CRMWA to move forward on new well field

By David Bowser
The Pampa News

WHITE DEER -- After an extended discussion and several votes by the Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District board, the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority can now move forward with its plans to develop a new well field in Roberts County.

CRMWA officials appeared before the water district board of directors here Wednesday to ask for a variance concerning the siting of one of their wells in a well field expansion plan in Roberts County. They had a test well that indicated a flow of 4,600 gallons per minute. The problem was that the well was in a section that was already permitted for another well, and Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District rules allow only one high volume well, 2,880 gallons per minute, per section.

Kent Satterwhite, general manager of CRMWA, offered to delete two adjoining sections from CRMWA's water district permit in order to drill a producing well in the same section as another high volume well.

The problem, said

Search leads to meth arrest

By Marilyn Powers
The Pampa News

Hiding in a clothes-filled clothing dryer didn't keep one wanted Pampa man from being found and arrested by Gray County sheriff's deputies Tuesday night.

The search for the suspect began when deputies followed up on information that a person who was wanted on felony warrants was at a residence at 8148 County Road 9. They went to the residence at about 9 p.m. Tuesday to serve the two warrants, but no one answered the door, said GCSO Lt. Joe B. Hoard.

"They walked around the house and looked through an uncovered window," Hoard said. "Through the window, they saw several items they were able to identify as being used in the clandestine manufacture of methamphetamine."

The property owner, who was out of town at the time of the incident, was contacted by telephone and gave consent to the deputies to search the residence.

"Once inside, they searched the house but did not find the wanted subject until they looked in the clothes dryer," Hoard said. The dryer contained clothing as well as Jessie Richard

'Cookin' on the Bricks' BBQ cook-off winners announced

The charcoal is out, the smoke has cleared and the winners have been announced in the first annual "Cookin' on the Bricks" barbeque competition sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and held last weekend as part of the "Burning the Bricks" events.

"It was a huge success for our first year," said John Wagner, who helped to organize the event. "It gave our Chamber of Commerce an avenue to engage with the public and the food was excellent."

First place winners in the "Individual' catergory of the competition were: Brisket - Mark Mongomery (Loco Clearveza), Chicken - Roy Lott (Wing-N-It), Pork Ribs - Hal West (Smokin' It), and Pork - Hal West (Smokin' It).

First place teams in the "Business" category were: Brisket - Budweiser, Chicken - Bud Light, Pork Ribs - Bud Light, and Pork - Budweiser.

First place teams in the "Professional" category were: Brisket - Rustlers Too, Chicken - Boudroux's Hogwild BBQ, Pork Ribs - Rustler's Too, and Pork - Rustlers Too.

Winners of this years competition received certicates and "braggin' rights" and some of the contestants raised money for good causes through the sale of the food. Among the organizations who received donations from this event were Odyssey Healthcare, Pampa Meals on Wheels, Make A Wish Foundation, Junior Diabetes Foundation and Genesis House, Inc.

Obituaries

Alice Tabor Warner

Alice Tabor Warner of Pampa died Wednesday, June 18, 2008, in Pampa. Services are pending with Carmichael-Whatley Funeral Directors.

Mrs. Warner was born March 20, 1914, in Chillicothe, Texas, to Horace and Josephine Tabor. She attended the University of Texas at Austin where she was a member of the Curtain Club, and she graduated from Oklahoma A&M.

She married Eben D. Warner, Jr. on Oct. 23, 1937, in Arkadelphia, Ark. He preceded her in death on June 27, 2002, and they were married for 63 years at the time of his death.

She was a member of First United Methodist Church, United Methodist Women, Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority, and was a life member of the Pampa Fine Arts Association.

Warner

Alice was known for her gracious entertaining and fine cooking. She was generous to her family and friends. She loved to travel, play bridge, and read.

Alice was preceded in death by her daughter, Thera Warner Scott, in 2003; and by two brothers and five sisters of the Tabor family.

Survivors include two sons, Eben D. Warner, III and wife Ludie of Odessa, and Mark Tabor Warner and wife Cay of Pampa; four grandsons, Lee, Tol, Theron, and Matt Scott; four granddaughters, Morgan Fuller, Allison Warner, Rebekah Elliott and Mary Alice Warner; six great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

The family appreciates the many years of service given to Alice by Olivia Pena and by the caregivers at the Peggy Miller Home.

