WEATHER GOES ON RAMPAGE IN TEXAS

Killer Tornadoes Strike

TORNADO CLEANUP—Residents and friends came from all around to help those whose homes were destroyed in a killer tornado which struck Plainview Sunday morning. The Forest Mickey home (shown) was located in the fashionable Westridge section of Plainview.

By The Associated Press
Tornadoes killed seven persons, injured at least 34 others and caused millions of dollars in property damage Sunday when they smashed into two Texas communities.

Texas' worst storm of the season left five others dead.

Three Dallas Boy Scouts were crushed to death when high winds toppled a pine tree on their tent near Alto in Southeast Texas. Two persons drowned in flash flooding in San Antonio.

WITH HAIL
Thunderstorms—some armed with hail—and high winds battered virtually every section of the state.

The first tornado hit before dawn in the north and west sections of Plainview, a city of about 20,000 persons about 45 miles north of Lubbock, a metropolitan city hit with a destructive tornado in 1971.

A newsman, David Bryant, 30, of the Plainview Daily Herald, was killed while helping with civil defense efforts during the twister's rampage. Kevin Lewellen, about two, died when his family tried to reach a storm cellar.

Police said a report of a third person killed in Plainview was unconfirmed.

About an hour before sundown, another twister struck the South Texas town of Pearsall, killing five persons and injuring eight, at least two seriously.

"Four houses were demolished, the airport and about eight planes were destroyed," said state police patrolman Bill Rowan in Pearsall. "We still don't have any identities on those dead. We found all five in a field anywhere from 100 yards to a quarter mile from the main highway. In all cases, we think the dead were blown off the highway in their cars. We believe most of the dead and injured are from out of town."

Early today, thunderstorms, heavy rains and gusty winds accompanied a weak Pacific cool front through the coastal plains and extreme South Texas areas.

East and South Texas were blanketed by clouds, while the rest of the state was clear to partly cloudy.

Temperatures near dawn ranged from 30s in the Panhandle to the 70s across the southern tip of the state.

FLOOD WARNINGS
Heavy rains and thunderstorms in the pre-dawn hours led the weather service to issue flash flood warnings for several counties on the coast and in the San Antonio area.

Counties affected included Atascosa, Karnes, Maverick, Zavala, Frio, Bexar, Wilson, Harris and Fort Bend.

The weather service said the flood would occur because of rapid runoff in areas that have been saturated over a three-day period.

Plainview, with all of Sunday's daylight hours to sift through debris and search for injured, appeared to be recovering well from the effects of the twister.

"Everything's pretty well under control now," sheriff's deputy Robert Jones said early today. "We're getting things cleaned up. We are a little slow getting the power back on the west side, but portable power units are helping a lot."

Plainview got much the worst of the day's weather, however.

The killer Panhandle twister struck first in the affluent Westridge section of the city's far southwest corner and, pounding northeastward, struck another residential section before smashing into industrial complex.

$4 MILLION DAMAGE
The Hale County sheriff's office said that although 26 were injured in Plainview, none was believed to be in serious condition. But damage in the city was estimated at early $4 million, including about 20 expensive homes.

Among the industrial plants heavily damaged were the Jimmie Dean Sausage plant and the Missouri Meat Packing Plant. Police said other nearby firms took "a heavy beating."

"I don't see how any of them escaped some damage," a patrolman said. "It's all pretty well torn up."

Power lines were torn down and telephone service disrupted over the whole storm area. Relief units and unaffected townspeople worked feverishly in any way possible.

AX 37,812 JOBS 224 Military Installations To Be Closed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officials said today that 224 military installations will be closed and 21,172 civilian and 16,640 military jobs will be terminated, a reliable Senate source reported.

The disclosure came following meetings Pentagon officials had with various state congressional delegations on Capitol Hill.

TO CLOSE BRIG
Among those which will be closed are Hunter's Point Naval Yard at San Francisco and the Boston Naval Yard.

The Pentagon officials said a total of 274 bases will be affected in some way by the reductions. The hospital and brig will definitely be shut down in Portsmouth, N. H., but there are some conflicting reports on whether or not the rest of the installation will remain.

There are approximately 480 military installations in the United States. They employ 2.3 million members of the Armed Forces and about 1.1 million civilians hired directly by the government.

Texas will lose two bases: Laredo Air Force Base and the Ft. Wolters Army Helicopter Training Base.

SAN ANGELO HIT
In addition, Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio will lose a net of 1,075 civilians over the next three years but will absorb 253 more military personnel from another Texas base, Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo, with the transfer to Kelly of the Security Squadron.

The office of Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said Texas will lose 1,352 military and 1,443 civilian military jobs between now and 1976.

Both Laredo and Ft. Wolters will be maintained on a caretaker status until the property is declared excess in the future.

Laredo had an authorized base strength of 2,100 military and 520 civilian persons but has been below that in actual jobs. The Air Force is reducing the nationwide pilot training program from 4,400 to 3,425 persons and Laredo is absorbing the cutback. It now is training 409 pilot students.

MISSILE SITE
The missile warning site will be maintained but will be moved from Laredo AFB to another location in the border city, maintaining a payroll of 113 military and 4 civilians.

At Ft. Wolters the authorized strength has been 691 military and 569 civilians. In addition, Southern Airways has operated a $8 million contract with the government at Ft. Wolters and employed 664 people at the base.

The helicopter flight training program will be moved to Ft. Rucker, with 57 military and 11 civilians moving from Texas to Ft. Rucker.

The Defense Language Institute's Vietnamese language school at El Paso will be closed, for a loss of 25 civilian and 19 military jobs.

A related school at Lackland Air Force Base, the English Language Training School, will be moved to Ft. Monmouth in New Jersey by July 1975. This will cost the San Antonio base 32 military and 223 civilian jobs.

Webb Not Included, Burleson Thinks

It is his understanding, said Congressman Omar Burleson, that Webb AFB is not among the military installations slated for closing.

The official list will be announced Tuesday, but the congressman said Monday morning he had no word that Webb would be affected, and indeed it is his understanding that it is not on the list of the Secretary of Defense.

Grass Turns Out To Be Just That

Two young girls here excitedly brought two sacks of grass to the city police which they had found on a local school ground.

The "grass" turned out to be just that — bermuda variety.

Charge Texan After Train Engines Hit

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A string of stolen locomotive engines smashed head-on into another engine near the Santa Fe freight yards here early Sunday, killing one man and injuring two others.

Paul F. Basham, 45, Kansas City, Kan., died when he leaped from the second engine and fell beneath the wheels of another train. Basham was a Santa Fe switchman.

Arrested in connection with the incident was Gary W. Hurst, 21, identified by police only as a Dallas transient. Hurst told police he had gotten off a freight train from Emporia and was looking for an eastbound freight to ride to Chicago.

Police said they were holding the Dallas man for investigation of homicide, train theft and criminal trespass.

They said Hurst told them he could not find a freight heading east so he climbed into the cab of a Norfolk and Western engine hooked to three other diesel engines.

Authorities said the four-unit engine was waiting to be connected to a train. H. L. Rogers, acting superintendent at Santa Fe, said the Norfolk units had entered the yards about an hour before they were stolen.

Cedar Crest Is Setting Example In Campaign

Cedar Crest Elementary is considered leading the field of city schools participating in a campus and neighborhood clean-up campaign being sponsored throughout the week by the Chamber of Commerce.

Cotton trailers were placed at each elementary Friday in which trash gathered by students over the weekend and throughout the week until next Monday is being placed.

Chamber Manager Ron Mercer said a visit to all of the schools last night showed Cedar Crest in the lead with the most trash collected in plastic trash bags and stored in its cotton trailer.

"FIVE HAD NONE"

Mercer said that Moss and Marcy Elementaries are running a close second to Cedar Crest, while Boydston, College Heights and Kentwood schools are getting started.

"I was rather surprised to notice that trailers at five of the elementaries did not have one single piece of trash in them," said Mercer of his survey Sunday.

"I am hopeful that the people at those schools — Lakeview, Airport, Bauer, Washington and Park Hill — just didn't have a chance to get started this weekend and will participate during the week," Mercer added, saying that "surely there is trash in these neighborhoods too."

Mercer encouraged parents and neighbors of elementary school children to help youngsters clean up the area, placing trash in the plastic bags provided them by the Chamber and passed out last week by the High School Key Club.

"A lot of people so far have been taking trash down into bags," Mercer noted. "So, consequently, we've got more trash blowing around outside the trailers than in them."

WIND, A FACTOR

He said the Chamber clean-up committee had planned to let down the tall tailgates on the trailers last weekend so that children could easily reach in to deposit their trash.

However, due to high wind Sunday, this was not done. Consequently, Mercer explained, those gathering trash can leave their tied plastic bags alongside the trailers, and Chamber members and Key Clubbers will see that they are placed in the trailers.

"We're conducting this drive through the schools in hopes that the efforts of school children will mushroom throughout the neighborhoods involving parents and other citizens. We can't expect our young children to do it all," Mercer remarked.

He added that if everyone would pick up one bagful of trash, it would make a tremendous difference in the appearance of the community.

In another segment of the month-long beautification campaign, Main Street businesses contributed $260 to the Boys Club for its downtown clean-up efforts the past two Saturdays and continuing on Saturdays throughout April.

whether U.S. B52 bombers had begun renewed strikes over Laos would come from Pacific Command headquarters in Hawaii later today.

U.S. bombers have been hitting Cambodian targets for about six weeks. There have been no American air strikes in Vietnam since the cease-fire was signed Jan. 27.

Friedheim said there has been heavy fighting near the Laotian town of Tha Vieng for the past few days. He could provide no details on the size of the Vietnamese and the Pathet Lao Communist force which now occupies the town.

There has been a separate cease-fire declared in Laos and there had been relatively little fighting there in recent weeks.

Friedheim said he was not sure if the Laotian government in Vientiane had asked for U.S. bombers, but indicated the American government expected it would.

More South Vietnamese troops were reported moving toward the Cambodian frontier today following the first incursion across the border that Saigon troops are known to have made since the Vietnam cease-fire.

Field reports indicated that the South Vietnamese operations along the border were defensive, aimed at driving Communist forces from the border rather than the start of a major offensive to lift the threat to Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital.

DANGEROUS ACT
South Vietnamese air force gunships joined an armored column on the Cambodian side of the border, and new fighting was reported on the Vietnamese side of the frontier.

The Viet Cong called the march into Cambodia "a blunt and very dangerous act of the Saigon military forces." A Viet Cong broadcast said the operation was ordered by the United States and "criminally violates the independence, unification, sovereignty, neutrality and territorial integrity of Cambodia as well as the Paris agreement and the international agreement on Vietnam."

Housewife Slain At Door

BELFAST (AP) — A 59-year-old Protestant housewife answering a knock at her door was killed about midnight Sunday by gunmen who didn't even see their victim.

Security forces believed Margaret Miller might have been shot in revenge for the slaying 24 hours earlier of Robert Millen, 23, one of the few Protestants in the Irish Republican Army.

Four bullets ripped through the front door of Mrs. Miller's Belfast home, hitting her in the chest as she came down the hall to answer the door. Her killer jumped into a waiting car and escaped.

