticized Perry's tax proposal, saying it would amount to a "hot check" over the next five years.

She said Perry should open the special session to consideration of teacher pay raises, electricity rate relief and stiffer sentences for first-time sexual predators who attack children.

Perry says other issues beyond restructuring the school tax system, a duty mandated by the Texas Supreme Court, must wait until lawmakers address that top issue. Only then will he open the agenda, known as the "call" of the session, to other items.

Clearly, he doesn't want advice from his political opponent.

"The comptroller needs to do the comptroller's job, and the fact of the matter is the governor is who decides what goes on special calls. No one else," Perry said.

Perry's aides say Strayhorn is using her state position for political gain.

"It is painfully obvious that Carole Strayhorn is going to use every means available to try and see that this special session of the Legislature is a failure because that benefits her politically," said Perry's campaign spokesman, Robert Black earlier this week.

Just another season; Coahoma wins district

• Conley's three hits leads Bulldogettes to 13th straight title

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

HAWLEY — Coahoma had never lost a district softball game in the history of the program heading into Friday night's possible 4-2A-clinching game against second-place Hawley.

The streak did not change, either.

The Bulldogettes battled back from an early deficit again and used a four-run third inning to claim their 13th straight district championship as they took down the Lady Bearcats, 6-2.

"I am proud of the girls for winning the title again," said Coahoma head coach Robby Dickenson. "Now that part is out of the way and we can focus on the playoffs."

Hawley scored first in the game, but did not get up 3-0 like it did in Coahoma last month. The Bulldogettes battled back from that deficit so coming back from a one-run hole wasn't quite as difficult.

No. 4 Coahoma scored two in the second and four in third and gave up another run to Hawley in its half of the third, but held the Lady Bearcats scoreless the rest of the way.

"The girls realized the importance of a good start," said Dickenson. "We made some errors in the first game, but tonight we were good defensively. I was real pleased. They came focused and took care of business."

Senior Kali Roberts led the team on the mound and senior Liz Conley led the Bulldogettes at the plate.

Roberts got the win as she gave up one earned run on three hits in seven innings of work. She struck out 10 and walked just one.

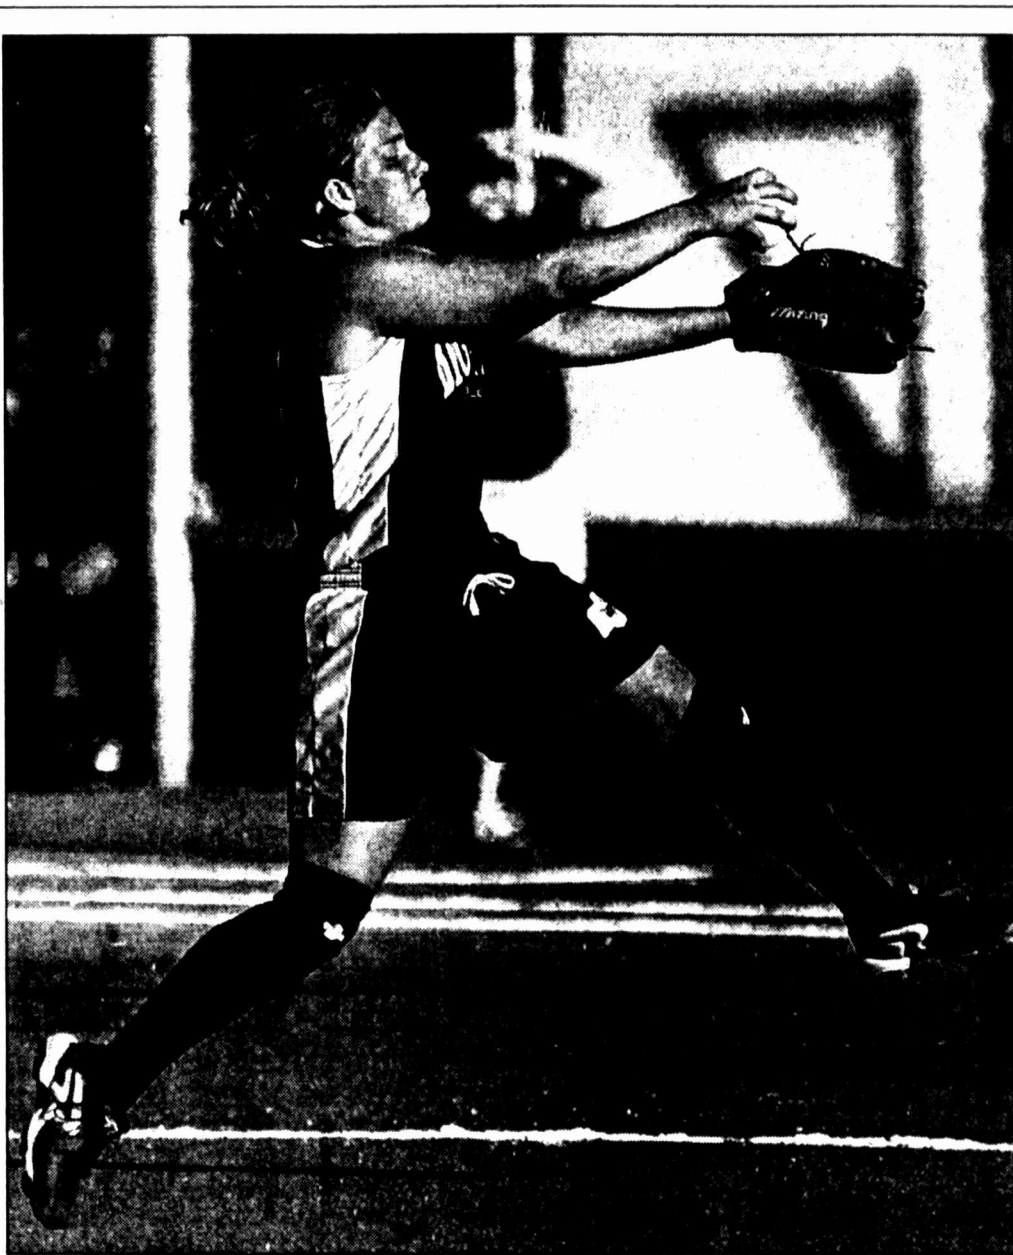

Conley, who missed the first game against Hawley due to an illness, had three hits and a walk at the plate and scored two runs.

"She stepped up tonight and played well for us," said Dickenson.

Senior Ashle New got two hits and scored once, while senior Sarah Dunn had one hit and scored twice. Sophomore Janice Gonzales had a hit and a run and freshman Laci Sterling also had a hit.

The Bulldogettes are now 7-0 in District 4-2A with one game to go. They played Anson Saturday, but results were unavailable at press time. Coahoma (20-6-2) finishes the regular season at home against Lubbock Coronado Tuesday at 7 p.m. The seniors will be honored on that night as well.

