Down from the North Pole, the land of ice and snow, Santa Claus has sent a message to the citizens of Colorado and Mitchell county. On December 3 the one and only Santa Claus will come to this city for a gigantic and spectacular parade in his honor, that bids fair to eclipse anything of its kind ever held in this county.

And in his honor this mammoth parade, which will delight every citizen, young and old, will be staged with bands, girls and boys in beautiful costumes and uniforms, elaborately decorated floats, funny clowns and comic strip characters and dozens of other features.

A mammoth reception in honor of Santa Claus is being arranged by the committee in charge of the event. Local clubs, churches, schools, women's organizations and public spirited individuals will be asked to cooperate in making the event one long to be remembered in the history of this town and section.

The parade has the endorsement of city officials and Mayor Sadler plans to issue a proclamation setting aside December 3 for the express purpose of paying tribute to Santa Claus. School children, 2,000 strong, from schools throughout the county, are to be special guests of Colorado on this occasion and the proud boys and girls are to have a conspicuous part in the parade and other plans for greeting the distinguished visitor.

That the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy Band of Abilene, among the great musical organizations of Texas, would attend and lead the line of march as Santa Claus and his company pass through the streets, is practically assured, it was announced from the chamber of commerce Wednesday afternoon. Uniformed pep squads of Colorado and other schools are to have a section in the parade.

Santa Claus will ride in the parade on a massive float that is beautifully decorated and befitting the heroic character, beloved in history by children everywhere. "I am convinced that the citizenship of this county entertain a loyalty for the Red Cross unsurpassed in Texas, due to unstinted relief and rehabilitation work carried out here several years ago in wake of one of the most destructive storms West Texas has known in years," Holman said. "Then, in later years," he continued, "the Red Cross has done much in special relief activities for our people. These benevolences the public will not forget."

Annual membership drive launched Wednesday of last week and continued through Saturday met with success, L. B. Elliott, secretary, told this newspaper Thursday morning. "Our patriotic gesture of faith in the government through joining Uncle Sam in this undertaking is to be reflected in a better and bigger Colorado as our people come to take advantage of the association in acquiring, improving or refinancing homes," he said.

Several loan applications are being considered now and it is accepted that many more are to be filed as Coloradoans find that through facilities of this government controlled association they may own a home just as easily as paying rent. Loans are made from five to ten years and bear interest at the rate of 7.2 per cent.

"Building the Colorado Federal Savings and Loan association into an institution with from $150,000 to $200,000 capital would be one of the biggest things that the people of this community could do in will to make this a better community in which to live and do business," Sam Strauss of the Little Rock Federal Loan Bank, stated during an address before a representative number of business and professional men Friday noon. Tenth Milestone Passed By J. W. Randle's Piggly Wiggly Store

A milestone was passed quietly and without fanfare by J. W. Randle's Piggly Wiggly store last week.

On Wednesday night the store completed its tenth year in Colorado. It has been operated longer in the same location and under the same unchanging ownership than any other grocery store here.

Filling one-half of its present space, the store was opened on November 7, 1925. Mr. and Mrs. Randle had moved here from Childress. Mr. Randle had secured the use of the Piggly Wiggly name and had stocked his store with groceries bought from T. C. Akin of the J. M. Radford wholesale grocery of Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. Randle and Q. D. Shepperd composed the clerking force on that opening day. Now the store employs an average of seven persons in addition to the owner during Saturday rushes.

The market department was added early in 1928. Seven years after its opening the store was expanded to cover twice the original space.

The carnival will be held in the building formerly occupied by the Crosthwaite drug, across the street southwest of the Barcroft hotel.

Music, novelty entertainment booths, an old-fashioned medicine show, and other features will be included at the carnival. It will get into full swing following the picture show.

Proceeds from the carnival will be added to the club's student loan fund, which they hope to increase by $100 this year. A full program will be announced next week.

SPOOKING IN THE CORNFIELD

Thursday night the Hallowe'en goblins met the first, second, and third grades in Jack McKenney's back yard at 8 o'clock.

The yard decorations represented a cornfield. There were several ghosts hanging about on the fences. There were several paper lanterns hanging in the trees.

The little spooks made their hot chocolate in a large kettle which was hung over the fire. The wind began to blow fiercely. This drove them inside. They played games in the dining room until their parents came for them.

SENIOR NEWS

The Seniors started practicing Tuesday night on their play, "Plain Jane," a three act farce-comedy by Jay Tobias.

The class selected their rings Friday afternoon.

Dois McKee visited his parents in the Bauman community over the week-end.

Melba Harris spent the week-end visiting in Big Spring.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

The Sophomore class expressed their Hallowe'en spirit at a party given in the home of Aleathea Edwards Thursday night. Carlos came dressed as an escaped negro convict from Sing Sing. His make-up was so complete that we really thought we had an uninvited guest. He was a scream. A five-cent cigar added to his attraction. We wonder why he never did light it! We know now! He couldn't take it. Ray's blue whiskers and mustache really made him look better—we think. Kathleen Phillips had to act her age, so her costume could include that big, red hair ribbon. Some say that she looked natural. Catherine McKenney, the fourth member of the sophs, was there with the gayest of Halloween spirits. Man! What refreshments, and of all the sleepy kids in school Friday. You'd think we had never possessed one bit of energy, but the teachers weren't so peppy for some reason.

FRESHMAN NEWS

Aleathea Edwards, Geraldine Eikenberg, and Weldon Strange attended the P.-T. A. program and pie supper Friday evening.

The English class is studying subject compliments now.

In History we are studying about Napoleon.

The party at Aleathea Edwards was quite a success. Surely the Seniors will forget all the trouble we had over "signs."

P.-T. A. MEETING

The Iatan Parent-Teachers' Association met in regular meeting Friday evening, November 1. The following program was rendered: Duet, Helen and Walter Hahn; solo, Gwan Strange; play, 5th, 6th, and 7th grades.

After the program pie was sold.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

The first and second grades under the able direction of Miss Mary Belle Brennand presented a Hallowe'en program in assembly period, Wednesday, October 30. The program was very interesting and the children did their parts well.

A large crowd of mothers and friends of the children were present.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Miss Aleathea Edwards was hostess to a group of Iatan's younger set and the high school teachers Thursday evening.

Streamers of orange and black crepe paper decorated the living room. Black cats, jack-o'-lanterns, and witches gave a weird atmosphere.

Refreshments consisting of orange jello, whipped cream, coffee, and Devil's food cake were served to the following: Juanita McKenney, Gwan Strange, Melba Harris, Dois McKee, Kathleen Phillips, Carlos Knight, Ray Knight, Catharine McKenney, Geraldine Eikenberg, Donald Knight, Weldon Strange, Wilda Rogers, Mr. Wallis, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards, and the hostess, Aleathea Edwards.

RECORD WRITTEN UP IN NATIONAL PAPER

A paragraph in the Publishers Auxiliary, national newspaper, was recently devoted to the Colorado Record. The paragraph follows:

"The Colorado Record is recognized as one of the leading weeklies of the United States. Although the Record gives complete coverage of local news in a comprehensive manner, Publisher Walter Whipkey, recognizing the fact that his readers would appreciate good serial stories and other first-class features is now supplementing the Record with four pages of WNU features with a thrilling serial story included."

Space was also devoted to Robert Whipkey's assuming the managing editorship of the Big Spring Herald.

