Small studios may win big at Oscar ceremony

BY SUZANNE GILL

Everyone in Hollywood wants one of those little gold statuettes. And on Monday, March 27, when ABC airs the 67th annual Academy Awards, a few more dreams will come true.

If the winners tend to babble and go misty-eyed, the studios that distribute the movies are soberly focused on the bottom line. To the studios, awards are a means to an end, and the end is sales, either at the box office or the video counter.

So the buzz in Tinseltown this year isn't over the nominees in acting categories — most have won or at least been nominated in previous years — but the toehold smaller studios have established on Mt. Oscar.

Many of these so-called independent studios were founded with seed money from bigger players like Disney or Turner, but with lowered expectations for their films' appeal. Yet with this year's crop of Oscar nominations, the parents are feeling the heat of competition.

Though its name has yet to become a household word, Gramercy Pictures has a total of four Oscar nods (for Four Weddings and a Funeral; The Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert; and foreign entry Before the Rain) to its credit. Meanwhile Gramercy's parent, Universal Studios, has just two nominations this year — both in the original song category.

Certainly Paramount's Forrest Gump, with its stunning 13 Oscar nominations, has done its studio proud. But compare that to little Miramax, which leads all studios with 22 nominations spread over six films: Pulp Fiction, Bullets Over Broadway, Tom & Viv, Red, Strawberry and Chocolate and Queen Margot.

Of the 25 nominations in the five top categories (acting and best picture), 12 went to independents Miramax, Gramercy and Samuel Goldwyn (The Madness of King George). Throw in the best director category, and the split is 50-50.

To get there, the independents spent serious money reminding Academy members of their films' artistic merits. Miramax led with millions in January promotional spending. Goldwyn spent $400,000 on King George, starring best actor nominee Nigel Hawthorne, and Gramercy spent an equal amount on Four Weddings.

From the studios' point of view, the money is well spent, since Oscar nominations give a second or third wind to movie attendance. As Miramax's Mark Gill put it recently for industry newspaper Variety, "You're not spending money for an Oscar. ... You do these campaigns for one reason only: to sell tickets."

Bullets Over Broadway is a case in point. The Woody Allen comedy cost Miramax $20 million to make, but has taken in less than half that amount in ticket sales. Director Allen and breakout supporting actor Chazz Palminteri are nominated, but supporting actress Dianne Wiest is given the best chance of winning an Oscar for Bullets. Meantime, a huge pre-awards advertising campaign ("7 Academy Award Nominations") was expected to lure a few more millions to the box office and bring Bullets closer to the profits target.

At the same time, an Oscar-induced glow can be priceless. Best picture nominee Forrest Gump (box office of $300 million and counting) and Pulp Fiction ($75 million) are both paid for, but if Pulp Fiction wins the Oscar, Miramax would reap major-league prestige.

Comedy is theme, not reality, at Oscars

EDITOR'S NOTE - The theme of this year's Oscar ceremonies may be "Comedy and the movies," but funny films historically have been given short shrift by the Academy Award voters. There is a lone comedic entry this year, "Four Weddings and a Funeral," but the odds are that "Forrest Gump" will sweep up the prizes.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - A simple-minded Southerner who talks with presidents, or a crew of lowlifes with murder on their minds. That's the big choice Monday night when the 67th annual Academy Awards take center stage to honor the best of film in 1994.

"Forrest Gump" appears the likely winner in view of its 13 nominations and overwhelming public acceptance, with revenues of more than $300 million. Yet "Pulp Fiction," with seven nominations, poses a threat because of Quentin Tarantino's innovative storytelling and collection of an array of critics' awards.

If "Forrest Gump" should prevail, star Tom Hanks could pull off the back-to-back Oscar stunt accomplished by only four actors in history. He was named best lead actor last year for his role as the AIDS-stricken lawyer in "Philadelphia."

John Travolta's comeback feat as the dreamy-eyed hit man in "Pulp Fiction" might capture the Academy voters' fancy. The best-actor category, one of the best in recent years, also includes Morgan Freeman, the lifer-philosopher of "The Shawshank Redemption," Nigel Hawthorne, the demented George III in "The Madness of King George," and Paul Newman, the town crank in "Nobody's Fool."

The category of best lead actress reflects the continuing decline of showcase roles for women in today's films. All the performances are creditable, but they lack the heart-stopping quality of times past, when movies were not so male-dominated.

The nominees: Jodie Foster, "Neil"; Jessica Lange, "Blue Sky"; Miranda Richardson, "Tom and Viv"; Winona Ryder, "Little Women"; Susan Sarandon, "The Client."

Joining "Forrest Gump" and "Pulp Fiction" among the best-picture nominees are "Quiz Show," "The Shawshank Redemption" and "Four Weddings and a Funeral."

The nomination of "Four Weddings and a Funeral" was something of a surprise, even though many considered it the most enjoyable film of 1994. The surprise was due to the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences' historic disregard of comedy as a medium worthy of awards.

Of the 66 winners as best picture of the year, only three might be classified as comedies: "It Happened One Night" (1934), "You Can't Take It with You" (1938) and "Annie Hall" (1977).

Of almost 400 films nominated for best picture (in the early years as many as 12 were nominees), only 15 comedies have been included. Among them: "She Done Him Wrong," "Ruggles of Red Gap," "The Awful Truth," "Ninotchka," "The Great Dictator," "The More the Merrier," "MASH," "Tootsie" and "Moonstruck."

But not "Bringing Up Baby," "Modern Times," "My Man Godfrey," "Nothing Sacred," "The Lady Eve," "His Girl Friday," "The Road to Singapore," "A Night at the Opera," "Some Like It Hot," "The Odd Couple," "Pillow Talk," etc.

Why this downgrading of comedy by the Academy?

Says actor Randy Quaid: "I think that Academy voters, of which I am one, tend to think of drama as having more meaning and more impact. I guess it always looks better for the Academy to select a high-powered drama as best picture and leave the comedy for the box office and the laughs.

"I still don't understand why Robin Williams wasn't nominated - or why he didn't get the award - for 'Mrs. Doubtfire.'"

Comedian Paul Reiser ("Mad About You") observes: "I don't know if it's deliberate. I think some of the best comic actors can make it look easy, and their work is by definition 'not dramatic.' It's made to look effortless; maybe sometimes it slips past people."

"Look at Cary Grant - pretty sterling work there. Look at Jack Lemmon - his nominations are usually for his more serious roles. And he was one of our best comic actors. I think people perk up and pay attention when there's weight in the material, and they don't always appreciate the subtlety of a comic performance."

