Estelle resigns as state prison head

HOUSTON (AP) — The resignation of state prison director W.J. Estelle signifies that "the rules of the game have changed" and marks a "new day" of increased state and federal government influence in the prison system, state officials say.

Estelle, citing the Legislature's rejection of more than half of the Texas Department of Correction's proposed $1.5 billion prison budget, publicly announced Thursday he will resign within the next three to six months.

Harry Whittington of Austin, state prison board member, said "a lot of changes" will be made in the prison system, which is under a wide-ranging federal court order.

"The Legislature is beginning to ask a lot more questions and require a lot more things. We're in a changing time," Whittington said.

State Rep. Ray Keller, R-Duncanville and chairman of the House Law Enforcement Committee, said Estelle's resignation is "a loss to the state.

"But at the same time," Keller said, "I think it's part of what's more and more being realized as a new day in the corrections system."

Steve Dial, an administrative aide to Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, worked with Estelle and prison officials during the 1983 Legislature, when TDC officials got less than half the $1.5 billion budget they sought.

"I was down at the Board of Corrections meeting on Monday and one of the assistant directors said it appeared 'the rules of the game have changed.' Perhaps that's as good a way as any to sum up the situation," Dial said. "The rules of the game have changed."

"It's my impression that in past years the Legislature had a tendency to pretty much stay out of the operations of the system down there," he added.

When Estelle leaves the TDC after heading the agency 12 years, the administration will be restructured, officials said.

"We plan to make a total management study of TDC and restructure it," said Board of Corrections Director Bob Gunn of Witchita Falls. "Then we'll know the type of person we want to look for" to replace Estelle, he said.

"I'm of the opinion there's got to be a lot of change in there, and human nature being what it is, it may be difficult to make those changes with the existing people," Whittington said.

"I think we need to clean house," Keller said. "There are obviously some internal problems within the day-to-day management of the prison system.

Nine months sales tax equals 15 percent drop

The state continues to lag behind approximately 1 percent and sales tax figures reported Thursday for Snyder and most other surround communities indicate a continuing trend of reduced sales as well.

Locally, a reduction in sales of some 15.2 percent was reported for the year to date.

For the nine-month reporting period, some $593,000 has been returned locally through the one cent sales tax collected by the state. For the same period last year, this figure equaled just more than $700,000, a net loss of $107,000.

These figures reflect sales tax returns through the end of July. The exact figures respectively are $593,661 and $700,108.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock released the latest figures Wednesday with more than $41.1 million sent back to 974 Texas cities for the month.

For the month of July, Snyder's 1983 total was behind 1982's also. The recent monthly return equaled almost $41,000. The figure last year was more than $64,000.

Exact figures for each were $40,914 and $64,362 respectively.

The following reflects sales tax figures for surrounding towns.

—Lubbock: a 3.9 percent increase for the year with $8.5 million returned to date compared to $8.2 million last year. The July total equaled $684,022 compared to $730,963 last year.

—Odessa: a 32.6 percent decline for the year with $5.3 million returned to date compared to $7.9 million last year. The July total equaled $452,531 compared to $683,878 last year.

—Abilene: an 8.8 percent decrease for the year with $5.4 million returned to date compared to $5.9 million last year. The July total equaled $390,625 compared to $455,805 last year.

—Big Spring: a 19.1 percent decline for the year with $1.1 million returned to date compared to $1.3

'Daughters' chapter formed

A local chapter of a statewide women's organization designed to preserve Texas history has been organized here.

Formal induction ceremonies were conducted this week to install local officers for The Daughters of The Republic of Texas chapter. State president for the organization, Mrs. Rex Arnold of Lubbock, was on hand for the ceremony.

Members in the organization are required to have had ancestors living in Texas during the time it was a republic. This includes from 1835-46.

Following the club charter, its purpose is three-fold: to perpetuate the "memory and spirit" of the men and women who achieved the Independence of Texas; to encourage historical research, particularly the period related to the revolution from Mexico in 1835; and to promote the celebration of March 2 (Independence Day) and April 21 (San Jacinto Day).

New club officers include Mrs. Gene Dulaney, president; Mrs. John Fagin, vice president; Mrs. Ophelia Blackard, secretary; and Mrs. Bill Line, treasurer.

Who needs United Way..?

Like the citizens of Snyder, after the flood of Aug. 13, 1972. The Red Cross — which will receive $2,800 in United Way dollars this year — came to Snyder's assistance, providing an estimated $18,600 in aid here. Swimming classes and CPR first aid instruction are also offered locally through the Red Cross.

...people do.

Teachers boycott classes in L. A.

By The Associated Press

Los Angeles teachers without a contract today vowed to boycott classes for 550,000 students despite administrators' promises to keep schools open, and a union leader said "frustrated" Chicago teachers will strike in two weeks unless they get a raise.

As the school year revved up around the nation, strikes by about 5,800 teachers in 21 school districts Thursday kept more than 95,000 students out of school in six states — Michigan, Rhode Island, Washington state, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Today's planned one-day boycott in Los Angeles, the nation's second-largest school district after New York, was announced late Thursday after 6½ hours of fruitless bargaining between the district and the United Teachers of Los Angeles.

"We'll be on the streets tomorrow," said Mike Bennett, vice president of the 18,000 member union. "The district has not changed its position at all."

School superintendent Harry Handler said the district will keep classes open using non-boycotting teachers, principals, supervisors, psychologists, other employees and parents. But Bennett said it is illegal to have people without teaching certificates running classes.

While negotiations broke off after a brief session Thursday, both sides agreed to resume at 9 a.m. Sunday.

A strike authorization vote is scheduled Monday, but union spokesman Len Feldman said bargaining could continue this weekend.

In the nation's third-largest school district, Chicago Teachers Union President Robert M. Healey planned to continue bargaining today, armed with teachers' support for a walkout Oct. 3.

"Our people are extremely frustrated and they feel they have been used," union President Robert M. Healey said Thursday after 92 percent of the 23,543 voting union members favored a walkout.

In three other Illinois districts, meanwhile, 551 teachers remained off their jobs, affecting 9,850 students.

Other job actions Thursday included:

—In Michigan, strikes by 2,300 teachers in 10 school districts kept 41,100 students out of class.

—In Ohio, a strike by 91 teachers in Lordstown kept about 1,000 students out of class.

—In Rhode Island, 641 teachers in Pawtucket broke up picket lines but union officials declined to say whether teachers will be back in classrooms when school resumes Monday for 8,700 students.

Club gives WHOO honor

Longtime Snyder civic leader Lyle Deffebach was honored by his fellow Rotary Club members Thursday with a Rotary WHOO award.

The name stands for We Honor Our Own and it is given to recognize both service to the community as well as Rotary.

Among his many achievements, Deffebach has held every position of service offered through the Methodist Church, including membership for some 61 years.

He has worked also with such groups as the Boy Scouts, Red Cross, Lions Club, Snyder Chamber of Commerce and United Way in addition to his tenure as a director for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

James Roberts, in the Andrews County News, commented on the recent shooting down of the Korean jetliner.

"It probably comes as a shock to a lot of people in the Western world that the Russians find it hard to believe or comprehend all the hullabaloo raised over the shooting down of that Korean airliner.

"The Communists attitude of 'what's the big deal about shooting down 269 people in a passenger plane' can best be explained by a quote from Richard Grenier's review in The New Republic of 'The Time of Stalin: Portrait of a Tyranny' by the exile Anton Antonovo-Ovseyenko.

Grenier wrote:

"The Soviet state has very probably killed over 80 million of its own people. This is greater than the combined total dead on all fronts, military and civilian, in both world wars...the Soviet Union is, simply, the greatest tyranny in history."

Says Roberts, "When you've killed 80 million people--what's another 269?"

O. G. (Speedy) Nieman, in the Hereford Brand, wrote, "Smartness is never synonomous with vulgarity and improprieties."

It reads: "Your mother does not work here. You will have to pick up after yourself."

Ask Us

Q. — Is there now a state law requiring that infants be strapped into a car seat while in a moving car?

A. — No. Several states do have such a law and bills which would have implemented these in Texas were introduced in both the Senate and the House during the last legislative term. The State Senate passed the proposal but the bill died in committee at the House and was never brought to a vote.

In Brief

Opponents will try again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opponents of plans to add to the U.S. stockpile of chemical weapons for the first time since 1969 say their chances should improve when congressional anger over the Soviet downing of Korean Air Lines Flight 007 subsides.

