

Three Persons Die In Fiery Auto Crash Thursday

Three persons were killed and two injured, one critically, in a fiery one vehicle accident at 6:45 p.m. Thursday evening, July 14, at mile marker 147 east bound on Interstate Highway 30 in Mt. Vernon.

The vehicle apparently went out of control as it traveled down the eastbound lane on the right of the roadway, began to spin to the right, crossed into the left lane, then back across the right lane, and struck the south embankment of a barrow ditch with the rear of the vehicle. The impact threw the driver of the auto from the vehicle, and then flipped the car on its top over the body, which was lying in the bottom of the ditch.

According to witnesses, the hull of the 1976 Monte Carlo burst into flames seconds after the impact.

With the aid of passersby, two of the car's five occupants survived the ordeal; Viola Dunn and Myrtle Richardson, both of Dallas. Ms. Dunn, age 43, a passenger in the front seat of the auto, received third degree burns over 80 percent of her body. Myrtle Richardson, age 19, also a front seat passenger, escaped with burns over 20 percent of her body.

Both received emergency care at Franklin County Hospital before being transferred to the Parkland Hospital Burn Center in Dallas. At press time Tuesday Ms. Dunn was still listed in serious condition and Ms. Richardson had been released from the hospital. Killed in the mishap were Otis Beecham, age 24, driver of the car, Lynn Reeves, age 4, and Sheronda Reeves, age 12; passengers in the back seat.

The children, a son and daughter of Ms. Pearlie Reeves of Ft. Worth were in the care of their uncle, Otis Beecham.

According to investigating officer, Highway Patrolman Steve Blake, the vehicle had been observed on I-30 in the Cumby area by motorists, who reported the vehicle traveling at an excessive speed and leaving the roadway several times. However, no evidence of drinking was found at the scene of the accident.

An accident occurred Wednesday morning, July 13, at 11:45 a.m. in the westbound rest area on I-30.

David G. Hirst of Wilmington, Delaware, driver of a 1974 Chevrolet truck-tractor and semi-trailer unit attempted to leave the parking area and backed into a 1975 Chevrolet Suburban with a camper-trailer in-tow which was parked in the rest area.

The Chevrolet Suburban, owned by Seab J. Russell of Kingsport, Tennessee, received minor damage to the body and some transmission damage.

Hirst was charged with backing without safety. No injuries were reported.

Lonnie LaRue Davis, age 47, of North Little Rock, Arkansas remains in Franklin County Hospital in satisfactory condition following a one car accident which occurred Monday, July 18, two miles east of Mt. Vernon on west bound I-30 near the Hendrix overpass at 11:00 p.m.

Davis approached the overpass, left the roadway, knocked down several reflector posts, drove into the guard railing, traveled down the railing and overturned the car several times. The vehicle came to rest on its top near the service road and overpass.

Davis was admitted to the hospital with a cut over his right eye, several broken ribs, and numerous cuts and abrasions.

The car was totally destroyed, and Davis was charged with unsafe speed.

Eleven Dams Worked In Langford Creek Project

By Ray Haddock
The Langford Creek Water Control and Improvement District has completed spraying and fertilizing the eleven watershed dams. Weed and brush control to these structures is very important. By chemical control of weeds and brush the structures will continue to have a good cover of grass.

The eleven dams in the Langford Creek watershed are fertilized on a rotational basis so all dams are fertilized each three years. Dams number 3, 4, 8, 11 were fertilized this year with 200 pounds of 10-10-10 per acre. This amount is only a Maintenance fertilize in order to keep a good stand of bermuda grass.

The two most accepted Limbs Cause Power Shortage

The power loss in the Dept. Cunningham, Minter area Sunday afternoon was caused by a tree limb over a power line in Dept. Some areas were completely without power and some areas suffered a drop in voltage.

Full power was restored after about two hours, according to Aubrey Mayes, a Community Public Service serviceman.

methods of weed control are mowing or shredding, and Chemical Control. Because of the slopes the WCID had to chemical spray the dams on the structures.