Of the 67 winners as best actor (there was a tie in 1932), only three might be considered comedy performances: Clark Gable, "It Happened One Night" (1934), Lee Marvin, "Cat Ballou" (1965) and Richard Dreyfuss, "The Goodbye Girl" (1977). Seventeen others have been nominated.

Cary Grant may be considered the screen's greatest light comedian, but his nominations came for serious roles: "Penny Serenade" (1941) and "None But the Lonely Heart" (1944).

The Academy often employs the honorary award to compensate for its lapses. Thus Grant, Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Stan Laurel, Bob Hope, Danny Kaye, Buster Keaton and Groucho Marx have been so honored.

The best actress awards in comedic roles amount to only two: Claudette Colbert in "It Happened One Night" (1934) and Diane Keaton in "Annie Hall" (1977). Twenty others have received nominations.

The Hollywood Foreign Press Association deals with the situation by giving Golden Globes for picture and star performances in two categories: drama and comedy or musical. That system may seem more equitable, but it's not likely to be adopted by a monolithic Academy loath to change.

Not that the Oscar crowd totally ignores the comic genre. The theme of this year's awards ceremony?

"Comedy and the movies."

HOROSCOPES

March 26-April 1

ARIES - March 21/April 20
Your ability to make quick decisions may be an impressive trait, but living with the repercussions isn't always worth the glory. Take a lesson from the cautious Libra; think before you act. Get a head start on a pet project, as there may be complications later on.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21
Don't push a loved one to his/her emotional limits — especially if you are involved with a Scorpio. Take a calm, logical approach if there is an issue you want to discuss. At work, trust the wisdom of an experienced colleague when making an important move or decision.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
Just when you are about to lose faith in humanity, something spectacular will happen to restore it. If your work is becoming overly demanding, it may be time to reevaluate your responsibilities. Perhaps there is something you can delegate to lighten the load.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
If you're hosting a party this weekend, it's bound to be a success — especially if you're the one doing the cooking. The Cancer's creative touch is always a gastronomical delight. A financial windfall is likely. It's a good week to play lotteries or enter contests.

LEO - July 23/August 23
A telephone conversation on Monday could set the tone for the week. You'll be reminded of the past and feel nostalgic for the times you've had long ago. A mood of spontaneity could lead you to interesting places. Social events and interactions will be more abundant than usual.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgos do well in business, because they're highly organized and know how to hold on to a dollar. Although this quality can lead you to a brilliant career, it doesn't always go over so well when it comes to romance. Remember, if there's an occasion for gift-giving this week, be generous.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Ignore the whims of temperamental loved ones. Use your cool, calm manner to get you through. An opportunity to make extra money may present itself. Just be sure you have the time to spare before committing to anything. It's a good time to start an exercise routine or improve on an existing one.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
It's a week of reflection and introspection. Memories of a past love may consume your thoughts. Try not to let them interfere with your work, or you could overlook an important detail. Instead, look ahead, and think about what you could do to improve today and tomorrow.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
A new experience this week will recharge your batteries. You may vow to try something new every day. Why not? A recent investment proves worthwhile. You may even be tempted to make further investments. Be sure you have enough of a nest egg before writing any checks.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
There are unexpected pleasures to be had this week. Something you had dreaded could turn out to be highly enjoyable. Don't be afraid to ask for help if you feel overwhelmed at work. You'd be surprised how happy some people can be to lend a hand. A romance may be headed for trouble.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
A much younger person — probably a Leo — will have a strong influence on the week's events. You will realize something new about yourself because of this person. Your light, airy manner will work to your advantage in a tense situation at work. Others will admire your calm attitude.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20
Turning your mind to home and family will help you keep things on an even keel. Take it easy in your work, and preserve strength as much as possible. Learn to keep emotions out of the workplace. A "friend" may try to take advantage of your generosity. Be on your guard.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months:
You could learn some valuable lessons this year, but if you're smart, you won't have to learn them the hard way. This is especially true if you're in a position of power. Don't let your status go to your head by trying to manipulate others. This sort of behavior can only backfire and make you look bad in the long run. On the lighter side, there will be some happy moments involving family. Someone you're close to (perhaps a child or parent) will reach a very important milestone. When dealing with loved ones, try to express your true feelings, and leave your cold, suppressed side in the past.

TV PIPELINE

BY TAYLOR MICHAELS

Q: Please tell me about Cameron Bancroft from A Family Divided and where I can write to him. -Jessica Werner, Pottstown, Pa.

A: Bancroft, who plays ski rescuer Kyle Hansen in ABC's new series Extreme, got his big break when he was cast in the Canadian series Beachcombers, where he worked for six seasons. Working around his shooting schedule, the Vancouver-born actor completed his bachelor's degree in theater.

Last spring he had the title role in To Walk Again, a TV movie with Blair Brown that was honored by the National Easter Seal Society. Upcoming films include The Other Mother, Dead Man and Love and Human Remains (NOT a musical comedy). In his free time he likes playing ice hockey and golf.

Send him a birthday card on May 17 C/O Extreme, ABC Television Network, 2040 Avenue of the Stars, Century City, Calif. 90067.

Q: Whatever happened to Christy? I read a few months ago it would be back as a series after the Thanksgiving movie special. Is it coming back? -Dorothy Lott, Lufkin, Texas.

A: This is the loopyest TV season I can recall. A Christy publicist told me last fall the show would be starting up later this season, and that LeVar Burton was joining the cast.

Just a couple of weeks ago, however, a CBS spokeswoman told me the show is not expected back in any form this season. It might return next fall, she said, adding that she thought it more likely would be only as a series of movies.

To voice your support, write to CBS Viewer Services, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90036.

Q: Whatever happened to Jackie Nespral on the weekend *Today show? -William R. Penrice, Fort Myers Beach, Fla.

Cameron Bancroft

A: An NBC publicist says Nespral tired of the commute between New York and Miami, where her family lives. She currently is a news anchor at Miami's WTVJ, a major NBC affiliate. Mike Schneider's new co-host is Giselle Fernandez.

Q: Who played Inspector Gerard on TV's The Fugitive? -G. Lytle, E. Jordan, Mich.

A: Barry Morse.

Q: I'm a M.A.N.T.I.S. fan. Not only is he TV's first black superhero, but also a hero sometimes confined to a wheelchair. PLEASE tell me it won't be canceled. And will they show the TV movie the series is based on again? -A. Jarvis, Seattle.