MEMORIALS: First United Methodist Church, P.O. Box 1981, Pampa, TX 79066-1981, or Lovett Memorial Library, 111 N. Houston, Pampa, TX 79065.

Call me camera shy for a reason

Skyla Bryant
City Editor

Earlier this week, the Associated Press ran an article on the price of gasoline across the border. It now appears the best place to vacation this summer could be Mexico. At the time the article was written, the AP reported that gas was $2.54 in Tijuana, perhaps less if paid in Mexican currency.

I must confess, I have never been to Mexico. I am now discouraged from EVER visiting said country since any travel beyond our borders requires a passport. Ugh, I have plenty and enough of bad photo IDs (several past driver's licenses and university ID cards) to want to pay my hard-earned cash for another horrid snap-job to add to my already bulging wallet.

There is a reason cameras shy away from me and I shy away from them – to spare each other pain. We are incompatible, and, really, I don't believe this viewpoint is a figment of mere vanity, either.

I've actually had people tell me my photographs do not, er, "do me justice." Let me paraphrase exactly what that means: It means that though I am far from a raving beauty on any given day, my photographs look consistently like I landed face-first in a Dumpster and crawled out backwards.

I am average in living color, but captured on film I could give Dracula, and I do mean Count, a run for his money.

Ah, and here we are back at the subject of money. (Oh, how I do ramble.) Money is almost as sore a subject with me as cameras. It is a dandy fine thing that the prospect of a passport portrait fills me with revulsion. Otherwise, I would no doubt be tempted to toil across the border where I hear good bargains exist on practically every corner.

Hmm, I'm curious. Do you think I could get a good deal in Mexico on a digital camera?

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, June 19, the 171st day of 2008. There are 195 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

'One has two duties — to be worried and not to be worried.'

— E.M. Forster
British author
(1879-1970)

On June 19, 1865, Union troops commanded by Maj. Gen. Gordon Granger arrived in Galveston, Texas, with news that the Civil War was over, and that all remaining slaves in Texas were free. (This event is celebrated as "Juneteenth.")

On this date:

In 1862, slavery was outlawed in U.S. territories.

In 1910, Father's Day was celebrated for the first time, in Spokane, Wash.

In 1917, during World War I, King George V ordered the British royal family to dispense with German titles and surnames; the family took the name "Windsor."

In 1934, the Federal Communications Commission was created; it replaced the Federal Radio Commission.

In 1938, four dozen people were killed when a railroad bridge in Montana collapsed, sending a train known as the "Olympian" hurtling into Custer Creek.

In 1952, the celebrity-panel game show "I've Got A Secret" made its debut on CBS-TV with Garry Moore as host.