Big Spring senior Mandy Walker gets ready to throw a pitch to the plate Friday against Lubbock Estacado. The Lady Steers played two games against the Lady Matadors and won 13-1 and 13-0. Walker threw a no-hitter in Game 2 after freshman Shelbi Stewart tossed a no-hitter in Game 1.

Two no-hitters lead BSHS to easy wins

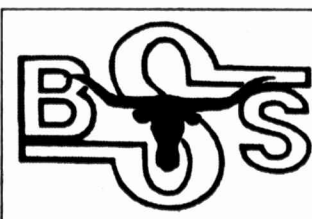

• Lady Steers finish 9-1 in District 4-4A

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

The Lady Steers improved to 9-1 in District 4-4A play Friday with two home wins against Lubbock Estacado and did their part in setting up a post-season-seeding game with arch-rival Andrews.

Big Spring got two no-hit pitching performances from freshman Shelbi Stewart and senior Mandy Walker. The Lady Steers won Game 1, 13-1, and took Game 2, 13-0, as both games went just five innings due to the 10-run mercy rule.

Andrews can tie Big Spring in the district standings if it can defeat Frenship in Wolforth Saturday. Results of that game were unavailable at press time. If the Lady Mustangs win, they will play Big Spring in Greenwood Monday beginning at 6 p.m. to decide which team goes into the playoffs as the No. 1 seed out of 4-4A.

"It was senior night so we started all of them tonight and they all did a good job," said Big Spring head coach Jennifer Reyes. "Its tough to prepare for these kind of games and it is even tougher to stay focused during the games."

Stewart started the first game and was in command much of the game as she recorded multiple strikeouts in four of the five innings and struck out the side in second, third and fifth innings. Estacado scored its only run off Stewart in second inning. She gave up a walk and hit a batter in back-to-back at-bats and then threw a wild pitch to allow a runner to cross homeplate.

Estacado got another runner on in the fourth inning after an error by Big Spring, but that runner was gunned down on an attempted steal by senior Courtney Rodriguez.

The Lady Steers got two runs in the first inning and only had one hit. Rodriguez reached on an error to start the game and then moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by senior Krista Chesworth.

Stewart then walked before a sacrifice fly by senior Magen Watten scored Rodriguez. Stewart eventually crossed homeplate after Walker smashed an RBI double.

Seniors Heather Policky and Britni Rodriguez reached base with a walk and a single, respectively, in the second inning and both later scored on errors to make it 4-1.

Big Spring added four more runs in the third inning. Watten reached on with a bunt single. Walker was hit by a pitch and sophomore Desiree Yanez knocked in Watten with an RBI single. Policky reached on a sacrifice bunt attempt and then Britni Rodriguez cleared the bases with a two-run triple. She later scored

Hawks blow six leads at Odessa

• Howard pitchers struggle in WJAC losses to Wranglers

By TROY HYDE
Sports Editor

ODESSA — Howard College's recent struggles on the mound continued Friday on the road against Odessa College in Western Junior College Athletic Conference play as the baseball team lost two close games to the Wranglers.

Howard gave up 15 hits in Game 1 and lost, 9-7, and then allowed another 11 hits in Game 2 in a 9-8 loss.

"It was just bad pitching all day," said Howard head coach Britt Smith. "We blew six leads in the game and our hitters couldn't keep up with our lack of pitching."

Odessa jumped out to an early lead in the first game against freshman starter Kenny Smalley. The Wranglers scored four runs in the first two innings before Howard cut the lead to two in the third inning.

The Hawks tied the game in the fifth with two more runs and then went up 5-4 after their half of the seventh before OC came back to tie it. Howard got two more runs in the top of the eighth to make it 7-5, but Odessa again rallied to score four in its half of the eighth off Smalley and then sophomore reliever Matthew Shepherd.

Smalley pitched seven innings and gave up six earned runs on 14 hits. He struck out six, but walked three. Shepherd took the loss after allowing three earned runs in the eighth.

Sophomore Darby Brown led the Hawks at the plate as he blasted his second home run of the season and inched one double closer to setting a new career record at Howard with his 19th two-base hit of the season. He is now one double away from the record. He scored one run, walked once and had three RBIs in the game, as well.

Sophomores Jeff Storms, Will Basom and Gabe Marchant each had two hits at the plate. Storms doubled and had two RBIs and Marchant scored twice.

"There hasn't been a lot of times this year that the offense hasn't done enough to win," said Smith. "We just have to pitch better."

Nick Love went four-for-four in the game at the plate to lead Odessa. Mike Hancock hit two home runs and added five RBIs. Jordan Torr got the win on the mound for the Wranglers as he threw 1.1 innings of relief for starter James Fischer.

Howard grabbed a 2-0 lead in Game 2, but trailed 6-3 after three innings. The Hawks

Schaffeld, Heiner lead HC cowboys at Tarleton State

• Freshman Combs also advances to finals

By TROY HYDE

STEPHENVILLE — The Howard College rodeo team had a little better luck Friday night at the Tarleton State University rodeo in Stephenville.

Shelly Combs, Wayne Schaffeld and Cody Heiner all advanced to Saturday nights short round with top-10 performances in their respective events.

Schaffeld scored a 4.9 in steer wrestling and is in sixth heading into the final round, while Heiner and teammate Tyrell Paul are in sixth after recording a time of 7.8 in team roping.

On the women's side, Combs will take her time of 8.7 in goat tying into the finals as she enters in ninth place overall. Kendra Watt competed in barrel racing, but did not advance after recording a 15.83. Combs scored a 3.7 in breakaway roping as well.

Dustin Specht and Kevin Morrissey both competed in calf roping, but Howard head coach Greg Kernick said both of their times were not good enough to advance to the finals. Specht scored a 10.9, while Morrissey was timed in 11.0.

The finals of the Tarleton State University rodeo took place Saturday night, but results were unavailable at press time.

on Courtney Rodriguez' RBI infield single.

Five more runs crossed in the fourth inning as Reyes dug into her bench. Stewart started the inning with a single and scored later on an RBI single by Yanez. Junior Bridgette Rodriguez singled and scored in the inning, while Heather Witt and Cecili Islas both reached base and scored as well. Britni Rodriguez had another big hit in the inning as she drove in three with a double.

