FELIX F. FLORIO

Dallas Officer Charged With Assault To Murder

DALLAS (AP) — Fellow policemen arrested Felix F. Florio, 33, and charged him with assault to murder Thursday in a shooting which nearly killed a young Dallas secretary. Police Chief Frank Dyson immediately suspended the patrolman and took away his badge and identification card. Florio, who had been no-billed last year in the slaying of an airline stewardess, was charged in the shooting of a woman, 22, who also was raped by a man who entered her East Dallas apartment by displaying police credentials. She was left partly blinded. Florio was arraigned before a municipal judge who set bond at $5,000, which Florio posted. Later, formal charges were filed with Justice of the Peace Robert Cole, who set bond at $10,000.

Dyson had reinstated Florio after the grand jury refused to indict him in the slaying of the airline hostess, who had been his girl friend.

The Dallas chief declined to say what led to the arrest of Florio or what evidence had been gathered against the dark-haired officer.

"The investigation at this point is incomplete and I am not at liberty to discuss in detail factors or evidence about this particular case," Dyson told newsmen. "The investigation right now is centered on this one particular incident ... but it may branch out."

Florio was arrested at police headquarters while dressed in civilian clothes after completing his day's work in the planning and research division, Dyson said. After formal charges were filed, Cole said the victim—wearing a patch over her left eye—viewed the suspect. She told investigators her attacker flashed police credentials and said he wanted to use her apartment for surveillance in a narcotics investigation. Once inside, she said, the man went to her bathroom and emerged naked, brandishing a gun.

Police had been seeking a man they described as a "police imposter," also wanted for raping a 25-year-old accountant just six blocks from the apartment of the secretary on July 10.

In that case, the victim said her assailant also declared he was an officer as he entered her apartment.

Last year Florio was charged in the Sept. 5 shooting death of airline stewardess Karen DePhillips, 21. He was suspended then for submitting false reports about the shooting and two other unexplained "discharges" of his service revolver on Aug. 14 and Aug. 21, 1971.

A Dallas County grand jury on Oct. 4 no-billed him, calling the shooting accidental.

Florio was reinstated as a policeman Oct. 21 and since had worked as a dispatcher and in the planning and research division.

In 1965 he was awarded the department's Life Saving Bar and in 1966 the Certificate of Merit for "outstanding work."

Dyson said he reinstated Florio last year "on the evidence I had and by the decision reached by the grand jury. I had no regrets at the time. This is the kind of thing that takes two years off a man."

It was the second time, in two months a Dallas police officer has been arrested and charged with a criminal offense.

John Thomas Singletary was indicted on a murder charge in the June 19 slaying of art supply salesman Bryan R. Stout.

May Question Accuracy Of Crime Stats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is conducting an in-depth survey of crime in America that may call into question the accuracy of the long-established FBI crime statistics.

The survey is being carried out by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in eight cities: Newark, N.J., Portland, Ore., Cleveland, St. Louis, Denver, Dallas, Baltimore and Atlanta.

Census Bureau surveyors under contract to LEAA are interviewing 10,000 households in each city. Earl Gerson, a bureau official, said the purpose is to get a victim's eye view of crime.

BORIS RESIGNS Fischer Wins World Chess Championship

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — American challenger Bobby Fischer won the world chess championship today when Boris Spassky of Russia telephoned his resignation in the 21st game, which had been adjourned overnight.

Max Euwe, president of the International Chess Federation, said Spassky had telephoned Lothar Schmid, match referee, shortly before the game was to resume with Spassky in a probable losing position.

It is the first time an American has ever held the title, although Paul Charles Morphy of New Orleans, who lived from 1837 to 1884, dominated play in the 1850s and came to be known as unofficial world champion.

The title match here had a limit of 24 games. Today's victory gave Fischer 12½ points to Spassky's 8½. Fischer won seven games, each worth a point. Spassky took three, including a forfeit — thus he actually won only one out of 10 games at the playing board. Each of 11 draws was worth half a point to each contestant.

PRIZE MONEY
Fischer, who is 29, is from Brooklyn. He stood to win $156,000 in prize money, counting a bonus put up by a British fan. He will reap further thousands in book royalties and other fees before he has to defend his title in 1976.

Spassky, who is 35, is to receive about $100,000 as runnerup. He had won the title in 1969 from Tigran Petrosian, a fellow Russian — indeed Russians have almost monopolized title play most of this century.

Referee Schmid announced on the stage where the players were to have resumed their 21st game at 3:30 p.m. that Spassky had telephoned his resignation at 12:50.

Doc Victim Of Demerol

FORT WORTH (AP) — The death of a Fort Worth doctor under indictment for murder has been ruled "unclassified." However, death was attributed to "an overdose of demerol."

Dr. William Earl Raburn, 40, was found dead at his home Tuesday night. A medical examiner withheld a ruling at the time pending results of a toxicology study.

Raburn was charged in the 1971 death of Andrew Knox, 18, a University of Texas student at Austin. Medical investigators said Knox died of an overdose of methadone, a synthetic drug used in the treatment of heroin addicts.

The indictment alleged that Knox obtained the methadone and another drug from Raburn at the Carter Clinic in suburban Lake Worth. After one postponement, a trial date was set for Raburn Sept. 11.

Wandering Python Is Back In Cage

Arrested this morning at 3:28 was an out-of-town python.

The serpent was discovered by police officers patrolling College Park Shopping Center, location of the Jaycee carnival.

After being advised of his rights, the python chose to say nothing to the officers. Apparently, his worst crime had been scaring passersby, including a police officer or two.

The owner was notified, the snake's probation was revoked and he was returned to his cage.

BRUTAL SLAYING IN FORT WORTH

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Investigators searched today for a killer who committed what an officer described as one of the most brutal slayings on record.

The body of Emma Davis, 85, was discovered by a daughter Thursday on the kitchen floor of her south side home. She had been bound and gagged, sexually mutilated and her throat cut.

Homicide Lt. Oliver Ball said the slaying was "one of the worst I've seen."

Investigators offered no motive for the murder. They said Mrs. Davis lived alone and had little or no money and nothing of great value in her home.

RAIN

Considerable cloudiness with 50 per cent chance of thundershowers decreasing to 30 per cent Saturday. High today and Saturday 87, low tonight 60.

State Department Will Not Bail Out Stranded Yankees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two government agencies predict many more Americans who have taken charter tourist flights to Europe this year will find themselves without a ticket home.

But the State Department says it's not at all sympathetic with demands that it bail the stranded travelers out by giving them free rides.

One group of 122 U.S. tourists finally flew home from London Thursday—their way paid by British businesses—after three nights camping in a Gatwick Airport lounge and countless exchanges with the American embassy.

They were stranded because the charter company handling their flight—Daedalus Travel Inc.—announced it was "suspending operations."

"The U.S. Embassy has been totally useless and negative," said tourist Ruth Jacobs of New York. "We feel very hostile towards them. The British, on the other hand, have been absolutely marvelous over this."

State Department spokesman Charles Bray disputed the charge. He said the U.S. Embassy in London did what it could, including offering loans to those who might claim they were destitute, but drew the line against demands for a free ride home at U.S. taxpayers' expense.

"Those Americans who can afford to go to Europe are, on the face of it, not destitute," Bray said.

A Civil Aeronautics Board spokesman estimated that, over-all, more than 10,000 persons will have found themselves overseas this year with going mail will be taken at 2 p.m. Monday.

Most other offices in the Federal Building will be closed.

Banks, Some Businesses Will Be Closed Monday

Most government offices will be closed for Labor Day, and some retailers will keep the doors locked Monday.

Banks and most downtown offices will not open for business.

After a spot survey, the Chamber of Commerce reported most downtown merchants, excluding J. C. Penney Co., Inc. and C. R. Anthony Co., will stay closed. In the shopping centers, the response also was varied — some will open, some will not.

Labor Day is not scheduled as a holiday on the retail calendar.

City and county offices, excepting the police station and sheriff's office, will be closed. But the municipal golf course will stay open.

Howard County Junior College and Big Spring Independent School District offices and classes will observe Labor Day. Only special delivery mail will be delivered Monday. U.S. Postal Service windows will be closed. But incoming mail will be deposited in boxes. Out-

August Rains Add 43,000 Acre-Feet To Lake Thomas

The Big Spring Experiment Station had recorded 0.87 inches of rain about 9:30 a.m. today (Sept. 1).

O. H. Ivie, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District said from one to two inches fell in Scurry and Borden Counties.

Lake Thomas caught one and one-half inches or an increase of 0.13 inches in elevation, he said. But no rain fell on Lake Spence.

No run-off is anticipated at either lake from rainfall in the last 24 hours.

During August, Ivie said Lake Thomas gained 10.96 feet elevation or 43,000 acre-feet. Run-off into Lake Thomas has averaged 53,000 yearly.

The 43,000 acre-feet puts elevation at 2,238.93 and total impoundment at 87,500 acre-feet.

Lake Spence gained 26,465 acre-feet during August for a total 109,300 acre-feet. Vertical increase was 5.98 feet making current elevation 1,855.97.

An unusually large amount of rain fell during August, 1972 and August, 1971, Ivie said.

May 1-July 15 and September 1-October 15 are the normal rainy months in the area.

Contrary to one report, only light rains fell at Colorado City last night or this morning.

Rain is keeping an estimated

70,000 acres of cotton from maturing in Howard County.

And County Agent Bruce Griffith said area cotton farmers are hoping for hot, dry weather between now and the first two weeks of November.

Cotton farmers have not suffered much damage from insects this year, he added.

Mrs. Nan Philips Dies Thursday

Mrs. Nan Philips, widow of Shine Philips, a well-known Big Spring pharmacist whose career took on a new dimension when he wrote a national best-seller "Big Spring: Casual Biography of a Prairie Town," died in a local hospital at 4:45 p.m. Thursday.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, with Rev. H. B. Birdwell officiating. Burial will follow in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

A victim of a series of strokes that left him incapacitated and confined to a nursing home here during the last few years of his life, Mr. Philips died here March 4, 1968.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Farley S. Bell of Baird, Nan was married to Earl Cleveland (Shine) Philips in Baird Feb. 10, 1914. The wedding attracted more than its share of interest.

A group of Big Spring people rented a special T&P railway car to make the trip to Baird, displaying a sign, "In God we trust, Shine's wedding or bust," alongside the car. The group carried its own photographer and dance band with it.

She had met his future bride in a Baird drug store where he was employed. The first home the two occupied in Big Spring was in the 400 block on West Eighth St. He later joined C. W. Cunningham in the purchase of a Big Spring drug store from B. Reagan.

MRS. NAN PHILIPS

Mrs. Philips, who broke her hip in a fall two years ago in December and never fully recovered, was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal Church and the 1965 Hyperion Club.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Garth Jones, Austin, and Champe Philips, Monroe, La.; two granddaughters, Mrs. William (Tiffany Nan) Hayes, Houston, and Miss Bronwyn Jones, Austin; a sister Mrs. Earl (Ellen) Ezell, Big Spring; a brother, J. Bowyer Bell, Birmingham, Ala.; and a nephew, Naval Capt. Barkley Wood, London, England.

95 Is Draft Cut Number

AUSTIN (AP) — Draftable Texans whose lottery numbers are 95 or less can breathe easy for the rest of 1972, the state's selective service director said today.

Col. Melvin Glantz said 95 is the cut-off for induction of non-volunteers for the remainder of the year.

The lottery cut-off for September is 75.

Glantz said the national draft quota for the last three months of 1972 was 15,000 men and can be met with those who drew numbers between 1 and 95.