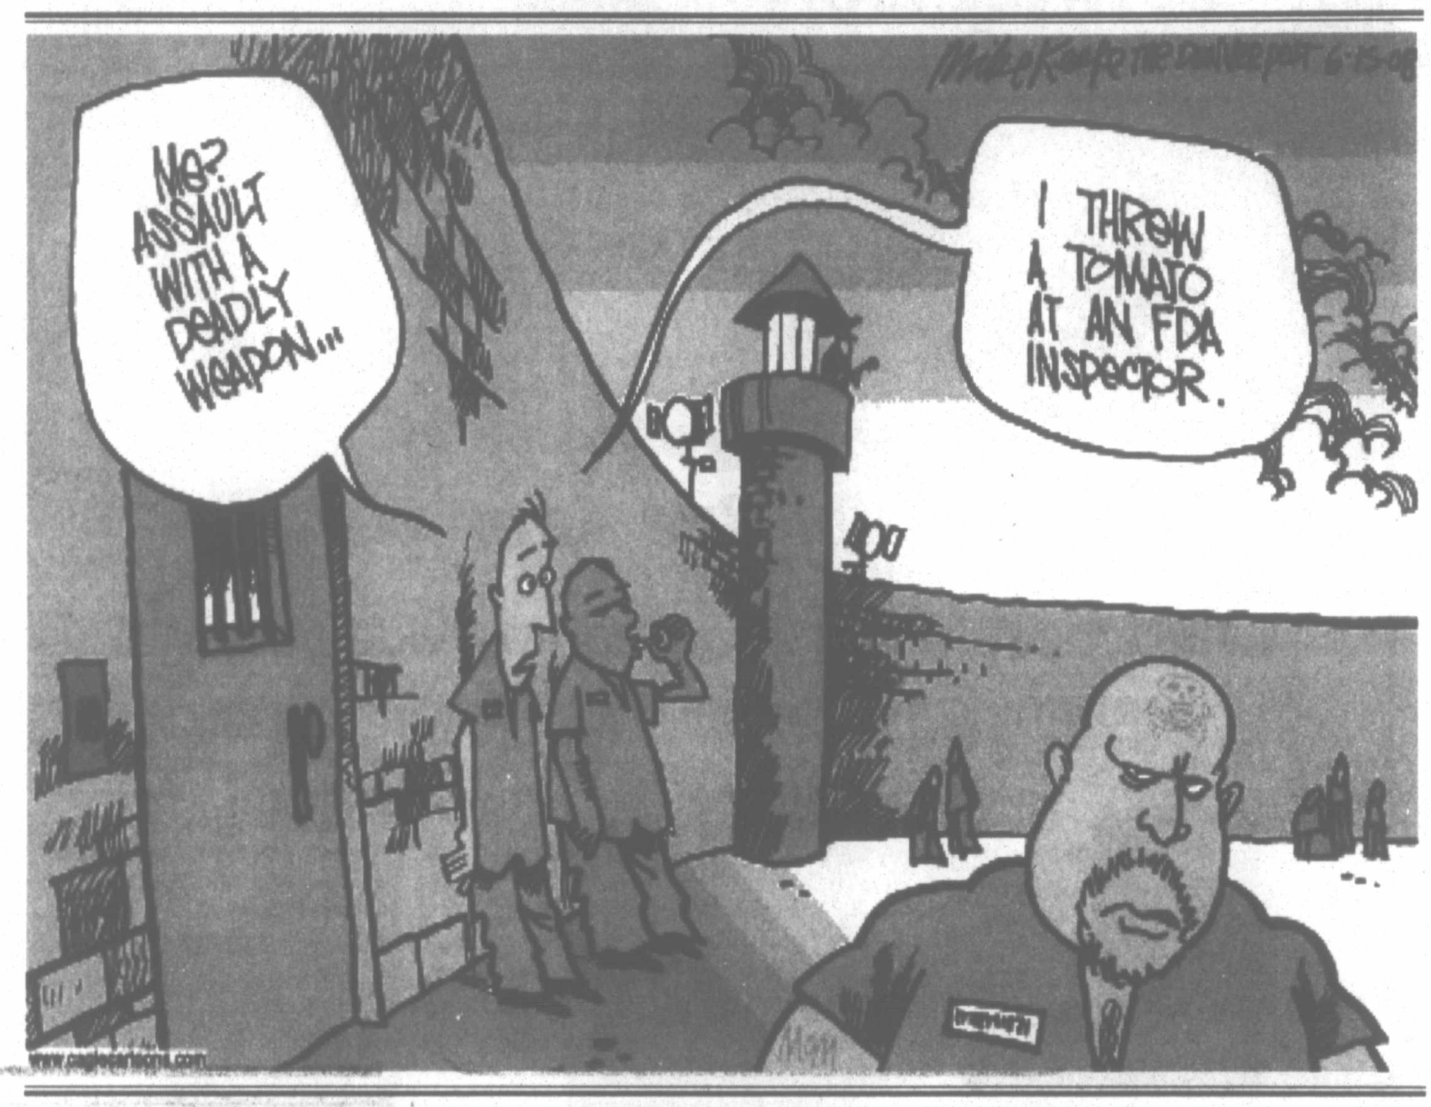
In 1953, Julius Rosenberg, 35, and his wife, Ethel, 37, convicted of conspiring to pass U.S. atomic secrets to the Soviet Union, were executed at Sing Sing Prison in Ossining, N.Y.