"Robert Whipkey began his duties as managing editor of the Big Spring Daily Herald recently. Mr. Whipkey resigned as telegraph editor on the Abilene Reporter to accept the place. He was born and reared in Colorado, Texas, a member of a newspaper publishing family. Following his graduation from Hardin-Simmons university at Abilene, where he studied journalism and edited the school's paper, Mr. Whipkey was for a time associated with the Alpine Avalanche and later was a co-publisher of the Odessa News-Times. For six years he was a member of the editorial staff of the Abilene Reporter and News, serving there in turn as reporter, city editor, and telegraph editor."

Twenty-Five-Year-Old Record Tells Of Surprise Party For Mrs. T. Q. Mullin

A surprise celebration which honored Mrs. T. Q. Mullin on her sixty-ninth birthday and forty-fourth wedding anniversary was reported in the Colorado Record for November 18, 1910, twenty-five years ago.

The affair was arranged by Mrs. G. W. Donaldson. Among those rushing about to "fix things" while Mrs. Mullin and her husband, Colonel Mullin, were out riding with Miss Jeannette Roe were Mrs. Munn, Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Vivian Shropshire, Mrs. McEntire, and Mrs. Mullin's daughter, Mrs. Robert Terrell. . . . At the dinner Mrs. P. C. Coleman paid tribute to Mrs. Mullin. . . . Mrs. Thomas presented the gifts. . . . Miss Mozella Dry read the toast. . . . Mrs. Simeon Shaw had guests to register. . . . Mrs. Terrell played while Mrs. Mullin's grandchildren, Doris Mullin, Paul and Roberta Terrell, sang "The Faded Gray Bonnet."

Homan from El Paso, Royall G. Smith changing to Houston, N. T. Womack of Cuthbert, T. G. Brennand of Sterling City, J. M. Green at Union, P. M. Watkins at Cuthbert.

Two attractions were to be offered at the opera house in December, one the Boston Lyrics, the other the Neil Litchfield Trio. . . . Price of admission was to be 75 cents per person, including reserved seats. . . . The ten Colorado business men underwriting the appearance of these numbers were Ben Van Tuyl, C. M. Adams, Dr. N. J. Phenix, J. H. Greene, Robert M. Webb, Dr. P. C. Coleman, T. H. Roe, J. E. Hooper, C. H. Earnest, and D. H. Snyder, Jr.

The three Hamner children were home from "the Stanton school" on a short vacation. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Hughey Whipkey of Elmdale, Kansas had come in to visit their uncles, F. B. and A. L. Whipkey. . . . Misses Mozella and Jo Dry had gone to Mineral Wells for a rest. . . . Aubrey Kindred was visiting old friends and school mates. . . .

Mrs. Bert Trammel of Sweetwater was visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Mann. . . . The three Colorado T. & P. agents here were wearing new silk caps. The Record said that Mr. Crowder looked like an advance agent of Santa Claus, W. B. Ralph like a sport, and Mr. Yates like a good captain in the Salvation army.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

This information is being printed in this column in the hope that it will benefit the farmers of Mitchell county in solving their farm problems.

KILLING AND CURING PORK

The season of the year is fast approaching for curing home meats. A cool, dry clear day with a light frost early in the morning is most ideal for hog killing. Temperature ranging from 32 to 38 degrees Fahrenheit is the most desirable.

Previous Treatment of Hogs. Keep hogs off feed from 12-24 hours before killing; this assures thorough bleeding and ease of dressing. Do not disturb the hog unnecessarily before bleeding so that he will become overheated or excited, for bruised meat from these animals will spoil easily in curing.

Killing. For best results hogs should be stuck with a knife and allowed to bleed to death. This method insures thorough bleeding which is very important in meat curing. A great deal of souring of hams in this section has resulted from improper bleeding. Shooting and knocking is not recommended by specialists.

Scalding and Scraping. Water for scalding should be at a temperature of 150 degrees Fahrenheit under ordinary conditions and 155 to 160 in cold weather. Slow scalding is best because it gives more time for the water to soften the scurf and thus makes scraping easier. Scraping should be done as quickly as possible.

Cleaning and Dressing. Keep hogs clean after scraping because it is almost impossible to clean the skin after it becomes soiled. After scraping wash the hogs with hot water and scrape down toward the head, then rinse with cold water and scrape up so as to squeeze the water from the pores. Draw and then wash all the blood from the carcass with cold water.

Chilling. The meat should be chilled as rapidly as possible. Hang the carcass in a cool place until the following morning. Do not salt the meat while hot as this is a mistaken idea that meat must be salted while the animal heat is still in the carcass. Do not allow the meat to freeze.

Cutting up and curing will be discussed in this column next week.

BAUMAN NEWS

Rev. Shannon of Abilene preached at Bethel church Saturday night. After the sermon the church went into their regular conference. Rev. Arvil Richardson of Hardin-Simmons university preached at the morning and evening services Sunday. It was decided at the evening services to have a call conference Sunday morning after Sunday school for the purpose of calling a pastor and electing a Sunday school superintendent. Let each member of the church keep this in mind and be present Sunday, Nov. 17.

After the business hour refreshments of pie and coffee were served. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Henry Riden as host the second Thursday in December.

Ivan Barber, Jr. has a very badly skinned lip and face as the result of an accident while riding with an aunt, Mrs. N. H. White in north Colorado Saturday afternoon. While turning the corner the door of the car came open throwing Ivan, Jr. clear of the car.

Reports coming into chapter headquarters Thursday indicated that several communities had already oversubscribed the quotas assigned them. As to others such a commendable distinction would be reached, it was suggested.

Westbrook sent drive committees out Wednesday and enrolled more than the quota of thirty annual memberships accepted there, Holman stated that evening after returning from a visit with his assistants in west part of the county. "I was in Loraine Wednesday afternoon and found the people there enthused in our campaign, but did not get detailed report due to fact the committee chairman was out of town," he said.

People from many parts of the county heard appeal of the Red Cross, in band music, song, platform addresses and other means as an entertainment program was given in auditorium of the high school building Tuesday evening. Jim Greene, chairman of the county chapter, was in charge.

Mitchell County Veterans Lead In Plans For Paying Tribute To U. S. Soldier Dead

Veterans of Mitchell county, scores of them accompanied by their wives, converged at Colorado Friday evening to have part in annual patriotic program sponsored by the Oran C. Hooker Post, American Legion. An attendance of 200 people was reported.

Objective of the affair was to again impress ex-service men of the county with importance of the Legion, to inspire greater reverence for Armistice Day and to give initiative calculated to suggest a more universal appreciation of the American Flag and those ideals for which it has ever stood, Floyd Quinney, post commander, announced.

After the meeting had been called to order by the post commander, Chaplain Cal C. Wright offered the invocation. The annual feed was next in order with choice barbecue, beans, coffee and other good things to eat served in abundance. After the dinner was over patriotic addresses singing and dancing were in order.

Chaplain Wright spoke feelingly of effects of the World War, as he had observed them. "Out of this great conflict have come a weakened consideration for the principles in support of which America went into war, a more universal broken down moral and good citizenship standard among the peoples of earth and a wrecked financial state in the case of many nations," was his charge.

J. E. Watson, superintendent of the Colorado schools, waxed eloquent as he pictured a better citizenship as direct influences of the war. Describing mental pictures of the horrors that American soldiers went through in France, the school man declared that under impressions deeply fixed into his life "in those hell holes" had sprung up a better type of citizenship among the boys and girls who today are his children.