He said about 1,100 men will be drafted in Texas during October, November and December. Induction orders will go to men who are available and fully qualified for military service and who were born in 1952, plus those who lost a deferment in 1972, Glantz said.

Harvard Cheaper Than Reform Unit

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — It costs more to keep a youth one year at the Maryland Training School for Boys than it would to send him to Harvard for three years. A survey indicates the reform school situation isn't much better in several other states.

Maryland spent $18,235 in fiscal 1972 for each boy at the reformatory, and a survey by The Associated Press indicates Illinois and Michigan, among others, spent over $10,000 a year for each youth in a state facility.

ROOM, BOARD Harvard currently lists a yearly cost of $5,395, including tuition, room and board and personal expenses.

"It's ridiculous for what you get back," says Morris Sherman, an official of the Maryland Department of Juvenile Services, which runs the state training school.

"There's a time when we should stop pumping new money into old programs that haven't been successful," Sherman added. He said he thinks "it's time to start looking at alternatives" to reform schools.

According to an Illinois juvenile corrections official, the cost of juvenile corrections has doubled over the last seven years, in part due to inflation.

Illinois juvenile corrections director Joseph S. Coughlin said his state estimates the average annual cost for each of the 1,700 juveniles in state facilities at between $10,000 and $12,000.

The cost of confining a boy for one year at the state reformatory in Lansing costs Michigan $11,896, officials there estimate, but at the Whitmore Lake camp near Ann Arbor the cost is only $5,917.

SAME THING Missouri and Virginia report some of the lowest expenditures for juveniles. In Missouri, figures showed an annual expenditure of $2,385 per boy and Virginia reported an annual per-inmate cost of $3,877.

Don Jenkins of Missouri's Department of Corrections said per-inmate cost of reformatories is much higher than for inmates over 25. Officials from other states concurred.

The Maryland Training School is not typical of the state corrections system, Maryland officials emphasize.

The average per capita cost in fiscal 1972 for the entire state juvenile system, including the 914 youngsters at the training school, was $12,434.

Massachusetts, according to Maryland corrections official Shevyan, is phasing out large juvenile institutions altogether.

Instead the Bay State is housing its juvenile offenders in group homes.

Maryland is trying the same thing and Sherman said that for fiscal 1972 the cost of keeping a juvenile offender in a group home operated by a cooperating agency or private family — was only $4,149.

Nixon's Golf Handicap Told

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon has spilled the beans on what usually is a closely guarded presidential secret — the brand of golf he plays.

Dining with Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka and diplomats from both nations Thursday night, Nixon confessed he has a golf handicap of 18.

That means that if a professional navigated a course in 72 strokes, Nixon might reasonably be expected to make the circuit in 90.

The President made the revelation in toasting Tanaka at a working summit dinner in the Kullima hotel on the north shore of Oahu. He said Tanaka had an identical handicap.

Nixon promised that when Tanaka visits Washington and he has been invited to do so early next year — the two will get together on the golf links.

To make a foursome, Nixon reported, he will invite Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira to join in. He said Rogers carries a handicap of 16 while Ohira's is 17.

All things being equal, that would suggest a victory for the Americans.

Paper Sold In Lubbock

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Morris Communications Corp., owner of newspapers in Alaska and Georgia, announced Friday that it had purchased newspapers in Amarillo and Lubbock, Tex.

The Augusta-based corporation said it had purchased majority stock in the company that publishes the Amarillo News, the Amarillo Globe Times and the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

The announcement was made by W. S. Morris III, president of Morris Communications. Terms were not disclosed.

"The papers in Amarillo and the papers in Lubbock, each with a remarkably capable staff, are recognized as being among the most advanced and most effective in Texas," said Morris. "I consider we are most fortunate that we have been given the privilege of purchasing them and will have the opportunity to serve these communities."

Publisher S. B. Whittenburg said he planned to leave the Amarillo newspapers after an association of 34 years. He cited Morris as one of the "outstanding newspaper publishers in the state of Georgia" and said he would do "an excellent job of publishing these Texas newspapers."

The Amarillo newspapers have a combined daily circulation of 85,000. The circulation of the Lubbock newspaper is 82,000.

Morris and Paul S. Simon, executive vice president of Morris Communications, said that under the new ownership the Texas papers would be operated by Southwestern Newspapers Corp., a newly created subsidiary of the Georgia corporation.

Another Morris subsidiary, Southeastern Newspaper Corp., publishes newspapers in the Georgia cities of Savannah, Augusta, Athens and in Juneau, Alaska.

Tanaka Has 'All The Pitches'

HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon and Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka wind up their mid-Pacific summit today, reaching accord on a one-shot Japanese effort to ease the plight of the dollar.

The agreement, to be spelled out in a joint communique, envisions Japanese orders for an extra $1 billion-plus of American goods, with the bulk to be paid for in advance.

American officials had hoped to leave Honolulu with a similarly specific meeting of the minds on longer-range solutions to a chronic and growing deficit in U.S. trade dealings with Japan. Such matters, however, are being left largely to future negotiations.

PRIVATE TALKS Nixon and Tanaka were said to have spent a third of their time in private talks Thursday discussing trade matters. Sitting in on their initial discussion were Henry A. Kissinger, the President's foreign policy adviser, and Nobuhiko Ushiba, Japan's ambassador to Washington.

While they met at the Kullima hotel on Oahu's north shore, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Japanese Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira presided at a companion conference of other officials from the two countries. They were joined for an hour by Nixon and Tanaka before all summit participants took a break prior to an evening working dinner at the hotel.

After the dinner, American sources disclosed that Tanaka has been invited to visit the United States mainland. He may go to Washington early next year.

The dinner lasted two hours and in what was described as a "private and very informal toast," Nixon paid tribute to Tanaka in terms of baseball — a sport popular in Japan.

Likening the new Japanese prime minister to a pitcher, Nixon said he and his team are "in the big league," adding, "He has all the pitches. He has a fastball, a curve, a slider and a knuckler."

An American official who was present said Tanaka talked of handling problems in a "family spirit" at the summit and declared all difficulties between the two nations could be solved by frank and constructive talks.

After a final meeting and issuance of the communique, Nixon flies back to his San Clemente, Calif., home Friday night. Before departure he will participate in a ceremony marking the retirement of Adm. John S. McCain Jr. and his replacement as commander in chief of U.S. forces in the Pacific by Adm. Noel Gayler.

While her husband spent all Thursday conferring with the visiting Japanese and getting a Vietnam report from Ellsworth Bunker, ambassador to Saigon, Mrs. Nixon did some touring around Hilo on the island of Hawaii.

TRADE WINDS From the standpoint of the Americans, trade was the key summit topic in view of pressure on the dollar resulting from Japan's currently estimated $3.8-billion surplus in commercial dealings with the United States.

However, Nixon and Tanaka also spent a good bit of time talking about developing ties between their two countries and mainland China. Tanaka is expected to visit Peking in about a month.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said Nixon and Tanaka also discussed trade and political relationships among the non-Communist countries and "how the relationships should grow and develop in a changing world."

He quoted Nixon as saying the two leaders had had "a good exchange."

EFFORT TO EASE PLIGHT OF DOLLAR

Tanaka Has 'All The Pitches'

Raza Unida Delegates Mull Political Action

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — The role of the new Mexican-American Raza Unida party in the national presidential campaign will be main topic as the party opens its four-day national convention today.

The big question as delegates began the state conferences was whether the party would throw its support to either the Democrats or the Republicans or concentrate on state elections.

Neither party had conferred at a late hour whether it would send a top representative to the convention although both candidates — Sen. George McGovern and President Richard Nixon — were invited to speak.

Raza Unida leaders, especially in Texas, have criticized both the GOP and the Democrats in recent months, accusing them of neglecting the Mexican-American population and taking its vote for granted.

The convention is the first of its kind of the party which was organized in Texas three years ago and is making its first attempt at statewide political action.

by running candidate for governor and the U.S. Senate.

Gubernatorial candidate Ramsey Muniz, a 30-year-old San Antonio attorney, has led the charges against the Democratic party and said last week Raza Unida will support McGovern only if McGovern will support Raza Unida's Texas candidates.

Muniz noted that the Democratic candidate for governor, Dolph Briscoe, has said he will not work for the election of McGovern in Texas, although Briscoe voted for McGovern's nomination in Miami Beach.

"If McGovern and the liberals of the party are sincere about their interest in Mexican-Americans, this is their chance to prove it by backing Raza Unida," Muniz said.

The party's criticism of the Democrats does not imply a swing to the GOP or President Nixon whom party leaders accuse of trying to attract Mexican-American voters with a few token appointments.

The party's national strategy will be discussed and formulated Saturday and Sunday. Delegations from at least 10 states were already in town early today.

Among the speakers who have confirmed their participation are the Most Rev. Patrick Flores, Roman Catholic auxiliary bishop of San Antonio, and Reyes Lopez Tijerina, who several years ago led a land grant claim for Mexican-Americans in New Mexico.

Win Bed Race

REDMOND, Wash. (AP) — The Cowlitz County Group has won the fourth annual Bed Race at the Pomona Picnic, pushing a bright orange, stripped-down bed through an obstacle course.

The five team members had to maneuver their entry over two saw horses, outline a figure eight between two barrels, run over a group of automobile tires, circle a pole, dip three wheels into a pool of water and run backwards, pulling the bed across the finish line.

Connally Brothers Wage Vote Battle

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — While former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally is leading a Democratic for Nixon drive, one of his brothers is campaigning for George McGovern.

Golfrey Connally, an economics professor at San Antonio Junior College, admits he hasn't always taken such an active role in politics.

But he says the race between President Nixon and McGovern offers the clearest distinction of issues and party lines since the 1930s.

Golfrey remains silent on his thoughts about the support given Nixon by his brother, a long-time Democrat and former Texas governor.

Refrigerator Is Death Trap

SAN JUAN, Tex. (AP) — An abandoned refrigerator proved a death trap Thursday for a child in this Lower Rio Grande Valley town.

Officers said the body of Antonio Meza Garcia, 5, was found in an old refrigerator in a back yard about two hours after his mother, Mrs. Guadalupe Garcia, reported her son missing.

The device resembles a slot machine in every respect except it is much smaller.

A local businessman, approached to buy one of the machines, showed it to Houston vice squad officers who turned it over to Vance.

LADY, SORRY 'BOUT THAT

DALLAS (AP) — Mrs. King Williamson, 75, is furious with the Dallas Police Department. She says they cost her $1,300.

Her 1963 Chevrolet was stolen from in front of her apartment in a retirement home Aug. 3. She reported it missing and called the police daily to inquire if they had found it.

When the police still said on Aug. 16 that they hadn't found her car, she bought another for $1,300, using almost all her savings.

Next day she got a letter from the city police auto pound saying they had her car since Aug. 6 and were charging $2 a day storage. They even chided her for leaving the car there so long.

The salesman who sold Mrs. Williamson her second car has offered to take it back — for $300 less. But she won't have to pay the storage fees.

"I can only say that we goofed. It was a human error, pure and simple," said Capt. H. D. Gassetit, head of the police department's auto theft division.

Banker Or Bandit It's All The Same

HOUSTON (AP) — "One-Armed Bandit" or "One-Armed Banker." The district attorney says it's all the same.

Dist. Atty. Carol Vance says a Nevada-made "toy" called the "One-Armed Banker" is actually an illegal slot machine under Texas law.

Vance examined the device in his office Wednesday.

A Houston novelties distributor bought five of the machines from Medally Mfg. Co. of Reno, Nev., which, he said, assured him that a U.S. attorney in Minnesota and the FBI office in Los Angeles had determined they were toys.

The device resembles a slot machine in every respect except it is much smaller.