"Absent the emotion of the moment, we would have made a better showing and may have won," Rep. Ed Bethune, R-Ark., said Thursday after the House approved a $187.5 billion defense authorization bill 266-152.

Opponents of the bill had attempted unsuccessfully to turn the vote into a referendum on nerve gas.

"Thirty days ago, the count was close to 200 votes" against the measure, Bethune added, although "we were always aware it was an uphill battle."

Bethune and an ally, Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., said that because the vote came only a day after the House had unanimously denounced the Soviets for their destruction of the civilian airliner and its 269 occupants, they were deprived of an objective hearing.

Soviet efforts intensifying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department charged today the Soviet Union is intensifying its efforts to influence public opinion in non-communist countries through media manipulation, forgeries, disinformation and other deceptive techniques.

A new department report says a principal aim of the alleged activities is to undercut support in Western Europe for the planned deployment of new American nuclear missiles.

Woman escapes injury

A Snyder woman escaped serious injury in a major one-vehicle accident about 1 mile south of Snyder on the Brick Plant Road Thursday morning.

According to investigating highway patrolmen, Dequita Grace Schulze of Rt. 2, Snyder apparently lost control of her 1974 Ford pickup and the truck overturned after leaving the roadway.

Extensive damage was reported to the truck.

Rehab benefit due in Gail

A group of Borden County residents have organized a benefit barbecue dinner with all funds raised to go toward the West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

The event is planned Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Borden County school cafeteria at Gail.

The price of the meal will be $7.50 for adults and $3.50 for pre-school children.

Individuals involved in the fund raiser are Warren and Betty Beaver, Bill and Mary John Phinizy, Van and Barbara York, Dorothy Browne, Larry and Wanda Smith and Rex and Teresa Cox.

Fiesta schedule retold

The traditional Fiesta for Our Lady of Guadalupe Church begins Friday with a downtown parade scheduled Saturday.

A queen crowning and dance is planned at the church Friday and Saturday's parade is to begin at 3 p.m. It will circle the square with three brief pauses at the west, south and eastern sides for demonstrations by fiesta folk dancers.

Fiesta food and game booths will be open Friday night, Saturday afternoon and night and Sunday afternoon at the church. Sunday, a display of folk dancing is scheduled at 12:30 p.m. and an afternoon meal will be served in the church hall from 3 until 8 p.m.

Woman uses cooking, sweet talk on gunmen

WILTON MANORS, Fla. (AP) — Proving that the way to a gunman's heart is through his stomach, a Chinese restaurant owner used home cooking and sweet talk to win over three young robbers who held her family hostage for 12 hours.

The gunmen were calling her "auntie" before they left.

Moy Lee, a 66-year-old grandmother, said she told jokes to the three armed youths, prepared them a supper of beef and asparagus over rice, and entertained them with a movie when they invaded her home in this Fort Lauderdale suburb last week.

The three youths said they belonged to a gang from New York City's Chinatown and had been sent by their ringleader to rob her and her husband, who own the successful Moy Lee Chinese Restaurant in Hollywood, Mrs. Lee said.

"They told me, 'We know you have a lot of money. We checked you out. We know what we're doing,'" she said.

Mrs. Lee said she "sweet-talked" her captors as they sat around the kitchen table at 3 a.m., eating and watching a tape of a Bruce Lee martial arts movie that they played over and over until dawn.

"I knew I had to keep them calm, talk them out of killing us all," she said. "I was ... so scared at first I couldn't swallow a sip of water. I prayed, 'God, I've been a good girl, please help me.'"

By the end of the ordeal, the youths were calling her "Auntie Lee," a term of endearment, she said.

The gunmen, who spoke a Hong Kong dialect of Chinese and used walkie-talkies to communicate with two accomplices, held Mrs. Lee, her husband, Winston, 67, their 15-year-old granddaughter, Eva Lee, and a family friend, Louis Tutora, in the house for 12 hours.

They agreed to leave when the Lees gave them $4,000 and promised to deliver another $3,000 within a week, Mrs. Lee said. Two suspects were arrested outside a Wilton Manors bowling alley Tuesday as they tried to pick up the money.

Mrs. Lee said she was jumped as she got out of her car outside her home at midnight Sept. 6.

The owners of a Chinese restaurant in Plantation were victimized in a similar extortion attempt six to eight weeks ago, but the FBI has not determined whether the crimes are linked.

Arrested Tuesday were Chong Boon San, 21, and Chung Lee Pung, 20, who were charged with federal extortion and held on $2 million bond, said FBI spokesman Dennis Erich. Three other suspects remain at large, he said.

In another apparent shakedown case, a 20-year-old New York man was arrested Thursday and accused of killing the manager of a Chinese restaurant in Philadelphia.

Allan Lee was arrested on a sidewalk of New York City's Chinatown in the death Aug. 22 of Jadeine Wong, 25, manager of Ho Sai Gai restaurant, in Philadelphia's Chinatown.

Police said Miss Wong was shot in the head Aug. 14 by a man who had demanded protection money.

Youths torture, abuse infant

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Two boys, aged 7 and 9, have been charged with murdering a retarded 8-month-old girl who died of multiple injuries after she had been tortured and sexually abused, authorities say.

The two boys arrested and charged with murder on Thursday are the sons of a baby sitter in whose home Barbara Parks was found, unconscious, badly beaten and with only hours to live, police said.

The infant, who suffered from Down's syndrome and had a defective heart, died at Bayfront Medical Center on Wednesday after her mother found her sprawled on a rug at the baby sitter's home, police said.

When asked how the child met its death, the 24-year-old baby sitter, who was not identified by police, answered, "I really don't know."

The children, who because of their age also were not identified, were being held at the Juvenile Detention Center after questioning at police headquarters.

If a grand jury indicts the boys on the first-degree murder charge, they can be tried as adults. If not, the case will be handled in juvenile court. Circuit Court Judge Jack Page appointed a public defender for the boys at a hearing Thursday.

A preliminary report by the medical examiner's office Thursday stated that the child "died of multiple injuries sustained in the attack and torture," said police spokesman George Pinckey.

Police said the baby, whose clothing was torn, was battered about the body and also had been sexually abused.

The principal of a school the two boys attended last year said he was stunned to learn of the death. Louis McCoy said the boys were behind academically, but neither had ever caused any trouble, and he had taken a special interest in helping one of them catch up in his studies.

Water bills almost reached six figures

Municipalities almost had a million dollar water bill from the Colorado River Municipal Water District in August. The monthly revenue statement of the Colorado River Municipal Water District shows the dozen cities receiving water directly or indirectly from the district paid $994,318 in August. Oil companies paid another $134,697, and rural and other sources pushed total August receipts to $1,191,178. Municipal revenues for the first eight months amounted to $6,881,840 and total receipts $8,812,974.

If the cities had a robust water bill, the district had a correspondingly large power bill. Electric energy cost $500,506 for the month, and $3,332,139 for the eight months. August's charges would have been higher except for pumping patterns to meet peak demands. This meant that 24.16 per cent of the 2,040,849,000 gallons delivered last month came from the Ward County wells and 4.53 from Martin County wells; both of which are far cheaper to produce due to proximity to the point of delivery. For the first eight months 15.17 per cent came from Ward County and 2.20 per cent from Martin County wells. Lake deliveries accounted for 67.55 per cent of August deliveries against an eight months percentage of 77.01 per cent.

Expenses for August amounted to $710,640 exclusive of debt service, and $4,853,049 for the first eight months. Of the August total, $639,290 was for operation and maintenance, and for the eight months $4,314,518. The balance went to administration and general and for recreation operations, the latter being mostly offset by revenues from that source.

Water deliveries for August totalled 2,040,849,047 gallons and for the first eight months of the year 12,910,943,183 gallons.

Treating kidney stones

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About 28 years ago I had surgery to remove a kidney which was filled with stones and had become non-functional. After my recovery my physician advised me to avoid beer, excessive use of citrus juices and to go easy on dairy products. This I have done. In fact I use very little milk in my diet.

For the past five years I have had a tendency toward too much uric acid, but with medication that is now under control. I do also have arthritis in both knees and lower back.

My latest blood profile shows a slight rise in calcium. Would this be coming out of my bones? Do you think I should be using more milk or perhaps taking a calcium supplement? I fear developing stones in my remaining kidney.

Can you advise me or tell me what kind of specialist I should consult? I am a female, 68 years old and am 5-foot-3 and weigh 180 pounds.

DEAR READER — Don't do anything different — other than drink plenty of water — until you talk it over with your doctor. While there is lots of disagreement about how to treat kidney stones, almost everyone agrees that you need to drink enough fluids (half of which should be water) to pass between two and three quarts of urine a day. And you should space your fluid intake to have dilute urine around the clock.