In 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1964 was approved by the Senate, 73-27, after surviving a lengthy filibuster.

In 1977, Pope Paul VI proclaimed a 19th-century Philadelphia bishop, John Neumann, the first male U.S. saint.

In 1986, University of Maryland basketball star Len Bias, the first draft pick of the Boston Celtics, suffered a fatal cocaine-induced seizure.

Ten years ago: Switzerland's three biggest banks offered $600 million to settle claims they'd stolen the assets of Holocaust victims; outraged Jewish leaders called the offer insultingly low. Pope John Paul II began his third visit to Austria. A study published in the British medical journal The Lancet said smoking more than doubles the risk of developing dementia and Alzheimer's disease.



Global warming: Where's the beef ?

Tom Purcell
Columnist

Bugs. They want us to eat bugs.

I speak of a recent article in Time that explains why eating bugs is good for the environment.

As it goes, bugs require "little room and few resources to grow." Bugs are cold-blooded invertebrates, you see. They are efficient. Much more of the grub they eat is converted into edible bug body parts than is the case with our friends the cows.

Cows are warm-blooded vertebrates. They need to consume lots more food just to keep their body temperature steady. Their food is grown on farms. Fossil fuels must be burned to harvest, process and transport it. Farming requires lots of land and water.

"It takes far less water to raise a third of a pound of grasshoppers than the staggering 869 gal. needed to produce the same amount of beef," reports Time.

True, but a hunk of steak is less likely to hop off your plate while you're trying to eat it.

Better yet, bugs are good for us. A 3.5 oz. portion of caterpillars contains 1 oz. of protein. That's more than you'd get in the same amount of chicken – assuming the caterpillars don't try to crawl out of you.

Water bugs have four times as much iron as beef. Of course, you need to be four times as drunk to consume them.

And bugs are tasty. People in other cultures have been enjoying them for years. We narrow-minded Americans wouldn't know that, though. We wouldn't know that chocolate and waxworm cookies are delicious (and I'm not making that one up).

If you find the concept of bug eating amusing – if you find it icky – you might want to think again. The way things are headed, you may be eating plenty of bugs soon.

Look, where global warming is concerned, I'm with syndicated columnist Charles Krauthammer – I'm a global warming agnostic. It can't be good that we're pumping so much CO2 into the environment – and it may be that our activity is having an effect on the climate.

On the other hand, it may be we're having little or no effect. Despite what many global-warming alarmists are saying, science doesn't know for certain. Science has two speeds: "proven as fact" and "not sure." Like it or not, the scientific theory that humans are causing the Earth to warm is still in the "not sure" camp.

Nonetheless, we're racing ahead in an anti-global-warming frenzy. Some global-warming advocates have turned the issue into a religion – the believers shall be exalted and the deniers shall be burned at the stake.

Many in the media – folks who are supposed to be skeptical about things – are as enamored of the "humans-are-destroying-the-Earth" story-line as they are of Barack Obama. They love to report doomsday scenarios that scare us to death.

Corporations have jumped on board. They don't want bad press for denying or contributing to warming, and the better-run corporations are exploiting the frenzy to make dough.

As more folks embrace a religious conviction that humans are the cause of global warming, the politicians are right with them. There aren't many votes in second-guessing the global warming gods. Both presi-

Fuel efficiency the problem

Dear Editor,

Our government has been investigating oil companies for six months for high prices of gas, but they are not all the problem.

The largest problem is automobile companies. They have been making cars forever and have never cared about auto fuel efficiency. How many autos are running up and down highways throughout the world?

Texas Thoughts

San Antonio Express-News on wind energy in Texas:

The Public Utility Commission this summer has the opportunity to continue the impressive growth of wind energy in Texas.

When the PUC makes a decision on the creation of Competitive Renewable Energy Zones, it should approve the plan that provides the maximum amount of transmission capacity from West Texas wind farms to more populated eastern portions of the state.

Critics emphasize that the wind doesn't always blow, but it blows enough to generate a significant amount of renewable, clean energy that will help Texas in the effort to reduce air pollution and provide enough electricity to accommodate the state's rapid growth.