Tillman Jones of Post, husband of the State commander, Woman's Auxiliary, spoke as the personal representative of Mrs. Jones, who, due to business in Washington, could not be present. Mrs. J. G. Merritt spoke to urge women of the county who were eligible to unite with the auxiliary. A delegation of Big Spring visitors was represented on the speaker's program by committee woman for the 19th district.

"Those politicians who go to make up our National congress have run the old alibi about paying the soldier bonus about long enough and you can rest assured that something is going to be done about this most deserving public duty before long," was statement by Thos. R. Smith, prominent in affairs of the post since its organization in 1919.

"The handwriting is on the wall in Washington," Mr. Smith stated. "They have shot their last alibi and the bonus may be looked for early during the next session of congress."

"The debt that this country owes the American soldier may be paid soon, in so far as dollars and cents are concerned, but America will never pay the debt as represented in higher realm that it owes to the veterans of these United States," Jim Greene concluded.

Mrs. Benton Templeton, president of the Auxiliary, was presented and in turn introduced Mrs. Bill Martin of Loraine who presented two of her pupils in dance skits. Little Miss Nina Catherine Quinney and Tommy Ratliff were youthful entertainers offered. Mrs. Martin sang a vocal solo. A sing song program was given under direction of R. H. Ratliff, after which a part of the veterans and their wives engaged in dancing.

their own homes is the best and most desirable in which any citizen ought to have preference to live," he continued.

"You can make this association but you cannot break it," Strauss stated after recalling that the organizations were being operated under laws and constitutional authority approved and watched over by the government. "Your association is inspected once a year by the government."

"I do not know of a better nor sounder investment that the little man could make," said T. W. Stoneroad, Jr., vice president of the City National Bank. "The association is not in competition with the banks and offers a more attractive investment source than postal savings. It is the soundest measure of the entire recovery program. There is absolutely no chance for losses by the investor. You can get your money back at any time, after thirty days notice and four percent dividend is assured."

The Source of High School Gossip

Hello to you all, ladies and gentlemen. I hope you all enjoyed yourselves over the week-end. It was a nice week-end, eh what? Just ask some of the high school boys.

ADD WESTBROOK .....

Here, here, what did I see at Colorado Saturday night but Westbrook on parade. What a parade—band, flowers, music and all—even monkeys. Nothing personal meant.

Did the ferris wheel at the carnival go fast Ask Flonelle.

Louise Shelton and Ruth Miller seen on "promenade" Saturday night. Also Wayne, Earle Dennis, and Elton—same old peck of potatoes.

Noticed several people from Westbrook were riding the "Rocket." Couldn't help noticing their faces when they got off. Got my laugh at their expense. Seems that was the "thrill that came once in a lifetime."

It appears that the Senior girls basketball team is going to be good this year. I'd love to see these girls go over big. Their hearts are certainly in their work. This is tough going on some of the girls because their hearts are doing double duty.

Heavy Frost Over Area Brings Good Omen To Planters

Cotton Opening Fast Since Cold Snap Arriving During Celebration Of Armistice

The heavy frost that during Monday night covered all vegetation in a blanket of white came as a good omen to cotton growers of this area who during the past several weeks have pondered just when the crop would begin to open as they hoped.

"I have never seen cotton bolls pop open like they are today," was comment of E. Barber of Spade community who Tuesday afternoon was a visitor in town. "I have cotton bolls on my farm that on October 1 were blooms that today are bursting open. I do not expect to see much of the crop lost."

While cotton was benefitted by the heavy frost, considerable damage came to late feed. Much of this crop will fall to the ground now with resultant losses in grain to be entailed.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Our church is one among the number of Texas Baptist churches giving every month to the Co-operative program of Southern Baptists. That means that the thirteen cause included in this program have shared proportionally in the gifts of our church this year. Jesus included in His plan of salvation not only the saving of the soul but the saving of the mental and physical man as well. He is not only the Savior of all men, but also, all of each man whom He saves. This Co-operative program includes all that He "began both to do and to teach." See Acts 1:1-4. As we enter the new Convention year we are determined that our gifts to outside causes shall be even larger than last year.

All services are to be held on regular schedule next Sunday. Bible school 9:45, seven departments, more than forty classes. Preaching service 11:00, with choir, congregational and special singing. Training service 6:00 p. m. followed by the evangelistic preaching service at 7:00. "STEAMBOAT 'ROUND THE BEND"

Palace—Saturday Midnight, Nov. 16 Sunday-Monday, November 17-18

Again our screen has the honored privilege of bringing to you one of the pictures of the world's most beloved humorist, Will Rogers. In this picture Will Rogers again entertains his audiences with that everlasting humor which he possessed. Irwin S. Cobb also brings many exciting moments into the picture. Among the other characters are: Anne Shirley, Eugene Pallette, John McGuire, Berton Churchill, Francis Furd and that one and only, Stepin Fetchit.

"HOT TIP"

Palace—Tuesday-Wednesday November 19-20

Some good honest laughs and two swell performances by James Gleason and Zasu Pitts, plus a thrilling horse race for a climax, pull this picture into the entertaining program classification. Action takes place around a racetrack where Jimmy first loses the money his daughter's boy friend entrusted to him and later wins it back many times over on a horse in which he buys half-share. Attendant complications include hocking his lunch business and staying out for two nights while his wife tries frantically to find him.

"DRESSED TO THRILL"

Thursday—Novemeber 21

Situation comedy with just enough pathos to make a delightful evening's entertainment for the average fan. Tutta Rolf as a French dressmaker is left at the church by Clive Brook, a Canadian officer ordered to Canada after the Armistice. Coming to America she meet with success as a Russian actress. Returning to Paris she meets Brook again, who falls in love with her as the Russian, but spurns her as the dressmaker. She leads him on as the Russian, finally disclosing her secret and all ends well. Miss Rolf has a pleasing voice and a screen personality that should register.

"PRINCESS O'HARA"

Ritz—Sunday-Monday, Nov. 17-18

Taken from a popular story by Damon Runyan, the narrative is a combination of sentimental hokum and laughs in well proportionate doses to please generally. The plot concerns Jean Parker, named Princess O'Hara after her father, King O'Hara, New York cabbie, who meets death in a taxi war engineered by Chester Morris with whom Jean's romance goes dead when she considers him her father's killer. Efforts of Morris to win back the girl move the story to a walloping climax through humorous situations and well-knit suspense after everything depends upon the outcome of a horse race between the studs of Morris and Verna Hill, rival of the Princess. Leon Errol, Vince Barnett and Henry Armetta score heavily in comedy roles.

"VIRGINIA JUDGE"

Ritz—Tuesday Wednesday November 19-20

Vaudeville act of Walter C. Kelley is used as a peg upon which to hang an interesting story. Yarn is embellished with some good hokum and it makes good family entertainment. Walter Kelley as the judge is confronted with the problem of straightening out a hot headed step-son, envious of his boy friend's wealth, automobile, and attention he pays to his girl friend. The boy steals a car to make a flash with the girl friend, wrecks it, steals a shotgun and sells it to pay for the damaged car, and gets tangled up in a shooting, putting Kelley in a tight spot from which he eventually emerges to put the boy on the right path. Plenty of good laughs. Good production background and photography and well directed by Edward Sedgwick.

COLORADO BUSINESS MEN COPPERATE WITH FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSN.