UNEXPECTED SUCCESS

Food For The Elderly

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government project to seek out elderly Americans who qualify for food assistance programs is meeting with unexpected success, officials say.

Some 1.4 million individual requests for assistance have been received since the program started on Aug. 2. Letters of gratitude also have been received.

"I was so deeply surprised tears came out of my eyes," wrote an elderly woman from Philadelphia. "It was the only offer I had making me feel like a human being, that someone really looked me up to offer me help."

NEW WORLDS
Called Project FIND, it is headed by Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, chairman of the White House Conference on Aging and a former secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

"This program will open new worlds for the older Americans who have been isolated from society," he said in an interview.

The purpose is to locate older persons who are eligible for either food stamp or commodity programs, but who have not applied. Flemming said the government also hopes to locate people eligible for Social Security benefits, transportation services and home repair assistance.

Of the first 7,531 inquiries received at welfare offices in 15 states shortly after the program was announced, 2,591 persons were added to food assistance roles.

Brochures explaining eligibility for the food programs were enclosed with August Social Security checks mailed to 20 million older persons. A stamped postcard was enclosed for those requesting assistance.

NO CONTACT
To date, Flemming said, 461,000 of the 1.4 million postcard replies have been processed.

401 Main St.: Artie Willis Rich, Box 193, Coahoma, and Delores Lee Holder, 106 Jefferson; 5:42 p.m. Thursday.

THEFTS
Mrs. Aaron, 1210 Mobile reported vandalism to her home and the theft of a clock radio, valued at $69.95.

He said these are being sorted and returned to local chapters of the Red Cross, which is participating in the program with four government agencies.

The Red Cross is training 30,000 volunteers under a grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity, and these volunteers will personally contact those persons who sent in cards.

Flemming estimated that at least 1.5 million older persons will be contacted in this way. "Some of these people have had no contact with society," he said.

Flemming said he hopes the project will lead to a permanent program to bring the elderly into the mainstream of society.

Odessan Guilty Of Counterfeiting Loses Trial Bid

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A federal judge overruled Thursday a motion for a new trial sought by an Odessa man and another from Corpus Christi who were convicted of counterfeiting.

U.S. District Court Judge John Wood Jr. turned down the requests of James Cawley of Odessa and Lou Wiggs of Corpus Christi after a hearing.

They were convicted last March at Midland and sentenced May 17.

Cawley was sentenced to 10 years on each of five counts, the sentences to run concurrently. Wiggs was assessed six years terms on each of four counts, also to run concurrently.

They were convicted of printing and distributing approximately $10,000 in counterfeit bills in West Texas.

A third man, Travis Calvin Henderson of Levelland was convicted and sentenced to 10 years on each of six counts, the terms to be concurrent. However, he was not a part of Thursday's hearing here.

June Teagarden Capps of Odessa pleaded guilty and testified against the others. Her sentence was three years and she was placed on probation.

The San Antonio federal district clerk's office said records here show the cases of Cawley and Wiggs are on appeal to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Oleo Strut Coffeehouse Closing Down

KILLEEN, Tex. (AP) — A longtime rallying point for anti-war parades and marches, the Oleo Strut coffeehouse, is closing down with financial difficulties.

A spokesman said, however, that the Ft. Hood United Front, an organization which operated from the Strut, will continue operations at least until a decision can be reached on suits now pending against the city.

The two suits, which were consolidated last week by federal judge Jack Roberts, both grew out of the United Front's requests for parade permits being denied. No date has been set for hearing of the combined suits.

During its existence, Oleo Strut was visited by leading anti-war figures such as actress Jane Fonda and actor Donald Sutherland.

As the coffeehouse, named for the shock absorbers in an army helicopter's landing assembly, became more of a center to rally numerous causes, ranging from "freeing" Angela Davis to housing and business practices in Killeen, the city council moved to have it closed. But planned legal activity was never carried through.

But now the winding down of the war, which also has brought a decrease in financial support, has helped remove Oleo Strut as an issue.

IRONTON, Mo. (AP) — Richard L. Armfield, 52, owner, editor and publisher of the Mountain Echo in Ironton, died Wednesday of a heart attack. Prior to purchasing the weekly newspaper nine years ago, Armfield was a writer for The Associated Press and a river shipping trade publication.

Three Snyder Men Suffer Injuries In Plant Fire

SNYDER — The Fuller Gasoline Plant, located six miles north of here, was the scene at 2:30 p.m. Thursday of an explosion and fire which sent three persons to a hospital in Snyder.

The three remained in Congdon Memorial Hospital late Thursday in "undetermined" condition.

Severe burns were suffered on the face, head and upper portions of the body by Jack Harless and Jim Manly, both of Snyder.

Charles Landon, also of Snyder, received minor burns and was administered first aid at the plant and later was admitted to the hospital here for observation and treatment for shock.

The Snyder Fire Department dispatched three units to the huge gasoline, propane and butane plant, but according to Snyder fire chief Alfred Cole, "We just shut the gas down and let it burn out." The extreme heat and danger of explosion made combatting the blaze with water impossible, he said.

The Snyder firemen remained at the scene for more than two hours. Cole said the damage was confined primarily to a pump station located in the center of the complex. He stated that damage was "heavy" to three pumps housed in the station.

The fire began when a leak in a gasoline line near the pump station ignited, causing an explosion of several bottles of stored gas.

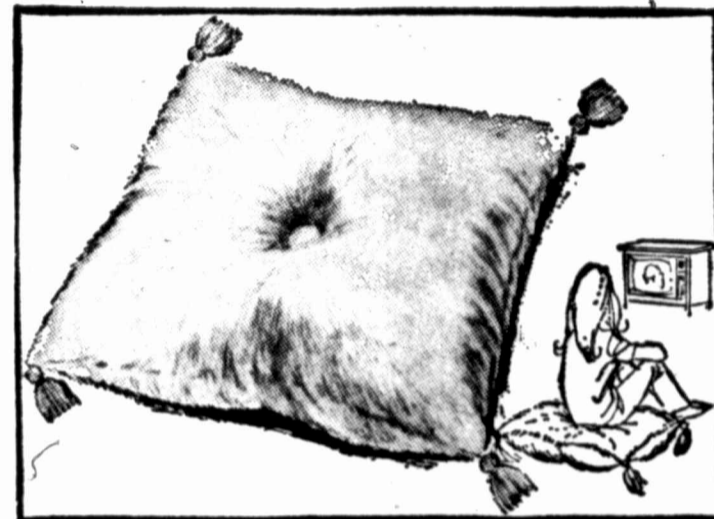

Plant foreman Elmo Weyel said no damage estimate was available at once.

The plant is operated by Texaco Inc.

Pat Wears Muumuu But Won't Try Hula

HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Grasping the round stone firmly, Pat Nixon took careful aim and rolled it with a deliberate motion toward two wooden pegs 20 feet away.

The stone skittered across the ground and rolled between the markers.

"Wowie!" Mrs. Nixon exulted in a pseudo-shout, pointing one finger skyward and rotating it in a circular motion as several hundred children of Hawaiian ancestry applauded her efforts at ulumaika, an ancient Hawaiian sport similar to bowling.

The scene was the Keaukaha school, one of the stops on a whirlwind tour which the First Lady took Thursday on the island of Hawaii, the state's largest land mass.

Mrs. Nixon spent a fast-paced seven hours visiting good works and cultural projects while her husband conferred on Oahu, the state's principal island, with Kakuei Tanaka.

Accepting a koa-wood ceremonial key to the island from Mayor Shunichi Kimura on arrival, Mrs. Nixon told the 2,500 persons who turned out to greet her at Hilo's airport, "I'm going to open the door often to this beautiful bit of paradise you have here."

Mrs. Nixon saw activities at an Easter seal center for crippled children and a senior citizens center and then participated in a Japanese tea ceremony before attending a luau — a Hawaiian banquet — in the evening.

She stopped at one point to plant two banyan trees along Hilo's Banyan Drive, a tourist attraction of yobitees of attraction lined by trees bearing plaques identifying the celebrities who planted them.

Mrs. Nixon planted two trees, one for herself and one to replace another which her husband planted 20 years ago when he was a U.S. Senator. That tree had been uprooted by a tidal wave.

Standing back to admire her handiwork after putting the trees in position, Mrs. Nixon quipped to onlookers, "We're going to have a race for them to grow, so please take care of mine best." Mrs. Nixon wore a lime green and white dress for her afternoon tour and changed into a muumuu, the flowing, ankle-length dress typical of Hawaii, for the evening luau.

A LOVELIER YOU Fall Perk-Up Hints For Summer Styles

By MARY SUE MILLER

As summer weekends approach the finish line a summer wardrobe is likely to limp down the homestretch. Yet it could be a front-runner, if given a few fall touches.

The following, and many others, are great perk-ups. What's more, they provide sure starters for a serious autumn collection.

—To put a white skirt back in the running, top it with a silky nylon pull — long sleeves, mock turtle-neck in pearl brown (a true taupe).

—Update a long print skirt with a low ruffled V-necked crepe blouse; colored to pick up the deepest shade in the skirt.

—The summery travel suit gets an enormous lift via suede walkers and suede tote bag in "flannel" gray — a color both neutral and newswy.

—A new hat revives everything you own, including your face. Shapes range from large to head-hugging; bodies from butterfly felts to roll-up knits. Russet, spruce green and mallard (green-blue) are the gowiths. —Retire summer jewelry in favor of a heavy necklace with a theme of nuts, sweeds, wood, all with a look that's organic.

For summer shirts select a tie of antiqued gold, let's say; or a brilliant scarf — like a mix of red plum, pink rose and blue red.

—To meld the seasons with the least effort, try perfume. There's a creme fragrance from a famed French house that warms up on your skin and diffuses your atmosphere. Nice!

Asks Fair Treatment For Men

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A Women's Studies program is funded at the University of New Mexico, and a male professor says that what's good for the goose is good for the gander.

Dr. Richard F. Tomasson, chairman of the Sociology Department, who says he's changed at least 50 per cent of his three kids' diapers, is calling for equal time and equal money for the men.

He said the idea of a Women's Studies is "absolutely silly," but if the women are going to have it, the men should too.

He's submitted his proposed curriculum for Men's Studies, complete with courses covering the "Mythology of Male Superiority" and "The Legal Status of American Men," to the university curriculum committee. But he said he hasn't received an official response.

He said his latest greeting is, "Whose husband are you?"

Tomasson maintains the Women's Lib movement has merit in advocating equal pay and equal treatment in careers. And he says "We should get rid of sexual linkage for occupations."

He said he performs house duties such as dish washing, cooking and helping with the children, boys, "liberated of course," ages 9, 10, and 13.

He doesn't iron, but then, "my wife never irons either."

Tomasson said he unquestionably would have hired a male secretary had one applied for the job.

There might be some impending discrimination against men "with all this business of hiring women" he said.

On the subject of "Ms.," Tomasson said it should be ditched in preference for just plain "M."
"It's pronounced mmmmm."

Driver Slain, Money Found

OFFENBACH, Germany (AP) — West German police recovered $562,000 about 12 hours after it was stolen in an armored truck holdup in which the driver was killed.

Police said they found the money in the home of a girlfriend of one of the truck's drivers, Robert Plumblohm.

Plumblohm, a university student who worked part time for the armored truck service, gave himself up earlier but denied he had anything to do with the robbery.

The body of the driver, Guenther Bliard, was found locked inside the abandoned truck in a suburb. He had been shot four times in the head.

Discussion on a three per cent occupancy tax on hotel and motel rooms is expected to continue 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, in the Chamber of Commerce conference room. The Tourism Committee, which will be meeting, debated the ideal of levying the tax to promote Big Spring this week.