In 2005, the Legislature passed Senate Bill 20 that launched the so-called CREZ process that will be finalized by the PUC, probably in July.

The commission is reviewing several plans for transmitting wind energy. The transmission costs, which could be as high as $6 billion, will be shared by utilities around the state.

A study released in December 2006 by the Energy Reliability Council of Texas found that the wind transmission network from West Texas was fully utilized. And the industry has grown since then.

Leaders of the Wind Coalition, an association of companies and public interest groups, have noted that reduction in fuel costs will outweigh the cost of transmission. Once wind systems are in place, there is no additional cost for fuel.

And while critics complain that Texas' remarkable wind growth has been spurred by incentives, the coalition points out that other energy sources receive subsidies as well.

A diverse energy portfolio is key to keeping costs as low as possible and preventing ratepayers from being victimized by volatile prices in generation sources such as natural gas.

Wind energy is a major success story in Texas, and the industry should be nurtured to foster continued growth in clean energy sources. New transmission lines are essential. URL: http://www.mysa.com

• The summer reading program at Lovett Memorial Library in Pampa is currently underway now through July 12. This year's theme is "Driven to Read." Participants will assemble a model race car to race on the last day of the program. For more information, call the library at 669-5780.

• "Cowboy Guns" will be the subject of a campsite talk at 7 p.m. June 21 at Copper Breaks State Park near Quanah. The program will be presented by volunteer David Singleton. Singleton, a Texas-native of Brazoria County, participated in the excavation of Fort Velasco. He will explore and demonstrate the technology of black powder single-shot weapons along with some early weapons of the industrial revolution such as the six-shooter, derringer, shotgun and repeating rifle. For more information, contact park headquarters at (940) 839-4331.

• Amarillo Botanical Gardens will conduct its "Music in the Gardens" featuring various musicians and vocal artists from 7:30-8:30 p.m. every Monday now through August. Gates will open at 7 p.m. Performances will last from 7:30-8:30 p.m. Visitors must provide their own lawn chairs, blankets and sunscreen. Admission will be $4 for adults, $3 for seniors and $2 for children 2-12. Children under 2 are free. Membership Card holders also get in free. For more information, call the gardens at (806) 352-6513. Summer hours for the gardens are 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, and 9 a.m.-5 p.m. week days.

• Pampa Girl Scout House, 720 E. Kingsmill, will be the site of a "Container Gardening Workshop" for girls between seventh and 12 grades and their mothers. The registration deadline is June 23. The workshop will be offered from 9 a.m-12 p.m. June 28. Participants will learn how to grow flowers, herbs and vegetables in fun, creative containers. The fee is $12.50 per person. Girl Scouts of Texas Oklahoma Plains is hosting the event. Participants may join the Girl Scouts for a $10 fee. Registration and fee must be turned into the Clarendon office (P.O. Box 729, Clarendon, TX 79226) by the 23rd. For a form or more information, call (806) 874-3372 or 1-800-687-8740.

And the do-gooders, who love to control what the rest of us do, believe they've finally landed an issue that will give them the power they seek – the power to make the rest of us sacrifice on a global scale to save Mother Earth.

The do-gooders are making tremendous headway. That's why I recommend you bone up on your cooking techniques.

You especially might want to master the use of garlic and butter and other spices and herbs that will effectively mask the taste of those crunchy critters we usually step on or swat.

You might want to invest in a good-quality blender, too ("bug-amole," anyone?). Because the global-warming frenzy is picking up intensity. And that means one thing.

Bugs. They want us to eat bugs.

Dear Patients,

After almost 30 years in Pampa, I have decided to limit my practice to office based procedures during certain days. I had to make this decision due to the fact that I will be joining the Amarillo V.A. Hospital as a General Surgeon starting July 2008.

I urge my patients who are desirous to obtain copies or request transfer of their records to contact the office as soon as possible at 669-3303.

I would like to use this opportunity to thank you for the trust and patronage over the years.