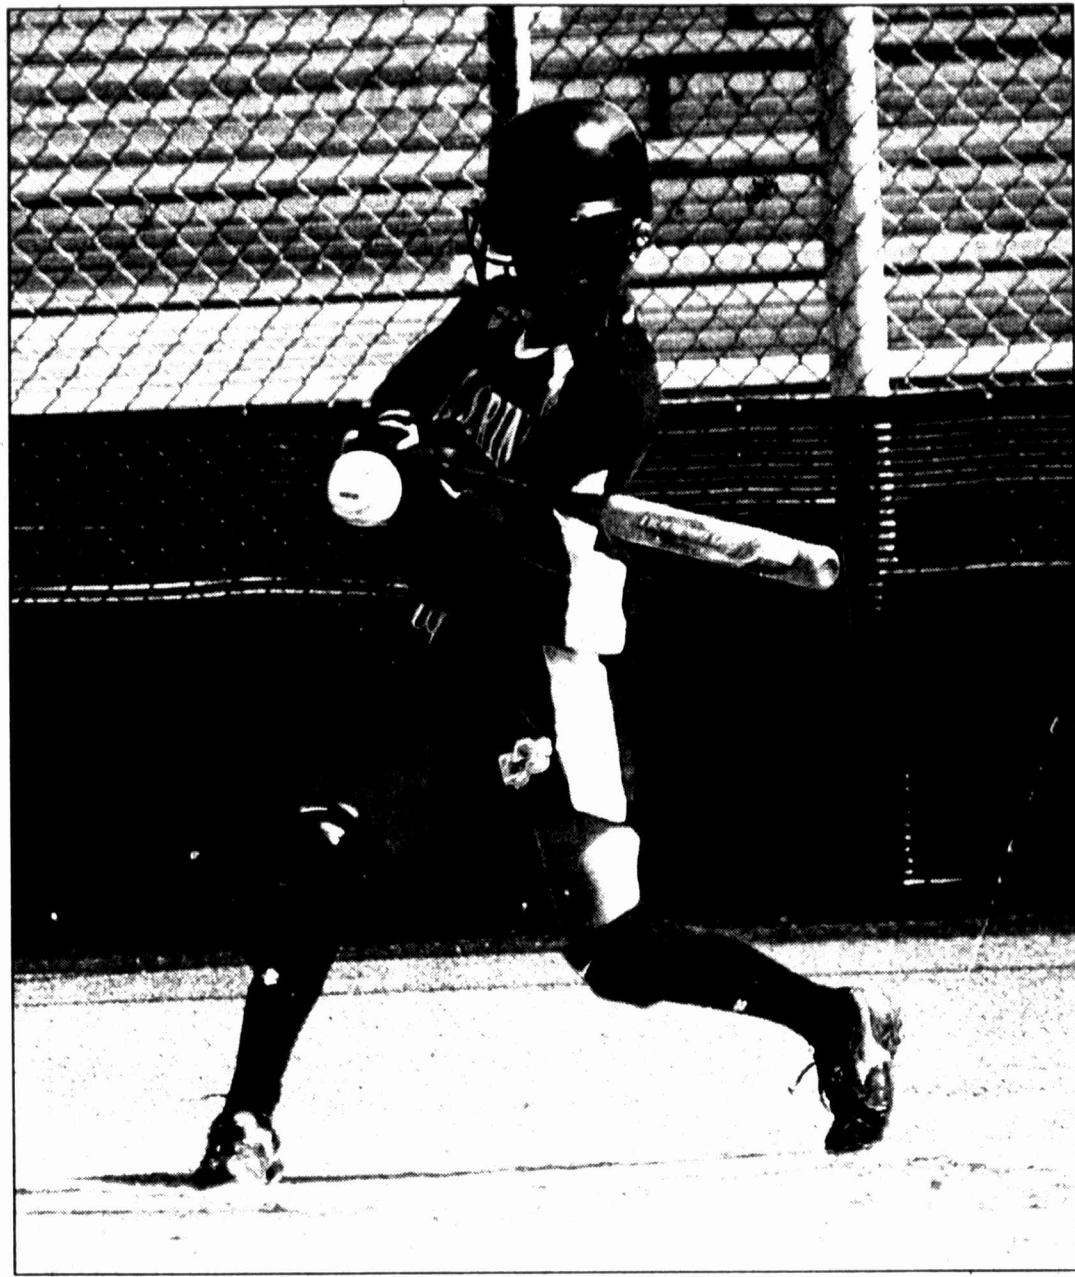

"Getting everyone in the game was big for us because it now gives me and the girls confidence for the playoffs," said Reyes. "I now know I can use some of these girls if they are needed and Britni hit the ball really well today."

Walker's no-hitter in Game 2 was a near-perfect game. She also struck out 12 batters and gave up no runs, but allowed a baserunner in the fourth as she issued a walk. Walker struck out two in each of the first two innings and then struck out the side in the third and fifth innings.

"Both of our pitchers are tough and this should help for the playoffs because both girls will see time on the mound," said Reyes.

Big Spring got two runs without getting a hit in the first inning. Katy Watten walked to start the inning and Britni Rodriguez reached on an error. Both runners scored later in the inning.

The Lady Steers added three more runs in the second inning. Walker singled with one out and then Katy Watten reached with a bunt single with two outs. Yanez cleared the bases with a two-run double and then she scored later on an error.

Three more runs crossed in the third inning. Junior Brenna Phermetton walked and Courtney Heinis had a bunt single to start the inning. Islas reached on a fielder's choice and Witt followed with an RBI fielder's choice. Walker then cleared the bases with a two-run double.

Big Spring added five more runs in the fourth to put the mercy-rule in effect. Magen Watten, Policky, senior Jade Walker and Mandy Walker had four straight hits in the inning and all four eventually scored. Jade Walker's hit was an RBI double. Courtney Rodriguez had an RBI single in the inning and Chesworth also added a hit.

Mandy Walker was three-for-three in the game with two RBIs and one run.

Reyes was awarded a cake after the game as she celebrated a birthday.

"You never know what team is going to show up in this kind of game, but it was a good birthday gift," said Reyes.

HOWARD

scored three in the fourth to tie the game but the Wranglers regained the lead with two runs in their half of the fourth. Howard again tied the score in the fifth with two more runs, but Odessa scored the game-winning run in the sixth.

Freshman Scott Stephen started on the mound for the Hawks but gave up six runs on eight hits in three innings. Sophomore Eamonn Donovan threw 2.1 innings of relief and gave up two earned runs and walked three. The loss was given to sophomore Parker Sisk (4-2) as he got the final two outs of the game.

Marchant had two hits to lead Howard. Basom and freshman Ryan Pruitt each had one hit and two RBIs. Basom's hit was a home run and Pruitt doubled.

Sophomore Dusty Dallas moved ahead of Marchant for the team lead in home runs as he crushed his ninth long ball of the season.

Love, Logan Leslie and Brandon Craven all had two hits for Odessa. Jamie Rodriguez got the win on the mound as he pitched one scoreless inning of relief. James Simpson gave up five earned runs on eight hits as Odessa's starter.

Brown got another chance to set a new Howard doubles record at Jack Barber Field Saturday as the two teams faced off in another doubleheader. Results of the game were unavailable at press time.