Miller was shot from a speeding car in Belfast Saturday night while on a vigilante patrol with other members of the IRA's Marxist Official wing. He was believed to be the first Protestant member of the largely Roman Catholic IRA to die since communal warfare broke out in Northern Ireland nearly four years ago.

The deaths of Mrs. Miller and Millen raised the confirmed fatality toll in the strife to 774.

SORORITY SPEAKERS EXPLORE CHANGING ROLES OF WOMEN

"Is A Woman Merely An Adult Version Of A Child?"

"A man is better pleased when he has a good dinner than when his wife talks Greek," said Ms. Mary Dudley quoting a magazine article. "But I wonder when the wife is more pleased," added Ms. Dudley.

Ms. Dudley and Ms. Dannie Botros spoke Thursday to Alpha Chi Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, at what they termed an "informal consciousness raising session," in the Texas Electric Reddy Room.

"One thing we always like to point out," said Ms. Dudley, "is that if you're happy, keep on being happy. The women's liberation movement isn't supposed to make people miserable that are happy. Its purpose is to make people who are miserable realize they aren't weird; that some women don't fit the role as all books say they should. If you do fit the role, you'll be happy, but there are a lot of women who are uncomfortable with the role, and that's where the movement is coming from." The speakers agreed that it is important that even women who don't personally feel the need for more equality should accept the movement and its goals for the benefit of all women.

"Just because you're not feeling sick, doesn't mean you should close all the hospitals," said Ms. Botros, quoting Flo Kennedy, a black civil rights lawyer. "In other words, if you don't feel you need this freedom we're fighting for, don't close everybody else out."

"Society has condescended women into believing the role that we have," said Ms. Dudley. "All through history, people have been saying dreadful things about women, and they have been important people."

Ms. Dudley said the Portuguese proverb is "Do not trust a good woman, and keep away from a bad one." The German proverb reads, "Whenever a woman dies, there is one quarrel less on earth." The Confucian marriage manual says "The five worse infirmities that afflict the female are indolence, discontent, slander, jealousy and silliness. Such is the stupidity of women's character that it is incumbent upon her in every particular to distrust herself and to obey her husband."

Alexander Pope was more to the point when he said, "Most women have no character at all." Napoleon Bonaparte said, "Nature intended women to be our slaves. What a mad idea to demand equality for women. Women are nothing but machines for producing children."

Ms. Botros said it is significant that so many women say they don't like to be around other women and that they feel more comfortable around men. "It's terrible to feel like that," she said, "but if women don't think much of themselves, naturally they don't think much of someone just like them. They want to be around something better."

Ms. Dudley said there is no reason a woman should be a "reflection of her husband," but that girls are programmed as a child to a passive role. They are told not to fight, are given dolls to play with and frilly dresses to wear. She said if young girls show too much aggression or independence, they are encouraged to modify their behavior and be more passive because "aggression is for males."

"I think it's sad that you are a reflection of whoever you are married to, and that what your husband does is the most important thing," said Ms. Dudley. "Your role with your husband is important, but for that to be the sum total of you is wrong."

According to Ms. Dudley, a woman's dependence comes from reacting to all social pressures, both implicit and explicit. This includes what women must do legally, and what neighbors and society say women should do if they are a "normal person."

"Sometimes the cultural pressures are more binding than legal demands," said Ms. Dudley. "As a result, women have never become attuned to their own individualistic functions. They are used to functioning for others and feel an immense guilt if they spend time on themselves. Most of the world is out doing things for themselves, but women have always done things for others."

"The role of 'she dependent; he independent' is easy to accept," she continued. "The husband is supporting her, and she finds the experience rather comfortable. But at what price? Has she become an adult version of a child. Is she dependent on the male for her interests, her thinking, her decision making and her self definition?" The speakers emphasized the importance of women finding self-fulfillment in their own interests.

Ms. Botros reviewed the status of the Equal Legal Rights Amendment now before the states. She said 28 states have ratified it, 10 have rejected it, and there are 12 still uncommitted. Of those 12, 10 must ratify it for it to pass.

She said there is a lot of opposition arising about the amendment, and that Nebraska, although it has already ratified the amendment, is now trying to change its mind.

"Some states that rejected the amendment are now thinking about ratifying it," said Ms. Botros. "This is legal, but the courts question the legality of a state changing its mind after ratification. If we get the 38 necessary states, including Nebraska, I believe they'll have to file a petition for a court case and get a supreme court judgment on it." She said the John Birch Society is the most adamant group against the proposed amendment.

"Texas voters were foresighted," said Ms. Botros. "They passed the Equal Legal Rights Amendment to the Texas Constitution in November. Even if the national amendment fails, we have our rights protected."

"The amendment means it's against the law to discriminate because of sex," said Ms. Botros, "but of course that doesn't mean discrimination will end. It just means women now have legal recourse. If you're discriminated against, you can report it to the proper agency or file suit."

Ms. Botros and Ms.

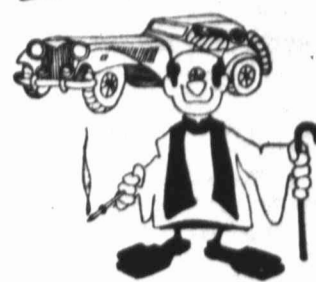

Dudley said the movement is progressing across the nation and in Big Spring. Ms. Botros said the election of a woman, Mrs. Floyd Mays, to Big Spring City Commission, is evidence that women are becoming more accepted in important roles.

"Even women who say they don't like the movement are getting their consciousness raised," said Ms. Botros. "Women all over are becoming more aware of the movement. They are aware of the issues and new roles open to women, and are unconsciously becoming familiar with the terminology. Many women have reached the point where they say to themselves, 'Is this the way I want to live until I die?'"

It takes maturity to look at life objectively, and many women are finding this maturity." Mrs. Clovis Hale presided during the chapter business meeting. It was announced that Mrs. Priscilla Webb, Monahan, District 8 president, will visit the chapter meeting April 26. Members agreed to operate a concession stand at the motocross races scheduled May 5-6.

Officers for 1973-1974 club year will be installed at a salad supper meeting April 26, place to be announced.

"THOSE CRAZY EPISCOPALIANS" are they sort of a private club ... just for the rich?

Ha! You should be around when the nearest Episcopal parish is trying to finalize its annual budget. You'd know better.

Actually, this church did acquire a bit of snob appeal during the early days of our nation. English colonists introduced their own Episcopal version of The Church of England. It was only natural that many of these "first comers" became the wealthy landowners, the merchants, the gentry of this young nation. George Washington, Alexander Hamilton and — indeed — three-fourths of the signers to the U. S. Constitution were Episcopalians.

But today, the Episcopal Church represents an exceptionally broad cross section of the nation: people of every vocation, social status, race and political persuasion gathered under one roof.

You see, Episcopalians believe strongly that the church is a proper meeting ground for men's differences. Christianity, they say, represents the world's greatest hope for reconciling the divisions between one man and another. You don't have to agree with your fellow man; you only have to live with him.

Your nearest Episcopal minister may have some very good thoughts for you on that ticklish subject. There's no obligation on your part if you care to pay him a visit.

Rehab Center Needs Outlined By Director

Jim Thompson, director of Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, was guest speaker Friday for City Home Demonstration Club at the home of Mrs. D. D. Johnston, 600 E. 16th.

Thompson said services at the center have extended from 160 patients in 1962 to 1,831 patients in 1972. He said the center offers physical and speech therapy and that payment is on the "honor system." Patients pay for their services according to their ability to pay, and only when they feel they are able to make payment.

Thompson said there is a need for further awareness of the center's purpose and accomplishments. The center is financed largely from contributions of individuals and organizations. He feels the center needs a library where staff members can continue their education in the therapy field. Also, he feels the work-load of the center justifies the need for a psychologist and more social workers.

Mrs. Merle Hodnett presided, and guests were Mrs. Thurston Orenbaum and Mrs. Tom Williams of Pomona, Calif. Devotion was by Mrs. Marvin Sewell and Mrs. A. W. Page won the attendance prize.

Mrs. Waymon Etchison and Mrs. Alton Underwood reported on the recent district meeting they attended in Colorado City. Members of the club will serve refreshments and lead games Wednesday for residents at Big Spring Nursing Inn.

The club will meet again April 27 at the home of Mrs. Clyde Cantrell, Snyder Highway.

Forum Hears About Texas' Writers, Poets

Writers such as Liz Carpenter, Mary Lasswell, Mirabeau Lamar and Ann Porter were discussed Friday by Mrs. Fred Whitaker in her program "Texas Writers and Poets" presented for Modern Woman's Forum at the home of Mrs. E. C. Howard, 1500 Lancaster.

"Mary Lasswell is as Texan as the Alamo," said Mrs. Whitaker. "She has had 14 books published." Mrs. Whitaker said Mrs. Lasswell is one of few authors who have sold more than a million hard-cover copies of her books, and her publisher says she ranks with Hawthorne, Emerson, Dickens and Churchill. Her books included "Rags and Hope," "I'll Take Texas," "Tio Pepe," "Tooner Schooner," and "Bread for the Living."

Mrs. Whitaker defined Liz Carpenter as "an outspoken Texan from Sahado." She was formerly press secretary to Lady Bird Johnson, and is now an executive with an international public relations firm. Her book, "Ruffles and Flourishes," won her the Writer's Round-Up Award in 1970.

Mirabeau Lamar, one of the state's first poets, was president of the Republic of Texas and wrote "The Daughter of Mendoza." Another pioneer fighter,

Capt. Reuben Potter, wrote "The Hymn of the Alamo." Ann Porter was born in Indian Creek and wrote such books as "Flowering Judas" and "Pale Rider."

"I've only named a few of the authors and poets of our state," said Mrs. Whitaker. "People are interested in reading about people, and the Texas book world has to its credit many excellent works about Texas and Texans."

Mrs. J. P. Dodge briefly outlined the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs which is composed of 810 clubs with an approximate membership of 23,100.

A new slate of officers was accepted by the members. Those to be installed are Mrs. C. R. Moad, president; Mrs. W. E. Singleton, first vice president; Mrs. Hugh Duncan, second vice president; Mrs. S. R. Nobles, secretary; Mrs. Ruby Martin, treasurer; Mrs. W. A. Lasswell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. G. Adams, historian; Mrs. Dodge, federation counselor; and Mrs. Whitaker, parliamentarian.

Following the meeting, members went to the Heritage Museum and toured the medical exhibit now on display. The next meeting will be April 27 in the home of Mrs. Margaret White, 1203 Douglas.

Don't Laugh

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a delivery man, and he keeps telling me how many opportunities he has to get something going with the women on his route.

I know it's true because Al is good-looking, well-built, and has a friendly easy-to-know way about him. He says the women keep telling him that their husbands are at work and their kids are in school all day, and wouldn't he like a cup of coffee "or something." Al says, "Of course I turn them all down because I'm true-blue."

Nevertheless it annoys me to be reminded of his loyalty nearly every day. I told my girl friend about it and she said: "Oh he's just trying to make you jealous. Laugh it off and pretend you don't care what he does." Somehow I'm not very good at pretending. I'm 35 and Al's 36, and I'm still slim and attractive. We have three school-age children. What do you advise?