Most farmers and ranches in Red River County use the shredding method. Mowing sometimes eliminates weeds or brush but most of the time only controls it. Chemical control usually will eliminate brush or weeds. When mowing avoid cutting too close, as this will damage the grass. A heavy cover of brush or weeds should not be mowed in the mid-summer as sudden exposure to sun often damages grass.

Weeds are in pastures mainly because of one reason, not enough grass competition. When a poor stand of grass exist, nature will cover the soil with weeds. Also, weeds may be present because grasses are grazed too close. Weeds are invaders. They invade a pasture that has been weakened by overgrazing.

So without pasture management none of the control methods will be very effective.

For more information on brush and weed control contact your local Soil Conservation Service or County Agent.

Cotton Council Asks "Common Sense"

MEMPHIS, July 15-(Special) The National Cotton Council today called for a "rational, common-sense approach" to rule-making concerning worker exposure to cotton dust.

In post-hearing comments filed with Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the Council emphasizes that the cotton industry is not insensitive to its employees' health and safety needs and does not challenge OSHA's responsibility to assure that safe and healthful work conditions are provided.

However, the Council maintains that the preponderance of evidence presented during the hearings on OSHA's proposed new industry dust standard that safe and healthful work conditions already prevail in most of the work areas in the industry's various sectors.

On the basis of evidence in the hearing record, the Council asserts that OSHA should (1) exclude non-textile sectors from the standard, and (2) set exposure limits in keeping with potential hazard to workers in those textile sectors where it considers a standard necessary. Cited as an example is testimony showing that workers in spinning and weaving sectors of textile mills could be exposed to higher dust levels and still be given the high level of protection that the proposed 0.2 milligram standard would provide in opening and carding rooms.

The Council also notes that studies currently planned by the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health on worker exposure to dusts in the various industry sectors will enable OSHA to promulgate an equitable standard without unduly penalizing the industry.

"In sectors where there is no proof of a problem, OSHA has no basis for placing an insurmountable cost burden on industry," the Council states. "In sectors where there is evidence of a problem, OSHA

GUESS—This familiar item is in Red River County, and is worth a $5 bill to the first subscriber of the Deport, Blossom, Bogata or Talco paper who can identify it and call The Deport Times office Thursday morning. You must guess what it is and where it is to win. Last week's picture puzzle was a solar energy cigarette lighter, and the $5 went to Jimmy Vickers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Vickers, who guessed it was a solar energy reflector. (Staff Photo)

Cemetery Vandalism Problem

There have been acts of vandalism taken place at the Bogata Cemetery lately. These consist of breaking of vases that are provided for flowers, scattering flowers that have been placed on graves and turning the seats over in the pavilion. The Cemetery Association is to be commended for their work toward beautifying the cemetery the last few years and it seems a shame for these things to take place.

MRS. JERRY GRAY with the American Cancer Society presented a certificate of appreciation to Bob Wright, publisher of The Bogata News, for support given the Red River County Cancer Crusade. A total of $10,031 was raised in Red River County, one of the top 10 counties in the state. The goal was first set at $8,000 and then raised to $10,000. The Clarksville Times and KCAR radio also received similar awards. The total amount represents more than $1 per person in the county. (Staff Photo by Vera Grogan)

THE LORD THY GOD

A KIND AND LOVING FATHER

The world of tomorrow will be quite a place. A button will be pushed, and it will rain. Planes will wing through the heavens at 5,000 miles an hour. Freight will be shot across the continent by missile. Hurricanes will be halted in their course and sent back to sea.

Sound fantastic? Maybe. But time has a way of making the fantastic and incredible become commonplace. Few of us marvel over television any more. We take it for granted, along with the other wonders of today's modern world.

The future is frightening for many of us to think about. The unknown has always held a basic fear in the minds of some. Coping with the problems and challenges of the present is enough for most of us.

But whatever the future holds, each of us can march more confidently into it by trusting God. Attend His church regularly.

Gin Feeder-Cleaner Boosts Gin Efficiency

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.—Engineers at Cotton Incorporated and here at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station have developed a gin feeder-cleaner that removes over half the trash in seed cotton while improving the efficiencies of an automatic gin feeder.