During the week it has been the pleasure of L. B. Elliott, as secretary and several members of the Board of Directors of the Colorado Federal Savings and Loan Association to call upon a number of business men and enlist their cooperation in furthering the development of the Colorado Federal Savings and Loan Association.

The secretary and others of the association wish to thank each and every one who has cooperated in any way and we want you to know it is appreciated. We also want you to know that while a few of us have taken the lead to establish this Savings and Loan Association as another institution for Colorado and this community, we are mindful that it will take its place of value and service only according to the support it receives.

So we ask you to familiarize yourself with the Savings and Loan idea and what it can mean to Colorado, patronize it, talk it to your friends, and we feel sure you will some day be proud that you have had a part in its development.

American Red Cross Has Ever Extended Assistance To Needy, Holman Recalls

That the American Red Cross has ever made good on the claim of being the "Greatest Mother of Them All," is claimed by Hayes Holman, roll call chairman. Holman recalls the following as among activities of the organization:

In statement issued to the public Monday afternoon, Holman shows that organization has just closed one of the busiest years in its peacetime history. Development of the chapter's activities have kept pace with the National organization's expansion, Holman noted.

According to the report, the 128 disaster relief operations in the continental United States last year exceeded by 58 per cent the average for the preceding ten years. Last years relief was given in a total of 160 disasters, including insular and foreign operations.

In frequency of occurrence and variety of type last year's disasters proved the value of the structure and administration of Red Cross disaster relief service. The 128 disasters in the United States were located in 37 of the 48 states and the territory of Alaska; relief was given to 110,000 victims of these disasters, in 306 counties. Catastrophes included dust storms, explosions, fires, floods, epidemics of disease, shipwrecks and all types of storms. This variation called for expert counsel on health and nutrition problems as well as case work for relief for the victims.

During the year 20 Disaster Institutes were held at strategic points, following out the disaster preparedness program inaugurated the preceding year, the report reveals. They brought together chairmen and members of disaster committees, community leaders, city and state officials, and representatives of police, fire and health departments. Plans were perfected in these sessions for use in disaster emergencies. In addition, the subject of Disaster Preparedness and Relief was presented at 22 chapter Institutes, attended by chapter officers and workers.

Expenditures of the National Red Cross in disaster relief within the continental United States during the year were $464,413.

First aid instruction for men employed on federal relief and public work projects, begun the previous year, was continued. First aid certificates were also given to 64,253 men in the Civilian Conservation Camps all over the United States. The total number of First Aid Certificates awarded during the year was 187,255. The total number of Certificates issued since the service was established a quarter of a century ago is 950,801.

A new feature of the Life Saving program was the training given to men in Civilian Conservation Corps camps, by Red Cross personnel under the direction of War Department officials in charge of the camps. Fifty-seven schools were organized and 1,569 men enrolled. A total of 74,274 Life Saving Certificates were issued last year. Altogether, 634,247 Life Saving Certificates have been issued in the 21 years of the history of the Service.

Home Service Workers in 1,071 Chapters dealt with the problems of 278,915 ex-service men or their families. In hospitals and regional offices of the Veterans Administration and in other government hospitals, representatives of the National Organization dealt with 59,756 ex-service men or their families. There were 8,069 men now in regular service, or their families, aided by Chapters, and 27,379 cases dealt with by Red Cross field directors in army, navy, marine corps and coast guard stations and workers in government hospitals.

The chapter chairman explained that 38,000 nurses are on the active list of the Red Cross Nurses' Reserve, ready to answer calls from Army or Navy and the Red Cross Disaster Service.

During the twelve month period 1,156,063 nursing visits were made by Red Cross public health nurses to or in behalf of patients; 633,944 children were inspected in schools. At the close of the year 766 Public Health Nurses were employed by 434 Chapters, according to the report.

In the home hygiene field 1,593 authorized instructors were active in teaching classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick. Out of 68,555 students who received instruction, 52,196 satisfactorily completed the course and were awarded certificates. Since the Red Cross first undertook the teaching of these courses, 784,929 certificates have been issued.

In 52 chapters, classes were conducted and in 37 additional Chapters nutrition projects were conducted, under direction of 270 women trained in home economics, giving assistance on food budgets, food demonstration, school lunch projects, planning low-cost menus, etc. A total of 4,573 persons enrolled for Red Cross Food and Nutrition courses. Altogether, since the Red Cross began these Food and Nutrition courses 28,960 certificates have been issued.

Special diphtheria immunization projects were put on in 17 Chapters, where there is no Red Cross Public Health Nursing Service. In these Chapters inoculations to prevent diphtheria were given to 40,000 children. In 428 Chapters, projects were put on for the prevention and cure of Pellagra.

In civilian relief work aid was given during the year by 1,021 Chapters in relief for 223,042 families. At the request of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, Chapters generally made their services available to assist transient veterans. Chapters also cooperated with the FERA in an adult education program for the unemployed through the use of unemployed teachers. Red Cross classes were organized through this channel in home hygiene and care of the sick, food selection, first aid and life saving.

There were 1,252,333 garments produced by Chapter volunteers last year: 320,406 pages of braille were made by hand and 344,811 by the duplicating process; 16,491 Christmas bags were prepared; 71,711 calls were made by the Motor Corps; 29,825 home service visits were made; 4,123,399 surgical dressings and 22,109 layettes were prepared; 54,780 persons were fed by canteen workers. The number of enrolled volunteers, not including those engaged in disaster relief, totaled 135,026.

The final Roll Call report showed 3,837,941 memberships enrolled for the year ended June 30, 1935, an increase of 35,557 members over the roll, call for the previous year, with 7,752,243 as the maximum membership in the Junior Red Cross during the school year 1934-35, an increase of 401,963.

There are 3,711 Red Cross Chapters with a total of 9,112 Branches. These Chapters and Branches expended approximately $5,600,000 during the year in services to their local communities. The National organization expended for its national service program approximately $2,945,000.

AMERICAN LEGION STANDS OUT AS INFLUENTIAL UNIT IN AID OF NATION'S VETS

Every Ex-Service Man Should Be A Member, Speakers State As Drive Is Launched To Enroll County Veterans

Every ex-service man in Mitchell county should consider it a privilege to have his name listed on membership roster of Oran C. Hooker, American Legion, men prominent in affairs of the organization declared Friday evening as annual membership drive was launched.

Speakers addressing annual meeting of the veterans and their wives at the Legion building recounted the unbroken service record maintained by the post since its inception in 1919. This service, coming to the veteran in a number of different ways, is of greater importance today than ever before, it was said, due to growing need for hospitalization, employment and other conditions being faced by the veteran and members of his family.

"There are men active in affairs of this post today who back in 1919 came into our first meeting to have their names enrolled on charter of the organization and they have no other ambition than to be of service to their buddies," declared Thos. R. Smith, Colorado attorney and prominent in Legion circles since soon after close of the war.

Social aspect of the post membership, while attractive, is being listed as of secondary consideration by committee drive leaders as they contact ex-service men over the county in the drive. Joe Y. Fraser, post service officer, and other leaders in the Legion, are recalling scores of instances in which a distinct service was extended the veteran.

For purely personal as well as patriotic reasons call of the American Legion is going out to these citizens who during years of the World War enlisted in some phase of service under the Stars and Stripes. Any post officer or member of the post will take application for membership during the ensuing year.

One of the largest and most representative membership rosters the post has ever attained, is goal announced by Post Commander Floyd Quinney, Post Adjutant James Herrington and other ranking Legion officials.