Sincerely,
Vijay Mohan M.D.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Not Ready to Kick the Butts in Kenosha" (April 13), the smoker asking how to respond to people who lectured him/her about quitting, had ME "smoking." "Not Ready" said it's none of their business. And, with reservations, you agreed. This is a common argument used by many addicts, whether their substance of choice is tobacco, alcohol, cocaine, heroin or food. Consider this: The "Not Readys" will turn 65 -- if they're lucky -- and go on Medicare, or they may wind up on disability or Medicaid before age 65 because of the choices they claim are nobody else's business. Please tell me if you think you'll ever receive letters signed "Not Ready to Get a Disability Check Every Month Because I Won't Quit," or "Not Ready to Let Everybody Else Pay 80 Percent of My $276,000 Hospital Bill," or "Not Ready to Let Everyone Else Pay $1,500 a Month for My Oxygen and Medications." -- DR. STEVEN IN RENO

DEAR DR. STEVEN: I doubt I'll get many -- or any. While I agree with you, you should know that the letter from "Not Ready to Kick the Butts" inflamed the emotions of smokers and non-smokers alike. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I was surprised at your reply to "Not Ready." It was rude and judgmental, and you owe that writer an apology. As a former smoker, I think (s)he has every right to smoke. Everyone at this point knows the risks. Smokers are behaving respectfully by smoking outside and away from non-smokers. The final sentence of your "advice" -- to "try not to breathe on them because it could be hazardous to their health" -- was out of line. -- CHRISTINA IN NOBLE, OKLA.

DEAR ABBY: People with an allergy to tobacco don't have to be exposed to the smoke itself, or even be able to smell the cigarette to have an adverse reaction. My ex-boyfriend was a secret smoker. He would have a single cigarette outside work in the late morning, wash his hands thoroughly, then go out with me at night. Every single time, within minutes of sitting next to him, my asthma would flare up enough to require me to use my inhaler. Anyone who sits within 3 feet of a smoker for the rest of the day is exposed. And when you consider people with asthma, cystic fibrosis or other lung disorders, the smoker's personal choices are NOT limited to just his/her own health. -- SENSITIVE TO SMOKE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: As I sit here, sadly watching my husband of 42 years waste away from the ravages of tobacco, I wish "Not Ready" lived here. I'd invite that person to sit with me and watch the chemicals from the chemo drip into his arm, with the follow-up nausea, rash, hair loss and fatigue.

My husband smoked for 30 years, but quit 34 years ago. The doctors say his disease began when he took that first puff. -- JUDI IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR ABBY: All smokers know the effec.s of smoking, and as long as we choose to do it, IT'S OUR CHOICE. We are lectured every day about it. "Not Ready" was being respectful, so why can't non-smokers reciprocate and leave us smokers alone? The help is out there if we choose to seek it. -- STILL SMOKING IN IOWA

DEAR ABBY: A chain-smoking Marine Corps gunnery sergeant once told me: "Anyone can quit smoking. It takes a REAL man to risk lung cancer." -- MARSHALL IN VIENNA, VA.

DEAR MARSHALL: And where is that Marine today?

Wells

PGWCD Board Member Phillip Smith, was that the move violated the district rules, and while the board could grant a variance, each time it had done so in the past, problems erupted.

C.E. Williams, Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District general manager, said that the board had granted variances two the rules twice in the 19 years that he had been manager. In both instances, those decisions came back to haunt the board.

Satterwhite argued that giving up two sections from the district's permit would give a neighboring water rights holder, Mesa Water, a larger buffer from CRMWA's well field and that drilling one well would save CRMWA about $1 million in drilling expenses.

While the board members said they sympathized with Satterwhite's plight, they hesitated to grant a variance for fear that others would ask for similar variances and future fights could end up in court.

Ultimately, CRMWA gave up three sections from the existing permit and will be allowed to drill two wells in one section. Under the agreement, they will be limited to pumping 5760 gallons per minute (the 2880 gallons per minute allowable from each well), but they won't be allowed to drill in three adjoining sections. Both PGWCD and CRMWA agreed that CRMWA could come back and request a permit to drill in two of the sections if in the future the combined maximum production of the two wells dropped to the point another well would be needed to maintain the 5760 gallon per minute rate, although both parties indicated that would likely be some 20 years in the future.