The feeder-cleaner is being developed as a complete unit that can be used by gins that don't already have automatic gin feeders or as a cleaning unit that can be attached to existing automatic gin feeders, says J.K. "Farmer" Jones, Cotton Incorporated vice president and associate director of agricultural research. Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of American cotton producers.

Jones has been working on the project with Lambert H. Wilkes, professor of agricultural engineering at Texas A&M, and Gary Underbrink, a research associate at Texas A&M.

Tests in a variety of situations in Texas have shown the feeder-cleaner removes 50 to 60 per cent of the total trash from brush harvested cotton. It removed about 50 per cent of the sticks in the trials and improved feeding efficiency by about 20 per cent over conventional suction pipe feeding, says Wilkes.

"That 20 per cent increase in efficiency does not take into consideration the improvement in gin capacity by having removed half of the trash," adds Wilkes.

The equipment is the outgrowth of work on the automatic gin feeder, which is used to feed modulated cotton into gins.

In research on ways to improve the automatic gin feeder, Jones and Wilkes studied high speed movies of the operation of spiked cylinders of an automatic gin feeder. They discovered that as the cylinder speed was increased, a separation of the trash from the seed cotton occurred.

"From that point, it was just a matter of developing the equipment to take advantage of this natural phenomenon," explains Wilkes.

The mobile feeder-cleaner used in field tests in 1976 and early 1977 consists of a 20-foot hopper section into which the seed cotton is dumped. A power driven live bottom feeds the cotton into a row of five spiked cylinders, much as in an automatic gin feeder, which break apart the mass of cotton.

The spiked cylinders throw the cotton and trash, which becomes suspended in air and separated, toward standard saw-type cleaning cylinders. Between the dispersal cylinders and the cleaning cylinders are a row of paddles which keep the cotton and trash suspended and separate. On the floor is a sweeper reel to pick up fallen seed cotton.

The saw-toothed cylinder holds the seed cotton, while the momentum carries the trash over a bar and into an auger which carries the trash away. The trash is run through a reclaiming unit which removes most of the seed cotton that otherwise would be lost after the initial cleaning.

The seed cotton is accumulated in a sump, from which it can be removed with a fan.

One of the keys to the success of the feeder-cleaner, explains Wilkes, was the discovery that a vertical arrangement of the cleaning cylinders in tandem was much more efficient than the traditional arrangement of cleaning cylinders in a series, as is done in most gins.

The researchers also settled on 1,000 rpm as the optimum speed for the dispersal reels to get maximum separation of seed cotton and trash.

Underbrink conducted tests of the equipment in the Brazos Valley and in the High Plains of Texas.

He found the feeder-cleaner consistently removed over half of the trash with a loss of about one per cent of the seed cotton.

"We are looking at, in some areas, removing as much as 1,000 pounds of trash per bale," says Underbrink. "That means for every bale going into the gin, the mechanical handling system of that gin handles 1,000 less pounds. That will mean that much less wear and tear on equipment, plus save the energy required to move that trash, in addition to the improvements on the gin's capacity."

The estimated cost of building the equipment is about $30,000 to $40,000, says Jones.

One bonus of the feeder-cleaner, says Ray Faulkner, manager of Canyon gin where some of the tests took place, is that the inside of the gin seemed to have a lot less dust flying about while the feeder-cleaner was being ginned.

Jones said further studies will be made to determine whether the feeder-cleaner reduces the dust level in the gin.

YOUR HEALTH

Q. My family is planning a camping trip. What can I do in case of injuries while we're away from home?

A. If someone suffers a bad fall, be sure no bones are broken before helping him to his feet. If any are, get professional medical help as quickly as possible.