Mississippi Man Arrested Here

Thomas Edward Speaks, 24, of Jackson, Miss., was being held in county jail here on a warrant from Florida on forgery charges. Speaks was arrested in Howard County on a traffic violation, fined $50 in Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter's court on a no drivers license violation.

Worden Forced Out Of Astronaut Corps

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — One of three Apollo 15 astronauts who smuggled stamp covers to the moon and back, Alfred M. Worden, has been forced out of the astronaut corps and assigned to another space agency center, officials said Thursday.

SPACE FLIGHT
But, in a reversal of a previous statement, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said that both Worden and an Apollo 15 crewmate, David R. Scott, "could be considered for space flight sometime in the future."

A NASA spokesman said Worden's transfer was mandatory and that his involvement in the stamp caper was one of the "considerations."

"This also is part of the planned phasedown of the astronaut office as a result of the declining number of space flights," a spokesman said.

Worden will become a research engineer and test pilot at the Ames Research Center, a NASA facility at Mountain View, Calif.

MOON AND BACK
NASA reprimanded Worden, Scott and the third Apollo 15

crewman, James B. Irwin, for taking 400 unauthorized stamp covers to the moon and back.

An investigation by NASA showed that the trio planned to pocket $7,000 a piece from the sale of the stamp covers, but later declined the money. Ninety-nine of the covers were sold in Europe by a German collector for about $1,500 each. The rest were impounded by NASA.

Scott has also been transferred out of the astronaut corps. Irwin has retired.

In a separate statement from Christopher C. Kraft, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, both Scott and Worden were said to be still eligible for space flight.

"Although he is no longer on astronaut flight status," Kraft was quoted as saying, referring to Worden, "This does not rule out the possibility that he could be considered for a space flight sometime in the future. The same applies to Col. Scott in his new position."

Officials had said earlier, when Scott was transferred to the Apollo program office, that the move ended the astronaut's spaceflight career.

When asked if Scott or Worden would have to be transferred back to the astronaut corps before being named to a space flight, a spokesman said that under the current system they would.

'ANSWER IS NO'
"But this could change," he added. The continued eligibility for spaceflight, he said, applies only to astronauts who have been transferred as a result of the phasedown.

This would not apply to Irwin, who retired Aug. 1 to begin an evangelistic career in association with the Southern Baptist Convention.

The stamp affair is still being investigated by the justice department.

Although the astronauts were reprimanded for taking unauthorized stamp covers to the moon, Worden also took 144 covers which were approved by the space agency. A number of these were also impounded.

Asked if Worden would be permitted to take these impounded stamp covers with him, a NASA spokesman said "the answer is no."

Sacred Heart Catholic Church Schedules Construction Of New Building In October

By MARJ CARPENTER
The Sacred Heart Catholic Church is planning a $145,000 new building which they hope to get under construction in October, according to the Rev. Father James Delaney.

The building will replace an old building used by the congregation since right after World War II when they obtained the used facility from the Air Base. The drive was kicked off recently with a successful festival which netted over $11,000.

The Rev. Melvin R. Mathis of the Kentwood United Methodist Church announces his sermon topic for this Sunday as "Shoot Your Own Movie." The members of the church are reminded that on the second Sunday of the month, a church-wide fellowship dinner will be held following the worship service.

The Women's Missionary Society at the First Church of God are proud to announce that one of their members, Mrs. Edwin Beasley, has been temporarily named to a statewide committee serving in place of Mrs. Jeff Germany.

The WMS met recently with Miss Anna Smith presiding and 10 members attending. Mrs. Truett Thomas, educational director for the fall study brought the lesson on "Faith and Justice." The group also named prayer partners and set up plans for a prayer vigil.

The District WMS will meet in conjunction with the men's fellowship in Abilene Church of God on Sept. 9 at 9 a.m. and local members are urged to make plans to attend.

In the World Missions Report in the First Presbyterian's newsletter, it states that the board re-elected Dr. David L. Stitt of Houston as chairman and elected Dr. Wayne Todd as vice chairman.

For the first time in the 112-year history, the overseas mission agency will have a session outside of the United States. The board voted to meet in October in Mexico City in order to participate in the centennial of the National Presbyterian Church of Mexico. The increased costs of meeting in Mexico City have been underwritten by special contributions.

The First Baptist Church pointed out on this page last week that some people think that nature is God, but children at First Baptist learn by planting, watering, caring for and feeling plants that nature is another example of God's unlimited power.

And we noticed that the First Assembly of God Church conducts a Sunday morning broadcast each Sabbath from 8:30-8:45 in addition to their morning services.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church mentioned that their church helps sponsor "The Lutheran Hour" and television's "This Is the Life." These are both excellent religious programs with a message for today's world.

The Marcy Drive Church of Christ is another Big Spring church that offers a broadcast each Sunday morning with theirs set at 9 a.m.

And we notice that the Carl Street Church of Christ offers a free correspondence course with those interested to write Box 968.

St. Mary's Episcopal at 10th and Goliad offers a day school with pre-kindergarten, kindergarten and classes for grades 1-3.

Elderly Driver

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FAR AWAY: (Q.) There is this guy who lives in Oregon but is in Vietnam now. Last summer while we were out there visiting he acted like he really cared. He said he would write me.

I wrote to him twice in Oregon and once after he went to Vietnam. But he has not written me a single time.

He will be back in Oregon next summer and I will, too. I will be a high-school graduate then. I think I really love him. How can I get him to feel that way about me and maybe marry me? — Unanswered in Ohio.

(A.) Some boys are just not letter writers. Your friend may be one of these. Do not write him again until just before your visit. Then — if you still feel as you do now — write him and tell him you are coming and are looking forward to seeing him. Maybe he will be ready to resume your friendship where it left off.

But if he isn't, don't wait any longer. Make other plans for your future.

A JOB: (Q.) I am 13, nearly 14, and looking for a job. The only jobs I can find are baby-sitting. But my mother won't let me do that because I have no experience at it. Do you know anything else I can do? I need the money to buy clothes for school. — Candace in Connecticut.

(A.) Talk to your mother. Tell her that everyone has to get experience no matter what the job is. Ask her to give you pointers about how to take care of babies or small children. Remind her that the money you make will be a help to your family.

I believe she will see you are serious and will let you take a baby-sitting job or jobs.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions and comments to Jean Adams, care of the Big Spring Herald, P. O. Box 2622, Houston, Texas 77061.)

Casualties In Viet War

SAIGON (AP) — Five Americans were killed in action last week, three were missing and three were wounded, the U.S. Command announced Thursday. It said it was the lowest total for any week since Jan. 1, 1965, when "statistical accounting" began.

One other American died from nonhostile causes.

The number of Americans killed in action was two higher than the previous week, but the number of wounded was the lowest in more than seven years of weekly reporting.

The South Vietnamese killed in action last week were put at 551, the wounded at 2,514 and the missing at 204.

A total of 3,342 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were claimed killed.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American — 45,855 killed in action, 303,346 wounded, 1,662 missing or captured, 10,265 dead not as a result of hostile action and 118 missing not as a result of hostile action.

South Vietnamese — 153,974 killed, 401,130 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong — 879,872 killed.

Blast, Fire In Chemical Plant Kill Two Texas Men

FREEPORT, Tex. (AP) — An explosion and fire at a chemical company plant here Thursday night killed two persons and critically injured two others.

Another six persons were hurt in the blast at Rhodia, Inc., plant officials said.

Killed were Milton Hood of Alvin and David Elliott Laughlin, 25, of Angleton, both plant workers. Jess Holland, 35, of Hitchcock and Bernie West, 35, of Lake Jackson, were transferred to a Galveston Hospital in critical condition with burns over 75 per cent of their bodies.

TREATED, RELEASED

Officials at Brazosport Community Hospital said Billy Williams, 30, of Freeport was admitted for smoke inhalation and H. A. McDouglas, 41, of Brazoria, for burns. Both men were in satisfactory condition, they said. Four other persons were treated and released.

George Massa, manager of the Rhodia plant, said the explosion occurred in a new unit of the plant that had just gone into operation Thursday.

"We were running a chemical reaction," Massa said. "Everything was going normally when all of a sudden it exploded. We don't know what caused it." He said there had been no determination of damages to the plant, although most of it appeared undamaged.

Firemen from surrounding areas quickly put out the flames in the plant. But a brush fire started by the blaze was not brought under control until about four hours after the blast.

JARS HOUSES
Witnesses said the explosion rattled houses five miles away and broke windows about a mile and a half away in stores on nearby Texas 288.

Wine Guzzlers May Nip Festival

LOS GATOS, Calif. (AP) — The annual Los Gatos Wine and Cultural Festival, a two-year institution in this sleepy coastal foothill village, may become a thing of the past if the town's lady mayor has her way.

Last weekend, 25,000 festivalgoers drank 800 cases of wine under a blazing sun in 90-degree temperatures. The result: six arrests, two policemen injured and widespread vandalism including theft of two stuffed elephants valued at $24 from the Republican headquarters.

"It was the worst trouble we've ever had here," Mayor Ruth Cannon said Wednesday. "I'm not going to vote for it again unless these rowdies can be controlled."

The trouble, she said, was caused by motorcycle gangs who invaded the town Sunday afternoon, guzzling cheap wine from their own half-gallon jugs instead of politely sipping the fine wines supplied by 10 Santa Clara County vintners.

Brazoria County Deputy Sheriff Kenneth Ramsey said he was parked nearby when the explosion occurred. He said he saw a "huge ball of fire which gradually lifted." The air was filled with the lemon-like scent of citral, the perfume base manufactured in the plant.

Officials of both Rhodia and the nearby Dow Chemical Co. plant said they could see no connection between the explosion and the 10-week-old strike at Dow.

DYNAMITING
There have been several violent incidents at Dow, including the dynamiting several weeks ago of a power line leading into the Dow Plant.

The Dow strike has idled 3,400 men while the plant has been operated by supervisory and non-union personnel. Talks were broken off Thursday and Dow told strikers they must report back to work by Sept. 11 or see their jobs taken by non-union, newly-hired employees.

Massa said Rhodia had not been picketed or harassed during the strike. The only connection between the two plants, he said, is that Rhodia buys some chemicals from Dow.

Rhodia, Inc., is a U.S. subsidiary of Rhone-Poulenc in France. The plant has been in operation less than a year.

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: A 65-year-old Minnesota woman recently wrote, asking if I thought she was too "old" to learn to drive an automobile. (Some of her friends laughed at her and said she was.) Here are some of the responses:

DEAR ABBY: When I was 70, my husband had a stroke, and he couldn't drive anymore, so I made up my mind I was going to learn.

I got a driver's permit, took lessons from a neighbor, and in three weeks I took my oral and written examinations, and passed both with flying colors!

I am now 81 years old, and I am still driving. (P.S. I have never been involved in an accident.)

OLD, BUT GOOD,
ST. CLOUD, FLORIDA

DEAR ABBY: I hope that Minnesota woman who wants to learn to drive at age 65 will take lessons from a professional teacher.

I was her age when my husband tried to teach me and we never came close to a divorce in all our 44 years of marriage. (He later confessed it was the only time in his life he wanted to hit a woman!)

I ended up taking lessons from a Driver Education School, which is what I would have done in the first place.

Please don't use my name or town. My husband is a minister.

LOVES TO DRIVE

DEAR ABBY: Please tell the Minnesota woman that at 65 she is still young enough to learn to drive if she really wants to.

I was a lot older than that when I learned, and I have been driving for over 15 years. I am not going to sign my name because I am well-known here in Palm Beach, and it's nobody's business how old I am.