Satterwhite said that instead of returning to the adjoining acreage to the west and south of the section with the two wells, CRMWA would likely move their production wells to the east.

Satterwhite said CRMWA is in the design phase of their well field expansion but hopes to begin producing from the well field next year.

The Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District board also approved a 10-inch replacement irrigation well on Boone Pickens' ranch and two prototype wells, one 10-inch well and one 14-inch well, for Mesa Water in Roberts County.

Pickens created Mesa Water with the expressed purpose of pumping and selling water from Roberts County to urban areas downstate. Mesa holds some 200,000 acres of water rights in Roberts County, which is in the Panhandle Groundwater Conservation District; Ochiltree and Lipscomb Counties, which are in the North Plains Groundwater Conservation District, and Hemphill County, which is a single county district.

One of the prototype wells would be about two miles southeast of Miami on land owned by Ron Gill. The other would be on land owned by John McMordie in Northeastern Roberts County, south of the Canadian River. Mesa holds the water rights in each case.

Williams said the wells would be drilled for test purposes only. They would then be capped. The test data from the wells, he said, would be available to the district.

The wells are scheduled to be drilled this summer.

The water district board also approved an eight-inch well permit by Cartex in Carson County, an eight-inch well permit by Ken Burger in Donley County and a six-inch well permit by Dan Sawyer in Donley County.

They approved one-inch well drilling permit applications by Joe Huebner on River Road north of Amarillo, Norman Harbert in Bishop Hills northwest of Amarillo, Michael and Jamie Acuff in the Appaloosa Hills addition north of Amarillo, Dome Development in Glenn Estates northeast of Amarillo, David and Dixie Crockett in Alanreed, Jose Alvarez Rizo in Alanreed and Rick Chester near Pampa.

In other business, the groundwater district board approved an application for a $100,363 grant from the Texas Water Development Board for metering equipment. Part of that grant would go to pay for five wireless meters for center pivot irrigation systems.

The board also approved $10,000 in funding for the Bureau of Economic Geology to drill additional boreholes to test aquifer recharge on irrigated land.

They set Tuesday, July 22, as a tentative date for a hearing on their 2008 management plan and corrected the spelling of a name on a production permit. The name had been misspelled on the original application.

The board approved bids on four tax delinquent properties in Donley and one in Potter Counties.

They approved a bid of $745 for property in Clarendon, a bid of $2,025 on property in Nocona Hills, a bid of $891 on property on Seminole and a bid of $2,364 for property in Hedley.

They also approved a bid of $500 on property at 507 N. Monroe in Amarillo.

Jennifer Wright, the district's meteorologist, reported to the board that the district had not flown many precipitation enhancement missions so far this season because of severe weather.

Houston-area bloodless bullfight to be held July 5

ROSENBERG, Texas (AP) — A bloodless bullfight is set for the Houston area to raise money for scholarships for Hispanic students.

The World Class Tejas Bullfights event is scheduled July 5 in Rosenberg.

The matadors will fight bulls, but not to the death of the animals, organizers said.

The Houston Chronicle reported Thursday that the last bullfight in the area was held in the Astrodome in the 1980s.

Kristie Phelps with People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals says bullfighting is a tradition that's dying.

"It's shameful to revive it here," Phelps said.

Longinos Mendoza, a banker in the Houston area who for 15 years fought bulls in Mexico, said everyone who steps into the ring has a feeling of excitement.

"It has something to do with the danger, but also with confidence," Mendoza said. "When a bull is coming toward me, I know I can avoid him with the cape."

Hammon, Wauters lead Silver Stars past Dream

ATLANTA (AP) — Whenever point guard Becky Hammon drove into the lane, San Antonio coach Dan Hughes knew that positive results would follow.

"She has three levels," Hughes said. "Yes, she can score and distribute the ball well. But another is when teams give her a lot of attention, she has this knack of not doing too much. That's just her game."

Hammon had 25 points and a season-high nine assists, Ann Wauters added 18 points and 14 rebounds, and the Silver Stars beat the winless Atlanta Dream 81-66 Wednesday night.

It was the second straight road win for San Antonio (7-4), which ended a four-game road skid against Indiana on Sunday. The last time the Silver Stars won consecutive road games was last July 29 at Seattle and Aug. 14 at Los Angeles.