"If you do not need influences of the Legion in realizing success in an ambition you may entertain, remember the buddy who, through no fault of his own, perhaps, is even now groping about for such a strong arm as this post should be to direct his paths into better ways," Quinney stated in presenting high purposes of the organization for consideration of veterans of this county. "The stronger our membership, the greater will be our possibilities for rendering benevolences and holding aloft our ideals of Americanism," he concluded.

Colorado Supplies Large Delegations For Holiday Fetes

Hundreds Attracted To Ball Game In Big Spring, With Others Visiting Elsewhere

Colorado and Mitchell county supplied large delegations of holiday visitors at Armistice Day festivities staged in Big Spring and other West Texas cities. Hundreds of these citizens braved the bitter cold Monday afternoon to witness annual clash between the San Angelo and Big Spring Class A football teams, in Big Spring.

There was no general community program given here during the day but business was practically at a stand still with stores and shops closed. The drug stores were closed Monday afternoon, opening for business again at 6 o'clock.

Flags were floating from in front of buildings in the business streets as well as from the mast of public buildings.

Wars Will Be Over When Men Emulate Christ, Lions Told

Universal Brotherhood Must Come To Assure Peace, Is Picture Given By Speaker

Until the nations of earth come to that place in their ideals where the Christ is emulated as applied to the tenets of universal brotherhood, we may expect quarrels within and without and the prospect that war will again have to be endured, Rev. Cal C. Wright of First Methodist church declared during an address at the Lions Club Friday.

"From out of the nations of Europe and the Americas we hear the echo of campaigns for future security," the speaker said. "Italy in her conquest of Ethiopia holds that the invasion is for the purpose of carrying civilization to the savage tribes of that empire.

"We hear the tribes of Ethiopia referred to as savage people. But are we, with all our modern war equipment and machines of destruction entitled to claim the distinction of being civilized," he interrogated.

"We entertain different views on religion, of government and society, but there are none of us who would question the high principles of purity, as taught by Christ nor the lofty purposes of the brotherhood of man."

Greatest Favor Of All History Given To New Chevrolet

Factory To Rush Output In Drive To Supply Dealer's Orders During The Year

Capacity production of the recently announced new 1936 Chevrolets throughout the rest of the year is forecast by reports from dealers all over the country, to the effect that sales on announcement day, Nov. 2, broke all record in Chevrolet history.

The same enthusiastic public response was evident at the New York Automobile Show, according to word received in Detroit from W. E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., who with other executives of the company is attending the annual exhibit there. Chevrolet is displaying its new product both in Grand Central Palace and at a special General Motors showing in the Waldorf-Astoria.

"Output will have to be maintained around 100,000 units a month to keep pace with the demand that is evident," said Mr. Holler. "We had more than 60,000 cars in the hands of our 10,000 dealers on announcement day, but orders taken so far have greatly exceeded the supply. We shall be able to make prompt deliveries, however, for we were in full production before the cars were announced, and they are rolling off the assembly lines at a faster rate than ever before at this season."

In the Master deluxe line, the restyling of the body with its new streamlined front end treatment, and the perfected hydraulic brakes, seem to have created the liveliest enthusiasm among dealers and public alike, Mr. Holler reported. In the Standard series, a completely re-styled Fisher body with solid steel turret top seems to have captured the public fancy more completely than any other single thing. The fact that a full line of body styles is now available in this lowest price range is also making a hit.

"The statement that we are delighted at the outlook requires no qualification," said Mr. Holler. Viewed from any angle, the situation is highly promising. We introduced these new cars in the conviction that they were the finest we had ever offered. Now we have the satisfaction of learning that the public takes the same view."

Use our Lay-a-way plan and shop now for Christmas. Colorado Drug.

Cattle Over Area Are Fat, Ranchers Of Colorado Note

"Never Seen Better Outlook In County," One Of Them States Here Saturday.

Range cattle in this territory are fat and entering the Winter months in excellent condition, local ranchers told The Record Saturday. Grass is good and there is ample surface water available everywhere, they noted.

"I have been identified with the cattle business in this county for many years and never have we come to this season of the year with livestock in better shape," was comment offered by S. O. Wulfjen of Colorado.

Cattle are reeking fat and the outlook is all that one could hope for, in so far as the physical aspect is concerned, Chester Jones, another local rancher stated.

Rural Clubwomen Of County Win Six Of Ten Prizes In Quilt Exhibit At Angelo

Six of ten prizes offered for wool-filled comforts and two for tufted bedspreads were won by Mitchell county rural club women and club girls at the 17-county exhibit of comforts and quilts held in San Angelo Friday and Saturday of last week and the early part of this week.

Miss Emma Gunter, county home demonstration agent, and two of her bedroom improvement demonstrators, Mrs. E. R. Uzzle of the Fairview Home Demonstration club and Mrs. Albert Orr of the Lone Star club, were in San Angelo Thursday and Friday for the scoring of the articles in the show.

The exhibit included 119 tufted spreads and scores of comforts. Judges were Mrs. Berneice Claytor, home improvement specialist of A. & M., and Miss Maurine Hearn, agent of district 7. Miss Dyora Crowder, home demonstration agent of Tom Green county, was hostess to the exhibit.

Tufted bedspreads were judged first. Nita McKinney of the Iatan girls' 4-H club placed third with a spread which had a shell design worked in three shades of blue. She received as prize enough wall paper for a bedroom. Rena Louise Taylor, Lone Star girl, won fourth place with a spread bearing a diamond design worked in rose. Her prize was a bedroom place rug.

In the judging of wool-filled comforts Mitchell county exhibits took all five prizes in the quilted class. A quilt of dark green beautisheen suilted by the Bauman club won $5 for first place. Mrs. W. W. Jenkins and Mrs O. L. Simpson of the Fairview club won second prize with a henna colored comfort which they entered together. The prize was a woolen colonial couch cover from the West Unity Mills of Ohio. Another quilt entered by these women, a green with floral center, won third place with a madeira lunch set as prize. The Iatan club's quilt won fourth place, a pair of madeira pillow cases, and the Hyman club's fifth, with a teakwood tray as prize.

A comfort tacked by the Plainview club won a $5 first prize in the tacked comfort division. This piece was covered in pongee and tacked in orange and brown.

Comforts were scored on the basis of warmth, fluffiness, covering, tacking or quilting, weight, and finish. Mitchell county and Eastland county tied for third place in the number of entries in the exhibit, each receiving $3. Tom Green county was first and Erath county second.

This was the first exhibit of this kind in Texas.

Will Pastors Come Back Another Year Methodists Ponder

Churches Here And In Other Parts Of County Wait With Interest For This News

Will Methodist pastors at Colorado and other community centers of the county be returned another year, as Bishop Hiram Abiff Boaz reads assignments at close of sessions of the Northwest Texas conference in Plainview Sunday evening?

That is a question that just now is commanding place in the minds of hundreds of Methodist folk in Mitchell county. Those of the Loraine church already know they are to have a new minister, due to plans of Rev. Bruce Meador to be retired.

Leaders in First Church, Colorado, have expressed sincere hope that the Rev. Cal C. Wright is to continue his pastorate here. Rev. Albert Click of the Colorado circuit, serving churches at Spade, Bailey's Chapel and other points, is, too, popular among his people and would be welcomed back.

Other pastors serving pastorates in the county who may or may not be returned include Rev. D. A. Ross of Westbrook, Rev. Hamilton Wright, Hyman, and Rev. Grady Anderson, Buford.