HIGHLAND PARK HOUSEWIFE

DEAR HOUSEWIFE: Don't laugh it off. Let him know you care a lot. And ask him if it ever occurred to him that you are also a woman with a husband at work and kids in school all day. Then tell him you're "true-blue," too, but don't think you're entitled to a good conduct medal. He'll get the message.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A106 ♣AKQJ 10 ♦J4 ♣KJ6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♣ Pass 2 ♦ Pass

3 ♥ Pass 5 ♦ Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Partner hardly can have less than a solid six or seven card diamond suit, which is all you need for a slam in hearts.

You cannot contemplate a grand slam, for if partner had the ace of clubs he no doubt would have taken time out to show it. Because of your club holding it would be hazardous to permit partner to play the hand; therefore, your correct bid is six hearts.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q2 ♣J53 ♦10642 ♠10753

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♣ 2 ♥ Pass Pass

Dble. Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Two spades. We would decline to bid our "best suit" in the interest of economy. This is the cheapest action open to us. No remote thought is to be given to a pass.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠62 ♠5 ♠AQ7653 ♠7542

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♣ 2 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. There is no need to rescue partner. Inasmuch as he has not been doubled you are not to assume that he is in trouble. A bid by you is more apt to incite him to further action.

Q. 4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ10 ♣Q6 ♦KJ63 ♠K1084

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1 ♣ 2 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Three no trump. Obviously you wish to play for game with this powerful hand and no indirect methods are necessary.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A ♣AS2 ♦QJ97 ♠10642

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South

1 ♣ Pass ?

What is your response?

A.—This hand contains 11 points in high cards and is, therefore, too strong for a one no trump response. The choice, therefore, simmers down to two hearts or two diamonds. Our preference is for the latter as less apt to lead to complications. Whenever we can reasonably avoid a takeout to two in a very weak four card major, we try to do so. In this case, if partner has four fairly good hearts, he may conveniently show them over your two diamond bid.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K73 ♣Q84 ♦K642 ♠AQ6

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♣ Pass 2 NT Pass

3 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The suggested call is a return to three hearts. There is no occasion for any more drastic action at this time. You are warned not to get too excited. Do not lose sight of the fact that your two no trump bid promised 13, 14, or 15 points. You have 14.

Q. 7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠109876 ♠A103 ♦K8 ♠A2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass

3 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Opposite partner's jump shift, you hold a very impressive hand. Its value at the outset was 14 points, now that spades have been supported your hand may be revalued at 17 points—one for the fifth spade and two for the sixth. Therefore, you may conclude that you have sufficient values for a slam, for partner's jump shift promised at least 19 points. We suggest a direct bid of six spades, or if you wish to enjoy the ceremony you may prolong the fun by showing one of your aces.

Q. 8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A4 ♣98 ♦KQJ987 ♠AQJ

The bidding has proceeded:

East South

What do you bid?

A.—Five diamonds. This may turn out badly but we consider it was a well calculated risk. There is no scientific way to find out if you can make the game and the prospective profit is worth the risk.

Passover Is Celebrated

Today's calendar linked observances of three of the world's major faiths as Christians observed the second day of Holy Week, Jews prepare to celebrate Passover at sundown, and Moslems celebrated the anniversary of the birth of the Prophet Mohammed.

The Jewish celebration of Passover lasts eight days and is expected to be extra joyful this year because Israel is celebrating its 25th anniversary as a nation.

Devout Jewish families burned their leavened bread, replacing it for Passover with the unleavened matzoh eaten by Israelites during their flight from Egypt 3,000 years ago.

Although no organized community services are being planned locally to celebrate Jewish Passover, individual families will hold their own private observances, according to A. J. Prager.

Most of the Arab world celebrated Mohammed's birthday on Sunday; but in some areas with large Christian populations, such as Lebanon, the holiday was observed today because of Palm Sunday.

News Is Sketchy On Robbery Here

At 12:55 a.m. Sunday, city police advised the Sheriff's office a man was reportedly robbed on the Snyder Highway, at a location near here, the sheriff's log showed.

Monday, the deputy sheriff sergeant had left town, and no one at the sheriff's office knew anything about the reported incident. Sheriff A. N. Standard has gone to a jail conference in Huntsville.

Cynthia B. Franklin was arrested for disturbing the peace and fined $27.50 about 3:30 a.m. Sunday, the sheriff's office reported. Police told the sheriff's office Woodie Thompson, Jr., complained a woman used her car to wreck his mother's vehicle.

AIM REFORM DEMANDS AT COLLECTORS Tax Filing Deadline Hours Away

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a midnight filing deadline only hours away, some Americans aimed disgust as well as dollars at the federal tax collector today.

Demonstrations designed to spur sweeping tax reforms were slated in 31 cities. All were organized by the Tax Action Campaign headed by former Democratic Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma.

PAYS TOO MUCH
The Harris group, claiming 25,000 enlistees, and other reform advocates have yet to agree on precise proposals for tax change. But they agree on one thing: The working man pays too much, the corporate giants too little.

Harris planned to illustrate that point by conferring a "Tax Avoider" award upon International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. during his scheduled speech to an afternoon taxpayers' rally in front of the New York Stock Exchange.

ITT, said Harris, paid $20.2 million in federal taxes in 1971 while reporting profits that year of $413.9 million—for an effective tax rate of only 4.9 percent. The statutory limit on corporations is 48 percent.

In Washington, ITT spokesman Bernie Goodrich said the firm would not comment on Harris' criticism.

TAX AVOIDER
Activities elsewhere in the country included news conferences, speeches by sympathetic congressmen, marches, picketing of IRS buildings, pamphletting and the presentation of other "tax avoider" awards.

Rallies were scheduled for Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Boston and Milwaukee. In Washington, Democratic

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie and George McGovern planned to urge tax reforms before the House Ways and Means Committee even though Chairman Wilbur Mills has said chances are slim for major action this year.

McGovern said in his prepared testimony that Congress should combine tax reform legislation with the trade bill President Nixon has asked it to pass. Mills has said he would lay aside tax reform and start hearings on the trade bill May 7.

CLOSE LOOP
"I think we must enact both bills," said McGovern, adding that it is "interesting that the urgency the White House has on trade legislation has grown in direct proportion to the threat that the Congress might pass meaningful tax reform."

On the House floor, seven congressmen headed by Reps. Donald Corman, D-Calif., and Henry Reuss, D-Wis., were to advance their own loophole-closing proposals in speeches.

Harris said in an interview representatives of his group will meet soon with labor and congressional leaders to decide on a detailed course of strategy. But at the least, he said, legislation should emerge this year which would restore total payroll taxes to 1971 levels.

Area Museum Institute Now Being Organized

Representatives from a dozen West Texas towns Saturday voted to form a temporary organization known as the Permian Basin Museum Institute.

Headed by John Ben Shepherd, Odessa, the group will function as a cooperative venture with the University of Texas, Permian Basin. Within staff and budget limitations, UTPB will provide administrative direction and assistance. Subsequently, if funds permit, UTPB may be able to provide a greater degree of staff assistance.

Twelve museums in the area, Heritage Museum in Big Spring among them, signified willingness to take part in the area association, said Jerry Worthy, the Heritage representative at the meeting held in Odessa.

Purpose of the institute will be to provide training for museum staffs and volunteers; arrange for visiting consultants; assist museums in obtaining loans of exhibit; establish a catalogue of objects, etc.; demonstrate techniques of operation; work cooperatively for work-study programs of students in establishing needed courses relating to museology; seek funding from private and public sources.

Following the meeting, delegates were the guests of President and Mrs. Bill Amstead of UTPB at a "centia" luncheon affair. At this meeting, it was announced that Cecil Burney, Corpus Christi, State Historical Survey Committee chairman, had promised $1,000 and that the committee, had pledged $250 to help the local museums launch the institute.

Doctors' Tests Show How You Can Actually Help Shrink Swelling of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

...Due to Inflammation and Infection. Also Get Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Rectal Itching and Pain in Such Tissues.

When inflammation, infection and swelling exist in hemorrhoidal tissues—it can be very painful for the sufferer. But there's an exclusive formulation which in many cases gives hours of relief from the burning itch and pain in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also helps shrink the swelling of such tissues. Sufferers are delighted at the way it acts so gently and is so soothing to sensitive tissues.

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients reported similar successful results in many cases. And it was all done without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or stinging, smarting astringents of any kind. You can obtain this same medication used in these tests at any drug counter. Its name is Preparation H. Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed, irritated surface area to help make bowel movements more comfortable. Be sure and try Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

Outlook Bright For Building

COLORADO CITY — A building permit will likely be issued here in the next few days for a $415,900 public housing unit, which would send totals for the year within the city tax past the half-million dollar mark. Thus far, permits totaling $171,965 have been issued within Colorado City. During all of 1972, Cee City building permits adding up to $598,715 were issued. Extensive building is also going on outside the city.

Among projects planned within the immediate future here are a new civic center, which will cost between $50,000 and $100,000; a $60,000 refurbishing job at the county jail; a $95,000 church building and additions to Root Memorial Hospital, estimated to cost $225,000.

In addition, upwards to 25 new homes will likely be building.

Lasso® hates Carelessweed!

Lasso, the preemergence herbicide from Monsanto controls Carelessweed as well as other broadleaf weeds and almost a dozen annual grasses that compete with cotton. What's more, Lasso doesn't carryover to harm rotational crops. So even if your cotton gets hailed out, you can come right back in with soybeans or corn. You don't have to incorporate Lasso, either. Apply it preemergence at planting and you're through.

This year, use Lasso. And get the Carelessweed before it gets your cotton.

Ironic Parallels

There could be developing a curious parallel in the presidencies of Richard Nixon and Lyndon Johnson.

Johnson was a landslide victor in his 1964 race, but the size of his margin was due more to the public conceiving of his opponent — Barry Goldwater — as unacceptable than to any personal popularity of Johnson himself. Much the same can be said of Nixon's 1968 victory; it was a resounding rejection of George McGovern more than an outpouring of voter affection for Richard Nixon.

Therefore, both men began terms (for Nixon, a second term) with misleading mandates, much softer support than the raw vote totals themselves might indicate.

Lyndon Johnson was uniquely equipped to deal with the American domestic situation, and in this area he was a masterful success. His record in the fields of civil rights and human concern is almost unmatched; if his presidential record rested on his domestic accomplishments and policies alone, he would be guaranteed a high rank among the presidents. But it was Johnson's unhappy fate that foreign, not domestic, matters came to dominate the years of his presidency, and he was not so well-equipped to deal in that area. And so the burgeoning Vietnam war finally destroyed his support; his handling of that war severely damaged not only the immediate verdict of the public regarding his leadership but most probably the verdict of history as well.

Conversely, Richard Nixon has demonstrated unique abilities in the field of foreign affairs; the record of diplomatic accomplishment during his first term as President surely is his strongest claim to presidential first-rank status. His overtures to Red China and to the Soviet Union are landmarks of American diplomacy, and while there is more room to quarrel with his handling of the Indochina conflict, he has managed finally to extricate our ground forces, at least, from that unwinnable war.