GETS AROUND IN FLORIDA

DEAR ABBY: Tell that 65-year-old widow to learn to drive. It will improve her chances of getting another man. That's how I got mine. I was 73 and he was 74. He was an attractive gentleman, and a real goer, but his eyes were bad and he couldn't drive. Well, he started inviting me out — and I did the driving. Another woman had her eye on him, but she didn't drive, so I had the edge on her!

GLAD I LEARNED IN TUCSON

DEAR ABBY: When my aunt was 67 she learned to drive, and a whole new life opened up to her. She lives in Granada Hills, Calif., and she's driven to Canada twice to visit her older sisters!

She just celebrated her 85th birthday, at which time she received her new driver's license, which is good for another two years!

24 RANGERS KILLED, 21 WOUNDED

Sappers, Gunners Up Attacks Step

SAIGON (AP) — Communist sappers and gunners stepped up their attacks today on the eve of North Vietnam's national day, killing 24 rangers and wounding 21 in one assault. The Saigon command reported four attacks along a 150-mile stretch of Highway 1, the country's main north-south road, between Da Nang and Qui Nhon on the northern and central coasts.

The heaviest assault hit the town of Tam Quan, 50 miles north of Qui Nhon.

ROCKET BARRAGE
The Saigon command gave this account:
Simultaneous assaults were made shortly after midnight against the district headquarters, which was defended by a militia unit, and against a ranger command post 500 yards south of the town. Moving behind a 100-round rocket and mortar barrage, a number of sappers blasted their way into the ranger post. The attack was repulsed, but 24 rangers were killed and 21 were wounded. The command said 21 of the enemy also were killed.

Meanwhile, a 500-pound barrage of rockets, howitzer shells and mortars hit the district headquarters but only two militiamen were wounded.

DRIVEN BACK
The spokesman said government troops looking for the enemy batteries after the attack caught up with an enemy force a mile southwest of Tam Quan, killed eight and captured one prisoner and two weapons. Forty miles to the south, enemy troops attacked militiamen guarding a bridge near the town of An Nhon. Reinforcements were rushed in, the attack was driven back, and 34 of the enemy were killed. The Saigon command claimed it said one militiaman was killed and four were wounded.

Sappers blew up the half-mile-long Cau Lau bridge 15 miles south of Da Nang, and closed highway 1 there. Government engineers hoped to have the highway open by Saturday afternoon.

In the Que Son Valley 30 miles south of Da Nang, government troops reported recapturing the district headquarters in military compound. The block-square compound has changed hands four times since the North Vietnamese first captured the town Aug. 19. Field reports said pockets of enemy resistance remained in the northwestern end of the town.

HEAVY FIGHTING
Military sources said another government task force of several hundred troops spearheaded by an armored column was advancing toward Fire Base Ross, just northwest of Que Son, which also fell Aug. 19. The government column was reported about 400 yards south of the base and meeting heavy resistance.

Heavy fighting continued in the stalemated battle for Quang

Tri. The Saigon command reported 63 more North Vietnamese and 12 government troops killed and 38 South Vietnamese wounded.

In the air war against North Vietnam, bad weather kept American planes out of the Hanoi region again Thursday and reduced the attack to about 210 strikes, most of them in the southern panhandle.

Honey Bees Jam Traffic
NEW YORK (AP) — Swarming honey bees caused a minor traffic jam when they stopped to rest on a Fifth Avenue signal light and drew crowds of curious onlookers.

"Can you believe it?" asked one blonde in the spellbound crowd Wednesday. "Bees. Here, I'll tell you, it's a heck of a lot better than always looking at those stinking buildings."

No one knew where the swarm of 7,000 to 10,000 bees had come from but police had to rope off the corner at 17th Street to prevent the pedestrians from blocking traffic.

Meanwhile, they called their files for the name of a beekeeper to remove the swarm and finally contacted Terence Moriarty, 72, an amateur apiarist who lives in Brooklyn.

Another VD Verse

Your Good Health
Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write more on venereal disease. It may help a lot of young people.

Question: If a person has V.D. when young, and it is cured, will it cause things like diabetes and arthritis? I am 68.—E.F.Y.

V.D. doesn't cause diabetes. But if left uncured, it can cause arthritis as well as a lot of other things. However, if the case is treated promptly and adequately, there's no need to fear complications later in life.

As to writing more about V.D. for the sake of young people—I've tried it.

I've warned of the consequences of V.D.—which are considerable. I've quoted figures on the present epidemic of V.D.—more than 2 million cases a year. I've warned of the various risks of attempting self-medication. I've urged young folks to get pamphlets from their health departments. I've offered, if they want more detailed information, my own booklet on V.D. (For 35 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

I'm beginning to doubt that any of this has made any great dent in the youthful ignorance about V.D.

The fact seems to be that too many just don't care. Or they take the "it can't happen to me" attitude.

Oh, I'll keep on answering questions about V.D., and keep on feeling sorry that more of the kids (lots of them 15 and 16, and some younger) won't spend an hour learning the basic facts, instead of getting into messes because they don't know any better.

But the truth is that you can't force information down anyone's throat until he (or she) realizes that there's some point in learning.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My daughter, 11, is going through hell because of the shape of her nose. Children and grown-ups make remarks about it, and it is going to do too much harm to her. She is becoming withdrawn.

I believe plastic surgery could help her, but at what age? And whom do I consult? Her nose is very flat over the bridge.

—Mrs. W.V.

Reconstructive or plastic surgery must be performed after growth has ceased. This means past puberty to around the late teens. Hence, age 11 is somewhat too early.

Whom to consult? Have your regular physician (or the county medical society) refer you to a qualified plastic surgeon. I would not put it off. Even though he may, and probably will, postpone the time of operation, he in all likelihood can help considerably in overcoming your daughter's psychological problems. After all, he's seen other patients with similar problems and seen them get over them.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that blood is blue while circulating through a person's body, until it is exposed to oxygen outside the body. Does this account for the blue color of veins that are seen just below the skin's surface?—R.C.

That's more or less correct. Blood, as it leaves the heart to be pumped through the body, is bright red, the red cells carrying oxygen.

As the blood makes its circuit, it picks up impurities, among them carbon. The oxygen becomes carbon dioxide, and the blood takes on a dusky cast, although it is not blue.

The blood, returned via the veins to the heart, then is pumped through the lungs. There the blood releases the carbon dioxide and picks up fresh oxygen. The blood becomes bright red again—for another trip through the body.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it true you can't get pregnant the first time you have sexual intercourse?—P.A.

I'm getting tired of answering this question. NO, it is NOT true.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's newly revised booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Two inmates, one in a wheelchair and one using crutches, escaped Wednesday from a section of the S. utl. Carolina Department of Corrections.

Richard E. Brogle, 26, in a wheelchair, and Richard M. Gore, 39, on crutches, signed out of the fenceless section for a walk and never returned.

A department spokesman said, "We're looking for whoever helped them make their getaway."

Lamesa Rainfall Is 21.5 Inches

LAMESA — A total of 21.5 inches of rain has fallen in Lamesa this year, over nine inches of that amount coming in August. Observers said it was the wettest August for the area in half a century.

Only once in the last 50 years has the rainfall here exceeded five inches. That was in 1966, when 5.3 inches of moisture fell.

Opening lead: Nine of ♣
When North opened the bidding with two no trump, announcing a holding of 22-24 high card points, South had just enough with three points to contemplate a game. Holding nine cards in the major suits, he properly chose to explore for a suit contract by bidding three clubs. This call is conventional and requests the opener to show a major suit if he holds either four hearts or four spades.

North's rebid of three diamonds denied a major, and South now bid three hearts. Altho North persisted to three no trump, South could not accept partner's choice, for his own holding figured to be worthless as a dummy since he had no reentry to the hearts once that suit became established. He felt obliged to carry on to four hearts and hope for the best. West opened the nine of hearts, which seemed to place the king with East. South observed that if he took the finesse and it lost, he would have only nine tricks—four hearts, two diamonds, two clubs, and one spade. If spades divided three-three, he could establish a long card in that suit for a 10th trick.

Inasmuch as the odds did not favor an even division in spades, South decided to try to make all of his hearts by ruffing out dummy's minor suit cards. The ace of hearts was played at trick one; then the ace and king of clubs were cashed, followed by a third round which declarer ruffed with the seven of hearts as the queen of clubs appeared from West.

The North hand was reentered with the diamond king, and a fourth round of clubs was led. East covered with the jack, and South trumped with the ten of hearts, on which West discarded a diamond. The ace of diamonds put dummy in, and a third diamond was now ruffed with the jack of hearts as both opponents followed suit.

A spade to the ace permitted the lead of a fourth diamond and there was no way that East could prevent South from scoring his 10th trick with the queen of hearts. If the former ruffed in himself, with the king of hearts, it would establish declarer's queen by force. In all, South took two clubs, two diamonds, one heart, and one spade in dummy and four hearts in his own hand.

Last Claimants In Suit Sought

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin is looking for 137 Texans entitled to a total of $49,500 the state recovered in an anti-trust suit filed against major drug manufacturers in 1967.

Martin said notices of the suit settlement had been mailed to approximately 4,500 Texans who claimed they were overcharged for tetracycline, a broad-based antibiotic.

Of these, 137 have moved, left no forwarding addresses and Martin's office cannot find them.

GETTING READY — The Big Spring Steers prepare for their season opener Sept. 9 with a game-condition scrimmage against the Class AAA Sweetwater Mustangs at Sweetwater tonight. The scrimmage will start at 7:45 p.m. The Steers' first season game will be against Lubbock Monterey in Lubbock.

SCRIMMAGE SWEETWATER TONIGHT

Fans Get Preview Of Steers

Fans will get a preview of the 1972 Big Spring Steers tonight when the Steers travel to Sweetwater to scrimmage the Mustangs. The scrimmage will get under way for the varsity at 7:45 p.m. The sophomores will scrimmage at 5:30 p.m.

Clovis Hale and his coaching staff will be using the scrimmage to get a look at every player on the squad. "Every kid that makes the trip to Sweetwater," said Hale, "will play tonight. We intend to get a good look at everyone."

Hale said the scrimmage will be divided into four parts. The first-team offense and defense will work against each other for 20 plays, and then yield the field to the second-team for 20 plays.

Then the first-team will take the field again for another series of 15 plays. Again the second-team will follow the first units with 15 plays.

The third part of the scrimmage will feature goal line offense and defense. Both the first and second team units will run eight plays.

After the goal line series, the squads will then conduct a game-condition scrimmage. All aspects of a game will be in force, except that all punts will be fair-caught. This segment of the scrimmage will last 30 minutes.

Ricky Steen will handle the placements for the Steers. Doug Smith will handle the kickoffs and Allen Davis and Ronald McKee will share punting duties.

Oilers Easing Workouts

HOUSTON (AP) — Free at last from the rigors of their Kerrville training camp, the Houston Oilers have single workouts scheduled for today and Saturday before flying Sunday to Minnesota for their Monday night game with the Vikings.

Cochrane made his pro debut in the Oiler 33-24 win over St. Louis last week, the same game in which Dickey was hurt. In a fourth period relief role he completed two of three passes for 26 yards.

Through four games Pastorini has 606 yards passing on 41 of 78 attempts and seven touchdowns.

The Oilers arrived in Houston early Thursday after Peterson cut short the final practice session at the Schreiner Institute in Kerrville.

"We wouldn't have had much concentration the last day so I just ran them about 20 minutes and sent everybody in," Peterson said.

Maglie Enters Hospital For Chest Pains

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Former major league baseball pitcher Sal Maglie was in Mount St. Mary's Hospital today, recovering from chest pains he suffered Thursday.

His condition was reported as satisfactory.