Official delegates, including ministers serving churches of the county, and others representing the laity, have assumed their places in affairs of the conference, formally opening Wednesday night.

LIKE NEWSPAPER LIKE CITY

This columnist is still sick and feels truly Thawmaturgical.

Quite a number of very high compliments, both oral and by letter, have been paid The Colorado Record and this column. A town the size of Colorado without a newspaper would be a preposterous place, anomalous and probably suigendris.

Not everyone who reads newspapers knows that he can judge the sort of a town or city a newspaper is published in by carefully examining its newspaper. It reflects that city's business importance, it progress and its people's moral and spiritual tone. You never thought of that? Its a fact. That being true, what must be the concept as to Colorado, those who have never been to this city after having read carefully a few issues of The Record? It is likely that you would say in answer to this question that their idea as to Colorado would be as you would have it.

It is a significant and happy fact that both paper and people have had much to do with promoting the things best calculated to make both strong, sturdy, self-reliant and wholesome in life and influence.

ORTHOGRAPHY-TERMINOLOGY

This column prides itself in its accuracy in spelling and we here give a lesson to the high school students in spelling. Its a known fact that in my school days I never got beyond "baker" in Websters old blue-back speller but I served 40 years in a printing office and this will make anybody a good speller.

A well known Lexicographer after examining quite a lot of high school papers says we are passing from childish ingenuousness and adolescence to maturity and decay. Well that is the way life is lived.

There is no perfect English, but some English is superior to some other. That which is most readily understood yet carries an assurance of reasoning capacity behind the words is the best English, even if it never perfects. Slangy English may be understood, but it leaves the reader suspecting that the writer's ability to think is only equal to his ability to choose his mode of expression.

This brings us to the fact that all teachers should insist on right thinking.

THOUGHT AND DEVELOPMENT

Only through right thinking can there be development, and development is the law of the universe. It is progress, and progress is inevitable. The greatest men today are the men who think.

Not only the active hurtful things must be done away with, but the dead things must be gotten out of the way that it may not hinder live ones.

The ascent of man to his present elevation has not been an automatic growth. It has been a struggle all the way and will continue to be so.

It has been in many respects a continuous tragedy, ceaseless effort, persistent matching of intelligence and reason with the blind destructiveness of material forces, and the wicked devices of the evil-minded.

Man would never grow without something to do something to contend with, to strive against, to think and dream about, to exercise his mind with, to hope for. He must have something that will make him cry out for help.

Wrong thinking is to the mind what gangrene is to the flesh, poison to the blood, or rust to metal.

It is just as certain in its effects on the mind, and therefore on the individual, as is the rust to metal. The awful crimes, daily accounts of which are given in the press, are the products of evil thinking, for deeds are the products of thoughts, whether good or bad.

The egotistical, tyrannical man is not a thinker, if he were he would not possess those characteristics.

The greatest man who ever walked the earth was the best Man, and He was best because His thoughts were pure, holy, love-impelled.

How inexpressibly important it is that we guard well the sanctuary of thought. The mind is a sanctuary, and it should not be defied by anything untrue or unclean.

But back to orthography and my high school class.

The ten words most frequently misspelled are:

Procedure—Proceedure
Lose—Loose
Benefited—Benefitted
Acommodate—Acomodate
adviser—Advisor
Occurrence—Occurrance
Supersede—Supercede
Allright—Alright
Principle—Principal Effect—Affect.

In the United States government printing office, the endings "cede", "ceed" and "sede" have a paragraph to themselves. "Supersede" bears the distinction of being the only word in the English language with the ending "sede". "Ceed" is terminal of only three—exceed, proceed and succeed. "Cede" has the majority. The "sede" of supersede means to sit. "Ceed and "cede" mean to go. The confusion caused by "sede" and "ceed" and "cede" shows itself in the alien "e" of "proceedure". The doubling of "t" in "benefitted" is typical of the trouble terminal consonants cause, the current single "p" in kidnaper, irritates many readers. "Alright" is an ancient imitator of already. The mixing up of principal and principle, the errant "a" of "occurrance", the dropping of an "m" for accommodate, the "or" advisor where "er" belongs are easily understood, though not to be condoned. The common writing of "loose" for lose and "affect" for "effect" are less easy of explanation. The pronunciations of the maltreated words do not account for the abuse to which they are subjected.

It is contended by some lexicographers that improvement in spelling "comes most quickly when there is great necessity, powerful stimuli, a heavy penalty, such as possible loss of employment." If all the poor spellers are to be added to the unemployed, the directors of relief committees will have a lively time.

HORRID NATURE

Lincoln once said that a man's legs should be long enough to touch the ground. It was in 1833 that the stars fell, the people were scared and thought the world was coming to an end and it was Lincoln who looked and saw the North star steadfast, went back to bed and to sleep.

What the world is passing through today is but a repetition of what has occurred in every age. Social orders change, humanity is always in a state of flux. New civilizations are builded upon the ruins of old and fresh victories are won out of defeats. Placing more trust than is safe in material things, men live perpetually in unrest and economic fear. When the landmarks of traditions, creeds and governments are broken down, they lose faith and sink into depression and dispair. Happy is he who can rise, like the great Civil War president above the level of a transient era visions of a pole star, who like him can discern, beyond the bourne of a troubled hour, the things that never change and will not pass away.

A duststorm on Bering sea, death dealing floods in New York state, windstorms in Uruguay, floods in China, an eruption of the celebrated volcano Krakatoa and heat waves over the South were some of the caprices of nature visited upon humanity this year.

We learn all these disturbances almost at once thanks to modern communication systems. Our forefathers went through similar disasters, but they were not known elsewhere for weeks and months.

To alleviate suffering, the Red Cross and similar organizations go on the job at once. Government relief money is poured into devastated regions. The vagaries of nature cannot be ended, but mankind has learned ways and means of clearing up the debris and sending out succor to the victims. We have been fighting nature in her sterner moods throughout human history. The battle will continue as long as the world stands. When nature's good she's very good indeed, but when she's bad she's horrid.

We have witnessed in the past two decades the greatest cosmic disturbances ever recorded by man. And also we witness an upheaval of all things, institutions, governments, economic systems, religious organizations, and such like, unprecedented in history of mankind. Everything is being shaken, from the old earth itself to our own powerful and well established democratic form of government. Undoubtedly an overturning of all things is taking place, despite man's mad and strenuous efforts to restore humanity to its prewar quietness and general equilibrum.

Everyone is asking, " what will survive?" Out of the present world-wide upheaval and shake-up, what will remain after the last tremors have died away? What shall we be able to salvage with which to begin a new state? For man's dream is to go on forever, he does not stop to think of a final recoming day when this earthly human pilgrimage for all men shall end and the whole earth stand before God of the universe to give an account of the deeds done in the body.

Any country is in a terrible condition when its people are not personally constructive, when they have poor foresight, bad management and ineffectual reasoning capacity. The economic condition of every country is a reflex of individual competency. In this free America every man is the director of his own destiny.

A BIT OF ETHIOPIAN HISTORY

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia is not a descendant of the Queen of Sheba and King Solomon, nor is he of Hebrew descent. Archaeologists and orientalists all say so.

There is no diverable Hebraic blood in the kingdom of Emperor Selassie. The alleged marriage of the Queen of Sheba and King Solomon entered the Ethiopian tradition centuries ago after an alliance of the two kingdoms.