But now Richard Nixon is being pummeled about on domestic issues. It seems that the domestic side of the equation will come to dominate his second term, and so far he has shown himself to be as ill-equipped to deal with it as Johnson was at sea in foreign affairs.

Inflation, Watergate, overreaching presidential power, the reduction in Washington's response to social issues, the struggle with a Congress which looks — from this perspective, at least — to become more Democratic, not less so, for the final two years of his second term are all working against him. Nixon could finish his second term in as melancholy a fashion as Johnson departed the presidency.

Typical Young People

For all those who think the young people of the Now Generation are strictly "no-goods," we recommend a reading of the stories of the fight against the flood on the Mississippi.

An Associated Press story from St. Louis was a particularly graphic report on what the youngsters — by the thousands — are doing in the battle to shore up levees and sandbag homes.

Said a spokesman for the Corps of Engineers: "Of the thousands of volunteers we have had, three-fourths have come from schools."

At Old Monroe, Mo., a high school junior literally threw himself into a crack in the levee. He was joined by two other high school students and they stayed in the breach until sandbags could be piled behind them to hold back the water.

At times these young volunteers were working in rain, hail and even in a snowstorm. Who could call such people either "softies" or "cop-outs from life?" And we suspect they are pretty typical of today's young people.

Judges Need Course

Around The Rim

Tommy Hart

Not that you asked me, but:

I think that judges named to appeals and supreme courts should be required to take courses in Economics, preferably in Governmental Economics, before they are seated.

All too often jurists have ruled new trials over misplaced commas or minor technicalities that in the end have cost taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars.

More often than not all doubt had been removed as to the guilt of a defendant in the original trial yet a justice will negate the verdict merely because the prosecuting attorney pointed his finger at the defendant during the trial.

Some counties spend their way to the brink of bankruptcy intent on giving an utterly worthless human being a fair shake in the court room. Responsible souls in those counties do so knowing full well that a justice somewhere along the way will toss their decision into the trash can.

It's one thing for the prosecution to fall on its face during the course of a trial, committing every blunder in the books. It's something else again to get a conviction while doing everything humanly possible to see that a defendant is treated like a model citizen — then see one's case become a shambles merely because a transcript of a trial was possessed of a double negative.

There is not doubt but that we are over-governed — conditioned to believe that echelons of bureaucrats are equipped and prepared to work out our every problem from the cradle to the grave.

We are all besotten, punchdrunk from an endless Vesuvius of words bombarded by pamphlets and directives — falling like blizzards of confetti.

We have our Moses in Washington — the all seeing all knowing god, the final authority and the ultimate appeal. Surrounding him are the elected and the appointed gentry who, having reached Olympus, proceed to isolate themselves from their constituents save at election time. They come to regard their occasional sojourns to their home precincts as "trips into the field" at which times they resort to patented ways to gull the yeomanry.

No man is free who leaves all the driving to someone else. The real trouble in acting like a sheep is that one gets fleeced too often.

Israeli Moderation

By Rowland Evans
And Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — The extraordinary Israeli government disclosure that an American diplomat played a leading role in the defeat of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan's brazen plan for Israel's continuing absorption of Arab lands dramatized the rising concern both here and in Israel that Dayan and the Israeli hawks are going too far.

ONCE PRIME Minister Golda Meir and the controlling moderates in the Israeli Labor cabinet decided not to allow Dayan's plan to be put to a cabinet test, where it would have been beaten, the matter could have been laid to rest.

But instead, the quiet, low-key intervention of Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco, President Nixon's top Middle East troubleshooter, was intentionally leaked in Jerusalem by government officials. In short, the controlling moderates chose to publicize American resistance to Dayan's disturbing plan for unlimited Israeli or Jewish purchase of Arab-owned lands in the Israeli-occupied west bank of Jordan.

THE TWO reasons for this highly unusual conduct: to buttress the anti-Dayan decision with the political backing of the U.S., Israel's powerful ally and to put the Dayanites, both in and out of the Labor party, on notice that Dayan's presumptuous plans for territorial expansion could bring an unwelcome reaction from President Nixon.

Moreover, Sisco's intervention, which took the form of a simple telephone call to the Israeli embassy here asking what Israel's territorial policy really is, is not the only signal that Israel's dynamic and aggressive policy toward both its Arab neighbors and its occupied Arab territories is under intense scrutiny here.

THUS, A high U.S. official is responsible for the fact that the full text of a remarkable speech by Foreign Minister Abba Eban last month is now making the rounds here. The speech was remarkable because it directly contradicted, without naming Dayan, the aggressive foreign policy positions the defense minister has been taking in his campaign to stave out a "Greater Israel" political position for the battle over control of the Labor party when Prime Minister Meir eventually retires.

EBAN'S SPEECH, which went un-noticed by the U.S. embassy in Tel Aviv, was a daring plea against the continuing "dispossession of Arabs" in the lands captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

"An article is published (in the Israeli press) stating that the dispossession of Arabs is an indispensable condition of the realization of Zionism," Eban said. "This is pure libel."

By contrast, Dayan on March 29 said it was intolerable that "the government of sovereign Israel should restrict Jewish land purchases in Judea and Samaria" — the Biblical land which include much of the Israeli-occupied west bank of Jordan.

"The question that is now asked everywhere," Eban said, "is not about Israel's courage and resourcefulness, which are everywhere taken for granted, but about its human qualities."

ON ISRAEL'S daring, far-flung military attacks across international borders against Palestinian guerrilla bases, officials here are maintaining a placid calm. But on demands by the Labor party's leading hawk, Moshe Dayan, for establishing Jewish settlements anywhere in the captured territories — and for purchasing Arab lands with Israeli or American funds — these same officials are not placid at all.

Your Invisible Fence

Barbed-wire fences may be harder to climb, and wooden fences harder to see through. But for sheer versatility, nothing beats the invisible fence erected around every piece of property by the laws of trespass and nuisance. Consider an example:

THE BENSON family lived next door to a vacant lot on which the owner kept a large pile of sand. Whenever the wind blew from that direction, sand would seep through the doors and windows of the Benson house.

Finally Benson sued the neighbor on grounds of nuisance. In court, the neighbor argued that he could not be blamed for what the wind did. But the court held it was unlawful — a breach of the invisible fence — for him to allow his sand to invade the Benson premises.

OTHER COURTS have taken a similar attitude toward leaves dropped from an overhanging tree, vines spreading into a lawn, eaves jutting over a boundary line (by a matter of inches), and sound waves from a neighbor's howling dog. And, of course, the invisible fence also bars anyone from walking across your property without permission.

HOW HIGH does the fence extend? Courts used to say it extended all the way up to heaven — a theory that, if enforced literally, would make every airplane flying overhead a trespasser.

Nowadays, your invisible fence extends only to a "reasonable" height. But still, your protection goes higher than the average house-top.

IN ONE CASE a telephone company strung a wire 30 feet above a man's back yard, contending it was using only the "free and open" air. However, a court ordered the wire removed, since space that close to the ground might well be used someday by the owner himself.

"THE SPACE occupied by the wire," said the court, "was a part of his land. The law protects it from hostile occupation."

Lee Was A Wonderful Lady

Hal Boyle

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A war ends but once, but it dies 10,000 times — millions of times.

It dies with the death of anyone who was a part of it. A portion of World War II called the Battle of the Bulge came to a kind of an end here last week in a flower-haunted room during funeral services for Lee Carson Reeves, a war correspondent.

It seemed an irony that among the mourners at the brief and formal Episcopal ceremony only two of her legion of wartime comrades were present — the recently retired NBC newsmen, Gordon J. Fraser, and myself.

The casket was closed and covered with ferns and multicolored blooms. We would like to have had a final glimpse of her, but each of us could close his eyes and see Lee's vibrant face again and hear her laugh ring through the pauses in the ceremony.

HOW HIGH does the fence extend? Courts used to say it extended all the way up to heaven — a theory that, if enforced literally, would make every airplane flying overhead a trespasser.

(A public service feature of the American Bar Association and the State Bar of Texas. Written by Will Bernard.)

was the best-liked news chick who ever beat a male reporter to a story — or the best seat in the jeep.

Miss Carson was built like a movie star, had great eyes that ranged from green to brown, and a mass of long brownish-red hair. She had a face as mobile as that of a rubber doll. She had the kind of a belly laugh that upsets kings. She had the mind of an imp. She had the soul of a tomboy.

She also had a quality men like in women but are usually surprised to find — human gallantry. And she had enough physical bravery to fill an army's quota.

Lee covered the war from Normandy to its close at the Elbe River. Her motto was "Never let the Articles of War or maidenly modesty stand in the way of the news."

Army press officer were always telling her when she turned up unexpectedly, "You can't be here." Lee's simple rebuttal: "But here I am."

If the Battle of the Bulge had a belle, that belle was Lee. During the frantic days when the Nazis tried a do-or-die breakthrough in Belgium in the waning weeks of 1944, Lee ranged hundreds of miles across icy roads from one beleaguered post to another.

Her scarf-wrapped face and deep laugh became familiar to thousands of officers and men.

She took down their stories, looked at the pictures in their wallets, accepted little presents from them — and they loved her for being there.

"You must be crazy to come up here, Lee," they said. "But come again."

And if she could she did. A visit from Lee was a better morale boost than a visit by two generals.

Fraser recalled how Lee once had to hit the floor when a buzz bomb exploded outside during a press briefing. The windows were blown out, and Lee got several glass splinters in the seat of her pants.

"There must have been a thousand guys who would rather have had the honor of pulling out one of those splinters than to win a Silver Star," I said. Gordon upped the figure to 2,000.

Life ran slowly downhill for Lee after the war, and illness troubled her last years. Death intervened as she faced a future of invalidism.

"That wouldn't have been her style," her brother Bill said. Her husband, Jay Reeves, former Central Intelligence Agency officer, agreed.

Across the street later, where Lee would have loved to join us, Gordon lifted his glass. "She was a wonderful lady."

"She was, indeed."

And this, dear Lee, is my flower to thee.

Legalese Baffles

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Three out of four heads of household between ages 35 and 54 own their own homes today, and few will ever forget the day they signed the mortgage and closed the deal.

It was a day of ignorance, confusion and surprise compounded by legalese, of papers signed and checks slid across the table — all choreographed by legal and lending experts who had practiced the routine for years.

It was a day on which the buyer's novice was exposed to the lender's expertise. Nobody prepared them adequately for the ordeal, and if they left the table happy to have a home they left with a bundle of securities too.

While the scene is still repeated every business day, the consumer movement has now provoked lenders and lawyer to better prepare their customers for what lies ahead, to offer help instead of maintaining the needless mystery.

One of the latest efforts at clarification, "Your Guide to a Savings and Loan Mortgage," is now being readied for distribution to the nation's savings and loan associations. It assumes that no question is too simple to answer.

For example, what are the kinds of mortgages?

There are three kinds, the booklet relates:

1. Conventional mortgages. The most common type. A private transaction between buyer and lender.

2. Mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration.

3. Mortgages guaranteed by the Veterans Administration. FHA and VA mortgages are government-backed, but are obtained through the lender, who is assured of reimbursement by the government if the borrower fails to pay.

Simple, of course, but how many present homeowners couldn't have benefited from an ABC when they first began looking? And who wasn't surprised to some extent by the fees lumped under the heading of closing costs?