The 55-year-old ex-hurler, known as "Sal the Barber," was taken ill Wednesday at his home in nearby Grand Island. Hospital tests are being conducted to determine whether he suffered a heart attack.

Maglie's career in the majors spanned some 15 years. He began with the New York Giants in 1943 and later played for the Cleveland Indians, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the New York Yankees. He wrapped up his playing career in 1958 while with the St. Louis Cardinals.

KNIGHT BOOTS WINNING FG Redskins Scalp Miami, 27-24

WASHINGTON (AP) — Curt Knight pulled a Garo Yepremian Thursday night while the Redskins looked like Jan Stenerud.

Yepremian's field goal last season ended the National Football League's longest game as Miami defeated the Kansas City Chiefs for the American Conference title. The Dolphin's three-pointer came after Kansas City's Jan Stenerud missed an "easy" field goal attempt Thursday night, it was Yepremian's turn to miss as the little booter was wide from the 33-yard line.

Knight, who led the National Conference in scoring last year, split the uprights with a 24-yard field goal with 36 seconds remaining in the game to give the Redskins a 27-24 victory over the Dolphins.

Seven more games are scheduled for Saturday, three on Sunday and one on Monday night to wind up the Labor Day holiday weekend.

Knight also kicked a 51-yarder to give the Redskins a temporary 24-21 lead. The other Washington scores came on a pair of one-yard runs by Charley Harraway and a 17-yard pass from quarterback Sonny Jurgensen to running back Larry Brown.

Miami scored first on a 10-yard dash by Mercury Morris. Larry Csonka added a one-yard plunge. Yepremian kicked a 16-yard field goal and Charley Leigh excited the capacity crowd of 53,039 with a 101-yard dash with a kick-off return.

Mark Now Has Five Spitz' Effort Unparalleled In Games

MUNICH (AP) — "I'm very thrilled—yes, I'm proud," Mark Spitz said after beating the clock twice to become the greatest swimmer in Olympic history.

But there was no joy for Eddie Hart and Ray Robinson. The clock had beaten them.

Spitz, America's human torpedo from Carmichael, Calif., churned to glory with a world-record clocking of 54.27 seconds in the 100-meter butterfly for his fourth gold medal of these 20th Summer Games. And barely an hour later, he won his unparalleled fifth, anchoring the United States' victorious 800-meter freestyle relay team.

It brought him within two of his unspoken but determined goal of an unheard-of seven golds here.

Spitz' five golds broke the record of four in the swims held by such Olympians as Johnny Weissmuller and Don Schollander. And it equaled the Olympic record of five won by any competitor. Italian fencer Nedo Nadi did it in 1920.

He goes after No. 6 Sunday in the 100-meter freestyle. The climax comes Monday in the 400-meter medley relay—or will it? "If I win the 100," Spitz casually remarked after his remarkable performance, "I might not swim in the 400. I'd rather win six of six than take a chance on six of seven."

To this his coach and coach of the U.S. women's team, Sperm Chavoor, replied: "If he drops out of one, I'll break his damned neck."

The only things broken as far as Hart and Robinson were concerned were their hearts. They won't have a chance to break any records here because of a monumental scheduling foul-up that threatens U.S. domination of track and field's sprints.

Everybody, it seems, was blaming everybody else Thursday after Robinson, of Lakeland, Fla., and Hart, from Pittsburg, Calif., were so late arriving at the stadium that they missed their 100-meter dash heats.

Robert Taylor of Houston was late, too, but he managed to rip off his sweat suit, jump into his shoes and onto the starting blocks and, without a warmup, qualify for the semifinals in his heat.

Sprint Coach Dan Wright initially took the blame. "I gave them the wrong time. It was my fault," he said, explaining he had told his charges the heats began not at 4:15 p.m. but at 7 p.m.

Several hours later, though, American officials called a news conference and, displaying an apparently outdated schedule book, said the fault lay with the German Olympic organizers, who, the U.S. speakers insisted, had provided the wrong times.

But Hans Klein, Olympic Press Chief, and one of his aides, Ulrich Pabst, responded by producing a track schedule showing the events set up to run in the sequence in which they were conducted.

That schedule, dated Sept. 1, 1971, was mailed to all Olympic officials within a few days of publication, they said—and Klein, commenting on Wright's statement that the U.S. officials could not obtain an up-to-date schedule, replied: "I guess that's a good one—but why were all the others there?"

Spitz' performance in the 100-meter butterfly, in which he beat out Canadian silver medalist Bruce Robertson and bronze winner Jerry Heidenreich of Dallas, was a personal triumph—but he saved his kudos for his relay teammates, particularly Steve Genter of Lakewood, Calif.

Genter gave Spitz a 15-meter head start on the anchor after heroically wiping out a seven-meter lead held by West Germany at the halfway mark.

"His 200 meters today," Spitz said of Genter, "was one of the most outstanding swims I've ever seen. Steve has to go down as pretty tough, especially after what he went through." What Genter had gone through, just one week ago, was surgery for a collapsed lung.

In other U.S. track events, meanwhile, Munich-born Frank Shorter set an American record in the 10,000 meters as he qualified with a third-place time of 27 minutes 58.2 seconds.

Larry Young was the best U.S. finisher in the 20-kilometer walk, coming in 10th, and Willie White was 11th in the women's long jump with 20 feet 7 inches.

Defending champion Madeline Manning Jackson America's top female hope for a gold, qualified in the 800-meter run and Dave Wottle, overcoming an ailing knee, qualified in his 800 meter trial.

Murphy Aerial Highlights Scrimmage

FORSAN — Mike Murphy hit Tommy Brumley with an 80-yard scoring pass for the only touchdown of the game-condition scrimmage between the Forsan Buffaloes and New Home here Thursday afternoon. New Home was unable to penetrate the Buffalo goal line in the scrimmage.

Forsan head coach Jack Woodley said he was "pleased with the over-all effort of the players."

Woodley said, "We still have a lot of work to do; however, I feel that we are much-improved from our scrimmage last week."

"We are still along way from being ready for the season; but our blocking was considerably better," Woodley continued.

The Forsan mentor singled out Brumley for praise. Woodley said that Brumley turned in an outstanding job both as a runner and as a blocker on the offensive unit.

"The over-all blocking on passing situations was good," noted Woodley.

Woodley also had words of praise for defensive linemen Randy Walls and Paul Bedwell. According to Woodley, Walls was "very aggressive."

Middle linebacker Robert Wash and defensive back Bob Highley were also singled out by Woodley for their play. "Wash looked very good," said Woodley, "and Highley did a fine job — especially coming up from the secondary to protect against the run."

The Buffaloes open the 1972 season against Stanton 'B' Thursday night.

Forsan picked up 134 yards total offense in the defense-dominated scrimmage. New Home picked up 119 yards total offense.

Unusual Game

By DON COOPER
Herald Sports Editor

The 1972 football season is almost upon us. I imagine that with the rapid approach of another football season, the memories of most fans are flooded with recollections of great — or unusual — games they have seen in past seasons.

One game that will stand out in my mind for years took place just two seasons ago. The game was between my alma mater Henderson State College and Southern State College.

This Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference contest was a football rarity. Southern State beat the Henderson Reddies, 4-0.

That's right. The score was 4-0. I remember on Sunday morning after that unusual contest, I looked through every newspaper on the newsstands in Arkadelphia, Ark., to see if there was another 4-0 game in college football.

There wasn't.

Further checking after the season revealed that there was not another 4-0 game in college football in 1970. Therefore, I feel that this game was an accomplishment worthy of notice.

Let's face it. Texas fans were deprived of the thrill of seeing the Longhorns lose a 4-0 game in 1970. Texas Tech fans did not see a 4-0 game in Jones Stadium in 1970. But, those few fans rattling around in Haygood Stadium in Arkadelphia, Ark., were treated to the nation's only 4-0 game in 1970.

Looking back on that strange game, it must have been an odd feeling to have been a Henderson football player. After all, it's not every game that your own fans root for the other team to score a field goal to make it 7-0 against you. At the very least, the Henderson fans were hoping that the Reddies would get another chance to get trapped in their own end zone to make it 6-0.

On the positive side, one must admit it takes a special kind of flair to get trapped for a safety twice in the same game. In Henderson circles, Charlie Walker and Lewis Pryor achieved the status of Stanford's "Wrong-Way Roy" Riegel, or Alabama's Tommy Rice (remember him coming off the bench to tackle Rice's Dickey Moegele in '54 Cotton Bowl?) or the entire Cumberland University team (they lost to Georgia Tech, 22-0).

In the few years that I have been actively covering football, I have seen many great games; however, the 4-0 Henderson-Southern State game was the most unusual game I have ever seen. In its own inapt way, that game was a classic.

Ace

Schoolboy Grady Harris got one of his biggest thrills in golf Thursday afternoon at the Big Spring Country Club when he aced the 177-yard No. 4 hole, using a seven-iron.

Harris was playing with Terry Pate, Randy Grimes and Corky Burchell, other members of the Big Spring team, at the time. He wound up with a 37 for the nine holes.

It was his first ace ever.

Yankees Maul Rangers, 7-0

Fritz Peterson is as surprised as anybody, but here it is September and the New York Yankees are in a pennant race.

"I'm surprised all right, but now I think we've got a good chance to stay in it," says the Yankees' southpaw.

Believe, believe. The Yankees, not given much of a chance at the beginning and as much as eight games behind first place halfway through the American League season, are only 1 1/2 games back as the result of Thursday's 7-0 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"Our pitching can straighten out, nobody has a sore arm," said Peterson after pitching the Yankees' fifth victory in six games with a five-hitter.

During the next 30 days, the Yankees play two series apiece with the three other bona fide contenders in the Eastern Division—Baltimore Orioles, Detroit Tigers and Boston Red Sox.

"Since we all play one another in September, I guess we can't all stay hot at the same time, can we?" said Peterson. "We're going to be the ones, I have a feeling."

Two clubs are currently ahead of the Yankees. Baltimore, idle Thursday, took over first place by a half-game after California beat Detroit 4-0 and dropped the Tigers to second place. The Red Sox are behind the Yankees in fourth, two games off the pace.

In the other American League game, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Kansas City Royals 7-3. Only two games were played in the National League in an abbreviated schedule. The Houston Astros trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 5-1 at the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the Chicago Cubs 5-3.

Horace Clarke gave Peterson a 1-0 lead with a home run in the first inning and then Bobby Murcer put the game out of sight with a three-run blast as the Yankees scored four times in the second inning. It was Murcer's 100th career homer.

Nolan Ryan pitched a three-hitter for his third straight shutout and ninth of the season as California stopped the stumbling Tigers.

The Angels' right-handed ace extended his scoreless string to 34 innings while helping his team complete a three-game sweep over Detroit. Ryan struck out 10, including the last three batters in the ninth, to push his American League leading total to 244. Ryan's victory was his 15th this year.

We Could All Be Losers

If, as is charged by the National School Public Relations Association in a recent report, the Nixon administration is relegating the dropout problem to a back burner, we all stand to be losers.

The report says the national dropout rate is about 25 per cent among high school students, and notes this represents no progress in the past decade. That could mean the dropout programs into which money has been funneled aren't worth the effort.

But would that, even if true, justify ignoring the problem as unsolvable? Hardly; instead, it should spur increased attention and a search for possible new cures including educational innovations.

The dropout not only hurts his own future, he can become a drain on society. In this age when the nongraduate of high school cannot obtain most jobs above the laborer level — unless he can get an equivalency diploma by passing tests — the dropout adds to the lists of marginal salary workers, or to the unemployed. Thus poverty and welfare dependency are bred.