A: This series has scraped bottom in the ratings. Write to Fox Broadcasting Co., 10201 W. Pico Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90035 to voice your support. The movie could crop up anywhere.

HIGHLIGHTS

ALFRED HITCHCOCK PUTS A THRILL IN APRIL'S MOVIE LINEUP

Alfred Hitchcock spins a web of mystery and intrigue on The Family Channel in April with the 1964 thriller, "Marnie," airing Saturday, April 29, at 7 P.M.

Tippi Hedren ("The Birds") portrays Marnie a compulsive thief who finds that her latest job is foiled by Mark Rutland, played by legendary Sean Connery. Mark catches Marnie in the act of stealing from the company safe, but his affections for her prevent him from turning her over to the police. Mark later finds that Marnie's hidden past holds the key to her compulsive behavior.

New to FAM movies that air in April include "Peter & Paul," starring Anthony Hopkins and Raymond Burr, April 2 at 1 P.M.; "The Way West," led by Kirk Douglas and Robert Mitchum April 15 at 7 P.M., and "The Chalk Garden," starring Haley Mills and Deborah Kerr, airing April 23 at 12:30 P.M.

An encore showing of FAM original "Harvest For The Heart," starring Ted Shackelford, airs at 6 P.M. April 2. "The Great Escape," with an all-star cast featuring James Garner, Steve McQueen and Richard Attenborough, airs April 8 at 7 P.M. A special two hour "Young Riders: Gathering Clouds," starring David Soul and Cynthia Nixon airs April 1 at 7 P.M. "Annie" comes to FAM April 9 at 6 P.M., and stars Albert Finney and Carol Burnett, and "Jesus of Nazareth," the classic four-part miniseries with Robert Powell and Anne Bancroft airs April 10 through 13 at 7 P.M. each evening. The Family Channel original movie, "Young Indian Jones and the Hollywood Follies," starring Sean Patrick Flanery, airs April 16 at 6 P.M. and April 22 at 7 P.M. Another FAM original "The Pistol: Birth of a Legend" airs April 23 at 6 P.M. and stars Adam Guier and Millie Perkins.

Margie's Notes

By Margie Daniels, HSCA Executive Director

Sunday was a wonderful day! We celebrated 20 years as an organization. We went back remembering the small group of people who met in the Community Center on Feb. 10, 1975, to organize a senior citizens organization for Hereford and Deaf Smith County. Our organization was chartered on March 7, 1975, as Hereford Senior Citizens Association. We have come a long way in these 20 years. We also remember that it is not only the seniors who have accomplished this but has had to have the involvement of the whole community! Thank you Hereford! We could not have what we do without all of you. Next week we have some people coming to visit us from a community East of Dallas with a population of more than 75,000. They do not have anything for their seniors and are coming here for some ideas.

Thanks to the City Commission and Police Department for the crosswalk going from our parking lot to LaPlata Manor. Also they set the speed limit at 20 miles per hour on Ranger from 15th to Moreman St. We appreciate the speed limit for the seniors coming across the street to the center and also for the children walking to and from school. We have seen some really dangerous situations.

We still have four openings for our Spring Garden Tour. It is a wonderful tour and a beautiful time of the year. Call me at the center at 364-5681 or at home 364-0428.

As you know funding for a non-profit organization is always hard to find and we are always in need of operating funds. Some of you may not know that we have a permanent foundation we set up in 1983. We have not mentioned it much in the last couple of years but would like to tell you or remind you of it. The foundation was set up as a permanent fund so that the interest generated would be used as operating funds. The charter name is Hereford Senior Citizens Permanent Foundation Fund.

See you at the Center!

107th birthday celebration honors former area farmer

A celebration honoring Charles Walser's 107th birthday was held Thursday in the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

The staff presented Walser with a birthday cake decorated with a cowboy and a miniature replica of the Dairy Queen, which represents the daily outing Walser takes to the restaurant with his daughter.

Mr. Walser originated in Montague Co., and when he was 19-years-old he moved to McLean where he met his wife Della Lance.

In 1917 he moved to Deaf Smith County and farmed west of Hereford at Summerfield for many years.

Walser has two sons, Guy Walser and W.H. Walser; and one daughter, Leatrus Clark, which he lives with.

The family will hold an annual birthday party for him today at the VFW Hall beginning at noon.

Tour spaces remain for garden excursion

Spaces are still available for the Spring Garden Tour, according to Margie Daniels, HSCA executive director.

The tour is scheduled April 17-29. Cost of the 13-day, 12-night tour is $900 double occupancy. Contact Mrs. Daniels to sign up or get additional information.

Stops on the tour will include such scenic spots as Nashville, Tn., Asheville, N.C., Charleston, S.C., Atlanta, Ga., Mobile, Al., and Shreveport, La.

The tour will conclude with a farewell banquet in Dallas on Friday prior to the return to Hereford on Saturday.

Preparations for workshop

Workshop will feature healthy recipes

Nutrition and its link in disease prevention will be presented at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center on Wednesday, March 29, at 1:30 p.m.

Dr. Dymple Cooksey, nutrition specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and Jill Shafer, Extension Associate, health education, will be the featured speakers.

The program will be informative to a person interested in nutritionally sound information and will help those who must manage heart disease, Type II diabetes, or hypertension and assist with a lifestyle and eating habits that will possibly help with cancer prevention.

The three hour workshop will provide fast moving information, recipe preparation and tasting and informational handouts. The workshop is free and participants may attend all or any portion of the workshop.

For more information, contact Beverly Harder, County Extension Agent at 364-3573.

President's Corner

By Shirley Garrison HSCA President

Hereford Senior Citizen's has just celebrated our 20th year of existence. At our affair last Sunday we were saddened by the realization that so many of those charter members and leaders are no longer with us. We are grateful for their leadership and support during these 20 years. They helped make the quality of program and facilities that we now enjoy.

A special thanks to Bill and Gene Patton for their gift of property on East Park Avenue. It was originally known as Boyd Machine Shop. This allows us additional storage, a place to have auctions or garage sales and possibly other events.

Speaking of gifts, the Center needs your support on adding to our Permanent foundation fund. You can do this by gifts, memorials insurance policy made to the Foundation, and remembrance in your wills. It is important to the continued quality of programs and services we expect and receive at the Senior Center.

Continue to pray for rain, its very, very dry. Some farmers are having to run their sprinklers in order to make land preparation for planting.

Activities are already beginning in preparation for the construction of the PSF Pork Processing Plant. New families will be moving her soon. Lets welcome them to our community.