Among those that may or may not apply: property survey charge, title examination fee, title insurance premium, attorney fee, mortgage origination service fee, transfer taxes. What is a "point"?

A point, according to the guide, is a charge equal to one per cent of the loan. If the lender charges three points on a $10,000 loan he is adding $300 to the cost. Even if the seller appears to pay it, he often recaptures his costs by raising the selling price.

Why have points? Well, you'll get an argument on this. People have differing opinions on points, with some saying they're meant to keep the market fluid, others insisting they're a device to skirt the law.

The guide explains it in this manner: The government imposes rate ceilings on mortgages it backs. The market for conventional rates might, however, be higher at a certain time, such as now, when VA and FHA rates are limited to 7 per cent, while other mortgages are generally 7.5 or more. The lenders therefore make up in points what they are denied in rates.

Easter Card

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Easter greeting cards were first published in England in the late 19th century. One of the earliest is a silk-tinged Bavarian lithograph of Christ comforting Mary at the tomb. This rare Easter card is among 70,000 cards in the Hallmark Historical Collection, largest and most valuable collection of antique greeting cards in the world.

MY ANSWER

Billy Graham

I'm told there's a statement in the Bible to the effect that God is the author of evil. I can't locate it, but my greatest problem is understanding it. How can this be reconciled with the other Biblical idea that God is holy and good?

F.S. The whole question hinges on the nature of man. If we had been made as automata, like mechanical men, we would have been incapable of moral judgment. Any evil then in our world would be God's fault. On the other hand, as free moral agents, evil or good depended on our choices. God is no more to be charged with creating evil than the parent charged with delinquency whose child skins his knee on the way to school.

The statement that you refer to is probably Isaiah 45:7. Specifically, it said, "I form the light, and create darkness; I make peace, and create evil."

It's obvious that there has always been a strange contradiction in our world. Pleasure is matched with pain, joy is followed by sorrow, hope is shattered by fear, and life is ultimately swallowed up in death.

But frankly, what are the alternatives to explain this? Shall it be an intellectual sort of dualism which merely recognizes opposing forces in the world? Or shall we fall back on the unsatisfying view of fate as indiscriminately ordering a man's life?

The better view is to see one overruling God, who despite the evil introduced by the man He created, still offers love and pardon. The Gospel promises that not all of the cumulative evil at the end of the age will violate His plan to bring order of chaos, and vindicate those who have chosen the course of faith.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. (John 2:19)

PRAYER: Dear Father, may we never be satisfied to see dimly but ever long to see clearly — the way You would have us see and the way You would have us go in Your service. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Aaron Closes Gap To 38 Home Runs

By The Associated Press

Hank Aaron's countdown continues and the numbers are getting better all the time.

With the 1973 baseball season nine games old for the Atlanta Braves, Aaron has managed with only three hits which is not very good. But each of those hits are home runs and that's awfully good. That's 676 homers for Aaron's fabulous career and 38 away from his target—Babe Ruth's legendary 714.

Aaron's latest homer came Sunday in a losing cause as the Braves bowed to Los Angeles and Al Downing 6-2.

In other National League game Sunday, New York edged Philadelphia 2-1. Pittsburgh slugged Montreal 8-3, reached the seats three times Chicago beat St. Louis 8-6, San on Atlanta's West Coast trip Diego swept a doubleheader with Houston, winning the first game 5-1 and taking the second 5-0. No. 676 couldn't prevent the Braves from bowing to Down-Braves, Aaron managed with only three hits which is not very good. But each of those hits are home runs and that's awfully good. That's 676 homers for Aaron's fabulous career and 38 away from his target—Babe Ruth's legendary 714.

Padres Avenge Astros' Reign

SAN DIEGO (AP) — In what seems to be more than a coincidence, the San Diego Padres have broken the jinx they have had against Houston.

After a dressing down of the pitching staff late Saturday night by manager Don Zimmer, the Padres scored 5-1 and 4-0 victories Sunday in a doubleheader against a Houston team that had averaged six runs a game against them for more than a year.

Zimmer's lecture was simple. "I told them that they'd consistently pitched everybody out."

Zimmer said after watching the Astros hit five homers in the first two games of the series. "Keep throwing the ball outside and you'll be losers all of your life. You've had too good an arm to get hit as hard as some of you have been hit."

Mike Corkins took the mound in Sunday's first game with a horrible 135.00 earned run average and pitched a four-hitter.

Bill Greif, who hadn't pitched longer than three innings all spring, started the second game and went all the way for a two-hitter.

The sweep gave the Padres and bolted them for the final three games of the home stand against Cincinnati's defending National League champions.

Houston travels to Los Angeles.

It would seem more than a coincidence that Houston's awesome collection of hitters were handcuffed on one run and six hits in two games less than 24 hours after Zimmer held the post-game meeting with the staff.

"They should feel that if they can pitch that well against a team like Houston, they're capable of beating anybody," Zimmer said.

Houston had scored 12 runs in splitting the first two games of the series. Last year, the Astros hit 16 homers and scored 82 runs in their 14 games against San Diego.

"I was hoping Bill could go five or six innings, but I never dreamed he could go nine," Zimmer said after the 22-year-old right-hander broke a personal five-game losing streak.

Hawks Nab Wild 5-4 Cup Decision

CHICAGO (AP) — "It was a tremendous game but I wouldn't call it classic playoff hockey," said Billy Reay after his Chicago Black Hawks held off the New York Rangers for a 5-4 victory in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

The free-wheeling, wide-open contest Sunday, enabled the Hawks to tie the best-of-seven series at one game each, shifting the scene to New York for games Tuesday and Thursday night. Game No. 5 will be played in Chicago next Sunday.

In Sunday's action in the WHA, Winnipeg closed out Minnesota in five games by defeating the Saints 8-5 while Houston took a 3-2 lead in its best-of-seven series with Los Angeles by beating the Sharks 6-3.

On Saturday in the other NHL semifinal series, the Philadelphia Flyers shocked the Montreal Canadiens 5-4 in overtime on Rick MacLeish's goal at 2:56 to take a 1-0 lead.

On Saturday night in the WHA, the New England Whalers eliminated the Ottawa Nationals with a 4-1 victory.

The Black Hawks, who had taken a 1-0 lead in Thursday's opener, only to surrender four straight Ranger goals in losing 4-1, Sunday with three first-period goals.

"They had to open up when we got ahead 3-0," said Reay. "After that it was from one end of the rink to the other. They threw caution to the wind when they fell behind and they got away with it. But I was proud of the way our guys came back. It was typical of them."

The Black Hawks were admittedly lucky in breaking on top. Pat Stapleton scored twice in the first period when his long slap shots hit Ranger players and went in behind surprised goalie Ed Giacomin.

STEERS TRY MIDLAND

MIDLAND — Trying to break a one-game slump and climb back into the Dist. 5-AAAA title race at the same time, the Big Spring Steers visit Midland's fast-moving Bulldogs in a crucial league game Tuesday at 4 p.m.

The Steers, 0-1 in the second half after Saturday's 4-0 shutout by Abilene High, will need a win to keep any real hopes for a first district baseball title alive. Midland won the first half with a 6-1 mark and stand 15-6 after defeating Odessa Permian 9-8 in the second half opener Saturday.

Big Spring carries a 10-8 standing into the matchup.

Coach Larry Horton will probably start Mike Tredaway (3-1) against the Bulldogs, who bombed the Horns 12-6 in the first half meeting between the two teams.

Rockingham, N.C., and at Atlanta.

It was a mild and woolly race. Most of Pearson's chief competitors were either felled by mechanical problems or were involved in wrecks that slowed the race 11 times for a total of 69 of the 367 laps.

Pearson carefully avoided these mixups to lead 227 of the turns around the black-top course. Bobby Allison, who rushed the retaining wall several times trying to get around slower traffic, was in front 114 laps but wound up a distant third behind another Chevrolet driver, Benny Parson.

Fourth and fifth places went to drivers who normally look for a middle-of-the-track finish. Richard Childress was fourth in a Chevrolet, 21 laps or more than 30 miles in the rear. J.D. McDuffie was fifth, but his Chevrolet was almost 35 miles back.

Boycott Halts Sunland Races

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — Horsemen at Sunland Park decline to enter horses for Wednesday night's program, apparently bringing to a head an impasse between the New Mexico Horsemen's Association and the state of New Mexico.

The main point of contention centers on a four per cent gross receipts tax, which horsemen feel should not be imposed upon them.

"This is a regrettable situation in which Sunland Park has been caught in the middle," said Al Rosa, General Manager. "We are extremely sorry to see our racing program interrupted. However, we'll do all we can to help resolve the problem."

TRIUMPHANT FEMALES—Mickey Wright (left) and Margaret Court soak up the excitement Sunday after scoring victories in their respective sports. Mickey receives congratulations from the gallery following her win in the Colgate-Dina Shore winners circle LPGA golf tournament. She shot a final round of 68 and ended the tournament with a four-under par 284. Mrs. Court gives her 18-month-old son Danny a ride on her shoulders after the $25,000 Virginia Slims Tennis Tournament in Quincy, Mass. Mrs. Court defeated Billie Jean King 6-2, 6-4 in the finals.

Cubs Topple Amarillo, 7-6

By The Associated Press

Half the Texas League baseball schedule was washed out by rain Sunday, but the two games played were full of fireworks.

Midland edged Amarillo 7-6 and Memphis clubbed Arkansas 11-5, while El Paso at San Antonio and Alexandria at Shreveport were postponed.

Memphis posted its first victory in three games this season with a six-run explosion in the sixth inning. Memphis batted ten players in the frame, with centerfielder Jeff Anderson supplying the key hit on a bases-loaded double.

The Blues picked up 10 hits in the game. Arkansas had a two-run homer by Hector Cruz in the second inning.

Midland and Amarillo combined for 25 hits in their game at Midland.

The Cubs, who had 13 hits, collected two runs in the seventh inning and one in the eighth to pull ahead of the Giants.

In tonight's games, Amarillo is at Midland, El Paso at San Antonio, Alexandria at Shreveport and Arkansas at Memphis.

Blancas Wins Monsanto

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — It was the highest finish by a winner in at least three years on the pro tour, but happy Homero Blancas wasn't at all ashamed of it.

"I'll take a one stroke victory every time," Blancas said in gasping relief after he and Frank Beard took turns backing off in the final round of the $30,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

Blancas backed off just a little less. He bogeyed two of his last three holes. But Beard bogeyed three of his last five and Homero pulled down the $30,000 prize with a fat, four-over-par 75 in the final round.

He scored his fifth victory in 10 years on the pro tour with a 277 total, seven-under-par on the cool and windswept, 6,679 yard Pensacola Country Club course.

Beard, who made up a four

Wright Rebounds In Colgate Action

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Mickey Wright, whose name was synonymous with women's golf in the 1960s, won her first tournament of the 1970s with a 25-foot birdie putt on the final hole of the $154,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle.

Miss Wright didn't even need the pressure putt on the island green of the Mission Hills Golf Club course for the 82nd triumph of her career. Joyce Kazmierki, who started Sunday's round five strokes ahead of her but lost a battle of nerves to make them even after 17, three-putted the final hole and settled for a 286 and $15,000 as runner-up.