No, I don't recommend more milk or calcium supplements. Your question about calcium coming out of your bones is important. In fact if you restrict calcium intake and your blood needs a higher calcium level, it will be taken from your bones. That is one of the problems with restricting calcium to treat kidney stones.

But you need to find out if you really do have a high blood calcium level. If you do, you need to find out why. It can be from an overactive parathyroid gland, which is sometimes the underlying cause of kidney stones.

If you really don't have a problem with a high blood calcium, you can probably be managed by simply increasing your fluid intake. After all, you have done well for 28 years.

Meanwhile I'm sending you The Health Letter 11-2, Kidney Stones: Treatment Has Changed, to give you a different view on preventing stones. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a hiatal hernia and part of my stomach slides through my diaphragm. I found something I could eat for my night meal. I eat a half pint of low-fat cottage cheese and half can of pineapple. I have been doing fine on it for a year or over.

Now I read that pineapple has natural benzene in it and might cause cancer. What do you think about eating that much pineapple?

DEAR READER — The amount of natural benzene in pineapple is so small (and benzene is not a powerful carcinogen anyway) that I would completely disregard it. In fact, I think such arguments about natural foods, which have been used for centuries, are on the foolish side.

Air contains traces of gases that in larger amounts can kill you. I don't recommend stopping breathing. Too much sunshine can kill you and too much oxygen can kill you.

Pineapple and low-fat cottage cheese are a good healthful combination of fruit, protein and calcium.

Our dollar still has cancer though the cancer presently is in remission.

The most serious economic sickness which any nation every suffers is not recession. Nations always recover from recession.

They do not always recover from inflation.

When your temperature gets over 100 degrees the doctor gets anxious.

When a nation's inflation rate goes higher than 3 percent, economists worry.

Our nation's forehead has not been that "cool" in more than 20 years.

In 1979 it shot up to 13.3 percent! In 1980 it was 12.4 percent.

That's when President Reagan and the Fed applied the brakes.

The fever subsided to 8.9 percent in 1981, 3.9 percent in 1983...

Over the past 12 months money-shrinkage was less than 2.5 percent.

But this economic cancer, inflation, is not cured. It is in remission.

All that's required to make it flare up again is for workers to resume seeking increased pay without increased production.

Unit labor costs so far this year are down about five points. But any worker who demands more without producing more inevitably raises the prices for whatever he does or makes.

And history says that whenever a recession eases and employment is plentiful, we tend to get greedy again. Even at the risk of cancer.

ST. LOUIS SCHOOLS DESEGREGATE

St. Louis schoolchildren are now being bused back and forth between city and suburbs, most of an hour each way each school day. St. Louis city schools are 80 percent black.

More and more black students will be bused to predominantly white schools until those schools are 15 to 25 percent black.

In the counties outside the city, white students may attend so-called "magnet" schools — specialized schools.

Some educators and legal experts nationwide have hailed the St. Louis plan as "an unparalleled achievement in voluntary big-city school desegregation."

The word "voluntary" is not quite appropriate. St. Louis schools were under duress — desegragate or lose all federal aid.

So they chose this way.

Attorney General John Ashcroft calls it "an invasion of the state's treasury which will not improve the quality of education for blacks or whites one iota."

What he means is that Missouri's farmers are footing the bill for all these buses plus extra "incentive" money promised to these school districts which agree to send or receive students.

Somewhere up the road ahead historians will look back on the expensive, fuel-wasting, time-wasting, counter-productive and dangerous practice of "busing" and shake their heads incredulous.

Or--somewhere down the road.

Chiefs well balanced...

Tigers entertain Lake View tonight

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

It's a case of tug and pull here tonight.

San Angelo Lake View comes into Tiger Stadium looking to make Snyder its third straight victim of the 1983 season. The Tigers, winless in two outings, hope to prove they can be a contender in the District 2-4A race.

Kickoff is set for 8 o'clock.

Tonight's opponents will be facing off for the 28th time in a series which began in 1950. Lake View has won the past four games and seven of the last eight. Snyder leads the series, 17-9-1.

Lake View, the 2-4A defending champion, has rolled up 784 yards of offense in outscoring its opponents 87-27 this year. Those statistics may be somewhat misleading, however, since the Chiefs' victories of 40-21 and 47-6 were over Del Rio and Stamford respectively - teams which don't look to celebrate particularly good seasons in 1983.

One thing the statistics do point out is Lake View's offensive balance. The Chiefs have rushed for 503 yards and passed for 281.

"Lake View's strength the past few years probably has been its balance. They run the ball real well and if you overdo the run defensively they'll pop a pass on you. We can't weaken ourselves in one spot to favor another another," said Tiger coach George Byerly.

The Chiefs' offensive success begins with junior quarterback Scotty Frasier, who has tossed for 247 yards. He is 17 of 30 through the airways with four touchdowns.

"It seems like they always come up with a good quarterback," said Byerly. "He has hurt people both ways (running and passing). He usually comes up with one or two big runs, usually off of pass action plays. He's a real good athlete."

The Chiefs also boast the No. 2 and 5 leading rushers in the loop. John Rodgers has rushed for 225 yards on 41 carries, an average of 5.5 yards a carry. Tim Allen has compiled 152 yards on 34 carries for a 4.5 average. He also has six touchdowns which makes him the most prolific scorer in the 2-4A to date.

"Both of their backs are real quick. They use both a lot and both of them are similar," said the coach.

Leading receivers for Friday's guests are slot Thomas Campbell, who has four catches for 84 yards, and wide receiver Gary Sartain, who has three for 79 - all for touchdowns.

"They lost most of their line last year and they've got a lot of young kids but they are playing real well and getting better with experience," Byerly noted. "They aren't as big as the typical Lake View line has been but they are typical in the way they play. They are very sound and they'll get after you."

Snyder comes into the meeting averaging 230.5 yards a game and allowing 250.1. The Tigers have given up 38 points and scored 14 in losses to Big Spring (26-8) and Lubbock Dunbar (12-6).

"Our offense has moved the ball better this year early and we've played two good defensive teams," pondered the coach. "We moved fairly consistantly against both teams but we haven't scored (enough) and that's what this game is all about. We've got people who are capable of putting points on the board but we haven't been making the plays at the right time. Maybe we're missing a cut with our running backs or dropping a pass or running the wrong route or missing a block at a crucial time. Those are correctable things. I have confidence we're going to be able to put points on the board this season if our offense keeps improving," he added.

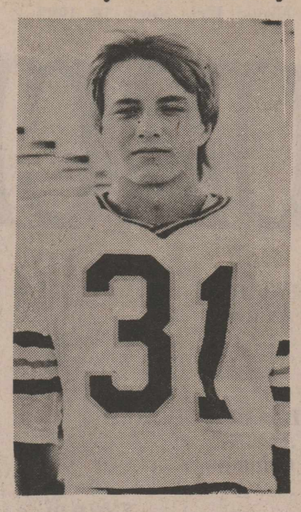

Norman Malone, ranked fourth among district runners, leads the Tigers in rushing with 172 yards on 31 carries. Split receiver Chad Peterson, who ranks second in passing, has eight catches for 93 yards.

The Tigers go with two quarterbacks, Charles Bollinger and Jimmy Cain. Bollinger is 12 of 28 for 123 yards. Cain, who rushed for almost 100 yards against Dunbar, was named earlier in the week as the starter for tonight's ballgame. Coach Byerly said that the junior is hobbled with an ankle injury however, and his status as a starter was tentative this morning.

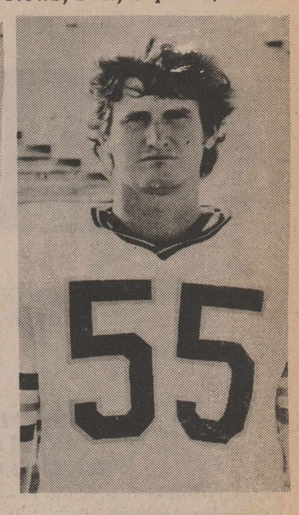

The Tigers will be without Kyle Freeman, who has suffered an knee injury, and Kenneth Breedlove, who quit school this week.

Snyder team captains will be Peyton Claxton and Ronnie Landis.

Cats get past Rule Bobcats

RULE -- Snyder junior varsity improved its record to 2-1 here Thursday, using two first-half touchdowns to blank Rule, 13-0.

The Cats, who played some of their best defense of the young season in beating the Bobcats, will travel to Lubbock next Thursday, Sept. 22, to play Dunbar.