Contributing to society improves physical and emotional health

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - It seems like a neat fit in so many ways, demographically, economically, charitably, politically and in terms of just plain common sense:

Many thousands of retirees want to contribute to society. Millions need the contributions these folks can make. The need for these contributions will grow as government seeks to cut expenditures on social programs.

That brings us to the point: Why not offer these good folks a small reward for their contributions, in the form of a modest tax credit for each hour of high priority volunteerism?

While that's under consideration, maybe insurers should consider a health insurance discount for a predetermined amount of volunteerism. It makes sense: Volunteering, it is claimed, improves physical and emotional health.

These are among ideas that emerged from a March 17 meeting of the National Retiree Volunteer Coalition in Minneapolis, which brought together some of the best brains in corporate retiree and volunteer activities.

The beauty of having volunteers ready and eager to fill any void, says Donna Anderson, NRVC president, is that they are there for the asking, but perhaps overlooked as a national resource.

"We see our proposals as a national wakeup call to the American spirit," she says, stressing that "there is no need to create a new bureaucracy while conceivably quadrupling or quintupling the number of volunteers."

The recommendations will be presented at the White House Conference on Aging during the first week in May.

While she offers as a prototype her 16-year-old nonprofit organization - it embraces 69 programs under sponsorship of 54 corporations - several other groups are also organized and ready, including the Service Corps of Retired Executives (SCORE) and the International

Second middle age is largely unstructured in comparison with the formal work life that preceded it, and it is into this void that organizations such as NRVC are moving. Just in time to help.

Anderson says the shifting to the states of more responsibility for social programs inevitably will put increased workload pressures on community agencies, especially the quarter-million nonprofits involved in social works.

Apart from state-city funding and contributions, the lifeblood of such agencies is volunteers. But municipalities have budget problems, and volunteer hours have been slow to grow. There is evidence they are even shrinking.

In contrast, says Anderson, a 1993 NRVC study showed that 12,000 corporate volunteers contributed 1.7 million hours during the year, a 6 percent increase since 1989.

Let the problems and desires of corporate retirees be the nation's opportunity, says Anderson, who cites the immortal words of an unknown wag: "Retirement ruins Saturdays."

Executive Service Corps.

All seem to arise from at least two motivations: society's need for the know-how and skills retirees have developed over the years, and a similar desire, even need, of retirees to contribute what they know.

That, in fact, is how NRVC began, growing out of a Junior League project to develop corporate volunteerism that coincided with a search by Honeywell Inc. for a way to handle growing requests for help from nonprofit organizations.

The answer, of course, was to utilize the services of retirees, and the idea spread. While NRVC now operates in 31 cities in 16 states, it still has a strong imprint of its hometown Minneapolis, where Honeywell is based.

As the idea spreads on its merits to more companies, it receives an added thrust from demographics. With about 31 million people age 65 or older, there are more of them than teen-agers. We haven't seen anything yet.

By the year 2050, says Sanders

Korenman, head of the Center for Population Analysis at the University of Minnesota, the total will explode to 79 million. The baby boom, as experienced, leads inevitably to the first senior boom.

And to problems and opportunities.

Discussions at the March 17 meeting resulted in agreement that the "ultimatum of retirement" is an obsolete experiment in social engineering, especially as life expectancy rises - and it has, by 28 years since 1900.

Retirement today, they declared, is NOT a natural part of the human life cycle, a notion reinforced by Dr. Lydia Bronte, author of "The Longevity Factor," who told them a second middle age begins at about age 50.

Do you or a loved one have a history of any of these medical conditions that can increase your risk of congestive heart failure?

- Heart attack
- Disease of the heart valves
- Heart inflammation or damage caused by infections
- Long-standing high blood pressure

Do you or a loved one have any of these signs or symptoms of congestive heart failure?

- Shortness of breath when exercising or doing activities that used to be no problem
- Tiring easily or feeling fatigued when exercising or doing activities that used to be no problem
- Swelling of feet and ankles (more than just the normal swelling that occurs at the end of the day)

Having any of these symptoms does not necessarily mean that you have congestive heart failure. But it's important to discuss your situation with your doctor, particularly if you are at increased risk because of one of the medical conditions you checked above.

SOCIAL SECURITY Byron Sansom

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q: I'm a divorced woman, age 62, and plan to apply for Social Security benefits. My ex-husband has remarried and has young children. Can I get any benefits on his Social Security record?

A: Yes, if you are age 62, unmarried, and were married at least 10 years to your ex-husband, you may be eligible for benefits on his record. The benefits you receive will not affect any benefits that may be payable to his current family. If your former husband is not yet receiving Social Security (but is old enough to), you must have been divorced for a least two years to qualify for benefits on his record.

Q: I sell vacuum cleaners part-time. I understand that I don't have to pay Social Security tax on this income since I have another part-time job where money is taken out of my check for Social Security taxes. Is this correct?

A: No. If you earn $400 or more in self-employment income, such as selling vacuum cleaners, you must pay Social Security tax on those earnings. This is true regardless of the fact that you have a wage job where Social Security tax is withheld. The Social Security tax on your self-employment earnings is paid with your income tax return. Contact the Internal Revenue Service for more information.

Q: My doctor wants to schedule me for surgery next month, but I've read where conditions like mine sometimes don't require surgery. Will Medicare pay if I make an appointment with another physician to discuss my illness?

A: Medicare medical insurance (Part B) will help pay for a second opinion just as it pays for other doctors' services. Ask your doctor to refer you to another doctor in the area of specialization for which you desire the second opinion. You also can call Medicare's Second Opinion Referral Center at 1-800-638-6833.

Q: I understand that my benefits will be figured on my last five years of earnings. Why is this?

A: This is not true. Retirement payments are calculated on earnings during your lifetime of work under Social Security. Years of high earnings will increase the amount of the payment.

Q: I sometimes need to get information from Social Security, and I find it impossible to get to the Amarillo office. If I want to talk with a Social Security representative, what alternatives do I have?

A: The local office is open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m., Monday - Friday except for national holidays. Our telephone number is 806-376-2241. We handle up to 500 phone calls a day so often the phone is busy. You also can use the toll-free number from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., you can use Monday through Friday. If you have a touchtone phone, you can use the toll-free number 24 hours per day, 7 days a week. When live service is not available, you can leave a message regarding your needs. If you do so, you will be contacted later by a Social Security representative, by phone or by mail remember too that a Social Security representative is in Hereford at the courthouse on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday of each month, from 9:15 a.m. until noon.