There are some imaginative programs which appear to offer good results. Most depend on recognizing the potential dropout early in his school career — the earlier the better — and channeling such students into job-oriented training. And it's all the better if the training is for jobs readily available in the community, such as food service and horticulture, as well as the traditional mechanical trades.

It is unrealistic to believe all potential dropouts can be retained in classrooms. It's better to recognize that many won't, and then to make sure no student leaves school without a saleable skill, while trying to retain them in school as long as possible.

Neglecting the problem offers no hope. Expansion of those programs which have proved successful both in preventing dropouts and in preparing those who do leave school to compete for jobs does. And that requires top-priority interest on the part of the federal and state governments and local school boards, with the financial base nesting in Washington's bonnet.

More Women In Politics

New York has Bella Abzug, Gloria Steinem, Betty Friedan and most of the women's lib publicity. But South Texans can acclaim two of its representatives as real stars of the conventions.

Mrs. Anne Armstrong, GOP cochairman and secretary of the GOP convention, made history when she delivered one of three keynote speeches Monday night. She joins another Texan in history-making; Frances "Sissy" Farenthold made her mark at the Democratic convention by finishing second in the vice presidential nomination marathon.

Thus far, Mrs. Armstrong has not sought elective office, a situation she now indicates may change. She won her party spurs along the volunteer-worker route.

Her prominence at the GOP convention, coming just a month after Sissy Farenthold became an overnight TV celebrity, firmly puts Texas on the map as an area of opportunity for women in politics. Texas politicians of the male gender may rightly launch an equality drive of their own if this keeps up.

Vladimir's Prophecy

Around The Rim

Charles Teague

A letter came this week from my Russian drinking cousin, Vladimir.

VLADIMIR lived most of his youth in the sticks, went to a small one-room school in Siberia for his entire elementary and secondary school careers and barely passed by graduation with the sympathy and relief of the teacher he tormented for so many years.

I'm not trying to run down the educational system in Russia; it's just that Vladimir was never as good at studying as he was at creating classroom disturbances.

He surprised the whole family, particularly Dot (she swore he'd grow up to be just another worthless Communist), when he won top honors as valedictorian of his graduating class in Kharkov.

His particular interest was the English language which he studied as a freshman and spoke fluently by the end of the year, proceeding to major in both the English language and American history.

In his letter, Vladimir related his theory about the future of the United States, saying that we need some sort of labor revolution here in the U. S., because the proletariat (down-trodden working class) has been abused too long.

HE NOTED that we should take the advice of his favorite American editorialist, William F. Buckley, because of his conservative, commonsense attitudes toward running the business of government.

Vladimir sympathized with the situation of American tax-payers, pointing out the historical parallels in the histories of our two nations.

Before the Revolution, he said, Russian tax-paying workers supported through heavy taxation a welfare class of lazy incompetents known as the aristocracy. The aristocracy, Vladimir explained, claimed to contribute to the growth and development of the nation, but actually did nothing, living high off the hog, drinking vodka and driving nice, big horse carts that the workers paid for through taxes.

Vladimir pointed out that we have a double problem here in the United States. American tax-payers, he said, support two welfare classes: one group of nobodies he called the Poor-eaucracy, which claims that no jobs can be found; and another group he called the Bureaucracy, which claims to do much good for the nation.

BOTH GROUPS, Vladimir stressed, contribute absolutely nothing toward the good of the nation, leeching in grand-style off the hard-earned tax dollar of the working class, or Protariat.

Vladimir encouraged me with a bit of historical prophecy. The inequities of history are inevitably solved by those against whom they are committed, he said, noting that, although the Russian aristocracy scoffed at talk of a workers' Revolution, the Protariat rose to correct the situation.

He prophesied that American tax-payers will eventually get around to taking over the government and purging Washington of its aristocratic Bureaucracy, just like the Bolsheviks did in 1917. The Poorcaucry will then be required to choose between work and exile, if they so lucky as to have a choice.

Trouble Brewing

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — As this drowsy, smoggy interval following the Republican convention ends, the specter of a coming quarrel hangs over the Capitol. As with practically everything else from the price of eggs to the bugging of Democratic headquarters, it will have loud echoes in the presidential campaign.

THE ISSUE is over adoption of the resolution that Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson would attach to the arms limitation agreement President Nixon signed in Moscow. The resolution is based on Jackson's fear that the Soviet Union during the five-year interim agreement can develop the kind of multiple-warhead technique that has given the United States numerical warhead superiority. In this way with their more massive missiles multiplied in strength they would gain a first strike capability endangering the "survivability" of this nation.

The White House nodded approval of the original Jackson amendment. A little later, when it became the center of controversy, there were reservations and some of the strongest language was taken out. A quarrel on the Senate floor between Jackson and Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Foreign Relations Committee forced postponement of ratification of the agreement prior to the recess for the Miami Beach convention.

BEHIND THE backing and the filling that has distressed Republicans strongly behind the offensive arms limitation and opposed to Jackson is a split within the Administration. One faction feels too much was given away in the SALT negotiations and the agreement signed in Moscow. The other faction holds that the agreement was right on the nose of nuclear equality and thereby provides a firm negotiating base for SALT II to begin in October.

One of politics' small ironies is that Fulbright, so often a critic of Administration policy, has become the chief defender of the agreement unclouded by any doubting resolution. In a carefully reasoned 14-page document circulated to 22 senators Fulbright assails the "myth" of superiority and a first-strike capability.

With a fleet of manned bombers on constant alert and 41 nuclear submarines each with 16 medium-range missiles, "superiority" and a first-strike capability is impossible, Fulbright contends. The Soviet Union would have to depend solely on anti-ballistic missiles to sustain the force of an inevitable retaliatory strike. But, since the Senate has already approved the ABM treaty signed at Moscow with policing by both sides with spy-in-the-sky satellites, that possibility is ruled out.

"THE ADMINISTRATION," Fulbright said in his memorandum, "has its reasons for wanting to keep the specter of superiority alive. In this way they can frighten the Congress and the people into paying billions more for new weapons systems — the Trident (long-range submarine), the B-1 bomber and so on — as the only way with the agreements of preventing the Soviet Union from acquiring 'superiority.'"

Defense spending is rapidly becoming a major campaign issue, the Republicans charging that Sen. George McGovern is prepared to let the United States be second in nuclear strength. But Fulbright quotes from the joint Nixon-Brezhnev statement in Moscow declaring that "the principle of equality" must be the basis of peaceful relations between the two superpowers.

Tearing Down Pays Off

John Cunniff

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ
(Substituting for John Cunniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — Business is booming for the Loizeaux family.

Literally, because their business is blowing things down — things such as old buildings, wornout radio towers and even a Texas Tower in the Atlantic.

Jack Loizeaux founded Controlled Demolitions, Inc., of Towson, Md., in 1960. The rising cost of labor for tearing down old buildings had sent wrecking contractors looking for cheaper ways to clear away old structures. They were doubtful about blasting at first, and Loizeaux could only get insurance from Lloyds of London — American insurers wouldn't touch the business.

Like, after a few jobs however, blasting hardened concrete out of a concrete mixer without damaging the machine — the contractors gained confidence and the jobs rolled in.

Controlled Demolitions still has only three regular employees: Jack and sons Mark and Douglas, plus Jack's wife who serves as secretary and treasurer. A few other part-time employees, two of them sons-in-law, work occasionally on drilling and loading dynamite into the holes.

Jack has refused to hire more full-time employees, he recently told Engineering News-Record, because he fears they would not be as careful as his standards demand. He is equally demanding with the contractors for whom he works because "it's dangerous when we work for someone who is not concerned about safety and takes short cuts."

The senior Loizeaux was graduated in forestry from the University of Georgia in 1941. He worked in forestry and timber technology, then founded his own tree service firm in the Baltimore area. Part of its work was tree-stump blasting. The secret of careful demolition is to use as little explosive as possible, but to use it to blow out key parts of a structure. Each demolition is filmed by Douglas and studied later to see how the building acted as it collapsed. The average time from explosion to complete collapse is 9 seconds, Loizeaux calculated.

During its lifetime, the firm has done 191 buildings, 20 bridges and 140 tall smokestacks. One building was the 15 store Hunt Building in Tulsa, which Controlled Demolitions brought down although clearances with surrounding structures were as little as 60 feet.

But Loizeaux said he never saw the best blast of all. That was a U.S. Navy Texas Tower for a radar installation, 160 miles east of Boston in the Atlantic. It had to be brought down so it would not be a hazard to navigation.

Why Ignore Raids?

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's strange how often the critics of the bombing of North Vietnam by the United States forget what prompted it. Ramsey Clark, a former attorney general, in a recent article, lamented what this country has done by its air attacks on various targets north of the demilitarized zone. But he never mentioned the invasion of South Vietnam early this year which caused the United States to take retaliatory action.

A VISIT TO South Vietnam will show the disastrous effects of North Vietnam's massive offensives, in which thousands of civilians have been killed and their lands devastated. The suffering of the South Vietnamese people has gotten virtually no attention. Yet the casualties are large and the destruction has been heavy.

President Nixon, on learning of the damage being done by the invaders, felt there was no alternative but to bomb their bases and supply lines and seal off the ports. This has proved a strategic success. Naturally, when Ramsey Clark visited certain areas in North Vietnam, he found plenty of damage, but nothing comparable to what he would have discovered if he had decided also to make a tour of the places in South Vietnam under attack by the North Vietnamese.

Oddly enough, most of those who criticize the president's war policies have ignored the fact that Hanoi launched a major offensive by forces equipped with modern weapons, including heavy tanks, missiles and artillery. For the immense losses that have been suffered in South Vietnam are usual only in a war between major powers. Nothing like it has ever occurred in what is regarded as a conflict of small nations. The number of civilians particularly who have been wrecked and whose homes have been driven out into the fields is something that prompted President Nixon to strike back.

TO CONCENTRATE all the talk on the bombing phase of the war is to eliminate the most important factor in the Vietnam situation this year. For it was the North Vietnam invasion which caused President Nixon to use the strongest kind of military power against the north.

The President has been reducing the number of American servicemen in Vietnam. U. S. troops already are at the 37,000 level, which is below what was set for Sept. 1. This doesn't mean that the American military presence in Southeast Asia is being ended. For there is the Navy, with its aircraft carriers, and the Air Force at bases outside South Vietnam. The idea is to keep a large enough "residual force" nearby in case of any emergency that may arise. But

Establish New Congress

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

CHICAGO (AP) — The battle to establish rival leagues in professional football, basketball and hockey is having an effect on politics.

"I'm going to establish a rival congress," said a Midwestern millionaire recently.

"Why not?" he added. "After all, I've tried to get a franchise in their league. I ran for Congress three times in Iowa and moved to Illinois where I ran for senator. They won't let me in."

"So I'm going to start my own league. We're already close to nailing down a television contract and that can carry us until we really start drawing fans."

The millionaire said he and several other money men were undecided about the site for the new league.

each state already have been awarded," he said.

"The trouble with the established league," he confided, "is they have too many players. No chance for fan identity with 500 guys running in and out of cloakrooms all the time."

"Expansion has hurt them, too," he said. "They've diluted the talent. You just don't have stars like Dan Webster, John Calhoun and old Henry Clay anymore."

"Sure, they still have some superstars in Washington but we're going to be bidding for them. You know, several Democrats are playing out their options this year."

"We know they won't come over to us unless we give them a great deal. And it's not a matter of money. One of the top guys we're after is close to signing. I can't say who it is but we've promised him his own six-o'clock network news show as part of the package," he added.

"We're going to hit television hard. The current group has been lax in one of the great spectator attractions, the news conference."