"I thought we played pretty well," said Coach Robert Crawford, who along with Albert Lewis and Larry Scott instructs the team. "Our defense was especially good. We didn't move the football real well at first because we messed up on our blocking assignments, but we got that straight and did okay."

Tim Kershaw put Snyder on the board with 9:09 left in the first quarter when he broke for a 37-yard TD run. Jimmy Hunter kicked the point after, and the Cats led 7-0.

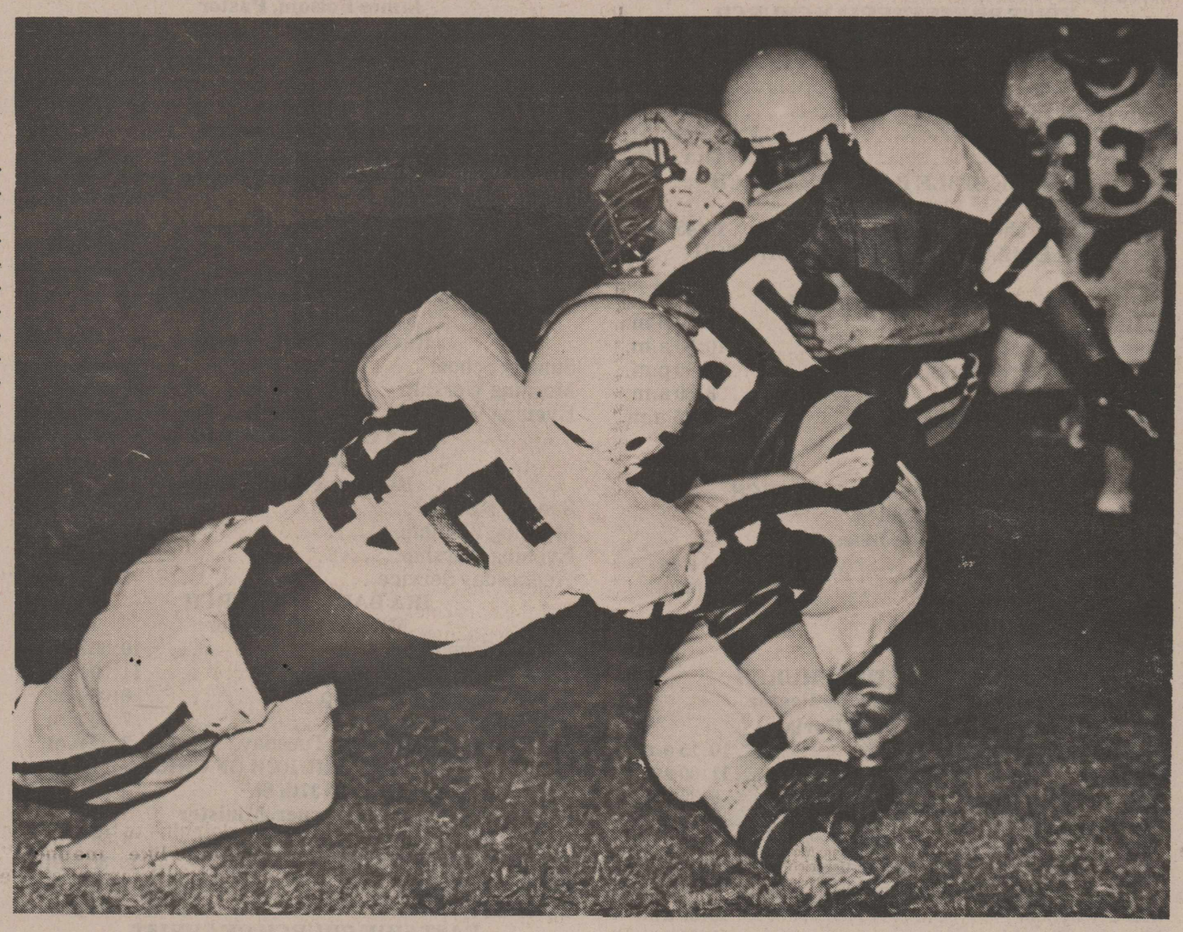

A Jake Menix fumble recovery at the Rule 46-yard line set up Snyder's other score. The Cats struck quickly as quarterback Mike McWilliams hit end Ricky Romero on a 35-yard pass play to the Bobcat 11. From there, Hunter ran down to the 1. Hunter then crashed over on the next play with just 17 seconds remaining in the half.

Eddie Titus' kick-after try was wide right.

Snyder threatened again late in the game when Reggie Price scampered for 33 yards to the Rule 2-yard line. The Cats fumbled into the end zone on the next play however, and the Bobcats took over possession.

Theron Brown and Steve Parker also recovered fumbles in the game while Rusty Radican picked off a Bobcat pass.

Snyder's upcoming contest with Dunbar will be held at 4 p.m.

Grid teams rip Stamford Dogs

Snyder freshmen and eighth grade teams swept four victories from Stamford in games played here and on the road Thursday night.

Snyder's freshmen B-team won 12-0 over Stamford freshmen.

Tony Davis scored first on a 3-yard dive. Later, Mike Kershaw hit Lou Vicknair for a 45-yard touchdown play.

Snyder A-team beat Stamford sophomores 26-8.

Toby Ubando crossed over from one yard out. Mike Long scored on a 2-yard run and just before halftime. Kyle Guerry scored again on a one-yard quarterback sneak.

In the second half, Guerry intercepted a pass and ran it in from 15 yards out for Snyder's final touchdown. Snyder tacked on a two-point conversion on a pass from Guerry to Cotton Merritt.

Rose and Earl Ware ran well for the Cats.

"These groups of young men played hard, especially on defense. It was a good team effort in both games," said Coach Ricky Howell. "The highlight of the A-team game was the outstanding effort and overall blocking of the offensive line. Our players got hit harder than they probably have been hit in the past and they responded well and got after Stamford."

In freshmen games next Thursday, Snyder B plays Sweetwater B at 4 p.m. while the A-team plays Coahoma at 6. Both games will be held at Travis Field.

In games held in Stamford Thursday, Snyder eighth grade A-team won 44-0 while the eighth grade B-team won 32-0. The eighth graders play again Sept. 29 against Sweetwater.

"Scott Lanier and Trey Tippens played outstanding defense," said junior high head football coach Roger Goodwin. "On the B-team, outstanding players were Jason Polk and Mark Velasquez. As the scores indicate, the games weren't a strong test for our teams but we have showed drastic improvements over our first games with Big Spring. We are working hard on the basics of blocking and tackling and we're showing improvement every day."

Cincy questions calls...

Bengals screaming foul!

CLEVELAND (AP) - Drug suspensions and a punchless offense aside, the winless Cincinnati Bengals now claim to be leading the National Football League in bad calls by referees.

Cincinnati lost 17-7 to the Cleveland Browns in a nationally televised game Thursday night, and the Bengals argued that poor calls were critical in the loss.

First came a diving catch by Cleveland tight end Ozzie Newsome in the end zone midway through the first quarter. The effort was outstanding, the 7-0 Browns' lead was recorded, but a televised replay left some doubt about whether Newsome had possession of the ball before it hit the ground.

"The last week, I was apologized to by league officials for four calls," said Bengals' Coach Forrest Gregg. "I wonder how many I'll get this week."

The next critical call came in the third quarter, with Cleveland clinging to a 10-7 lead. Sipe hurled a second-and-9 pass from the Cincinnati 29-yard line toward Dave Logan near the goal line. Logan was tripped up by Ken Riley, who was called for interference.

That put the ball at the Cincinnati 4, and two plays later, Mike Pruitt bowled over from 1 yard out for the clinching touchdown.

"He (Logan) pushed me, and he got away with it," Riley said. "He smiled after the call. I think it was a bad call."

The game was the third straight in which Cincinnati's once-explosive offense was nowhere in evidence. Quarterback Ken Anderson, who played despite a neck injury aggravated last Sunday in a loss to Buffalo, seldom tested the Browns' defensive backs.

Anderson finished with 26 completions in 40 attempts for 207 yards, with two interceptions. Sipe, who also was intercepted twice, was 21 of 31 for 201 yards, while registering his eighth scoring pass of the season.

Western opens conference play

LEVELLAND -- Coach Dave Foster's Westerners opened up the Western Junior College Athletic Conference today, competing with five other schools in the first WJCAC golf tournament of the season.

Defending WJCAC champ New Mexico Junior College, Midland, Odessa, South Plains and New Mexico Military Institute are also here.