Senators dominate power play in Ottawa's series-opening victory

DETROIT (AP) — Kirk Maltby scored his second goal of the night 2:39 into double overtime to lift the Detroit Red Wings to a 3-2 victory over the Edmonton Oilers in Game 1 of their first-round playoff series Friday.

Edmonton's Dwayne Roloson made 54 saves while Manny Legace finished with 23 for the Red Wings.

Maltby ended the game that lasted 3 1/2 hours with a long shot from outside the right circle that was deflected past Roloson by the stick of Oilers teammate Rem Murray.

Maltby, who had only five goals this season, made it 2-2 with 6:17 left in regulation.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven Western Conference series is Sunday in Detroit.

Three of the four regular-season meetings went to overtime with Detroit winning the lone game decided in regulation.

Robert Lang scored on the power play to give Detroit a 1-0 lead at 4:05, but Sergei Samsonov tied it midway through the first period and Chris Pronger put Edmonton ahead 2-1 in the second period.

Mike Sillinger scored and had an assist, and Martin Erat and rookie defenseman Shea Weber both netted their first career playoff goals as the Predators showed why they enjoyed the NHL's best home-ice advantage this season.

Nashville leads the best-of-seven Western Conference series 1-0, with Game 2 back in Tennessee Sunday.

The fifth-seeded Sharks had won eight of nine, but only got one assist from NHL scoring champion Joe Thornton.

rallied to beat Tampa Bay Lightning in the opener of the Eastern Conference playoff series.

Daniel Alfredsson scored into an empty net with 1:02 remaining and Ray Emery made 35 saves for the Senators in his postseason debut.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven series will be Sunday in Ottawa.

Emery, playing in place of injured goalie Dominik Hasek, also earned an assist on Spezza's go-ahead goal 6:13 into the third.

Vincent Lecavalier opened the scoring on a two-man advantage late in the first and Tampa Bay — which outshot Ottawa 16-11 in a fast-paced opening period — held a 1-0 lead through 40 minutes.

Flames 2, Mighty Ducks 1

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Darren McCarty scored 9:45 into overtime to lift Calgary to a series-opening playoff win over Anaheim.

McCarty skated freely into the Ducks zone and one-timed a pass from Kristian Huselius by Ilya Bryzgalov, a surprise starter for the Mighty Ducks.

Jean-Sebastien Giguere, Anaheim's No. 1 goalie, practiced in the morning but missed the game with what the team called a lower-body injury. Bryzgalov was solid in his place, finishing with 28 saves.

Bryzgalov had started only one of the Ducks' final 14 regular-season games, but he didn't look rusty.

Tony Amonte scored in the second period for the Flames, and Jeff Friesen got Anaheim even in the third.

It was only Friesen's second goal in 18 games for the Mighty Ducks since being acquired from Washington at the trade deadline.

Miikka Kiprusoff made 33 saves for the Flames.

• Young collects five hits, Mench hits grand slam in win

ARLINGTON — Michael Young had five hits with a career-high five RBIs and Kevin Mench hit a grand slam for Texas as the Rangers defeated the Tampa Bay Devil Rays, 13-7.

Mench capped a five-run first for the Rangers with his first home run of the season and second career grand slam. He also knocked in five runs to match a career high.

Young broke a 6-all tie with a three-run double in the third and added a two-run double in the fourth. He equaled a career high by going 5-for-5.

C.J. Wilson (1-0) won in relief, and Seth McClung (1-3) was the loser.

Phil Nevin also homered for Texas. Ty Wigginton hit his seventh home run and Russell Branyan also homered for Tampa Bay.

Texas unemployment holds steady in March

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' unemployment rate held steady at 5 percent for the second consecutive month in March as the state added another 23,200 jobs, the Texas Workforce Commission said.

The state also maintained its annual growth rate of 2.9 percent by adding 279,400 jobs over the past year. In March 2005, the unemployment rate was 5.3 percent.

"Employment is up, unemployment is down, and that's good news for Texas workers," said commission official Ronny Congleton.

An estimated 573,300 Texans remained actively looking for work in March, down 5,000 from February and a drop of 26,000 from the year-ago period. All job sectors have seen an increase since March 2005.

"Sustained job growth speaks well for Texas employers and the Texas economy," said commission official Ron Lehman.

The figures were adjusted for seasonal trends in hiring and firing, which most economists believe gives a better picture of the job market. The national unemployment rate is 4.7 percent.

Trade, transportation and utilities added 5,200 jobs in March, the most of any sector. Professional and business services added 4,700, and education and health services increased by 4,500 jobs.

Other increases came in construction (3,900), financial activities (2,000), government (1,500), natural resources and mining (1,200) and information (1,200).

Manufacturing, leisure and hospitality; and other services saw modest declines totaling 1,000 jobs.

Consumer group debunks misconceptions about credit

How hard it is to erase debt collections from your credit report? What happens to your credit after you tie the knot? These are just a couple of credit questions that are often answered incorrectly.

Mike Sullivan, director of education for Take Charge America, a non-profit credit counseling company, says the credit system is complex, and that's why it is important to turn to an expert for help.

"If you have questions about your credit, see a credit counselor or financial planner for the most accurate answers," he said. "We all have varying levels of financial security. What's best for your sister or co-worker, may not be the best solution for you."

So, how do you wade through the onslaught of misinformation? Firstly, Sullivan says many consumers confuse the functions of their credit score and their credit report.

"Your credit score is a three-digit number that summarizes your credit report," he said. "An 800 means life is good, 400 means you won't be buying a car this year."

To help sort the confusion, Sullivan has laid out the top 10 myths about credit:

Myth 1: Settling your debt will remove it from your credit report. Unfortunately, it's not that easy. Late payments and collections generally stay on your credit report for seven years, and they can still affect your credit score.

Myth 2: Too much debt? Just file for bankruptcy to erase it. New bankruptcy laws passed last fall make it harder to file for Chapter 7, which completely erases debt. This is forcing more people to file for Chapter 13, which requires a five-year repayment plan. All debtors are also required to complete credit counseling prior to filing. Moreover, bankruptcy remains on your credit report for 10 years.

Myth 3: Canceling your credit cards will improve your credit score. If you have $50,000 in available credit and owe $10,000, then you owe 20 percent of your available credit. If you close an account with a $30,000 credit limit, you will then owe the same $10,000 but it will be 50 percent of your available credit. That lowers your credit score.

Myth 4: Your credit score is the same at all three credit bureaus. Lenders are not required to report to all three of Good food: The home canned product

Tomatoes, salsa, jalapenos, apricots, jellies and jams and even cactus are a few of the favorites of home canners of produce. And let's not forget the corn, peas and green beans. Home canning of fresh produce can be a fruitful activity, but unless safe food preservation methods are used, the results can be unsafe for consumers.