Tennyson was a first rate prophet, in one instance at least. About 185 years ago Samuel Johnson wrote a story entitled "Rasselas Prince of Abissina." Rasselas was pictured as a son of the Emperor of Ethiopia, sent to dwell in the Happy Valley, along with other Princes and Princesses and numerous persons of lower degree who had earned the privilege of living in the Happy Valley, an era enclosed by high mountains from which there was not exit, only an irongated tunnel opened once a year for the Emperor's visit and the admittance of new candidates for life in the Happy Valley. But Rasselas was unhappy in the Happy Valley so he conspired with Tennyson, who was an admitted guest, and each found a way to escape. In the Valley, however, was a mechanical genius who made the flowing brooks supply power through water wheels, and who said he could invent a flying machine. He enthused on the subject of flying machines and said it would be possible for him and his Ethiopian compatriot to fly over enemy countries and drop death-dealing instruments upon the helpless people. The Happy Valley inventor failed with his machine and disgusted Rasselas, but flying machines are now sailing over Ethiopia and dropping death-dealing instruments.

Capturing Aksum will impress Ethiopians. The holy city, surrendered by the Ethiopians without a shot, contains all the tombs of all Ethiopian rulers since the time of Sheba. The Coptic Christian bishop of Aksum voluntarially gave the keys of the city to the Italian general. He accepted the keys proclaimed Italy's annexation of Aksum, sent a force to surround the city and prevent looting of the monasteries and the ancient cathedral of St. Mary Zion.

In that cathedral the original Ark of the Covenant is believed to be preserved. Ethiopian and Roman history relates that when Solomon sent the son of his high priest, with other sons of great dignitaries, to accompany Sheba's son after the visit to his father, the son of the high priest took the original Ark of the Covenant with him substituting an imitation ark, much to the indignation of Solomon and the high priest. In justice to the high priest's son, it must be stated that an angel appeared and gave him instructions about stealing the ark.

As an authority on languages, which is known for his translation of the Four Gospels of the Bible from the Aramaic, Dr. Lamsa, has lately illustrated the closeness of the alphabet to the inmost life of the people in the course of its evolution. It had as its first letter the sign of deity (the symbol for the ox worshiped as a god for its strength), the second letter stood for house, the symbol of man in the home, second only to God, the third was the sign which meant an age when man was a universal Nomadic as he is mobile at present, but moving at a slow tempo.

In letters of the alphabet which the printers pick from the case or mold at the touch of their fingers, the story of man gets told day by day and imperishably. The inventor of the first alphabet, it has been recently contended was a Semite mine foreman in the Sinaitic peninsula. At any rate, somewhere out in the Near East, Northern Africa or Western Asia, the alphabet had its beginning not far from "the land of the shadowing of wings beyond the rivers of Ethiopia" of which Isaiah wrote. In the centuries since it has become the conserver of all the arts.

Car Engine Stands Severe Test Given By Plane Engineer

Terraplane Stock Motor Is Used In Experiment With Non-Premium Gas Used

Tests made recently at the Casey Jones School of Aeronautics in connection with the development for the Department of a low-price, cheaply operated plane show that a Terraplane automobile engine operated with a prominent non-premium gasoline sold widely at curb stations, is highly satisfactory for the work. The gasoline used on the test, according to an interview recently given to Lowell Thomas, prominent radio commentator by Casey Jones, was standard Blue Sunoco.

According to Casey Jones who is well known as a veteran engineer and test pilot, "The engine was a Terraplane stock engine the same as those available in any Terraplane car. The engine was run fo 300 hours straight, 60 of which were at wide open throttle and the rest of the time it was at 90 per cent wide open and it stood up perfectly. The fuel experience was interesting. First we used high-priced aviation gasoline and it worked out first rate giving good power and fine cooling.

"Next we tried a premium priced automobile fuel but it did not work out so well as the engine became too hot after running a few hours. Then the Blue Sunoco was used and the power and cooling was just as satisfactory as with aviation gas. With this engine we are certainly on the way towards the development of a plane which will be cheap, reliable and economical."

Casey Jones is securing another Terraplane engine which will be installed in a plane designed particularly for it and test flights will soon be under way.

Cotton Forecast To Lesser Total Nov. First, U. S. Notes

Drop Is Near Third Million Bales Below Estimate Of Federal Report Oct. First

The agricultural department at Washington Friday forecast a 1935 cotton crop yield of 11,140,000 bales, based upon conditions as of November 1. The estimate was a reduction of 323,000 bales from the October 1 forecast.

The indicated crop is 1,505,000 bales more than the 1934 production but 3,525,000 less than the average 1928-32 production.

Most of the decline in crop prospects during October was reported in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Missouri, where early frost occurred and other unfavorable weather conditions were said to have checked development of the late crop. Moderate declines were reported for North Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. Little change was shown for other States.

The department forecast an average yield per acre of 186.1 pounds compared with 170.9 pounds in 1934 and a 10-year average of 177.1 pounds.

C.H.S. BAND MEMBERS TRAIN FOR SPRING CONTEST

By Elizabeth Pidgeon

In the Spring of this year the High School band under the instruction of Mr. Rose will enter a contest in which they will be placed in Class D as this is the band's first year. To help train for this contest, tests have been taken placing some of the members in the municipal band. Another aid in training for the band the program Tuesday night, Nov. 12, at the high school auditorium where the band, school and town, gave a short concert for the Red Cross program.

F.F.A. BOYS TO BECOME ATHLETES

Colorado Future Farmers at a meeting Friday night organized a boxing club and elected Walter Rankin for the captain. Gloves will be purchased and at each F.F.A. meeting about three matches will be staged. The club plans to hold two athletic shows during the winter months.

A basketball team was also organized with Voyd Beights as captain. The club will play other F.F.A. teams from this area.

GRAMMAR! GRAMMAR!

Don't let those huge exclamation marks on the above title worry you. It's only a sign that the Sophomore English students are getting plenty of the "grammar business." Their diagnostic test grades prove the fact that they are fairly well up on the English language, uses of verbs, nouns, pronouns, etc. The medians of the four Sophomore classes in English were 124, 125, 105, and 108, making an average median of 108. On the next diagnostic test, the Sophomore English students intend to make a higher median than this.

H.E. GIRLS ATTEND MEETING AT MIDLAND

Saturday, November 16th, there will be a meeting of the H. E. girls of this district at Midland. Each school is to send representatives and these representatives are to present some kind of a stunt as a part of the program of the day. After these stunts have been presented, a student from each school is to give a report of what the club has done and what it plans to do in the future. The purpose of this meeting is to organize the H. E. girls of this district into a club.

HOWL STAFF HAS SOCIAL FUNCTION

The first social function of the year for members of the Howl Staff was given last Tuesday night with Jane Axtell as hostess. The party was very successful and every one took part in the games that were played, after which a buffet luncheon was served to the following: Paschall Lynch, Bobby Wright, Myra Brown, Erna Lou Merrill, Jane Williams, Elizabeth Taylor, Shirley Kiker, Walter Rankin, Ruth Wright, Dorothy Morrison, Miss Shelton, Buzzy Hughes, Regal Porter, Houston Page, Jo Axtell, the sponsor Miss Barrett, and the hostess.