"This may be the most balanced the conference has been in years," said Foster, whose team opened the 1983 season with a second-place finish in the NMJC Intercollegiate Tournament a week ago. "Probably any one of the teams is capable of winning the conference this year."

Playing for Western are Mike Standly, Mark Ingebrigtsen, Robert Roebuck, Clark Dennis, Jim Batjer and Joe Don Davis.

Friday's tournament is one of three fall conference tournaments. The next will be held Sept. 24, hosted by Western Texas.

Actress Marlo Thomas made her television debut on "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis."

Girls overcome Lady Mustangs

ANDREWS -- Coach Leslie O'Pry's Tigers kept their district volleyball record perfect here Thursday night as they defeated the Lady Mustangs of Andrews, 15-7 and 15-12.

The Tigers, now 3-0 in District 2-4A play and 10-6 for the year, were to face Austin Travis in the San Marcos Tournament this morning.

"The girls played very well as a team," said assistant coach Cindy Hicks. "Everyone contributed a whole lot."

Serving for points were Cari Walker with 14, Mona Green with 10, Susan Brim with 5 and Tricia Gregory with 1.

Snyder junior varsity lost, 15-8 and 15-10. Serving for points were Kima McLarty 6, Cintia Gonzales 4, Pam Casias 3, Leslie Ward and Hope Hernandez 2 and Allison Adams 1.

The Cat freshman also played here and lost, 15-7 and 15-10. Stephanie McKnight served up 8 points while Tammy Williamson had 6 and Julie Williams 3.

Snyder girls were to play Travis at 9:15 this morning. Win or lose, they were to be back on the court at 11:45, playing either Leander or Ellison.

Other teams in the two-day tournament are San Marcos, Lockhart, Canyon (New Braunfels), Austin High, Killeen, Westlake, Smithson Valley, Westwood, Temple, New Braunfels, Seguin and Del Valley.

The Weeders Guide

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

The next time you prepare to whack a little ladybug with a fly swatter or your hand think of this: this voracious beetle is considered one of the most beneficial insects on earth.

Cornell University researchers say the black-spotted red ladybird or ladybug should be protected. One of its favorite meals is aphids that damage many crops.

One European species of ladybug does such a good job devouring aphids that feed on potatoes, peaches and alfalfa that Cornell and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have released thousands of them in upstate New York in recent years. They're keeping down the aphid populations.

Entomologist Maurice Tauber notes this "classical biological control" is a relatively neglected form of pest control. He says it is helping "to control foreign agricultural and forest pests introduced accidently into the U.S. where they have few natural enemies."

With this biological approach, there is no environmental damage, the pests do not develop resistance to their predators as they do to chemicals, and a small investment brings a safe, permanent control method.

Back in the late 1800s, thousands of imported lady beetles saved the California citrus crop from the cottony cushion scale.

The mobile ladybugs also scout apples, oats, winter wheat, sugar beets and beans for their meals. And Tauber says "when there are only a few aphids around, they migrate, searching for food. But when aphids are abundant, the beetles return to feed."

An adult ladybug can get along temporarily on just a few aphids or just nectar and pollen, but an egg-laying female may consume 200 aphids a day. One larva may eat 200 to 300 during this development.

Incidentally, there is no correlation between the number of spots on the beetle's back and its age. "The number of spots is characteristic of its species, not its age," says Tauber.

Tauber estimates that fewer than 2 percent of all insects are pests and "often are controlled by natural enemies."

One researcher said "insects belong in a garden. They are natural and often harmless if not beneficial. Spray only if you detect damage and then spray locally only."

Cornell entomologists say beneficial insects such as ladybugs and green lacewings should be protected. "By learning to identify their eggs and larvae, we may save time, money, energy and environment."

Shoppers demand apples that not only taste good, but are pretty — without bruises or cuts.

So Cornell University scientists are using space-age technology to spot blemishes on applies. They are working on a fully automated apple-grading system.

Presently, separating unblemished apples from bad ones is a time-consuming, expensive manual labor requiring many human graders.

The researchers believe a digital imaging system similar to those used in interplanetary exploration can provide a device to accurately and rapidly sort bad apples from good ones.

A digital camera producing photos made of numbers and a computer that reads them pinpoints blemishes and their size. Bruises detected show up as dark spots in the pictures. The various grades are sorted mechanically. It works better on some varieties than others.

(Any queries about gardening problems must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

FOUNDER'S DAY—Spetember 10 marked the beginning of the 1983-84 course of study for Muscial Coterie. The executive board hosted a Founder's Day Luncheon at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. Betty Watts, president, and Monette O'Day recognized past presidents of the club and gave a history of the organization. Lynn Bethel, first vice president, previewed the course of study for the year. Musical selections were presented by Trina Lemens accompanied by Lynn Bethel and Barbara Perkins. Luncheon music was presented by Mrs. Watts. Ophelia Blackard gave the tribute to the founders. Pictured above, from left, are Lynn Bethel, Monette O'Day and Trina Lemens.

Altrurian Daughters Club meets

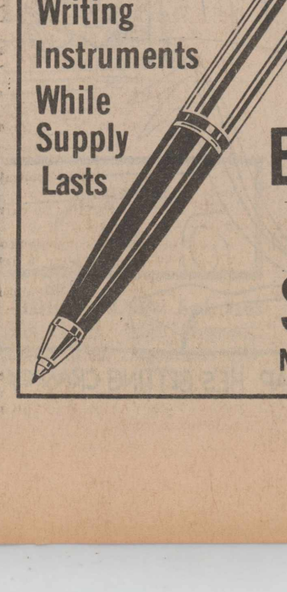

Fall accents welcomed Altrurian Daughters Club members to their opening luncheon Sept. 14 at Martha Ann Woman's Club. Hostesses for the event were Doris Beaver, Evelyn Davies, Lounette Null, Maggie Simpson, Virginia Sleeper, Irene Smyth, Ruby Stinson, and Betty Youngkin.

Mrs. Youngkin presided at the brief business meeting and introduced the new yearbook. Mrs. Davies reminded the group of the new season for the Fine Arts Department at Western Texas College and described the fall programs scheduled for the Scurry County Museum and the Diamond M Museum.

Mrs. Borden Gray, MAWC president, reported on several highlights scheduled by the woman's club. Mrs. Falls gave a progress report on the clubhouse redecoration project.

Twenty-two members and one special guest, Sue Mize, were present.

The next meeting will be Oct. 12.

Beauty Digest

Celebrities like Joey Heatherton and Ann-Margret have some unusual remedies for insomnia. Miss Heatherton told Beauty Digest magazine her approach: "I know this sounds crazy, but I eat a big dish of corn flakes swimming in milk." Ann-Margret also has an unusual strategy: "I watch old movies" she admits, "and sip on some cognac 'til nature takes its course."

In a boilable pouch...

Chicken and Vegetable Rice

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Some months ago a reader wrote you she had an electric appliance that seals food pouches for freezer storage and asked you whether you would copycat the Chicken, Vegetable and Vermicelli dish available in frozen pouches in supermarkets. It particularly appealed to her because it had less than 300 calories per serving, and she wanted to make it at home.

I tried your copycat recipe of that dish and found it practically identical with the bought one. Now I am wondering whether you would copycat the chicken and vegetable-rice combination also available in frozen pouches in supermarkets. If you do, I shall consider it a great favor. —GRATEFUL.

DEAR GRATEFUL: Here's a recipe for Make-ahead Chicken and Vegetable Rice — the frozen pouch dish you want to make at home. I think our version is remarkably similar to the bought dish and each serving of the homemade version has only 340 calories. A friend of mine was good enough to work out this recipe; I hope you agree with me that she did a superb job. —C.C.

FREEZE-AHEAD CHICKEN AND VEGETABLE RICE

Sauce Mixture, recipe follows
2 tablespoons corn oil
1 pound boneless skinless chicken (cut in 2-by 1-inch pieces)
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
Vegetable Rice, recipe follows

Prepare Sauce Mixture and reserve.

In a large skillet, over medium heat, heat oil. Add chicken, about one-half the pieces at a time; cook, stirring a few times, until lightly browned — about 2 minutes. With a slotted spoon, remove chicken and reserve.

To the skillet, add mushrooms. Stirring several times, cook briskly until wilted — a minute or two. Restir reserved Sauce Mixture and add. Stirring constantly over medium heat, cook until this mushroom sauce is clear, thickened and boiling.

Place ½ cup of the reserved chicken in each of 4 boilable cooking pouches; add ½ cup of the mushroom sauce. Seal according to manufacturer's directions. Freeze.