KORI MYERS

The basics include an explanation of the two canning methods. For most fruit products, jams, jellies and pickles, the boiling water canner method can be used. Boiling water canning employs the use of a large pot that has a lid and a rack to hold canning jars. The rack is used to hold jars off the bottom of the container. The container must be large enough to cover the jars with at least two inches of boiling water so that the jars are completely immersed in boiling water (212 degrees F at sea level altitudes). This method is also used for canning tomatoes and products acidified with vinegar such as quick pickles and salsa. Current recommendations are that tomato products be acidified with an acid source so that newer tomato varieties have enough acid to be safe when canned by this method. Jalapenos and salsa, popular Texas products, must be acidified to make them safe to eat using this method. Categories of vegetables and fruits which have low acid content must be canned using a pressure canner. Because the bacteria that survive in this low acid environment must be destroyed by extremely high heat (above boiling temperatures), the pressure canner, which reaches 214 degrees F, must be used. The dial gauges on the dial-gauge type of pressure canner should be tested yearly.

Our county extension office can perform this procedure for you. Many questions are asked as to why home canners cannot produce safely the same products as some commercial manufacturers can produce.

Most home canners just do not have the equipment for processing or the commercial preservatives to use to make products shelf-stable.

Store home canned products in a clean, cool, dark, dry place if possible.

Avoid storing jars in an area that will be below 32 degrees F or above 90 degree F. Under proper storage conditions of 50 to 70 degrees F, products should maintain best quality for up to one year. For more information on home canning, contact the Texas Cooperative Extension Howard County Office at 432 264-2236. Educational programs of Texas Cooperative Extension are open to all people without regard to race, color, sex, disability, religion, age, or national origin.

Business briefs

Baker Hughes selling 30 percent stake in WesternGeco venture

HOUSTON (AP) — Baker Hughes Inc., which provides drilling, products and other services to the oil and gas industry, on Friday said it will sell its 30 percent stake in seismic joint venture WesternGeco to partner Schlumberger Ltd. for $2.4 billion in cash.

Houston-based Baker Hughes said it expects to record a gain of about $1.05 billion on the sale, subject to adjustments, and receive about $1.8 billion in cash proceeds. It will use the proceeds to buy back stock.

The company said its board has increased its repurchase authorization by $1.8 billion.

"We have been pleased with the results from WesternGeco over the last several quarters and with the performance of the WesternGeco management team," said Chad Deaton, chairman and chief executive, in a statement. "However, the $2.4 billion sales price provides us with an excellent point to exit our minority ownership position."

Baker Hughes said the sale was approved by its board and is expected to be completed by month-end.

WesternGeco generated $530 million in revenue in its latest first quarter, up 40 percent from a year earlier, Schlumberger said in a separate statement.

RadioShack profit drops 85 percent

FORT WORTH (AP) — RadioShack Corp. said

Friday its first-quarter profit plummeted 85 percent on disappointing sales of cellular phones and a write-down of the electronics retailer's assets and inventory.

The Fort Worth-based company reported earning $8.4 million or 6 cents per share for the March 31 quarter, compared to $55 million or 34 cents per share a year earlier.

Revenue rose 3 percent to $1.16 billion, compared to $1.12 billion a year ago.

Sales at stores open at least one year, a key measure for retailers, fell 1 percent. "While we knew first quarter would be weak, the results are worse than we anticipated," said acting Chief Executive Claire Babrowski. "We clearly have a lot more work to do to get this company back to levels of profitability which we all expect."

However, Babrowski said the results would not change the company's belief in a turnaround plan announced earlier this year, which includes closing several hundred stores.

The bidding:
East Pass 1 NT Pass 6 NT
Opening lead — jack of diamonds.

Assume you're declarer at six notrump and West leads the jack of diamonds. How would you play the hand?

You start out with 10 top tricks — three spades, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs — and your only chance is to pick up two more tricks in the club suit. Looking at all 52 cards, this is a very simple task. You just take two finesses against East for the missing queen, and chalk up your slam.

But in real life, you get to see only 26 cards, so you don't know who has the queen of clubs. Since the finesse can just as easily be taken against West, you are totally in the dark when play begins as to how to attack the suit.

Being a resourceful player, however, you embark on a campaign to find out as much as you can about the unseen hands before you commit yourself in the club suit. So, after taking the opening diamond with the queen, you lead a low heart and duck it completely!

East wins with the ten and returns a diamond to your king. You next cash the A-K of hearts, ace of diamonds and K-Q-A of spades. As you do this, you discover that West started with precisely five diamonds, five hearts and two spades, and therefore only one club.

You now have a sure thing, as long as you exercise one final bit of care. With the K-9-6-3 of clubs in your hand and two finesses through East needed, you must lead the jack or ten of clubs to the king and return the nine for a finesse through East. Since you have preserved the eight in your hand, you are thus able to retain the lead in dummy to repeat the finesse against East and thereby bring in the slam.

the major credit bureaus, Equifax, Experian and Trans Union. Each agency may have different information on your report, and therefore, a different score.

Myth 5: Continually checking your credit report will lower your score. You can check your report from the three credit bureaus as many times as you want, and it will not affect your credit score. To obtain a credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com.

Myth 6: Your salary helps determine your credit score. Your credit score is based on the amount of credit and debt you have, not how much money you make. If you receive a raise, and your credit and debt remain the same, your credit score will not improve.

Myth 7: Shopping around for a loan can damage your credit score. While inquiries do show up on your credit report, they do not necessarily damage your score. If the same types of inquiries are made within 14 days of each other, they only count as one inquiry on your credit report. Keep in mind that this applies to loans, not credit cards.

Myth 8: Using cash for everything helps increase your credit score. Your credit score is determined by the amount of credit you use, not cash. A steady, responsible use of credit is the best way to build your credit score.

Myth 9: Tying the knot means tying credit scores. Credit scores, for better or worse, remain separate after you are married. If you open a joint account, the credit information will show up on both reports.

Myth 10: If you co-sign on a loan, you don't owe anything on delinquent accounts if you didn't make the purchases. If the primary loan recipient is not able to pay, the co-signer is responsible for the debts, whether that person made any purchases or not.

'Sentinel' stars feel the heat after recent interviews

By PHILIP WUNTCH

The Dallas Morning News

Michael Douglas and Eva Longoria have more in common than starring in "The Sentinel," which opens Friday. They both had lots of explaining to do after interviews with national publications.

Gentleman's Quarterly quoted Douglas in its April issue as criticizing Brad Pitt for the Jennifer Aniston-Angelina Jolie brouhaha. He also reportedly chided Julia Roberts and Renee Zellweger for their brief marriages to Lyle Lovett and Kenny Chesney, respectively.

Longoria, "Desperate Housewives" lusty Gabrielle Solis, discussed her relationship with San Antonio Spurs point guard Tony Parker in an Allure interview this spring.