Stacey Lovelace led Atlanta (0-11) with 18 points, while Tamera Young had nine points, 13 rebounds and seven assists. Betty Lennox, who scored in double figures in nine of the first 10 games, also had nine points for the Dream.

Atlanta is two losses away from becoming the second team in WNBA history to open a season with 13 straight losses. The Detroit Shock started the 2003 season with a 0-13 record.

The Dream will visit Washington on Friday and then return home to face the Shock on Sunday.

"We have to make layups and not turn the ball over late in games," Atlanta coach Marynell Meadors said. "When you miss layups, it breaks your back."

"We have a lot of good offensive players," Hammon said, "and tonight we showed that. We did well in transition, and it is important for us. Defensively, it worked for us as well."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Friday June 20, 2008:
You discover the push and pull of many different, vital issues. Relationships star in how much to give and when it is important to claim your power. Often for the sake of stability we demand that people stay the same. You will be forced to see people and needs change. If you are single, a relationship looms on the horizon. If you are attached, you'll discover just how much lies ahead. You might evaluate the need to recommit. The unexpected dots the horizon. CAPRICORN can be challenging!

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Try to get as much done as you can by the midday mark. You have a lot to do and much to accomplish. Yet if you think about it, the weekend is heading your way. Start preparing. Many of you will leave the office early. Tonight: A must appearance.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★★★ Allow your spirit to soar, and new beginnings become possible. Consider taking off this weekend. New vistas will become possible before you know it. Allow greater understanding. Tonight: Open up and try something totally different.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★★ You see life through renewed eyes and a different perspective. Relate to individuals rather than groups. You have many more people on your team than you realize. Tonight: Say yes to living.
CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★★ As you defer to the other side and open up to a positive change, you might like what is happening a lot more. Your ability to move a situation forward could be quite dynamic and exciting. Tonight: Say yes.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ Knowing that the time has come for some frolic and fun allows you greater self-knowledge. Open up. You are able to relax once you clear out a project or make a commitment to better health and exercise habits. Visualize and grow. Tonight: Join friends immediately.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★★ Taping into your imagination and resourcefulness will start drawing very dynamic results. Think in terms of greater action and understanding. How you deal with someone and the choices you make could change. Pressure builds to a new level. Tonight: Zero in on what happens.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Take charge knowing that you need variety and the weekend to enter. You must clear the decks first if possible. Learn to work with others, understanding that you all have the same goals and long-term desires. You might feel that someone is pressuring you more than necessary. Tonight: Homeward bound.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★★ You think that allowing change and growth is easy for others, but when it impacts you, it might not be. Understanding the bottom line could be difficult. Communication will flow with more ease if you allow someone to be who he or she is. Tonight: In the thick of it all.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ Your concern with finances might force you to revise a situation or approach it differently. Your ability to sleuth through a problem might not be as high as you might like. Accepting failure might be the first step in heading in a new direction toward success. Tonight: Paint the town red.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★★ Your sense of humor and ability to move forward could be changing. You are undergoing a profound change. Try not to react to situations, especially as you might be the issue. What was acceptable in the past might not be now, and vice versa. Tonight: Finally, the weekend.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★ Let sleeping dogs lie, if possible. Your level of fatigue is profound. Know when it is time to yawn and call it the end of the workweek. At a certain point, you might not be able to accomplish anything more. Everyone has limits. Tonight: Easy does it. Think "weekend." Think "tomorrow."
PISCES (Feb 19-March 20)
★★★★★ As you are in the process of zeroing in on what you want, you might find it difficult to move in this direction. So many changes, especially within your interpersonal circle, will force you to at least take a deep breath. Tonight: Kick up your heels.

Everyone's A Winner!

We want to congratulate the Pampa Optimist Club on 53 great years of dedication to service to the youth of our community. As kids we couldn't wait to get to the Optimist Park to play ball. As adults we have proudly watched all 6 of our children participate in the Optimist programs. We want to thank all the members, coaches and individuals who volunteered their time throughout the years. You have all touched our lives and provided us with many wonderful memories. May you have continued success in the future.