"It's weird," said Miss Wright, who won the $25,000 top prize by two strokes. "I started off the day and said, 'Just bidie the par fives and play everything else in regulation.' That's what I said at 18. You just have to drop a thought to get rid of any fears."

Carol Mann finished the day with a 72 and a tie with Betty Burdette, who had a final round 71, for third. Each collected $8,500.

Earning $6,000 for fifth place with a 289 was Kathy Whitworth, the 32-year-old Texan who is the all-time money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association circuit. Miss Whitworth has won more than $440,000 since she joined the tour in 1959 while Miss Wright, two-time Associated Press athlete of the year, has won about $225,000.

Four Manage 63 For Golf Honors

Mark McCraney, Charles Burdette, Sonny Buzbee and Bill Washington teamed up for a low 63 Sunday to take first place honors in the Big Spring Golf Association Four-man Lowball meet with half handicap.

Two shots back was the quartet of Ken Lesage, Jimmy Forsythe, Paul Solden and Jerry Kilgore, while two teams tied for the third spot. Omar Decker, Oscar Ovalle, H. D. Stewart and Johnny Rutherford carded a 66, along with Gary Grissom, Eddie Acri, Henry Mexia and Ernest Lee.

DESPITE FINAL ROUND 75

But Beard, long noted as one of the premier putters on the tour, missed it and Blancas had the victory.

Andy North, a lanky tour rookie, was third alone at 279 after a final 72. He was just two strokes back of Blancas, but didn't get close until Homero and Beard continued to back off down the stretch.

Dave Hill, the 1972 winner, veteran Miller Barber and New Zealand lefty Bob Charles were next at 281. Hill had a 69, Barber 71 and Charles 75.

He gained entry on the last stop before the Tournament of Champions when the steady Beard missed a par-saving 10-foot putt on the final hole that could have tied it up and sent the tournament into a sudden death playoff.

Of all the men on the tour, of all of them out here, he's the last man I want to see standing over a 10 or 12-foot putt under pressure." Homero said, "He's dead—the best there is."

Lakers Defeat Chicago

By The Associated Press

The Chicago Bulls took on the Los Angeles Lakers and the law of averages and both the Bulls and the law came up losers for another season. Going into Sunday night's game against the Lakers, the Bulls had two streaks going. They had never won a playoff game on the road and hadn't won at the Los Angeles Forum since October 22, 1971. Unfortunately for Chicago, both streaks remained intact as Los Angeles edged the Bulls 95-92. In the first game of the NBA's Eastern finals Sunday, Boston breezed by New York 134-108.

Saturday in the American Basketball Association's semifinal playoffs, Carolina defeated Kentucky 125-105 while Indiana topped Utah 116-110. Both playoffs are now deadlocked at 1-1.

Tonight, Kentucky hosts Carolina while Utah travels to Indiana.

The Bulls, who have gone west to face the Lakers the past three seasons, only to return losers each year, must feel like those 19th century prospectors who kept searching for California's gold, but could never find it.

Chicago's loss, its 18th consecutive away playoff defeat, was especially bitter for Coach Dick Motta. "A loss like this is just like a year's work down the drain," he said. "I thought we had the game won even with 20 seconds to go cause all we had to do was get one good shot."

But when it came down to the one good shot, it was the Lakers' Gail Goodrich who took it. Down 92-91, Goodrich scored a layup with 28 seconds left to give the Lakers the lead for the first time in the second half. Jerry West added two foul shots for the final margin.

West finished with 27 points while Goodrich added 22. But the man everyone was talking about after the game was the Bulls' Norm Van Lier. The six-foot-one guard closed his season with 28 points and 14 rebounds.

But in a losing effort. Against the Lakers, it always seems to work out that way. The defending world champions, who proved stronger than the law of averages, will now move into the semifinals to meet the Golden State Warriors.

To layoff or not to layoff: that was the question. The Boston Celtics provided a very convincing argument, for this day at least, that playing a tough series is the best way to prepare for a semi-final series with the Knicks.

Boston, which only moved into the semifinals on Friday after defeating the Atlanta Hawks in a tough six-game series, made 134 points in its argument. In rebuttal, the Knicks, well-rested since clinching their quarter-final series against the Baltimore Bullets in five games last Sunday, had 108.

End of argument.

ENTHUSIASTIC FANS—With their Boston Celtics teams having a comfortable 25-point lead late in the fourth quarter of their game with the New York Knickerbockers at the Boston Garden Sunday, fans broke out a world champions banner amid an applauding crowd. The Celtics broke the game wide open in the third quarter, scoring a 134-108 victory in the opener of the National Basketball Association Eastern championship series.

Rain Floods SWC Slate

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M used a tried and true formula over the weekend to get back in the thick of the Southwest Conference baseball race.

Win your own and have everyone else rain out. First-place Texas, with a three-game lead starting the weekend's play, blasted Southern Methodist 21-4 Friday in its only game not lost to bad weather.

Despite their awesome display of power, the Longhorns lost a full game in the standings to the Aggies, who swept a three-game series from Houston.

The records now stand at 10-2 for Texas and 8-4 for the Aggies, with the latter to get a chance to catch up in a three-game head-to-head matchup April 27-28. Texas plays its next-to-last SWC series next weekend against Rice in Austin while A&M travels to Waco for a three-game set with Baylor.

While Texas scored 21 runs in one game in Dallas Friday, the Aggies fared almost as well in the triple sweep of Houston, scoring 31 runs to the Cougars' four.

Longhorns, TSU Nab Texas Relays Victories

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas with four relay victories easily captured the outstanding university team title in the 46th annual Texas Relays, but Texas Southern proved in the college division a lot of good things can happen if you're second a lot.

The Longhorns sacked first place watches by winning the sprint medley relay, the 2-mile relay, the 400-yard shuttle hurdles relay, and the mile relay.

Duke, which won the distance medley relay and the four-mile relay, was the closest in the balloting to the hometown Longhorns in the two-day meet ending Saturday.

Texas Southern sped to victory in the sprint medley relay and finished second in the two-mile and one-mile relays. Prairie View, second in the balloting by writers and broadcasters covering the meet, was second in the sprint medley, first in the two-mile relay, but third in the one-mile relay.

Ken Stadel of Rice, who broke Randy Matson's discus record, and Willie McGee of Alcorn A&M, who broke the open 100-yard record and ran a stout lead on the winning 440-relay team, were named the outstanding individuals in the university and college divisions, respectively.

Texas hadn't won a relay race in this storied meet since 1968. Paced by Don Sturgal's 46.1 anchor leg, the Longhorns ran a splendid 3:03.7 in the mile relay, best in the Southwest Conference this year. Texas established a new relays record of 57.7 seconds in the unique shuttle-hurdle relay.

A combination of rain, no high schools entered and spring vacation on the Texas campus cut attendance at the track and field carnival.

No woman ever says no to Winchester.

Take a puff. Blow in her ear. And she'll follow you anywhere. Because one whiff of Winchester's sexy aroma tells her everything she ever wanted to know about you. But was afraid to ask. It tells her you're a man, but a man of taste. A taste for mildness. Lightness. She takes a puff. Winchester's filtered smoothness tells her it's not a cigarette. Not just another little cigar. It's a whole 'nother smoke. And she knows that you know: where there's smoke, there's fire.

Winchester. It's a whole 'nother smoke.

Kniffen Hired For Net Post

High School Tennis Coach Novice Kniffen has been hired as manager for the Dora Roberts Community Center and tennis center, according to an announcement today by Harry Nagel, city manager.

NOVICE KNIFFEN

Kniffen will begin work May 1 on a part-time basis until school is out. He will serve as full time manager during the summer months and revert to part time when school begins again.

He will serve as tennis pro at the new tennis center and also operate the former Cosden Country Club, which will again be made available for public use.

As we announced at the council meeting last week, after considering all applicants, we would hire the one we considered the most suited to the position and the most suitable applicant was Kniffen."

of tennis players, including four tennis coaching brothers. One of his brothers operates the tennis center at Abilene, another brother is tennis coach at Andrews.

He will also serve as chairman of the big Highway 80 tennis tournament, to be held here the first week in July. This is the first time that Big Spring will be included on the tour which includes Abilene, Odessa, Midland, Andrews, Lubbock and several other Texas towns, and usually draws hundreds of top tennis players from all over Texas.

Commission Ends Routine Session

County Commissioners Court Monday awarded the contract for stationary and office supplies to Hester's Supply Co., apparent low bidder at $14,900.

First, the court voted to take the bid of Thomas Office Supply at $11,111.69. Then, they learned Thomas had not bid on about $550 in supplies. So the decision was to give Hester's the business, this firm having the lowest of three bids.

John Scott, a former city police sergeant, was approved as relief jailer. He will be working two days per week for $29.50 while attending school.

A woman chosen to fill a vacancy in the county tax office decided not to take the job.

Other business included: —Authorizing the county judge to sign a document allowing Walter Unger, to sell group cancer insurance to county employees. Unger is the second salesman to obtain permission to sell medical insurance.

—Hearing County Judge A. G. Mitchell advise Marvin Hampton, road administrator. In contact local contractors about shoring for seal-coating after the county distributor becomes broken and cannot be fixed quickly.

—Discussing Commission Bill Bennett's suggestion the city be asked to help keep the Place Extension clean. This being the road to a dump, trash frequently litters it. Hanson said road crews clean up the road two and three times weekly.

—And approving bills.

Chaos Reigns After Party

A fracas occurred Saturday around 10:20 p.m. at 700 Wyoming, which resulted in one person being admitted to Hall-Bennett Hospital with stab wounds, and a lot of confusion for the investigating officers.

The police were called to that address after a neighbor heard a shot fired. There apparently was a party in progress, which broke up before the arrival of police.

While Patrolman Wayne Kennedy was investigating, somebody added to the chaos by locking the police car.

Then at 10:40 p.m. police learned that Demetrius Elkins was in the emergency room at Hall-Bennett suffering from stab wounds.

This apparently happened at the Lakeview Laundry Building in the same area. At about the same time Elkins had a stab in the left side of the chest under the heart and one near the left eye.

Elkins gave the investigating detective a name of the assailant and the assailant claims it was a third party. No charges have yet been filed.

VANDALISM

W. E. Anderson, Gail R. 12th and Benton, reported that acid had been put in the gas tank of a loader and dirt in the crank case. Damages estimated: $300. Billy Johnston, 2107 Runnels, reported scratches to car and vinyl roof cut with knife.

THEFTS

Bob Coleman, 1100 Lloyd, $120 in old coins stolen. Jerry Sanders, Gail Route, Sunday reported five tires and wheels and a tool chest stolen.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Plan judgment and the desire to argue are an integral part of today's aspects. Make effort to place your thoughts under spiritual guidance to withstand the charged negative actions. You can accomplish a great deal.

ARIES (March 21 to Apr. 19) Associates may not be in a good mood and find fault over little things to plan how to have more harmony with them. A letter of appeal that received can clarify your situation.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Make sure you take care of your special job wisely and well today or there could be trouble instead of advancement.