"The Allure interview by itself was just fine," Longoria said in a recent telephone interview. "I told Allure that I was more experienced in relationships. I'm 31, and I've been married and divorced. Tony's 23 and has had only one long-term relationship. Then the tabloids had a field day, rearranging the quotes so that it sounded like I said Tony was sexually inexperienced and I had to give him lessons."

"Tony knows what the truth is, and that's what's important. Things like that come with the territory. I try to go with the flow."

Instead of going with GQ's flow, Douglas, 61, says he wrote letters that "apologized profusely" to the celebrities mentioned and has publicly denied making the comments.

"I spent 20 hours with the GQ writer," Douglas said in a recent phone interview. "I called her and asked her to play back the sections where I allegedly made the remarks. She said she had turned off her recorder when I supposedly made them."

"Print publications are under pressure to be as provocative as they can. So they leak a seemingly provocative quote to the media a month before the magazine hits the stands, in hopes of stirring up interest."

Douglas says he may quit doing print interviews altogether. "Or else I'll record them as they interview me."

Douglas, his wife, Catherine Zeta-Jones, and their two children, 5-year-old Dylan and 3-year-old Carys, live in Bermuda most of the time. "It's wonderful for kids to grow up without paparazzi or celebrity-stalking Web sites," he says.

That intrusive technology that most celebrities rail against plays a pivotal role in "The Sentinel," in which Douglas stars as a Secret Service agent caught in a web when a plot to assassinate the president appears to come from within the Secret Service. Kiefer Sutherland plays a friend-turned-rival, Longoria is a rookie Secret Service agent and Kim Basinger is the first lady, who has her own set of secrets.

"Working with Kim is a longtime dream," says Douglas, who also produced the film. "She was our first choice for 'Basic Instinct.' But she had already done '9 Weeks' and didn't want to become the go-to actress for erotic thrillers."

The mention of "Basic Instinct" brings an obvious question about the sequel, also starring Sharon Stone, to which Douglas gives a dutiful answer.

"No, I haven't seen 'Basic Instinct 2' yet. I'm aware of the reviews. But I have respect for Sharon and wish her well."

Always vocal about his political beliefs, Douglas was appointed "Messenger of Peace" by United Nations Secretary-General Kofi Annan. There are six other "Messengers," including Luciano Pavarotti and Muhammad Ali. "Each of us has an area we focus on," he says. "Mine is disarmament."

He would have had a tough time trying to disarm Longoria. Having grown up on her father's ranch near Corpus Christi, Texas, she was the best shot on "The Sentinel's" set.

"I got lots of practice with my dad. For targets, I used cans, bottles, anything that exploded. I loved the noise."

But not everything in her early years was sunshine and target practice.

"I was definitely the ugly duckling of my family," she says convincingly.

"I was dark, and my three sisters were beautiful, fair-skinned blondes. They told me I must have been switched at birth. Now, whenever I'm on a magazine cover, I send it to them."

She says she sought the largely unsmiling role of agent Jill Marin because it's so different from "Housewives" Gabrielle.

"Before 'Desperate Housewives' ran any longer and I became totally immersed in the public's eye as Gabrielle, I wanted a change of pace. And, actually, I'm much more like Jill than Gabrielle. I love the outdoors, and I love action. Gaby is much more the indoor type."

"But Jill is ambitious and hardworking. She'll probably run the country one day."

For that, you'll have to wait to see whether there's a "Sentinel II."

Review: 'American Dreamz'

By CARRIE RICKEY

Knight Ridder Newspapers

Given that 65 million votes were cast in the "American Idol 3" finale, more than half the 122 million tallied in the 2004 presidential race, it was only a matter of time before a satirist took aim at American politics by using the TV show as ammunition.

Too bad, then, that "American Dreamz," writer-director Paul Weitz's cockeyed look at the popularity contest as social metaphor, mostly shoots blanks.

"Dreamz" is not FOTFL (fall-on-the-floor laughing). Nor is it LOL (laugh-out-loud). For the most part, it is :-() (huh?).

Weitz's subject is the trashing of American politics and values in the Dumpster of pop culture. He starts promisingly, by sorting citizens into three basic types, the starmaker, the would-be star, and the sucker.

The harshly lit film equates snarky starmaker

Martin Tweed (Hugh Grant), the Simon Cowell-esque host and judge of the top-rated TV show "American Dreamz," with snarky Vice President Sutter (Willem Dafoe), who possesses the sepulchral voice and chrome dome of Dick Cheney. Weitz frames these men as puppeteers pulling the strings of pop stars and presidents, and, by proxy, controlling America.

Tweed and Sutter are dastardly, the people they control are dupes, and everyone else dopes. Weitz lampoons the starmakers for condescending to Americans, but he himself is guilty of the same attitude. Like Tweed and Sutter, whose faces are frozen into permanent sneers, Weitz's stance toward most of the characters is one of smirking superiority.

For a writer-director so compassionate toward often unsympathetic subjects in "American Pie," "About a Boy" and "In Good Company" (the first two cowritten with his brother Chris), it seems out of character that Weitz would have such a jaundiced eye for those who make up his American mosaic. For a filmmaker who previously exhibited such perfect pitch, it's almost incomprehensible that this Weitz film is so tone-deaf.

The only likable characters are ebullient Omer (Sam Goltzari), a show-tune-loving reluctant Iraqi suicide bomber who comes to the O.C., and earnest William (Chris Klein), an American GI wounded in Iraq, who are mirror images.

Weitz doesn't even get within shouting distance of the "Saturday Night Live" parodies of "American Idol" and President Bush. Nor, cast as versions of Laura and George W. Bush, do Marcia Gay Harden and Dennis Quaid do anything more than pretty good impersonations of the first lady and president. Similarly, as aspiring TV-show contestant Sally Kendoo, Mandy Moore turns in a creditable impersonation of Carrie Underwood.

But their impersonations lack the sting of satire, something that Hugh Grant brings to his Cowell caricature of Martin Tweed. Grant plays it like a thirsty alley cat lapping up a tureen of curdled cream.

Except for Cowell, Weitz does not draw blood from his major targets. This said, his shapeless film does have some nice touches, including its tweak of the "American Idol" formula that inevitably pits Southern songbird against sexually ambiguous crooner against preening rocker against gospel diva.

Norah Jones takes her group, the Little Willies, out of hiding

By NEKESA MOODY

AP Music Writer

It wasn't too long ago that Norah Jones was living a double life, and trying hard to shield it from public view.

In the late-night hours, the smoky-voiced jazz singer and her friends would go out to one of the city's intimate music clubs and — in front of an audience no less — get on stage with her friends to belt out ... country tunes.

OK, so it's not exactly a juicy secret that would make the front pages of the National Enquirer.

Still the Grammy-winning chanteuse didn't want anyone to know. For Jones — who became a multiplatinum, record-setting sensation after the release of her first album — and remained one after the chart-topping success of the follow-up — singing in that club with her friends was a crucial outlet. It allowed her the low-key, good time that had too often eluded her since her breakout success. And she didn't want a media frenzy to ruin it.