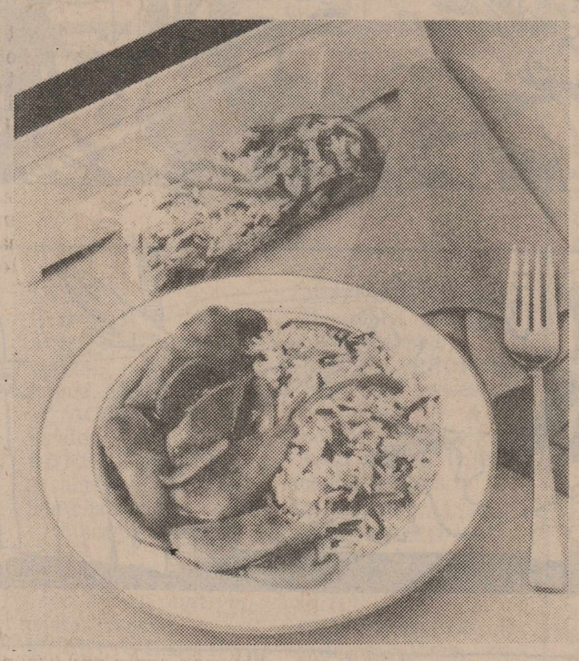

Prepare Vegetable Rice.

At serving time for each serving, place 1 chicken and 1 vegetable-rice boilable cooking pouch in a saucepan of boiling water; do not cover. Boil gently for 18 to 20 minutes. Remove from water. Shake pouches to mix. Cut open and serve.

Makes 4 servings.

SAUCE MIXTURE: In a small bowl stir together 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon instant minced onion, ¼ teaspoon instant minced garlic, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ⅛ teaspoon dried tarragon leaves, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 1-16th teaspoon turmeric. Gradually stir in, keeping smooth, 2 cups cool chicken bouillon or broth, 1 tablespoon dark corn syrup, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon browning-and-seasoning sauce. Makes about 2 cups.

VEGETABLE RICE: In a small bowl toss together 1½ cups cooked converted-type rice, 1 cup cooked French-style snap beans, ¼ cup cooked wild rice, ¼ cup finely chopped onion, ¼ teaspoon salt and a dash of turmeric. Put about ½ cup of the mixture in each of 4 boilable cooking pouches. Seal according to manufacturer's directions. Freeze.

COPYCAT COOKING—You can make Chicken and Vegetable Rice in a boilable pouch at home.

South beamed happily as he scored game and rubber. He had held off until the third heart. Then he entered dummy with the queen of spades so that he could take a club finesse.

Back to dummy with a second spade to lead another club. East produced the king and South ducked. Now he was sure of a total of three clubs, three spades, one heart and two diamonds. West's last hearts had been quietly put to sleep.

"Very well played," said West. "You had guarded against my getting the lead in clubs, yet East really should have beaten you."

"How?" asked South.

"Easy," said West. "On the third heart East had a chance to discard and should have chucked his king of clubs."

"How could I have figured that out?" asked East.

"Not easy," replied West. "It is the sort of play that world champions are supposed to make, but actually it wasn't that difficult. That king of clubs was going to be useless unless I held the queen or jack. Hence, it was of no value to you."

Curiously enough, if South had known that hearts were divided six-two, he could have prevented that possible jettison by winning the second heart.

Therapy helps some patients

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Therapists at Good Samaritan Hospital and Medical Center have harnessed the magic that mesmerizes video-game junkies to rehabilitate brain-damaged patients.

The 9-month-old "cognitive retraining" program has proven so successful that plans to expand it are under way, Daniel Blackwood, program director of Good Sam's Neuropsychological Services, said.

Most of the patients are stroke or accident victims battling to regain the lost memory and to improve concentration ability or lengthen attention span.

Under the guidance of a behavioral health technician, they use specially written programs tailored to restoring specific functions.

"One of the problems attacked is left hemiplegia, paralysis on the left side," Lou Riggs, the hospital's director of public relations, said. "These people often stop paying attention to what happens on their left side.

"In reading, their eyes go from left to right but don't return," he said. "They may eat only on the right side of their plate and, in fact, may start eating off the left side of the plate next to them. Or they may bump their wheelchair repeatedly into the left door jamb while trying to go through the door. The computer helps this with a variety of visual scanning games.

"Memory is also a problem with stroke or head injury victims," Riggs said. "They may have difficulty recalling something read or retaining facts. Some fascinating recall games are used."

So far about three dozen people — both inpatients and outpatients — have benefitted from the program, Blackwood said. "The youngest is 4, and it goes through the 70s and 80s."

The 4-year-old, a boy injured in a car accident six months ago, is Blackwood's favorite success story: "We just started working with him in the last couple of weeks, and we've been very pleased with his progress.

"He had been neglecting his left side, so we had him on a program where he had to respond to one color light with his right hand and to another with his left," he said.

"When he first started, he had to be reminded to use his left hand, but now he's responding with it as quickly as his right. He's also doing visual things to pay attention to the whole visual field. He's doing what we'd hoped he'd do, and he's having a good time."

Working with a computer also provides some real advantages over personal interaction with a human therapist, Blackwood said.

"The computer is very precise. It times the intervals involved (between tasks) exactly and it keeps track of the responses so progress can be charted precisely. It can generate a wide variety of stimuli and keep things straight — it never gets tired. It responds precisely to the way the patient is performing and provides immediate feedback."

And that feedback is completely honest and objective, he added, untainted by a human therapist's tendency to encourage a patient by praising undeserving efforts.

"It gives a sense of control, achievement and competence that doesn't come from personal interaction," Blackwood said.

Planning eases traveling with children

DENVER (AP) — Don't let the prospect of traveling with children overwhelm you, advises Karen Hagaman of the Samsonite Traveler Advisory Service, who is a parent herself.

Try to keep take-along toys to a minimum, but you may want to pack that one favorite stuffed animal that your youngster must have in order to fall asleep, she suggests.

"Timing can be critical," she points out. "If you've got a plane or a train to catch, allow enough time to arrive at the airport or station, check 9our bags and see that children use restrooms before boarding.

If you're traveling with a baby on a particularly long trip, Ms. Hagaman offers these tips:

—Pack a tote or carry-on bag with plenty of diapers, premoistened towels and perhaps a colorful picture book to amuse your child.

—If your child likes juice, bring some in the new asceptic boxes, which take up less space and don't need refrigeration.

—Give the child a bottle during airplane takeoff and landing to help equalize ear pressure and minimize discomfort.

—If you're planning to rent a car, ask about getting a child's safety seat when you make reservations. Companies usually charge a returnable deposit for the service. Keep in mind that some states have mandatory laws requiring drivers to put children under a certain age in safety seats.

—A parent driving alone with a small child should use a safety seat even if not required by law. With the child securely fastened in a safety seat, you can keep your full attention on the road.

—If you'll be traveling by plane, train or bus, try to pack as much as possible in a suitcase that can be checked. Just keep necessities in a tote or carry-on, preferably with shoulder strap to keep your hands free.

Famed Paris train stop scheduled for museum

PARIS (AP) — After 22 years of bureaucratic bungling and academic indecision, the transformation of the Orsay train station and hotel complex in central Paris into a museum of the 19th century is finally under way.

A miniature model of the giant project has gone on display at the museum site overlooking the Seine across from the Louvre, ending the fears of those who have long seen the project as the "biggest boondoggle of the century."

The museum, which government officials describe as the "indispensable missing link in the great chain of French museums," was supposed to open at the end of this year. But Jacques Rigaud, administrator of the project, said recently it would not be ready until early 1987.

The creation of a museum in the giant iron-ribbed station where Orson Welles filmed "The Trial" and where Charles de Gaulle gave the impassioned 1958 press conference that brought him back to power, was the brainchild of former French president Georges Pompidou and his successor, Valery Giscard d'Estaing. It is the first industrial building in France to be used as a museum.

The new center, which will house French art executed between 1848 and 1914 beginning with Eugene Delacroix and ending with Henri Matisse, will feature the entire contents of the Jeu de Paume and the Orangerie museums, two of the city's most popular tourist attractions.

Government officials say the museum will display for the first time countless paintings long tucked in storage rooms or hung in dark, crowded corners of the Louvre, thus clinching Paris as the museum capital of the world. While many have been critical of the costly project — the franc equivalent of $135.65 million — Pierre Colboc, one of the three building architects in charge of the ambitious recycling project, cited unforeseen technical problems, and not lack of funds, as causing the four-year delay.