THE HOWLERS

The Pep Squad left C. H. S. at 1:30 last Friday afternoon, accompanied by the band, in buses to attend the Sweetwater-Colorado game. After they arrived, they paraded through the streets of Sweetwater and then rode the Sweetwater bus to the field. There they "howled" until after the game. During the half, a formation, an "S" for Sweetwater and a "C" for Colorado, was made. After the game a few were delayed in getting home, as the buses were late in arriving in Sweetwater.

This week the Pep Squad is to practice an "R" for Roby and "C" for Colorado.

The Freshman class met Friday, Nov. 8, in the auditorium. Sam Richardson called the class to order and a discussion of joining the Red Cross was presented by Bobby Wright. The class decided to join the Red Cross with a five dollar membership. It seems that the Freshmen want to help their city and country. Each person is to pay a nickel for his class membership. The class was adjourned until another meeting was called.

HIGH SCHOOL COOPERATES IN RED CROSS DRIVE

The High school is cooperating fully in this year's Red Cross membership drive. Every member of the faculty has bought a dollar membership. It would be impossible for every student to have a dollar membership, so each class is going to take out a five dollar membership. Out of each one of these memberships, no matter how large, only fifty cents goes to Red Cross headquarters. The rest stays in Mitchell County to be used here. This is the first year that the school has cooperated so fully in this drive. Everyone is proud to be able to contribute in this manner to so worthy an organization.

ARMISTICE PLAY PRESENTED

Friday morning in assembly, members of the Senior English class presented an interesting Armistice play titled "On Armistic Day." On Armistice day a group of men and women who took part in the World War in some way were in an airplane that had to make a forced landing near a country home. The group went to the house to wait until the plane was repaired and were surprised to find that a World War veteran lived there. Memories of the war were recalled and war songs were sung. The airplane was repaired and the group departed leaving the downcast veteran feeling better.

The cast presented the play excellently but they claim that the audience would have enjoyed the play more if they had known how much of the play was left out by the nervous actors.

To show their appreciation of the meaning of Armistice Day, all of the members of the Senior class wore red poppies and later took out a five dollar membership in the Red Cross.

OUTSIDE INTERESTS IN COMMERCIAL DEPARTMENT

The baby typing class, sponsored by the commercial department and taught by Rilla Payne and Elizabeth Hutchinson, is progressing in accuracy. Miss Cooper has written to Miss Wilson, second State Supervisor, to find out when she will be able to make her observation of the young typists.

All the ex-commercial students will be interested to hear that Helen Hester is now manager of an office in Shreveport, La.; and also that Katherine Rose, who is now in Oklahoma City, is doing very well as she has had three raises since she began working this summer.

THE JUNIORS GET STAGE-FRIGHT

The play, "Applicants," which was presented to the assembly on Tuesday, was a success. None of the actors made bad "busts" but all of them felt ill-at-ease. Hunter declared that his knees were hitting together so hard that he could hardly hear himself speak. In this play J. W. Dunlap, the manager gave interesting instruction on correct speech in his conversations with the applicants, Beeman Dockery, Myra Brown, Catherine Delaney, Hunter Brown, Willie Delle Bolin, Billy Henderson, and Walter Rankin, and the secretary, Annetta Lacey.

The Literary News Club will present a play called "The Award" which deals with courtesy. Of course they think their play will be better than the one just put on by the Eager Youth Club but it is to be seen in the near future which will be the better.

THE CIVICS CLUB

The Civics Club met Tuesday of last week instead of Friday, the regular club day. After the minutes were read, a very interesting program was given. Hazel Grubbs made a talk on "National Affairs." Key Will Palmer made a talk on "Interesting Qualities of Civics" and Virginia Reese gave "The Contrast between Early and Modern Government." After the program Courtleigh Snodgrass, of the Constitution Committee, read the new Constitution. Senators and Representatives to our Congress will be elected the next club meeting.

JUNIORS CONTRIBUTE TO HOWL

Several members of the junior English classes contributed news stories for last week's Howl. The best article selected was the one written by J. W. Dunlap. The other contributors were Fae Bedford, Rhuedean Ballard, Billy Henderson, and Willie Jameson.

MUSTANGS RUN AWAY WITH WOLF PACK, 48-0

The scoring of the Sweetwater-Colorado game started in the first period for the Sweetwater Mustangs. The Mustangs kept smashing through the line and scored two touchdowns in the first quarter. The Wolf pack then began to play defensive ball and no scoring was done throughout the second period. The second half started with a bang for the Mustangs. They began to shoot passes, and bust through the center at the line for large gains. The Mustangs continued to score running the score up to 48-0 the last half. Colorado completed several beautiful passes, but never got a chance to score.

THE GIRLS ARE HIKING

The girls certainly are hiking, and they've found out that it isn't such a bad idea after all. In fact, hiking is a very enjoyable recreation.

Last Wednesday, the hikers tramped nearly to the park. Next time, they intend to walk at such a pace as will take them all the way to the park and back.

Miss Barrett gets her daily exercise too. If you will notice, she keeps right up with the girls and has proved to them that she is a good hiker and a good sport.

THE IMPORTANCE OF . . . VENTILATION

The warm air throughout the home during winter should be just as pure and contain just as much oxygen as the fresh, pure air of summer. Rooms that are poorly ventilated, even though sufficiently warm for comfort, can be injurious to health. Stale or stagnant air is depressing, and fails to produce the pleasant and stimulating effect of pure air in motion. . . . No matter what kind of fuel you use to heat your home during winter, it is important to have proper ventilation and circulation of pure air. This is especially important if the flame from the fuel comes in contact with the air you breathe. The reason is simple.
Fuel does not burn unless mixed with oxygen. Prove this to yourself by the simple test of dropping a lighted match into a bottle. Place your hand on top of the bottle and you will note that the match stick will NOT continue to burn after the oxygen inside the bottle has been used up by the burning fuel. Likewise, the oxygen content of the air inside your home is gradually reduced by the occupants of the household through the processes of breathing and by the fuel burning in your heating equipment.

Without proper ventilation the air becomes stale. Sooner or later the tender air passages of the body become inflamed, leaving them an easy prey to vicious attacks of "colds" and serious respiratory diseases. Guard your health this winter with proper ventilation as well as adequate heat in every room in your home.
Tune in each Thursday night at 6:30, WFAA-WBAP, for vital facts to help you guard your family against the Common Cold Germ.

SHE'S THE GIRL WHO HANDLES YOUR TELEPHONE CALLS

This is the girl who handles your telephone calls.

Every part of the far-flung Bell System organization exists largely to help her do the best possible job of connecting you with the people to whom you want to talk.

Linemen cling to icy poles to keep the voice-paths open to her touch. Staff experts of American Telephone & Telegraph Company, parent company of the System, hunt better methods for her to use. Scientists of Bell Telephone Laboratories seek new inventions to place at her finger-tips.

And the factories and shops of Western Electric, supply unit of the Bell System, are busy making the insulators, the wires and the equip- at she needs to flash your voice around the block, across the state, or across the nation.

It is largely because this group of specialized organizations stands behind her...and has done its job so well for her...that she is able to give you the good, economical telephone service you receive today.

BAPTIST NOTES

Sunday school attendance is growing better each Sunday although we continue to have some absentees.

We worshiped with the Methodist brethren Sunday evening as that was Brother Meador's last service here. We regret to see him and his good wife move from our midst.

The Worker's Conference met with us Tuesday. We enjoyed some splendid sermons and talks and heard some good reports from the convention that met recently in Houston.

There was a large number of visitors present from different parts of this district. The ladies of our home church served lunch in the basement at the noon hour.