"I was terrified of that, because this is the most fun I've had in a long time, with this band," she explains.

But, two years later, Jones is ready to let not only the media, but the whole world in on her secret. Her band — known as the Little Willies — has released its first album, filled with rollicking covers of songs by the likes of Kris Kristofferson, Willie Nelson, and Hank Williams Jr., plus a few penned by the Little Willies' own members.

"They're playing music that draws on the country tradition, but they're not really a country band — to me, they are more of a fun party," says Rita Houston, a radio host on WFUV in New York City. The band has performed at the radio station and for one of its functions.

That party vibe is evident even when the band is not performing. Sitting in the offices of Jones' label, Blue Note Records, Jones and the quartet of seasoned musicians — guitarist Jim Campilongo, guitarist and vocalist Richard Julian, drummer Dan Rieser and bassist Lee Alexander — interrupt each other's thoughts with laughter, jokes and anecdotes as they explain how the Little Willies came to be the coolest country covers band playing in a downtown New York club.

"Basically, the short story is that we're friends, we got a chance to play together a long time ago and we just wanted to again," says Jones. "It was sort of just an excuse to play together."

er."

It started out as just a jam session here and there, whenever the friends could coordinate their busy touring schedules and recording sessions. But instead of playing their own tunes, or Jones' famous songs, they'd lean toward more rootsy music, and found they had a common love for classic country.

"I've loved country music my entire life," says Campilongo. "This isn't some one-off thing, because I'm briefly charmed by it. I really love this music and I really relate to it and it really calls my name and I think it sounds like Bach to me when it's done right."

'Nature of the Beast' returns to the fold

Thanks to the flood of horror movie re-makes, sub-standard action wannabes and sequels steadily being churned out of the Hollywood movie mill, I'm finding myself more and more drawn to some of the older titles in my DVD collection.

I'm not saying there aren't any good movies in theaters right now, although flicks like "Brokeback Mountain" have me seriously concerned for my movie viewing safety, there just aren't any that can match up with some of the better movies-gone-by.

"Nature of the Beast," a psychological thriller directed by Victor Salva ("Powder," "Jeepers Creepers"), stands as a blazing example of this theory.

This film had been a staple in my movie viewing habits, right next to the likes of "The Big Lebowski," "Pulp Fiction" and "Shawshank Redemption." However, despite many years of enjoyment, the VHS tape I had it on finally fell prey to a careless finger and a video recorder.

Imagine sitting down to watch one of your favorite movies of all time and getting a dose of Oprah Winfrey. It's a step well beyond disturbing.

And while the culprit shall go unnamed — only for fear of a lawsuit and quite possibly something nasty in my corn flakes tomorrow morning — that was that. There wasn't another copy to be found for many, many miles.

Thank heavens for the age of the DVD and Internet movie sales. My coveted film has come home to roost on my collection shelf! But that's a different story altogether.

Never heard of "Nature of the Beast?" Of course not. It's one of those movies that slipped by most of us in the middle of the night thanks to poor marketing and little or no press while it was in theaters. I was lucky enough to catch the last 45 minutes on one of the premium cable channels, otherwise this column might be about Madonna's new album — and we're not going there, no way, no how.

And while we still ooh and ahh over the special effects in "I, Robot" and the latest Harry Potter flick, movies that hit us somewhere other than just our eyes, it's movies like this one that still appeal to our minds.

The movie lacks high-dollar actors like Tom Cruise and Brad Pitt, instead utilizing several actors I would consider to be supporting types. And without the Hollywood big names, it turns out a performance that would make the likes of Cruise and Pitt jealous come screening time.

Lance Henriksen ("Alien," "Alien vs. Predator") plays Jack, a mild mannered salesman of paper products making his rounds through Nevada. And, as we all know, mild mannered people are always bound to run into some of the scariest characters around.

Enter Eric Roberts ("Best of the Best," "The Immortals"), playing Adrian, the creepy drifter with a serious lack of self control. And while his friends may call him "Dusty," it only takes a few scenes for viewers to call him trouble on two feet.

The hitch to need it. There's a chemistry between the two that suggests a level of reality missing from most movies these days.

And as the story twists and turns — you think you have it figured out, but you never really don't — the viewer becomes more and more entangled in the fate of this pair.

There is a faint subplot to the movie concerning addiction, as Jack chides Adrian for his blatant drug use while in the process of knocking down a full bottle of bourbon. "There's two places they send people who are havin' too good a time," Adrian says, sitting on a bathroom floor, preparing an injection of what appears to be heroin. "One's church, the other's prison. And I done time in both, Jack."

The relationship between this pair of criminals culminates into a confrontation at a secluded cabin in the woods, where the lines between axe murderer and thief get even further blurred.

No matter how many times I've seen this movie — I'd dare to say it's approaching the hundreds — nothing can prepare you for the dramatic ending, where identities are revealed and motives clarified. I still get shivers when...