Solons Face Short Week, Long Hours

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A short week but long hours faced Texas legislators as they returned to work today.

Both Houses plan to adjourn by noon Thursday for an Easter recess that will extend until next Tuesday morning.

The House takes up its version of the $9.7 billion general appropriation bill Tuesday morning, with debate expected to last all day and possibly into Wednesday.

Attempts to amend the bill may result in a challenge to Gov. Dolph Briscoe's no-new-taxes policy, by members who think certain state programs should be added or expanded, even if it takes more money.

There also are members who would agree with Briscoe that the House Appropriations Committee erred when it eliminated the budget for the Texas Industrial Commission. This could be restored by amendment.

Speaker Price Daniel Jr. said he feels the House should act on at least one other major controversial bill before the Easter recess, to keep such legislation from piling up at the end of the session.

Two possibilities, he said, are a mass transit bill and one restoring the death penalty in certain murder cases, such as killings for pay and murder of policemen.

Committee action might include a competitive car insurance rates bill and a measure reducing penalties for marijuana possession.

'IT'S LIKE CHRISTMAS EVERY DAY' Millionaire Beachbums

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer

MOOREA, French Polynesia (AP) — Kelley, Muk and Jay, the millionaire beachbums from California, just opened their third Bali Hai, and they're already planning two more.

It's almost like working, the hotelmen say.

"I LOVE IT," says Don McCallum, dispensing what he calls his Mukian philosophy. "Every person who gets off that boat is worth at least ten dollars, even day trippers. It's like Christmas every day."

Actually, added Hugh Kelley later, "we're not in this for money — we had to stay in Tahiti some way... Yeah, you can say we're worth more than a million now."

Kelley, McCallum and Jay Carlisle used to listen to Tahitian mandolins together in Newport Beach and work over the Great American Dream of a South Seas paradise.

One slow season Kelley left his law practice long enough to sail down. He came back and lasted a half a day in the office. Not long afterward, in 1960, all three were in Tahiti looking for work.

KNOW TRIO IN RIO
Eventually they scraped up money to buy a collapsing little hotel on Moorea, maybe the most beautiful island in the world, and the rest is legend wherever travel snobs meet.

The Moorea Bali Hai, and the new ones on the other Tahiti outer islands of Huahine and Raiatea are jammed.

People know the trio in Rio, Mexico City and Bangkok where they show up for steam-releasing vacations with entourage of a dozen Tahitian love-lies, guitar players and drink pourers.

Muk, noted for counting empty tin cans in the hotel kitchen at home, has been known on trips to order 75 screwdriver drinks before lunch for himself and everyone else within shouting distance.

But, in their remote tropical paradise, they hustle harder than they ever have.

EASY RIDER
Muk shambles bare-chested and barefoot through the dining room smiling at Ohio tourists, but he's up at dawn watering the lawn and it's after 8 p.m. before he gets home.

Kelley sneaks off to ride his motorcycle up Moorea's mind-boggling mountains but more frequently he is conjuring up glass-bottom bungalows and hauling cement.

Though Jay grins ecstatically at ladies, he spends hours in a cluttered backroom counting deliveries from their egg ranch—a side project—and worrying about exchange rates.

All of them, each around 40 now, clearly work hard at the gay bachelor approach.

"When we started we didn't know anything about running a hotel," Kelley said. "We just decided to make it like a place we would like to stay in."

The Moorea hotel, the biggest at 47 rooms, is still run like a giant bachelor pad with guest facilities.

Muk loves people, but he has a W. C. Fields aversion to children and dogs. One traveler asked if the hotel had facilities for dogs and he replied, "Yes, a burlap sack, a 25 pound rock and 80 feet of water."

Neither the WOC session nor the timing was perfect, even though the joint get-together visit by the USAF chaplains got to meet the USAF chaplains Chaplain Summy continued, was not planned. WOC members could have been better," as well as Chaplain (Lt. Col.) E. Wayne Minor, ATC Chief of Chaplains. And all of the chaplains took with them the feel of the work being done at Webb, Dyess, Goodfellow and Reese AFBs.

Accompanying Chaplain Meade for the staff visit were Col. Paul G. Schade, chief, Professional Division; Robert F. Overman, Personnel Division; and Robert M. Moore, Special Actions Officer, Budget and Logistics Division.

Women's Meeting Called Success

A four-base meeting of Women of the Chapel, which happened to coincide with a visit to Webb by Chaplain (B. Gen.) Henry Meade, Deputy Chief of Chaplains, United States Air Force, and three members of his staff Tuesday, has been termed an "overwhelming success" by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Kenneth D. Summy, wing chaplain.

Neither the WOC session nor the timing was perfect, even though the joint get-together visit by the USAF chaplains got to meet the USAF chaplains Chaplain Summy continued, was not planned. WOC members could have been better," as well as Chaplain (Lt. Col.) E. Wayne Minor, ATC Chief of Chaplains. And all of the chaplains took with them the feel of the work being done at Webb, Dyess, Goodfellow and Reese AFBs.

Fire In Motel Kills Woman

MIDLAND — A woman about 40 was found dead Saturday in a smoke-filled motel room in which firemen discovered a smoldering mattress.

The victim was identified as Jerry Allen.

Firemen said they were told she was traveling with a musical group called the Funky Bunch Revue of El Paso. The fire occurred at the Sun Valley Motel on East Highway 80, shortly before 10 a.m. Saturday.

Apparent cause of death was asphyxiation.

The body was found by a fire captain, who reported the woman's body was on the floor and the room was heavy with smoke.

Firemen said motel personnel thought at first it was an electrical fire, but when firemen found nothing, they began checking individual rooms and found the woman's body.

TAKE STEPS TO SPEED SCHOOL DESEGREGATION EFFORTS

Funds Frozen When Big Spring Fails To HEW The Line

Big Spring, Corsicana, Marshall and Victoria Texas school districts are among 11 school districts in the United States who will have applications for new funds frozen according to an Associated Press release.

Supt. Sam Anderson said his only knowledge of the government decision was that supplied him by members of the news media.

NEW FUNDS

Supt. Anderson stated, "This does not explain the term 'new funds.' We are not clear whether that means new federal programs or new funds or extension funds for old programs already approved." He indicated that the school attorney will be in touch with Peter E. Holmes of HEW's Office for Civil Rights, who made the announcement.

Holmes, in an announcement this morning emphasized that letters have been sent out to the school districts involved and that the letters carry "no immediate threat of a federal fund cutoff."

STOP MONEY

This is in direct contrast to the announcement that funds have been frozen for 11 school districts.

The Associated Press release further stated that the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, where this action was instigated, had stated that its order did not mean that federal funds will be cut off immediately — only that HEW must notify the schools that their desegregation efforts are being questioned.

The appeals court said that hearings must be held by HEW before it can cut off funds to a school district. Big Spring schools have not had any hearings of any type in connection with the matter. Today is the deadline set by the appeals court for the HEW to take steps in speeding the desegregation in 17 Southern and border states.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, following a hearing Monday, denied the Nixon administration's request for postponement of a lower court order requiring the desegregation step-up.

FEDERAL FUNDS

The lower court ruled Feb. 16 that today is the deadline for HEW to notify 116 school districts that they face the loss of federal funds because they have not met desegregation guidelines.

HEW also was ordered to tell another 85 districts by today that they must explain statistics indicating they still discriminate against black children.

Government lawyers who sought the delay argued that HEW had shown good faith in implementing court-ordered school desegregation plans. They said HEW was awaiting congressional clarification of the Supreme Court's busing order before enforcing it.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund opposed any delay.

The appeals court did not rule on the merits of the lower court decision.

In his ruling, U.S. Dist. Court Judge John Pratt said 74 districts reneged on desegregation plans, and 42 were determined by HEW in 1971 as presumably violating the Supreme Court's Swann (busing) decision.

ACCEPTABLE PLAN

Seventeen either have come into compliance or under court jurisdiction, he said, and the other 25 were sent letters March 24 asking for new plans.

Lawton, Okla., and Anne Arundel County, Md., submitted acceptable plans, seven others have sent in proposals, one is in the process of preparing a plan, three have expressed desire to comply voluntarily and another appears to be in compliance, he said.

"The remaining 11 districts have declined to submit revised desegregation plans . . .," he said. This group includes Big Spring.

Enforcement action against the 85 other districts would be premature without more study, Holmes added.

Thirty-nine of the districts never were formally determined to be in violation he said, and at least 20 others appear in compliance now.

OF BEER, WINE Group Seeks To Bar All Sunday Sale

Two petitions calling for complete prohibition of sale of wine and beer on Sundays were submitted to City Manager Harry Nagel yesterday.

Bearing 15 signatures and submitted by a local minister, the petitions were the first of what is expected to be many protesting possible City Commission consideration of repeal of the present ordinance which disallows sale of wine and beer from 1 p.m. to midnight on Sundays.

The two petitions turned in yesterday not only called for continuance of the present policy of prohibiting sales from 1 p.m. to midnight but also urged forbidding of sales from noon to 1 p.m.

BENEFITS QUESTIONED
"The vast majority of the citizens of this community have repeatedly demonstrated their opposition to permitting sales of alcoholic beverages on Sunday.

Benefit derived by the citizens of Big Spring in prohibiting such sales are not subject to measurement in terms of dollars and cents," the petition bearing 14 names read. The other petition had only one name.

The petitions, and others now being circulated, came in protest of a petition signed by 492 persons two weeks ago which urged repeal of the present ordinance on the grounds that it causes the city to lose tax revenue since beer and wine are sold on Sundays in the county outside Big Spring.

Several ministers appeared before the City Commission last week requesting time to collect their own set of signatures, claiming that they could gather twice as many signatures in favor of keeping present policy in effect.

DESIGNATED

Trinity Baptist Church was designated as central collecting agency for church-gathered signatures. Rev. Claude Craven, pastor there, said this morning that over 2,100 signatures have been raised and will be submitted probably today to City Hall.

"With seven churches not having reported yet, we've got 2,100 names. We expect to turn in 3,000 today, and will probably turn in another 500-1,000 names by next week's Commission meeting," Craven said.

A Herald survey late this morning of those seven churches found that they had collected approximately 350 names which will be turned over to Trinity Baptist Church soon.

Spokesmen from most of the churches said that the petitions were placed in the sanctuary foyers Sunday so that congregation members could sign them on leaving the services.

Most of the petitions call for continuance of the present ordinance with an amendment prohibiting sales from noon to 1 p.m. also.

Mitchell, says she's anxious to tell the Senate committee investigating the Watergate case "some things they never heard in their life . . ." Mrs. Mitchell also said she doubts that Sen. Sam J. Ervin's investigating committee will ask her to testify because the White House is trying to discredit her assertions. She made the statements in a telephone call Monday to The Associated Press.

Strangle Death

COMANCHE, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff's officers at Comanche, Tex., have taken a 16-year-old girl into custody for questioning in connection with the death of a 7-year-old Comanche boy, who was found strangled to death.

Officers said the boy's mother came home Monday and found him strangled with a piece of knotted rag. They say she took the boy, identified as Erick Green, to a neighbor's house, who attempted unsuccessfully to revive him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Green.