"Turning a monumental train station into a home for priceless art works is no easy task," said the 43-year old Colboc, whose bold and imaginative designs won him and his colleagues Renaud Bardon and Jean-Paul Philoppon the privilege of renovating the hulking mass of steel and glass which was classified as a historical monument in 1978.

"We wanted to preserve but dramatize the building's unique features, such as the cylindrical nave and the immense volume it creates, but you must understand how hard it is to build within that enormous space so that the paintings don't get lost," he said.

The rail station-hotel complex was built by Victor Laloux in 1898.

Two fires cause calls

Snyder firemen extinguished two grass fires in the county Thursday evening.

The first occurred near the Inadale Community Center in southeast Scurry County at 4:10 p.m.

The second fire, possibly ignited by lightning from thunder storms moving through the area, was reported northeast of Vincent in southwest Scurry County at 10:30 p.m.

DISMISSALS: Joe Digby, Debbie McLeod and baby boy, Vicki Jones and baby boy, Kyle Freeman, Bill Aaron, Lillie Smith, and Glenn Bohanna.

Incidents reported

A misdemeanor theft and a single incident of criminal mischief were reported to Snyder police Thursday.

Sheila Martin of 4003 Eastridge Dr. reported the theft of her dog at 9:03 p.m. Martin told investigators that the dog, a female Collie valued at $150, had been taken from her residence sometime earlier in the day.

Jackie Hall of 1202 20th St. filed the day's criminal mischief report at 5:54 p.m. He told police that someone had kicked in the storm door on his residence, breaking the glass, sometime between 4 and 5:30 p.m. Damage was estimated at $20.

In other action, city police arrested one local man for public intoxication Thursday evening.

Students bitten by black widows

DANBURY, Texas (AP) — The next time students in Jack Cameron's science classes want to learn about spiders, Cameron will point them to the nearest natural science textbook, not to the real thing.

A potentially interesting learning experience turned out to be a painful lesson earlier this week when six students in the Danbury Middle School were hospitalized overnight and four others were treated and released after being bitten by newly hatched black widow spiders.

A student had brought a black widow spider he had found to school. Cameron put the insect in a glass jar with a tin lid on his desk. The lid contained several small punctures so the spider could breathe.

Hidden in the spider's web was an egg case. On Monday a student noticed spiders so small they could barely be seen were crawling over the science teacher's desk.

About 400 spiders had hatched over the weekend and crawled through the air holes of the jar.

A hospital spokesman said none of the students required antivenin.

Black widow bites can result in respiratory paralysis if not treated. But in most cases victims experience pain where they are bitten and muscle cramps, said Ron Tisdell, poison information consultant at the Southeast Poison Center in Galveston.

School officials said the students are back in school, although the six students hospitalized have complained of headaches and stomach cramps. Two of the students were absent Thursday.

"We took every precaution," Cameron said. "But now I have a standing rule. I told my students that from now on if you see a spider, leave it alone."

Levine gets new title

NEW YORK (AP) — James Levine, music director and principal conductor of the Metropolitan Opera, will also carry the title of artistic director starting in the 1986-87 season.

Under terms of a five-year contract, the 40-year-old Levine will be responsible for all the musical and artistic aspects of the company.

Stress part of EMT job

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The stress is the hardest part of his job, says Mark Williamson, an emergency medical technician. He talks of consoling relatives of dead people and of making ambulance runs, not knowing what to expect.

An EMT since 1981, Williamson, 27, is also business manager for Medic-Vac Ambulance in Little Rock. "You never know what you're going to get, and you don't know when you're going to get it," he said during a recent telephone interview. "This is a non-routine job. You're presented with new and different circumstances each time you get into a vehicle."

At the state Health Department, Mike Hampton, director of the department's Office of Emergency Services, said one must complete a training course of at least 120 hours to be an EMT. Most often, such courses are taught in vocational-technical schools. Additionally, an EMT must be certified in cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

EMT courses cover topics like spinal immobilization — how to handle an injured person — and automobile extrication — "Instead of just taking a patient out of the car, you remove the car from around the patient."

According to Hampton, employee stress is one reason for labor problems confronting some ambulance services in Arkansas.

He said that, unlike many police officers and firefighters, EMTs aren't given psychological help. "It's just one body after another after another after another," he said. "After a while ... it starts playing on their minds."

Stress, according to Williamson, is not knowing what to expect at an accident. "No matter what amount of training, when we're called on the radio, we don't get all the information we'd like to have. So, we prepare for the worst."

Arkansas EMTs are underpaid, Hampton said. They usually start at minimum wages — $3.35 an hour. "With longevity, they may get a little bit more. ... You've got the teachers wanting money, you've got the firemen wanting more money, you've got the police wanting more money. Well, the EMTs aren't any different. ... Police may endanger their own lives," but EMTs can say, "'We've got your life in our hands.'"

The average yearly pay for EMTs nationally is $15,000, Williamson said. If an Arkansas EMT worked 40 hours a week at minimum wages, his annual pay would be $6,968.

Microcomputers used in dolphin research

GRASSY KEY, Fla. (AP) — Dolphins who have already shown they can respond to a simple language may one day be able to talk back to humans by inputting replies into a specially adapted microcomputer.

"What we're trying to do is develop a code, and through a rigorous experimental program train the dolphins to behave in a language-like manner," said Ron Reisman of the Delphinid Research Institute.

The 29-year-old associate director of research said scientists hoped to build a two-way device dolphins could use to interact with the computer.

Researchers here and at the Kewalo Basin Marine Mammal Laboratory in Hawaii have shown that the Atlantic bottlenosed dolphin, familiar to viewers of the TV series "Flipper," can respond to simple language-like commands.

Nat, an 8-year-old, 300-pound dolphin who was born in captivity and shares a pool with 35-year-old Gipper, is one of only three dolphins Reisman and others consider to have shown this ability.

Now, Reisman wants Nat and other dolphins to be able to answer back with their own computer terminal — but it won't bear any resemblance to standard terminals with typewriterstyle keyboards and video screens.

For one thing, Reisman said, dolphins do not "reason" well with visual images, unlike humans who are primarily visualoriented.

"The flaw up 'til now is that we've been trying to design a computer terminal a primate would use," he said. "Such terminals can only be used with the help of hands and depend on visual information."

Dolphins can locate objects underwater not with their eyes but by sending out a complicated series of sounds, which bounce off the objects. The reflected echo tells the dolphin where the object is.

The dolphin can perceive sounds as high as 175,000 cycles per second — 10 times higher in pitch than the range of the human ear.

The echo-location system is similar to sonar, used by the Navy to find submarines.

The special computer terminal would work by actually changing its acoustic properties so that the dolphins recognized words by their distinctive sonar echoes, Reisman said.

"The dolphins then could respond by pressing input devices with their snouts," he said.

For five years, researchers tried a variety of other methods in an effort to make dolphins show language-like behavior, including spoken commands, mouth whistles, handcontrolled electronic noise-makers and visual symbols.

Then, scientists in Hawaii and here in the Florida Keys made a breakthrough in what Reisman calls "among the most sophisticated experiments in syntactical communication ever attempted with any nonhumans."

Using a series of computersynthesized whistle sounds, each representing a different word, researchers found they could get some dolphins to obey simple commands correctly 85 percent of the time.

Not only did the dolphins obey a string of words that represented a certain command, but if the word was changed in order to create an entirely different command, they would obey it, too.

The whistle sounds represented words such as "Nat," "fetch," "towel," "speaker," "jump-over" and "swim-under."

"We had primitive sentences, meaning that we made the breakthrough of demonstrating a limited syntax," Reisman said. "Then we ran out of money and had to cut back."

Reisman said dolphin language research was difficult but that its potential benefits could include helping treat people who suffer from language deficiencies, such as the mentally retarded and victims of aphasia, suffered by stroke and car-crash victims.

ACT test dates are explained

As the new school year begins, more than one million high school juniors and seniors across the nation are preparing to participate in the ACT Assessment Program.

The ACT Assessment, which consists of four academic tests that measure educational development and a detailed questionnaire that collects information relevant to educational and career planning, is recommended or required by more than 2,700 postsecondary institutions and scholarship programs.

School guidance counselors recommend that students participate in the ACT Assessement Program during the spring of the junior year or early in the senior year, so their results will be available in time for use in planning for postsecondary education and careers.

Students can obtain registration packets that contain all the information necessary to register and prepare for the Assessment from their high school guidance offices. The basic registration fee for the Assessement is $9.50. For 1983-84, ATC has established the following date schedule.