If you wish to have your questions answered in this column, please write to Byron Sansom, district Manager, Senior Scene, Social Security Administration, 3501 W. 45th, Suite E., Amarillo, Texas 79106.

We never really feel older than other people but only different, to our advantage or disadvantage, in some particular; whereas we always do feel definitely younger than other people.

Introducing Beltone's new hidden hearing aid

Beltone has developed an exciting new hearing aid called Invisa (pronounced In-vee-za). Now all the joy of better hearing comes in the tiniest aid Beltone makes.

We call Invisa our "hidden hearing aid" because its incredibly small size allows it to hide deeply, yet comfortably inside your ear canal. Out of sight and out of mind.

Of course, the Invisa hearing aid is not appropriate for everyone. The benefits of hearing aids vary by type and degree of hearing loss, noise environment, accuracy of hearing evaluation and proper fit. That's why we feel that a personal evaluation is necessary to determine if the Invisa is right for you.

CAPITOL COMMENT

U.S. SENATOR
KAY BAILEY HUTCHISON

Product Liability Law In Need of Major Overhaul

As anyone who's ever been on the wrong end of a lawsuit will tell you, our system of product liability law is slow, unpredictable and quite often inequitable.

Just ask Pete Van de Putte at the Dixie Flag Co. in San Antonio. His manufacturing firm was sued by an automobile dealership because, as an employee was taking down the dealership flag, the flag was caught by a sudden breeze and injured the employee. Van de Putte was sued for not having put a warning label on the flag.

The courts have greatly expanded the scope of product liability law, and the number of cases has ballooned, clogging the court system. In the federal courts alone, these cases have increased by more than 250 percent over the last eight years.

As a result, individuals who deserve compensation for legitimate claims experience seemingly interminable delays. Currently, more than 60 percent of the most severely injured claimants wait more than three years for payment.

This system imposes enormous costs which hurt our ability to create new jobs. In Texas alone, the current liability system costs the state more than $89 billion a year. In 1988, it impeded job creation to the tune of 79,000 jobs according to a study conducted by Baylor University.

The Texas Legislature has begun to work on tort reform at the state level, but businesses still face a maze of liability laws that differ from state to state. The costs imposed by such an uncertain system hinder manufacturing and reduce our ability to compete globally.

Liability costs in the United States are 15 times greater than in Japan, and 20 times greater than in Europe.

I believe the legislation proposed in Congress this year represents a balanced approach to product liability reform which will provide predictability for manufacturers and claimants. It will go a long way toward breaking the gridlock in our courts while providing swifter compensation to victims.

It will punish negligent manufacturers while protecting those who are not. It will enhance product innovation and boost American competitiveness.

This legislation would provide a uniform definition of product liability designed to discourage unreasonably excessive awards. And the bill would set individual manufacturers' liability for defective products based on their actual responsibility — not on the relative depth of their pockets.

We can and should enact product liability reform. It is my firm conviction that product liability lawsuits are the only equitable means for allocating responsibility for harm caused by unsafe products. This bill, I believe, would make our tort system swifter, fairer and far more predictable.

Studies show most adults anxious about loneliness, health problems

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Old age, like beauty, may lie largely in the eye of the beholder.

Three new studies conducted by the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) looked at how aging is perceived by three groups in the population—elementary school children, teenagers, and adults 18 and older. Together, they provide new information on general attitudes, beliefs, and images of older persons and aging in our society.

The AARP studies found that the image of aging held by most adult Americans tends to exaggerate the health problems, loneliness, and financial difficulties of older persons. Those who reported serious problems themselves tended more often than others to project these problems onto older persons and to their own anticipated old age in general.

The studies sought to determine what perceptions and stereotypes Americans have about older people, the types of anxieties they hold about the aging experience, the extent to which there is intergenerational conflict between older and younger Americans, and whether beliefs about older persons and aging have changed in the past 20 years.

The study of children's attitudes about aging sampled 423 six to eleven-year-olds from two radically and socio-economically diverse elementary schools. They were asked to draw a picture of a young person and an older person and then were interviewed by researchers about how they view older adults.

The adults' study is based on findings from a national telephone survey of a random sample of 1,200 adults 18 and older. Some of the questions asked of the adult population were also asked of 500 12 to 17-year-olds in a separate survey.

Two earlier nationwide samples of adults by the National Council on Aging in 1974 and 1981 provided a benchmark against which some of the data from AARP surveys were compared.

Americans appear to be somewhat, although not seriously, anxious about aging. Anxieties, like stereotypes and perceptions of serious problems for older persons, were related to life experiences such as poor health, financial difficulties, or not enough to do to keep busy.

The studies showed strikingly little evidence of intergenerational conflict. Younger adults, those under 65, were often more tolerant in their social and political attitudes toward older people than older people themselves were toward their own age group. Teenagers who have contact with older individuals at least a few times a month were more likely to report the time spent as enjoyable than teens who have less contact with older people.

Teenagers also tend to overestimate the range and severity of problems for older people, especially regarding health issues.

Children who drew older persons they knew, such as a grandparent or neighbor, were more likely to portray the older person in positive ways. Children with generalized drawings of older persons they did not know were more likely to portray older adults in negative stereotypes.

The children's study also found that older children were consistently more negative than younger children and boys more negative than girls in their attitude about aging.

AARP will use the results of these three studies to expand its education, advocacy, and programs designed to maintain good health, financial security, and political participation to enhance the aging process and help dispel negative stereotypes about the images of aging.

Only eight people attended Karl Marx' funeral.

Nutrition Notes

BY CHARLOTTE R. CLARK
MS RRD/LD

How to reduce Cholesterol and your chances of having a heart attack.

1. A low-fat, low cholesterol diet

Limit fatty meats, serve lean cuts of meat, fish, skinless chicken, and legumes.

Cook with little or no fats by broiling, baking, stir frying, or steaming food.

Plan menus around grains, vegetables, and fruits, use meat as a compliment to those items. Pasta and rice are often used as main element.

Limit eggs yolks to a maximum of three per week. Eat cereals, fruit juices, or pancakes. Use two egg whites instead of one whole egg when you're cooking.

2. Think High fiber-low fat diet

Fiber helps eliminate cholesterol from the system.

Fiber helps control your weight by making you feel fuller for longer periods of time.

Fiber satisfies your hunger better than sweet or salty snacks.

High fiber foods include whole-wheat bread, whole-grain pasta, bran (particularly oat bran), peas, beans, fresh vegetables and citrus fruits.

The fats you eat fall into three categories: saturated, polyunsaturated, and monounsaturated.