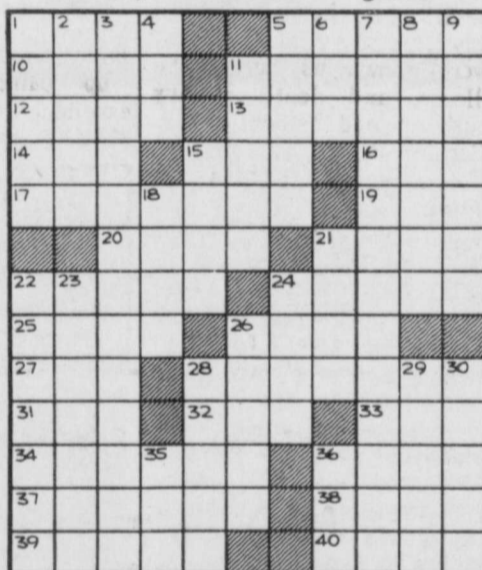

If the problem is a minor one, such as insect bites, small cuts, burns, scratches, chafing, poison ivy or poison oak, there are a number of effective, general antiseptics available today, one of which is Campho-Phenique, that you can pack before you go.

If an injured person is unconscious or if his skin is very cold and pale, he may be in shock. Put his feet higher than his head, loosen tight clothing and put a blanket or coat under him. Then get a doctor.

Tips For Gardeners

Did your winter resolution to plant a spring garden fizzle out with warm weather and a bad case of spring fever? No problem. It isn't too late to plant a fall garden. And, if you'll follow a few basic rules of conservation and soil management, you'll be rewarded with crisp, fresh vegetables from early fall to midwinter.

You can grow a medley of vegetables in the fall including snap beans, beets, cabbage, greens, cucumbers, okra, onions, tomatoes, and squash—almost any you can grow in the spring.

"The difference between a dismal crop failure and a harvest of overflowing baskets of delicious vegetables hinges on the decisions you make at planting time," Charles VanDeaver, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Clarksville, stated. "Is your soil type satisfactory? Does the garden space get enough sun? Do you need to contour and mulch the garden for conservation of soil and water?"

"For help in planning your fall garden, contact our office for two brochures, Mulches For Your Garden and Gardening on the Contour," VanDeaver said.

"You should also contact your County Agricultural Extension office," VanDeaver continued. "The extension specialists can give you information to help you decide which vegetables would do best, and whether to seed or transplant. The Agricultural Extension specialists also have information about fertilizers, pesticides, and suggested

INSULATING TIPS

DON'T STOP WITH THE ATTIC

WHILE THE ATTIC is your number one defense against wasted fuel dollars, don't forget other areas.

Whether the weather is warm or cold, following these useful tips will help you get the most for your insulation dollar.

- To insulate the attic yourself, simply unroll the insulation and cut it to fit between joists in the attic floor. Be sure that insulation completely covers the floor but doesn't block any air vents.

- To insulate floors over unheated crawl spaces, install insulation blankets, such as Fiberglas insulation from Owens-Corning, with the facing toward your home's warm interior spaces.

- To insulate exterior walls in room additions, use faced insulation, stapled in place with the vapor barrier toward the interior spaces.

- To insulate basement walls, install furring strips or studs against masonry walls. Nail the bottom plate directly to the floor and the top plate to the joists above. Then install insulation between these framing members with the vapor barrier facing the living space.

STATE GOVERNMENT NEWS by Brady Fisher

NEW BRAUNFELS—Congressman Bob Krueger announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate at an old-fashioned political rally and Fourth-of-July picnic.

THE SCHOOL FINANCE BILL which appears to have the legislative momentum is House Bill 1, nicknamed "the Speaker's bill," having been offered by and being pushed hard by House Speaker Bill Clayton. Signing on as the prime sponsors of this bill are all five of the members appointed to represent the House in resolving the differences between the House and the Senate on school issues during the regular session.

THE SPEAKER'S BILL ATTEMPTS to "soften the philosophical differences which caused resistance to the conference committee report" on school finance, which was defeated on the last day of the regular session. More specifically, the bill allows each individual school district to decide for itself whether to raise its local school tax money either by taxing land according to fair market value or by taxing agricultural land on the basis of its productivity.

FURTHERMORE, THE BILL lowers the amount which local districts must raise by increasing the State's contribution. This would allow local property taxes to be lowered. The bill also provides an increase in the amount of money available for teacher salaries. It also tries to match more accurately the ability of a district to pay its share of school financing. Local control is maintained, and more funds are provided for equalization.