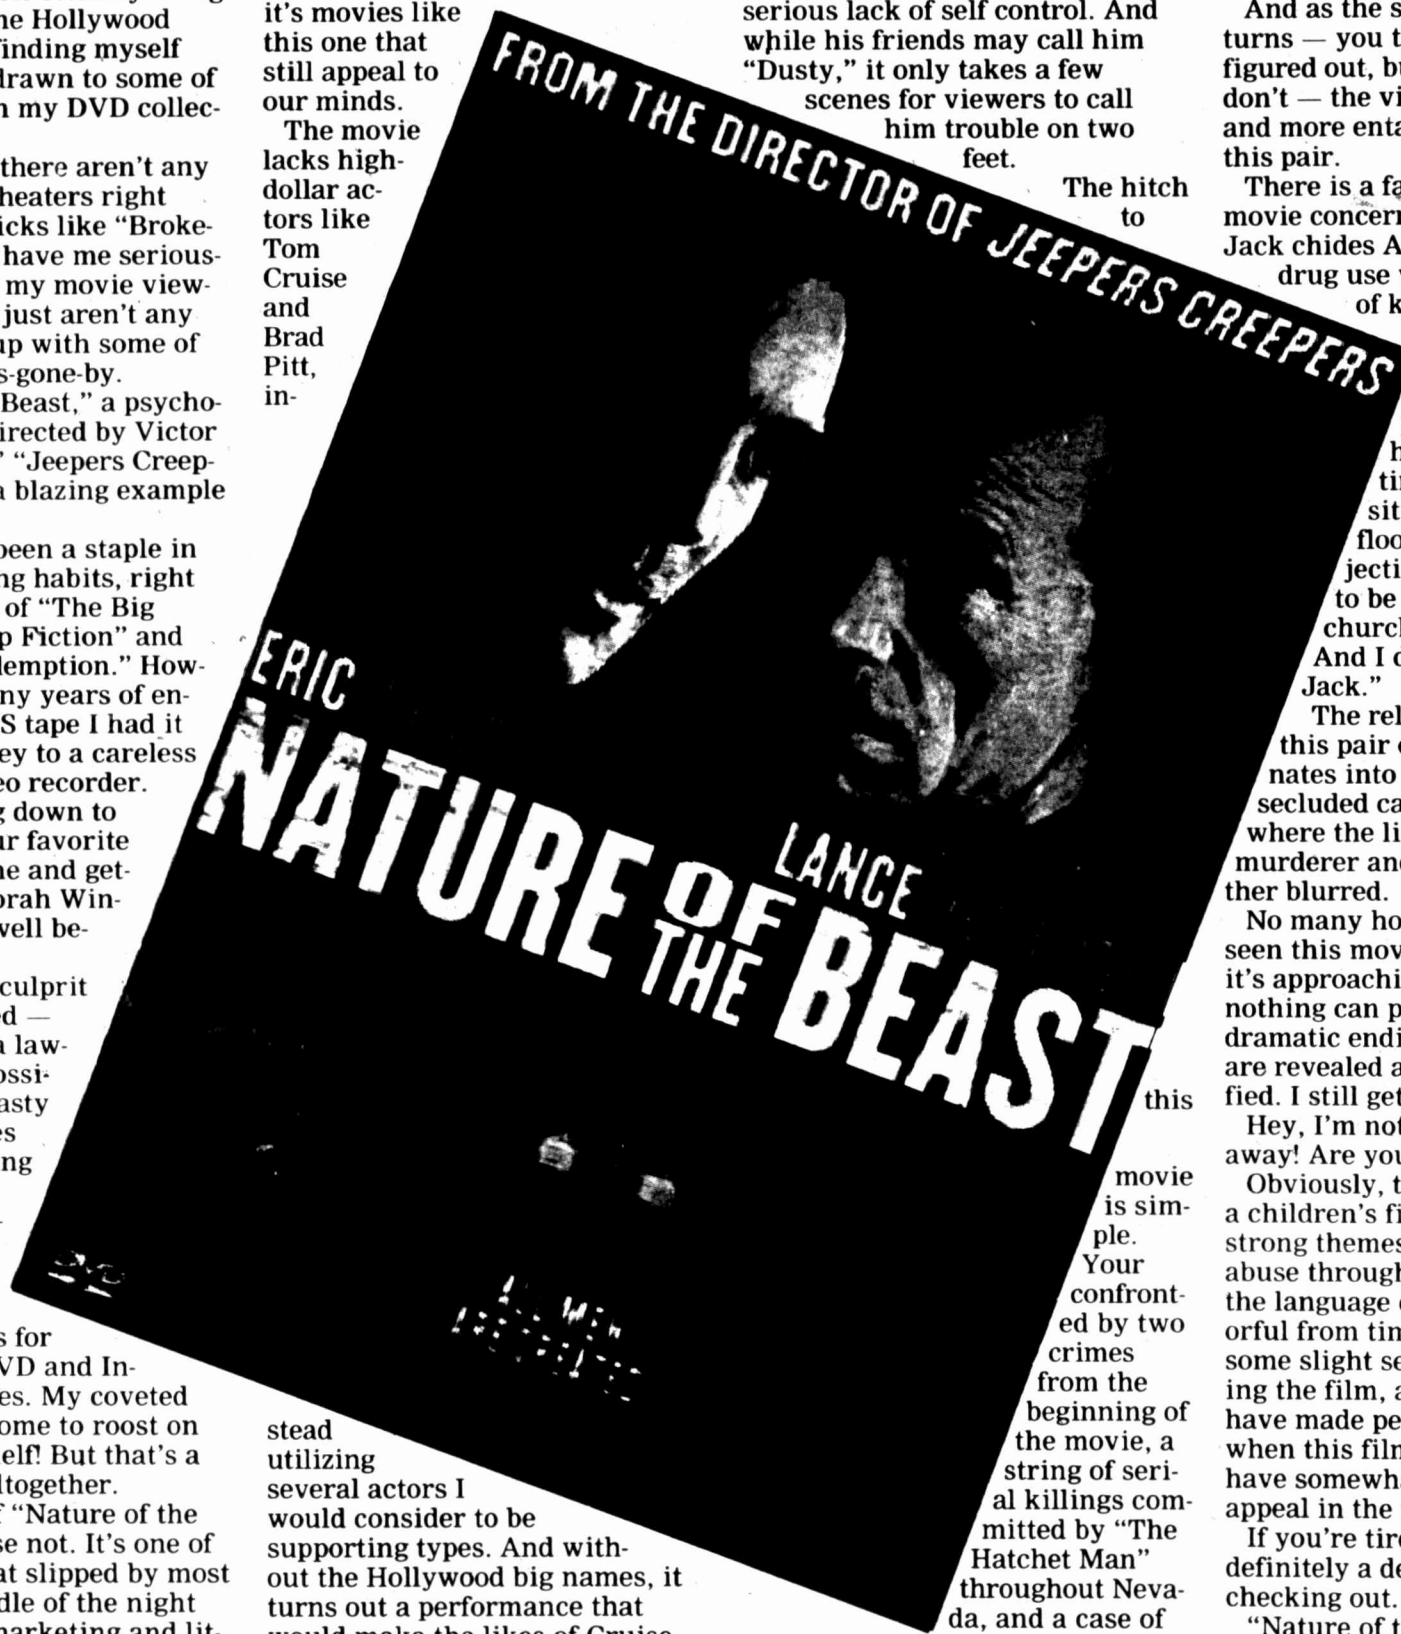

Hey, I'm not going to give this away! Are you nuts?

Obviously, this isn't necessarily a children's film. There are strong themes of drug and alcohol abuse throughout the film, and the language can get mighty colorful from time to time. There are some slight sexual references during the film, and while they may have made people blush in 1995, when this film was released, they have somewhat lost their risqué appeal in the new millennium.

If you're tired of the new, this is definitely a decade-old film worth checking out.

"Nature of the Beast" — 5 Stars

Thomas Jenkins, a South Carolina transplant still fumbling through a case of Texas culture shock, is a Staff Writer for the Big Spring Herald by day and rock guitarist for local band Rustic Circle by night. Contact Jenkins at 263-7331 ext. 232 or by e-mail at citydesk@bigspringherald.com this movie is simple. Your confronted by two crimes from the beginning of the movie, a string of serial killings committed by "The Hatchet Man" throughout Nevada, and a case of mob money that was stolen from a Vegas casino.

You come to terms early in the movie that this odd couple of Jack and Adrian are the two culprits in these crimes, but the questions is: Which one is which?

While Roberts and Henriksen get little support from the rest of the cast, they obviously don't