SATURATED FATS: include oils from animal products and are solid at room temperature. Meat fat, butter, cream, and shortening are all examples of saturated fats, which raise blood cholesterol, increasing your risk of heart disease.

POLYUNSATURATED FATS: Include oils from vegetable products and are liquid at room temperature. Safflower oil, sunflower oil, and corn oil are all examples of polyunsaturated fats. Although they help remove cholesterol from your body, they should be used in moderation.

MONOUNSATURATED FATS: include oils from other vegetable products that are liquid at room temperature. Olive oil, peanut oil, and canola oil are all examples of these fats. Use them in moderation as substitutes for saturated fats, to help lower blood cholesterol.

Finally it is most important that you exercise for a healthy heart. Exercise can help you lose pounds and maintain your ideal weight, as well as improve your overall fitness and quality of life. A balanced exercise program takes about 30-60 minutes, three to five times per week. The frequency of exercise is important because the body continues to burn calories for a period after exercise stops. Thus, the more often you exercise, the more calories you'll burn. Walking, running, cycling, and swimming are all exercises. remember before you start an exercise program, check with your doctor first.

Choose a sport you enjoy:
*Walking is good if you're new to exercise, overweight, older, or simply enjoy it.

*Running can cause knee and other joint problems, but is enjoyable for those already in good condition.

*Medium and low-impact aerobic dancing is good if you like music and a class setting.

*Cycling is good if you like to explore, or are overweight (the bike supports your weight).

*Swimming is good if you have back or knee troubles.

Maintain your ideal body weight, being obese or overweight is more than a problem of appearance, it is a danger signal of heart and health risks. Your health is on the line when you carry too much weight. TAKE CARE OF YOUR HEART AND YOUR HEALTH.

Nutrition and food make the news everyday! Many reports offer information and advice to help you make smart food choices. Just what should you eat for good health? there's plenty of good news about eating. Information that's easy to follow, too!

A healthful diet has three common-sense qualities: variety, moderation, and balance. No matter what headlines make the news, nutrition advice remains the same for healthy people. Eat a wide variety of foods within the groups of the Food Guide Pyramid. For balance, choose enough daily servings from each food group. And go easy on fats, oils, and sweets.

Individuals that are not on special diets or restrictions can eat what you like in moderation, any food can fit in an eating pattern that promotes your good health. There are no "good" or "bad" foods, meals or snacks, just GOOD AND BAD DIETS. A variety of nutrient-rich foods fit into the five food groups. That's good news! Eat primarily foods in each group with less fat, sugar, and sodium.

In April and May we will continue about the Good News About Food and also discuss Reducing the Fat in Baked Goods.

Indian Pudding

- |                            |                              |
|----------------------------|------------------------------|
| 2 cups skim milk           | 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon |
| 1/4 cup cornmeal           | 1/4 cup molasses             |
| 1/4 cup sugar              | 1 cup cold skim milk         |
| 1/4 teaspoon baking soda   | Nutmeg                       |
| 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger |                              |

Preheat oven to 275°F.

Heat 2 cups skim milk in a double boiler or a medium saucepan over low heat. Add cornmeal, stirring constantly. Cook 15 minutes, or until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Set aside.

In a bowl, combine sugar, soda, and spices. Stir to mix well. Add to cornmeal mixture and stir. Add molasses and 1 cup cold milk. Stir to mix thoroughly. Pour into a 1-quart casserole and bake 2 hours.

Serve warm with a light sprinkling of nutmeg. Serves 8

Social Security

If you're age 60 or older and not yet receiving Social Security benefits, you can expect to get a statement sometime in 1995 telling you about how much you could receive in benefits. In February 1995, the Social Security Administration (SSA) began mailing a Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement (PEBES) to everyone who is age 60 or older, has earnings credited to his or her Social Security number, and is not currently receiving Social Security benefits.

The initial mailings to an estimated nine million people will continue through September. Beginning in October 1995, and each year thereafter, statements will be sent to people who reach age 60 during the year. Toward the end of the century, Social Security expects to send the statements each year to everyone who is age 25 or older . . . an estimated 123 million people.

These SSA-initiated mailings are required by law. Their purpose is to help workers make sure their earnings are correctly reported. These reported earnings are used to calculate a person's future Social Security benefits. That makes the estimate statement a valuable financial planning tool. The statement shows the taxable earnings reported by the employer(s) and the estimated Social Security taxes paid. The estimates are based on the person's date of birth and earnings reported for work in jobs covered under Social Security.

The Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement shows the retirement benefit amount workers under age 62 can anticipate at ages 62, 65, and 70. For older workers, the estimates are based on the person's current age. If, for example, you're 63, your statement will show the estimated benefits for your current age and you can receive an estimate for both your current age and for age 70. The statement also includes estimates of benefits that may be paid should the worker become disabled or die before retirement.

While your PEBES doesn't guarantee you an exact amount of benefits (that will be determined when you apply for benefits), it will provide an estimate to help you plan your financial future.

After you read the statement, you don't need to do anything unless you believe the earnings information is incorrect. If the error involves recent earnings at your current job, contact your employer. If your statement shows any other incorrect earnings, report the discrepancy to Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213. When you call, be sure to have your records of the correct earnings handy—such as W-2s, pay stubs and tax returns. You also should call the toll-free number to report an incorrect name or Social Security number on the statement.

If, after you receive your statement, you decide to apply for retirement or disability benefits, call the same toll-free number to arrange an appointment to speak with a Social Security representative.

You can speak with a representative between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. on business days. The lines are busiest early in the week and early in the month, so it's best to call at other times.

SSA will use addresses furnished by the Internal Revenue Service to mail the PEBES. If you're 60 or older, not receiving Social Security benefits, and don't receive a statement by September 30, 1995, call the toll-free number (anytime, including weekends and holidays) and ask for a Form SSA-7004. (Request for Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement).

Help Your Heart

Estrogen Therapy Protects Older Women

Doctors once believed that women were virtually immune from heart and blood vessel diseases. That's because men were more likely to have high blood pressure, heart attacks, strokes and other heart-related diseases.

The American Heart Association says that more than half of those who die from heart and blood vessel diseases are women. Even women who survive are usually sicker and recover more slowly.

Why the earlier misconceptions? First of all, women lag about 10-13 years behind men in the incidence of heart attacks, strokes and other forms of cardiovascular diseases. Also, the number of post-menopausal women is growing. As life expectancy for women rises, so does their risk and incidence of heart disease.