"We plan to televise committee hearings live on Monday nights in prime time. We're going to have three announcers including a colorful old pro, maybe somebody with a Texas drawl. The football crowd did all right with that, you know."

"Another thing, our league is going to give a lot of veterans a chance to come out of retirement. We could even have a former president throw out the first ball."

The millionaire was asked how his league could compete with the established Congress. "Of course, nothing that we did would mean anything to the public, but what else is new? It's all simply great theater, you know."

My Answer

Billy Graham

I read the Bible a lot, and I notice that in the Old Testament God is called Jehovah. Why is it that neither you, nor many other ministers' address God as Jehovah? Perhaps the Jehovah Witnesses are right when they called Him "Jehovah."

B.W. God is called by more than fifteen names in the Old Testament, one of which is Jehovah. Some of the more familiar ones are: The Almighty, Genesis 17:1; Father of Lights; the Holy One of Israel, Psalm 71:22; the Living God, Joshua 3:10; and the Most High, Deuteronomy 32:8. Jesus did not call God Jehovah, but Father.

We do not become children of God by calling God by any particular name, but by receiving Him by faith in the person of His Son, Jesus Christ. Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life; no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." John 14:6.

The Apostle Paul said: "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts 4:12. He was speaking of the powerful name of our Savior and Lord.

There have always been divisive sects which seem to delight in dissension. But the Apostle Paul raised the question: "Is Christ divided?" (Corinthians 1:13). The answer is "no." Those who have been born into the family of God through faith in Him are of one mind and one heart. They have love one for another, and for the world of lost people.

Don't depend on a name. Put your trust in a person, and let that person be Christ, the Savior of the world.

A Devotion For Today . .

I am the vine, you are the branches. Whoever remains in me, and I in him, will bear much fruit; for you can do nothing without me. (John 15:5)

PRAYER: The heavens declare the glory of God, the wonder of His love. Lord, help us, the children below, in our small way to do the same. Amen.

Horoscope Forecast

CAROL RIGHTER

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1972
GENERAL TRENDS: There is a good chance today that you can work out some new course of action whereby you can round out whatever information or improved program you wish. An influential man with the necessary know-how plan to show you how best to put across your plan for advancement will work with you on this.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Give special to one of home that you are sincerely working toward many aims. Show you are steadfast, dependable. Shop for those items that will help you be more efficient.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Out of that easy chair early and get to places that will give you the amusement and other good aims you may have for advancement. Take the treatment you need that will make you look and feel more charming. Avoid one who is a moose.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get those monetary matters well handled with kin during aim: so that the future will be brighter and frustrations avoided. New plan to work that will help you do away with poverty. Study your free and successful. Early to bed in P.M.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to decide what your true aims are and plan the work you want to do in the future as well as the new allies you want to make. Study your wheels of fortune rolling nicely. Show your appreciation to those who have helped you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Think that plan over carefully again that will take you out of the sleep of despair and into the happiness of wealth you dream of. Believe in yourself. Contact that key person who can help you gain success.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) This is the day to talk for some time with that fine friend who can open the door to greater success for you in the future. Accept that social invitation that will help you meet the right people. Dress attractively.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) A good day to state your aims to a bigwig and gain the backing you need to do them. Find the right means for improving your present position, your credit. Show you have considerable industry.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Getting off to some new site with a loyal pal and discussing subjects important to you both brings fine results. Communicating with out-of-towners also brings the benefits you are seeking. Be active, not passive now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your obligations well and then plan just how you are going to discharge them to the best of your ability. Stop worrying about them and gain the approval of higher powers that should be given to you in P.M.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have to state your aims clearly if you want an associate to understand them properly and then you get the cooperation you want. A situation arises that gives you a better philosophy of living. Follow it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Sit down and plan the work you want to do in the future as well as the new allies you want to make. Study your wheels of fortune rolling nicely. Show what you do to have a more successful life. Avoid one who is trying to fool you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Get about and have fun with a close friend today and make this a most happy and delightful day. Coming to a finer understanding with a partner is possible while at fun places. Stop being so silent.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL HEADQUARTERS

Burglars Hit More Than Once?

MIAMI (AP) — State Atty. Richard Gerstein of Miami says the testimony of a photographer points to a second break-in of the Democratic National Headquarters where correspondence between party leaders was secretly filmed.

Gerstein said Thursday that a Miami commercial photographer had testified he developed prints of what appeared to be hand-written letters between Democratic leaders one week before five men were arrested inside the party's headquarters at the Watergate complex in Washington, D.C.

RUSH JOB

Photographer Michael Richardson identified the men who "job" on June 10 as former CIA agent Bernard L. Barker and Frank Sturgis. Both were charged with the June 17 break-in at the Watergate, Gerstein said.

"The only conclusion you can reasonably draw is there was another break-in at the Watergate or somewhere else where these people came into possession of documents they shouldn't have had," said Gerstein, a Democrat who is running for re-election this fall.

Gerstein said his investigation of the Watergate affair is "continuing," but declined to say if formal charges would be filed. He said the probe was "totally nonpolitical."

Richardson was subpoenaed by Gerstein and gave a sworn statement last week. Gerstein said the 29-year-old photographer passed a 24-hour lie detector test Thursday "with flying colors."

THIRD PARTY

However, the state attorney refused to say how Richardson's story came to his attention. Martin Dardis, Gerstein's chief investigator, said only that Richardson's role came to light with a tip from an unidentified third party.

In his statement, Richardson said Barker and Sturgis came to his father's firm, Rich Photos, on June 10. He said the two men described the photographs as "legal documents and notes, stuff like that."

But Richardson said when he began to develop the 8x10 prints, he started to suspect "some sort of hanky-panky."

The commercial photographer told investigators the 38 pictures from two rolls of 35mm film showed what appeared to be personal correspondence between Lawrence F. O'Brien, then chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and other Democratic leaders. He said many of the letters were signed simply "Larry."

Richardson testified he first thought the onion-skin copies were being held by "deformed hands" on a "deep shag rug" background. He said he later realized that the hands actually were ill-fitting surgical gloves.

Richardson said when he finished the job, "they were happy with the results... seems like they said somebody was going to be happy to see them."

Barker paid him $93.30 for the prints, including a $10 tip, Richardson said. He added he thought little else about the incident until June 19 when he saw Barker's picture in a newspaper identifying Barker as a suspect in the Watergate break-in.

"I saw the pictures in the paper and wham, that's when everything jibed together," said Richardson. "I ran my fanny right down to the FBI. When I saw something wrong, I did something about it."

After giving the FBI Miami office his statement, Richardson said "they told me I might be called to testify before a grand jury in Washington." But he said he has not been called yet.

A spokesman for the FBI in Miami refused comment on the possible violations of Florida state law, including conspiracy in Dade County to commit a felony (the Watergate break-in), he said. "We are willing to share our information with any other federal agency and have in fact cooperated with the FBI."

Gerstein's office said the Dade County prosecutor's investigation was based on possible violations of Florida state law, including conspiracy in Dade County to commit a felony (the Watergate break-in), he said. "We are willing to share our information with any other federal agency and have in fact cooperated with the FBI."

INVESTIGATES SECRET FILM — Shown are photographer Michael Richardson, left, in Miami Thursday and Dade County State Attorney Richard Gerstein. Thursday Gerstein said he is investigating secret film processed by Richardson which indicates there may have been more than one break-in at the Democratic National Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

'Morning After' Birth Control Pill Shaping Up

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The future may hold a "morning after" birth control pill, says a research team that conducted an experiment with rabbits.

The team reported its findings in a paper selected as one of the year's outstanding research contributions by the Central Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Dr. Carl J. Pauerstein of the University of Texas Medical School here, director of the project, said the researchers work revolved around the timing of the arrival of the ovum, or egg, in the uterus.

It was found that the rate the ovum travels is controlled by the nerves and muscles of the fallopian tubes, which conduct the egg from the ovary to the uterus, he said.

The UT team also found that the fallopian tube could be relaxed by injecting rabbits with the female hormone, progesterone, and a chemical compound called phenoxybenzamine. This would cause the ovum to travel through to the uterus in less than 24 hours.

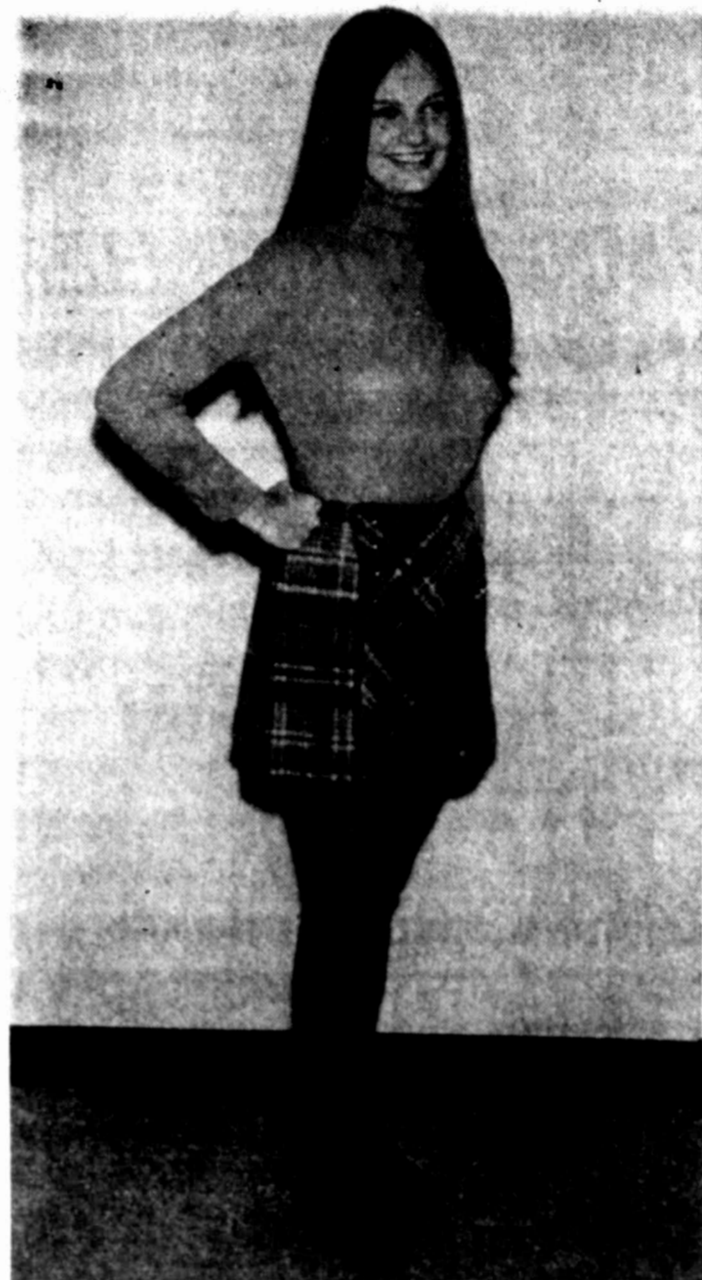

Pauerstein explained: "Hastening passage of the ovum, so that instead of staying in the tube the usual five to seven days (in humans), it gets through in one day, would prevent implantation and thus should make an effective contraceptive."

He said this could be in the form of a pill taken after intercourse, "which would avert pregnancy by harmlessly passing the mature ovum through the fallopian tubes too quickly for it to implant properly."

Co-authors of the paper are UT staff members Dr. Joseph Martin, an assistant professor; Dr. Ben Fremming, chairman of laboratory and animal medicine; and Dr. Barrie Hodgson, a physiologist and pharmacologist. Pauerstein is associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the medical school.

The obstetricians and gynecologists association will honor the researchers at its annual meeting in St. Louis Sept. 22.