OE Grant Okayed For HC Schools

Cong. Omar Burleson announced that a $119,666.54 Office of Education grant to the State of Texas for 860 children in Howard County, age 5 to 17, all of whom are in low income families. The allotment of funds was made available for the fiscal year 1973 under the provision of Part A of Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act which provides special programs for educationally disadvantaged children.

In Big Spring, these funds are used for teachers aides and also for a remedial reading program in Cedar Crest, Bauer, Lakeview and Rannels Junior High.

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — A Randolph-Macon Women's College freshman found dead on campus Sunday night died from "severe internal and head injuries," the state medical examiner's office said.

Police identified the victim as Cynthia L. Hellmann, 19, of Houston, Tex.

The medical examiner who performed the autopsy said Monday that Miss Hellmann was "beaten with a fist and kicked." He said there was no evidence of sexual abuse but that further tests were being made.

Some Of Cosden's Oil Will Come From Iraq

Cosden Oil & Chemical Company is putting the reverse pumps on oil supplies.

Pumps were started Tuesday at Harbor Island, north of Corpus Christi and deepest of the Gulf Coast ports, to send Iraq sour crude oil on its way to the Cosden refinery at Big Spring.

A generation ago West Texas was drowning in oil and begging for outlets to send oil to the Gulf Coast for refining or overseas shipment. Now, with the Big Spring refinery unable to obtain sufficient domestic supplies to operate at capacity, imported oil is being pumped about 600 miles to make up the deficit in supply. This may approximate 10,000 barrels per day.

American Petrofina, parent company of Cosden, plans to import a shipload a month to Bar Harbor.

NOT SELF-SUFFICIENT

"West Texas refiners are no longer self-sufficient," said Ben Crocker, president of American Petrofina Pipeline Company, which will move the oil.

SS Monticello Victory left Kharral Armatya on the Persian Gulf March 11 with 357,000 barrels of Barah, Iraq sour crude aboard and docked Monday at Harbor Island. Cosden had purchased a 10-in., 583-mile pipeline from Arco Pipe Line Company May 1, 1972 as an insurance against critical shortage of supply several years hence. But in less than a year, Cosden is taking the first tender of foreign oil.

Paul Meek, Cosden president, said he did not know specifically how long it will take the Iraqi oil to reach here, but perhaps a week or so because the former Arco line is presently full of oil.

A pump station was installed at Harbor Island to reverse the flow, and modifications were made at six other pump stations to deliver the oil here. The initial boost will be to the Refugio station, then through boosters to Crane, and then on to Midland and Big Spring. The line has a capacity of 30,000 to 40,000 barrels per day, but Cosden is not due to require that much. The refinery here has a capacity well in excess of 50,000 barrels per day and had had difficulty in getting as much as 85 per cent of its crude oil needs from domestic crude.

The facilities acquired from Arco include 2,000,000 barrels storage at Harbor Island. This could figure later in Fina's operation of a newly acquired refinery from Sohio at Port Arthur.

IN STORAGE

"This is the first time foreign oil has penetrated inland and gone to an area like West Texas that has produced its own oil," said Crocker. "This is not just an exercise. It's a planned program that began over a year ago."

He also pointed out that the Midland Co-op Refinery at Cushing, Okla. recently was forced to close because it cannot get crude oil to refine. Although the recent dollar devaluation has made foreign crude more expensive than domestic oil, Petrofina elected to operate the modernized and enlarged refinery here at capacity.

"This is something of an historic event," said Meek. "It underlines the fact that the energy crisis is not a catch phrase but something very real."

'PULLING OURSELVES UP BY OUR BOOTSTRAPS'

Bases Axed: Hard Times Ahead

By The Associated Press

Leaders of two Texas cities forecast some hard times ahead for their communities, but immediately started talking of "pulling ourselves up by our bootstraps," following the Pentagon's announcement of the closing down of two large military bases.

The bases affected are Laredo Air Force Base in the border city of South Texas, and Ft. Wolters, an Army helicopter flight training center at Mineral Wells in North Central Texas.

HUGE PAYROLLS

The two bases and their huge payrolls provide healthy economic boosts to the two cities.

The announcement of the closing down of the bases between now and 1976 was made by the Pentagon Monday. The elimination of the Texas bases is part of military cutbacks that include the shutting down of more than 200 military bases throughout the United States.

Other military installations in Texas affected by the reduction are the Defense Language Institute's Vietnamese language school in El Paso and the English Language Training School at Lackland AFB in San Antonio.

Pentagon officials said Kelly AFB in San Antonio will lose 1,075 civilian jobs during the next three years, but will absorb military personnel from Goodfellow AFB in San Angelo.

The heaviest impact will be in Laredo where the base has an authorized strength of 2,100 military and 520 civilian jobs. It will be closed down by Sept. 30.

TERRIBLE BLOW

"It will be a terrible blow to everybody in the city," said Laredo Mayor J. C. Martin Jr. Martin said the city was "economically dependent on the base."

Laredo AFB spokesman said the base's operating budget last year was $36.75 million including $5 million paid in civilian wages.

"We must take immediate plans to pull ourselves up by our bootstraps," Martin said.

Ft. Wolters has an authorized strength of 691 military personnel and 560 civilians. The helicopter flight training program will be shifted to Ft.

Rucker, Ala., with 57 military and 11 civilians moving from Mineral Wells to Alabama.

The office of Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said that 1,443 civilian jobs and 1,352 military jobs will be eliminated in Texas between now and 1976.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., said he will do "what I can to try to moderate the effects" of the closing of the military installations.

DYESS GAINS

He added that he did not think "Texas was hurt nearly as much as other areas of the country."

Bentsen and Tower have scheduled a meeting with Secretary of Defense Elliot Richardson Tuesday in Washington.

One Texas installation will benefit from the closing of another in Kansas. The Air Force announced it will relocate the 47th Tactical Air Lift Squadron from Forbes Air Force Base to Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene, Tex., increasing its strength by 372 military and 81 civilian positions.

Martin County Project Discussion Scheduled

The Criminal Justice Advisory committee of the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission will meet Thursday at noon in the Hi Sky Restaurant at Midland Air Terminal. Police Chief Vance Chisum is a new member of this committee. Guest speakers Thursday will be Inspector Tommy White, Midland Police Department and Capt. George Scarpa, Odessa PD.

On the agenda to discuss is a Martin County adult and juvenile probation project.

Martin County has had no probation service in the past, district courts not initiating a trial for many offenders. With no choice, the courts have chosen not to bring to trial individuals who might be more effectively rehabilitated on a local basis.

Both Martin County Court and the 118th Judicial District Court, over which Judge R. W. Caton of Big Spring presides, realize the need for a probation service for persons convicted of a felony, misdemeanor, and juvenile cases within their jurisdiction.

With the probation service more people will be placed on probation, thus reducing the pending case loads of the two courts. A probation officer will be hired to assist the courts and will conduct pre-trial and pre-sentencing investigations on all eligible defendants.

They are making a request for financial grant to serve July 1, 1973 through June 30, 1974 with a total request of $25,261.

Nineteen law officials, including Chisum, serve on this committee in the Permian Basin.

Solons Face Short Week, Long Hours

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A short week but long hours faced Texas legislators as they returned to work today.

Both Houses plan to adjourn by noon Thursday for an Easter recess that will extend until next Tuesday morning.

The House takes up its version of the $9.7 billion general appropriation bill Tuesday morning, with debate expected to last all day and possibly into Wednesday.

Attempts to amend the bill may result in a challenge to Gov. Dolph Briscoe's no-new-taxes policy, by members who think certain state programs should be added or expanded, even if it takes more money.

There also are members who would agree with Briscoe that the House Appropriations Committee erred when it eliminated the budget for the Texas Industrial Commission. This could be restored by amendment.

Speaker Price Daniel Jr. said he feels the House should act on at least one other major controversial bill before the Easter recess, to keep such legislation from piling up at the end of the session.

Two possibilities, he said, are a mass transit bill and one restoring the death penalty in certain murder cases, such as killings for pay and murder of policemen.

Committee action might include a competitive car insurance rates bill and a measure reducing penalties for marijuana possession.

'IT'S LIKE CHRISTMAS EVERY DAY' Millionaire Beachbums

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer

MOOREA, French Polynesia (AP) — Kelley, Muk and Jay, the millionaire beachbums from California, just opened their third Bali Hai, and they're already planning two more.

It's almost like working, the hotelmen say.

"I LOVE IT" says Don McCallum, dispensing what he calls his Mukian philosophy. "Every person who gets off that boat is worth at least ten dollars, even day trippers. It's like Christmas every day."

Actually, added Hugh Kelley later, "we're not in this for money — we had to stay in Tahiti some way. ... Yeah, you can say we're worth more than a million now."

Kelley, McCallum and Jay Carlisle used to listen to Tahitian mandolins together in Newport Beach and work over the Great American Dream of a South Seas paradise.

One slow season Kelley left his law practice long enough to sail down. He came back and lasted a half a day in the office. Not long afterward, in 1960, all three were in Tahiti looking for work.

KNOW TRIO IN RIO
Eventually they scraped up money to buy a collapsing little hotel on Moorea, maybe the most beautiful island in the world, and the rest is legend wherever travel snobs meet.

The Moorea Bali Hai, and the new ones on the other Tahiti outer islands of Huahine and Raiatea are jammed.

People know the trio in Rio, Mexico City and Bangkok where they show up for steam-releasing vacations with entourages of a dozen Tahitian love-lies, guitar players and drink pourers.

Muk, noted for counting empty tin cans in the hotel kitchen at home, has been known on trips to order 75 screwdriver drinks before lunch for himself and everyone else within shouting distance.

But, in their remote tropical paradise, they hustle harder than they ever have.

EASY RIDER
Muk shambles bare-chested and barefoot through the dining room smiling at Ohio tourists, but he's up at dawn watering the lawn and it's after 8 p.m. before he gets home.

Kelley sneaks off to ride his motorcycle up Moorea's mind-boggling mountains but more frequently he is conjuring up glass-bottom bungalows and hauling cement.

Though Jay grins easily and leans at ladies, he spends hours in a cluttered backroom counting deliveries from their egg-ranched—a side project—and worrying about exchange rates.

All of them, each around 40 now, clearly work hard at the gay bachelor approach.

"When we started we didn't know anything about running a hotel," Kelley said. "We just decided to make it like a place we would like to stay in."

The Moorea hotel, the biggest at 47 rooms, is still run like a giant bachelor pad with guest facilities.

Muk loves people, but he has a W. C. Fields aversion to children and dogs. One traveler asked if the hotel had facilities for dogs and he replied, "Yes, a burlap sack, a 25 pound rock and 80 feet of water."

"Neither the WOC session nor the timing was perfect, even though the joint get-together the visit by the USAF chaplains got to meet the USAF chaplains Chaplain Summy continued, as well as Chaplain (Lt. Col.) E. Wayne Minor, ATC Chief of Chaplains. And all of the chaplains took with them the feel of the work being done at Webb, Dyess, Goodfellow and Reese AFBs."

Accompanying Chaplain Meade for the staff visit were Col. Paul G. Schade, chief, Professional Division; Robert F. Overman, Personnel Division; and Robert M. Moore, Special Actions Officer, Budget and Logistics Division.