What happens in middle age that erodes the protection women have against heart disease?

Middle age means menopause to women. That's when estrogen protection begins to shut down. Estrogen is a sex hormone made in the ovaries. As the supply of estrogen diminishes, many women encounter hot flashes; night sweats; dry, almost brittle skin; decreased vaginal secretions; and loss of bone mass, or osteoporosis.

Medical benefits topic of program

The Texas Medical Foundation and Hereford Senior Citizens will present a program entitled "What Every Medicare Patient Should Know" at the Senior Citizens Center on March 28 from 1:15-2:45 p.m.

The program is designed to help individuals become informed health care consumers before needing to use their medical benefits.

The topics that will be discussed are safeguards assuring quality medical care for Medicare patients, Medicare coverage and claims, and eligibility/enrollment for other medical benefits assistance programs. The meeting is open to the public.

Algebra is so-called from the Arabic word meaning "reduction."

But something else happens. As women age their blood cholesterol profiles often change. The level of HDL, the cholesterol that protects against heart disease, drops. Levels of LDL, the "bad" cholesterol, increase.

This shift may be linked to the gradual loss of estrogen. It also may explain the higher incidence of coronary heart disease that occurs when the arterial wall thickens and diminishes blood flow.

Doctors have long prescribed estrogen, both alone and with other hormones, to ease menopause symptoms. New evidence points to greater benefits from the therapy for many women.

Estrogen use may lessen the risk of arterial wall thickening by lowering the level of LDL cholesterol, which is linked to hardening and thickening of the arteries. Estrogen also may protect women's hearts as a natural "clot buster" while helping to lower cholesterol levels.

But estrogen may not be best for every post-menopausal woman. Ask your doctor about the possible risks to such therapy.

Estrogen replacement is also no substitute for a healthy lifestyle in preventing a heart attack or stroke. Women should avoid smoking, eat a balanced, low-saturated-fat diet, and maintain a moderate level of physical activity to help control weight.

For more information contact your local American Heart Association or call 1-800-AHA-USA1 (1-800-242-8721).

To Your Good Health

DEAR DR. D: Can you tell me about pyloric stenosis? Both my sons had it as babies, and each had surgery for it. Is it genetic? If we have another baby, will it have the stomach muscle problem? Will their children have it? What are the odds? — Mrs. M.F.

ANSWER: The normally functioning pylorus muscle guards the gateway between the stomach and small intestine. In pyloric stenosis, the muscle enlarges, causing a narrowing and obstruction.

It is a common problem among infants.

Early on, the infant with the problem might appear healthy. But within a few weeks, it begins a pronounced spitting up after feedings, often with forceful stream — projectile vomiting.

The condition demands immediate action; early recognition is important in order to avoid severe dehydration.

Corrective surgery relaxes the muscle, permitting resumption of normal passage. A relatively simple procedure, it has enjoyed good success.

Pyloric stenosis occurs in one in 150 male babies and one in 750 females. We cannot explain that gender bias, nor say whether inheritance is involved. Pyloric stenosis has been known to run in families, though, with firstborns more likely to have it.

I can't say how unusual it is to have two babies consecutively with the problem or the odds of your next baby having it. Take consolation from the fact that you at least are well-alerted to its signs and know what action to take should it appear.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My question is critical. Is it possible for a young man in his 30s to have damaged his pancreas and liver enough, through many years of drug and alcohol abuse, to cause diabetes? This person takes insulin shots and is continuing the abuse. Please warn him in your column. His doctor says nothing. — F.E.

ANSWER: Abuse of alcohol and illegal drugs can cause pancreas damage. The attendant pancreatitis can rapidly destroy vital insulin-producing cells in that organ, leading to diabetes.

It is also possible for such abuses to damage the liver. That doesn't cause diabetes, but it can lead to a number of other complications. You need liver health for processing food, and scarring of its tissue — cirrhosis — cannot but hinder such functions.

Your friend has taken a path skirting self-destruction, or at least premature death. I cannot imagine a physician knowing of such destructive behavior not sounding some warning.

For more on diabetes, see the Health Letter report I'm sending you. Others can order a copy by writing: Dr. Donohue — SR89, Box 5539, Riverton, NJ 08077-5539. Enclose $3 and a self-addressed, stamped (55 cents) No. 10 envelope.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Could you please give me the name of the medicine they are now using to help people with psoriasis. I have been under a doctor's care for years, receiving light treatments. The medicine supposedly contains vitamin D. It comes in ointment form. My doctor is not familiar with it. — Mrs. L.H.

ANSWER: I wrote about that medicine a short time ago, but have had so many questions about it, I will repeat the information. The medicine is Dovonex — calcipotriene. It is a synthetic cousin of vitamin D. It is a prescription item that comes in ointment form for application to psoriatic skin.

No doubt of it, it is a good medicine, although no miracle cure. Do not pin all your hopes on any single psoriasis treatment.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What can you tell me about the painful condition called proctalgia fugax. I am 70 years old and have suffered from this for most of my life. In recent years, it has flared up less frequently, but just when I think it has gone, there it is, out of the blue. — M.L.

ANSWER: Proctalgia fugax is severe rectal pain. The pain lasts anywhere from a few seconds to a half-hour or so. It comes on suddenly and leaves just as quickly and mysteriously.

We speculate that proctalgia fugax is centered on spasms of the rectal sphincter muscles.

Various remedies have been tried. Sometimes, simply using the hand to exert upward pressure directly over the rectal pain area will relieve it. Sitting in a tub of warm water might help. Occasionally, the kind of nitrate medicines used by angina patients can be beneficial; check that idea with your doctor.

Trachta finds success with B&B and Agency

BY CANDACE HAVENS

For his birthday last year Jeff Trachta (Thorne, The Bold and the Beautiful) walked on stage in front of 10,000 screaming fans and sang his heart out. It was an experience he says he will never forget.

"Some of the cast were in Amsterdam doing concerts, and it was amazing to see all these fans in one place," Trachta says.

Music is a big part of B&B, and fans in Europe and America love it. Albums by the show's stars have gone platinum in Europe. B&B is also the No. 2 syndicated show in the world.

"I think it is the glamour of the show that attracts the European fans," the actor says. "The allure of the fashion industry, the rich Forresters and Ronn Moss' (Ridge, B&B) cheekbones are what attract them."

Trachta is known for his wonderful sense of humor and zest for life. "People who have known me for a while have a hard time believing that I can play a straight character like Thorne."

Trachta's view of life led him to write Agency, a one-man play that has brought the actor a great deal of success. In December he finished eight months of sold-out performances, and he returned to the stage in February.