For each pair the first date represents the test date and the second the registration deadline.

Oct. 29, Sept. 30; Dec. 10, Nov. 11; Feb. 11, Jan. 13; March 31, March 2; June 9, May 11.

It takes about three hours to complete the four ACT examinations in English, math, social studies, and natural sciences. A sample copy of a full-length test is available in every high school. Students who would like to have copies of additional tests may obtain them at cost from ACT.

The ACT Assessment is given each test date at Western Texas College except for the June date.

Ash quarried from the island is used in concrete mixes and building materials. Santorini cement lines the Suez Canal.

Dear Abby

Female Drivers Fuel Bachelor's Fetish

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am an unmarried man, 34 years old, and I've got what I think is a serious problem that I can't seem to correct myself.

Although I date a few women and don't consider myself sexually starved, I have a compulsion to follow women drivers whom I spot on the freeways and find attractive. I've done this probably 50 or 75 times in the past two years. I never approach them, never talk to them, never even smile or wave. I just follow their cars until they pull into a garage or up a driveway. Then I usually park nearby and watch them walk into their homes or into a shop.

Now, believe me when I say I get no sexual arousal from any of them, although it leaves me feeling very good. I can't figure out why I do it and can't seem to break the habit, even though it sometimes costs me a couple hours a day, not to mention gas money.

I am a professional man with a few degrees and lots of awards for my work. Please don't tell me I need professional help, because I don't think my habit is hurting anyone, or even me. It's simply puzzling.

Have you any opinions on my problem and how to stop it?

JUST LOOKING

DEAR JUST: I think you have a form of voyeurism. (You get your jollies from looking.)

The "harm" can be in carrying it to the point of violating the privacy of another, which is punishable by law if you should make a nuisance of yourself.

Better nip this in the bud, buddy. A professional man has a lot to lose. And don't dodge professional help, because that's exactly what you need.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Recently I gave up drinking. It's been several months now and I am much happier with my life. I've had no shaking, craving or other symptoms associated with alcohol withdrawal.

I do not plan to drink again, but here is the problem: The very people who decided that I drank too much before now tell me that since I'm not drinking I'm not "any fun" to go out with anymore. How should I respond?

SOBER IN ST. PAUL

DEAR SOBER: This way: "Sorry to disappoint you, but if one of us has to be disappointed, I'd rather it be you."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man, getting married soon to a wonderful young woman. This is a first for both of us. I earn a good living, have a nice amount of equity and am financially secure.

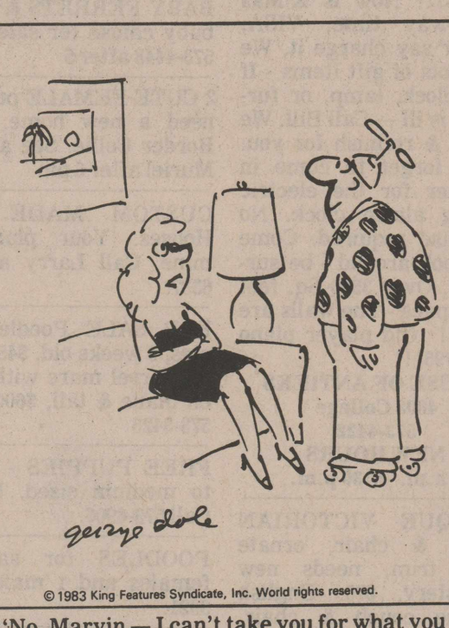

However, I have one great insecurity. No matter how perfect my fiancee and I seem for each other, there's always a possibility of divorce. I would really like to have a prenuptial agreement, but I'm afraid if I mentioned it, she would be against it.

Your opinion would be greatly appreciated.

CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: Today there's a 50-50 chance that your marriage will end in divorce, so don't be a dumb cluck. Explain this to your "chick," and if she really loves you, she won't fly the coop.

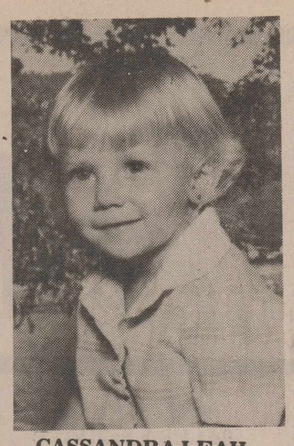

LAFF-A-DAY

First entries in cute kids contest

The first entries in the Buffalo Kid and Calico Cutie contest (sponsored by the Jaycee Women) are Cynthia Fennell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fennell; Cassandra Leah Harrelson, daughter of Mary Harrelson; Monica Terrazas and Guy Terrazas, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Terrazas; Valerie Trusty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Trusty; Scott Vest, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Vest; Cody Wright and Chad Wright, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wright.

To enter the contest just fill out the accompanying entry form. The contest is divided into two age groups. Group A is infants to age 2 and Group B will be children 2-5 years old.

Pictures will be displayed at TG&Y and Kmart beginning Sept. 29. Winners will be determined by money votes (25 cents equals 25 votes). The child whose picture receives the most money will win. Winners will be announced October 15 during the White Buffalo Day Celebration.

Pizza Hut murders...

Surprise witness heard

MOUNT PLEASANT, Texas (AP) — A surprise witness has testified that the defendant in the slayings of three employees of a Pizza Hut restaurant bragged that he had stabbed a girl and shot a manager who tried to intervene during the robbery.

The surprise testimony came from Billy D. Caton, who shared a cell with Calvin Lloyd Padgett in the Morris County Jail.

Padgett, 28, is standing trial for the 1982 murders of three employees of the restaurant.

Caton, who is serving a sentence for burglary in the Texas Department of Corrections, said Padgett told him "the girl was trying to be a hero. He said the witnesses were dead."

The testimony came Thursday in the fifth day of Padgett's trial. Padgett is accused of killing Shirley Thompson, 24, Howard Leroy McClaflin, 25, and George Dwain Landrum, 42, on May 10, 1982.

Caton also testified that Padgett bragged that he didn't leave any evidence at the scene.

Dr. M.G.F. Gilliland, who performed an autopsy on Mrs. Thompson, had testified Wednesday that the woman was probably tortured before she died. She was one of six Dallas medical experts to testify.

The three victims had "defensive wounds" resulting from holding their arms and hands up in front of their face or chest for protection, she said.

Mrs. Thompson also had "teaser wounds," which Dr. Gilliland described as "cuts made to inflict pain but not intended to kill."

"Like torture?," asked Titus County District Attorney Charles Mac Cobb.

"Yes," she answered.

The doctor also said McClaflin died from "a gunshot wound in the back of his head ... above the level of his ears." She said a bullet went through his skull and damaged his brain, killing him in "a matter of seconds."

Ms. Gilliland testified Landrum died from a gunshot wound in his back and from continual blows on the left side of his head above the ear.

She said repeated blows "made by a blunt-edged object" to Landrum's head drove pieces of broken skull into the brain.

Helen Ready, ex-husband settle without court trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Helen Reddy and her former husband, Jeffrey Wald, have agreed to settle the differences in their bitter divorce without a trial, Ms. Reddy's attorney says.

Under the agreement, the two will share legal custody of their 10-year-old son, Jordan Sommers Wald, said lawyer Gary Olsen on Thurdsay.

The boy will move each week from Ms. Reddy's home in Brentwood to Wald's home in nearby Beverly Hills, but he will remain at the same private school that he has been attending, Olsen said.

"I think that arrangement is probably in the boy's best interests, rather than forcing him to undergo a custody battle," he said.

The agreement reached in nine hours of negotiations Monday says that Ms. Reddy, 42, will keep all her earnings as an entertainer and Wald will keep all his profits as a personal manager, Olsen said.

The agreement forestalled a trial scheduled to begin Wednesday, and Olsen said he expected to "walk the agreement" through Superior Court with Wald's attorney, Marvin Gross.

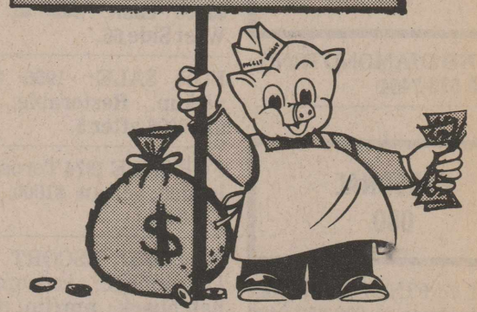

The couple was divorced last January, but property and custody issues were postponed for separate trial. In June, Ms. Reddy married her drummer, Milton Ruth, with whom she had been living.