"Agency has been a great gift for me. I play 24 different characters, and the show has received great reviews. The second night I did the show, Robin Williams' agent came to see it, and he signed me as a client. Now he is working to put together a sitcom deal for me."

When Trachta needs to get away from the hustle and bustle, he heads for Yosemite or Big Bear to do some hiking and mountain climbing.

"Life is a quick experience, and while you are here you should do everything you want to do," Trachta says. "If you make work your entire life, when you don't have the work, you don't have a life."

Trachta also has been renovating his home and doing much of the work himself.

Paul Newman (Nobody's Fool) received a special Academy Award in 1985 and the best actor statuette in 1986 (The Color of Money).

TRIVIA

Before her screen debut in Napoleon and Samantha, Jodie Foster appeared on TV's My Three Sons and The Courtship of Eddie's Father.

Marlon Brando won an Emmy playing American Nazi leader George Lincoln Rockwell in 1977's "Roots: The Next Generation."

TRIVIA

Quoth two-time Oscar nominee Susan Sarandon, "It's not difficult to be successful. But it is difficult to remain human."

TRIVIA

Tom Hanks played Luther Billis in a high-school production of South Pacific in March 1974; 20 years later he won an Oscar for Philadelphia.

TRIVIA QUIZ

Unlikely link to classic; one for Oscar buffs

BY STEVEN ALAN MCGAW

Questions:

1. 1979's "10," starring Dudley Moore and Bo Derek, spurred interest in a particular work of classical music. Name the composer and the piece.
2. Identify the movie in which Cliff Robertson made his film debut.
3. OK, Oscar buffs, a British film won the Best Picture trophy in 1969. It wasn't until 1981 that another work from Great Britain took the honor again. Name both pictures.
4. Quick! What are the last two lines in "Harper"?
5. Identify the 1966 movie set at the St. Francis Academy. (Hint: It's not "Those Pesky Cherubs," or "Shut Up, You Scraphim!")
6. Name James Stewart's character in

"Vertigo."

7. Ritchie Valens' only screen appearance was in what movie?

- Answers:
1. Ravel's "Bolero."
  2. "Picnic."
  3. "Oliver!" took the prize in '69.
  4. The line, spoken twice, is, "Aw, 'Charlies of Fire' was champ in '81."
  5. "The Trouble With Angels."
  6. John "Scottie" Feguson.
  7. Valens is seen, along with Chuck Berry, Jackie Wilson and Eddie Cochran, in 1958's "Go, Johnny, Go!"

Actress Olivia Newton-John Goes Down Under To Guest Star On FAM's 'Snowy River: The McGregor Saga'

Former "Grease" star Olivia Newton-John saddles up for the Australian backout to find her missing father in April episodes of The Family Channel's "Snowy River: The McGregor Saga." Newton-John as Joanna Walker is introduced to Paterson's Ridge when she visits Matt McGregor's (Andrew Clarke) ranch, Langara, for information about her father in an episode titled, "Servant of the People," airing April 15 at 5 and 9 P.M. and April 16 at 5 P.M.

And the search is on - when Joanna explores a lead she received from an ad in the Paterson Chronicle. Guided by the hunter, Walker journeys on to the high country to investigate the last sighting of her father. However, when Walker gets too close to the truth, she becomes the prey in a dangerous game of coverup that ends in the tragic discover of her father's violent murder, and that a half brother survives. "The Search" airs April 22 at 5 and 9 P.M. and April 23 at 5 P.M.

This latest information leads Joanna on a new quest in "The Lost Child," airing April 29 at 5 P.M. and April 30 at 5 P.M. A chance identification by a Paterson's Ridge blacksmith directs Joanna to a crazy prospector named Everett, who tells her of her brother's whereabouts. And it doesn't look good for her brother, Tommy, who was given away to an abusive miner. By the episode's end, happiness prevails when Kathleen (Wendy Hughes) and Joanna rescue Tommy and the siblings are reunited as a family.

"Snowy River: The McGregor Saga" airs regularly Sundays at 5 and 9 P.M. and the following Saturday at 5 P.M. The series is executive produced by "The Waltons" creator Earl Hamner Jr. and Don Spies. "Snowy River:

The McGregor Saga" is based on the ballad, "The Man From Snowy River," by A.B. "Banjo" Paterson.

It was developed independently and is not sponsored by or associated with other dramatic works inspired by the ballad "The an From Snowy River."

***** Writer picks Oscar winners

EDITOR'S NOTE - Bob Thomas, who has covered the Hollywood scene for half a century, offers his annual handicapping of the Oscar races.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - A glance at the probabilities and possibilities in the race for the winners of the 67th Academy Awards:

PICTURE: The contention is clearly between "Forrest Gump" and "Pulp Fiction." The conservative Academy voters are likely to favor the more conventional entertainment, rather than the harsh reality of the underworld. Best bet: "Forrest Gump."

ACTOR: The same kind of contest: the lovable Tom Hanks of "Forrest Gump" vs. the vicious John Travolta of "Pulp Fiction." Best bet: Tom Hanks.

ACTRESS: Jodie Foster was much praised for "Nell," but Jessica Lange has drawn more attention for long-delayed "Blue Sky." Best bet: Jessica Lange.

SUPPORTING ACTOR: Samuel L. Jackson, who could have been nominated as lead actor, gave a memorable performance in "Pulp Fiction," but Martin Landau's Bela Lugosi in "Ed Wood" was classic. Best bet: Martin Landau.

SUPPORTING ACTRESS: Uma Thurman gave a strong performance in "Pulp Fiction," but Dianne Wiest's flamboyant actress in "Bullets Over Broadway" was unforgettable. Best bet: Dianne Wiest.

DIRECTOR: Presuming a "Forrest Gump" sweep - Best bet: Robert Zemeckis, "Forrest Gump."

THE MEDALIST A Great Broom From Any Angle!

No matter how you look at it, The MEDALIST push broom will last up to 10 times longer than ordinary brooms. We're so sure of this that we guarantee our broom for 5 full years. The steel and wood construction adds extra strength where it's needed, for safety and to avoid breakage.

STEEL AND WOOD HANDLE for added strength and safety.
ADJUSTABLE HANDLE SOCKET for easy reversal and variable height angles.
STEEL BOLT AND NUT prevents threads from stripping.
STEEL BACK brush block prevents warping, cracking, and splitting.
POLYPROPYLENE BRISTLES last for longer than natural fibers and sweep better.
